seoptro il*Asie h son esclavo Sémirnmis. Lo premier jour, She seduces the satraps and the chiefs; the second receives the man image of the people; the third, Ninus, was dead or imprisoned stunned.

Lo invtho is a program called "the party." Omphalo, Amaphale, a tyrannical slave, holds the king's seoptro Jordan. His voluptuous whims deliver all women to the eselavos, the masters chain; and, even under will prostitute themselves to foreigners. Jehovah himself describes one of these debaucheries that defiles his tomb and even his autol. He addresses Tiola and Ooliba through Ezechiel (1). "You sent us messengers on messengers on their backs "Men coming from afar. They have already come. You dare » bathed. You tinted the area around your eyes with stibiam. "You've covered yourself with pareo, all your ornomonts. You've lain down on "A superb bed and a table were placed in front of you. You have" "I placed my thyme and perfumes upon her. The acclaimed—" "The multitude filled the temple when the "The Sebeians came from the desert; and, choosing some of them "In this multitude, you placed your bracelets on them." "in their hands and crowns on their heads, etc..." It's an orgiastic ceremony. The queen woman and Deosso from Syria, gives his hand to the Assyrian courtesans. Let us hope that among the Jews the murder of the hero does not bring an end to... would not celebrate like in Persia and Nineveh.

In these cruel courts, etiquette is ruthless and He who touches the diadem or the throne must perish. The slave who held the people of Assyria at his feet, king of a mo He, flooded with delights and pleasures, ascends to the pyre of Sardanapalus. Haman perished at the hands of Esther. The royal tunic of comes the tunic of Deianira. Hercules Sandan, son of Holoch will die by fire. So much so that his auto-da-fé... yields to or follows any Semitic ceremony.

(1) Ezscuux.

F

ADONIS AND AUONAI

The Adonai of Zion could have recognized a brother in the Jao-Adonai-'the Hammurz of Hyblos. His familiar name is- Adaddrimnion (the Grenade) lies down on his placo on the funeral bed. "They (the Israelites) will look on me "that they have pierced. They will mourn me as the only Son" "They will moan over me as they did over the firstborn."

"And there will be great desolation in Jerusalem as..." » the mourning of Adaddrimnion in the field of Mageddo (1). »

Eastern theology delights in these young heroes swept away by a premature passion, the Atys and the Eschmoun beloved of Cybele, the Memnon Serach, sons of Dawn and the rivers are flowing (2), and the legend of a campaign The unfortunate Serach of Memnon seems to inspire the editor unintelligible speaker back Paralipomena (3) his fabulous defeat of Zara (Serach) and its million Ethiopians.

Herodotus, in his travels through Egypt, Phoenicia company, Babylon and the coastline, recognizes everywhere a mode uniform of hymns and laments in honor of persons Various swimming styles: Maneros of Egypt, Adonimaoidos of Bithynia Linus of Argolis. Lovers of Goddesses, sons of Gods, children

(1) Zechariah, ehap. XII, vera. 10 et seq.

(?) Josephus, War of the Jews, Book II, no. 102. – Pl.inb l'ancikn, Natural History. Book XXXVI, g 65.

(3) Paralipomena, Book II, cbap. XtV.

•IKSl'S M01.0CII

ÿÿ»

chors ot unique, cos adolescents laissent après eux uno inconsolable sadness "and noted consolat'! quia non sont." Their worship is mourning; their dogma, deified despair.
"Vno ot doni I Ailnnu!" Ailonu! Woe, Healer! Wrong-
"An hour to us!" they shouted, the Lyricists and Pro-phètes (1). Jehovah describes même cos Adonias as the the most natural thing, •• We won't cry over him, he said-"They're talking about a king, alas! My lord! Alas! My "Brother! We won't shout: Woe, Lord! (vao "Adoni!" Healer! Where is your power (Adoni-mah» odoh) (2). »

Joseph has already been mourning his father Jacob for seventy days,
The Egyptians wept for Manoros, who had been transported. corpse in a sort of Memnonirun, beyond this day Dain where the funeral procession so lamente encoro seven days.
"They will come to the area of Thorns (Atad), beyond the Day-
"dain, or they spent seven days celebrating the tunéraillos"
"in deep mountains. At this sight the hnbi-
"Many in Canaan will say: there is a great trouble in Egypt, "And also this place was called: Mourning of Egypt (3)." That's it. certainly a judicious explanation, well done to conclude the
The mouths of Nehemiah's skeptics. La Gonese forgets, perhaps unaware of the Egyptian custom of hanging Hawthorn wreaths during the Memnon festivals.
She also doesn't remember the day of Myrrlia (of tisait. k I will turn your celebrations into mourning, your songs into "Lamentations. I will make Israel mourn for its only Son;

(1) Jeremiah, chap. IV, verses. 13; chap. 71, vora. 4d ch. XXII verse 18; chapter XXXIV, verse 5, – Threnody, chapter V, verse 6. – Kings, Uv. 1, chap. IV, verse 8. – Ecclesiastes, chai. IV, verse 10; chap. X, verse 16. – Euripides, Obesity, verse 1397. – Hossbus, Idyll III, 1. – Caujmaque hymn to Apollo, 20. – Athenaeus, Liv. XIV. – l'ai-sanias Book IX, Chapter XXIX. 1128.

(2) Jeremiah, chap. XXI!, verses. 18; chap. XXXIV, verse, 5. – J«p, chap. XVII verse. 14; chap. XXX, verses. 19.

(3) Genesis chap. L, verse 10 and auiv.

JESUS

ÜÜÜ

– and sos last moments will be the day of Myrrh" (I).

We would be less surprised to see the prudish Jehovah uvoe rnccmnpagnoraont impure of Adonism, his mother Myrrha, and even her incestuous father, Cynirus. This foundation The author of holy prostitution is none other than the instrument of strings back prophets, the (vinnor, whose sounds gravel ani-
"Move both mourning and orgy." My insides thunder.
"Against Israel like a Kiunor (2)," Isaiah will say. The Hill of Cynyro, Myrrha, the spice of tombs and the mourning of Mourners' cries resounded in the sanctuaries of Zion. A Circo somblo metamorphose on divinities not only the instruments of the celebrations, but the cries and sobs themselves.

All the prophets guide us to cos Nénies imitated do Tyre and Hahol, where the body of the deceased lay stretched on the pyre was bathed in tears and greeted by the funeral chants of the half-men's choir and the women's semi-choir (3).

These lamentations about the only son draw on myths.
Anthropothecs have a dark meaning. Linus is son of Malcandre (4); like Jeud, of Ivronos-Israel; and one knows the habits of the Molochs towards their children.
Jephthah, the Sophet, also had a beloved daughter. like a Goddess in the time of Bishop Epiphanes (5). The Nature was taking its revenge on all these parricides. Tree struck by • the lightning, the priest would retire to his home to living in remorse, and her tears were different Cruel were those of the lover Eaaltis. Her daughter, her child

It's still the right time to talk about the rejected animal of

(1) Cluster, chap. VIII, vere. 10.

(2) Isaiah, chapter XVI, verse 82. – Suidas, under the word Kwupn.

(3) Paralipomena, Book II, chap. XVI. vere. 14 – Jeremiah, chap. XXII, verses 10 and 11. – Zechariah, chapter XII, verse 10 – Isaiah, chapter XXIII, verse 15. – Kings, Book I, chapter XIV, verse 13, etc., etc.

(4) Pamanias, Book IV, chap. XXXIII, No. 3 – Diodaro, Book I, Chapter XIII – Plutarch, Da bide, Chapter XII.

(5) Epiphanius, Contra Ilcerelicos, Volume U, page 128 (Paris, edition of 1545).

Mol.ocil

3 he

.léliovnh, his sacred ox-cnchon. Type of crime we do do-hip, pork or wild boar, companion Moloch islands or back Venus, the foul animal, followed our gods in their fall. The abomination of the prophets is merely the flip side of a cult ancient. Trichinella has nothing to do with it. For a long time i\ Cyprus, Aphrodite's pig wallows on a bed of litter leagues of treats, while Adonis's ox is relegated to the middle of filth (1).

(Il atheneb. Book Ht. – Plutarch, Symposium, Book IV, chapter V, No. 2. – Isaiah, chapter LXVI, verse 3.-17, etc.

END

BRUSSELS. – PRINTING WORKS Eu. MaiIEU, RUE DES SABLES, 18.

of great importance and of a surprising topicality.
A dependence on sacred exegetical expression; the other app-participated in contemporary history. Malgré la light spirit that we repeat in our century, he found the number of readers who did not the volume drop was reduced and it did not point was encouraged by the long development periods and the multiple expectations of these two ideas. Natural absolutely nothing has been accepted without contest.

Criticism of his legal rights, even across the board of the works that she approves most in her ensemble (1).

(1) The author receives signed letters of congratulations, notam-with the help of the officers of the Grenoble, Angouleme de Tulle, de Poitiers and d'Anthédon; de Gentlemen the Vicaries

* r

— VI —

I have no intention of raising the objections here.
was formulated against the scriptural part of lou-question; I'm leaving longer than usual. I'm busy only responding to the observations presented On one of the most important points in history: the action of the Jew in the Franco-Masonry and the secret society.

"This imputation to the Jews of all horrors of the Franc-Maconnerie, at-on this, we tried to do the least bit. We do not agree testons not that the Jews are the enemies of the Church; we believe that they are, as they are, a part d'action in all the mishaps of the Christian; we are persuaded that they con-always born like Jesus Christ to know where is Christianity and where one must strike for list in matter of worship, rationalist in matter of doctrine, he is no longer a Jew, the child of Moses.

It is a lost friend, buried in the graves
"Ampurs of the century, alien to all positive dogmas, and try to enslave his nephew to push him

'- _ radicalism of destruction. This is our opinion more worried than ever, other than his inconsistent judgment

Generals of Bordeaux and Quimper, and of the beautiful ecclé-siasticals and laicians of distinction.

she lets Cadmettre inch opposite of brothers Lömann and Mer Gaume, who cross to the conversion presented to dispersed children _ of Israel and Judah (1). "

My venerable critic is not alone notice. More of my readers are also accused of "impeaching all the horrors to the Jews de la Franc-Maconnerie ».

I conclude that I cannot express myself very nice, in my book, my real thought.

= The idea of attributing to the whole young nation, to all and every Jew, generally like in individuals, projects | terribles and the, acts abo-minables of the Franc-Maconnerie and its branches, it doesn't come into my spirit.
But I wanted to advance, and I keep the affairs following information: ä '4

10 The Jewish people crossed the nations and The A is continuously directed and governed by a non-interrupted succession of supreme chefs.

These bosses, I'm calling the Princes of Judah u Rare has always cared for the hope of rein Palestine, their homeland, and arriving

> Catholic Review Critique, etc., September eT + *

who,

– vm –

a day to dominate the world. They didn't let go of engaging and developing this double-expanded ransom in their nation; and they are in their end seems to be in perfect harmony with his bosses for tend to these two butts and to put to your whole disposition his obedience and all his resources that they require.

3° All the time, and more or less according to the circumstances, the Princes of Israel were threatened, but without success, to avoid this double result.

The manifestation caused in Christian society by Protestantism and the French Revolution make them offer favorable circumstances because it hasn't been presented yet. They are are forced to make a profit.

J Par suite, the Jews, under the occult direction of their bosses, you can penetrate all parts in this Christian society which has re-pushed together even during the middle ages. Ils and they always enter in a hidden manner, in the 18th century, in association with various existing secret societies and in fondant eux-even of new, and in an open manner, due to numerous conversions to Protestantism, should be obtained in the majority of Civilized countries I' political and legal emancipation of citizens.

Os Wig NS LE Fe ET

a – IX –

5° By their gold, their skill, their perseverance, The Jewish Princes have arrived to take over the all the secret societies. They are born the superior and unique directors. They serve between their hands since they were united and rattachées all, by more or less links secrets, à la Franc-Maçonnerie Templière. They are as regulated and organized, under their authority, all the elements of the war and of the Revolution here exists throughout the world. |

6° You were able to operate this unit-Universal fication of the enemies of Jesus Christ and of his church, because, from the beginning, more than all other people, they are under the domination of Satan to cause your death which is for you like a second originally unlucky one; because, ensuite, of all times, and of the origin of Chris-tianism, they came on foot, by the cabal, in almost all occult associations and heretical; because, finally, the form of Even since their dispersion, an immense secret society, and living at all points of globe, always in relation with others by religion, politics and commerce, tousjours conducted by the Even bosses, they can receive and execute always the same plan and the same words d'ordre.

--

r U ETE

IT

RS e ae er

7° It's about the middle of this formidable engine destruction, which I named the « Maçonnerie judaïque », which could confuse all the obstacles to their secular characters, to know:

tiennes. Their infernal work is great advanced. Plus they know they have to and become the unique masters of the world.

Here are the things I have exposed and proven, it seems to me, because they are pay attention and obtain a serious exact
men. |

I like it without a doubt that "the Jew is dead, franc-macon, nihilist in the material of worship, rationaliste in matter of doctrine, n'est plus un Jew, child of Moise. All these Jews, there, repeatedly affubled by a name or by another, are even more of the Jews of the Talmud; more they are always Jews of heart, not less than sang. As it is, they are afraid, more or less immediately, to your princes, and they preserve always, without religious sentiment, less by organ of race and nation, the desire for reta-the joy of their homeland and the dream of the dominion. nation-universal. Soyons sûrs that all, under some banners that they were enraged by and some titles that they address are served to their manner, and of their best, the interests of their people and the projects of the leaders of Israel.

Now that certain Jewish individuals more ardent and more audacious, in many restrain, tremble alone directly in the horrors of the highest grades of masons, of the International and nihilism, I accept it without pain. What the three quarters of Jews from all over the world ignore them. absolutely the maneuvers that we combine, the procedures do not seem to be sufficient and the instruments playing the mysterious and satanic political of the Princes of their nation, to atteind the but love everyone, they are all convinced. Yes,

Jews are converting, individually and since-However, in Catholicism, it is a certain thing, thank God, and I don't hate it any more joie. But everything doesn't prove anything against me this and fit perfectly on the side. Everything do not accept that the Jewish Princes cannot ` is, and not really, to the head of the Maconnerie and all its branches, which they do not form the superior council and the supreme torité, and that, finally, all the operations, all the attacks, all the attacks on this re-obvious heresy of our age, not yet, and not soient, en final, combined, prepared and com-

+ /

- XII -

asked by you. In an inconsiderate manner, but quite real, they are, presently, more that the vicariates of Satan lay on the earth, the generals who lead the anti-Christian people, and who prepares the venue for his last chef, |' Ante-
Christians |

Through documents and new developments
I wish I were under my eyes readers, I hope to brighten up all these points, confirming the completion of the Francs-Macons and Jews, and defends the main title given in this new book: the Jews, our masters!

At the festival of the Patronage of Saint Joseph,
30 Apr 1882. |

The Abbé E.-A. Chazaurr,

Honorary Chanoine.

THE JEWS, OUR MASTERS!

DOCUMENTS AND DEVELOPMENTS NEW

SUR

THE JUDICIAL QUESTION

The ideas presented in the Francs-Maçons and Jews have not yet had any single dreams that have takes the imagination of the author alone.

At the time when this book was published in Paris, the propo-locations, all seem to be in the cells that contain it, attacks and defenses, in Rome, in a series of articles remarkable, by a newspaper of great authority, the Catholic civilization. A French magazine summarized this tra-say these words: « Judaism meets masonry in heaven

"Today there is an identical formula... The ju-« He governs the world, and must necessarily « conclude that the masonry is made Jewish, or "that Judaism is made Franco-Macon" (1).

(1) The book of the French-Maçons and Jews in pairs at Palme, Paris, in December 1880, under the pseudonym CC de Saint-André.
Civilization articles from January to November 4

THE JEWS, OUR MASTERS. 1

we

ee RN
3

Beet tate.

1
Yes

. eae

i

is

– 9 –

These are my own, almost in the same terms.

This point in contemporary history is very high importance. It is obvious that we have reason to There is great danger, at this time, for the Church Catholic and Christian society in general, and particularly for France.

It is therefore imperative to give more possible advertising to documents already known, or ignorés sosqu'ici, who have a report on this serious subject, and The rapprochement and comparison cannot contribute to clearing up this question political, social and religious at the same time.

Some of these historical pieces, almost unknown Before these last years, two letters are found Jews, dating from the fifth century, who are brave, to my avis, the most serious attention.

They were taken to the market by Armana prou- published in 1880 (1), by the Review of Jewish Studies, the same year (2), and by the Courrier de la Vienne, 1881. See the Review of Historical Questions, 62nd edition, April 1st 1882; Review of Periodical Reports, p. 669. Henri de l'Épinois. | |

(1) Annual publication of the Association of More Than 1000 Women des Félibriges, the new Provençal poets, and at Laquelle, In 1881, the Review of the Catholic World reported interesting details. The Review of Romanic Languages, collection of the same origin, I believe that these two letters have also been published after the Armana proves- gau.

(2) The creation of this Berne dates from 1880. It was found under the patronage of M. Baron James de Rothschild, who reunited in Paris on November 10, 1879, a certain number of young Israelites to found a society of Jewish studies. The but announced, it is the development of love and culture of in 1881 (1). We let them go, it seems to me, taking their exams. It's crazy; car elles revealing at several points the intimate and secret story of the Israelite nation in the previous centuries, and, by suite, in the current sections.

I propose to study these old texts with a very special one.

After having cities, dates and explained in a first chapter. then demonstrating authenticity in a second, I had to resort and develop, in a third, with the help of other documents more knowing the consequences here, revealing us and the others, complete and confirm the claims of the book Franks-Maçons and Jews.

letters and sciences among Israelite youth; the but real it is, as in everything that the Jews say, the advancement and the – triumph of the ideas and designs of the leaders of the nation. L'es- The general opinion of the Review is quite rationalist, if I juge by the four fascicules that I have, from the years 1880 and 1881. \

(1) Le Courrier de la Vienne published the translation of the Second, in these letters, in a series of articles, the pseudo-donym C. de Saint-Andre ; hard and incomplete work.

rr ww⁵w EEE YN ES | ER CIES AIT Va na": ABS Se ra A RQ. ANR Es : ohhh .

FIRST CHAPTER

TEXTS AND TRANSLATIONS OF THE TWO JUVENILE LETTERS © OF THE 15TH CENTURY.

This old document has been printed for the first time once in a French book, by Father Bouis, d'Arles. His work carries this title in capital letters, setting of an illustrated frontispiece:

"THE ROYAL COURT OF THE KINGS OF ARLES DEDICATED TO MESS"?
THE COUNCILS AND GOVERNORS OF THE CITY, PARJ. BOUIS, Pbr EN AVIGNON, BY JACQUES BRAMERAV. 1640.

On the next page, the title is repeated with some modifications, between other cells: by JM Bovis, prestre, 1641. in-4° (1).

We say that. in the second half of the fifteenth century, the Jews flee from the majority of the EU kingdoms rope, particularly from France, from Germany. de PEs-France and Provence. They were very rich and very

(1) Michaut's biographical dictionary qualifies this book de « rare ». The British Museum does not have it. It exists in National Library of Paris; indicative note: L K. 7/428.
There is a couple of years, he is found in the rich library-that of the Jesuit Fathers of the Free College of Saint-Joseph, in Poitiers; but, due to the forced closure of this establishment, the volumes were dispersed by different sides, and I ignore this what is now becoming this example.

; 0 AE à 4.

- 8th -

many in this last kingdom or country, which fits returned to France in 1487. That year, or next, Charles VIH, least tolerant of the old king of Provence, published a serious edition by joined the Provençal Jews to become Christians, or leave the country. In this extreme, the name of the Jews of Provence, the Rabbi of Arles, their chief, written to his brothers in Constantinople, January 43 1489, for their demand the conduction line à suivre. On November 21 of this same year, the receipt their answer. Tell me the cause and subject of these two letters. Here the tenor, with a part of the ré-inflections don't lie in frames (1).

*

Royal Crown Extract, etc.

« The consuls of Arles heard the complaints that « all the inhabitants fought against the perfidious Jews, « who lives in the city, because of the needs « what they started.... Also in Arles, the people "It was already too late because I was so happy with the hair « to prevent all the Jews from flying into the « Rhone ; of what King Charles averts, and despairs « to always capture the hearts of the inhabitants « d'Arles, chased by his editor this terrible race of the "City and its land, since 1493."

« Two years later, the Jews are traveling big-"But you are in France and King Louis XI has

(1) For the greater commodity of the reader, I modify the old spelling of Bouis, all reproducing exactly

RTM SS E EN CEN or

7 –
"

SiS nV oe at 55

ER tt mob
tn

– DEE
or se

mu tea

A as Late ep ert,

CRT.

EEE lik Ss}

N –

« chased by his kingdom before he became Count of Provence, and they were threatened by their own exile, « Write a letter to the Jews of Constantinople, your « asking for advice on what they are about to do. The
« A copy of this letter was faithfully printed on a « old copy of the archives of one of the most famous « abbeys of Provence; where I found out about « to insert into this discourse, because of curiosity. »

Letter from the Jews of Arles sent to the Jews of Constantinople. »

"Honorable Juzious, greetings and thanks. I want to saber
"That's the King of France who is now well « land of provenance has made public its presence felt « crests of the desert: and the Arles, « d'Aix, et de Marzeillo, took our blessings, « Our message of life, our sins,
"gas, and we are in for trouble; so what we are "Confused as that should be done by. the law of Mozen;
"What reason do you think you're going to give up?"
"manda 20 that should have been done. »

« Chamorré Rabbin of Juzious d'Arle, 13 de « Saturday 1489. »

« Some of Constantinople are too frightened to answer; more this
"I don't speak Hebrew or Provencal, but "in Spanish, because this language was still well understood and in these times I see that King René and his enemies « The counts of Barcelona became friends with the Spanish « gnols (1); the source found next to the other, yes « inserted in its natural language: » |

(D « The explanation that Bouis is trying to donate money to

\

« Reply of the Jews of Constantinople to those of Arles
| and Provence. s

4 Amados brothers in Moisen, white paper with envelope mos in la qualificaïs nos les habaijos et inform-tunisians who pray; of what our feeling a cabido in the same way as your brothers; the parewhat of the great satraps and rabbis is the sequence : 2
"But what decides that the King of France hates bo-:

« Dear Christians: what he said cannot be otros; but if Moses's hand is in his hand,

What they decide is that the man has to leave their « see: hazed your sons merchants, parade,

"a little bit by little, quite a few swine;

a And he who decides that they should give up their lives; hazeds « your children doctors and pharmacists, because « quite a few clouds;

"So what decides that they destroy your sinagoguesgas: hazed your sons canons and clergy, according to:
« who destroy their temples ;

"And what I say is that we have other vexations:

Ar Be

and the Spanish is little exact. The letter of Constantinople is written « in Spanish quite simply because the Spanish was the « Maternal language of the Jews of Constantinople, like the letter
« the Jews of Arles had written in Provence, because the pro-« Vençal was the mother tongue of the Jews of Provence. L'es-4 pages of the 15th and 16th centuries are still today the « Language of the Jews on the Eastern Coast of the Mediterranean « ranée. » (Note from the Review of Jewish Studies, p. 121.) other reason, it is that the letter of Constantinople, the letter circu-lair of: the nation's great leaders, who were also destined to smitten Jews of Spain, like us the narrowest. |

ee

riots, and that always intent in negotiations of the Republic cas: parague, subjugating the Christians, ganeis land, and we can take them. » |
"Do not lose the order that we dare, because for experience travel that sails from abattoirs to tensed in something. »

4 VSSVFF Prince of the Jews of Constantinople s nopola, the xxi of Casleu, 1489, » - |

"I found this reply to translate our French language, for better communication with irritate the ills of this nation » (4). |

%

RARE

A

RR

It is necessary to make some observations on the text of these two letters before translation.

Between the Provençal text of the first letter, printed _ by Bouis, and this one reproduces I'Armana prou-founded in 1880, there were slight differences in orthodontics graphs which are completely indifferent to the senses.

Both Armana and Bouis are there for you; the first written: Marselho, pronounce, ren, where the second says: Mar-zeillo, pron, ten (2).

(1) La Royale Couronne des Roys d'Arles, etc., p. 475 ot suivantes...

(2) The Armana proves itself as an article: « En wandering through the archives of Arles, we found an old « paperasse fort curieuse ; It is a letter written in 1489 by the « Jews, etc... » At this point, one would have thought that the author of Particle in my head on the views manuscript he and copied otrefois of the second letter, which bears this note: Hatred of the Royal Court ronne des Rois d Arles, par Bouis, p. 475. This old paper

It was not until the old book of the history of Arles was deposited

22.0

I will soon read the Spanish text of this text-my letter which offers the most reasonable options.

The second letter, in Spanish. transcribe by Bouis, remove spelling and printing errors sion in several directions. Useless to fix the faults d'orthography. As if by magic, I gave the next places: "to prevent the destruction of suspected to destroy lost places; – intent for intent; – shine to shine... etc.

Here is the translation of these two letters, also literary as possible. I soulfully remember the important passages.

I. Letter from the Jews of Arles to those of Constantinople. »

"Honorable Jews, greetings and grace. You must know "That King of France, who is the new master of « Country of Provence, we are obliged to cry public "Of becoming Christians or of leaving our territory.
« And those from Arles, Aix and Marseille want to take « our goods, our lives, our synagogues, "good and causing us great boredom; this here « we are sure that we must do " for the Moise law. Voilà why we in the archives of this city. You remain, in comparison to the tra-French production by Bouis with the Provençal translation by l'Arman, we are immediately convinced that this is not what reproduce the version from here, even with his mistakes and his member of the phrase. He says: «You are not afraid here, and neires, etc. ». Don't forget that and you recognize. –

The Spanish text and the French translation by Bouis take all in the long run: « Do not disregard the order that we give you– NONS D.

Tr ee ee c ai aA

x7

.

}

– 10 –

fear of telling us that we're doing it. Chamor, Rabbin of the Jews of Arles, the 43rd of Saturday 1489. »

a R

b

II. « Response of the Jews of Constantinople to these d'Arleset de Provence. »

« My brothers and sisters in Moise, we have received your letter in which you make us acquainted with the anxiety and the frustrations you endure. We are they were penetrated by a very large amount of hair. what you-memes.

« The opinion of the great satraps and rabbis is the following:

" – What you say that the King of France

« Christians are obliged to do it: do it, perhaps

"you can't do anything else; but the law « Moïse stays in your heart.

" – What you say is your command

« Then, little by little, they are throwing away the Christians of « theirs.

a – What you say is that we are watching over your life:

« make your children doctors and pharmacists, because they « denounce the Christians their lives.

"– What you say is that they destroy your syna– « gogues : the fate of the children of the canons and clergy, that destroy their churches.

What you say is that you are good from others « vexations : make sure your children are « lawyers and notaries, and they always feel

« budget affairs; so, by placing the Christians under

Attorney ARR

if

M

– 11 –

« Your joy, you rule the world, and you and you « Venger of you.

"Don't disregard this order that we gave you.

« Donnons, because you understand by experience that, to the lower ones that you are, you arrive at the fact of the « power.

*

VSSVFE; prince of the Jews of Constantine– |

"noble, the 21st of Casleu, 1489."

*

This second letter has also been translated by the abbot

I rectify the old N and I design, in the soulful, the passages of his version where he ends my love, and they are more or less perfect,

« My brothers and sisters in Moise, we have received your letter by which you mean the crossings and luckily I bake. (The resentment of the we only touched you when others came.) But the view of the greatest Rabbins and our law is that s'en suit:

"You say that the King of France wants you says Christians: do it, maybe nothing else can fair; but guard the memory of Moïse in the heart. |

4 You say that you want the Lions to make your children are laborers, and by the way of traffic you |

aurez little by little all their.

« You are telling them that they are watching over you lives: make your children doctors and pharmacists, where they tried to lose their courage, without fear of punishment.

– 12 –

What they say is destroying your synagogues:
make sure your children become canons and clergy, because they are ruining their church.

And what they say is that they support the big vexations, made by children lawyers, notaries and people here ordinary people are busy with public affairs, and by this means you dominate the Christians, win their lands and you will revenge yourself.

"Do not point out the order that we give you donnons; by experience you will see that,
The lower the prices you get, the higher you become. »

The mistakes of this translation of Bouis are easy to ressortir, so that the reader penetrates better into the true signification of this old text.

10 « But the view of the greatest rabbis and satraps of our law. »

This passage presents an interchange of the words text and an addition which denigrates the sense and the portée of the original plus that it did not seem at first glance. In the text, there is no point in "our law", nor in plus, but only: «the view of the great satraps and Rabbins », the appearance of the great Satrapas and Rabbinos... » But I did not understand what was said here Jewish chief executives, assessors and political advisors and religious of the prince of the nation, and of "the aviator" liberated between us. Il a cru à une consultation pure-religiously speaking, the rabbis and the most religious doctors; it is why he was our « Rabbins » before « Satrapes », and he added "to our law".

20 « But Moses's memory is always guarded

The

– 13 –

in the heart. » The « souvenir » does not express the force of the text which establishes "the law",

30 By means of traffic » and « without pu-nition » are the explanations that are completely legitimate-while thinking of the text, but who is he and nent pas.

. 4° « Make your children lawyers, notaries and people here usually occupied with public affairs. "

This translation will destroy all the energy of the texts: | |

« Make sure your children are lawyers, and « notaries, and always intent on negotiating « Republicas. » The grammatical explanation is watch clearly.

"Procurais", act in kind, be careful. This word principal of the phrase a for complement of two inci-teeth that start with that; the first: « that "Your sons are lawyers and notaries," that you children need lawyers and notaries: the second: and that always in negotiations between the Republics », and that They are always concerned about state affairs. Reading sense The truth of this passage is that they are: made in kind that your children should be lawyers, etc., and act in kind, de plus. which they always feel, etc...

Always "not yet" meant "ordinary".

« Intended, (to understand) the verb « understand », should say that only occupied by, is assigned to, administrator, Etc. ; car te dictionary of the Spanish Academy tra-because the verb « entender » follows the preposition en, de this way: « think about something, occupy yourself she, pull her, age." Consequently, "to understand in "axis

EZ
* 4th

at

T.S.

END I

T

negotiations » must be translated by those who occupy, those who affaires. be devoted to affairs, manage affairs.

"De Republicas", meaning "des Republics", in the Latin sense, it is a matter of public opinion, of the State, of the government. In the text that says this the greater republic.

The thought of the Jewish prince is therefore greatly atfaiblie, so as not to say denatured, par la translation de Bouis. She is clear and energetic in the original textginal : do everything that you can imagine children become lawyers and notaries, and therefore, the means of these functions, they can be applied without to put the head on the administration, on the di-Department of Public Affairs, Department of State Affairs.

50 « And by this means you will dominate the Christians and you gain your land. »

Here is the counter-sense formula. The text on the door: « Pa-"raque, subjugating the Christians, gain earth."

What does that mean word to word: rather, subjugating the Christians, in subjugating the Christians, in the met-so also under your jog (who will arrive when, by the through your functions as lawyers and notaries, your children will be taken into the administration of the public affairs, budget management), ganeis earth, you (Jews) rule the earth, it is yours moon. The text does not say anything at all, but au singulier. Translate "your land" is therefore a contre-sens ; d'other part, "goose" not only the sense of «gagner», but still and exceedingly « conquer, reduce his power, tame, in miners: 3 3 |

EN gy wc e RU

6° « From what you are, you will be greatly educated. »

This translation is exact. The Armana proves but this also means: "Because she is, you are "maybe better than better", because you are, you will be much higher and more. It's good sense.

According to the phrase: « You arrive at the conclusion of the power », I seem to better render the figured shape and the most powerful concision of the Spanish text, which says mot à mot: « You come to be tense for some chose, « in something ». In Spanish, that means "something" with its many significations, a particular sense lie which is a species of litho. It means something chose in the best possible way, of all. It is this meaning that the proverbial expression comes from: "something, or nothing », it says everything or nothing, or even more, like translated from the Academy dictionary: « by Cesar, aut nihil », or the premier, or nobody. « Come on, be careful in something » must therefore be delivered literary by : you come to be tense for the first, or well, for everything: consequently you come to the conclusion of the sance (I).

E - . > 2 -
j EMES AESA re FIRST
- RED SED i ee ee eS
"CCC
: = 7% T&C ave

ge tea

II.

The text of our two letters does not meet one another— suddenly in the book that the abbot gives me on the day in the 11th century (1644). They have been impressed, probably—

(1) V. Dictionary of the Eastern Spanish language, by the Royal Academy of de 1817;

J een nS u Lee nm a PPRS . 3 – 2 Re AT me ee cr to de a Ta ve si,

PEE Bs Lan a aS Baal

– 16 –

at least for the first time, in the 18th century, in an Spanish question titled : La Silva Curiosa, et... pu- stayed in Paris in 1583 with a Navarre gentleman, named Julien de Medrano (I).

"The compiler has already written the first letter, "from this note....: "This next paper was written « by the Hermitage of Salamanca in the archives of « Toledo, looking for the antiquities of the kings of « Spain (2). »

In French: «The following letter was found by the guard of the library of Salamanca in the archives of Tolède, searching for antiques from Kingdom of Spain. » |

Immediately after these lines, la Silva: curious woman, in Spanish, the text of this first letter. We reproduce after the Review of Jewish Studies, and we translated.

« Charter of the Jews of Spain to the Constantinople « nopola. Honorable Jews, health and gratitude. Separate that "The King of Spain, by public request, has made us vol- « see Christians; and we leave the haciendas and the vi- « that, and we destroy our synagogues, and our

(1) The curious silver coin of Julian de Medrano, Navarro knight, in which various useful and curious things occurred, very Conve- nothing for ladies and gentlemen, in all virtuoso conversation and honesta. (Paris, Nicolas Chesneau, 1583, in-8.) « The curieux record by Julien de Medrano, a Navarre gentleman, in which he is question of various very subtle and curious things, very useful to women and men, for every conversation pleasant and honest. d bre 1880, pages 307 et seq., a very interesting article, signed Alfred Morel-Fatio.

A |
L oi inten a aa wy © sme a

– 17 –

« make other mistakes, the things we have confused « sos and inciertos of what we have to do, by law « de Mosen. We apologize and request that « good to make arrangements, and we will send you everything by breaking the queen's deliberation she has already made.
« Chamorro, prince of the Jews of Spain. »

What he means is: "Honored Jews, greetings and grace.
You save that the King of Spain, by order of blink, we force ourselves to be Christian. We are in-we live our lives and our goods, and we destroy our synagogues, and we are well acquainted with other vexations; who we are making us anxious and uncertain about what we are going to do for the Moïse law. We prisons you and we suppliments of want to listen to good advice and from us send as soon as possible the release that You are my Pre Chamor, prince of the Jews of Espagne. » |

Compare this Spanish text to our premiere letter with the Provençal text copied by Bouis, we immediately realize that one and the other are, how in the general sense, absolutely identical.

By rapport aux expressions, if we retranchons certain passages added on a side like the others, we find that they are almost obvious, or well that they do not consist of simple variants.
Even the Provençal text sheds two details that are not pas the Spanish text: « What a new good lou land of Provenance », who is the new master of the Provence, and « the Arles, Aix and Marzeillo », these d'Arles, d'Aix and Marseille. From his side, the text is-pagnol women also have two details that do not stand out in – 18 –

Provençal: "and we ask you to do well take advice » », and now very briefly », the most important thing is sible.

Then the Provençal text like the Spanish text ending up asking for the opinion of the Jews of Constantinople nople, but with two phrases of different terms means all the same signification. « Send us... the deliberation that... we have done », send us the deliberation, the resolution that you accept, this the Spanish; "Tell us what you should do," tell us what we are going to do, this the provençal.

It's clear the same thing.

It must again be noted that, in the Provençal text, this are the Jews of Arles and Provence who write to those of Constantinople, which plagiarizes the King of France and of Provençaux, and that Chamor, the signatory, is qua-liberated by the Rabbin of the Jews of Arles; but that, in the Spanish text, which the Jews of Spain wrote wind to those of Constantinople, which plagiarizes the king d'Spain and the Spanish, and that Chamor is appelé prince of the Jews of Spain. We explain more lose the reasons.

These differences are partly due to the fact that the two texts are identical, not only in terms of sense, but also in terms of aux expressions. We therefore consider them as reproducing, with some lighter variants, one primitive text.

The second letter, the reply of the Jews of Constantinople, nople, suit the premiere in the Silva Curiosa de Me-

- 19 -

drano, like in the arlesian history of the abbe

Bouis. |

This second letter confirms our review of studies Jews, «IT COMPLETELY CONFORMS TO THE TEXT OF Bouts, less naturally reading and spelling errors commissioned by the histories of Arles ».

It is very important to note that: the answer of the Jews of Constantinople is written in Spanish, and she is, of all points, apparent in the two alone au- you already know that the premiers, a Navarrais, in the 16th century, the other French çais, in the dix-septième.

Drink this unique difference: in Bouis, this response is addressed to the Jews of Provence, and in Merdrano, in those Spanish.

Remember that detail that we provide to the Review of Jewish studies (p. 303): the manuscript copies of these two letters « forming » in Spain, where they are started to circulate « from the end of the 19th century onwards »; the National Library of Paris in possession three manuscripts, the writing is of the seventh century.

CHAPTER TWO.

AUTHENTICITY OF THE TWO JUVENILE LETTERS OF THE 15TH CENTURY.

The first question that concerns her-self, after the lecture and study of these two curious pieces, is there; are they really authentic? sont-elles

= 20

| element and authors and the time that presumes the signatures and dates?

Many writers do not accept this authenticity. We expressly affirm that none of the systems imaginary subjects to support the negative in the background- quite seriously, because these letters contain all the intrinsic and extrinsic characters here We have to look at the facts as authentic.

From the outset, it is not possible to establish with this that clearly shows, not at what time, not by what apparently this correspondence had been made.

I. According to a first sentiment, Father Bouis will be the author of these letters. But this opinion is absolutely insustainable.

Car, this continues just M. Arsène Darmesteter, in the Review of Jewish Studies, "the wise writer does not to read the indigestible sentence aurait-it was capable to write this Spanish letter, if you live in love, are they nice and strong? And then comment and why gave him the idea of making the original in Spain-gnole ? The explanation is vague, superficial and inexact that the woman employed in this language in the document-monfré well that he ignores the real reason, that is all the first to be thrown away, and that by reason-what does it mean to simply transcribe an original which is under the eyes. Finally, this is not the case in the 15th century, in the full reign of Louis XIII, who had been singing to produce a document of this genre against the Jews;

Ra RR ARAR RRR RK

- 21-

" and for use? to enter into a
« obscure chronicle of Arles (1) ! » |

We couldn't reason better. Plus, if the abbey Jean-Baptiste Bouis, the clergyman of Arles, is at the point very recommendable as historical, not for the background, not by the form of his book, his testimony, how in question the document, regardless of value and the authority that it is impossible to refuse to a father respect, formally affirming that the copy of:

these pieces "are faithfully worn out on an old « collection of archives from one of the most famous abbeys Provence ». The sacred character of Bouis must expelling him from all directions, and beyond of a completely free and useless person for him-even and for his work.

Finally, this one is completely overlooked and closes the discussion, that is, the two letters exist, how many hours before that I went to the public. We venons to see that the Spanish Julien de Medrano les it is therefore clear that Bouis is not the only one, | of our two Jewish letters.

II. The Spanish Historians D. Adolpho de Castro (2) and D. Amador de Los Rios (3), and after the doctor

(1) Review of Jewish Studies, no. 1, July–September 1880, . 122.

(2) History of the Jews in Spain. Cadiz. 1847. M. Alfred Morel-Fatio, in the Review of Jewish Studies, said that M. de Castro is the first scourge here, to his knowledge, is occupied by these letters.

(3) Historical, political and literary studies on the Jews of Spain, 1848 ; and Social, political and religious history of the Jews of Spain and Portugal, 1875–1876. |

– 99 –

German Kayserling (1), we have a second opinionnion. They present these letters as the work of the cardinal Jean Martinez Guizarro, or Siliceo, archeologist de Tolède from 1546 to 1557, where the aurait manufactured to serve the arms of the churches-tiques from Tolède favorable to the Jews.

This pretext has already been an order, known under the name of "Cleaning Statute", in the name of nothing could be admitted to the rank of the chanoines, bé-sworn-in and presbyters of the metropolitan church, without have summer "behind the scenes of blood purity, re-They only take so much money to enter the military orders ». As a result, we could no longer enter the ecclesiastical state and receive the tonsure clerical, nor is it proclaimed with any dignity before having established clearly that we were of pure Spanish blood, and that one would never descend from a converted Jewish family.
This "statute" would be a great help in retaining the era;
the soul of numerous recriminations and living controversial among the converted Jews and the their friends and protectors who are from the clergy who participated in the Israeli race.

Therefore, after the most important historical events, the cardinal

Juive, he entrusted himself to the circulation of numerous copies,

(1) Sephardim, Romanesque poetry of the Jews in Spain.
1859.

I no longer know these three authors. I did not point them works under the head. Everything that I say, and everything that is cite, in the present paragraph, I am referring to the article by M. Alfred Morel-Fatio. Review of Jewish Studies, no. 2, 1880, pages 301-304.

– 93 –

and affirmed that he had found the origins in the archives of his church in Toledo. But it was demonstrate to the whole world the need for its ordon-nance. Assuredly the expectation was triumphant:

a If you bleed this measure, you can say the cardinal, you instigate against her; more voyeur then both of them are of utmost importance to the church. Here what the Jewish leaders have written on their Spanish subjects before they were chased. We cannot therefore We do not worship those Jews who are converted, a year-old soixantaine, then leave us alone: they weren't that old. When then the children of These families are present, only to enter

I am a clergyman, I must say to $'elder in the dignities of the Churchtiques, if we accept the admettons, we will receive the traitors that we received everything prepared long ago and everything disposed, to avenge their fathers, to disgrace and to lose the church. »

In the Review of Jewish Studies, M. Morel-Fatio, with great good sense and perfect loyalty, re-I agree with this opinion, especially because these stories do not bring anyone expecting a accusation is serious; they are content to affirm; and se-admittedly because the character and the high position the incriminated person does not allow a fool and should completely conceal your explanation.

Mr. Morel-Fatio makes perfect sense on this point. A pareille supposition, exude without ombre, is not qu'une pure calomnie.

Especially since the archbishop of Toledo had taken me away-solument no need to take a fake for apply and justify his order. She waited for-

N

ug warns in my

ur.

3
PRAY DATE
eee, oe

•
=

LAKES

CRAZY

—

•

he

% T aa nr Me:

— 24 —

bout en vertu of canon law. Car no prelate not be obliged to pay attention to different degrees of ecclesiastical orders and dignities, and even less at the entrance to the clerical office, a subject that he does not dignified, or well-known, on injustice-related grounds, the cross must be forced conversion of Jews without guarantee offer ties of solidarity, and 60 years after the expulsion of the 18th Cle, the children of these Jews were violently attacked in their religious beliefs, never mind and d'assuring Christians that they put in a safe place of conscience, in the name of useful and honorable ministers. of the autel. This only reason applied canonically and fully justified the archiepiscopal order-pale (4).

It was therefore completely useless and uninteresting not for the Cardinal of Toledo, but also well that for the partisans and defenders of son « Statute of cleaning, cleaning these parts, storing them, and to take the enormous bait and switch and lomnia.

So neither us nor the others can be, and They are not the authors of our two Jewish letters.

III. A third hypothesis is feasible: "This is,
" said Mr. Arsène Darmesteter, a Christian impostor

(1) Verse the end of the xvr. century, Clement VIII, by a brief statement that confirmed and renewed by Paul V in 1612, defending that the canonspriests, prebendaries and ecclesiastical dignitaries of cathedral churches, and the principal dignitaries of the collegiate churches, in the kingdoms of Portugal and Spain (Spanish Algarve, Andalusia), fussen conférées to the descendants of converted Jewish families, until

- 25 -

4 Who would have excited the Jewish community?... We ne saurians dire!> (1).

We say to ourselves, nicely, that this hypothesis Not more acceptable than the previous ones. Sans good, first off; she is in the spirit of lecthe door of these letters; but she cannot and does not accept it because an exam is too quick and superficial, sufficient to demonstrate that it is not a real semblance. -`

These letters are not found anywhere else than in the Spanish and Provençal archives of the xvr? and the xvure century, the fool supposedly had to be a Christian living in Spain or France.

But for France, we see absolutely nothing reason which can explain the manufacture of parts of this genre against the Jews, in the mid-seventh century.
M. Darmesteter in his own right; we have city plus his words. The previous century did not offer advantage of motifs. During the 15th and 16th centuries, the There is no question of whether a young person is in France. The Jews furent chased from this country to 1491, like this Bouis, by King Louis XI. Since then, they have not been looking for and return to the beginning of the seventh century. At this time, some Jews from Portugal and seventh degree of generation inclusive. This prescription took place very late (1624, 1628) and was condemned to common law by report to the admission of sacred and dignified orders ecclesiastical descendants of converted Jews. (See Ferraris,

Prompt library; édition Migne, aa mot Hebreus, nos 22, |

23, 24 and 106.)

(1) Review of Jewish Studies, no. 1 July–September 1880, p. 123.

THE JEWS, OUR MASTERS. . *

– 26 –

Hollande wins establishment in France, according to pretext commerce. But that King Louis XIII took part inform, the ban of the kingdom, by an arrest of 23 April 1615, all the Jews who had been introduced individually duel, and their defense force expresses itself, under the laws enacted by the king's orders its predecessors (1). Maybe it won't be found, or almost no Jews in France, in the 16th and 17th centuries

cles, there was no point in exciting you groves. The pretender is therefore not French.

Was there a Spanish from the 16th century? Nothing more, and by same reason. Since the expulsion of 1492, Spain has appearance. Consequently, throughout the course of this XVI? century, no motif exists of souls against us the other Christians. Dear friends, we are waiting to see that, to the environment of that century, in a circon where they seemed to be a terrible bastard against the Jews, these letters could not be manufactured, and could not no reason for it, nor for the archbishop of Toledo, nor by the partisans of his "Statue". It must be done return to this era, and assume that, little by little after the expulsion, this Christian haineux composed these two letters in the but to excite the vigi-launch and surveillance at the expense of the converted Jews. But, at this time, this idea could not come to person. The pre-occupation clause was impossible, and the work of invention, incontestably useless ; by the Royal and Ecclesiastical Inquisition of Es-

(1), Delamarre, Police Law, 4 vol. in-fol., tome ler, p. 285. Paris, 1706. .

*

- 27 -

page does not have any need to be swept away to acquire taking care of his mission at this point. In vien-dra-t-on to pretend that the faussaire has made these letters before the expulsion of the end of the 15th century? Corn this supposition is not at all indescribable that the others, because, therefore, the irritation of the people was too big for me to carry it by lighting their candles. It was not necessary of inventing against the Jews; the things that amaze the populations became too visible and sensitive to eux-mêmes. The complaints and claims universal Christians sell their princes a beautiful Valaient best of the apocryphal pieces to obtain Vexpul-sion of the Jews.

This Christian, a fool by the hand, is not enough exist.

IV. M. Morel- Fatio proposes to turn a quarter sentiment. |

He said that "the Spanish idiots of Castro and « from Los Rios, and after you Kayserliug, you have drawn « to serious these morceaux..... >

According to him, these two letters are « a Spanish manufacture gnole of the 18th century », « a pleasant pastiche a tour », « work of a Spanish, old Christian, or "reputable, more pleasant to the touch"; it is therefore « a spiritual pleasure of a Spanish writer of the second half of the twentieth century century ». – « The idea has already been suggested by the disputes that provoke cleaning, one can theadmettre (1). »

(1). Review of Jewish Studies. n° 2, October–December 1880, p. 304.

FT

ip ie

"ng ila a eg a E a er ea GE al ae RQ CE TER

– 28 –

So, in this opinion, our two Jewish letters apparently written by an unknown Spanish author, in the second half of the 18th century, at the time of the order of the Cardinal of Toledo, to move of the Jews.

M. Morel-Fatio expressed his sentiments on the reasons following :

1. These two letters are identical, and then the book de Bouis printed in 1644, and in the book of Medrano printed beautifully even before 1583. So the copy dont s'est servi Bouis avec réplique or well sur le livre de Medrano, or well on a manuscript found in Spain; and it is "Boys or some conquered Arlesias" who the titles and the descriptions of these letters, en met, where it was needed, « Arles and Provence », to

2. "It is enough, continue-t-it, to read carefully the "Second letter, the reply of the Jews of Constantinople,
"to be assured that everything that is said
"You cannot tell us who these Jews of Spain are. plus « or less converted, which succeeds in passing

_« the mailles of the fillets tendus by the inquisitors. »

3. This answer is not a serious written statement; this is not can be a pleasure. First, because what, says M. Darmesteter too, « she offers a appearance of irony.... Certain piquant traits on the Doctors and pharmacists do not complain-they are not lière ?..... » Secondly, because the name of the signa-The beginning of the first letter is a name invented by query. The Provençal form Chamorré could be the Hebrew Chamor, which means "day", and the Spanish form Chamorro wants direct-"tondu, Pelé"; all appeals-actions that are risky. Thirdly, because "the presence deces lettres » dansun grand nombre de pu-Spanish comedy, satirical, humorous, and, in particular, in the curious Silva, who is a collection of comic poems, good words, pleasant ries, "very useful to women and men" for engage in "honest conversation"; dismantle Certainly this correspondence did not exist serious value for the eyes of the Spanish of the era.

All these reasons, both intrinsic and extrinsic, sèques, not withstanding an attentive exam.

4. First, why, without fear of anything, pose that Bouis, or any other Provençal, has been modified the titles and descriptions of these letters? Bouis affirme que sa "couple... is firmly entangled in a old copy ». No words have been substituted « Provence, Arles and France », to that of « Spain », the copy would not be reliable. What motif is available from think? And what reason is another Arlesian, before him,

The new law requires that these changes be made, in other words

Is Medrano's book a Spanish manuscript? Pour-what are these modifications of place in the first place, as in the second letter, they will not by the interested parties, the correspondents of our-same? It is possible except that the suppositions free from M. Morel-Fatio. We're going to show you everything at a time when it is more clearly visible.

Then, because the Provencal manuscript is not service Bouis is identical to the manuscript from Spain dont to use Medrano, it does not suit rigorously that the first should be a copy of the second; what they have come to one and the other copied directly and exactly on a

he

t

E

ANET

SOE PER SE E

- 30 -

original commun. They would therefore be perfectly independent-compared to one another, all in exactly the same way, because they report to all the two, they are moderately, only moderately, to one and the same source.

This departure point of M. Morel-Fatio has not been done never proven, and, indeed, no less than certainly. |

2. The second reason is nothing more solid.

« Answer from the Jews of Constantinople, to be « avoid looking »..... contrary to what M. Morel advance, to know: it does not exist at all « of Jews of Spain, more or less well converted », but Only the Jews have not yet converted and they don't save too much what they have to do. And the fear, c'est d'abord le texte de la première, d'his de-perhaps it is clear that the conversion has not taken place; and, then, it is the second letter itself, the reponse of the Jews of Constantinople, who said positive-ment that we can do this conversion: "to this 4 You say that the King of France or Spain "You have to do Christian justice, make... " It is not so no question in this correspondence of Jews converted, "passed through the tendon fillets by the inquisitors ».

3. I just want to know that these Review of Jewish Studies appears to be pleasant in the sound general of this second letter From a bout to the other on n'y parle que d'hypocrisy, de trumpet, de vol, de deaths, ruins and vengeance which are advised

/

– 31 –

and orders. The pleasure that must be accepted is well laid out and not at all boring.

Unless you mention certain spicy traits, who calls Molière? »... This comedy is not about cite here; by the author of the letter printed in the sixteenth centurycle could not think of Molière, who composed and played his comedies in seventeenth century. This author is unknown make an allegory that this is really unfortunate in all century and in every country: doctors and pharmacists cairns are better off than sick people who are not well-tore. And for these dead officials there is no point de repression. The Jewish prince does not say that; more sa phrase the sub-sentence. That's why Bouis a cru de-see.complete his thought by adding: "without craindre de puncture ».

This argument is therefore not valuable.

The next one at least again. I am surprised that little, the language and history of their race, is present the signature « Chamorré » as a name of moquerie and a pleasant surprise of the two question letters. This word, it is true, means the in the Hebrew language. But these messieurs n'i-do not ignore without thinking that this animal is not meant to be in merrymaking in the Orient as we are; que, In Asia, there are women "of remarkable beauty", and that age is estimated to be close to the horse's head; that "it is still today among some people the constitution of the people » (4). All these things Bouillet's proposals are confirmed by the texts of blisters (1). Let's leave « today » not yet in the East appealing or pleasant appeal, like in the Western Europe.

(1) Dictionary of snowflakes, etc; de Bouillet, at Mot Ane.

FCC 5'w-. 'q !-244T-T- en

- 32 -

These thieves still save themselves in their nation, also good that in all countries, men and women frequently used animal names. We are knowledge of the Bible of the characters who appear layman : Caleb, dog; Zeb, wolf; Hazir, pork; Suzy, horse; Sephora, chicken; Rachel, brebis; Tabitha, cow; Eagle, cow, etc... And precisely Chamor or Hhamor, ane, is still one of these biblical names, and it is the name of a prince, the king of the Sichimites (2)!

The Chamorré and Chamorro signatures are not no risk in themselves. The Hebrew name Chamor a reçu, in Provence, the shape and the ending Provençales, Chamorré, and, in Spain, the shape and the Spanish termination, Chamorro. What this second word also has a meaning in this last language, and means tondu or pelé, this coincidence is absolutely fortunate; elle meet so confidently between different languages-

(1) See Genesis, XXII, 3. It is the mount of Abraham. - Josué, XV,18, and Judges, 1,14. It's Axa's outfit, girl from Caleb. - Ier de Samuel, or, otherwise, des Kings, XXV, 20. The Age Yes, the suit of Abigail, the rich woman of Nabal, and then of David.

of Achitophel, friend of Absalom. – Ibid. XIX, 26, de Miphiboseh, Saül's little sons. – III des Rois, II, 40, de Séméi, parent de Saul. – Ib. XIII, 13, from a prophet, etc., etc. In good d'others endroits, it is worth mentioning the age as the person-distinction marks; I contradict the previous ones because the word Chamor and is employed; ailleure these are synonyms.

(2) In Hebrew H, Chamor, or Hhamor, with the very short.

Les Septantes were translated EH, and the Vulgate Hemor. Gene. ch. 33 and 34.

333

rents, and, in the present case, it does not prove anything.

The intrinsic truths presented by M. Morel-Fatio in favor of his opinion n'ont done aucune solidité. Voyons si ses preuves extrinsèques are millions. fl it brought only one.

4, The presence of these two letters in the name wide Spanish, satirical and sardonic accounts, n'est point a motif that opposes what they want serious and authentic documents. Car a scribe, in him—even very authentic and very serious, can have, due to external circumstances, a ridiculous side or comical, which provokes a disturbing rise. Tell au- It has already happened, for example. the letter condemned to Perpetual galleries were once addressed to King Louis XIV, all the menaces, exposing his plans for destruction geance, and he announced that he would replace it one day on the throne (1). The color and rage of this force, its ideas and his ingenious projects, his writing, everything was be very serious about his work and very authentic; Corn this absurd letter and its contents must not be tolerated evident on the readers' lips that a tear in pitie. The piece would therefore take place in raison of the circumstances where it would be produced, in a collection of curious and pleasant stories, such as new and singular fear of aberrations innom: beautiful human skull. The correspondence The youth of the 15th century is in this case. Very serious in

(1) I cannot make my comparison in time present, because it is too clogged to fit a comparison; car, of our days, the condemned to the galleys and to pays.

– 34 –

she is even and very authentic, as she has known of the Spanish Christians, they are provoking their part a great shock, by comparing his teneur and his retentions with the state of embargo and the impunity where the Jews found refuge in 18th century. It's for this reason that it has passed in the records of curious and amusing poems. like tea moignage of the sombre organ of the Jews.

Mr. Morel-Fatio cannot therefore ask for reasonment the presence of our two letters in the receipts of good words, against their serious character and their thenticity.

5. I add more that all the other circumstances outside in the sources of my honorable opponent place their production, turn against his sentiment.

After that, they seemed to have been composed in Spain, in the second half of the 19th century, probably Toccasion de I' « Statute of cleaning , by an An unknown person who wanted to be ridiculed by the Jews.

Or to these affirmations which are not pointless accompanied by suspects, confronting his data-toriques of the era assigned to the invention.

Admettons an instant that the two Jewish letters are It just seems like a farce and a joke. After your context, the object of pleasure may not be that ci: the embarrassment and boredom of the Spanish Jews, he-sitting between two equally unpleasant things for you, or lose your goods, or renounce your religion. The pleasure sea will be in the suggested solution by the author of Morceau: «You are well-rights of being confined for a while! eh! convert-so you appear! Before you save air

by this means of your wealth, then, in you and you are vengeful of these Christians who annoy you If you continue, you will come to the rulers and to the victors on your tour. »

But for the idea of a pleasant wine in spirit of something, he must go near his material pleasant and more pleasant characters. Or, not only in the second half of the 18th century, but during this twentieth century, these two conditions absolutely absent in Spain, at the point of view who occupy us. The pretended pleasure of the two letters. Jews could not have applied for anything.
By now, for a long time, there were no more Jews in barricaded and hesitant between two parties. The choices
It was made at the end of the previous century: read us Spain and others were abandoned in y remaining, Christians have been doing this for over 60 years years. Here the thought of rappel could come, as in the case of rail transport, a situation that was current and which offered absolutely no comedy, because pleasure does not come to anyone here.

tomber ? Ä
The circonstance of the Statute and the disputes the occasion did not seem to be able to inspire the idea of pleasure. Car the souvenir of this po-The Jewish embargoed site in 1489 did not provide pretext for the person, around 1550. Point to the enemies of the converted Jews, to the partisans of "Statute" here, in this holding of the ancestors of these Jews, found a very grave motif, asking their adherence to the episcopal order; point aux

3

Jews convert themselves here, for the reason of posed, the memory of this situation must be reduced: because the planer laid the flat surfaces on the sincerity of the conversion of their fathers. The question which, as of 1550, was quite serious about ait puissance be formed a third party n'ayant for but that d'en rire and de s'en moquer. This did not happen in the times of year, in Spain fewer than in the rest. Very Certainly the Jews converted not only these, the pleasant maker of these letters could not is a christian. But his invention did not eu, see the circumstances, the character of Benin and Uni-quement. moqueur qu'on lui suppose Ü'eüt was in reality a mechanical work and a calamity attack-very unpleasant to all the converted Jews. On there is no universal point in these letters the Christians, as claimed by M. Morel-Fatio. Read Jewish families become Christians and their pro-Spanish architects would be particularly tough against a fact that is absolutely pleasant for us, and very compromising for their cause. Or, the According to M. Morel, this is not a question of this genre in the history of the era.

It is therefore necessary to rebuild it after the 16th century to find the material and the subject of the play health suppose in these letters.

Hey, good! you can be my honorable advocate, or anything else, the pleasure of summer comes to an end 15th century, at that moment the Jews were really embarrassed. Corn we ask: and where? assured point by of the Jews who do not devaient nothing so are at disposal u QU

that make us think of others. By Christians9 But the Christians, at this moment, proved the sentiments all other than pleasant and tempting vis-opposite the Jews; what caused the indignation and the cold where they made demands of all their parts.

prompt expulsion. Nothing more than the Jews, the Christians of this time there was no mood to be pleasant on their reciprocal situation.

So, not in the last years of the 15th century, not throughout the 19th century, one cannot meet de moment convenient whic place with honesty-knows the composition of a pleasure of this species.

6. Ecartons, by the way, a feasible hypothesis, but it has not been formulated by anyone yet: it is that Julien de Medrano himself would be the manufacturer of the pieces that were published.

militant also against the presumption of a fist-say to the name known, that against this of a false inconnu. Nothing more than others, Medrano could not song to combine a pleasure that never came reason, not about, of his time, and, at least that d'others, he had to have the idea and take the hair off composer and editor of two letters without interest and without gaieté, he who is available for but compiler of amu-sets and pleasant stories, destined to emanate "every conversation is polite and honest". In addition, it would be difficult to explain why and why the contemporary Medrano, where to buy his book, it would be imposing the fatigue of driving too many precise copies of these pieces prepared in advance

THE JEWS, OUR MASTERS. 2

– 38 –

bricks and without any news. We did not understand not prefer that an old copy of this pastiche is is found precisely preserved « in the archives from one of the most famous abbeys in Provence ».
Les moines n'etaient point in the use of loss their time to copy documents without value, sur-all in printed books. |

7. Finally, in his article, M. Morel-Fatio bring him even direct and temporary losses against his opinion; several passages by the authors which he calls the return journey by his base.

After that, three stories were reported, more or less long ago, the question of our two Jewish letters, MM.Castro. The Rios and Kayserling. These authors are émis on Cardinal Martinez Guijarro, or Siliceo, a assertion that renounces two parties distinct and divisible fort. In the first place, they say that these letters were written by the cardinal to say are "Cleaning Statute". With M. Morel-Fatio, we have repudiated this accusation which is not in her-even without a fair shake, and here the sailors are advanced by these stories without presuming anything.

But they confirmed in second place: Siliceo soutint that he had found the original of these letters in the archives of his church of Tolède, and his en circulation of very numerous copies. This affirmation is, without contest, perfectly separable from the pre-can be very real historically, even that the first affirmation of the three-pronged approach is absolute-false light. Car. If we consider these two acts in Even so, they are nothing impossible, that is evident;

\

– 39 –

and if we have regard to the character and the situation of the cardinal at this time, they no longer know very assembleable. In effect, that is what they n'est certainly not the author of these letters, if est more likely, because it is in the conditions of human nature, that is, what is found in his archives, he was impressed by their donation advertising as widely as possible and saying high the place where it took the original price, because these pieces brought so much force to the reason behind-mental of his statute.

He already thought that the three authors were without any support from the Jews, they were instigated by the certhe attitude of this double is, and without any other doubt, Silica has made these letters.

Mr. Morel-Fatio does not say anything about these historical sources. toriens have been able to discover this twice letters and their distribution by the Cardinal of Toledo.
But it is true, and nothing is opposed to this the cross tel, two conclusions revealed which resent the system of our honorable opponent, to know: 4° because the two letters exist in the archives of the church of Toledo, before the episcopate of cardinal, it was said before 1546, then he affirmed the and have found, and that he is incapable of thinking, and, as a consequence immediate and rigorous, therefore They were not manufactured in the second half of the century; 2° then the cardinal recognizing that authentic crues; because it was all too unable to serve documents that he was playing with – part of his character, he did not have any need for man

2

P

– 10 –

to defend his cause; and again like other con-immediate and rigorous sequence: therefore these letters are not cannot be regarded as a pastiche and a pleasure, perhaps a contemporary dress for authenticities. The cardinal was actually which is contemporary of this correspondence; car en 4489, date of letters, à 1546, commencement of son episcopate, it is not yet 57 years old; and Siliceo is available best for anyone with all the possibilities and convenience of ensure the authenticity of these documents.

But M. Morel replies without hesitation: the three historical little cities are of our century; they do not know where they have proven this twice; they don't have preuves ; their authority is therefore recoverable, and only the reason that we are based on our unique gnage. |

Soit. But M. Morel-Fatio gives us another testimonial does not take away the value, and here ' confirm these three stories of the x1x° century.

The compiler, Julien de Medrano, author of the 19th century, in his curious Silva with the head of our pre-my goodness this indication that we already have highest resolution: |

The following letter was found by the guards of « the library of Salamanca in the archives of « Toledo, in search of the antiquities of the kingdoms of Es« pagne. » |

Certainly this indication is applied to the the second letter of the Lord is just as good as the first; because they depend on one another and not on one only one. Also, following this first letter, Medrano place immediately, without repeating his indication, the second letter, reply of the Jews of Constantinople. nople.

– 4 –

No one pretends that this note is solar:

de Medrano him-self. She was given instructions to attend draw the reader's attention to the parts mentioned, and don't

It means to note the interest. M. Morel convient, you remain, formally, that Medrano is in the expensive ; what he says: "I added that the compiler already made « here is the first letter of this note where the allusion to « archives of Toledo deserve only to be published » (1).

. We have no reason to suspect the sincerity and the certainty of Medrano's testimony. We don't see nothing that this compiler made you think and by discovering a detail that was not added to the whole his oeuvre. In what but aurait-the mark with so of precision the origin of the discovery of these pieces, si was it controversial? On the other hand, he was good easy to check and verify by himself the directions and a copy of the Salamanca library.

Medrano's assertion sums up all the points celle de Bouis. Celui-ci says that the texts published in his story have been copied on a manual written in the archives of a famous abbey of Provence. Person in danger of falling asleep because his character as a respectable father ejaculates completely of a menagerie of unused weapons for him, and all caused error in something that had a it is very easy to detect. ms

Medrano's case is the same. I don't know the work, nor the moral value of this compiler; Corn his testimony was found to be applied by all authorities of these Bouis. Yes, in effect, a manuscript of our letters were found very clearly in the 16th century in the archives of an abbey in Provence, there is nothing impossible and unbelievable that there exists a pre-me in the archives of Tolède in the 16th century. par consequently, it was very easy to get to Medrano than Be careful, you have to make an exact copy by himself or by others. The affirmations sem- blable and disinterested by these two authors. publisher their works at a distance of a century are corroding mutually. |

Therefore we must wait for dismantled and absolute ment certainly the sincerity of Julien de Medrano and the accuracy of his note.

Or his words are formal and unambiguous: the letters were found in the archives of Tolède. Donc surely they exist for their time. in 1583, au hello.

We concede well without any doubt that this manuscript The archives of Tolède have not been deposited this year same as the impression of the curious Silva. He loved and have been quite remarkable for a while. But the death of Cardinal Siliceo, in 1557, at the apparition of la Silva In 1583 he was only 26 years old. This is only amenable to conclude that the manuscript of our letters de-exists in the archives of the cardinal, and even before.

This conclusion becomes irrefutable by the assertion by Medrano. The library of Salamanca, assures - t-he found the manuscript of these letters "in cher- chant the antiquities of the kingdoms of Spain ». Assuré-

Ele your De mn

\

while this savant did not search for documents

26 years ago, the death of Siliceo was separated from la Silva's impression, as the author's result, Medrano, and the search engine that informed him of the manuscript, contemporary of the cardinal. So this n'était certainly pas in the links be reported—either in those 26 years, or in the previous 11 years—Siliceo episcopate teeth, contemporary pieces for Medrano and the savant of Salamanca, who are search for historical antiques. Then I gave him the main on the manuscript of our two letters in fouillant and examiner of older documents, documents appearing at least during the era here preceded the cardinal's episcopate, consequently inside in 1646, and comprising the first half of century.

Therefore, the testimony of Medrano, author of the XVR' century, affirms and confirms the assertion of the three stories du xix®; therefore our two letters exist very surely—not in the archives of Tolède at least in the first half of the 14th century; so that's not the point in the second half of the same century that they were can be manufactured; So, at this point, the system M. Morel-Fatio completely broken neck.

From here we arrive at another conclusion victoriously opposed to the ideas of our honorable adverse.

How to explain the presence sensibly in the archives of The Toledo Church of these two letters, if they were not a faux, a pastiche, qu'a pleasant work of some Spanish moqueur

DM DT he Fe ER

ce

li Sere: EA to ES

— e ay

.

J ĩ²² y ³Ü¹Ü¹—m^g~^eD»v un el.

u BR ne

of the 15th century? Whoever entered, deposited and preserve in a certain place these apocryphal pieces and . badines?

At this time, in Spain, there was no point of proper civil archives, only laïques, as we have said today; everything was clerical and between the clergy's hands. In these church archives cathedrals do not penetrate that of serious pieces and authentic, or with good reputation, because this not that by the hand, or by the orders of the sheep, that the documents have been deleted. It is still exactly the same as our days for the archives of our ancestors. Or, I ask, which describes as unbelievable that the pastiche made by the newspaper plai-Saint-Pierre le Figaro, on December 10, 1881, announced a Gambetta's coup d'Etat, in a few years here, carefully collected by order of an French and deposited in the archives of his grandfather?... So, how about these two Jewish letters, that pretend to be a bit of a joke from the second half of the twentieth century, this pleasant pastiche which awoke circulated hand to hand and greatly amused the Spanish at the expense of the Jews, he could have been, before 1583, beautiful environment of this second half of the 16th century, very little by little after its composition, precisely and honorably placed in the archives of the great metropolitan church of Toledo?...It's a moral impossibility. So, on this simple induction, the logic would confirm that our two letters existing in these archives from the 18th century, they were prepared and considered as serious and authentic pieces.

— 45S —

But Julien de Medrano's testimony is trans-This induction led to a certain conclusion. The and mistook these two letters "in search of the antiques of the kingdoms of Spain ». This savant searched made from old historical documents; par consequently he did not get into trouble in the literature books time and place, we meet at some point, you remains in the episcopal archives. So, some years before 1583, our letters appeared classified as historical and historical pieces as authentic and serious manuscripts. Mais elles has already won many awards and prizes, ciennement, at an earlier time even at the episcopal cop of the Cardinal of Toledo, then, he also, the found in the archives and is served as historical documents. So you have to take it off more often that the environment of the 18th century, and recognizes that our letters have received this honorable place almost from your apparition. Car, 57 years old, only slept on – since their date (1489), until the beginning of the episcopate of Siliceo (1546), which was very easy to men of this period to ensure their value historical; and, perhaps it is during this period which were deposited in the archives of the church of Toledo, the result was this rigorous consequence: that we have acquired the certificate of their authenticity and they were made for serious documents.

So our two letters are not just a pastiche, nj a pleasure, and not even been seen as telles. |

The sentiment of M. Morel-Fatio does not seem to support, but

| en

by + -L "
"N L- e E

aa

—

to ane S

%x

He

ae ip lun nut

ge RÉ — .

A0 —

see, at no point. The other opinions are not more solid, we have proven it. So it is not possible to establish with some honesty, not to whatever era, or by whatever means, this correspondence aura it was made. Therefore nothing valid can be objected to the authenticity of our two Jewish letters of the fifth century.

II.

We no longer have opponents before us.

We therefore now examine ourselves—me—with this Jewish correspondence, and watch our lecture all its intrinsic and extrinsic characteristics of authenticity. | |

I. If we consider it the same, this correspondence presents all the characteristics of the truth.

Its subject, form and form, is in complete agreement with the historical circumstances where it dates. verse
At the end of the 15th century, all over Europe the populations become soulful against the Jews. Ils were chased by France, we say Bouis, in 1487. and

They were expelled from Spain and, in 1493, from Provence.
Nothing more obvious than that, between these dates From 1487 to 1492, the Jews became very rich and numerous in these last two contradictions, it was very quiet of the striking cuts around the eyes and the soulful orange against you, nothing more croyable than they are price to prevent your children from this situation among others

danger, menaces and services that we have provided subir, of the embarrassments which they proved on the conduct to follow, when they were mis, you too, in love d'abandon their goods and their passport.

The first letter reproduces exactly this situation and all these impressions. She is a in a short and simple manner, as written by people pressure to be applied with embarrassing tires and hair. She is so, in his ensemble, entirely in harmony with the events of the era. She also agrees very good with one of the main characteristics of the character ` of the Jewish Talmudists who are still attached to their well, and not at all according to the Moses law. De 1a the anxiety that this letter expresses in a way that lives and is natural.

The response of the Jews of Constantinople was same marks of veracity. His debut raises the particular historical circumstances which motivated the correspondence. The fundamental decision is all to be in accordance with the teachings of the Talmud, which per-by renouncing externally to Judaism, pourvu who remains holy of heart. The advice given is energetic and agile; they breathe life and spirit of vengeance against the Christians. These qualities and these sentiments perfectly suited to the Jewish Talmudic distes, and surtout to their bosses. In the whole ensemble of this letter, the circle as a kind of color con-centre, well motivated on the part of these Jewish princes, by redoubling the persecution of your brothers became victims in the West to the end of the 15th century.

If we study to present the two letters in one

= -
"/

-

. . 2

- 48 -

times and in their reports one with the other, we
It will be clear to everyone, after a simple reading, that they are not font that one and only, that in one and the other there is no not a phrase, not a word that contradicts itself, s'écharte du sens general, which is in disagreement with the historical circumstances, and this signals very little the head of a fool. Both are in harmony not perfect between them and also in their ensemble, as in their details, with the time they don't portent the date, with the character, the ideas, the feelings ments, the croyances of those with their signatures attributes. They are therefore authentic.

II. Not only the intrinsic characteristics of these letters, but still all external conditions declare in favor of their authenticity.

4. From the outset, over four centuries, this authentic
The city has not been attacked by anyone. To prove it, quickly conclude that this had been established in the previous-dente discussion. | o.

The text of these two letters was fixed for the pre-once by impression in a book in 1583, quatre-vingt-quatorze and only after their date (1489). It was still easy to ensure that your thenticity. The author of the book deserves it and does not have nobody is interested in trompe l'oeil in this circumstance, not the with none of the least of the world in good spirits; on the contrary, the confirm that the manuscript of these letters has been found in the important archives of a cathedral church, by a serious pioneer, in the context of old documents historicals.

.Whereas one must logically conclude that these texts are

– 49 –

are not contemporary of this author, and they must remonter au moins aux commencements de 16^e siècle.

Or between 1489 and the debuts of that century, there is nothing a few years; on touche à l'origin de cette corres-pondance. So, at this time, these letters were placed in the archives of a metropolitan church, and some of the historical pieces, that is, their authenticity is not done with delicacy for the person.

Numerous copies of manuscripts circulate and are conserve, surtout in Spain, all conform to substance, and the largest number of identical senses and expressions, during the 18th and 19th centuries; and the one does not contest the authenticity of the two last-three in one time and in one country where the descendants
The Jews seemed very interested in the fair.

Fifty years after the first impression,
They are now printed in a counter different, but another writer deserves it, and incapable of thinking. He did not know this puanterior glaciation; what is formally said is first a manuscript discovered in the archives of a Famous abbey of Provence. This second author does not no more small suspicion about the authenticity of this new veau text, which can be found in all appearances on premier. |

No complaint has therefore been received against these letters neither from the contemporary century nor from the subsequent centuries shoes, up to the dix-neuvième. Our correspondence Juive is consequently in possession of an authentic city incontesté for four cents ans. That is why attacks and hypotheses formulated today, After four centuries, nothing had been anticipated. against elle. You rest, we have already dismantled the inanity.

2. Moreover, after the circumstances of the time, of events, places and people, we cherish will bring us to the account the way you don't texts could be composed, their copies were multiplied and preserved, we see that everything is plique and s'age de guía the most natural and the more logical. The ease and the great versatility of These explanations bring a new appeal to the authentic mark of these documents.

The protest of the Jews of France and Germany is trembling- bler for both the Jews of Spain and the Provence. They are under the threat of the same persecution, they must reduce for us a semi-final blable. Finding the closest ones to us others (because those from Italy are not yet in the quietude; The Popes have always protected and defended dus), the Jews of Provence and Spain are in concert between us. Your rabbis are reconciling. The situation is embarrassing. How to protect your interests particular, and especially those of their nationality and your religion? It is necessary that all part and abandon their good and their important and influential position in of the questions where they are established rich and numerous?

Let's stay better, at least for a few of us. et emdenounce Christianity? But after that, what do you do in the interests of their nationality and the Moise law?... Do not decide these questions and cut the difficulties faced by them, the Rabbis between you that the line of conduct will be decalled to the heads of the nation. The Rabbin of Arles is charged with writing, without any effort, for these two motifs: that

BE. eee

Rabbis of Spain, he was in a hurry to keep his letter to the Jews of Constantinople, by the way of Marseille, a city near Arles, and in commercial relations cialis very frequent with the Orient.

The letter of Rabbin Chamor is dated 1894 January 1489. The answer of the Jewish prince is from 21 November—since the same year. Dix months around s'écou—learn between these two letters. This time for us seems well long. But this interval is not explained haircut for this era. First of all, the letter d'Arles should part just on its date? And there is more detail while this day a boat leaves Marseille for the Orient? Between days the departure is done await? The delay could be long. From their side, the Jewish leaders cannot afford to be afraid of nir and de consulted the received letter. Enfin, general reason which is sufficient only to justify this interval of these months, it is that, in the 15th century, the correspondents Dances by sea, like by land, do not operate at all with the speed at which we are accustomed to our days. Bouis, in the 14th century, considers this interval as court: « Those of Constantinople, he says, toast response ».

The Prince of Jews addressed his letter to the natural—ment 4 that he had directly consulted, It is addressed to the Rabbin of Arles. Chamor has dû évi—therefore, engage to transmit this reply to his colleagues, the Rabbis of Spain, heads of different Jewish communities opposed this. They are sending so make a copy each time, and add a copy of his own letter, II was commanded by the circuses"

YES8

c

me yn) ee cote qe: + Cs eae es ee ee a A 'ar It E e

— §2 —

tances, and all that remains is that, in this shipment, the Rabbin d'Arles says to the Spanish Rabbis: here is this that I wrote, as well as that which we agreed upon, and

nation. |

The councils and orders of the Prince of Jews regarmainly the fathers of the family. It is incontestable ; the text is formula. For each subject of the complaint, the prince replies: make your children merchants, cins, canons, lawyers, etc. The Provençal Rabbis and Spanish people were therefore obliged to deliver to every father of the family a copy, and of his letter collective consultation, and circular reply the prince ; and that, after preserving the memory of the persecution which motivated this correspondence and the decision is important for the bosses, and even more so keep all order memories recus and to carry out without delay and without relax.

Before returning to each father of these two family copies, the Spanish Rabbis were necessary and make some modifications due to the difference of places: the failure returns the document in its entirety more understandable to future generations, and his give the highest possible weight in their countries of Espagne. They have also written: the "King of Spain", place of the "King of France"; what was in the truth by report to us. They have glossed over the details of the culiers à la Provence, inserted by Chamor in his letter which has its reason for being under its feather, for the Provençaux and for him, representing . Special, in the context of all the communal sailed Jews of this country, but who were not interested for the Spanish and for their Rabbis. Those are of more qualified their college of « Prince of the Jews d'Spain ». This does not offer anything impossible, nor con-tradition. Car, all in one Rabbin d' Arles, Chamor could, in addition, have the upper direction of all the Judeans of Provence and a certain authority on cells of Spain. For this double reason, it arose carried the title of "Prince v. His signature, accompanied This qualification should be produced by the Spanish Jews gnols a much larger impression than the simple appeal of "Rabbin d'Arles". |

The final phrase of our first letter of offer, in Medrano's text, a slight editorial difference with the Provençal text of Bouis; but the sense is absolutely the same (1). Nothing is opposed to this This modification is still the work of the Rabbis of Es-

These explanations are sufficient.

I always cross more volunteers than this last change, and also all the others who meet trent in the Spanish text of the two Jewish letters At Medrano, Chamor's works are alone. En en-sending to his Spanish colleagues a copy of his letter au Prince de Constantinople, he can still well have modified the editorial team in n points. II is ex-

(1) Provençal text: « We will tell you what you want to say-"because we say what we have to do."

Text in Spanish: « We supply you with wishes to be well « advice and send us as soon as possible the release "that you and your partner will catch you."

– 534 om

because, by analogy, these variants are reproduced duisen quite frequently. How many other changes-ments, it seems to me more likely that the Rabbin d' Arles aura so that he can do it himself, in the two copies sent, the modifications indispensable to bring one or more conformities into line with the different conditions-rent of places, things and people. The unique important matter for the Rabbis of Spain, such as for those from Provence, it was called Chamor, after having raised to all the general sense of his demand, already meet between us, transmit them, with the most perfect exactitude, the tone of the response from the head of the nation.

The Rabbin of Arles simply forgot what he had to say. It is Why, if there are some variations in the text pro-he wrote and wrote in Spanish his letter, quanta à la se-count letter: avis des Satraps et Rabbis v, il n'y in a nutshell; the two texts reproduce a in a completely identical manner.

The different subscriptions that bring us two letters in printed books, and can also in the manuscripts (which I cannot verify) are,
I think, the work of the Christian scribes. But there is no
It was no difficulty to accept that these changes were executed by the Spanish Rabbis in the copies delivered to the fathers of the family, or leagues.

The moment to follow the advice and orders of prince arrived there for the Spanish Jews in 1492, and for the Jews of Provençale, the next year, 1493.

A large number abandons these two contradictions and re-flight to Italy and abroad. You can find a day, in these different places of their exile, some copies, more or less faithful, of this correspondence of their bosses. Can still discover the same texts, more or less intact, or good texts almost apparently, but very probably the expelled Jews from France, Germany and other countries trees of Europe, you have received, too, because that, over the same era, almost, they are confronted with-sulté the princes of your nation. These texts are in found in some archives, or are still imprinted more and more obscured in some old buttons.

– 88 – i

The other Jews, not willing to abandon their country, and comply with the relevant councils,

Judaism, to embrace, in appearance of the least, the Christian religion. But one of the preliminary acts of this abjuration, it was the remise aux hands de the ecclesiastical authority of all Talmud works-diss and others against Christianity which each Jew possessed. And converting into conditions pareilles, all the sons of Israel did not deliver exactly confidently and faithfully, without exception. the writings of their

Rabbis. History proves that they very much dissimulates and steals their best. More il aura sufficient for some more accessible family heads to the crainte, less nice or more gentle, for that, with the Talmudical books, the correspondence of Jewish chiefs from 1489 were taken prisoner by the inquisitors. Nothing wrong with those two letters extremely curious and interesting; and because that contrary to what they say, the young people who copies of these copies were deemed worthy of being stolen

2

BER Zee EEE T

.

-56- "

in books and preserved in the archives of churches, such as the monument to the organ and the malice Judaic.

And that is what, in the archives of the churches where If the abjurations are made, these letters have already been placed alongside historical documents. Ordinary the abjurations and baptisms of the Jews came to in cathedrals or abbatial churches. It is for-what we found of the copies of our letters in the archives of a great abbey in Provence and in , cells of the two cathedral churches of Tolède and Barcelona (4).

Deposited, towards the end of the 15th century, in the archives of this famous abbey in Provence doesn't speak Bouis; ces documents and remained ignored throughout the world. cle, and one can also say during the whole xvir and xvne.
Car, well, Bouis, in. fouling these files for. composer his story of Arles, which he returns to the xvii-clef and print the barrels, they do not take anything good also noted that the book of the indigestible writer, and, for France, they are gradually becoming in their previous positions. That is, from the
For the 14th century, there was no longer any reason for parler, de. question juive interessant l opinion publink.

But in Spain, things are going very differentlyremment. In the midst of this 18th century, she felt a

(1) The Spanish journal The Archives, Libraries and museums printed (volume II, p. 254. 1872) the two Jewish letters, from a manuscript from the archives of Bareci lene, identical, x view of Jewish studies, p. 303.)

n
each

– 57 – | 4

question the young woman who passions all spirits. The « Es- ; cleaning tattoo » of the cardinal archbishop of- –< Tolède, Martinez Guijarro Siliceo excites the most alive! controversial. This is actually the discovery of these letters in the archives of his church which belonged to cardinal the idea of his order, or good is this seu-element according to this order that the memory of these letters came to light, that we were looking for, re-found and published? I don't know. Always is that, should the fact of Cardinal Guijarro, should consequently of the dispute raised by its «Statute», the diffusion of copies of these letters must be considered in Spain (1). 5 Every time you want to know these strange documents and rire; because the impressive color of the Jewish chiefs, their outrecuidance to prevent vengeance and triumph futures of their nation, if their individual advice and their foreign orders were followed, they had to to the Spanish of the 18th century the comb of the organ, the silliness and the absurdity. It is also not eclipsing that, for a part of our days, in Spain, the "copies manuscripts written earlier, that is not "a large « Spanish library which has some a copies in the records of literary mixtures « or historical » (2). Otherwise, it is not more surprising that these letters are frequent cited in light records and "humorous writings" risky » ; because these letters came, at that time, on the side . pleasant and ridiculous, which created a new reality and sailor of extravagances and foils of spirit

(1) Review of Jewish Studies, p. 303.

(2) Ibid.

eg

human. Finally, this multiplication of copies is explained where even the differences in the expressions that present certain manuscripts. The fund is absolutely the same. But he is not lonely at all, except for this no reason to retain the form and delay the text of these letters (1).

So, we travel, the origin of these letters, your destination, their conservation, their presence in the Episcopal and abbatial archives, the multiplicity of their copies, their variants, etc., understand and become. justified also simply and naturally that we can the desire.

All external circumstances and conditions
These documents therefore appear in favor of your thenticity. On the other hand, these two letters are in-completely unassailable.

So they are definitely authentic.

In our century, this old Jewish correspondence, malgré the many Spanish manuscripts, n'aurait war attracted attention, with the exception of some rare erosion, if Europe, and we must say the whole world was not present at this moment of a young woman of greater gravity. From these pieces take a singular fact and present a importance inattendue.

(1) « Mr. de Castro, said the Review of Jewish Studies, printed « in his History of the Jews in Spain (p. 138-141), after
« of the manuscripts which he does not cite, two versions of these letters; « It is identical, in some words, to the text of La Silva, "the other is more delayed, more incolorful; the fund of arms is the « same » (p. 303).

aKo us

This is not more for the Christians of x1x® century should be read and examined these old texts. The mind remains confined to the sky, by all this which happens today, that the predictions are nice Prince Jew of the 15th century found himself in the letter, and specifically by means of advice and orders what he said, and consequently us and the others had to be successful and executed by the nation with an indomitable and eerie perseverance.

This successful, evident, incontestable (we will all the time to raise the principal fears), This success brings to the fore the authenticity of these letters all the weight of the brutal thing. What is it in-possible to admit that the risk is perfect serve the inventions of light or medium-sized enterprises d'he is three or four cents ans.

CHAPTER III.

EXPOSURE AND PRESCRIPTION OF THE CONSEQUENCES WHICH REVEALED OF THE TWO YOUNG LETTERS OF THE XVIII CENTURY.

The authenticity of our two Jewish letters, quite dismantled and, I believe, therefore inattac-quable, the rest to the students at the point of view of consequences which clearly need to be taken into account.

I therefore say: these documents are logically inappropriate-with the three following historical truths:

1° A single command and direction centre:

BE a

=

a ET he

mor IK. ,

" .

NE EL ES ogy: b Ag

— 60 —

tion and a supreme authority which has always been in dispute existed among the Jews since their dispersion until our days.

2° The Jewish leaders and the masses of the nation with you,

Since the 15th century, these leaders have been following this but to their people, unless it was possible, a plan that is at the point of complete success today.

3° The princes of Judah, and this mass the most saddened by their nation, they have passed away, and are still in the present, animated against the Christians of sentiments allude to those of their ancestors, to the first centuries of the church.

To irresistibly demonstrate these three deductions, I will listen and explain to my readers a good number of other documents which augment the force majeure de our main document. Je com- also the thesis that could not be as located in the Francs-Maçons works and Jews.

I therefore have a great deal of citations to make, the question is a question of fact, it is evident that its strongest points must remain in of affirmations about facts. The statements that I The reports were primitively related, that is, in books, or in public sheets. Lus iso- However, they were not demonstrative and could not does not make a great impression on the reader's mind. It was almost as fast as the words and gers of one or two people, who somewhat surprises the observation and very quickly the memory is taken out. Corn the continuous reading of numerous historical documents,

- |! TAN aT LS

- 61 -

don't hesitate to watch the merging. de- is also convincing for the reason that the audition successive d'a foule' of témoins sincères, ensuring everyone and always the same thing. : In these quotes, I followed my preference the chronological order. It can result in something notony in the lecture; but the force and clarity of the demonstration and acceptance. It's an advantage incontestable which must be done in a slightly inconvenient manner.

§ I. - Secular Unit of Command and Direction among the dispersed Jews.

Since their dispersion, the Jews have been permanently formed, among other peoples of the earth, a true and distinct nation, namely its supreme chief and his secondary magistrates.

This power was organized in such a way as to function ostensibly or secretly, according to the circumstances. After the ruins of Jerusalem and until today, the Jews have become more and more keen and have been led as an immense secret society.

Before their dispersion, they were exercised against this occult government genre. Car la secte des Zeles or Zélateurs, who became famous in Judaea, and who penetrated into all ranks of the nation, there was nothing vast political association, dissimulated care under a religious appearance. Pretexting a certain ardent for the Moïse law, it was very real by uniting all the Jews in a general effort against the Romains. And in effect, from the age of 60 to 70, she organizes and opposed to us resistance and revolt.

THE JEWS, OUR MASTERS, | 2* o

– 62 –

I am about to demonstrate the truth of my first statement for three distinct periods: 4° of dispersion in xlesième; 2° of xI° to xve, and 3° of xv° up to the era contemporary.

N

It is historically incontestable that, since their dispersion up to the 10th century, the Jews had a centre visible and sense of unity and direction.

In the ruins of Jerusalem 'by Titus (70), begins the first and greatest dispersion of Jews in the moon. The second is located near Adrien, after the made by Barchochébas (135). From this era, The Jews were definitively chased from Jerusalem and Those here, under Titus, escape on the sword, to flames and captivity, fleeing to various against Europe and Asia.

Let us direct you in the countries located in the south and to the west of the Judea, in different parties of the Roman Empire, especially in Egypt, in Italy and just-in Spain. These Jews called themselves Jews of Occidental dent. Their boss immediately stayed in Palestine, the more located in one or more of the two cities of Japhné and of Tiberias. It portrays the name of the Patriarch of Judea.

The stories also mention the establishment of these Jewish patriarchs. Less than the triumph of the Romans and the terrible vengeance that they exercise, it is a

– 63 –

there are many lévites and simple Jews who do not purify resort to imitating the example of their brothers and quitting-their nation. Cached during the first times here Succeeding in the war, they repent and repent-rurent of what they foresaw of not having any more craindre. They are trying to rally in Judaism – more possible devastation to their nation, and still nir the exercise of their worship. The authority focuses on-turbulently in the hands of these wise men, and more especially from the one between you who chose to cook, and here we confuse the name of the Patriarch. His authority augmented to measure that increases the number and the resources of the Jews established in Palestine. To this group will soon be resolved, spiritually and politically-ment, all the Jewish emigrants in Egypt, in Italy, in Spain and other parties of the Roman Empire. The patriarchs exercise a very great power over you-torité. They decided on conscience and affairs cases important to the nation; they run the synagogues, like superior chefs; they established taxes; They called the officers “appointed” who por-received their orders from the Jews of the most re-culées, and who collected the tributes. Your wealth devinrent immense. These patriarchs agreed on a ostensibly or discreetly, according to the provisions of the Roman emperors at the mercy of the Jews. In 429, Théodose the Younger forbade them from establishing of perceiving taxes. Since then it is no longer this-tion of them in history.

These patriarchs of Judaea descended from all

Tribe of Levi. Their succession lasts around 350 years.
In any case, as we see, they do not fear

– 64 –

actually in Israel, during all these times, that secondary power, relevant to a higher authority and sovereign.

The other part of the Jewish population, which left the Palestine after the ruins of Jerusalem, it returns to the countries located in the north and west of their country, in the Syria, Armenia and Georgia, in Babylon and Persian. According to the Rabbis, this is the elite of the nation large part and the majority of families descending from

David who takes this direction and establishes it in Babylon and in the local provinces. The historical States of Georgia and Armenia confirm this assertions of rabbinical writings, recognizing that the Israelite element dominated in the Georgia of the premiers centuries which suivirent the dispersion of Israel, and that the royal family of Bagratides or Pagratides, in Armen, it was the glory of the descent of the kings of Judah and portrayed in his arms the harp of David (1).

These Jews, in opposition to those who emigrated
In the West of Jerusalem, Jews from the East called for it.
Their bosses, members of the royal family of David, rent the title of Princes of captivity or exile. Read Jewish writers make a big difference between the Patriarchs of Judaea and the princes of exile. The premiers, they say, did not mean that the lieutenants of seconds. The princes of captivity avail the quality and the absolute authority of the supreme chiefs over all the dis-Persecution of Israel. After the tradition of doctors, they
There were institutions to take up the place of the old

(1) See Mizkheth and Iberia, notices about Georgia, by M. de Ylleneuve: Paris, Douniol, 1875.

– 65 –

roy ; and they have the right to exercise their empire on the Jews from all over the world. Pendant de longs siècles, their habitual foot Babylone. They exer- cèrent their sovereign action against the Jews of the West by the Intermediate of the Patriarchs of Judaea, and on the Jews of the East directly by themselves and by a in a public manner, from the beginning of the twentieth century, thanks to welcome to the various dynasties from Ba- Bylonie gradually becomes weaker.

The first, the princes of captivity, don't speaks history of Huna (ninth century). It was contemporary rain of Judah the Saint, patriarch of Judaea, who re- knew very well his own inferiority and the auto- sovereign rite of passage of the prince over him.

The Rabbins who tell us these things must best people know the intimate history of their nation (1).

(1) To cite a single rabbinical verse, but it plays ' together with the Jews of the highest authority, Zalmud of Babylon, over the centuries, expressively affirming existence and power sovereign of the Princes of Captivity. Interpreting in the treaty Sanhedrin, folio 5 recto, the famous text of the prophecy of Jacob (Genesis 49:10): "The sceptre shall not be blown away in Judah: They are, they say, the Echmalotarques, Princes of captivity, Babylon, which receives the sceptre of Israel. d (See V Harmonie between the Church and the Synagogue, by the Knight Drach (former Rabbin converti), tome le, page 174, Paris, 1844.)

I reject the scriptural interpretation of the Talmud, which is false; we drink more water; but his testimony to existence and the authority of the Princes of Captivity preserves all its value. The rabbinical writers who edited the Babylonian Talmud lived in the places and under the power of the Princes of the captivity. Plus, everyone else, they already knew what authority, and indeed the secret authority, of these princes – on the Jewish nation. l

| =

– 66 –.

In the twentieth century, the Caliphs of the Orient, effrayed by the power and the awe of the princes of captivity, declare the enemies of the Jews. [ls close their numerous and thriving academies, disperse their doctors, and led to the death of their Prince Ezechias (1005). This persecution forces the Jews of the East to abandon but, almost all, the contradictions that they have become habitable in peace for a long time. Let us flee to Arabia, the others, in larger numbers, are withdrawing to the West, and even to France and Spain (1).

Since the present century, history has spoken no more of the Jewish princes in captivity (2).

IT.

This would be an error of thought that this silence of The story is equivalent to a real disparity of the princes de lexil, and that, since that century, the Jews

Prince of captivity. (Ib. p. 173.) Racine probably, I believe»
"Exna, lien, and Ap, commander, reign. |

(1) See for sources and details: History of the Jews since Jesus Christ now present, etc... by M. Basnage, volume V-III, Irish party, p. 1 to 112, passim. La Haye, 1716.–Les Juifs d' Occident, etc., by Arthur Beugnot. Preliminary discourse, p. 20, et Part III, pages 15 et seq. Paris, 1824. – Dictionary encyclopedia of Catholic theology, etc., translated from the edited by I. Goschler, Chanoine, etc. 3rd edition. Paris, 1870, tome XII, article Juif, etc., etc... (I therefore cite this Dictionary under this title is also available: Goschler's Dictionary.)

(2) The famous traveling rabbinic, Benjamin de Tudèle, pretends to have a, still regnant in Babylone, of his time, at 12th century, but his testimony is unique; no other author dentemporain n'en speak j it is not certain that

| e367 – |

There is no longer any central power or sovereign chiefs. Until now the stories have been formally firmé; but it is because, according to the procedures of the old criticism, they only understood of exterior history. Today the light is made sur tout un order de causes in the events of historiques, sur le quel one n'avait point porté précédemment so that you have serious attention. We have applied, to our belief, we are extremely Catholics, that since For over a century, religious and political upheavals tics and social, in the two worlds, are dependent, the plus. souvent, of occult causes, which only render truly explainable and understandable. This cannot be any more beautiful: in the depths of history apparently, he is you, and there is still a story basement.

Because the life and actions of companies are Cretes, and the Masonic Juvenile in particular, have possible and are continued under the terms of the company external and official, for over a century, we can legally induce that, in the centuries ago, the Jewish nation had already been constituted almost entirely in secret by the speculators, before its dispersion, but still well pu continue to be governed by the same manner, after this dispersion. It is without doubt one of the basic means dont s'est serve la Providence divine to preserve these people are intolerant of other peoples. par consequently, nothing is too much to believe that, all in dis-noticed that the Rabbin had personally traveled Taconite: | i

fo
3

ee
paraissant of external history, the Jewish princes, these words of captivity or exile do not point out in reality, but Prince Ezechias brings you success—those who continued to govern Israel in the brown and secret.

It is easy, effective, to understand and accept as very possible and very probable as these two series of successful events in the history of the Jewish nation, this society is universal and perpetually secret. Phone tower like Israeli chief conductors and played a role known, in ostensibly exercising authority, to of favorable periods; then, before the persecution violently, or simply in difficult times, They are hidden and perpetuated by success-mysterious and ignored situation. Never fly any further to the public scene during the centuries, the existence of these men have not mentioned the exterior by anyone documents. From there the stories have ended and affirmed that they no longer exist. And depending not the people themselves, not even the institution there was no need to sit and work in the course of the following centuries. The history of the first times of The Papauté then offers a very obvious phenomenon and also trumpet for the 8 puennes of the Roman Empire. |

These inductions, very legitimate and very probable by They themselves are transformed into historical conclusions. which are certain by our two Jewish letters of 1489.

After having the premiere, one is welcome to ask for it-why the Jews of Provence and Spain are all search for advice or direction in

- 69 - |

their anxiety and their determination + for the Moïse law »° Car, if really then their embarrassment is on a point of religion and a touch of conscience, for-
What are they addressed to their own Rabbis?

Everything close to us, and even everything to do with us, they arrived, at this time, by many doctors in their sacred science. In particular, in these times-there, lived precisely in Spain, occupying a social position of the most educated, minister and advisor of the kings, the very famous Rabbin Abrabanel, and one of their doctors the most considered and the most heard. It was certainly even to your useful advice and of saying decisions. So the Jews of Spain and de Provence has not yet found sufficient authority pouring himself into this doctor, nothing more than all the others, it is clear that they were looking the highest possible for you, even higher at among the most renowned doctors and rabbis.

Where this letter of consultation is sent to Constantinople by the Spanish and Provençal Jews we con-to conclude logically that, at the fifth century, the Jewish people received a supreme religious blessing, residing in this village.

But if we examine with attention the text of this consultation and response, we understand immediately that it did not appear in this correspondentpondering of a purely religious question.

In reality, the Jews of Provence and Spain not have any difficulty of conscience in particular circumstance; car they saved well which they were completely free, at all points of

UT RER Leni ' on Sd

- 70 -

see, or to leave the country, or to remain an apostate.
= The example of the first party disappeared from their possession by a large number of your brothers from France and d'Germany. From the beginning, in the previous centuries, once, in parallel occurrence, their ancestors already done something else. On the other hand, they did not ignore the point that their sacred code par excellence, the Talmud, and obeyed by all your doctors and by the entire nation, above even the books of Moïse, they allowed absolute change of religion in appearance, in the case of necessity, because inside they remain faithful to Judaism. It seems then that they There is no real need for consultation wise man, and that your letter was saris but. Corn, pour well understand what they are doing « incertain of this qu'étaient fair for the Moïse law », il must con-naître the true sense of this last expression.
Among the Talmudist Jews, this is certain, "the law, the cult, the religion of Moïse » express the same idea and they are the same ones that "the Jewish nationality".
For us, religion and nationality are not enough. The variety that "what we believe in is for the Moïse law" the interests of our nationality, for the advancement of our nation ». The truth is that the consultation Jews from Provence and Spain were born in donner knowledge of the persecution that they subissaid to their brothers of the Orient, and then surpassed the demandthe thing that these between you here, do not leave abandon their country, embrace Christianity, must be done in the interests of the nation juive. And the expectation is that the answer is

r

– 71 –

Constantinople doesn't talk about anything else. d Faites– you Christians, because you cannot do anything elsement », if you want to stay; but always guard the "Moise's law in the heart". That is not the decision you Talmud. Then, that's the capital and special point from the response of the Jewish leaders: in our interests |

nation, « do things that your children deserve » médecins, pharmacists, chanoines, lawyers, etc., etc., afin which by then you can come to remove the chrétiens, to put them under the yoke, to revenge you of you and to dominate the world. It was therefore a line of conduct political and social activities that are required, and that, In effect, the Spanish and Provençal Jews were welcomed. Because we explain perfectly why, leaving between all their doctors and rabbis of the congregation sins and even at home, they are addressing you, loin, in Constantinople, because that must be tenant for us of all evidence, in this city réssaid their superior, not only religious. but also political; there was the head and heart "of the nation,

In addition, we learn the text of the second what was this boss, his origin and his power. Incon-testamentary this "Prince of Jews" did not make her discover Lexis in Constantinople towards the end of The 18th century cannot be anything other than a succession of these princes of captivity who reigned at once pes », that this prince is to his advisors and assessors-seurs, Perse and Babylone appear to rally.

This boss exercises supreme authority because he is which is addressed, in difficult circumstances, the

/

– 72 –

Jews from many Western nations. It is by him that they are subject to formal orders and a clean traced conducting line; and these orders and this direction has been accepted and persevered follow the whole nation, as we test plus loin. This man left me alone if the prince of Constantinople has not yet become the supreme chief of all the Jews. Like his predecessors, he wants to demolish completely unknown, except for the "non-Jews", because it does not signify that the initials of his name or their names.

For this and historically, it was just

"Here we have a chain of succession hidden, but intermittent, of the princes of the people Jewish woman of the 15th century. We give women to understand this one passed away in the year 1005, after death the prince of Lexile Ezechias.

Obligations to return to the country no Successors stop and fix themselves, by preference, to Constantinople. This city was a central point between the Orient and the West. From there they continue, secure, and secretly, to monitor and diriger all the Jews replenished in Europe, in Asia and in Atrique. |

At this time, the Jews found themselves established in large number in almost all the euro-peninsulas located west of Constantinople, in Italy, in France, in Germany, in Spain, etc... North of this city, in our current Russia, there is the-then the fifth century the Jewish Kingdom of Armenia and the Georgia, under the Jewish dynasties of Pagratides and des Rupees, then the BUND: which has not been reversed

ee

in the 14th century by the Mogols; and further north, a another Jewish kingdom, the Kingdom of the Chazars, founded of the last century, on the banks of the Volga. South of Constantinople, in Africa, is already there, before the Christian, a Jewish state that has long been a persecutor you christianism. In Arabia, the racial population Judaism took a very high number and was conspicuous titled in the kingdom, before Jesus Christ, according to all probability. And of his kings, in the fourth century, especially the Christians. It is in Constantinople, in the Oriental Indies." flourished, since the twentieth century, the Jewish kingdom of Crangor, which lasted a thousand years. Read

Jews invaded China where they were arrested | made by very respectable establishments (1). Constantinople was therefore, by its position, the stay the most convenient for the Jewish princes to portée of conductor his brothers of the race disseminated on an extremely long stretch. It is the centre where they have been governed since the fifth century including vement.

III.

Following our reasoning by induction,

We say: from the 15th to the 19th century, the succession of the princes of Israel can perpetuate everything too

(1) See the old building called M. de Villeneuve, Notices on the Georgia; Bouillet's historical dictionary, 1880 edition, in the words Armenia, Georgia, Pagratides and Rupen; et Diction-

1h –

well, and without any more difficulties, than from x1° to xv'; et, consequently, during these last four centuries, The Jews have themselves a unique centre of government – not and supreme boss of all their nations. It is very likely that these princes have always been in the same families and who have lived in the same place, in Constantinople.

We explain this reasoning: by three factors – formulas and two incontestable facts, témoignages and things that appear in our 19th century.

I. In 1815, a famous German writer, “and luminaries of the School of Philosophical Journalists, dont, consequently, the testimonial should not be suspect, and who has been studied with greater care question of the Jews and their situation at that time (1). J.-L. Kubler, wrote these lines very remarkably in the meaning of our present thesis:

a The Jews form a political-religious sect, placed – “under the wise theocratic despotism of the rabbis. “Not only are they separated and conjugated « Between us, in the light of certain religious dogmas, « Young, but they constitute a hereditary society, « everything to be done, for everything that concerns life Ordinary, habitual trade, little education.
« Pleasant, excluding all progress, and taking care of « between us the spirit of caste and family by « the formal suspension of all alliances with per« sons of another religion... Judaism does not exist – more summer, even today, from a political perspective,

(1) The question of whether the court had made one of the first decisions sessions of the Congress of Vienna in 1816, nt –

“religious and physical, a spirit of caste here, by « the rigueur, the inexorable partiality of his partisans, « It doesn't matter in any other class of men in Europe. The Jews form ALL OVER THE LAND, AFTER

« INSTITUTIONS, IDEAS AND POLITICAL PRACTICES « Religious people who penetrate deeply and deeply « in a manner in social life, that the subjects of Israelites « of a Christian state constituent, under good reports a essentials, A STATE IN THE STATE (1). "

A fifty-year-old woman, a man more serious still, and everything is the same, we come from the bottom of Eastern Europe.

In 1868, three members of the legislative chamber of the Russian States, including the President himself of this assembly, presented to its government a law draft restoring civil and political equality
The Jews are very widely established in Romania. This Jews are all of the Talmudist faith, the true Jews of middle age (2).

(1) See Goschler's Dictionary, on the Emancipation of Jews. See Kubler, coup d'oeuvre of the diplomatic deliberations of – Congress of Vienne, t. III, p. 390. – The addition of the Universal Biography of Feller, by Perennès (volume XIII.

Besançon, 1838), which also includes the title of this work by Kubler:

Commentary on the acts of the Congress of Vienna, 1814 and 1815, 8 vols. in-8°. – Sur J.-L. Kubler, see these two dictionariesnaires.

(2) M. Ernest Desjardins, professor at the University, in a brochure entitled Les Israelites en Moldavia, 1868 (la Moldavia is a province of the Russian States), the skin in these terms:
"They are ignorant, superstitious, avaricious, wise, usurpers, fourbes and hiding sales v. – It's all good to make a Jew you Talmud,

wu Ta. LS

A 2° – 2-235 – ee a Re À qu

– 16 –

We present in the presentation the themes of this project

« The Romanian population is inundated of a part race. hostile, who formed, on the side of the nation Romania, a foreign nationality and opposed to the homeland territories of celle-ci... The Jewish race is distinguished from Romanians by their origin, by their hearts, their language, their religion, its morality, and especially because it obstructs remain absolutely isolated from society, and to preserve all fusion with other foreign races... The Jews, forced by need, subjected to extreme pressure to the torment of the non-Jewish states, but they cannot agree to become an integrated team. They are not can reveal to your spirit THE IDEA OF THE JEWISH ESTATES, idea that we GO, AT ALL OCCASION, to defend ourselves and live by all their actions. They are not alone a religious sect, they are overwhelming the expression of certain racial and ethnic indiscriminate particularities and certain invincible fears of NATIONALITY. That is why the Jew of Spain, of Anglia, of France and of the Pologne, it's not Polish, it's not French, it's not English, it's not Spanish, HE STILL REMAINS JEWS, like his ancestors biblical times... At the Jews, LA LO! RELIGIOUS is also LA LO! CIVILE, and vice versa... She is in "the same « time A POLITICAL AND SOCIAL CONSTITUTION which suits « the individual in all his actions and in all the « eras of his life... and which concentrates in the word _« JUDAISM (1)... Judaism, some part of which is

(1) I ask the reader to compare these words well with the Russian deputies with what I affirmed most about the true sense of the words "the Moïse law". It is incontestable

– 77 – |

"find, it is forced from the former A STATE IN THE STATE" (1).
With the help of these two reports, another published ciste, M. Herman Kuhn, comes to mind, seven-five ans after Kubier, in the last year of 1881, that the political and social position of the Jews in Germany is entirely the same old thing.

"The position of the Jews, we say, is far ahead.

« geuse. On the side of common civil law to all citizens, they have preserved their old franchises, their corporate and autonomy rights... Every
The Jewish community manages it, lives taxes, called their officers and rabbis, directed their Breuses and rich Jewish associations play a immunity, absolute inviolability... The Judges VERY LIKELY TO FORM A STATE IN THE STATE (2). »

The philosopher Kubler wrote in 1815, the thirteenth Russian deputies, in 1868, the Catholic journalist Kuhn, in 1881, said to the Jews, "We see, absolutely

ARARAA a A

that in our days, as in the past, these expressions "law of Moise, religion, worship, Judaism", ont la same meaning that « Jewish nationality, Jewish race, government-ment national, constitution juive, État juif».

(i) See Israelite Archives, IX and X. 1868. This journal 'Jewish

Paris overwhelmed by the Russian newspapers and published this important document, in the field of combat, because which makes one too familiar and stigmatize vices, idiotic ideas and revolutionaries and subversive projects against the Jewish nation.
I give you more than a few other extracts, not the least interesting that " they are. See also The Jew, Judaism, etc., by M. Gougenot of Mousseaux (Plon. Paris, 1869), which produced it in large quantities; chap. XIe, p. 444 et seq.

(2) V. Review of the Catholic World. The question Juive en Alle-magne, no. 15 October 1881,

22^e ð—³dä · imm~ 7 — ,— ũumV] Ä ³1w1. —_of—.. ES

E TA Es,

— 78 —

bright the same things. They show us the Germany and Romania, in a few thousand places of distance, living and acting in a situation of that intellectual, political and social everything is identical-tiques.

We therefore know with certainty that these three writes the real political and social state of the Jews in our

But for the Jewish race to "stay put to rest" isolated » and « to preserve any fusion with other foreign races », so that the Jews always in their spirit this "idea of the Jewish State v, and this "invincible reverence for their nationality" that all their actions, on all occasions, are strong and alive, so that the Jew "remains always Jew", so which can constitute, in part, the Eloï- let's hear from others, "UN ESTABLISHED IN ESTABLISHMENT", and formerly « ALL OVER THE LAND » « A SPECIAL NATION, AYANT HIS INSTITUTIONS, HIS IDEAS AND HIS POLICY PRACTICES TICKETS and religious », the obvious necessity must be in spite of the fact that the Jewish people are with us, and today, A CENTRE OF AUTHORITY AND DIRECTION, A SOVEREIGN POWER who maintains these ideas and in this physical and moral situation, and also must be universally observed and compelled.

His exclusive religion and his sacred code, the Talmud, despite their immense influence, they never got suffice alone to produce this impressive result of his to cross nations and centuries without being not in his croyance, not in his race, not in his son indomitable nationality. There you are without a doubt a special action of the divine Providence that can appeal to a miraculous sense. More than ordinary God does not point to the people alone, to say, to strikes of miracles. Employed most intensively in they guide the general roads and the means humans. It is just that he directs and protects his church.

– 79 –

If Catholicism does not reach you in the Papauté roman a powerful centre of direction and authority, It is incontestable that the Evangelists and the writers toliques n'auraient jamais pu alone maintain the unit and the perpetuation of its beliefs and institutions, and that since. long time nations. Catholics and the Catholicism seemed to diverge.

It is by a means analogous to that of the Jewish people preserved religiously and politically during the centuries of its dispersion throughout the world.

II. This breach of moral order has been corroborated by two irreconcilable and well demonstrated facts in the sense of our proposition.

of the most distinguished in France, Rabbin Paul Drach, de Strasbourg, converts to Catholicism. Dragon has made long and serious studies on all rabbinical writings, and on the Talmud in particular. II was director of the Jewish school in Strasbourg. The title and the diploma of Rabbin, doctor of law, which he has was conferred by the principal great Rabbis of France, the works that failed to publish with successful in the defense of Judaism, estimation and self-rite of passage did not play against his coreligionists, he said "the expected first victory in Great Rabbin who would come to vacate. » Paul Drach fit the sacrifice of all these advantages and of all: these

– 80 –

Expectations: He rejects Judaism and enters the Church catholic. But everyone looked at him as if he were terrible persecution. The woman abandons, enemy named with her three children. « The good competition. the Jews are needed for this valuable company », | which was a vengeance of the synagogue against Drach. "The ravisseurs take their measurements well, that the search for the most active authority » no parvin- rental point to discover the direction that will take you fugitives. "We are facing investigations into the po- "run up to the moon. trace of the passage of four « individual from Paris to London, via Calais and « Douvres. » | |

This takes place in the capital of the Angleterre, where the The Jews hide the scoundrel and children of Paul Drach. Here, under a false name, Mr Drach with his children « be displayed publicly by the Jews of this « city, always in relation with those 4 Paris. These last ones, at the rest, saved very well "She was a refugee, without having to learn « of their coreligionists from the other side of the " Some ".

The unfortunate father, in despair, intends to take legal action "to rape small children, in the but, not « to take the plunge, but to find the trace « of his children. Several mandates for comparison « furent decerned against the Isradlites that we saved « perfectly instructed the retreat of Madame « Dragon. » We don't put any effort into it.

« The police continue to misery Drach,

« the knowledge of the youngest Jewish children, not only

– 81 –

« element in Angleterre, but still in all countries 'Where is Jacob's race dispersed?' The incontestable « address of the French police &choua against the pro-
_« It is very discreet that the Jews save themselves from watching « Goyim (1), every time it is of interest to him-« WHAT A NATIONAL ACT...

"... That the slits can be measured by the authorities of all countries against the vast and permanent conjugation RATION OF A PEOPLE here, VERY IMPORTANT NETWORK THAT SOLID, JETTED OVER THE GLOBE, PORTABLE HIS FORCES TOUT 0% surgit an event that interests the Israeli name-lite ! " |

After having used the effect of the gamble, or plutôt by the action of divine Providence, which his children found in London, Drach poses for himself this objection: «But how do they get it,
'« These little innocents? He addressed it to the authorities,
"The English legislature recognized, as we do, the « Father's rights over his children? At its premiere in-« Marche, the Jews, masters of his family, use DES « BIG MONTHLY THINGS DON'T DISCOUNT, the hardest part is DISCOUNTING "RAY for always!"

That's why Drach decided to hire the rude employer. N his tour succeeded in returning to his children and to the lever of the hands of his enemies.

[the term is long spoken, assuring that it is "trustworthy", and "applied the testimony of a very large « number of recommended people and plus-« evidence of exact authenticity (2) ».

RR " A

(1) Non-Christian Jews.

(2) See Harmony between the Church and the Synagogue, volume 1*, 3*

– 82 –

the victim, accompanying the report, forms a presumption with the greatest force to support our thesis. Cars, here, there is no stranger who speaks to the people Jew, it is one of his principal members, a Rabbi of the most estimated and the most verses in the science of the religious law, which must therefore be perfect- while instructing those who regard their nation, their state, of its organization, of its direction, of its governing ment. After his formal statements, the Jews, 19th century, forms an immense and permanent con- juration ; They are constituted as a kind of re- it looks too solid, it wraps around the moon; this is a people of conspirators; he is a woman and a man discretion and habits even to his small en- fans. He, Drach, was the victim of this organization- tion that, in his quality of Rabbin, he knew that well and generously gave himself over to his family.

But the consequence that comes with the most full evidence of this fact and of veridical assertions According to this old Rabbin, the Jews are not capable blemishes of action, of joy "for two years Contestable address of the police » from a large country, to inspire « a deep discretion among the smallest of their children in all the countries where the race of Jacob », disposing of « large means », former "permanent agreement", to be "a network vast autant that solidly jetted across the globe," of power « send your forces wherever an event occurs here

p. 1 to 89. – In his book, M. Drach appropriated the text All these events are done by one of his friends. |

= 83 –

interest the Israeli name because they have a centre of authority and sovereign power, from where the organisation the formation of an affair, the word of order, the movement and the direction, which is universally recognized and obeyed by all of us throughout the world.

The second makes me more reluctant yet that the first.

A quarter of an hour later, in February 1840, Father Thomas, French Capuchin, and his servant were assassinated in Damascus (Syria) by the main Jews of this city. The murderers delighted with this two Christian victims and receiving their blood,

'their traditions.

The disparity between these two men eveilla immediately general attention. Informed by voice public, the consul of France, Mr. the count of Ratti-Menton, defending the country's justice and claiming the re-search and find the perfect match. By care and under the direction of Chérif-Pacha, supreme magistrate and Governor General of Syria, a process is underway slowed and actively slowed, like the Jews as-. Sassins are convinced of their horrific crime, and they expect the most favorable and by their own avex.

Four between us receive their thanks for having fact of revelations; the other two are condemned to mort.

But, at the first news of this matter, the Jews from all over the world are meeting in action. The European press, which has already been in large group sold, learn a long concert of rehearsals minat ions bruyantes, not against the assassins, but against-three assassins, against the French consul, against the justice of the Damascus. We are trying to keep the promise, the ex-cuser the murderers; on calomnie lé victims and all those who fill the castle with merit from a hero is abominable. At the same time as Israel's delegates is impressive on all sides, offering enormous sums-me to subordinate false témoins , gain the juges, obtain the acquisition of the coupables, then the delaying the execution, finally thanks to the prisoners.

– 84 –

One of these Jewish deputies, sent by the Israelis, lites of Europe, leading the English Jew 'Sir Moses Montefiore and the French Jew Isaac-Adolphe Crémieux (1), parvint 4 heard from Méhémet-Ali, vice-king of Syria and Egypt, who agree, for nothing, to make at the liberty of the assassins.

Receiving the appreciation of what was done by one of the men who best know the secrets of Jewish world, Rabbin Drach, don't. we venons to recount the trials:

« The assassins of Father Thomas in Damascus: said he,

« vengeance of the law BY THE EFFORTS OF THE JEWS « OF ALL COUNTRIES. A delegation of Israelis from Mar-"which was transported from France to the East for...
"The Egyptian pact cites the grace of the coupables.
"The silver played a key role in this matter. »

(1) This Crémieux, who appeared in 1840, is the man of our two revolutions of 1848 and 1870, and the famous president of The Universal Israelite Alliance, founded in 1859, is dead.
11 February 1880, and not 1874, as he said by mistake of print-sion the book Francs-Maçons et Jewís, p. 334, note.

– 83 –

You have to watch that Drach makes this reflection, describing the abandonment of his children, and in reconborn, not only its own impulse, but also to the authorities of all countries against vast and permanent conjugation of a people... who his forces wherever an event occurs that interests the Israelite name » (1).

In this event, I only noticed a single point,
. This is the perfect ensemble with everything you need, ways and means, the Jews of Europe and Asia are Venus in the safety of her brothers from Damascus. Where we are deyons conclude forcefully that, if, of our days, Israel does not have a center of unity and direction, If the Jews of each country do not form the same impoverished, independent and almost foreign one of the others, if, in each case, against and in the two hemispheric regions, they were not all separated and mandated by a universal authority recognized and obéie, how it would be-they occupied some miserable assassins, convaincus, condamnés and per-so in a coin from the Orient? How they auraient-them pu s'entendre si unanimated de all les points de Asia and Europe to act in the same way, and surtout to reunite these gold coins that he fell from-think in the company, and pay at the Muslim pacha in exchange for the benefit of these criminal offences (2)?

(1) On the harmony between the Church and the Synagogue, t. 1", page 79, grade 6. |

(2) On this abominable crime of Damas, on the details of the pro-these and on the maneuvers of the Jews of the whole world, see: the Authentic parts of the process which are deposited with the Ministry of

Of these two things, like the three testimonies of cities,
The result is that very certainly, in the 19th century, The Jews were princes and supreme chiefs of the which, on the entire surface of the globe, they are commanded of and directed.

Consequently, since this fifth century, where a do-We authentically prove their existence, justin our dizzying nineteenth century, including the search the resignation of these chiefs took place temporarily.

This must be accepted as incontestable our first proposal: a unique centre for command and direction and an authority over The first uncontested one has always existed among the Jews since their dispersion until our days (1).

of Syria, from 1840 to 1842, and the complete procedure directed born in 1840 against the Jews of Damas, etc., by Achille Laurent, member of the Christian Society. 2 vols. Paris, Gaume frères, 1846 ; 30 The Friends of Religion, volumes OV and CVI, from April to September 1840, and the universe of the same year and of the same months; 40 I' His-Rohrbacher universal roof, book 91°; 5° Le Juif, le Ju-Daism and Judaization of the Christian peoples, by the knight Gougenot des Mousseaux. Paris, Henri Plon, 1869, the lady of the interesting extracts from the pieces of the Damascus process.

On the apparent, perpetually more reiterated facts, where children have been the victims, and their despair and their influence more in pluscroissante you can see the universe every day of the month of January 1859 and this same journal of April 5, 1879 and June 18821

(1) The Jewish doctors and rabbis do not dare to of the interim existence of this central authority in its nation, to annihilate the power of the famous prophecy of Jacob in regarding the Messie's situation and ultimately his accomplishment.

In Genesis (49-10), Jacob cries out: (No resurrection sceptrum of Judah, and dux, of femore ejus, donec veniat hitendus est. » « The sceptre shall not be burned by Judah, nor the prince of his posterity, to the extent that this one should be sent. »
We have seen better the interpretation and translation of

A necessary décolletage corolla. This is central torrential rain, since the nineteenth century, an authority completely ignored in his name and inconvenient as she is sitting, she is therefore exercising in a completely hidden way. Because when we I have already affirmed that the Jewish nation has been leading, since almost nine centuries, like an immense so-secret society. The story in effect is nothing more than that Talmud: «The sceptre is not defiled in Judah: these are the « Echmalotarques, princes of the captivity in Babylon, who tien- "is the sceptre of Israel". In the second part of the text, the Talmud translated by a doctor, in the prince's place.

The sceptre is the external, visible and recognized symbol of authority royal, of sovereign authority; it cannot therefore be designed and pre-means an external, visible and contagious authority. Or none of these characters are not suitable for the authorities who are new and who are still the Jews, since their dispersion. The authority of the princes of Vexil to Babylone was not, however, a "shadow of authority", like Anne and Caiphe in Jerusalem, at the time of Jesus Christ. Something great that she felt morally and secretly- ment on the nation, externally and visibly, it was Herod, it was the Roman governors, it was the Caliphs of Babylon lonie here, of course, held the sceptre. A like the other era, the sword was taken from Judah; he was no longer in Judah. We believe that the Jewish Kings of Armenia have been descending songs by David. They have truly held the sceptre. But what do you think nothing contrary to the prophecy, because this sceptre returns to Judah, it has been around for seven hundred cents now. You remain, from a side the complete veil of external authority of the princes of exile passed away in the last century; d'an other side, the sceptre spread out from all the Jewish kingdoms of Asia, after their ruin in the 14th and 16th centuries, cles; consequently, since less than three cents, we have more of a sceptre in Judah: and the Messiah awaits the Jews in not yet naked. But, on the contrary, precisely to this first era, where, for the first time, the scent of Judah, passing by the princes of Asmoneen, descendant of this tribute, to the hands of the foreign Hero, !'Idumeen, the Messiah of Christians, Our Lord Jesus Christ, Sons of God and Sons of Our Lady, is born in this world and has been proved by her miracles plus few Jewish supreme leaders, since the dis-external partition of the princes of captivity. Assuré- because they are not left inactive; and it is by their

– 88 –

his origin and his divine mission. Therefore, existence is incontestable, amid the Jews, this supreme and absolute authority, exercised by of the unknown and of a hidden manner, for centuries, no evidence of Christian interpretation and application of the prophecy of Jacob. |

She does not benefit from this prophecy, not at least célèbre, d'Osee: d These many sons of Israel, without "And his prince, and his sacrifice, and his altars, and his ephod, « and without theraphim » (c. III, 4). 4 During long days, the en- The children of Israel will be without king, without prince, without sacrifice, and without autel, and without ephod, and without therapy. » The words here- Widely translated by king and prince, one cannot understand that external authority, visible and conniving. Of this prophetic text, the The result is that the Israelites have to be, over the long days, without royalty and without external royalty, visible and recognizable, gou- vernant, like all the rest of the nation, without a centre of direction and authority by name among men and women of all, as well as the other people in possession. Quant à Pau- sacred trust, the Jews in reality have no more witnesses, since the ruins of the temple by Titus at least, even after the principles of their own theology (see note on page 97). The religious authority that the Rabbis and other chiefs know and incomprehensible, he rigorously excommunicates the Jews, and because they insist on doing so, it is absolutely nothing towards God and at the point of view of conscience. Ainsi This other terrible prediction follows in its entirety: « For a long time, Israel will be denied freedom God, without a priest (II Paralip. xv, 3).

What many writers say is that the Jews, since their dispersion, no longer a centre of authority, neither political nor religious greeux, therefore one must only hear from a visible and known centre, like among other peoples, and under the religious relationship of a truly legitimate authority. This one does not exist of making a central and supreme authority, but hidden, not Jews follow, and have always followed the religious direction and political.

— 89 —.

movements of all nature are carried out in the centuries have passed into their nation, and without good also, with the other people. The stories have related the facts, without looking for the cause first, lack of precautions or external indications. According to this report, our two letters of 1489, in which we apa precious revelation.

To make our thesis more and more obvious,
We remain to resolve two interesting questions which differs from the previous one, to know: 1° What a summer, and what is still today is tendencies of the authority of the princes and chiefs of Israel? We he had already qualified as absolute, sovereign, contested. Everything that we have related to facts and testimonies demonstrate well that she is en effect. But for the question of this authority should be completely lit, it is necessary to expose and its origin and the motifs for which it is based are respected by the entire Jewish nation. 2° By some means and the way these bosses take them to govern their people dispersed from one corner of the world to the other? source a summer. and this is what the organisation administration nistrative and political which makes possible this government-universal mind?

We will study this double point in the two following sections.

– 90 –

IV.

The authority of the princes and supreme chiefs of Israel always summer, and is still our time, absolutely, incontested and universally opposed, because eyes of all the Jews, she is nothing other than the Tanis the Grand Sanhedrin.

I. What is truly the origin of the real date of its first commencements, the Sanhedrin, or Grand Council, existed before the Jews dispersion and siege in Jerusalem.

This assembly, political, religious and judicial, once, it was charged with all the important matters of the nation. She recruited herself and chose says its own members. His authority was immense.
The great prince, who had made a part of the law, was Ordinarily the boss. It is she who is por-taken to the last resort all causes grave jugées in the first instance by the lower courts. The
The Sanhedrin could inflict the death penalty (1).

(1) The Jewish coins of the two first centuries before Jesus-Christ and the first century of our time testify to this the great authority of the Sanhedrin and of his habitual chief, the grand prêtre.

Since Jean Hyrcan, son and successor of Simon Machabée (135-106 before Jesus Christ), the Jewish coins appear on the face this legend, surrounded by a crown of olives: Jean the great prêtre and the council of the Jews.

He then went on to say, "I am Judas Aristobulus, my son" (106-105).

- 91 -

The Sanhedrin is composed of seventeen and our members- bres, savoir: d'a president, in Hebrew Nasi or Náci, boss, prince, and seventy-four assessors. This memory not divided into three separate classes:

10 The Princes of the Priests: « Principes Sacerdotum . This general denomination does not mean alone- while the great prince in action and his predecessors still alive, but also the heads of the 4th sacred families.

20 Les Scribes: « Writers of the people », or doctors of the law. They formed a large corporation and powerful, because the ministry was very interested in inter-apply the Mosaic Law. Under the theocracy of the Jews, religion and politics find themselves in the dark-united states; also the writers were always

They carry, with the crown of olives: Judas the great prince and the Jewish Council.

One of the three types of coins that we left Alexandre Jannée, brother and successor of Aristobulus (105-78), reproduces the same inscription: Jonathan the great priest and the council of Jews. Regarding the coins of a second type, it is written in Hebrew: Jonathan the King, and in Greek: Alexandre (aged) the King.

Alexandre II, son of Alexandre Jannée, also planned his coins, the title of the King, in Greek: d'Alexandre, King.

The last coins of the Asmonean princes, Antigone lapel, in Hebrew: Mathathias the great priest and the great council of the Jew. This legendary Hebrew teaches us that Mathathias the Hebrew name of the Jewish prince here, in Greek, was Antigone.

Since the Christian era, we have found many coins that we reports on the era of the first Jewish revolt against the Romans (66-67), and here are these legends: Eléazar the great pré're ; Simon Nasi Israel, Simon, prince of Israel.

(See Review of Biblical and Oriental Studies: the coin at les Jews, in the journal le Monde, 5 May 1882.) i

– 92 –

legal and theological advice. They appeared almost all of the Pharisees, and they were great credit to the people. What was not the more illustrious among us, such as Nicodemus, the Gamaliel, who entered the Sanhedrin.

3° The Old People: « Older People », It is to the notables, who were among the chiefs of main families. They constitute the pure element within the meaning of the Grand Council of the Nation (1).

In the prince, the Sanhedrin came for the principal mission to preserve the oral lot, it says this true and legitimate condition. venue of Moïse and the prophets and transmits living voices, to the source of Our-Lord and the disciples have made frequent allusions, and this was the commentary and the complement of the The written law says so from the Bible (2).

(1) See Holy Bible of Lethiellieux. Brangile de saint Matthieu, p. 54, note. – On the Sanhedrin, see again Fleury: Maurs of the Israelites. – Dom Calmet: Dictionary of the Bible. – Basnage : History of the Jews, etc., t. III. – Drach: Of harmony between the Church and the Synagogue, etc., t. Ier, p. 125 et seq., etc., etc.

The Zvangiles and the Acts of the Apostles speak about the Grand Council of the Jewish Nation, or Sanhedrin, notably: Evangeliles: Matt. ch. 2, v. 4: When Herod, "assembling all the princes of the priests and the scribes of the people, ask them where the Christ ». This assembly was nothing other than the Sanhedrin; then, ch. 6, v. 22: 4 He who says to his brother Raca will be justiciable of the Council: and again, ch. 23, verse 2 and 3 : « The scribes and the The Pharisees are seated on the throne of Moses; observe then and do everything they want you." (V. Sainte Bible. Ev. s. saint Matthieu.) In the recital of the Passion of N.-S., all the Evan-

S. Marc. Ch. 14, v. 55-64. – Ch. 15. v. 1. – St. Luc. Ch. 22, v. 66-71. – S. Jean. Ch. 18; v. 13 ets. – Actes of the Apothecaries. Chapter 4, v. Zet s. – Ch. 5, v. 21 ets. – Ch. 6, v. 12, etc., etc.

(2) V. Drach, On the harmony between the Church and the Synagogue t. Ier, p. 125 et 127.

= 0% –

When the sceptre of Judah departed, under Herod the Idu-In other words, the power of the Grand Council is unique – reduced in size. From the outside viewpoint and governor-mentally, she no longer has a weak action; elle de-almost nothing when the Judiciary is reduced in Roman province, and that the emperors had enthroned at the Sanhédrin the right to condemn to death, quarantine and around the ruins of Jerusalem. |

But it is undeniable that, even then, in this situation externally, the Sanhedrin and his ordinary president, the grand sir, left on all the Jews, under the religious, political and national, a moral influence and an occult authority of the most important, and that the real direction of the Jewish nation, either in Palestine or abroad, was absolutely between their hands. We have a fear, among others, in the general revolt of the Jews against the Romains, before their first dispersion. Companies in this genre, and on a échelle, ne puero avoir lieu sans qu'il existe a centre of authority, either visible or secret, universal recognized and understood, which combines and organizes the things that impose movement. This centre, just qu'à la ruine du Temple, fut le Sanhédrin de Jérúsalem. | | |

This Grand Council disagreed in the first dispersion.

But the authors of the Talmud and the rabbinical writers-Yours sincerely, we assure you that the Grand Council of the nation was reconstructed in Babylonia. We have told, after us, how the elite of the people Jews, in large part, and the majority of family issues – 94 –

the King-Prophet took refuge in this contradiction the environment of these exiles is recovering the debris of Sanhedrin. Extraordinarily attached to their traditional tions and in their costumes, the Jews are embossed with restore the central authority of your nation. His head is gone placed one of the descendants of David, between the doctors of the law which receives, with the title of Prince de exile or captivity, the quality and power of supreme head of all Israeli dispersion. On the side If he reforms the Grand Council, he will not be entitled the presidency; and therefore the princes of the nation, deposits of sovereign power, always choose between the doctors of the law, members of the nouveau Sanhedrin.

It is not at all impossible for them, from 70 to 135, general uprisings of the Jews against the Romans, outside the Jew under Trajan, in the Jew under Adrien. aient was inspired and commanded by the princes of l'exile.

What is it in itself, and well that, according to a certain times, around the Patriarchs of Judaea, authority of his-condaire, if grouped by famous schools or academies, where doctors Emoraim sort out writing the first parts of the Talmud (1), it is Certainly, in the 18th century, at the funeral of Saint Jerome who lived in this country, he didn't have any more, or what more do doctors do under the law in Palestine (2); et that, throughout the century, supreme, religious and political power

(1) The Mishnah and the Ghemara of Jerusalem.

(2) Comment. in Oseam, in prologo; around fine:

N

t
' - 9-1

litique of the nation availed its unique seat in the Babylonia.

To establish the authority and spiritual mission of their doctors, Talmudists and rabbinical writers-tes les fonts remonter until Moses by a chain traditional interruption, the rings are communicated to us the oral law that the conductor of Israel receives God, dissaint them, even |

The chain of doctors under the law is divided into several series. \

The first series of Moise's films goes to Esdras inclusive. She calls herself the series of prophets. The second begins with Simeon the Just, great father after Esdras. She appealed to the doctors' series Thanaites (it is a tradition that has been preserved and transmits living voices the tradition, the oral law), and more Misnites (it is the authors of the Misna or Mishnah). The most prestigious awards are given to you next: Hillel, who was on the mother side of the. race of David and who lived under Auguste and Herod l'Ancien. Saint Jerome speaks in his commentary sur Isaie, chap. want, and the name Hellel. Rabban (1)

Simeon, his son, believed that generally he was

|

(1) The title of "Rabban" is most distinguished from all the honorary titles that could be received by Jewish doctors. After this title disappeared. these Rabbi and Ribbi, given very clearly to the doctors of the Jewish academies and those of Rab, Rab: Bana, Rabboni, Abba, Mar, names of the Chaldeans or Babylonians; which the doctors of the academies of Babylonia receive; « Not only that, seven doctors who have carried the top title of Rabban, all reveal the dignity of Wéoi p. (See Drach, De l'har: monie between the Church and the Synagogue, eto., ti I", p. 146.)

– 96 –

Simeon de l'Evangelile. Rabban Gamaliel the old, son the previous one. It is on his feet that Paul studied the law mosaic (1). This famous Jewish doctor converts to Christianity and devotion to Saint Gamaliel. Rabbi Judah, named Saint Naci, little son of Gamaliel. II becomes Patriarch of Judaea. We've already spoken in this way. This is the doctor who lived in the second century of the Christian era. tienne) is determined to implement by written law the oral law, because she doesn't want to lose her memory of the mes. He composes this but the work appealed to Mishnah, It is a second law, an oral law. Israel in its entirety welcomed with applause this evening. Read immediate disciples of Judah the Saint wrote the supplements of the Mishnah, on his lessons, and closed the series of doctors Thanaites or Misnites.

The 3rd series of doctors takes place at Emoraim (where controversial, explicant). They present and interpret different parties of the Mishnah. and their work formèrent d'abord de Jerusalem, et more late

. the Ghemara of Babylon. The Mishnah and these two Ghemara composed the work called the Talmud, which is par excellence the sacred, religious, social and politics of the Jewish nation. Ilfutterminé au commencement of the sixth century (2).

The 4th series includes the doctors who say Seburaim (opinions). They give their opinion on the phone or point of the Talmud. More of their teachings

(1) « Secus pedes Gamaliel eruditus juxta veritatem paternæ legislature. » Act. Apostle. C. 22, v. 3.

(2) Ghémara, c is - A - direct interpretation, explanation. Talmud,

It is a doctrine, the perfect doctrine, par excellence.

- 97 -

have been introduced into this code and have made like a second and last closure of the Talmud, a little after the turn of the century.

The 5th and last series takes place in the Gaonim (illustrative, excellents, seigneurs). At the last century, the great persecution of Babylonia with end at the academies of these doctors and their successors, who are no longer nude in a visible and familiar manner. Beaucoup plus late, the wind blows, in Spain suddenly, renowned youth schools and famous doctors, but without having any link in succession report with Yes large traditional chain (1).

That was why, as I affirmed, after the Rabbins, the savant Drach, together with these doctors of the law, Thanaites, Emoraim, Seburaim and Gaonim, that dispersion in the twentieth century, continued choose the sovereign heads of the Jewish nation (2). Et it is on this large traditional chain of doctors, They don't tighten their rings any more or less, se are applied and apply again to the Jewish Talmudsaid to pretend that Israel always possessed rightly so, the doctors of the law, and that he has not given up on having his head a spiritual power that is legitimate, truly of divine origin, and also it is obligatory to obey as to God himself (3).

(1) See Drach, On the harmony between the Church and the Synagogue, tome I, pages 141 to 173. See Maimonides: Introduction to Yad Hhazaka (the strong one, translated from the Talmud).

(2) Drach, ibidem, pages 172 et 173.

(3) Therefore the Talmud positively recognized that, "since the | « last dispersal of Jews, there are no more doctors in Israel, "Because the imposition of the hands, once interrupted, cannot « more to repeat. The Messie alone... could give this sign

LES JÜIFS, OUR MAITRES, 3°

ES May

– 98 –

It is incontestable that, from an external viewpoint and officially, the princes of captivity and their Sanhedrin there is no weak authority under the dominator-tion of the caliphs of Babylon. Your situation is different cell war of the Sanhedrin of Jerusalem under the Romaines. But their moral authority and their action occult dispersed across the nation even more than in the the former Grand Council.

The reason is that this political power and

His was affirmed and recognized by the Talmud itself. Translating and interpreting the prophecy of Jacob (Genès. c. 49, v. 10): The sceptre shall not be Judah, or the prince of his posterity, even if he the one who must be sent; « The Talmud says: The sceptre « They do not leave Judah: these are the princes of

' « outside the vertu of printing the character of the doctor of the 4 loi v. (V. Drach, On the Harmony between the Church and the Synagogue, tome Ie, page 113. The quote from the Talmud, reported by the Sanhedrin, fol. 13 verso et fol. 14 recto; traité Aboda-Zara, fol. 8 verso, et Maimonides, comment. sur la Mishnah de Sanhedrin , ch. Ir, par. 3, et his treaty of the same title, ch. 4.) The Talmud still says that « the authority (spiritual and legitimate) of the Sanhedrin of Jerusalem addressed precisely to the era of Notre-Seigneur's Passion. (Drach, ibidem, page 113. V. traité Sanhedrin, fol. 41 recto ; Aboda-Zara, fol. 8 verso.) What proves that, even to the eyes of authors of the Talmud, the ancient spiritual authority, venue of God by Moses no longer exists in Israel because his transmission regulation has been passed. These streets, arrachés aux Jews, in this point as in good of others, by the force of truth, not not employed their doctors to teach them the opposite of live voice, and by writing in the same works, like, by For example, in the Talmud, they are a little concerned about their own – contradictions,

€ these quarantine years in front of the ruins of the Second Temple B, that is.

– 99 –

the captivity that takes the sceptre of Israel; and the « legislator in his posterity: these are the descendants |

"Hillel who teaches religion to the multi-

This text provides evidence that, for the authors, of the Talmud, or Ghemara of Babylon, the princes of the captivity was the legitimate continuing and deten- costs of concentrated sovereign power abroad in the tribe of Judah. According to the expressions: "the legislature later in his posthumous speech: these are the descendants of Hillel, etc. », these doctors Emoraim are designing themselves, and their other colleagues. We are dissatisfied with David and of Judah, like Hillel, they are "descendants" dances » and the successes in the spiritual mission teaching "religion to the multitude". By consé- quent, after their affirmation, he had, in the yea, in Babylon, among the princes of captivity, real doctors of the law, as in the past, to Jerusalem, outside the great priest. For you then nothing has changed in the political and religious powers friends of the nation: that of Jerusalem was perpetuated- done in that of Babylone.

Or the Talmud summer, and is still the absolute rule and universal of all Israel, adopted by him without hesitation situation is not contested, that's its deadline. Plus let's go thundering of numerous and fearful of respect and support of the Jews for the en- seigneurysms of their sacred code. So, from the sixth century, the Jews, after the affirmations and

(1) Talmud, traité Sanhédrin, fol. 5 recto. – Of harmony, then. 9 ib., page 174.

N ee . nine Le

1
. TEENSET)

RTE fe EE.

K

– 100 –

the prescriptions revised and incontestated by their Tal-their advice as the successeurs and their former rises the members of their ancient Sanhedrin, like increasing the strength of us and others, like consequently the only legitimate power of the governornemenal, at times religious and political, of the nation dispersed. |

These affirmations of the Talmud, which continue-as taught and commented by the Rabbis in the following centuries, « in every city and in every contrary, as Maimonides affirms, they have formed the conscience of the Jews, who are crosses obliged to obey with the greatest respect and with precision and a perfect execution of orders and decisions sions of this supreme authority, and of the consultant in all the embarrassing and difficult circumstances

ciles. | | |

We have as expect these real provisions and persecutors in Israel, our two Jewish letters of 15th century. They are in effect a consultation of Jews from two great countries, and a response the supreme boss, giving his orders and tracing the lead to follow.

The change of seat of this central authority and the external disparity cannot be made to the Jews impression unfavorable, not diminishing in what this should have respect for their neighbors. Naturally they are all was prevented from doing anything, and persecution violence of the Caliphs of the East, and the translation of supreme authority in Constantinople. Instructions by an experience well over a century ago, the Jews were

- 101 -

completely understands without a doubt the incomprehensible to their bosses to put themselves aside and hide for!' avan-days and the health of the nation.

An important reminder here is the acceptable place.
The Christian historians have tort you, it seems to us, to agree, just now, almost no value to the assertions and quotations of Talmudic writers

Basnage, in particular, pretending that he does not have worse historians than us others (1).

These appreciations are inaccurate. What authors Talmudists and rabbinites do not care that a middle- create confidence when they describe the history of non-Jews, soit. But when they talk about parti- the head of their nation, of their intimate affairs, they parlent of those who saved it pertinemment, of those who" have known, either by themselves, or by the gnages or writings transmitted in the shadow and the secret, so that it appears in all occult societies. Read Christians who cite these words, while assessing the Rabbis of ignorance, exasperation, or vanity invention, because we did not find any documents exteriors which confirm their statements, have spoken of what they did not understand, some were reasoned about, in this point, as they have already done almost everything about events in our history of Europe and America, since a century. They did not know that he had, in of apparent and official history, a series of facts caches containing the preparation and the real cause of public facts. The works of French writers-

) History of the Jews, t. III, c. VII.

3 *

-

ee ne 252127

- OAS

eae

~

a E near en-

- ET rn

he

Be)

hey

2%

— Sa V a aa

: - 102 -

Macons, carbonari, internationalists and others, we have been beautifully applied in this matter. The veracity of their allocations are checked and dismantled, called by the events here and today, and by turning the things that will come the history of tomorrow. Person at this time not for-rait reasonably reiterate in good faith the reports of occult and completely ignored facts from history official and patented, stories in their books on the Franc-Masonry and other secret societies, by F.. F.. Bazot, Ragon, Clavel, Rédarès, Witt, Louis Blanc, de Saint-Elme, Fribourg, etc., etc.

We must appreciate and play the same way this that the Talmudists and Rabbis have reported the intimate history of their nation here, in its entirety, since ten years, nothing else than a immense secret society. l] would therefore be inexact and raire presentation of declaring without value and without weight their claims about the reconstitution in Babylon of the Central Political and Religious Authority of the Judeoliberalism. All we have to say is that these Christian stories that we currently possess, on the hidden actions of this people, plus lights that pass by. The affirmations of the valley mud and the authors of the rabbinical works, touching on this reestablishment-central and absolute power in the dispersion d'Israél, are fully confirmed and by our documents at least from 1489, and by contemporary witnesses of Jewish writers and others whom we have called, and the things that we have reported, and by all that pass under our eyes.

This conclusion therefore dismantled us and Therefore, indisputable: the power here, since their exile from Palestine, always really directed the descendants of Jacob, working too hard to discover green, even in the shade and the secret, it was all periods extremely strong and influential, universal respect and obey.

II. From there we can see how it was but that, throughout the centuries, there is no important movement, no notable change eu lieu in the Jewish nation, without its superiors–

I did not know, ordered and directed, or at least permitted and monitored.

Consequently, it is certain that the great transformation, our day's work, in a portion of the people Jew, he cannot escape from his watchful eye.

This, which has not yet been carried out outside of their direction and contrary to their orders.

The change of the Jew's allure in the dix-neu-
The fourth century has not resulted in a gamble joyfully, of a spontaneous movement, of a developing natural and inconscientious. It cannot be, and it is not In reality, the combination of impulse and command because of its central and sovereign power. Car, very Certainly, the Talmudist Jew is stubborn attached to its ancient institutions, to its law, to its cult, to its uses, it did not come true, nor did it come from the sort out his youth, pass par-desserts formalities of his sacred and blessed book, fryer with the non-Jews, adopt their clothes and their hearts, without and have been excited and pushed in all ways by this superior authority against the Talmud of even ordered the most comprehensive submission.

Drone

—

. u SCD

— 104 —

The leaders of Israel have not yet left since the ruins of their nation, observing a careful and sad eye, throughout the world, all the events here, near or far, could favor their instincts of profit, universal domination, and infatigable spirit of their nation, the return to Palestine.

The dissolution in Christian society by Protestantism, and above all the practical consequences which reveals itself from a political, social and religious, which only arouses the attention of these Jewish princes. At the beginning of the xvin® century these results are evident with more force and d'éclat. At this time, and even since the end of the September, especially in Europe, Jews were treated with welcome and enjoyment of great freedom. This is because, in accordance with the instructions and orders of the chefs, the smartest, the most active party and Israel's richest person begins to sell his real estate wealth of many centuries and of his life exclusively tal-mudique, to evacuate Christian society and to act on it in three different ways, by the social these secrets, through civil and political emancipation and through conversions to Protestantism.

This movement of transformation and its influence on.

our companies are moving very quickly; then, in the last thirty-fourth century, their progress must be reasonable, and finally, after great French revolution and its physical suites and morales, this movement and this action reach their apogee by all means at once, in the course of our dix-nineteenth century.

These statements are not ours alone. Read

—

— 105 —

Modern Jews recognize themselves as the reality of These occasional causes of their rapid transformation tion, and they came to half the means that they were employed to produce.

« The Israelite, who published a Jewish review in 1866, look very nice, he didn't recognize ANYTHING

€

"WHAT HAS TO BE TRAVELLED HERE, FOR THREE SEASONS, « scorched, and for four decades, transformed Van« cienne organization of the company (1). The dough is soufflé "The persecution is no longer an obligation for us to serve the « us against others; we can walk alone, « without fear of attacks against us or our « foi..... We have observed developments in the company « modern, we have seriously meditated on the con« sequences that they have to have for our worship (2), and part of the avoironien found which demonstrated to us the
«

"It is necessary to re-establish the link with the community, « and, on the contrary, new reasons have emerged for « maintain and strengthen {3}. »

These transparent words from the Jewish leaf to understand how the Jewish leaders are exploited this "movement" which broke, then re-to the old European society, feudal and catholic lique, and what results they have in store for their people.

By their entry into the secret societies and in the

(1) It is said since Luther and since Erosion and practical application of the principles of 1789, called «principes mo-

(2) Religion and nationality are one and the same choice for the Jews.

(3) Univers isradlite, III, page 129, 1866.

re 1 7 ear - *
ä

.
. BEE ee g
" ae

2

he nS
C

*

- 106 -

Protestant sects, the Jews were able to help and contributed to this conversion. By manipulation civile and political, they no longer need to "settle us against others » in the ghettos or the Jews; they can "walk isolated". "; that's what they font almost completely today, and even very solvent without saying that they are, or are not, of the Jewish race-

que. But the Jews are well protected by the relax, because of this new freedom, « the link of the "Jewish community," the link between Talmudic judiciary.

The Jewish princes remain cautious:
They do not intend to « modernize » their nation throughout. In addition, they have "fortified" this link by adjoining and multiplying by centres

"New Form Jews, Community Auxiliary and of parallel societies, such as the Masonry and its branches, entées sur celle du Judaism, et compose elements of all people and all religions.

The Jewish bosses meet in all their hands reunited, and it is incontestable that the "link of the The Jewish community, which has become triple, is now singularly "fortified", it means that the puis- without his princes being so grandiose.

Make the rapid history of these three means which they have put into practice to transform a party of their people and the launch against the Christian society-tienne.

1. We have presented and proven in the book: Francs-Maçons and Jews, comment on a certain name of Israel-lites were admitted into the secret societies and new forms were taken; how they succeeded to take everything little by little and to put it under the exclusive and absolute direction for your princes. We no longer have to think about this subject.

| - 107 - .

2. That the Jews acquire a certain influence in secret societies. in the 14th century. they are 4 to occupy their civil emancipation and political, and at the request of the governments of the European Union penis. The company was difficult. In Germany, the Protestants and the Maçons Templars are mounting all 4 are opposed to the Jews. The lodges refused to accept the fit in your mouth. In France, Catholics and hereticences, and even the luminaries of the philo-sophistry and revolutionaries, the upper maçons, « Vol- « Taire and Rousseau, to quote the most eminent, "They were hostile to the Jews, and they did not cross « dignes de tolerance: still well underestimated- "They wanted to see freedom and equality agreed with the

of serious attempts for their emancipation that the end of the century, when they were named and then-saints in the French masonry. A first test, - but indirectly, in 1785, in Metz, "liberal city par excellence v, here, for several centuries, because in his place there is a model of youth. (2). The Society Royal Academy of Sciences and Arts of this city with au concourse, for the year 1787, the next question: is it of means to make the Jews more useful and cheerful in France?

(1) Review of Jewish Studies, 1880, no. 1, pages 83 et seq.
- Emancipation of the Jews, by Ab. Cahen, grand Rabbin; work very interesting. |

1, p. 84;

P À

4

M

em eap e D

RE

ris des =

- 108 -

Apart from the memories presented on this issue, the famous Abbé Grégoire, curé of Embermenil, one of the most favorable to the Jews: it concluded their complete emancipation. In the commission eharremember the name of the speaker, adviser to Parliament de Metz, who is passionate about this issue and who ask and get the reporter ». The report de Roederer and the plan of a memoir that he wrote even on the question posed, concluding also with the emancipation of the Jews. To the same surgical era—says a new lawyer for the Israeli cause, the Count of Mirabeau, here, in a book entitled : On the reform of the Jewish liturgy (London, 1787; Paris and Brussels, 1788), arrived at the same conclusion. These three men, Gre—goirle, Roederer and Mirabeau, named for him, in 1789, deputies to the National Assembly. [ls s'y rencontre with Duport and Barnave, and all successively with warmth and eloquence towards the upper assembly the defense of the Jews. In 1791, on December 27, the vote took place Duport's proposal, by the whole Jewish community that gave the civil servants a helping hand and even recognized how French (1). This was the starting point of the emancipation—totalitarianism of the Jews. Five years later, in 1807, Napoleon restore the Jewish nation religiously and civilly in his empire, and with all the Jews on their feet that the other French, in agreement with their freedom and equality under the law.

Or these defenders and protectors of the Jews were all of the highest grade masonry francs. Mirabeau, Roederer

4

1, p. 84.

1

— 109 —

Grégoire, Duport and Barnave formed part of the committee secret of the Grand-Orient of France and the club of the Propaganda, founded in 1785, and in the following, from 1790, the terror regime was decided. L'empereur Napoléon appeared to him also in the masonry and had received a very high rating. He considered and supported by the masonry order as the instrument of destruction political and social actions such as the Franco-Masonry has resolved to operate in the rest of Europe and which in our unfortunate country (1).

This emancipation of the Jews is established in the Germans, due to the domination French under Napoleon (2). After the chute, she abrogée presque partout, drinking France. But, since then,

The Jews were parvenus, in this century, mainly through universal and constant efforts of francs-Masons of Europe and America, to conquer all the citizens' rights, in almost the entire civil world lisé.

3. Le N is a magnolia review German (3), it is "the middle of the masonry".

Even the Jews, who became francs-maçons without hesitation, siter, your little reluctance to convert to protestantism. By the way, their bosses who authorized them, | in the 15th century, to enter the Catholic Church when "They couldn't do anything else," he said, more strong reason, they allow, or push the buttons

(1) VP Deschamps, The Secret Companies and the Society.

(2) These blessings of Napoleon I should like to consider These Jews are like their real Messi. It was not one of his precursors.

(3) P. Deschamps, Les Sociétés, etc.

LS

e

K >

be at TU cage?

a gh

– rg

omen ee fe S ois gig Bt A

– 110 –

of preference to embrace one or more thousand sects of the Reformation. By the way, the Jews penetrated directly deliberately and ostensibly in Christian society, and parvenaient with much more convenience, and in all freedom, to immense wealth and to many honours neuros. But of course, by this means, they can be better hide their semi-original, their dominant features– tion and their consequences are contrary to our social order. It is for this reason that the Jews are Protestants and if large numbers. How these Israelites convert to the resist, even those who are suitable for Islamism or to any other false religion, no point in going Jews of aspiration and sentiment: « they preserve always the law of Moïse in the heart », and they vaillent, like their other unconverted brothers, to realization of “projects and expectations of Israel”.
The top Jewish bosses save the money and they understand except for those on their Talmudist subjects.

*

This transformation is impressive, wants and for– follow the princes of Judah, share today their nation in two well–distinct parts: the Jews more precise, "modernised by opposition to premiers that transform their antique charms.

The Talmudis, « composed by the old generation, « of the people of the countryside and of those of the lower « Class of cities recognizes the religious authority « des Rabbis, the legislative authority of the Talmud, obser-« carefully read the law, not mosaic, "But Rabbinical, do not tell the Christians that

I
- T a

- 111 - N

"for your interests, and continue to be « Traditional enemies of the Church. IT'S THE MONTH IN-« DESTRUCTIBLE OF THE NATION, which supports until « end in his attitude and his loyalty to preserve the « Ecritures (1) ».

The neglected are the least numerous. This is you here, under the excitations and orders of your Supreme chefs are admitted, most cautiously, in Christian society, and soon, the abandonment of all parts are parvenus to take his direction, and of course, if God does not arrest me, dominate entirely to destroy more safely.

They are distinguished. in four classes: 1st militants,

2° the reformed, 3° the indifferent, 4° the converted.

10 The militants are the Jews who were launched in the political and social aspect. They are great and secret instruments of destruction of all kinds, mis en created by the princes of lanation. They deliver to the Franc-Masonry and secret societies, even the more violent, their frames are the strongest and their chiefly the most active. In religion, they declare themselves versatile, fiery and irreconcilable people of the Catholic Church liqueur and its dogmas; they dissent and mount, in their surly, rationalist, sceptical writers, materialists; athees. In politics, they show gene-rather like the enemies of the governments of the Bourbon family. They disagree on preference to the parties. constitutional monarchists, soit

(1). Dictionary of Goschler, in German, note. The Abbé Qoschler is of the Jewish race; – 112 – _

liberals, republicans, revolutionaries and more or less advanced. They are pulling in the press, which is almost between their hands, and by the way attacking, insulting and destroying all the princes of the moral and religious order. They leave, at the hour present, in Europe, and particularly in France, all the top governmental and administrative positions nistratives. All of you, nice, before entering The Masonry began by converting at Protestantism, or the reformed, or the indifferents.

20 The reforms which can be divided into reforms me Talmudists and anti-Talmudists in reforms.

The leaders, all accepting the external organisation, religious woman who is forced by the powers civil servants, in France and abroad, preserve their rabbinical and his secular expectations, reverent the Talmud and the authority of the Rabbis, like the simmany Talmudists, and observe their prescriptions, only that they can, in everything that is not incompatible with company practices. modern.

The seconds, "bright, rich, well educated, were saved the rabbis' youth, the surviving forms of the Synagogue "gogue, the anti-social hearts of their ancestors; Corn "Not a Christian, always willing to serve their historical name and their dogmas fundamentalmentaux, stating the need for a cult, abhorrent the desorbing and vigilance of the rites purely rabbiniques, they have invented a reformed religion not the landgood is always the blessing, the ceremonies, the the tradition, but in what they have introduced « the order of decadence, a more regular song,

RA R Rm "

*

– 113 – |

« the use of the organ, of the prediction, of a lamp « brilliant, etc., etc. Outside of religious meetings, "Where the blessed are the Sabbath and the great days

« of party, and the biggest name once by

« They do not practice any Jewish rite at all– "That is, living as they can, and by preference, « with the Christians (1). " « 30 The indifferent, like all the religious « people, do not be indifferent to tradition, to « reform, not of the rabbis, not of the synagogues, not of "Moise, or the Consulate, at the seam of the circumcision.
"They do not preserve the Jewish name with respect « Honorable people, because they do not need it–
"Make a change against these Christians.
« When the opportunity arises, they are faced with « Christian pillars, font without baptist hesitation « your children, and practice in this case, at home

« the religious beliefs of your family, a tolé–

« a person who could serve as an example of Catholicism « what name (2). » |

4° The converts. Under this name I understand uniquely– while the very numerous Jews who have passed away testantism. In general, these types of conversions are are not serious. They are written without scruples about the part of the Jews, after the principles of the Talmud and the probation of their bosses. They don't have a motif sincerely religious. These Christians, they say, Jews remain ahead of everything, and always face each other all interests of Judaism.

(1) Goschler's Dictionary, same article,

(2) Ibid.

READING

oe New

say "M

–_ aram:

Rt

a
a

TX4

This

wee L'an pe
CC

5 ET
E FE en

e
See ee NE

—
Ba

he ar

—

. w- ng 7. — Ge

— 114 —

We have to enter into our nomenclature—the Jews converted to Catholicism because our era, these are usually the souls convert—thin and solid surfaces. These Catholic Jews are leaving absolutely Jewish according to their senses and aspirations you Talmud. Spiritually they no longer care what Pape. The princes of the nation lose all of them authority, either direct, either indirect, either ostensible, either vertis; they regard them as renegades and treats: they are the persecuted and the persuasive trance. see Rabbin Drach and others. Read Princes of Israel here, in the 15th century, allowed their subjects to be made Christians in the need, have been by experience that the conversion, even apparent, of a Jewish family to true Christianity, it is in Catholicism, after several generations, by completely removing these branches from the Judah. There are 14 reasons for absolute failure, Before the reform, their companies against society christian. They don't get bored and introduce themselves, d'hypocrites conversions, a sufficiency of Jews to provide you with solid attack instruments: serious against her; so that the entrance in a Protestant sect. something that leaves the majority of times, the converted Jews of heart and always access-sensible by good sides to the influence and direction of the Prince of Israel (1).

(1) Two reflections by the famous Rabbin Converti, Pau Drach, you have to have your place here. -
"The good conversions to Christianity, he says, are not taking place

| - 115 -
Tel is, at this time, at the end of our dix-nineteenth century, the state of the Jewish nation. About these two portions are distinct from their people, among the Jews Talmudists and on the modernized Jews, the chiefs su- k we begin by continuing to exercise, from a world wide angle to |

i
{
the other, their sovereign and uncontested authority. i How can they be recognized, today- |

f

|

today, and how the government works universal, we expose and test in the section s uivante.

"Generally speaking, the Jews of this last class (the « Jews who are purely Talmugists and reformed Talmudists, the Jews

"or foul plutôt, set off from the point of departure; but the « others (the modernized ones), not croying to oneself, do not offer war of
"take a stand for the apostolate."

"This movement (of conversion) is very extraordinary in the « Jewish nation, and this seems to be a certain sign of the last

~« Time of the world, beginning to manifest itself, there is a « taine d'années (verse 1820), in all countries, but surtout en 4 France... Jacob's children return in foul, unexplained« ration, as I am Catholic. A party will be lost dancing prod testantism. But it is not rare to see these Israelites, miserable "Obviously driven away, take the right road. »

Rapprochs of these words by two writers plus con-times:

"If we compare this strange movement of Judaism 4 modern with the property where it is rented for more than "18 centuries, we cannot recognize some pro-"visit the remains of Jacob?" » (Notice on the congregation of the Religious of Notre-Dame de Sion.)

a Here, all by one coup, after 18 centuries of incomprehensible « fixed, everything changed (in a part of the Jewish people), everything burned out, & everything changes; glaring sign of a new and predicted era « fantastic events! »... The end of the age "It can be very close to us, and for a very long time. " Of Mousseaux, Le Juif, le Judaïsme, etc.

– ee RN ee
PE RE BR Fe EL ET Fat

555

–
–

H:

rr . SR =

Thanks to the old organization of their people and some modifications that they have added, the princes de Judah, since the dispersion until our days, governed very easily the Jewish nation, throughout the surface of the globe.

Their mode of governance must be studied during long periods only: 4° of dispersion in the 11th century; 20 during the middle ages; 3° of xvi° century at xlx° intensely,

I. It is incontestable that, since the beginning of the Christian woman, the Jews possessed many and flourishing establishments in almost all countries known about this era. We are content to quote in accordance with the Acts of the Apothecaries. On the day of the Pentecost coast, disenchanted, « found, staying in Jerusalem, of the Jews, religious men, of the whole nation who is under the sky... Parthes, Medes, Elamites, those which inhabits Mesopotamia, Judaea, and Cappadocia. the Pont and Asia, Phrygia, Pamphylia, Egypt and the conflicts of Libya, Greece, and those Venus of Rome, Jews and proselytes, Christians and Arabs ».

(Chap. u, verses 5, 9, 10 and 11.)

These "religious men" came, for the greater part, of Jewish colonies established in these contradictions. All the years, mainly for Easter and Pentecost festivities. tecôte, a large number of Jews, residing outside from Palestine, returns to Jerusalem, and stays naient some time, and, their devotion to religion returned to their country of residence.

` - 117 -

He then received frequent reports between the mother and nation and the Jewish colonies, if they are elected as their foot-sent. These reports were not exclusively reliable old: they died, by themselves, necessarily civil and political; car, we soap, at the Jews, worship and religion, it was also nationality, because all the obligations of the individual, at the point of political view; civil and social, was regulated by the religious region. That day, for the Jew, not only from the Palestine tine, but the whole world, the first and the most everything and before everything, it was the religious authority of Jérusalem.

This annual event is also held on a grand scale

Jewish colonies therefore easily gained influence and Governmental function of the Sanhedrin on all colonies of the nation where they are established. Quoi

de. easier, more effective, for the great cook and for the members of the Council, who are obliged to The heads and principals of these numerous caravans who came and stayed, on the occasion of the festivals, in the capital of Judaea? |

The organization of these colonies is beyond our control-to dress and understand, in another way, the ease of government of the mother-father.

We know, of course, that, by the Acts of the Apôtres (1), between other sources, which in the cities and

(1) Act. of the Apothecary, ch. ix, 2; - XIII, 5 et 14 ; - XIV, 1; XVII, 1 et 10; - XVIII, 4 et 19; - XIX, 8.

4¢

—.—

r

— 118 —

in places of some importance where they were colonized, the Jews moved to synagogues, and more or less.
less large number, according to the number of their population-districts where this population was the largest agglomeration-rée (1). She found her physical centre and surplus moral, because the synagogue was the place of reunion religious obligatory for all Jews.

« Every synagogue has its own authorities and its ministres. » The first of these authorities was the head of the synagogue which the Evangelist calls "archisynagogus v. "It is available to assessors or advisors of the elderly, "He also appealed to pastors and presidents. Ceux-« he regulated with his organization the synagogue, having encountered violations of the law, condemned « Meritorious hair removers. » Comme all the external, moral and religious life of the Jews was regulated by the Moise law, the heads of the synagogue exercised an authority on their coreligionists absolutely, which goes as far as the right to sentence

(1) « In antiquity, the Jews moved to separate quarters, "in certain cities where they exercise city rights. In Rome, "For example, they live near the Vatican, then the wood of « the nymph Egerie. (Basnage, t. rv, p. 1048.) The needs of "See and meet frequently, to listen to your "Common interests and, where necessary, to be guided mutually « strong, they did not allow themselves to be drawn into a large dis-« Unlike others: the exclusive character of their institutions « tions and their slightly sociable nature make them ready to live a à l'écart. They also tend to group around a "central point which naturally had to be its temple" (their synagogue). (Jewish Studies Review, 1880. n° 2, p. 267. – Antiquity and organization of the Jews of Comtat Venaissin, by Leon Bardinet, death, when this right had not been taken away by the Princes of peace do not the Jewish colonies inhabit the territory. The ministers began to sing... the surveillant... which closed the doors... and the collectors of the aumônes. It is available in more detail, attached to each synagogue, dix assistants, designed by a Hebrew word meaning "men of leisure" and who are obliged to office. The presence of these two good men from The loss was absolutely necessary, not only for that we put the religious office, but also because it permits to build a synagogue (4).

– 119 =

Also located in the vicinity of the Jewish colony, the synagogue-good, by means of its internal organisation,

The natural and comfortable intermediate layer between the colonial pulation and the national religious authorities those of the mother-father. It was no longer easy at Sanhé-in which he sent it to the head of the synagogue of letters or messengers, to deliver an order, im-give a direction, give a word of order. These two proceeded from habitual use, as we travel by the Acts of the Apostles on the subject of Saint Paul (2).

On their side, the heads of the synagogue, said public-at religious meetings, or secretly,

(1) See Goschler's Dictionary, at the Synagogue.

(2) Saint Paul, arrived in Rome under the guard of Roman soldiers, convicts in prison the principal Jews of this city here he said: «We have not received a letter from the Jew to "That's the subject, and no brother is there who has spoken to us, or we
« this is also yours sometimes. (Act. Ap., ch. XXVIII, v.21.) The colony Roman juvenile did not yet have it preceded by the Sanhedrin de en de Saint Paul, his famous apostle, and his BUCCOA, |

" AT
ae.

- wm . TT

P

- 120 -

according to need, by their ministers, and in particular by the three essential assistants, "men of leisure", able to communicate more quickly an order. an alert, a reassurance, to cha-with the members of the colony.

Palestine was finally abandoned and dispersed said by the Roman world, they are looking everywhere a refuge in their colonies. Then they found new establishments, further or less away of the old, according to the circumstances, but always in the same conditions. The central authority finds placed and fixed for centuries in Babylon. Corn the mode of governance of the Jewish nation is fut point changed 'and it won't be any more difficult, for his princes and his great bosses. They die more under the main thing is that the fouls are returned to Jéru_ salem for annual solitude, but by letters and by message they always correspond with the synagogues of the most populous colonies. their new residence. The habit and attraction that longtime again Jerusalem and the mother-father exercise to all Jews that direct relations with They are preserved for several centuries after their ruin. This is what explains the influence and sound-said that, for about four cents an year, the patriarchs those of the Jews who belong to the Jews of the West.

They expect and maintain the mandatory interim measures betwixt you and the princes of captivity. corn, ce second power to spread, Jewish baby bosses Ionians reprise the government directly from all nation, and continuing the conductor, by the interme-

- 1211 -

day of the synagogues, up to the last century, and Le the same conditions. |

II. At the beginning of this century, the
- princes of Lexil, as we have told it, trans-bring to ASIE the seat and the centre of their power.

Throughout the middle ages, and up to our Even today, this authority is being exercised against the Jews talmudisants, by nearly identical paths to cells of the previous centuries. Only in Christian countries At the moment, Jewish establishments are undergoing some modifications. physical descriptions that we indiquons brièvement. a |

In antiquity and up to the complete constitution of the Christian state, the Jews came agglomerated their demurred and constituted their districts, in the different rents cities of the Western Empire: almost guise. They formed, as always, a company the non-Jews. But outside their streets were left open and completely separated from other streets of the city inhabited by the peoples or the Christians. Ouch. middle age, under the action of the Church and by My orders. of civil power, this state of things shall be modified. Read Jewish neighborhoods were closed off by barriers and... of the doors, and access was forbidden to everyone else. descendants of Jacob. These are on their side. recurrent formal defense of the offenders who in their special districts, which we generally appeal for "the Juiverie», and in Italy «the Ghetto». |

A modernized Jew explains this transformation-

- 122 -

In the cities, the Jews "have the habit of « group around a central point... They escaped by « To dress in their religion detested the curiosity of the « Portune des païens, the attention of the Christians is blind, « and of those shocked by the singularity of their rites and
« of their usages. Because there is no trouble in his « tranquillity and enjoyment of one's religious autonomy « Jesus, the synagogue had shown itself to be prudent in its isolation.
The Christian groves surprised everyone in their isolation and « ly parqua. It seems to us that this was the origin of the Ghetto or Juiveries (1) ».

This explanation is incomplete and incorrect. Another Jewish, contemporary also, more impartial and more true-dique, expose this origin in these terms:

The Catholic Church « energetically condemned « by the Pontifical Body the Fureurs of these Inimitiés « cruel (against the Jews), even those who
« of the represal. She covered her eyes with her wise men « tremblants ; she is not born to be arracher « To the popular fury, they open their doors "inviolables where they found security. It's Rome
"here is the example of this protective charity;
"She conceived for the Jews a district in part, and more Other cities have imitated the Pontiff's initiative « romans. Thanks to the places of refuge, the Jews live « together around their synagogue, in accordance with « their laws, under the authority of their spiritual leaders, and "They enter into full and complete recreation of their cult.
« From the ghetto, the origin does not become a thought

Antiquity and organization of the Juiveries of the Comtat Venaissin.

"Hospitalier, very lonely and very lonely during our days.

« Philanthropy is a dark picture, and

"Deploy, in just the right way, the disrepute and the malpractice.

"But we know that they have a general time-

"While all the cities adopt the same approach. Ouch « middle age, Christian civilization did not

« his organ to transform into palace the fragile de-

« deaths of this world... . Yes, with the progress of « century, we singularly embellish the cities of exile

« Earth, it must not be taken away that the Jews do not have « continuous movement. The ghettos are left behind-

"narrow like the populations that are declining.

"These are the Jews who have remained in the state or

« be found. It also means that these habitats are

"brées not their disappointing point; car today itself and they prefer to others. Since the launch

« because of his rain, Pie IX to me all the districts of to Rome at their disposal, while they remain obstinate

"Not to leave the ghetto, and they remain volunteers-« attached mind (1) ».

In their ghetto, the Jews of middle age come therefore a refuge provided for us by the Church, against the furious, often motivated, populations chrétiennes. They are governed a little like the previous eras. |

The affirmation of the RP Ratisbonne is confirmed in this last point by a remarkable and very interesting article-published by the Jewish Review of the City. The author, M. Léon Bardinet, declared, after authentic sources,

0) Za Question Juive, par lo Ri P. Ratisbonne ,(ieraslite eon · verti), pi 16 at 17. Paris, 1868: |

- 124 -

the organization of the Juiveries of the Comtat Venaissin, au

- environment of the 16th century. He says with reason that we can,

"without running the risk of falling," take this or-organization of the 15th century for the type of cell of all Ghetto during the middle ages, because "the persistence

« Israelite traditions and institutions do not allow

« not to assume that the organization of the ghetto has received "a lack of essential modifications".

I will cite textually as well as analyse a part of the fleet which was made under the statutes of Ghetto d'Avignon de 1558. We met through the Por-Organization of all the Judiciaries of the Christian States during the centuries of the middle ages.

It must not be forgotten that he is a modernized Jew here speak. |

« In their ghetto, the Israelites..., embarrassed with « public affairs are over, it represents what their « Christian society rejected the inter-« grail of their citizens' rights; it was real "for our city; they only found a « type of political existence. THE JUVENILE COMMUNITY « FORMAIT A SMALL STATE IN THE STATE, A TRUE
"REPUBLIC, with its assemblies or parliaments, its sta-« Yes, they are private magistrates. Recognize and protect-« given by the government (1), she played under her « surveillance, a certain political freedom and a « Complete religious autonomy: she chose her-even its magistrates, made its laws, regulated its taxes, and delivered without obstacles to all the practices of sound a RA

(I) Du Pape, in Avignon; knights, of the Christian kings.

– 1233 –

« The population of this small country..... was « governed by a single assembly, named Par-"element, or Council", and composed of a certain name-wide range of members "designated by the election".

This council is recruiting "himself and to name even in the three classes of the population ».

I note that this organisation of parliament of the ghetto resemble beaucoup à celle du Sanhédrin of Jerusalem.

"This Council is the sovereign assembly of the city « juive; reunited in their hands the legislative power " and the executive power. It is he who addresses his statutes, « which authorizes the levy of its taxes....., « take their magistrates, their officials...

« community and judge the differences that arise between
"she and her individuals; the conductor, in a word, all "his affairs, all his administration; it is the "Head and arms..." "The rules are made by the council, "And then approved" by the government, "they are "Mandatory for all Jews. Quiconque comes to « the offender is condemned, excommunicated and banned from the « juiverie..... » « And, to the force that gave him
"Its omnipotence, the council added again that "He took the sanction of religion, which led to « his disposition makes the most rigorous of the « Israelite gism and the most brutal. This pain

« consisted of making a terrible mess (1), not the vio« lation could reach the head of the detachable more « suspicious facts..... » « This is still here

(1) The brake or anathem.

- 126 -

4 summarized the wildest, most severe and most « The Bible's colored cables were in the hands of government of the judiciary, a strong arm, an instrument of terror, we direct almost torture. » |

« The council's omnipotence was enough to a bornes », which he assigned to the Christian princes. fl him « was forbidden to pronounce other words that

R

RR

« amendment and excommunication..... » « No sooner said than done,

« Inside, the government of the judiciary, theo-a crisis, because it appealed to the religious sanction-« jesus; republican, because it was based on the electoral « tion; aristocratic, because the election was made,
"not by the governors, but by the governors of our country-

"It is easy to degenerate into despotism...", well which is "in dependence and under surveillance of sovereign power... » II was « almost all « IN THE MAIN OF THE RICHES, It's about time « small name. » |

One can still note the combination of attributions This council of the ghetto made a compromise with cells of the Sanhedrin.

The other civil servants of the juvenile court the Treasurer, who has the security and responsibility of

. deniers of the community; the bull guards, or of the archives, and the Messenger, interim agent between the government and the governors who were "in charge of transmit to the whole judiciary the orders, mandates invitations and notifications » from the council.

Together with the ministers of religion and worship, mention the collectors of the aumônes who collected the donors of the public and private charity: they tenaient, for example, the poor cash register; the lecturers of the laws, or sermons, songs, etc., etc.

"All these ministers," says the Review; young, older « or at least without any pain under the Rabbin's rule, « who must necessarily exist, because we « He found his name in the statutes of 1558.

"It can be and there are many; can be tasty « expensive laws, or sermons, they were very a table Rabbins. »

"It is the internal organization of the judiciary."
.... « What surprises us... is loyalty, it is atta-« firmly opined by the Jewish race to its old institutions « tutorials. These are still the same usages, the same « Yes, the same religion, the same worship; the spirit of « Bible (1) absolutely and quite loudly in the government-"Not here, these Republican forms are « always a mixture of OLIGARCHY and theocracy-a tie (2). »

By looking at one side, what we have written more touching the organization of synagogues and the government of each Jewish colony, at the time of middle-aged man, traced by an Israeli on the documents irresistible things, we travel manifestly that, at the Jews', he is nowhere near you, or almost nowhere changed from one era to the other, and that, in effect, "this are always the same usages, the same laws », and

(1) It must be read, because it is more consistent with the truth, the spirit of the Talmud |

(2) Journal of Jewish Studies, 1880, no. 2, pages 274 to 288.

– 128 –

these "old institutions" because they are declining opinion attached.

We understand that when it was perfectly combined it easily accessible to the princes of the nation, resident in Constantinople.
nople, of the sovereign conductor. in the world whole, since the 18th century up to the 19th century, and from then on, getting in touch with the chiefs and rabbis of the Ghetto or juveniles, only by means of emissaries special, as was the case with the patriarchs– Judea's chest, or in letters, like our pieces In 1489 the Jewish Prince of Constantinople proved moreover, it is made for the Provençal and Spanish rabbis gnols. |

III. Bu xvi? in the 19th century, including, I chef Israeli supremacy has not been more embarrassed for governor of your nation.

The Jews are disappointed that they were average age, a little bit close.

In the East, their state and their organization are not element changed. Without recourse to the reports here above, a simple detail is enough for us to vaincre. It's a receipt in the mail. the process of assassins de Damas.

A letter from the French Consul, Mr. the Count of Ratti-Menton, informs Chérif-Pacha that a Jewish mission has been offers cing cent thousand pièces to get in fa-condemned the switching of the hair of because this Jew should take a too cautious approachrable, he replied that "this thing should not be taken about the person, but she was found ready in the cash register

- 129 -

of the synagogue (which appealed to the Papal Cash Register . ores (1) ».

We have seen that, under the Roman Empire, every synagogue, and, aumoyen âge, each judiciary has its collectors and its cash register. It is therefore in-core of itself in the Jews of the East to our era (1840). Where it is permissible to conclude that The organization of these juveniles is not difiée.

Plus, this detail proves that the money
This child fund, if well fed, was not always destined and employed in the soulage of the nécessitous. He then proved that they were enormous, by means of these reserve boxes, the power to
At the national level, it was possible to reunite in some days and weeks where Israel's interests demand daient. Here we discovered one of the many and intangible sources of financial power of Jews.

In the West, freedom and equality of rights are neglected policies agreed successively with the Jews in the plus the civilized countries, the general situation and the... | organization of the mass Jewish people not soon Nothing different: their judges are in the same state. U.N all recent and irreversible statements to us in a promising future for the Jews of Germany more special, but also in the same time for all the rights of Europe.

Regarding the material situation of the Israelites

() Achille Laurent, Relations of Syrian affairs. etc., volume 90, 1840.

REG Like NT

ee EY Ia PE Kae

pee hey eee

– 130 – | :

in the German Empire in the year 1881, that is,
criticizes the Review of the Catholic World: |

“The position of the Jews is still advantageous. On the side « civil rights, common to all citizens, ILS ONT « PRESERVE YOUR OLD FRANCHISES, YOUR RIGHTS CORPORATION AND AUTONOMY. IS THE TRUE FORMULA– WITH A STATE IN THE STATE. EVERY JUVENILE COMMUNITY SHE-MANAGES, LIVES THE IMPACT, NAME SES TEACHERS AND RABBINS, CONDUCTING THEIR SCHOOLS, WITHOUT IN-INTERVENTION BY THE CIVIL AUTHORITY. The most famous and rich Jewish associations GETTING AN IMMUNITY, OF ABSOLUTE INVIOABILITY, as well as the anti-semites do not sing to touch. The budget of the commu-Sailing youth from Berlin loses a million five cents mille marks (plus two million francs) em-« committed to worship in several synagogues« gues, hospital, orphanage, hospice of « old, from Rabbinical Schools, and beyond « SCHOOL OF HIGH JUDAISM STUDIES. »

« THE LORD OF MAI, who tends to be anything less than « To embrace Catholicism, while reducing its role « There is no ministerial institution for the « juifs. And therefore these rules have been EXPRESSLY BLIES FOR ALL RELIGIONS professed in Prussia.
But people are not afraid to apply to «Jewish communities who play a role in exceptionally, whether Catholics or Protestants no singing was enough to pretend (1)! v

A

RA AAA RA R RARA

a

R

A

€

A

(1) Review of the Catholic World, the Jewish Question in Germany, by Herman Kukn, no. 15 October 1881, pages 71 and 72. renseignements provided by this important article, which I already

– 131 –

It is evident, according to this quotation, that the Juive-regions of Germany, in the year of the Christian era 1881, not different in any way, as regards their situation prior to the war, as far as their internal organisation and their administration autonome, of the middle-age ghetto (1).

So, you xvi? in our 19th century including the cited earlier, referring to several serious conclusions. Pour I understand better, I completely understand the extract present, textual part, analysis part:

« Promoting all political rights, solidly cantonal « In their privileges, the Jews have been abused: from this position d advantageous that they were inexplicable... They were...
"With warmth and passion, the Christian religious people...
He excited the crowds against the church and threw himself into the Kulturkampf, "with a strongly impetuous hair. Everything is fine, as it is « Catholics, the minority excluding official favorites, "Only for a reason, and that all the organs of power were « to support... »

But the Jews are called the Protestants, and are confused of internal religious affairs of the State and the Church official, those who are angry, raise the alarm and organize the anti-Semitic line, here, of course, you can't get anywhere, that I expected and said in French-Magnons and Jews, p. 541.

Everything is a new reality, first of all, that find the Jew's head, of our days surtout, in all occurrences—where the division can be introduced into Christianity, and the persecution suffered against the Catholics; and in second where the power of the Jews in Germany is greatest, because neither the May laws nor the anti-Semitic efforts of the empire. Bismarck, Guillaume and the other ministers and clubs from Europe and America are not that happy and confident with instruments. It will be useful to repeat this citation and these conclusions in these paragraphs which follow.

(1) The Israelites who possess our days in Germany and all rights and all benefits of citizens, don't worry, we see you renewing your antiques privileges, at these rests of the middle age, at this position advanced that they made the Church, in those centuries "ten-

...

e-UTR

r

wen Sede. AASEN ASE Keg oo - ea: eee

.

- 132 -

Princes of Judah have possessed and possessed the same facilities that, in all previous eras, allowed the sovereignty of their nation.

*

But we don't imagine that this power governmental measures cannot be exercised today that about the Jewish Talmudists, about this mass ignorance and at the end of the June race, again curled under the jog of the Rabbi.

When the top Jewish bosses have decided to sort out their youth and their lives, right there-Talmudic reuse, a certain portion of their subjects to attack Christian society, they are good you need to prepare and establish yourself outside the ghetto, some other means too safe and too easy, even to keep the Jews modernized under their dependence and they transmit their wishes. |

For the Jewish militants, they are the masonry lodges exclusively Judaic. Rappelons-nous letémoignage

1862 :

« There are still other things: exclusive compositions-« At least among the Jews, in the sources the non-Jews do not « d'accès... In London... there are two Jewish lodges here "The Christians don't have to pass their sentences. It is the
"which reunites all the sons of the revolutionary elements-« teachers who came to the Christian lodges...

breux et violents ». They are plained without leaving the house the provocation "which obliged them then to "serr the us against the others ». But he said well that this persecution it was not until they dissented, because they believed that precisely what they asked for.

- 133 -

« In Rome, another lodge, entirely composed of « Jews, where all the tram drivers meet, « Our Lady of Lourdes in the Christian Lodges, is « the supreme tribunal of the Revolution. From there are « led by other lodges, such as the chefs

« crets ; of sorts that the majority of revolutionaries "Christians are not like puppets' avenues, "movement by the Jews, even if « mystery (1). »

These logs, composed solely of N uifs, exist also in the other hemisphere, in the United States of America rich. The Jewish Journal The Israeli Archives have made us know the Masonic order, all Judaism, and Beni-Berith, or Sons of Valliance (2).

Be in constant contact with the heads of these 8 Jews are all too possible and easy for the princes news from Judah that it was for their predecessors for centuries, and that is for you, in this moment, to put it and to maintain it in relation with These militant Jews who flee from the eyes of the superficial servant, where children are lost d'Israël, they have done everything as well as the Talmudists, in the main and under the direction of the grand chefs of the nation.

The reformed Talmudists do not escape any more that the Talmudists purs. The princes are for agents intermediaries, as well as heads of simple synagogues and the modern ones, soit les Rabbins des consis-

(1) V. Francs-Magons et Juifs, pages 503 et suiv.

(2) Tom. XX, p. 885-86. 1866. – V. . he Jews, p. 507.

4

. NT LT CN EN ES

– 134 –

local towers, only ploughed and surrounded by the grand Rabbin of each central bank, like in France and in many other countries.

How many anti-Talmudist reforms, among the indifferent, to the converts of Protestant sects and others, the chiefs Jews have established themselves for us, he is 25 years old, the famous association, if powerful at this time, appealed to the Alliance israelite universal. She warmed up, we said, 1859, the judge M. Cahen, director of the Israelite Archives, « to strengthen the fraternal link of Visraelism of a whole world (1) », it is for one in one make all the modernized Jews who today repu- serves their old Jewish name and would be called « Israelites ». Less than 10 years later, in 1867, Mr Adolphe Crémieux, President of this alliance Israelite, disappointed on his tour: "Israel dispersed... not available _« more centre, more representative, more defensive- « of common interests. Now everything is « changed. A thriving company that finds access « Above the strongest thrones, it is always « prepare to take back our rights, « A COMBATTER this « Men who are always our enemies

Translate: society... always ready... to fight the Catholics; and recognize in these words hostile the Jew of the race who has not yet ceased to consider the Church as the nephew of his nation, and also the franc-maçon grand maître d' écossaises, where of the Maçonians, "light" and "liberty". The Jew of the Talmud was "dispersed" and lost his place in the center.

(1) V. Francs-Maçons et Juifs, p. 334.

– 135 –

We've dismantled it. Best regards, M. Crémieux
We want to make the change. But it was true that the modernized Jews, the Jews of modern principles and The progress did not come to an end before 1859: every operated almost individually. By the Alliance Universal Israelites, they are all united between them and become fortified like an army.

To enjoy the strength and power of this association juive, carefully read the following extract from a Russian newspaper, the Golos de Saint-Petersbourg :, _

"To the journalists, M. Crémieux, is delivering

« in Saint-Petersburg, before heading to Berlin a « General Assembly of |' Alliance israelite universal,

« who proposes to deal with the unfortunate situation « of the Jews in Western Russia. This famous

« alliance is clearly deterred from its destination-

« primitive function which occupies exclusively the « Moral development of the Jewish race. Suburban area « direction of a former republican minister, she has « Let us not talk about politics, and Mr Crémieux
"I am seriously considering the role of President of the "Universal Jewish Republic. He is directly involved in « report with the governments of other countries,
"As he himself was the head of a government.
"And this is more strange, certain governments of his

« verain í » | T

« The whole world is crying out for soul
« Mr Crémieux, on the subject of the alleged persecution « of the Jews in the Danubian Principality. The a « I would also like to address questions to our governor-« ment, when we were expelled from Saint-Pétersbourg

—

—

— 136 —

"Jews who do not have the right to be slaves, and they are « parvenu to obtain the detailed explanations on this « subject. » |

"What then, according to Mr Crémieux?" A head of the « yes, or a simple private person?.... It seems to us that "treat him as with an official

"It does not conform to our dignity, nor to our good « sens. II does not, as it says, the Jewish state, in this « Wait. It cannot therefore be a question of a governor-
« not Jewish, and at least not even a unified government « sell..... His success in Romania encourages

"can intervene in our Jewish affairs...

« In Bucharest, the friendly councils of Napoleon III

"can be received like orders, but at Saint-« Petersburg ? (4) »

Everything is indignant against the allures and the action of President of the Universal Israeli Alliance, the journalist Russian list cannot be overestimated by noticing the power of this association, the power which clearly does not re-does not appear in the sole person of lawyer Crémieux.

The Golos article was written in 1869. Since then, the developments and the influence of |' Alliance israelite ont follow a constantly croissant march. A new question of whether the young man died in 1881 in Russia. The célèbre president Crémieux is dead; but the alliance does not no peril no periclité. Even though she already knows years, she actively intervenes in favor of its coreligionnai-res; and Russia resisted as in 1859 (2).

(2) See the journal l'Univers de May, June and July 1881, du July 26, 1881 and January 26 and 30, 1882.

– 137 –

The Israeli Alliance EGGS? is therefore, in first place, a Jewish new education centre, and, in itself, times, an auxiliary community; because it also opens his ranks among men of all races and all religions region. Because they are committed to supporting interests of the Jews who agree to be instructed by the ments, to submit his ideas and his influence, they devien-mentioned for him a particular species of « converts », which he regards and protects like brothers (1).

Therefore, thanks to the old and recent organisation of the nation, not a single Jew of the universe, except the Jew sincerely convert to Catholicism, do not escape to the action and the immediate, or median, direction of central power of Israel.

Everything that we have established in this first paragraph 166 contains two evidential sentences:

4° It was without a beautiful brush and without long efforts that the great Jewish chiefs of our century are em- by successively all the secret societies, they were unified and placed under their domination.

The Jewish nation has been formed and led since less than a few cents, like a vast occult society, the families who supply the princes of Israel and their assessors have, through this exercise, in keeping with the traditional spirit of each race, acquire a consumption experience and a skill unique in this genre of governance and influence

(1) See the developments and conclusions from this statement in paragraph III, no. VII.

2. = i

I it: u Dt M né

mysterious to individuals and masses. Also the top Jewish leaders, because it was possible for them to put in regular contact with men of secret companies, they think they can arrive very quickly to gather them, and to maneuver with self-defence force of finesse.

In addition, these top bosses and these princes of the nation, a great name of other Jews were formed, they also, in the manner of qualities suitable for inaperture management of the population. Car the personal bosses of each synagogue and of each judiciary, sorts of small re-aristocratic and oligarchic publics, common seen, must be sorely obliged, especially for come and stay in power, especially for the governor-to their recalcitrant community, to act on a ma-kidney more or less worn out, and to put in movement of the more or less secret departments. The Princes de Judah therefore take hold of the head, which surpasses the occasions suitable for the users, men precious, perfectly trained in their role and all prepared to be solid and sturdy frames of n'im-doors of patent or occult associations. These are these men who have composed the first phalanges of Jews modernize.

Add the power of gold. Only the Jewish princes possessing golden veins that never burst. When these companies, Templar Masonry and the very, want to act outside their rooms and do any political or religious company, the gold devint absolutely necessary. The top Jewish bosses are leaving delivered in all circumstances, without hesitation and without 8e

– 139 –

let ; but for reimbursement they have imposed their authority and their volunteers. |

It is only through their long experience that they not natural, their wealth is ineffective, their ability and the address of their agents immediately, they have to be of the Franc-Maçonnerie and all its branches, tier des occult associations (1). |

The second corollar, not the least evident, deserves all reader's attention: Combining is therefore formidable
The power of the Jewish princes in the nineteenth century!
Because they have 4 orders, cantons in expurgated nable positions, on the entire surface of the globe, two immense armies, perfectly distinct and perfectly disciplined, here, under their leadership, in writing qu'a single one, to know: their own nation, which take seven million subjects. according to us (2), or dix-sept million, according to the others (3); then the association Judaico-Maconian tradition, even more comprehensible, Do not appoint the members with the huge number of a thirty-million dollar (4). The Princes: of Israel they are not present & their disposition the most effective ways to become the masters of world ?...

(1) See the facts in the French-Masons and Jews, p. 488 and follow.

(2) Francs-Maçons et Juifs, p.671.

(3) Bouillet's historical dictionary, last edition, 1880, also with Jews.

(4) Francs» Magons et Juifs, page 367.

– 140 –

VI.

Or today the Grand Duke of Judah, and this chief of chiefs, this prince of princes, who directs sovereignty and absolute justice and all the masonry?... I ignore it. They live in Constantinople in the 15th century; they can still find in this is their ordinary and principal seat and official of their power?... Constantinople is always the central point between the Orient and the West and the closest thing to Palestine. It is certain in Constantinople where the knot of the fa-my question from the Orient, which is important for the Jews, as regards the coverage of their countries of origin, and in because their princes play the most active role, the more skillful and more mysterious.

Combine the supreme boss of the Jews at—he is present of « satraps and grand rabbis » for assessors and advisors? I do not have any document that can l'éclairer at this point.

The Grand Council of Doctors of the Law has already reconstituted titled on the side of the princes of exile, in Babylon, in their lives cle; it was in this new Sanhedrin that d'ordi— Instead, the heads of the nation, the princes of captivity; this state of things to last until — once century. The Writers of the Talmud and the Rabbis We have recently examined these particularities of his— intimate gate of their nation. But from now on century, we don't own anything. docu—pr

— 141 —

because it can make us believe, even our two letters de 1489. .

By letter from the Jewish Prince of Constantinople, we indubitably saves that the succession of the princes of captivity continued, and until the fifteenth century they have resided in this city: Plus, we can in— according to the same text that the Grand Council exists yet, because the prince speaks of "Satrapes and great Rabbins » don't give the opinion before reply— dre. The prolific power and the vitality exceptional— among the Jewish people (4) allowing them to suppose that the families of doctors under the law of the one century are perpetuated until their fifth birthday, and from then on dix-neuvième. |

At this moment, the Supreme Council which assists the princejuif, and the president is his name and position absolutely apparent to the councils here Has life succeeded in the New Century? I don't know anything.

M. des Mousseaux we assure, from a certain source, that the Sovereign Council of the French-Masonry and all secret societies "are composed of new indi— vidus », not five to one should be of nationality Judaic (2). This is what the Sanhedrin is currently saying d'Israel. Jewish chiefs refused to accept "Goim" in the supreme direction of your nation. These two members are placed without prejudice in the great advises the Prince's assessors, who are charged de mener, under his control and his authority, the world

(1) François-Magons et Juifs, p. 609: Ibidem, p. 513.

00 EEE TE

ee ager aa Fr a en LS Egg: - 1 k 8

- 142 -

autant of "this half-sister of the individual who don-called their orders from the secret societies of Europe en-animals (1) », and « these four or six who belong the cards (2) ». These are the same things that they don't speaks M. des Mousseaux. These characters are not Certainly the Jewish delegates of the Prince of
nation. |

I am convinced that the Grand Council which directs all of Israel in our era, with a president, ndei, or prince, to his head, is "composed and functioning, at little chose now, like the times past, according to its traditions tions and prescriptions of the Talmud, for these two serious reasons: because the Jewish nation, in its almost totalitarian, is exclusively and rigorously Talmudic reuse, until the beginning of 19th century, even in the West, because it is not having "an attachment to his old institutions ". |

It is therefore in this sovereign assembly, in this | Sanhedrin of the Jewish people who are discussing _ and rules that are discussed and regulated by the movements- _ elements of all kinds, anti-political, anti-social and anti-religious, which operates in the present- __ back in the future. It's time to prepare the triomphecomplete and final result of the race of Jacob and his bosses.

Quant in the secret of the deliberations, for us to evaincre that he is well guarded and that, only, the savior not already accomplished, only the reasoning of (1) François-Magons et Juifs, p. 506 and 507.

– 143 –

induction, or rather a species of philosophical intuition que, we can discover something, it is enough to tell what Rabbin Drach says, about the removal of his children:

And the police, about two years old, do not « discover what it was like to know the smallest « Jewish children, not only in France, not only-« At least in Angleterre, but still in all countries "Where Jacob's race is dispersed. »

Yes, « every time it is of interest to some National affair », the little Jewish children of our country are well dressed at will, which will be great chiefs of Israel?...

*

Our first general proposal and its annexes are therefore certain : T |

A unique direction and command centre it is constantly maintained among the Jews, since their dispersion until our days. This authority sou-veraine was exercised by the Supreme Princes of Israel, assisted by a senior council, for continuation of the old Sanhedrin. She continues to exercise even, at the current time, in an absolute and in-contested, secret and easy.

Demonstrate now that these great chefs Judas has passed away and is clearly present the thought of universal domination, which they have informed the drawing and the plan, and they are well to become the unique masters of our civil societies lisées.

4

– {44 –

$ II. – The Jewish leaders and the masses of the nation with You have always believed in the domination of the world, and Then in the 15th century, these princes had to follow in this but to their people, unless it was possible, a plan that is at the point of success.

At all times the Jewish people think to themselves that, day, with triumphant power and glorious rain you Messie, he became the leader of all the people and dominated the universe. This idea and this hope he appears from the interpretation of the prophecies of sianiques, adopted and taught by the Synagogue elle-same. This interpretation, true to the original, was absolutely false, considering the circonstance of fashion and of the era. That's why, when the real Messie, the poor and humble Jesus of Nazareth, revendiqua this title this mission, and present it with its truth divines and his miracles for all riches, and with his stupid ignorant fishermen for the whole army, the organ and trumpet members of the Grand Council, chiefs religious and political aspects of the Jewish nation, the Repoussé sat outside, full of color and moustache, and the fire put to death by the Romains.

We find the first indications written by the doctortrines of the Synagogue at this point and the sentiment néral and dominant that they came and developed ran to the Jews, asking Jesus for | – 145 – |

the mother of the apologists Jacques and Jean: «Order that _ « my two sons who say as one to your right, "and the other to your left, in your kingdom." (Matt. xx, 20.) And again in the exclusion of the foul, at the day of the Rameaux: « Good, the rain is coming of our father David » (Marc, x1, 10); and in the interro-Gation of disciples after the resurrection of the Sauveur:
"Sir, it is in this time that you will recover the kingdom of Israel » ? (Acts 1:16.) |

It is evident that this woman, the believers, the disciples, the idiot, all the people and ill-wishers, The Messiah's future rain and his glory came after the teachings in the synagogues by the doctors of the law. |

In a celebrated passage from his war history of the Jews, the writer Joseph clearly affirms the

"This is what primarily determines the Jews for the "War against the Romans, this is a prophecy « ambiguous, contained in sacred books, know: that, and at these times, some of them from their country, OBTIEN-« DRAW THE EMPIRE OF THE WORLD. They are applicable to you-"Even this prophecy, and good name of your doctors « self-assurance about his interpretation. » (De « Beautiful Judaism, lib. VI, cap. v, no. 4)

The Roman historians Suétone and Tacite consistently the same thing happened. |

"Throughout the East," said the Prime Minister, "he was accepted
"This ancient and persevering belief that, after « The prophecies, at this time, of men part « Judee DOMINATES THE WORLD. » (In Vespas.)

THE JEWS, OUR MASTERS!

- 146 -

= The second speaks in the same terms:

« He was convinced of a great name
"That, according to the tenor of ancient sacred writings, « At that time, the Orient became powerful,
"And that the men of the Jewish party DOMINATE THE « MONDE. » (Hist. lib. V.)

This ancient and persecuting woman is Israel's future cannot be implanted in part people of the country as a result of the diffusion made by the Jews themselves and by their sacred oracles and the interpretations of their doctors.

The last war of the Jews against the Romans, under Barchochébas, that's the same cause. |

After their ruin and their final dispersion, the bosses are insulting their people with them, across the world, this indomitable hope that will to all their receptions at the Messie venue. The mass of the nation and its princes always attend this powerful triumphant, this glorious liberator, shall end the exile of Israel and bring him the empire of world. 7 ba |

The testimonies of all provenances and of all indestructible among the Jewish people (1).

For the past centuries, I content myself with a rappel some-us : |

At last, Saint Jerome, who was in the current of Jewish beliefs, said: "The Jews pretend-"But at the end of the century, our nation will

(1) I repeat, to be more complete, several citations made already in the French-Masons and Jews.

ee

» confident and powerful, transform all the kingdoms of the « earth and rain alternately (1) ».

In the 18th century, the Talmud expressed the same idea of a otherwise:

« To come (the Messie era), no « nation, no language is able to subjugate « war the Jews... All the nations of the world-"stands and converts" (to Judaism) (2).

Nine cents more late, ideas and expectations the Jews do not vary. We in two reports re-remarkable testimonies, the one where the other of Judaism.

The German savant Reuchlin says to him: Jews of 5th century in these terms:

"They await with impatience the wars, the ra-the ruins of the provinces and the ruins of the kingdoms. Your this is the hope of a triumph (among all the non-Jews) similar to that of Moise sur les Chananéens, and here would be the prelude to a glorious return to Jerusalem table in its magnificent antique. These ideas are my love of rabbinical commentaries on the prophets. They have it has been TRADITIONALLY TRANSMITTED AND INCLUSIVE in the spirit of this nation: and so it is prepared, all the time, the Israelites at this event, TERME SUPREME OF THE ASPIRATORS OF THE JUVENILE RACE (3). » |

—

- (1) « Judei.... Israel... in fine sæculorum volunt esse fortissima mother and omnia reign against and reign in the sternum. 5
(Com. in Dan, c. II.) V. Francs-Magons et Juifs, page 653.
(2) Talmud, traité Meghilia, fol. 2 recto ; and treaty Aboda-Zara, fol. 3 verso; cité par Drach, The harmony between U' Church the Synagogue, etc., t. I", p. 555.
(3) V. Framos-Magons et Juifs, p. 654.

—

— 448 —

His testimony is sufficient for all centuries anterior. It is admirably confirmed by our document: Jew of the same century, the letter of the prince of Constantinople.

This piece from 1489, secret correspondence, destined not only the Jews, but also the ideas and expectations of their people's leaders have always been same: «By putting the Christians under your leadership, you dominate the world...; you will understand by experience that, unlike you, you come to. make of power.

Of our days, nothing has changed Jans these thoughts of Jews, both from the Orient and the West. _

The Orient no longer loses its hope for a soon, little by little, see Jerusalem « capital of all the nations under a Jewish chief (1) ».

In the West, hope is not only persevering, but he is more than happy with the successes.

For the first month of our nineteenth century, we have the precise affirmation of Rabbin Drach, dont The authority on this point is irreversible. Here is what it we learn the ideas and expectations of our nation and its leaders during this era, after the teaching of your doctors and your rabbis:

"The Messiah must be a great conqueror, who « Where all the nations of the world are Jewish slaves.

« Phants and charges of wealthy people evacuated to the infi-

(1) Read the two citations made in REEL and Jews, p. 454-55. pe

- 149 -

« items (1). » « The object of his mission will be delivered Israel dispersed, leaving the country in the Holy Land, to establish and consolidate a temporary rain not It will last all over the world. All nations therefore will be taken to the Jews, and the Jews will their strength is that of the individuals who compose and of their goods (2). »

For the second month of our century, I multiply to draw my citations and I take them from all prices:

In 1860, a German, named Stamm, published in Amsterdam a book in the same way as the advertisement in the world

(1) V. On the harmony between the Church and the Synagogue, 1844,
p. 98.

(2) V. Deuvième letter from a Rabbin converted to the Israelites, his brothers, on the reasons for his conversion, p. 99. Paris, 1827. This affirmations of the famous Rabbin are certainly more probable that he had already learned in these ideas and that he had taught to others, In this second letter, the story sur $on enfance a pleasant and characteristic anecdote, which comes to the aid of his words and our citations: (In school "Where I was, in Strasbourg, the children were caught in the resolution of « fair, at the first appearance of the Messie, mainly bass on « all the confectioners' shops in the city. We are discussing for "know who will deposit that precious butin. In attendance
"The dragees were distributed with forceful foot and toe strikes.
& These ad hominem arguments constitute a convention, in truth "Because everyone had to watch what he always said. I'm « dressed for a long time, for me, the state of a beautiful place & shop on the Place d'Armes, where I had just arrived « my devolution. » (Deuxième lettre, p. 319.) Les doctrines talmu-diques sur la triumph de Israel à la Messie venue at the beginning of this century everything was quite middle age.

This was not a mistake in teaching these ideas reigned in all its spirits among the Jewish people, but only of teaching.

s

no
De

29 no AIDE

éme ia Sofa
ae fos nip a ITY

. a

Ane Te TUT

– 150 –

that the kingdom of universal freedom on earth is was taken away by the Jews.

In the same year, another, German, also,
and here signe Sammtter, address a long letter to a Berlin journal to demonstrate that « now the Jews must take the place of the noblesse chrétienne », and that « God dispersed the Jews on the earth whole, because they are like a ferment for all the people, and like the prisoners, destined to RÉGNER one day FOR ALL MEN ».

What will be this “rain of universal freedom” and the Jew, another son of Jacob of Frankfurt, said in 1858 :

"Rome, he wrote, here he is, for several centuries, « The Jewish people have been hurt on their feet and must be torn apart by the "Forces unite this same people here, by their own means, "light shines on the whole world and brings humanity « an eminent service (1). »

analogues, also professed by the Jewish ears.

In 1861, the president of the Universal Israelite Alliance said, lawyer Crémieux, wrote in several of his discourse :

"Israel will not stop." This little boy, it's the « Greatness of God..... A messianism of new « Days must be cleared and developed... A Jerusalem "of new order, holy assent between the East and

(1) See the World, 12 November 1875, which cites the time d' Amsterdam, the Prussian Votksblatt of Berlin, n° 229, 1860, and the Frankfurter Journal of 1858, no. 346, – 151 –

« The West must replace the double city of the Césars « and the Popes (1). »

In 1864, a French Jew from Nancy, M. Lévy Bing, wrote these:

© gene He would have closed since the first
« the last of our books (sacred and liturgical) is gone "Chase the Jerusalem of our dreams!" And these aspirations, « These thoughts are not even something intimate,
"Personnel for our race is a universal need.....
"It is necessary... to see soon..... a tribunal a supreme, the great demolished publics, the « complaints between nation and nation, young man at last « department, and don't grasp the slogan foi. And this word is "The word of God, pronounced by his young sons, the He« breux, and towards the source it is inclined with respect to all les puinés, it is the universality of men, ours « Brothers, our friends, our disciples (2). »

The reservations of M. Lévy Bing are not small, because after that it is necessary that, soon, the nation juive submits to the Supreme Court, and jugeant in the last resort, from all over the world, the people, universal arbitrator, do not grasp the word, par consequently the Pope's people. fl is not alone in this ideas:

"God, who in 1866 created the universe of Paris,
"Israel chooses to be the torchbearer of Vhuma-

In 1868, M. Isidor, Grand Rabbin of France,

(1) Archives isradlites, XXV, p. 515 and 600. Paris, 1851.

(2) Israelite Archives, p. 335 & 350. 1864.

(3) Univers israelite, IL, p. 71. 1866.

5

+

– 152 –

contains some of the ideas which particularly appeal to M. Crémieux. The analysis:

The world's metropolis must regenerate (by the Jew) be in London, in Paris, in Rome, but Jerusalem, re-levée of its ruins, « a new Jerusalem », ap-pelée to great destinies, and who will be "at the time the « city of past and future (1) ».

We see, under a form or under another, all These Jewish boutons express the hope and expectation of the universal domination, physical or moral, of their race. These modernized Jews read like the Universe Israelites and M. Lévy Bing, who are Orthodox, are reformed Talmudists, the others are pure reformists, anti-Talmudistes et Progressives (2).

(1) Archives Israelites, XI, p. 495. 1868.

(2) On the question of the Messiah, the Jews of our day divided into two camps. For the anti-Talmudist Jews, the Messie is no longer a man, and his appearance will not be a mistake particular. Messie, for you, is a philosophical idea, which appears in Jacob's race, is the progressive idea and revolutionary who tried to break all religions, institutions and societies based on revelations, sacred books and positive and exclusive doctrines. The Messie venue is a philosophical era and all a set of events; it is the current era, our era of revolution and progress, head of the march the modernized Jew, and who prepares the complete triumph of his nation.

always a real character, and his venue, like his triumph, a future special event. These faithful of the Talmud regard the current era, this philosophical era that we traverse—sons and among their brothers anti-Talmudistes, militants, etc., have a big part in the action and a call for revolutionnaire, like one of the stages that prepare the venue and the triomphe—very much desired by your Messie. (V. The Jew, the Judaism, etc., (p. 474–75, et passim.)

Remarks here of two new things. 1° The Jews anti—

| — 153 —

To these tesmoignages Venus d'Israël, additions of the te-christian sentiments.

The manifesto of the Russian deputies of 1868 is still provide us with a guarantee that the ideas and expectations

The Jewish Talmudists' prayers of the 19th century are ideutical to those of the middle age Jews.

History proves, they say, that Judaism is "characterized by predomination and exclusivism « the most severe... Pushed by an instinctive force to « isolate yourself in the environment of the people who surround you,
"(the Jews) said that they cannot make a case « Commune with the Christian people, because they are their « diametrically opposed in every way. We observed at « Contrary to what we mean by transport, « Be it big, be it small, they introduce absolutely, by the effect of their presence, the germs ©

"of destruction and dissolution; because their tendency is "DEATH FROM THE OTHERS' RUINS. And how much « According to the reconnaissance, it is completely overcrowded « They are alienating the people who have given them "Hospitality, because they regard it as « usurpers. That's why they use fonts from all « means to acquire new rights of su—

Talmudists are the least numerous, what the most aggressive against Christian society. The Talmudists form the mass established primarily in the Eastern European countries and in the vast regions of Africa and Asia. 2° The Princes -de Judah governs and leads absolutely these two parties of their people and are afraid of one like the other, so, at the time marked by God, there was no difficulty in this which they acclaim to all the people and the doctrine of a man who would be the antechrist.

s 5°

nm me

vs
—

FIL re

days

he

r
r

LS RE Le

HE
a PR
ending

— 154 —

€ PREMISES AND DOMINATION OF THE UNIVERSITY, rights "which they confirmed by their ancient religreek..... D

"The Jews consider the time when they fit other people like a time of expiation, d'éfear, exile, and the inhabitants of the country where Ns are moment celebrities where they constituted new A DISTINCT NATIONALITY. Their religion nourishes of this hope, in their faisant opening the perspective of a brilliant future, where, finally, your SOULS DOMI-DON'T CARE ABOUT HUMANITY IN THE WHOLE! ».....

"It is for us a fact that resulted in all these details, such as the perseverance with the source the Jews take racine and accept sent to Romania, it is what they say about it here This Jewish State is the first realization of YOUR IDEAS OF PREDOMINATION OVER CHRISTIAN PEOPLE-TIENS (4). »

The Russian deputies who know perfectly the Jews, because they have studied and seen in the work for a long time in their. proper country, parlent of this people, through the reporting of ideas, expectations and actions, absolutely as we have done middle age. These Jewish talmudisants of the second month of our century are therefore entirely reminiscent of their fathers of the recluse era, and those attending, all like you, your day of triumph and domination universal.

RAAAAA RA

m RA & AAA

(1) The motifs of the draft law against emancipation of the Jews of Romania: – Archives Israelites, IX and X, 1868.

– 1585 :. í

Finally a nice appreciation, it is a little more for a year now, we know that we are beginning . generally today to recognize the reality of these desires and these ambitions visible to the people contemporary Jew.

In an article from the Universe (27 January 1881) titled The mental alienation in Italy reveals the strange re-following brands:

« Strange things! The Jews have been apart five times more-"But the other social classes..... The fact of

« to Italy; on the signal in other counters, and the
 "It is explained by two reasons: the one who comes from « prepared for the gain, of the passion of the avarice; the other « of the ambitious goal that modern freedom and « their success in politics, in finance, in « press, in education, in philosophy, in "The arts developed together with the Jews. II is good « Certainly this race is strong and intelligent, « in the midst of his sometimes virtuous circles, « REMAINS THIS TODAY THE EMPIRE OF THE WORLD. She is an author « distinguish yourself by the head, although she lacks
 «

heart. In her, ingratitude is innate, and vice versa

« give way to ambition. »

II note that these citations are complementary fisantes.

All these statements are consistent, from sources and dates are different, so it is an unreasonable demonstration. sand of existence among the contemporary Jews and at their chefs' helm of a dream and an invincible wait-blemishes of their future domination of the entire universe, – 156 –

II.

But, in addition, our Jewish letters of 1489 give us four-there is a new and inattentive light on the thoughts of Israel.

From the 15th century onwards, the Jewish princes they are more willing to wait and see; they have formally wanted to act. They have conceived a plan of walk in the pattern of transforming their lengths expectations in reality; they imposed on all their nation, here, sitôt that times have offered the opportunity properly, faithfully and persistently executed.

The simple reading of the letter from Prince of Constantine tinople proves that it renferme the trace of a conducting line nice and clear.
 But this line of conduct is not limited to one case see that the only Spanish and Provençal Jews sax. It is evident, by context, that 'this letter give a general direction, applicable to the Jews of all countries and all times, then the result to obtain is universal: «Put the Christians under the joug... », « parvenir. by virtue of the power, and « rule the world ». Because this is what it is,

It is evidently necessary that all the Jews of the moon-to take the part and summarize the efforts common, identical and persevering in the same sens.

Therefore this letter escapes us, not only the pre-

- 157 -

permanent sense of the idea of universal domination in the spirit of the Jewish princes, but more than life, of a certain plan conceived by us to realize your secular ambitions.

The princes of Judah came and formed this plan before the 15th century? They were asked to apply in the previous centuries? I don't know. But it is sure that, during all ages, and since the 18th century 18th century, when our Western societies had serve a certain degree of Christianity, the Jews do not they don't take them in, they don't throw them away. We are finding some-us, here and there, who take up positions educated, or who are considered to be at the cause of their talents, at the expense of their extraordinary wealth, but the action is absolutely zero, as far as the difference fusion and influence of their ideas.

To ensure that your ambitious projects succeed» He failed to convince the Jews, always, that his plan of action had well and gently formulated, then an energetic and sagace direction, a complete and persistent obéis-sance to their bosses, and finally the circumstances favora-bles. They told you all these things.

We must agree that the routing line should be Jews are the most skilled. In vain and in an acclimatizing manner with a lens, in need of a subtle conversion cover, tou-these important positions and all the living forces of Christian Nations, Commerce and Finance, Magic treasury and barrage, management of public affairs in a short time, to hold everything between your hands and to completely dominate all these people.

– 158 –

The Jewish prince here wrote this letter of 1489, or not import what its predecessors imagined plan certainly gave you genius inspiration.
He admired the resources of his race, orgueilleuse, tenace, vindicative. intelligent and pro-living among all other human races, wonderfully done by consistently among all rapports to accept, operate and maintain the application of this plan and the realization of these designs.

That's when. him and his successors have done well and tighten with secure tool that they use, that they knew it perfectly and was well organized nisé, as we have proven, for an easy direction.

The history of a past that has been somewhat lost, that of a present lamentable and full of menaces for a nearnir, demonstrating that the Jews are universally caught and adopted the ideas of their bosses.

However, it was not possible to conclude that all the indistinct Jews, Talmudists and modernists of all degrees in the social school are complete in the current of actions and gestures, projects and tra-me, and the deeply mysterious politics of your supreme princes. At a certain moment, the nation to the reception, and it was received without any delay at other, a powerful impulse that changes the shape, is of general orders or specific prescriptions, be it defence or advice, and here; partner of senior managers, he has been informed, on all points of the globe, by its interim and immediate chiefs-diets. This impulse last summer is still today d'autant more docilely accepted and faithfully followed – 159 –

secular aspirations and that it leads to incontestable and extraordinary successes. They are therefore pu, and set yourself to execute, and continue to execute the plans of their bosses with a loyalty, a perseverance and a surprising ability, without having to need anything know in their ideas, their drawings and their voices. Car he must necessarily arrive, as the Jewish author observes judiciously. etc., that there really is "a big difference... between this
"What croit and say is the community of Jews, and the secret « think of the chiefs and masters of the mysteries of the « judiciary (1). »

I'm going to say more: it's possible, it's even croya-ble that the near totalitarianism of the Jews was also known not the members of the Grand Council, and again least his president, prince sovereign of all Israel; and even the biggest number ignores existence of these great characters and one thing absolutely nothing and does not hurt at all in the way that the nation is governed. You will be nicely surprised by your affirming that there are other authorities above heads of their judges or rabbis and grand Rabbis of their synagogues.

The reason for this is that the people
The Jew has been around for centuries, like a society secret. We know that in the French-Masonry, generally in the occult associations, the community the members do not know that their immediate bosses and not in relations with each other alone, without saying goodbye,

(1) Gougenot des Mousseaux, Le Juif, etc., p. XXXIV, – 160 – |

well sane, or at least without stopping to think that there may be others. Those who save, and who are looking for more long, possessing degrees educated; They are little known and they preserve a secret absolu à l'endre des chefs superieurs. It is Even in the Jewish nation, the big bosses are be too rigorous to keep you inconvenient.

This situation can be produced even outside of secret societies. The summer experience was made in our quarantine for years under the Gallic regime, the thought and name of the Sovereign Pontiff was quite evocative of the spirit of simple, faithful people, the majority does not pay any attention to the role, not to the need for baptism in the Church, and pen-said to be afraid that there was a Pope. For you, the only ones Existing and indispensable leaders in the government spiritually, it was the witch and the cure.

The ignorance of the great majority of Jews in the East of their supreme chiefs and the government of their nation was therefore not bombarded, nor was it contrary-gate with their star and their perseverance to pour -

the execution of the duties of these bosses, when they are presented the appropriate occasions. |

These occasions, we say, were well favorable. |

Protestantism, the upheavals of society chrétienne, the shelter and the mask of the Masonry and of other secret societies, have potentially helped the Jew in his work. For France in particular, our successive revolutions, our progress in Virréli-region, indifference, incapacity and complexity of our governments, have been procured by the Jews, primarily in the nineteenth century, the greatest facilities to penetrate absolutely, remove everything, even without hypo-a mandatory crisis, and without being foreseeable.

- 161 -

And they say, the inattention and insult of the Catholic what Christians are open to all Israel the possible entries.

That the Jewish plan was already known in the 15th century, not only to the Christians, but also to those who folie absolutement inoffensive; what is xvr? century, even

After the outbreak of the Reformation, the waiting was exciting the conceit. Christian society seemed strong, it is available well and has withstood for a long time Jew, what we could, what we should have done even if nothing craindre. 1

But at the beginning of the nineteenth century, after the intellectual and moral orgies of the great

Revolution, it is well placed to monitor the menaces the Jewish people, at least after the warnings that authorized voices made data available to the company European.

Mr. de Bonald, who sought to justify the regime under The Jews have been leaving for France, wrote in 1819 the following words, which were like an advert that fits under our eyes:

"The Jews, because they always replied in « France, united between us, like those who suffer for "a single cause, and intelligence with the transgressive Jews « gers, surely, has served its wealthy to acquire « a great influence in the popular elections, – 162 – |

"and certainly serve their influence to acquire DE « NEW RICHES (4). »

It is not the letter that we are travelling from eyes? It does not mean that these lines are the summarized by a contemporary journalist, from our political elections since a decade?

In 1831, a Christian association protecting the Jews, disappeared in one of his reports, and here they are at the address of all Christianity: |

"When the Christians reconcile themselves to their
"I renounce being Christian and despising the prose-« Jews lie, but not only Jews will be their "Egoux, but THEY WILL BE ABLE TO GET THEIR MASTERS (2). »

liquids and the Christians, accepting and proclaiming the modern principles, the Revolution or the Antichristianism, only open in the ranks of the parties said liberally, should be involved in the associations patents and occults of masonry, to the replenishing and to the impostors, they become «conselytes» and "New brothers" for the Jews, who have already made the valet and instruments of their princes.

The warnings of these two writers of the com-
The measures of our century have become dissident.
People don't want to pay attention. Favorite tour the Jewish visions.

(1) De Bonald, Mélanges, t. II, p. 256. Paris, 1819, in-8°. XI.

of the complete oeuvre. – These words by Philosopher Pilustre are, from a political perspective, one of the most justifiable reasons-tives of the establishment and maintenance of the ghetto.

(2) Goschler's Dictionary, art. Emancipation of the Jews.

| – 163 –

Few people know that if the Jews do not come no plan and no plans, and more, unity of direction and universality of obedience and d'efforts, but we have not seen the programme of 1489 accompanied by a letter, as we have in our apparently today; he is no longer there, he is not contestant: the fact is that which imposes. It is enough to repeat what he says, operate and see.

III.

Take a look, from one side, the prince's program de Judah in his main points, and, of the others, the situation of the Jews at the current time.

In the 15th century, 1489, the prince of the nation wrote Constantinople on the subjects of Provence and Spain persecuted, in these terms:

« Make your children MARCHANDS, little by little
"They are throwing away the Christians from their homes. » |

« NOTARIES AND THAT THEY ALWAYS HAVE AFFAIRS
« THE STATE, therefore, in meeting THE CHRISTIANS UNDER "YOUR JOKE, YOU RULE THE WORLD, and you
"I can defeat you. » |

In the 19th century, many journalists stated the situation in Israel.

In terms of commercial and financial reporting, they are un-nimes to discover that the Jews are directing the branches the most important in commerce and industry, which they break the monopoly of finance, of

$
about TE POU e

EEE RER N

– 164 –

Exchange, gold, silver, all kinds of metals cieux, of all kinds of transport routes. ..; qu'il "It is not companies that Jews do not have « large part, point of public dismay that they do not accept « rent, point of disaster that they were not prepared for and do not « ts ne profitent... v; that through their trade and their finances, « the Jews of the nineteenth century are deve« we have a power towards the source of the decline more large men of the state, and here, from time to time
"other, to be erected as far as the thrones" (4).

Under the governmental and political report, this Journalists also affirmed in 1844 that the minis-are the most important of the largest countries in.

Europe is ruled by the Jews, and all European policy is threatened secretly by us; at 185%: « they are the masters... and on the throne of world (2) "; in 1872 : that THE CONSOLIDATED FIGHTS are ENTIRELY from the law, not the origin

Judaism is the most deeply unknown of the Christians; in 1875 and 1876: which they possessed and inspired almost

(1) V. Francs-Maçons et Juifs, p. 531-37, where these statements are cités allut au long, with their sources.

(2) This last word is not known in France and Jews. She is Michelet, a well-known anti-Catholic writer. Here is what he says: (At the middle age, he who says where is gold, "The true alchemist, the true sorcerer, is the Jew. The Jew, « The man in the world... it is he who must address... Sale « and prosperous nation!... But they have solved the problem of 4 volatile the wealth. Affranchised by the letter of change, they « They are now free, they are MASTERS | The soufflets and souff- (bikes, voila, TO THE CROWN OF THE WORLD! » M. Hallez, writer favorable to the Jews, reports in his book Les Juifs en France (Paris, 1854, p. 37-38) this passage of a discourse or of a conférence de Michelet,

Bear i~ , , 99 - ! $\frac{1}{4}$..~ ' .~] uA ty « EVA

- 165 -

all the press; that through them they form the opinion...

2

they are the Reds of the Era; in 1881: that « the € UNIVERSAL DOMINATION, as the conquerors have « surprised, it's between your hands (1) ».

(1) It is of utmost importance, I already said in com- threatening this work, that the brightest possible light is on the financial and political power of the Jew here, according to the prediction of M. de Bonald, is one to amen the other, and reciprocity. That's why, without being too long on this subject, I cite here in many different statements recent ones which have not yet been assigned to the French-Masons and Jews:

"Europe is hostile to Israel's domination. The Jews are « stunned ALL THE ESTATES of a new mortgage, and of a « mortgage that these states cannot easily repay with « their income. Universal domination, so conquered- « rants have dreamed, the Jews from between their hands, Jerusalem a € tribute imposed ON ALL EMPIRES. La. first part of € public revenue from ALL STATES, the clearest product of « work of all, pass in the Jewish exchange under the name € OUT OF NATIONAL INTEREST. » (The Jews of the East, by M. Wolski, work published by Le Contemporain, delivery of L' Estafette, in an article on the stock exchange, says the magazine financier of the newspaper Le Figaro and says: "This financial magazine It is impossible to say that the current situation is due to the antagonism existing between bankers and companies credit v. The relay adds: "All the courage of Figaro « stop there; he who says that this thing is between the bang « Israelites and the French bank. That's not it. conclude that the "The ruin of the French bank is not likely to bring « France in service, it is a matter of thanks to a BANDE € ISRAELITE who does not work for HIS POLICE « TIQUE. I think this is good because Figaro is also known "that I love this place. He also knows well that I am talking about « Tenu, he is there a few days, at Versailles, with one of the most huppés « from the band: « in two years, the Catholics are not fed "that is why THE JEWS ARE LOST v. The proposal is textual and not « less topical. » (City of the Universe, February 28, 1882.)

The reader did not forget, without doubt, the recent disaster of the The Union General Bank prepared and caused by Jewish financiers,

– 166 –

And for France in particular, these journalists disent, en 4847: that all the graduates and lucrative jobs tifs, see those of the magistracy, are to be nominated you Jew; in 1878: that in the highest positions of government, court of cassation, court of accounts, Council of State, Chambers, Institute, etc., the number of Jews who are admitted are 80 to 100 times more consi- It is surprising that their digital situation, compared to The Catholics did not have to worry (1). En In 1881, all journalists reported this: « Ily currently in France cent soixante-dix-neuf « Prefecture governors, assistant prefects and councillors here « they are Jews (2) ».

Finally, two reports in French- Macons and Jews, and it is useful to bring under the eyes of the readers and to recommend to their serious reflections, perfectly summarizing the situation of-

(1) V. Francs-Macons et Juifs, p. 531-87.

(2) V. Courrier de la Vienne, 5 June 1881. – The Universe of December 2, 1881 contains what follows: «Beautiful people, « Here the movement of the population takes place, that is, « last time, ask what could be better the code

"more and more expensive for the Jewish element, in public life.
 « The review of 1872 gives us the number of 14 Israelites « by the thousand inhabitants, as well as that of the Catholic population
 The average price is €9,800, for 10,000 people. Malgré this disproportionate "Enormous role, played by the Israeli element, taking the proportion "actions that are inappropriate for those who play the same element in Austria, "Whereas 380 Israelites are counted by thirty-four thousand inhabitants,
 "We have an Israelite on the ministerial bench, of many « Israeli senators and deputies, all a phalanx of presidencies and « of Israelite sub-presidents, judges and Israeli substitutes by « douzaine ; how much at the bar, it was no longer counting "The Jewish lawyers, they are very numerous. »

– 167 –

juif au . dix nineteenth century in the two hemispheres pheres.

The RP Ratisbon, converted Jew, shall become ruler Catholic, strong in the course of the things of his nation, designed in 1868:

« Naturally skilled, ingenious and possessed by the instinct of DOMINATION, the Jews HAVE ENJOYED GREAT « DUELLEMENT all the avenues that lead to « riches, dignities, power. Your spirit is little by little infiltrated into modern civilization. IIs

« conducting the stock exchange, the press, the theatre, the literature-« ture, the administrations, the great voyages of com« munication by land and sea, and by ascending
 "Of THEIR FORTUNE and their genius, THEY ARE GETTING STARTED-"REE, Q the hour that it is, AS IN A NETWORK, TOUTE THE « CHRISTIAN SOCIETY (A). »

These words are even more true today (in 1832) that when they were written, he was quatorze ans; because the rising march of the Jew is not ralenty.

Dix ans after 1878, a distinguished economist, and not relying on scientific data economic and statistical, confirmed the affirmations almost all apparent:

"What functions, what honors, what attributes

« property of Israel I... THE ELVATION NEAR DISRAEL « AT THE FACT OF THE GREAT seems certain, perhaps, IN
"AT THIS MOMENT, nobody should argue. Yes, at

(1) La Question juive, page 9. Paris, 1868.

+
- -

-
e. me 727245

Ther
aou en)

FA

E he

LEE

-
DUCK

. *

he

RS A Eee M Te

r~ en gle AS Ss

- 168 -

« movement of societies, we see, little by little, « something extraordinary that made a marriage
« du sort, GOVERNOR OF THE NATIONS: AFTER YOU APPLY « ALL THE RICHES, and then multiply "without measuring, chasing" from behind him, the habi-
« all over the earth (1). » |
= Now take the razor to compare the angles, the cries of indignation and alarm of all these published cistus, proférés in the mid-19th century, with the plan of confiscation and domination traced by the Prince Juif of the XVIII, and see these various documents do not let us pass by the other living and effervescent light | |

This evacuation programme, slowly and successfully, « of all the important positions and of all the living forces of the Christian nations, trade and finances, magistracy and barrage, management of private and public affairs », it is not admirable-ment realized? | | |
To the Jews of 4489, humiliated and persecuted, it was said: | | | =.

« YOU ARE MET BY THE CHRISTIANS, IN YOUR YOGA, DOMINATE THE WORLD... Don't forget the ORDER that we donnons you because you perceive by expériences that, lower than you are, you arrive AU

GET THE POWER. » l
The Jews of 1868, 1875, 1878 and 1884 are particularly recognized and proclaimed that

(1) M. du Mesnil-Marigny, History of the political economy of old peoples. 1878, p. 283.

- 169 -

"THE PARTNERS ARE AS IN A WHOLE NETWORK

THE CHRISTIAN SOCIETY; They are the Kings of the Era; their next elevation seems to be at FAITE DES GRANDEURS Certainly, UNIVERSAL DOMINATION is between you mains. » |

SOURCE REUSSITE!

We cannot leave another rap-apparently, of little importance, but who is value, and this is very strange.

"Make sure your children are LAWYERS...

"and now ILLUSION OF STATE AFFAIRS v, wrote, in 1489, the Jewish Prince of Constantinople. Or It is historically certain that, Mr. Lawyers, for over a century, playing an extremely important role | important in all political affairs, in France particularly. At the end of the 19th century, the remsaid the lodges of the secret societies; they are subscribers again today. They were born in large numbers in all the political assemblies of our first re-evolution, but my memory does not make me any mistake in this point, of all the corporations suppressed by the Constituent Assembly, alone, of the lawyers who are separated and maintenance. In our revolutions of 1848 and 1870, not only they are. found many strong encore in the various legislative bodies, but they by the most senior directors of our republics. And pre-sentence (1882), as then, we say with a journalist from 1872: All lawyers, our masters (1)!

Combien y at-il en que momento de jews parmi

(1) V. Franos-Magong et Juifs, p. 646, note.

5

- 470 -

Gentlemen of the barreau? This would be a statistically significant eager to produce and publish. The journal l'Univers, we have seen, but I will answer you in general to this question: "How much on the bar, it was not more and count the Jewish lawyers, BUT THEY ARE NOMBRE.
It would be almost impossible to believe that this Jewish prince to you the prophetic intuition of the influence anticipated-public affairs, at our time, the art of speech and the corporation of lawyers. |

The Jew therefore wants to dominate the world. Since four centuries ago, the line of traffic followed for at-
' but he was traced and imposed by the bosses supremes of his nation. Since almost a century, the Jews of all countries, profiting from the circonstances favor-rables, it applies with the greatest intensity, and with the most precise discipline, to put into practice the programme and to realize the plan and the drawings of their bosses. It cannot be explained, it seems to me, support the opposite. But finally, by impossible, the meet someone who contests the existence of this idea and this project of universal domination to the Jews, in the past, it would be obligatory, by the a striking example of what to expect from a less, in the present, due to the power of the mense dont they have, and by many wonderful success that they have already obtained, the princes of Israel doi-have the thought and the formal resolution of devenot the unique and absolute masters of the universe. Cars, nothing more than the other men, these princes Jus ne are poured out of the organ and 1

- 171 -

IV.

A primitive plan, the princes of the Jewish nation 'have added, of our days, a detail of the highest importance, on what political men are well, to my opinion, to give the most serious attention-
tion. |

The Jew sees clearly today that he touches almost to his but. Again some efforts, again some years ago, and the whole world, Christian and païen, sera under the head of his chefs.

But his organ, his breath of grandeur, the need for take his revenge for many centuries of mépris, ne he does not allow himself to be subjected to domination hidden and unknown of the largest number, if real and if absolutely necessary, it can be. The Jew pretends to be present impose his will on the nations, and on the Christian nationstiennes surtout, like a Jew, like a Jewish people, under his name, proclaimed and accepted, by Jacob's sons. The as-desire to dominate and govern all the "non-Jews", like the English dominate and govern the Hindus.

To achieve this result, it must be a centre of nationality. It must exist first some part, in Palestine or abroad, like people recognized. This situation is not the case anymore; and the European governments, particularly Russia, the he had to feel in several circumstances. Yes, the

A RP ARE EE S, Pa Ay gt

– 172 –

Golos, from Saint-Petersburg, dated 3 to 5) 0C-tobre1869 : «It is not, as we say, the Jewish state in this moment; it cannot therefore be a question of a governor-not a Jew v. And, in July 1881, the Russian Agency for `

The same city declared: "A general complaint in favorite of the Jews is impossible, see that they do not exist Jewish government, Jewish administration (I) v.

Malgré all the secret power they possess, and en reason itself for its tendency, this position is affected, and, to say better, without regard to the state and the government existing vernements, must be profoundly vexing and humilier, we understand without pain, the prince's organ sovereign of Israel and its assessors.

It is very natural and very acceptable what they want moving and sorting. Even so, they are parvenus to get almost entirely for the individuals of their nation the titles and rights of citizens. of itself They propose to make donations to their people and to their determined and advantageous in the environment of the civilized states.

Return to Palestine and rebuild your nation lité is certainly good. the indomitable hope and the most ardent desire of the Jewish princes and their nation. But, for the time being, this matter is open rait of obstacles too large to avoid and quite difficult to assemble. You remain, exist from the beginning some of the Jews as a nation re-known and accepted, this will ensure preparation and advance the favorable solution for the return to Palestine (2).

(1) Univers, 26 July 1881.

(2) I may well be able to announce new developments here

– 173 –

That's why, for thirty years now, ron, the Jews are actively seeking to create this centre nationally, this against Israelites, in the Danube provinces.

Biennes, today kingdom of Romania.

This statement is serious and does not produce my particular concepts. She comes from the authorities other educated and confident: from the beginning. of the deput the wheels in motion.

I repeat the phrases that are remarkable, already mentioned, this kind of manifestation that they have presented to their vernement and which was published in all the newspapers of their countries in 1868 (1): |

"It is for us, they say, a fact that

« EVENT with the help of the JEWS PRESENTED BY RACINE AND « ACCESSING IN ROMANIA. It's what they are talking about « GET HERE THIS JEWISH STATE, WHICH IS THE « first realization of your ideas of predation « on the Christian people. »

The affirmation is nice and precise. For the deputies . Russians, it is a fact, consequently indefinite-nice that the Jews in Romania are

STATE AND A JUDAISM GOVERNMENT.

Remarks well the value of this testimony. This are three deputies and the President of the Sovereign Assembly this question. This desire and this hope are sufficiently demonvery in Franks-Magons and Jews, p. 653 et seq. How much The future event of this return is a point of exegesis sacred. |

(1) Statement of the motives of the draft law against emancipation of the Jews in Romania. (Archives Israelites, IX and X, 1868.)

55

SE

—.

See LIT

— —

Romanian woman who advances this fact, who is assures and denounces them and Europe!

But it is not for the sole purpose of this that it is conse-done and affirmed. The Russian people all say that same thing. The Jew Crémieux and the press author-can recognize him. |

"The prejudice against the Jews, avoue ce-ci, is

"At this point (in Romania) that a candidate for a seat « vacant in the Constituent Assembly was engaged for-

"I have always been impressed by his profession,

« j'ai in my hands, & vote against all proposals-favorable attitude towards the Jews. » And the motif associated is that: « foreigners, the Jews of ROMANIA, PALESTINE, and BUCHAREST, THE NEW JERUSA-LEM (1). »

On the other hand, the newspaper la Presse reports that T is reporting | ceci:

« The Russian nation accuses Sir Moses Monte-flower (2) to appear in the Danubian Principality for FAIR A NEW PALESTINE, for to Romania, their territory and their products (3).

This irresponsible and shocking testimony of all little is it a veritable revelation of the project that The Jewish princes were added to their plan in 1489.

This project, they work to make it a success through

(1) Archives Israelites, XVI, p. 719. 1866.

(2) Sir Moses Montefiore is the same English Jew that we had seen intervene, in 1840, in favor of the assassins of Father Thomas de Damas, in company with M. Crémieux, (3) Archives tsradlites, XX, p. 929, 1867.

- 17 -

efforts of the whole nation: Talmudists and Jews modernizes itself as much as it can.

According to the orders of their chiefs, the Talmudic Jews ritable evacuation of this small state. The deputies Romanians died in 1868, in their exposition:

« The invasion of Jews in Romania, and particularly in Romania in the seventh quarter, at a price in these last years, the proportions are reasonable, which affected the Romanian population; car they are caught in a hostile, hostile part race, who formed on the side of the Romanian nation a national foreign language and opposed to the interests of the cell-la...
These evaders are currently forming a popular lation floating DE OVER FIVE CENTS A MILLE AMES.....
« here CONTINUALLY GROWS. »

In the following years, two journalists constabecause this Jewish invasion is always in full swing (1).
By an official document dated 9 July 1879, and

m A RA A „ „ „ RA

addressed to all European countries, the premier mi-

President of the Russian Government, M. Campineano, his complaint with amertume (2). The statistics of the In 1878 and 1879 he proved that, between these two alone years, TWO CENT A MILLE JUIFS, Venus of Russia and of Autriche, was established in Romania (3).

(1) In 1875, the anonymous author of a brochure entitled: La Romania and German politics in the East. Paris, printing house railway station; and in 1879, M. Emmanuel Crezzulesco, former diplomatic agent of Romania in Paris, in his book: The Israelites in Romania, Paris, Dentu.

(2) V. Havas et Univers agency, 22 July 1879.

(8) World of 12 October 1879, – 176 –

These Jews immediately become owners of large, very extensive areas, or by acquisitions direct, or by mortgage, guarantees of their uses. Mr. Campineano says in his memoir that, « in Moldova, a large part of the

and that she will pass completely soon.

The Russian Jews were asked to insist on Government of the Danubian Provinces their émancipation, it means equality of civil and political rights.
them with the indigenous people.

This concession has the greatest importance for the success of the Jewish princes' plan; car « the pro-rural priest, says M. Campineano, plays the main role in the country's political organisation, particularly in the constitution of the electoral colleges which call Senate and which also competes for the formation of the Chamber of Deputies v. So the Jews, they already have the major part of the property in Romania, arriwent beyond obtaining citizens' rights, it was manifest that the same blow acquired the upper main in the elections. Evidence seems to be nommore Israelis for deputies and senators, and,
In very few years, they would become the uni-these and the highest directors of the administration, of the politics and government. Romania is transformed insensitively in the Jewish state, but it pours by the princes of Judah it was found completely mind and noiseless.

But the nation and the Russian authorities, preventing all these consequences and not being able to absorb bees by the Jews, pronounced with the greatest

- 177 - =

energy against their emancipation. All the laws here they refused the title and violated citizens' rights rigorously maintained.

So the top leaders of Israel, to triumph in this resistance, firent march their other corps d'ar-mee. The modernized Jews of the Alliance israelite univerthey embark on their battle line tour. II false There is a reason to intervene. The apparent motif is moving found: the Jews of Moldavia are forced to pretend through popular services and persecutions (in 1867). The
The Russian government is clearly demonstrating serious inquiry that the Jews themselves are € OCCASIONNÉ, Sinon provoked the movement (1) », the pretext sought was at their disposal; it was all what the Israeli leaders want. " & 4

Exhibited by the President of the Alliance, lawyer Crémieux, make, by the press, the world aware of its suffering letters on letters to all European governments,

(1) The Minister for Foreign Affairs of Romania,

Mr Stefan Golescu, then, replied in these terms to Sir Montefiore:

"I am in a position to assure you, Sir, that the troubles

"The Jews are not afraid, because they are very regrettable to all « Egarde, are little to present the gravity which was attributed to them

« very inexactly. The truth is that I would like to add it, ` d'after Venguéte's data have been processed, this

« your religious leaders would be in trouble

"Occasionally, not provocatively, the movement is unnecessary. it happens ».

(City by the Israelite Universe, VIII, p. 371, 1868, and by The Jew, et al., 423.) Regarding this alleged persecution, the President of the Chamber

The Romanian legislature pronounces these phrases with applause-said: « These are you (the Jews) who are astonishing, and these are always you who are crying. G. Archives israélites, VI, p- 266, 1868, and The Jew, ibid.

r

- 178 -

the sommant d'intervenir en favor des Jews, malheureuses victims of roumaine intolerance, and d'exiger their total emancipation, in order to prevent the return of pareillos persecutions. The governments, all plus or less than by the Jewish Masonry, respond with a déférence that they are seriously occupying this matter. They intervene effectively in this sense of the Romanian authorities. |

On his side, M. Crémieux, assisted by Sir Montefiore, are returned to the Danubian provinces to act on the places in favor of its coreligionists, aux the assurance that, before one day, they would be punished by all civil and political rights of Russian indigenous peoples (1).

In general, the efforts of the Jews and their defenders not at all, at this time, completely successful; they bri-stands against the unanimous and desperate resistance of the nation roumaine,

But the Jew escapes because this tension exists. There is no point cessé to pour suivre the same but, and, for y arrive late or late, but the spirit of work is

Dix ans after these events, the Berlin congress (1878), by its article 41, it essentially stated the complete paternity of the Jews in Romania. This success has been achieved was obtained by the infatigable Crémieux, thanks to the pres- exercised by him before the Minister of Plenary French, the Franco-Anglican Waddington. Le gou- The Russian Federation recently protested strongly. French republican dies of all its weight in fa-

(1) See Israeli University journalists and archives ae de 1867 & 1869, et le Jew, etc., ch. XI'. 0

- 179 -

veur of the Jews. She has implemented this article 44 for condition sine gud non de sa reconnaissance offi- Romania's capital as independent power. Since then, not only has this independence been recognized by all states of Europe, but the Rou- mania for the summer 1881 in kingdom (1881). It is to be that, to crown Prince Charles aura cede, and that the Jewish chiefs, these supreme and mys- leading figures in all European politics, obtain sufficient cause (1).

Owners who are in possession of a large portion of the ritoire and the capitals of this kingdom, the Jews, citizens because of Romania, because then it will become rapid accordingly -the masters at the point of view of politics and gou- vernemental. We see without doubt, in a time more or less elected, a Jewish state is constituted in association, but above all, some grade franc-maçons educated. The Jews of the West and the East were therefore protected and directed, at this time, as now, by an authority central and sovereign which does not reside in an alliance that captured in the person of the Jews Crémieux and Montefiore.

(1) This campaign, fought together since 1867, against Romania, by the Talmudic Jews and the modernized Jews is a new presumption of the existence of a central power and: of a unique direction in the Jewish nation. All the Jews of The world therefore has to comply with the same authority and by executing the orders. On this issue of Romania, |' Alliance Universal Israelite has become a centre of action, not a lawyer Crémieux, the supreme boss; but it wasn't all that simple qu'un mean d'action et ce franc-maçon, un instrument En 1840, the alliance did not exist because it was completely new years later And then, at the occasion of the crime Ladies, all the venerated Jews of the West are in concert in favor of the Jewish Talmudists of the East, and with you, the same

Approx

– 180 –

this little country here, at a certain moment, could be good take the republican form, and not the king, the president-dent or the dictator will be the lieutenant soumis and dé-visited the prince, in an unknown name, who governs the na-Judeoliberalism. In a relatively small number of years, this State shall be reasonable; because I don't know that the Jews do not benefit the princes modern policies that are, according to all appearances, of their invention, or rather, at least, they have summered, by their press, patrons and promoters the more ardent. And of these principles, the establishment and the grouping of states by nationality, to produce the Italy and Germany united, to the benefit of people and the Christian princes. The Jewish people don't know, just here, it serves him himself, because he does not have point in territory where it is a central point and attractive of nationality. But this condition is realized in Romania, where the Jews lived against neighbors of this kingdom, Russian Jews, Austrians Turkish dogs, operate under orders and direction of their bosses, a movement of concentration in the border provinces of Romania. Then, and true to the principle of nationality, the Russian Jewish State advertise these provinces, like the people in ma-joy of the Israelites. Under pressure from the masonry, European governments are taking a more relaxed approach autrefois. Subsequently, these provinces will followed by known procedures or by the procedures:

new, in keeping with time and progress; et in less than a quarter of a century, a Jewish state tense and compact it was formed on the Danube.

It is easy to understand the power of politics

D Sains D

As

tique the Jewish chiefs auraient at this era between the mains. In part, as per Prime Minister's order, their Kingdom or their Republic fought for a great torité in the councils and external affairs of l'Europe. Of the others, they continued to dominate and direct the European governments through their financial these and by the masonry association and its annexes.

This will then be a game for us to establish and maintain stand in anti-Christian republics throughout the country d'Europe, including these republics, in others by war or by alliances, and finally absorb everything in their. Europe was also transformed into this Universal Republic which afflicts and precludes all the secret societies, vassals and slaves of the Jews. Are the princes of Israel already

The Ottoman Empire was not transformed by the intermedia of Russia, and occupied Palestine, no 8 'opposed more when they grasped directly conquer this land together.

Transport its centre of action and its capital at Messianic families, descendants of David, since long time can be all the time great Patriarch of the Mason and Supreme Prince of the Nation, ISRAEL DOMINATE THE WORLD VISIBLY. It will rain absolutely and completely des Jews, et . without any harm, that of the Antechrist.

What is it about their situation in Romania, and of their successes present and to come in this opposite, we are confident that, at the point of failure succeeded where their general plan came, the princes Jews, and their people with you, can no longer be THE JEWS, OUR MASTERS, | 6

fet ee ane che MT NEE US ,,, ee ONCE ws See ae

e gene

En SE

– 182 –
tendre fishing, by all the powerful means dont they have, "at the mercy" of power and grandeur, it is about putting the upper hand on everything, to fully exploit sovereign power in the entire universe.

It therefore affects all men extremely, and especially among Catholics and Christians, know what the dispositions are to your equestrian, and This is the special character of their future dominants.

This will be the subject of the following pages. |

$III. – The chief leaders of Judah, and the mass of their tion, was in the past, and is still in the present, animated against the Christian sentiments of all things blables to those of their ancestors, to the first centuries

I.

One thing is absolutely certain: the Jewish nation current descendants of these pharisees and others Jews who repossess and crucify the Messiah, Jesus-Christ, and here, of revolts in revolts against the Romans, have amended the ruins of their nation and their disfinal and total suspension across the world.

According to Drach, the synagogue currently there is nothing else that the continuation of pharisaism (I). | Í

(1) Diach, Do the harmony between the Church and the Synagogue. t; learner, pages 21; 60, 86, 249; and all I own.

– 183 –

Or we savons by the evangelists, by the others parties of the New Testament and part of the documents historically, what was morally these pharisees, this senior class and leader of the nation:

men orgueilleux, envieux, avarés, hypocrites, vindictors, persecutors, anger against the Christians and against all that raised the name of Jesus. | |

You first came to power in the sixteenth century, not you, not your nation not changing. The writings of the fathers and authors ecclesiastical in front of you. In this last century their doctors estimate the highest levels in the immense compilation appealed to the Talmud the quintessence of their teachings against Christianity, and their wild horse against the Christians. | |

« The Babylonian Talmud closed... the first years of the century. 11 minutes ago it was accepted by all Israel (1). »

(1) Drach, De l'harmonie, ibid., p. 164. – The Talmud, our

I have déjà vu, it is divided into two very distinct parts: the Mishnah, or Misna, which is the proper text, and which is a mélange of legitimate and true traditions, reproduction of the law oral, and false traditions, inventions of the Pharisees; 2v Les deux Ghémara, comments made posthumously on the Mishna. The Prime Minister appealed to Ghemara of Jerusalem and said also inappropriate Talmud of Jerusalem, composed by the 1st 3rd century by academic doctors, or Jewish schools, from the Palestine, at the time of the Patriarchs of Judaea. This Ghemara We have not had great success with the Jews, we have not produced great effect sur eux. The Rabbins have a deep respect for this Mind you, but they rarely advise. The second one appealed Ghemara of Babylone, and again, inexactly, Talmud of Babylone, the commentary was made on the Mishnah, from the 4th to the 6th century, in the academies 'Jews of Babylon, under the Princes of the captivité, It is this part of the Talmud which plays the role of the

– 184 –

Since this era, up to our days, this receipt is come for the whole nation, for its doctors and for his bosses, the sacred cure. par excellence, superior even from the books of Moses (1). He was careful, he studied and... by all, like the supreme and indisputable code of the religious, moral, political and social law.

greater and of absolute influence on all Jews; it is also those who breed in larger numbers all kinds of surdites, obscenities, impieties, blasphemy teachings-towers and prescriptions against the Christian religion and the Christians. The Mishnah is divided into six volumes: each order is divided into treaties, each treated, into chapters or distinctions. The Jews design each of these orders, treaties and chapters by one, two or three words that begin, as we do for the Bulls of the Sovereign Pontiffs. No The Ghemara of Jerusalem, nor the Ghemara of Babylone, explained all the traits of the Mishnah. The Talmud in its entirety form a large in-folio folder. (V. Drach, De l'harmonie, etc., pages 124, 124, 149, 170.)

(1) In the Jewish nation, 4 a single sect, called the Caraites,

do not enter your account beyond a few faithful cents." (Achille Laurent, History of Syrian affairs, etc. – The Jew, the Jew dalame, etc., p. 9.) How long has this been formed? sect, the histories vary. Let us remount the Caraites a century and half before the Christian era. (V. l'abbé Blanc, Course of Ecclesiastical History, t. I, p. 8, 1853). The others no the font dates back to the 8th century AD of our earth. (V. Dictionary of Goschler, au mot Caraites.) ;

The Caraites Jews, resident primarily in Cairo, in Constantinople and in the surroundings of this city, in Nicomedie, in Crimea and in Poland. (V. same dictionary.)

The report of a trip to Poland and Russia, published by the University on February 22, 1859, under the signature A. Morin, lady on the 'Please note the following details which contradict the previous opinions-teeth of historians, as far as the origin of this Jewish sect is concerned:

« The Polish Jews (they are all Talmudists) professed a « A very real apology for the Charités established in Crimea since 4 centuries ago... We visited with interest, not far from

.

– 185 –

This was not contested by anyone and did not survive.
But finally, until the ombre of a dot on the According to my readers, I will cite in the first place two testimonies that vaudront for all seasons with-take a look between you? and the 19th century exclusively, and for our contemporary era, I am adding to the mations of two or three irreconcilable authors.

One of the most celebrated Jewish doctors. Moise Maimonide, Rabbin of the nineteenth century, « not the authority is great, says Drach, in the synagogue 88 » by the of the Talmud in these terms:

"Everything that the Ghemara of Babylon contains is mandatory for all of Israel. And by obligation every city, by the doctors of La Ghémara, to follow their arrests,

R R A R

from Ghémara it was approved by all of Israel.

And the stories that have given these institutions, these crets, established these costumes, pronounced these decisions, taught these doctrines, formed both the universal few of Israel's doctors, but the majority. Ge sunt aH ARARA 2

« Batchi-Séraï, the mountain of Tchut-fut-Kale, where « the leaders of this tribe. Let's... look at the Bibles « Magnificent, portées, as they say, by their fathers of « Jerusalem in Babylon, and their descendants shall not be & they are separate. They reject the Talmud, assuring that their fathers "They are not arrested in Judaism at the end of the captivity, and they
"They are innocent of the murder of Justice... They generally « a large turban and long robes in rich colors. Yours « Women don't like being blind. They have a grave fortification, "And, in all their usages, something that brings back the ancient « Orient. »

to travel according to their institutions. Car the body those who come from tradition the foundations of

= nn ET TTT

Ts en

EN.

– 186 –

"All the laws, generation after generation, in remonstrance « like Moïse (1). »

This authority of the Talmud of Babylon is great quite respectfully, after that same doctor, the violator of his prescriptions must die,

"Those who violate the precepts of the scribes, and must be more severe than those here
"Moise's law is violent. The infringer of the law « It can be absurd, but the offender of the pre-« The Rabbis's words must be punishable by death... The pre-« my faithful servants must kill the Jew here « Not the Rabbinic tradition .. Not témoin, not admo-"Preparable actions, not games are necessary.
« Quiconque makes this execution a blessing to the work: he opened the scandal (2). »

The whole commentary on these texts would be superfluous.

These other words of a Rabbi of the 20th century are not not least tested:

"The immense compilation of the Talmud is re« two part Jews with a rapidity almost miraculous

« louis. She accepted her appearance, as the-« genuine pressure and sincere deference to the traditional law. Ve "Many schools where the Talmud becomes the object of

(1) Preliminary discourse of Yad Hhazaka (most powerful), famously translated from the Talmud, published in Hebrew by the Rabbinical Doctor.

V. Drach, De l'harmonie, etc., t. Ier, p. 164 et 179, et Diction-by Goschler, according to Maimonides.

(2) Maimonides: Treatise of Rebellious Doctors, C. III, p. 52.V.
Drach, Second Letter from a Converted Rabbin, p. 332. The Jew, etc., p. 51 and 79. According to the words of the sages, scribes and rabbis, Maimo-denounce the authors of the Talmud of Babylon.

No LS |

- 187 -

« At least the most respectable, it will take a hit in

« accepted by all the communities (Jews), and this « triple barrier. educated by the Rabbis of Palestine « and of Babylonia around the Torah (1) do not meet-
"Not a single thermometer that wants to burn. Com-
"If this transmission fits, it will be difficult for the « dire; but the fact is that the work closes on the edges
« the Euphrates fell, in an instant, between the main « Jews who live on the banks of the Rhine and the Danube « and of the Vistule (2). The attachment of the Jews to the
« The Talmud naturally wanted to signal this work « gigantic in the attention of their enemies (3). »

Our citations of the contemporary era are not less affirmative on the same subject.

Mr. Achille Laurent, one of the members of the "Society

(1) The Torah is the law of Moses; the triple barrier, it is the Mishnah and the two Ghemara.

(2) Rabbin Lazard, author of these lines, ignores or ignoring, although "this transmission" is easy and little " raculeuse », in reason of the hidden organization of the government of the Jewish nation, and of the existence of a unique centre for commandment and supreme power. This transmission of the Talmud between the hands of all the Jews of the world, "in an instant", and of these Talmudical schools which surprise, everything in one fell swoop, in the East and in the West, is a new and to join in with those who have exposed us most deeply, touching the absolute authority of the Princes of Israel, their communications prompts and regulations with all the Jewish communities, from the West as from the East, and the perfect submission from cells.
are to your sovereign orders.

(3) Archives Israelites, XII, p. 554-55, 15 June 1867. Paris, article by Rabbin Lazard. – This journal was published on this date, France, the modernized Jewish body, said anti-talmological reforms distes.

– 188 –

orientale » the most current Jewish questions Asia, in its own right, on the supreme level torité do not play the Talmud, at our time, to the eyes of all the Jews in general, and of the Orient in parti-cup : |

It is not that today the law on Jews. She stood out in the comments; and the Talmud, that is the book that says THE AUTHOR'S PLUS chez ce peuple, compose of the Mishnah which is the text, and of the Ghémara who is the commentaire. Their reunion forms the complete body of the doctortrine traditionnelle et de la religion..... The Talmud de Babylone is the only one who will follow..... The two Tales mudslide, as is well known, the law and the prophets. IT'S THE RELIGIOUS CODE OF THE JU:FS Mo-DERNES..... It's that all the croyances ; and when one has the courage to run this immense income, we still find THE CAUSES AGISSANTS of the people's forests against the rest of the dis-Persecuted by Israel It is the book that students and that so all those here, including the Jews, pretend to title of savant..... It is this comment (the Ghé- - mara of Babylon) which are derived from the chimeras of the cabal, the dangerous errors of magic,

the invocation of good and bad spirits, a long amas of moral errors, and a theogony taken à la Chaldee and à la Perse. The Ghémara is, SELON LES JEWS MODERN, the achievement, the perfection; et it's the same as what his name means in Hebrew; but, in reality, this comment destroys the law by its ridiculous or absurd interpretations, and by

EEE ET

E - 189 -.

« the PRINCIPLES OF HONEY which contain for all the "Me, that's not part of what he calls the « People of God (4). »

A testimonial still more difficult, because it is 1
We are supported by the statements of the old Rabbin Drach here, over the course of many years, studied and seized the Talmud and the Ghemava of Banylone in particulier.

It is, we say, this body of canon law, religious

"THE JEWS' CONDUIT attached itself to their mistake.....

"For the Jews PROFESS A RELIGIOUS RESPECT « HERE YOU ARE FANATIC.....

"We have already spoken to you with respect that the Jews

A

According to the Talmud, the disciples added
"Here is a passage from the Menorah, a book that plays « Dune of great authority in the modern synagogue.

* A

other receipts (3) are chosen from what we have
"I believe in the law of Moses, our "Master... And if something bothers us, "Or unbelievable, we must attribute the plague to the « weakness of our understanding that they teach-« ments. And quite simply, there are pleasures in what « what is it that they said, ... to receive the chat-« ment (4), »

(1) Achille Laurent, Historical relation of the affairs of Syria, etc. Paris, 1846. Tome II, p. 3851-52-53. – V. Le Juif, etc., p. 79, 90, 91.

(2) We design by this name the Rabbis, authors of the Talmud (note from Dragon).

(3) These are the parts of the Talmud,

(4) Drach, De Pharinnonie, etc., t. ler, p. 164 and 515. Paris, 1844.

6

ni al w
he

ee Ta

Everything that they (2) said in the Medraschim and

TEA TE À

– SE

lay

tale.

N

rer

TE

+

/ Ps DRE DE Re Le a

– 190 –

Terminons by some more recent statements, price to the contemporary Jews:

"The Talmud, says the Israelite universe, is not alone-ment the Jewish Civil and Ecclesiastical Code, but the is a work of great importance for the savant, On it never happened that the authors of the Talmud were well Jewish Merit (4). | |

The Talmud for two thousand years in summer, and it is EVEN MORE, AN OBJECT OF DEMONSTRATION for the Israelites, dont it is the religious code (2). »

It is therefore not contestable that the Talmud, since his appearance up to the current era, always jouï, and jouit still, of the greatest influence and by a staunch and uncontested authority on the mass of the Jewish nation.

Or, according to the historical axiom, all people submit in his formation Yaction irresistible of his sacred book, you book that is for him the rule of his life, the director of his private life and the regulator of his social life and political. According to the Old Testament, the people Israelite, evangelical and Apostolic writers have created the Christian people, the Koran produces the nations musulmanes, etc... We don't have any swords, the experience of our time, a simple leaf ideas and trends?

Consequently, this is the Talmud which tells us molded, to express also the character of all the Jews,

(1) Univers israélite, XII, p. 568, August 1866. Paris. This journal it was, at that time, the modernized Jewish body, called for orthodoxes, c'est-A-dire, of the Talmudist reforms.

(2) My Journal, p. 452, June 1867.

– 19 –

at school age, and here, from our days, form the Jewish Talmudist, and perpetual in this & noyau indestruct-tible de la nation » all My bad dispositions of the centuries of the passes.

We don't have any need for us to stop in the long exposition of particular facts and in their interminable discussion, afin de savoir de quels sentiments The current Jews and their princes are animated against the other men, and especially against the Christians tiens (4). II We need to consult the Talmud. En

. examine the moral direction that their code supreme and the prescriptions that impose on you, we aurons la knowledge et ja exact measure des dispo-Habitual and dominant positions that resent our égard the Talmudic Jews.et their bosses.

II.

It is not possible to make any more citations with the Even the Talmud text under the eyes: I did not know but he carried his enormous bags; but I blew myself away sources here, for secondary purposes, are none the less sure. | |

1° I take my first citations in a ma-Latin text from the 18th century (2), which contains the title: Ex-tractiones de Talmut, Extracts from the Talmud.

8th

(1) To obtain numerous facts and details, consult the book by Knight Gougenot des Mousseaux, The Jew, Judaism and the Judaization of the Christian peoples, Paris, 1869, and above all Chapters IV, V and VI.

(2) No 16, 558 of the National Library of Paris, fol. 28]

I understand everything that I am saying and I quote my manuscript

- .

— te — = 0

.

- 192 -

It is a work that has been composed, following the controversy over the Talmud, committed in 1240, in Paris, and after the orders of the Emperor of Châteauroux, chance-lier de l'Université, « in the drawing of illuminating the « theologies on errors, obscurities and « blasphemes of the Talmud, because they cannot point, « by ignorance, consider the Talmud as unread « without danger and which must be tolerated (1). » a very interesting work published by the Revue des études juives, 1880, no. 2, and 1881, nos. 4 and 5, entitled: The controversy of 1240 on the Talmud, signed Isidore Loeb.

(1) Here is where the origin of this PE ESA comes from after this who reports the manuscript Hetractions of the Talmud in the Prologue in secundam partem. Verse 1236, a Jew from La Rochelle, named Nicolas Donin, embraces Christianity. It was a very savant Hebrew. According to his coreligionists, he had without any knowledge of the Hebrew language new converts doors, in 1239, towards the Pope, an accusation of the bulls of the Kings and Horses of France, d'Angleterre, de Castille de Léon, etc., bearing the copies of the Talmud. He had absolutely no intention of conducting an open investigation on the subject. As a result of these orders, he was at Paris in the year 1240. between Nicolas Donin and four of the most savant Rabbis of the époque—that is, a long and serious discussion, and the next step is The Talmud was condemned and the copies burned publicly. (V. the Review of the Young City's Highest.) M. Isidore Loeb pretends that Nicolas Donin collaborated with the work Extractions de Talmut.

I allow myself to report here to Mr. Isidore Loeb an amusing distraction which escaped in its article titled : Bulls in quotations from the Popes, no. 1, of the Review of Jewish Studies, p. 118. I'll cite three pontifical bullets which invalidate the cross. The third is Report on the transformation in the Jewish Synagogue Church d'Orléans, orderly transformation by Philippe Auguste, after their expulsion, in 1182, and confirmed by Pope Celestine III. In this confirmation bulletin, the Pope made an allusion to Psalm 76, verse 11 (Hebrews, 77, v. 11): He mutatio Right Excelsi, it is a change of the right of the Tres-Haut,

— 193 —

At the end of the manuscript one finds, among other documents, ments, thirty-four articles or accusations that the Pope Gregory IX took sides against the Talmud. A every article, the author adds a comment, Cest—à dire, the indication of the ends of the Talmud where there was these accusations were made, and at the same time the incriminating words of the Rabbis, editors of this code sacred place of the Jews.

It is this part of the manuscript, reproduced in English—as the Review of Studies says that I am impressed citations.

The author of Extracts from the Talmud says that it is made assisted by two Christians "very erudite in Hebrew", and The Review of Jewish Studies ensures that the translation of these ends of the Ghemara of Babylone « are exact, "precise, very scientific, and the sense of passage in

"generally well-seen". We are therefore certain of a-see, through these extracts, the pure truth about the teachings-ments of the Talmud.

allusion to circumstance by virtue of the change of this Jewish Synagogue in Christian Church, expressed in these terms: & Specialiter autem mutationem ipsam dextrae Excelsi, que in Pra:scripts of the series of facts dignified, apostolic author confirmamus », etc. : « Or, in a special way, this change of the right of the Tres- Haut, here, in all that has followed-ment made and ordered, is the manifestation of his goodness, by our apostolic authority, we confirm, etc. » These words « Rightly so, » M. Loeb with this single note: « I do not understands this passage. The words "right ÆExcelsi d'Indiquethey crossed the right of V Church (III) representing the arms Right of the Cross or of Jesus? ».... It is clear to all that Mr. Isidore Loeb did not understand, and that distracted him which recites verse 11 of Psalm 77, according to the Hebrews, st2

. erg UT TTV ITS

r ` AA .. ae

- 194 -

I content myself with reproducing the articles that proublow the whistle more than you think about my propositions.
Article Ier. - The Jews affirm that the law which they appeals to the Talmud that was promulgated by Dien.

II. They transmit the message to God.

IV. (It is also said that the law of the Talmud was preserved without being written down, until it is because it does not differ from the memory of men, the writer in a writing without volume de- understand the text of the Bible. |

V. In this Talmudic law one finds, among other absurdities that doctors and writers say are suppose- riesen aux prophets ; |

VI. And they had to change the words of the law;

VII. And that they must croon even when they are that the left is the right, or the right, the left.

I do not give him the return to the Talmud, nor the commen- taire dont the manuscript of the accompanying Extractions these articles because they do not offer any material to us to contest. They confirm everything that has been said above the authority of the Talmud among the Jews.

VIII. "And those who do not observe what they say, rite of death. » | |

"She is in the Order of Moed, treated by Erubim « (fol. 21. 6.), chapter Ocim pacim, where it is said: Rabha | « make this sound:... My sons, listen to the words of « write more about the words of the law. .; quiconque "transgress the words of the scribes, merging death... « Rab Papa says: This teaches us that this is

:

f – 195 – |

« The phrase "the witch's tongue" is the punishment for « the boiling water. » |

X. « Parmi eux (the writers and doctors of the valley. mud) tl yen a qui ont donné pour law: The best of « chrétiens, tue-le. » » |

– « Rabbi Simeon says: The best of the Christians, tue-le; the best of the snakes, scratches his head... The best Christians can therefore be like a mechanized. »

XII. « Unchristianity can be trumpeted, by ruse or arti- « Fice, unlucky. » He who is in the Order of Yeshua, « traité Baba-Kamma (fol. 38. a), chapter Schor, etc...; « in the Mishnah, etc... « According to the doctors, "Behold, God has delivered to the Jews all the goods "of other nations."

« et b), chapter Ha-Goze (the voluntary), Rabbi Siméon
"This means: We cannot give an object aimed at a Christian;
"But a lost object by him, 'we can't wait. »

« Rabbi Samuel says: He is allowed to profit from the « Christian's account; and we prove it « this followed by many examples of the doc-expensive. » |

– « Rabbi Ismael says: If you are a Christian and an Israelite « come to you for a different, if you can "Make sure that the Israelites have gained the cause following the law "Jew, do it, and say to christ: it is our law-« lation; or well, following the Christian law, « attack the Israelites, and say to the Christians: it is your « legislature. If, on the contrary, you cannot « win the Israelites in one way or another), on

– 196 –

« Employed against Christians, students and women-« of (1)..... » 8

– « Rabhaa says: An Israeli son who is now in « the affair of a Christian and {témoigne in his favor « before the tribunal of gentlemen against a son of Israel my brother, we excommunicate. » | Ä

XIII. « Quiconque doesn't want to keep an eye on his still not enough to protest at the beginning of the year.
"that the desires or the strengths that he can make in "The year is zero."

a Ceci sits in the Order of Naschim, treated by Nédarim « (fol. 23. h.), chapter Arba nédarim, et. »

~

0

~

XIV. « Three certain Jews may deliver some « Everything remains the same as it was. » to 4 « This is what lies in the Moëd, traité Hagiga (fol. 10. a.), a chapter 1°, etc. » |

XXX. "Three times a day, in the prayer that they remember-« dent as the most important, they maudlin the « ministers of the Church, the Kings, and all the others, to the Jews, who are the enemies of the Jews. » |

"This prayer is in the Talmud, and we must say

(1) M. Des Mousseaux, in his book The Jew, etc., reproduced also this end of the Talmud, and it happened, in 1869, that the reflection vante: « So give a truly Orthodox Israelite for cheers to Christ! » I added, in 1882: This situation is com- attacked for the Catholics of France. The Jews have evacuated the barreau, the magistrates, the Council of State, the prefectures, sub-prefectures and their councils, etc... And we already know, by expect- rience, how they render justice to religious people, to priests, to the clergy. We announce a renewal of the magic- treat asise. What will happen with this new magistracy, all Jewish, or humble servant of the Jew? The Catholics are against take care not to have any proceedings with the Jews, or with their converts, the Franco-Masons.

t

– 197 –

"Start, feet are jointed, and the one who writes must be « stop talking about other things, when even a

"The snake rolled around his heel. The plus, the « Rabbin (in the public office) said (twice) to "high voice, and the faithful answer amen" 4 each « imprecation. This paragraph applies in « because they think these things we have said ci-« Below is already edited:

a What for the converts (to Christianity) is not «point of hope! Amen! And that all the Minim (infidèles, it is said by Christians) should be dispersed on « the hour! Amen! And that all enemies of sound "The people of Israel need us in pieces... Amen!" Et « destroy the kingdom of perversity "Roman, then, after the fall, the Church, the Christian Church!"
« Amen! It breezes, it blows, and turns us all towards « my promptness and our days! Amen! Benis « sois-tu. our God, who blows us away and returns « the empire! Amen ! »

"This paragraph is invoked by the blessing of the Minim, "and all the prayers. the blessings of the Lord, what is he and « in nineteenth century... Rabbi Levi says: The blessing

« the Minim was instituted at Jabné (Japhné); Glose

« by Salomon: long after the death of others, « After the heresy of Jesus Nocera (of Nazareth), who to turn the words of the living God ».....
« In the order of the Lord, according to Rosh Hashanah, chapter « he said: The Little Ones are the disciples of a Nocturnal Jesus who once sang the words of « Living God. These same words are found in the
"the same order, treated by Berakhot" (1).

(1) Saint Jerome did not ignore this abominable prayer of

YOUR NEE

e PPT Re NME TTS TA TE TTT ea ME eae, wine i ML D es du e

·
S

– 198 –

We hope that we will stop there and we contain these extracts from the Talmud. But we want 'But our theory gives the evidence itself.

20 We then met under the eyes of our readers of other extracts from the Talmud analyzed and summarized by Sixteenth century Siena, Jewish convert of the fifteenth century, in his Holy Library. The indication is that the rights corresponding to the Talmud.

– « We order everyone to be Jewish, three times by « Today, pray to all the Christian people. And praise God « of confiding and destroying with his kings and « His princes. And that surpasses the Jewish priests

"Pray to the glory of Jesus of Nazareth. » – (Tamuld

. (Ghémara de Babylone), order 1°, treaty 1, distinction (or chapter) 4.) |

– God commands the Jews to adopt

"Do not import this means, either by force or by violence– « Lence, or by use, or by volition, the goods of the christ-tiens. » (Ibid.) | |

– « He has ordered all the Jews to look at the Jews: (Judæi), that is... we are persevering in blasphemy and for only these, in all synagogues, under the name of Naza-renorum anathematizant vocabulum christianum (Comm.in Isa.

lib. 11, C. v, vers. 18, 19.) 4

Maïmonide says in his Treatise of Prayer that the sinners « insert this blessing in the prayer form, after bringing the family into the mouth of all (Yad Hhazaka, Traité of the prayer, ch. II, par. (Learn more.)

Drach assures that the editorial of this prayer varies greatly "Because the prayer books are printed in the poor countries
'to the Christians or to the Mohammedans.' Of harmony, tome Fer,
p. 100.

item 5 . |

1 5 s +.

a: – 499 – |

« Christians like brutes, and do not treat "Other than that, like brutal beasts. » (Ord. 4,
tr. 8.) * = ©

– « That the Jews cannot touch me at all among the people,
"but it is effective by all possible means « to endure life alone. » (Ord. 4, tr. 8. dist. 2.)

– « There is a Jew who sees a Christian on the side of a

"Predict, it's time to prescribe." » 'Ord. 4, tr. 8.)

« the states of other peoples, and it is a moindre « lucky (for a Jew) to serve a prince "a man like a prince christian. » (Ord. 2. tr. 4, dist.2.)

– « Christian churches are houses of'

« perdition and the places of idolatry that the Jews are « tenus de struire. (Ord. A, tr. 1, dist. 2.)

– The Christian Evangelists who must be "entitled: the iniquity revealed and the bad luck manifested, « must be burned by the Jews... etc... (A). »

3° Another report that the person was not afraid to recover, it is the Rabbin who converts Drach, who we have said several times, and we cite souvent yet. He, on the Talmud and its doctrine, all the skills you want:.

"We say that here, by virtue of having long been « He gave the Talmud and explained its doctrine, after

(1) Sixti Senensis Bibliotheca Sancta. 1610, p. 124. See Ferraris, Prompt Bibliotheca, au mot Hebrew, ed. My, nos 83– 90. – V. Rohrbacher, Universal History of the Catholic Church, livre 70, ed. L. Vives. Paris, 1873, t. 8, p. 221–22. |

DT me ' – Ne PMR ae

E ven

PORT and > ee pen, AVR and

JJC 'm nee TE dé nl cle ° •%? x Ee 'gd 8

*

el: He

– 200 – „„

to follow a special course, following LNG « years, among the most renowned Israeli doctors "More than this century... we are talking with people who know « lack of cause and impartiality (1).
... « We find, continue, the passages that declaring that the precepts of justice, of equitability, of charity against the next, not only are they not _« applicable to Christian ideology, but a crime is committed to those who acted differently... » Le Talmud « Defending expressly to save the death of a non-« Jew... to give him his lost effects,... to have e pitié », etc... (2). « After the Talmud, the total of « Precepts of the Law of God.... not at all « six-cent -treize, know 248 affirmative precepts... and « 365 negatives »... « The positive predictions 185° and 198° Ordinarily, these are to use non-Jewish people, and that is, to destroy without management and without pitting les idols et les idoldtres (3)»..... « We say that les Rabbis consider the Christians like the Idadtres. »... (4). |

40 Finally, one reads again in the Talmud, affirming that tour M. the Chevalier Gougenot des Mousseaux:

« Descendants of Abraham, the Lord will send you « gnawed by the mouth of Ezechiel: You will find my treasure « skin... it's about telling you: you are men,
« the other peoples of the world are not men,

A

A

A

(I) Drach, The Harmony between the Church and the Synagogue, 1844, t. I, p. 122.

(2) Ibid. ; p. 167, and note where Drach cites: Traité Aboda-Zara, fol. 13, verso et fol. 20, recto. Traité Baba-Kamma, fol. 29, verso.

(3) Ibid., p. 170.

(4) See ibid., p. 167.

eee

2 they are the best v. « Read and said to Israel:
"You are the brebis of my pâturage, you have the

about "the quality of men, compared to the nations of the world

"I don't know the quality of the beasts.

The Christians' possessions are or should be « Reputed like a desert, or like the sand of the sea: the first in the world will be the property of fair (A). » |

These analyses set these textual extracts sufficiently,

us, to give a precise and complete idea of the spirit and prescriptions of the Talmud, by report to Christianity and the Christians. |

-This sacred Jewish code teaches positively that hypocrisy, paroxysm, trumpeting, hate, the fire and the death are not only permitted, but orders to all Jews in the Christian faith, and that these they must be considered and treated by him that

III.

But you can object to this teaching-ments are born, in the course of a letter dead.

To the contrary. By relying on these principles

(1) The Jew, Judaism and the Judaization of the Christian peoples tiens, p. 127 and 128, where the author is cited: Bertolucci, Dominican, Great Rabbinical Library. Rome, 1675-1693, 4 vols. in-fol., part. III, p. 555, and Talmud, traité Raba-Metsigna, fol. 114, recto, edit, d'Amsterdam, 1645.

fi

of the Talmud and in the commentaries in their Scriptures, the

IUIF doctors of all eras have profoundly inculcated in their nation, morale the most monstrous against non-Jews and especially against chrétiens.

I leave behind the first six centuries that are follow the publication of the Talmud, and I do not take my expect something from the outside.

Maïmonide, doctor of high weights in his era and even today in the modern synagogue, sou-sustained "an anti-social morality v. He «admitted with « one has brought the most extravagant dreams of « rabbins. It was one of the most fanatical Jewish doctorstiques and the most intolerant towards other nations.
"He taught that this is a divine preceptor to destroy the sure the non-Jews that he is defending their safety vie ; that, in certain cases, on the doorstep, or "cure your death, it's a pity to have it of us (1) 5.

In his commentary on the Mishnah, traité Sanhé-in there, ch. 10, this same doctor, after having numbered « fundamental points for communion "from Israel, it is a preceptor of love, of having the charity for him, and observer 4 is afraid of everything that God prescribes between man and his near, when even the force of passion led to catch the fish. But if something is enough perverse to write one of these articles of mine, it is out

A

R.A.

R

R A R A R A

(1) Drach, De l'harmonie, etc., t. Ier, p. 558.

R | " APE a 0 Rat | Ar " (re – –
HAS, 2 : : 0

| "of the communion of Israel, and it is a preceptor of the (detester. et DE L'EXTERMINER (1) ».

In the 18th century, Rabbin Isaiah said of himself:

« The Israelite who is subjected to a foreign cult must he considered that CHRISTIANITY was his weapon, and he flew into the depths; because it is buried in a hole and can be easily while it remains, we have to take it (2) »

Rabbin Joseph Albo taught these things in the 15th century:

"Perhaps the life of the idolater (of the Christian) is at "The discretion of the Jews, with greater reason, is good (3)".

Even in the same century, one of the most famous doctors and the most authoritative among the Jews, Rabbin Isaac Abra-

Christians in all their works, and especially in his Proverbs salutis, where it was announced, for the next century-vant, the venue of the Messiah and the extermination by the Jews of all the Christians (4).

The reader does not notice that the ressemblance that exists between the doctrine of the Talmud and the teachings of these rabbins from the 11th to the 15th century, We don't know anyone who knows more, and between the sentiments expressed and the orders given, at the guard of the Christians, by the Jewish Prince of Constantinople and his assessors, in their letter of 1489:

(1) Ibid., p. 106. – V. aussi Buxtorfii Synagogue Judaica.

(2) Summary of the Avocado-Zara. Cod. vatic. Hebrew, no. 184, p.65. – V. Le Juif, etc., p. 132.

(3) Joseph Albo, Foundations of the Faith, p. III, c. 25. V. De l'harmonie, etc., t. Ier, p. 167.

(4) De l'harmonie, etc., t. Ier, p. 383 et 556, vol. II, p. XXIII and 84. – On Abrabanel, see also the best-known authors, Beugnot and bassinet, etc,

3 pee

SX^e A PETER

be:

* S

N

i

*

i

c Aen eee Ae

– 5 –

1

`~

Ra RK „ „„ K „

– 204 –

« Make your children merchants, after which they throw – « let the Christians know their goodness; – Make your own "Doctors and pharmacists, because they are Christians « their life; – Make your children canons and clergy.
"because they destroy their churches; – Make your own
"Fants lawyers and notaries, then, taking the chré-
"tie under the jog, you can become a VENER OF EUROPE. " Quant in the contemporary era, one of the premiers works of Rabbin Drach confirmed in a manner general these teachings of the Talmud and of the doctors
Jews: | |

"This will be the place, he says, to meet the « Intolerant and inhumane maxims that the rabbins « professed to the eye of the converted Jews, of the Christians, « of the people and the Jews who reveal the secrets of the « synagogue... But the Christian charity defends me « publish, if it is not absolutely necessary, the tra« production of revolting passages that I could « quote »... « The Talmud and other works of the rabbis « contain a scourge of protests against the Christians and « Christianity, and blasphemy against our « divine redeemer. Since the knowledge of the
The Hebrew language is spreading in Europe, the im-Jewish primers have warned against cancellation all these passages, leaving gaps in their place. The substitute names are those which de Minim, Goyim nohherim (Christians), Meshoumim moumerim (baptized Jews). The rabbins teach verbally what indicates these lacunes, and their rectifind the words changed in drawing. Some also reestablishing itself in the main, in its examples, the suppressions and political corrections of the editors

d /

– 905 –

« juifs. This last case has arrived in the copy of « I have the Talmud. Helvicus says, in his "Treaty on the Paraphrases of the Chaldean Bibles, 4 p. 10, which has a Talmud, a Jew shall not « serve before him, and in all these corrections "it was made with feathers (A)". |

Of all these statements the result that this concludes General Secretary, after Rohrbacher's story, is the expressing the truth itself:

(1) Drach, Second Letter from a Converted Rabbin, ec., p. 300 et 301; city in Rohrbacher, universal history of the church liv. 70, t. 8, ed. Vives, p. 222, and also in Le Juif, etc.
pp. 94, 95.

Rohrbacher reproduces. after this "second letter" the citations of "these revolting passages" that Drach does not want translate "by charity". As they are different from those indi-

These are the Extractions of the Talmud, I copy here some of them | of these citations, to the abundance of law: TALMUD, traités :, Aboda-Zara, fol. 4, verso (in Tocephot), fol. 10, verso (Ibid.), fol. 26, verso; – Sanhedrin, fol. 7, recto (in glossary Jarkhi); – `

Hhoulin, fol. 13, verso. – Baba Kamma, fol. 17, recto; – DOCTORS: Maimonide, Traités: de l'hemicide, ch., 4, paragr., 10 ; De Vidolatrie, ch. 10, paragraph. 1; The Rebellious Doctors, ch. 3, paragraph.
read and follow, ch. 9, paragraph. 1° and following; Of the king, ch. 9, paragraph. 2 Injuries, ch. 8, pay. 11, etc., etc. ; Correspondence théologi-that of Rabbi Ascher, class 17¢ n° 1, 3, 6, etc. etc, (See Rohr-bacher.)

– Drach cite, in De V'harmonie, etc., t. Ier. p. 167 and 168, and passage of the circular of the Jewish Synod of Poland (1631), which enjoint "under the pain of major excommunication, which ne rien& first in the editions to come, either from the Mishnah, or from the % Ghémara, who has reported well or badly on the acts of Jesus « endroits who have treated Jesus the Nazarene, and to put 4 the & place a circle, like this 0, who averts the Rabbins and & the teachers of the school teach young people these life skills « voice only. By means of this warning, the savants « between the Nazarenes (Christians) there are no more pretexts for « we attack this subject 3 .

THE JEWS, OUR MASTERS. 6.

– 206 – |

"Beyond the Divine Law, above the Bible, « Jew with a human law, a rabbinical law, the « Talmud. Or the Talmud, not only allows Jew, but he commands and recommends TROM-PER and of the DOOR CHRISTIAN, when he finds himself in casino. It is a terrible thing and I deserve it « all the attention of the people and the kings »... « After « these principles of your Talmud and L'EDUCATING CON-« FORM OF THEIR DOCTORS, the Jews cannot and cannot « do not hesitate any more to make a scruple of TROMPER and « DO THE CHRISTIANS, they do not have any regrets and « repeat that you have Christ. Following the moral tal« mudic, there is no such thing as prudence, which can _« obligatory to abstain (1).*»

FRANCE

IV.

We know well that the Jews have been solicited from destroy the force of all these accusatory statements by persistent denials which are not worthy of qualified and interested. They cannot prove themselves that these indestructible teachings no longer exist in the Talmud and in the writings of their doctors. Is do not dismantle it instead today. The Jews modernized plaident, the best that they can, in ta-because this code has been passed on to your country (2):

(1) Rohrbacher, vol. 70, t. 8, ed. Vives, p. 221 and 222.

(2) I reproduce in particular the plea that Mr. Isidor Loeb did, passim, in favor of the Talmud, in his previous article city. |

We don't understand this book, they say; the Talmud differed from their times and their countries; they and overcome the fears and fears. Very conscious of the words that we repeat to these doctors are not data by you as the prescriptions or the prescripts-tionsdurables. This is the beginning of a crisis of indignation that they smother the Romans in their arms brothers. According to the Talmudical laws concerning the goim, such as, for example, the 19th Benediction, which is ceased, after several centuries, to have a sense for the Jews; they were preserved by force of habit, out of respect for tradition. They have been reproduced in the writings of the rabbis of middle age, what, de- and for a long time, they were considered as Tom-bees in despair. There are some Jewish doctors here, middle age, teaching the maxims of humanity and tolerance opposed to that of the Talmud. The word goim, that Rather be by Christians. I don't like this meaning in the Talmud; he means peace only. This is of Jewish apostates and sinners who have given Faust-Christians' sense of this expression is that also trumpeted those who were crosses. Judaism has come to always a high school of religion and morals; without this, he had succeeded a thousand times without losing cution.

We want to put science into practice rabbinical of the modern defenders of the Talmud. Corn they appear very late to us the meaning of the code religious and political of their nation, even though of the savants of all ages, of all countries and of the Jewish race Even so, we have exposed the true meaning of its teachings and his recipes. Saint Jerome, the Pope Gregory IX, author of Extracts, Nicolas Donin, Sixte de Sienne, Maïmonide, Abrabanel, the Rabbin Drach, and good others. are the authorities dont we cannot help but infirm the timidities. We has reproduced their words. Of plus, all, writers of middle age and contemporary authors, assuring that, of their time, the prescriptions of the Talmud were seized and practiced rigorously in all places by the Jews. What is it that some Rabbis are exposing a doctrine less inhumane than that of the Talmud, the its principles are executable, and this cannot be demonstrated point non plus that the almost universality of the rabbis Jews do not teach, and the mass of the nation does not follow strictly its doctrines. Say that the Jews convert, accusers of the Talmud, they are not apostates and calomniators, do not diminish the value of their affirmations. Because it still remains this double is indefinite-liable. First, these converted Jews were a names, throughout the era, to present accusations identical. Let us compare what has been said by Nicolas Donin in the 13th century, Sixteenth century and Rabbin Drach at 19°! In a language and under a different forms, they even reproduce the same in the Talmud ches. And these three Jews are not the only accusers. It has raised a large number in almost all centuries and decades all over the world, not the works Regarding the Talmud, you are more or less notorious. What interests these men, unknown to the majority of times we are different from others in their people and in their writings, they made us into faussaires by making successive millions of dollars? Peutto make the statements precise and proven by a Rabbin Drach, for example, here, perfectly understands the persecutions aux exposes the part of his brothers of the race, abandon to be Christian, only through love of the truthfully recognized, his position is advantageous in the

- 209 -

Judaism and a more brilliant future yet? You remain, in second place, this other thing is there, indestructible, to know the existence of these teachings in the Talmud and in the writings of the Rabbis, the more famous and most heard in Israel. One can remove and leave certain passages blank; there are editions since then the supercherry has disappeared (1).

When in the true sense of the word « Goim », after Authors say that Hebrew science is not sus de allocate this word in the Talmud and at the rabbinical writers, it means very certain says chrétien. It is enough to bring in the paro- by M. Drach; it says formally:

« The Jews appealed, and they appealed again (1859), the Christians Goim; well, a particular Christian, they are the designers of the word oi, singular masculine of Goim, and a Christian by the word Goïa (feminine singular). This word God was, before Jesus Christ, a name general; the Jews have become a special name,

(1) « The first editions of the Talmud, said Drach, offer the text of this code in all its integrity, like that of Cracovie, from Venice in 1530, from Amsterdam, 1600, in fol. small format. I must return to the great rabbinical table of Venice, in 4 vols., printed in Bamberg, to find the hostile passages conducted against the Christians. » (Second letter from a Rabbin converted etc., p. 300, 301.) |

6"

– 210 –

restraint to the only Christians. They appeal from the Muslims Goim, but Ishmaelim (1). »

If by « Judaism » the defenders of the Talmud entendent les books de Moïse, or even the Old Testament- But overall, we are in agreement. Ce « Judaïsme » is veritable « a high school of religion region and morals ». But they mean by this "Talmudism" or "Rabbinism", all these that we have cited the moral precepts of this " religion proves that it is just the opposite of what he said. Malgré les. persecutions, « the Judaïsme » to cross the centuries, it is true; toute- Sometimes we know that this is not because of its value, not because sa vertu, but with a special drawing of the divine Pro- insight, aided by the secret and powerful organization social welfare of the Jewish people.

W.

It is therefore not surprising because it is still regularly attended and ravished by the recipes and the teachings of the Talmud and their doctors, by the excitement and orders of their princes, the Jews still have in your heart the most beautiful feelings of

(1) See Catholic Hebrew lexicon of Guillelmi Gesenii, published and expurgated by Drach, edited. Migne, 1859. – Written indifference Goim, or Goyim or Goym.

ZI –

Hanns. and the younger generation desires vengeance against the so-

Christian spirit and the Christians.

These explicit dispositions before these assassins numerous individuals, and to the circumstances' executive blemishes, men, women, and especially children, that They have repeated all the centuries that have passed and even the our (1). Haine and religion agreed for the commanders. The Jewish writers and others pretend-dent que ce sont des calomnies, because the law of God who "proclaims the Jews" is the opposite. The

The answer and the expectation are also false, the one that

tre. We are led to see that religion is truly pro- united by the Jewish nation, inspire against and global denounce these criminal actions. In addition, to all the épo- ques, the Jews were legally convinced of this violent crimes. « Say, for every answer, that the The teams and the judges are the arbiters, it is not nobody says; car all criminal in face of danger » (2).

In addition, the sentiments of this people are the appetite for domination, font understand comment The Jew has always been dispersed, throughout the ages and en contraires, a revolutionary par excellence.

This arrangement is not naturally in the temperament and in the character of the Jews. Chez eux, we say, they are authoritarian in all the force of the term, and they accept without fear of living under a absolute power, including the organisation of governments story of the nation since it is dispersed and dis-

- (1) see above, pages 83 et seq., and page 86, note.
(2) Rohrbacher, liv. 70, t. 8, p. 221.

ut
n

IT

ERE RD TRE MT RAT PET
RSS FE breakdown RT

u

Iwt e T

– 212 –

prank like a means of vengeance and like a weapon de combat. The Jews are revolutionary in the three people, and against other people, before all against the Christian people. This attitude and this reaction they are inspired by their bosses and by their doctors. | |

We had a difficult idea up to the point where Jewish doctors confront revolutionary republicans in their writings. With particular merit in being signaled the famous Rabbin of the 15th century, we have already said the Jew Abrabanel. This doctor, minister under several Christian kings, it was an exalted republic, a radical force, an enemy of the kings, accusing all its forces against the government monarch and representative as the worst that men don't have to choose. |

"His opinions on this subject, says Count Beugnot, "They are quite exclusive, quite outlandish, that is,
« From under a monarchy, I have no two rappers porter (1). » |

No surprise there when the Jewish nation, in his ensemble, the forest, the desire for vengeance and the monarchies and Christian societies are secure sloppy, imprecise and incessant.

The Jew has always been in revolt, open or hidden, _ of sentiment or action, against the governments and the people who suffer in their environment. We are have a formidable presence in the ceremony d'installation of the Prince of Captivity in Babylone.

(1) See History of the Jews of the West, 3rd part, p. 216 and 219.

– 213 –

According to this ceremony which was made public and in a large pump, thanks to the protection that gave birth to the Jews, the kings and the sultans, possessors of descendants of Babylonia, every new prince has to make many prayers. One between others had be spoken in low voices, where the prince escaped for the universal rain of his nation, and, in the same time, FOR THE RUIN AND DESTRUCTION OF OTHER PRINCES.
In reporting this historical detail, the Protestant Bas-nage makes this reflection, just for his time, and justified by the facts in the letter: "In effect, the rain

"The Jews cannot be left behind among the debris of others « monarchies. » The Talmud, we have seen, pres-crit to all his faithful, three times a day, a prayer analogue, in which they have to maudit the peu-very Christian and prays to God for the peace and the exterminer with his kings and his princes. At our temps, at 17° century, Buxtorf made a note with some instances these sons of the synagogue met the Lord of the Fair pass between your hands ALL THE RICHES OF CHRISTIAN RUINS, and to excite between us, from the Orient to l'West, THE MOST AFFECTIVE WAR OF EXTERMINATION (1).

It provided an interesting study on the action secret, more or less effective, the Jewish people, in

(1) V. Buxtorf Jewish Synagogue, and 1' Church and Synagogue

p.131. – It is not particularly difficult to get to the end of our 19th century, for the justification of Christian nations, more or less apostates, these prayers of the Jews are not entirely ment exacted? Quant to the possession of wealth and to the ruin Christian financier, these two points are almost complete-ment obtenus.

N

– 214 –

the various revolutions here, during the course of the cles, the empires have been reversed and transformed.

You must not lose sight of these provisions and this Perpetual attitude of the Jews towards the people Christians, if you want to well understand and appreciate the history of this nation during the middle ages. Read more _ dear people that I lived in, Basnage and Beugnot after him, Plutôt wrote an apology that told a true story of Jews since their dispersion. They don't see that the beautiful sides of this people, in need of the most in the shadow that appears dangerous and just-ment hai.

We represent the Jew printing the movement commerce, finance, industry, even sciences and arts, so, but we cannot fake truth in the face without cessation like a mishap reuse victim of the "fanaticism" of the Christians and "of centuries of twilight». The Christians of these times understand very well your real interests that these today. They do not want to leave Chris- neither tyrannize, nor ruin, nor rule by the Jews. This will be a great illusion of belief that the Jews did not exist in the world, since its dispersion, a troupe of unfortunate pariahs, without force or support. « Your weakness was not apparent » said very judiciously M. des Mousseaux (I). Car by your strong organization in a huge secret society, by their trade expected, by their or her genius, they were in there has been a reduction in power, here, too, our era, was forced to "burn out"

(1) Le Juif, etc., p. 338.

trones ». They targeted the Christian society of mean age that they are against us today.
They wanted to break away, to destroy, to take parer par all les means in their power, occultes or publics, according to the circumstances. But they don't succeed because they are hidden or violent, They found out from the powerful hierarchy of the because they have no place and no puret rather penetrate. You hit the bottom of the society, at middle age, princes and subjects, great and small, avaient far from it, and also a living intelligence the true principle of social conservation, for intro-in their ranks a revolutionary haineux tel that the Jew. We tolerated and kept saying the carriage. But when by their organ and their loudness, when by their uses, their efforts, their attacks of all kinds, insults and patents, against the social and religious order, when through their sacred acts, laws and all their Talmudic crimes, the Jews avail pushed against the patience of popular Christian, therefore, or well the princes, by their expulsion orders, gave satisfaction 4 the just color of the people, or well the populations are angry, if justice is done for them-myself, violently rejected I belong to their environment.
Israel will soon restore its families, its fortunes and his plots, and the Christians breathe a little in peace.

The stories have been told for quite a long time and with quite a of acquiring popular representatives of the middle age against the Jews, and quite a letter and with quite a complexions adoucis the furious attacks of the Jews against the christian society.

VI.

Corn. you say, we speak to the Jews here n'existent plus; at the Jews of our day we will not find No apparent dispositions, no partial acts.

Deep error! The Jewish Talmudists of the present are semblable in those of the past.

half of our century. Rabbin Drach is coming to us speak at all times of the "maximally tolerant" inhumane that the Rabbis professed to the eye of converts, Christians, peacemakers and Jews here reveal the secret of the synagogue (1). It's good to teachings of the Rabbis of his time (1827) which made allusion, because he added that "the Christian charity of defending the doctrine which they profess, and by telling the whole world what it is abominable. These are the Rabbis, their contemporary rains and his old colleagues, who teach verbal-ment that this is my wife or 4 children in the text you Talmud.

M. Drach 'we provide an "outside in a work later (1845) a belief that the doctrines and the practices of the Jewish Talmudics have not changed, even in France, in the mid-19th century.

The Talmud teaches that "all the three (Jews) are « He is in court in Israel and has the same authority that

(1) Drach, Deuwidme lettres, etc., Paris 1827.

– 217 –

"the same authority as the Moïse tribunal" (4); » en "Plus, that three Jewish men can be deceived « something that only happens once (2). »

After these principles of your sacred code, «DE NOS

DAYS AFTER... the three Jews the least civilized, said Drach, the more I see, the more I have to put it in games, formed a tribunal here, in the eyes of the SYNA- _ GOGUE, with full authority, WE ARE AWARE OF HAVING DIRE, to deliver their coreligionists from their graves, to cancel their promises and commitments more sacred, both for the past and for the future » (8).....

"The Jew adds to the poorer one who loses his conscience « very full of promises and blessings, make an addition « three of his brothers, who constitute themselves in three- « bunal. Regarding this course, the statement that he is withdrawing from

"He has already articulated it, and he retracts it. They are "In fact, he says at the end of his protest that "I don't know the specifications. Which they then have to « Eyes, O Rabbis, as I have numbered in « details. The tribunal, without any other form of procedure, declares

« the demands and promises are nothing, nothing and « non avenues (4). »

But, to evict the Jews even the hair of reunite three of their coreligionists, the synagogue made solely for the community « at least once for this ceremony called, Hapharat Né-

(1) Talmud, traité Rosh Hashanah, fol. 25 recto.

(2) See more, art. XIV, of the Hatractiones du Talmud.

(3) Drach, On the Harmony between the Church and the Synagogue, t. Ie,

p. 487.

(4) Ibid. p. 559.

LEL JEWS OUR MASTERS. | 7

\

– 218 –

darim (cancellation of vows and promises), communément in the days of penance, since the from early morning to September month, until evening of the expiation party..... Before that song in the synagogue the first prayer « of the « Expiation party, three men meet in court, « and places in the head of the assistance, CANCELLED BY YOUR © FULL AUTHORITY according to their wishes, commitments and « Each assembly contains parts, as many as « the year that is about to be heard is like that of the year

"Where we enter is. We call it Col Nidre ».
We don't need anything, Drach agrees, to do appreciate the funniest effect of these two ceremonies, if opposed to all the principles of morality the most simple (1). "

They are teachings, and it is practical of the CURRENT SYNAGOGUE, even in full civilisation French. |

Also the actions of his trustees respond to his trines.

"As for Saint Paul, we tell the same rabbin "Dragon,... I was converted by the voice of God « (1823)... But he... is the object of the « haine and the persecution of the children of the synagogue,

"This will surprise you immensely. ».....
"A terrible persecution was made against me. »... « The "Seigneur says he will thwart the plots of the best « certificates (2). » |

"My mother, said of her the doctor Morel, other

m AA

(1) De l'harmonie, etc., t. Ier, p. 559.

(2) Ib. p. 33 et 72.

– 219 –

"Converted Jew (1836)... leaves the capital, after... ma

« conversion, due to the intolerance of the Israelites « Paris. » « Otherwise, add Drach, the mother, rests « Juive, not coupable, having a Catholic son–

« liqueur (I). » oe |

Well, others would be cited which appear, not only at the first, but at the second half of this century, and this is the demonstration of the put in practice persecutory, by the synagogue, these "intolerant and inhumane maxims" professed by his Rabbis and his doctors to the mercy of the Jews green and christian. | |

That's why we shouldn't be surprised to hear of contemporary authors appreciate the manner of more severe, but the more just, the moral value of different: rather than formed in the same way, they are the same dispositions and the same vices qu'au-trefois. ar |

« The Jews, in 1854, died M. Hallez, a defender pourtant de la cause Israelite, have preserved almost in their practical superstitious tactics and their heart's tional, INCOMPATIBLE WITH THE CONDITIONS

tions of modern society (2). » | E

"The Jew, assures ML Rupert in 1859, will not be treated « Business saga with Christians inspired by desire

« from the trumpeters. Do not come against us as fourberies,

« He received with all his might, and without scruples, the fruit

« you commit a sacred act to your prejudice, and

(1) De l'harmonie, etc., t. Ier, p.251.

(2) Hallez, The Jews of France. 1854, p. 262-63.

ee ey yg eee REL ee See Te

- 220 - |

even the poor learner to perfect himself in his art. Let's look for a sect more horrible, more dangerous and MORE FUNNY

CHRISTIAN PEOPLE like the Jewish sect everywhere. NUIT

AND TODAY THESE MEN ARE AWARE OF MEDIATING THE

LOW PRESSURE AND REDUCE THE POWER OF

CHRÉTIENS »..... 6... They employ all genres pos-fraudulent and insincere, with all the apparent signs of welcome, of friendship or a charming full-service shop (1). »

Far too late, men who know well, because they took all the days of their victims, traced the Jews and Judaism a little flat-expensive but reliable. We want to speak to the deputies roumains and their manifestation dont we have Teproduit preceded by long extracts. Observations that these Jewish Talmudists of Romania live in a country which still has on this date (1868) the law protecting against you the christians. |

« Owners of immense sums, disenchant the députés roumains, naturally enclins to exploit those of another race, and driven by their instinct predominant in terms of speed, the Jews are attached to

USAGE WITHOUT ANY RESERVE, and on a plate school, which they have been decimated and reduced 4 the misery of « millions of opulent families. The use is based social corps, which draws the same source of forces vital to the nation. . . . The Jews can

A.A.

m AR RRA RARER

n

RRAARA

a

a

(1) L. Rupert, The Church and the Synagogue. Paris, 1859, pages 208, 211. – V. Le Juif, etc., p. 138–39.

~

– 221 –

very little demand the tolerance that their religion is the most exclusive and the most oppressive; can not alone Judaism does not accept anyone who is part of his family, ligieuse, but he condemns LA HAINE AND THE PERSECU-

PERPETUARY TION to those who do not appear to the Israelite race. This irreconcilable exclusivism, which is assimilated to the blood of the Jewish race, THE CONTINUOUS WAR THAT IT DECLARES TO THE HIGH Moral ideas do not penetrate all institutions of the Christian state, ideas that form the moral basis of our civil society. v.... «Judaism, as religion region, one cannot remain in a just environment: it must be dominated or dominant; because it constitutes a special cult who is born in his own name, that the descendants of Abraham, regarding the rest of humanity as HORS LAW OF.. ö

6. .. The Russian state is tolerant of the exercise of all the cults, but it cannot be for a religious intolerant and wild region.....the dogs are not anti-social... who consider our Christian society like impiety and sacrilege..... which remains secret-while its followers in the permanent state of war with the population that accepts them in their... and but the main thing is to destroy the most interesting graves of the nation.».....

"From a legal perspective, Jews cannot claiming e-rights from Romania, because which they do not want to abandon their exclusivism secular... are treated fraternally by those who treated in implausible ways.»

M. des Mousseaux also said with reason, in 1869:
"The Jew is, by the making of this Talmud education-

ame. mn

" A a un came 2 me des 5' an SU a. 1111

| - 222 - | |
dique... the man of patience, and the best that all other, he said to be waiting; he said he would cut the ruse, the prevenance and the caline, A LA HAINE SOURDE, aux plus gentle and detestable songs of the heart... as a result of the services you provide,
in a moment of frankness, a Jew to a Christian, I want... to give you a warning: I'm afraid of a "Jew, what is the friendship that he calls you" (1). »
The Jews of the Talmud, and they are the most beautiful quite, not different at that point, in the second half of our century, half of our middle ages.

RAAR

RAA

VII.

Now you insist:

The Jew changes beautifully; it is great in progress. Drach himself discovered, in 1844, that "the « Talmudical schools' programs recently updated... « aux dépenses du Talmud »..... that « the science of Talmud

" mud declined beautifully (2) ". Consequently, let it be left to modern society. The Jew mo-

The Jewish Talmudist is no longer the only one who was threatened; and soon all Israel will be transformed. |

This is what Plutôt says: the Jew of Progress took the modern society. Because this is not our Christian society-tienne who imposes on the Jews his ideas and his direction; ce are against the Jews who have been impoverished by their (D Le Juif, etc., p. 137 et 138.

(2) De l'harmonie, etc., t. I", p. 234.

- 223 -

own ideas and here the conductor. It's not that bad that they have succeeded in breaking our social order rooted in Christianity, and penetrating all the sides (1). Our modern society, if organist and if taking into account the European society of centuries ago, she could not defend herself as well as she did. She says that the sad advantage of other very humble servant of the Jew, "dressed and dressed by "all of them as in a network".

And this success is not just attributed to the best Jews

From the beginning of the Jewish Talmudists, in the 19th century, as in the past, the largest part and the "the indestructible enemy of the nation". We venons studying his current impressions against the Christian nisme and the christians. Otherwise, it did not matter that the whole nation is ready to reconcile Talmud and the Rabbis. We have seen more skin que. In 1881, the Jewish community of Berlin entered depends on his budget "of the rabbinical schools", and on-

. all a school of advanced Jewish studies. The material of teaching at a rabbinical school and high Jewish studies cannot be said to be the case. Talmud and the other writings of the rabbis, and Judaism. It is without not even the guys from Berlin know it.

For the modernized Jews, they still form that a weak portion of the Jewish people, and they are not not best disposed towards us that the Talmud-disants. .

To have a fairer and nicer idea of diss

(1) See Francs-Magons and Jews, p. 690-93.

- 99% -

positions of this party of Israel, between them different categories, the necessary distinctions.

The Talmudist reforms, always more or less under the influence of their religious code and your Rabbis, do not distinguish themselves as a Jewish beaucoup purely Talmudists, as far as their internal and external conditions are concerned-ral, by report to the generality of the Christians. More, in their social relations, good name between us we have learned the forms and practiced the usages of our Christian societies.

Protestant converts do not acquire ordinary their change of religion no welcome en-to Christianity. Only their aversion to the Catholicism is increasing all the time, no matter how their innocence is heresy. They are private men, or

Even conservators, they do not dare to put in all questions and in all circumstances against the Catholic Church; and absolutely, and always, source that is their position in the social sector, these Jews _ Protestants work, above all, for their interests | and the elevation of the Israelite race. e

The anti-Talmudist reformers and the indifferent semi-blent avoir des dispositions noticeably different en-towards the Christians and the Catholics. They don't point to the fear of these last sects' antipathy . Protestants, and they are no longer against Christianity the repulse avenges that give the Talmud. Souvenir them are "more tolerant than certain Catholics of the name." It is only with you that you find mainly the Israeli-lites « rich, bright, well-educated ». To these two cats: almost all large financiers

- 225 -

European Jews. Welfare towards the poor of n'import seu religion is one of the beaux sides of Instructive and fortunate women of this class. We do they do this justice.

In any case, if the "anti-Talmudites" and the "indiffé-rents » are not specified by the adversaries of Christianity, they easily tolerate Catholics and Christians, we say through experience that they are far from protector in religious and political affairs, and particularly in the money affair where Christians and Jews are found in conflict. They don't always think so, even justice and law, reason and protection for the Jews. Car naturally they remain in your instincts and the trends of the race. A stronger reason must be maintained for sure that these Jews, all in all the best disposed by the nation at the mercy of Christianity, font and . cause commune with Israel, that is what it says some big question regarding the advantages and the exaltation of their race.

An Israelite-born writer made up of a few words the portrait of the rich German Jews of our environment century.

"The Jews of Germany, he says, have acquired fortunes Considering that the majority depends on large fiscence. Because the German Jew is weak and organ-wielding, fier and vindicatif, HE HAS NEVER LOST THE DEFAULTS OF HIS said, almost in the same order of ideas, the portrait of our rich Jews of France. In the meantime, the other con-

(1) A. Cerfberr de Medelsheim, The Jews, their history, their mœurs, etc. Paris, 1847, p. 39.

7

ic Sal IR;

*

– 226 –

_ thirteen, and we can say throughout Europe, since thirteen years, this moral painting of the Jew opulently modernized is always very precise. It would not have improved.

Two famous political men, of the Jewish race, from France, the other side of the Atlantic, supplies us with the conduct of all their lives, the exact measure of what the lucky and high-ranking Jews who pose in conservators, ordinary font at the society's guard Christians who welcome and suffer at their ' head.

The first and foremost famous lawyer, Adolphe Crémieux, here, twice, sat by the masters of the destinies of France, in 1848 and 1870, and who became president of) Universal Israelite Alliance since 1859 until its death in 1880. All his life, this Jew is occupied with an activity promoting affairs, interests, complaints, disputes between his brothers of the race and his nation. He said and said, not only in France, but in Syria, in Romania, in Russia, in Algeria, etc., etc. And for the benefit of the Jewish people, well above his French nation, it exerted immense influence and enormous power of action that gave him his highest grades mason, his presidency of the Alliance israélite and his posts rose in the state. Creamy was, he said, like many other Jews of his genre. d'un com- very kind and friendly in our relations with the Catholics in general, and with the dignitaries of the Church in private.

field, and head of the conservation party in Angleterre. Of Journalists who did not suspect us have already become aware of the veritable sentiments of this Jew passed into Protestantism.

– 227 –

By his conversion, Benjamin Disraëli says the leaf

. Italian Fanfulla, "assured civil and to politicians who open the door to power."

But Disraeli made a Jew in his heart. It does not dissimulate

« He has shown himself to be INVINCIBLE REPUTATION against the Europeans, 'It is said against the non-Jews' (No. 21 April 1881).

And, add the Review of the Catholic World (15 June 1881),

« The testamentary executor of the Jewish choice, Nathaniel Rostchild... » La Razione, democratic journal from Milan, look, from his side, the conversion of this man "like pure speculation". End of the Ar-Israelites of April 28 and May 5, 1881 affirmed that "Disraeli's love for Judaism always

"It was a croissant with years," and that, "in beautiful « coup of the synagogues of Angleterre, one of the prayers "specials in the memory of the illustrious chancellor". –
"We therefore waited for good Israelites" (1). »

In summary, this double category of modern Jewish nises, anti-talmudic and indifferent, well that the best disposed towards Catholics and Christians, us and other recipients of the testimonies of personal and personal welcome, plus or less marked, and more or less thinner, according to the case.
But Christian societies, even society Catholic, there is nothing good to wait for you. Once established, by the civil law, the Christian égar, these Jews, as he had said in 1831, but and what a wish: it is to become their jurors, their legal

(1) See Review of the Catholic World, 15 June 1881, p. 629. Ceci cor firme ce que ...
facts about the conversion of Jews to Protestantism.

.

lateurs, your masters, it's to be put to the highest summed up their company to be better placed in the destroying the transformer in its guise.

How many Jewish militants are the main army?
Against the Christian idea and Christian powers by the Princes of Israel. In this invasion, the others Jews modernized the office of the support troops and the renfort. The sentiments of these Jewish militants against the Christians and Christianity are not good, not caches. They form a composition in which haine are mixed Jews, violent antipathies towards heresy, and against the aversion of the masonry and the secret societies.

The Israelite Goschler made this Jew-le portrait next : =

« When the wind of the century turns to incredulity, « persecution of the Church, like our days, the Jew, « ignoring the oppression so long it « Yes, and the head is generous that he tends the Church, « become ARROGANT, INSOLENT, HAINEUX ; he replenished the « world of its sorrows; he is associated with all the « hostile people come to the Church and flee, IN ITS INTOLERANCE-« REVOLUTIONARY RANCE, the most inconsistent of « sectarians (4) ». 'i |

The journal l'Univers summarizes very precisely, in 1881, the current moral situation of the Jewish nation vis-à-vis of Christians and Catholics. My appreciation is directly directed at the Italian Jew in particular;

(1) Encyclopedic dictionary, art. Emancipation of the Jews, note: 4 See this note, the strange articles written in this sense in the Israeli journalists, such as the Israeli Archives, Israelite Truth, published in Paris. 5 but it also applies in reality to all the Jews of world :

"If the Rabbis and the Israelites have parted-« I have once felt their admiration for the generosity of a Roman Pontiff, we said that today the Ingra« attitude and the Jewish grove in general... How much "Journalists, they are in Parliament, they make the electoral « tions, she dominates the finance, she continues to ‡ TRADITION OF HONEYS IMPLACABLE against Christ and son « Church (1). »

VIII.

It is another thing that we absolutely certain do not they are well persuaded. it's all these Jews modernized, or protestant, or reformed, or less orthodox, less members or less violent of occult, solitary, free-pen-seurs and athees, are not at all in war us against the others and not against the Talmud-are the purest and the most celebrated. We have already make note: these are the different bodies of a even the army which operates differently, according to the plans and the orders of the general in chief.

Everyone, inside, is united and given to a same attachment and a same release to their race and to their nationality, and with a single desire domination ; and all also, outside, today,

(1) Universe of 16 September 1881.

– 930 –

meet and are united on the same terrain, on the terrain of modern principles.

1. The divisions between the Jews are called Orthodox or Re-Talmudic reforms and anti-Talmudic reforms, said also reformists and progressives here in France Indeed, the modernized Jewish camp was agitated, towards the environment of this century, there were no attacks of method and tactics.

_ Orthodox tenants no longer agree speak of the Talmud and 4 reject his prescriptions which could bring contemporary society together; more they persecuted to "conform to the ideas of the times
"To the Torah, and not to the Torah, ideas of the times" (I).

The reformists, on the contrary, were repudiated even this pretended orthodoxy, which would not have been captured by Western Judaism at the beginning of century, because they disliked their opponents:

"The property is not, at this moment, legally binding, and not the ADVANTAGE of the person...» (2). « Your observations surprised at the Judaism that has to be accepted », and "we have already turned to PROSELYTICAL ACTIVITY that we DEVONS exercise » (3). |

It was a good matter of tactics only. lé anti-Talmudists came to say more fully the thought and the but, and best understands the mysterious orders of the Princes of the nation. They dissent to the Orthodox, as clearly stated: people between the

(1) Univers israelite V, p. 196. 1868.

(2) Archives Israelites XIX, p. 835. 1866.

(8) Zhidem X, p. 448. 1867 x al.

– 231 –

Jews are not afraid, at this moment, of the rest of the bile; We DEVONS go ahead, practice the prose: lytism which we are commanded to accept and Judaism; we stop at the Talmud, even revised, corrected and moderate, it would not be to the advantage of the person. Also the agreement must intervene promptly between the two partisan. |

Convened by secret order of the top leaders of Israel, On June 29, 1869, a grand synod of Israelites was held in Leipzig (4). Representatives of the Jewish nation, Venus of all countries of Europe, is reuniting under the presidency of Professor Lazarus, Berlin. The Orthodox Jews and the Jewish reformists separated the two main factions of this Jewish council. The debates were very heated-mes. But finally, all the members were adopted the insanity and in support of the following proposal, presented by Dr. Philipson of Bonn and recommended called by the Grand Rabbin of Belgium, Astruc:

"The Synod recognized that the development and « REALIZATION of the PRINCIPES MODERNES are the safest « guarantees of the present and future of JUDAISM and its

« vitality for an expansive life and MORE SKIN « DEVELOPMENT of Judaism. » |

Every term of this motion that we have

(1) See the newspapers of the era and The Jews, etc., p. 334. – Five months later, he returned to Rome as he needed and providential Council of the Vatican, which created unity in the city of God, at the moment when Satan operated unity in his evil city.
Remarquons also noted that the location of the Jewish Synod is Leipzig, the town with exclusively Jewish lodges. V. Francs-Maçons and Jews,
p. 606. |

– 232 –

almost all of them are gone: it is full of things and must be . studied carefully.

From the beginning, better than today (1882), we savons ce que signifie les grandes d'un principes, dernes. It's the revolution. autrement says the anti-christ-tianism in governments, in politics, in the civil administration, in science, in schools, in religious ideas and practices, in the company. That the thinkers who have followed seriously-the movement of minds and things since a quarter of an century, comparing 1869 and 18821 They do not believe that the "realization of the principles of otherwise" should not be more effective? Douteront-they are by this realization of plus in plus perfect "Judaism and its members" do not have "sure guarantees » for « the present », and not on the point expect a more beautiful "future"? « Existence » – The current trend of "Judaism" is not "expansive" at supreme degree, and does not go to the "highest" development v, universal domination? The Jews, we have dismantled it, it is almost time for all the masters. Here I am looking. « this realization of principles modern » voted by the synod of israel of 1869? The Jew evidently, the Jew modernized, by his constant efforts, using powerful means of action – don't dispose, the gold, the press, the franc-masonry and its branches.

The modernized Jew is therefore ostensibly head of the Revolution; he is the boss and the director; the path to success is success. The publication German ciste Kuhn, in this year 4869, desait à

4 indication of modern principles in favor of Judaism « This is the most humiliating thing for our democrats, « In contrast, the Jews are now dressing like
"THE REAL FILE CHEFS OF PROGRESS. Lu domina-« Jewish financiers' support for men of progress « find also explained and justified. »

M. Kuhn for the reason that he stated « this advertisement of modern principles » from the side of the Jews, and their retention, displayed all the way up, to the bosses de file du progrès, it is the turn of the Revolution and the Anti-Christianism and the domination of financiers Jews among the Christians of contemporary society; but it becomes clear in its explanation: it takes a effect for a cause.

"Our democrats" have not been humiliated at all by the Jewish synodal motion; car already for a long time

The Jew modernized the dominions and directed them in the revolutionary progress, in a hidden manner, by Masonry has its secret societies. It is because it became the absolute master in the world throughout the associations and occult sects, which the Jew osé is pose publicly in the lead and return to the light of the sun the title and the power to play in the tenebres. The princes of Judah wanted this, in the united to Chrétien, their brothers of race and subjects parvinsent little by little the top managers of everything, open as secret. It is also that the Revolution, under the leadership of the Jew and the Jewish leadership, is on the way of the secret societies and is due to arrive in May-braid on the grand day of the company.

By the authority of the synod of 1869, these principles moderns have therefore been accepted by the whole nation, and that modernized Jews and Talmudic Jews revive and follow faithfully.

2. All modernised countries are united on this rain. These principles make your Talmud special to you. They regard and treat like their brothers all those where the adoptive, the practical, the supporting, the some races and religions that exist. All tenants of these princes are the particular « converts » and immediately modernized by the Jews.

The Talmudists also adopted, in their own way, the partisans of modern principles. That is what these princes have been received by all of Israel, some of the others people who are listening and practicing are censured are admitted into the synagogue, and are assimilated to these foreign converts who ceased to be "brutes » and the « men » who fell love and protect like Jacob's children. The Jew Talmudists also recognized the partisans of these modern principles such as « true converts to the justice », like «the new brothers », that God to surprise and "understand perfectly" that certain Jews the value and the high destinies of the nation. |

– It is always brothers of the race, of sentiments and of combating the modernized, the Talmudic they grow in heart to the eye of this considerable of non-Jews, of all these different groups of Jews, raux, francs-maçons, sectaires of a thousand sorts here, under the banner of the modern princes, marching according to the the sovereign will and direction of the Princes of Judah.

*

– 235 –

IX.

Disons donc as general conclusions:

1. The Jewish Talmudist reserves his grove today for all foreigners to the principles of modernity, and beyond for all their adversaries, for all those who despairs and fears the "Counter-Revolution", by consequently for all the true and sincere catholic

2. The Jews modernized, Israel's portion the smallest numerous, but the most beautiful and the most active sante, if the ideas are particularly appropriate anti-Christian, anti-Catholic and satanic niques projects that shape what calls for the Révo-lution.

These are the usual sentiments of these two por-actions of the Jewish nation against the backdrop of the Christians and Catholics in their ensemble.

3. Quant aux dispositions et aux relations des indi-Jewish people with Christian individuals, we know that the Jewish man did not marry those who commercial and business reports. For the modern Jewnisé, when he is the master, he does not suffer on his side that of slaves, or at least of servants; the non-independent Jew is generally in his eyes which is an enemy to remove and destroy.

4. We all know that very little These Jews are modernized today, in their rela-

G

- 236 -

social and individual measures, urban areas, vigilance and even hospitality for the Christians and for men of a different race than theirs. We admettons still have a good name among the Jews of this category is not really in the heart of any sentiment pronounced despair and vengeance against the Christians and Catholics take an individual approach.

5. But these restrictions do exist, one must have no matter the name is animated against all of you the aversions and all the oppositions that can inspire anti-Christianism, and that, according to this report, they do not give anything to the Jews rigorously talmudistes.

6. Finally we are strong, Catholics. we are understand that all these modernized, Jews welcome-lants and Jews ennemis, united and united today in a collective action destructive of the idea and of the Christian Society, those with rage and by haine, these-there coldness and by principle, in the but to implement the plans of their supreme boss, and the secular expectations of their nation. We have done it We are delighted to announce that our exterior civic ization and philanthropy. They are not necessarily today, at the expense of Catholic society, as well as Prince Metternich dissatisfied, who knew he good. that "first-time revolutionaries" are free.

Their works are presumably irreversible. Rappelons-les.

- 237 -

X

Since the late 18th century, in France, the Jews The idea of the Republic was born and raised, as in dream of revolutions and destructions. This genre of The government is in fact the cleanest, we have the sad experience of accumulating ruins upon ruins.

The filling for ancient Greek and Latin, Inspired by the pretended Renaissance, had already been prepared the paths to this idea here, without the previous one, pu ni take, ni live with an essential people Catholic and monarchical. The Jews do not know you difficult to adopt the gouache from the Templar lodges republican vernement, like the fastest way to satisfy their enemies against the kings of France and against the popes. It may well be today that the leaders of our great Revolution have not point, in the beginning, the drawing of reverse the monarchy and its replacement by the Republic (1). This thought suggested to them, or broke their order in a few days longer, after 1792, by the lodges masons; and the cells were not controlled, - they are not entirely convinced that in our century, but certainly very inspired and advised by the many Jews who left the members of the plus influences. |

Journal of a Parisian bourgeois under the terror.

– 238 – 7 ,

From the 1920s onwards, in all countries where their tion and their power is increasing, and in France in particularly, the Jews did not leave, by their instruments among others the French masonry and secret societies, to reprise and defend the republican idea, push to the establishment of the republics, of the preparer, when the people did not leave their walls, by the constitutional monarchies, and the republics a times established, of the trainers in all the activities which disorganizes and ultimately ruins societies. |

At this moment, the Jew is in the process of throughout Europe, to this disorganization, by stages nagées. Between their hands the Revolution operates in every country, with a lens sage, by degrees calculated and by strokes _ measured. Voyage to France alone.

First we want to act entirely under the appearance of the legality; on a decisive physical and mental violence rales the most odious are executed under the cover of the law. The opinion is expected to be advanced; then one frappe a grand conp; then we have to stop for a while-see the emotion calmer and the impression softened of memories. As we know well the light character, easily insinuate yourself to the French! Plustard one learned, with the same pauses, the desire commended. Laws destructive of religion, of the Church Catholic, of authority, of freedom and of dignity of the fathers of the family, elaborate and impressive I took it in a very lens-controlled and measured way. We present to you by ties only, in the milieu of parliamentary comedies, of disputes between legislators which detract from the attention of irrational conservators. She: fit after a resistance invariably follows several failures-

– 239 –

lances. The resistance of a moment makes the conser-father aveugle that there are still serious guarantees for social order; failures, forecasts and surprises imposed, allowing the Jewish and masonry of confront religion and social Christianity a network of anti-religious and anti-liberal laws in because the Jew counts them little by little, parintervalleys, and the snow caps are snug. Ilentendbien arrive to the result that one day, in our France, elsewhere,

Catholicos, faithful, may be closed and sold the effects of worship without anyone advertising, because that there is no more light, or almost more, of the trustworthy. | DNS

The Jews are afraid to enter without blaspheming the Catholics. cism, and to make Europe a little bit more dissatisfied with the girl the Church, LENTEMENTS, BUT SURE. This Jewish program of our time is so faithfully followed that 1489. Beyond all the others who fear the de-mount very clearly, it only suffices to prove quenous together between the hands of the Jews; que Maçonne-France, Republic, France, Europe, everything is lost by us.

Because the French character is not capable of being left to him alone, these are smart and happy readers. La « furiefrancçaise » appears to be in bad shape rather than in good.
Our first Republic was not led by the jews ; It's not surprising that the advisors. Also in four years, from 1789 to 1793, she was born in all the verses, to all the destructions. And voilà, soon few years ago the Third Republic was proclaimed by the silk-mason francs of the Jews, with the Jew Crébest to your head, and it is not that we descend the path quickly becomes a circuit through which our fathers go from 89 to 100;

.

ke ren a ts >

- 240 - |
and we haven't yet arrived at your point. The juifprocède after long reflections, with calm and savamment. He said he would wait; the only point to recover some little by little, to advance further with greater security. To a energetic resistance, as in Germany, is being done of concessions more apparent than solid, which he not afraid of repeating too late; devant lagiviolent situation, the atmosphere without any doubt the skill of the vrir, at the moment opportune, a powerful diversion here the absorber, and everything to the detriment of our misery-reuse France, which is the primary objective of its projects

The Jew all today in his power; the rule tout. It keeps the appetites furious at the bottom by the promised, by large, by the cry of the canon. II The convoys and high ambitions are the honors and the lucrative position. Also, since these two years, at our place as if we were we see, and that we will again parade in the high regions, meaning of dupes, puppets and of Israel's valets?..... The Jewish princes are waiting calmly their but..... at least that, by the intervention of Providence, something is missing in their equipment. Fiat!

This way of proceeding is absolutely outside the French temperament, easily explained in a race that can survive for centuries, also lives that the first days, his haine, are desire for vengeance, his dreams, and who persecuted him, without leaving, in the tracked program application by our Jewish letters for almost 400 years.

It is therefore a duel to death which takes place between the

– 241 –

the Jewish race and the Christian society, in preparation for the day in more striking proportions today.

Here comes the Jewish triumph that was impossible.
It seems almost as if it were a total disaster of our companies and to the complete ruin of the Christian States–

tiens, |

Also the sovereign prince of Judah, his assessors, and the other great leaders of the nation, they can save make a start of grief and vengeance satisfactory made, seeing what they have made of Christian Europe– tienne, of Catholic France, and comment on their the foot on the gorge and the destructive parts piece.

They must be faithful to their success!

XI.

These men are not afraid, not monsters. It is impossible, contrary to what these bosses Supreme Leaders of Israel lack intellectual qualities—the and superior morals. I believe you have an intelligence very old, and an admirably thick head for the organization and perfection of the matérielles, and for the direction and management of the masses humans and nations.

They are expected to have a first order qualification, s'appliquant, and in a successful manner, to make you totally incomprehensible, beyond your ennemis. To all the ambitious geniuses, they save not to recollect any means, because that can advance some of your projects. Even that the Roman Senate and many famous people from his—toire, they have the talent to use all the instruments that they are able to say what they want.

THE JEWS, OUR MASTERS. 7*

— 242 —

I understand that these sovereign dictators of Israel are religious in their way, which they have the bitter of their law and of their worship, when even they per—they order the number of their brothers and subjects attacking and opposing all religions.

From their point of view, they start a war, a war acharnée, d'attre, but just and holy, for glory of Israel and of his God, against all that is opposed to the doctrines of the Talmud, to their sacred prophecies, to the realization of their expectations. In the war, the The general conceived his battle plan, which he carried out tion, the command. Song torrents, fires of cities, of ravages of countryside, of destruction and the horrors without name are the consequence of his ideas and his orders. No, not everyone from well, I assume that humans are sweet and that they are of character, the person does not think that this general take these suites foreshadowed by the war, if the challenge and reiterate its strategic dispositions; Because it requires a necessity, it requires a duty.

rope must be in this moral state with regard to everything that comes to their attention; than that they find themselves in a situation says that they can become even less responsive sand. |

The Jews, in effect, are not alone, they are afraid to perform

– 243 – |

the ruins of all kinds that surround us eyes. They have many accomplices between the Christians, and some of the Catholics too, who “act and more immediately, et. confident with more of rage and least of calm. |

The main one, or the only one, which leads The Jewish leaders of our century found themselves above, but not beyond all the objectives that are proposed ambitious of every species of the civilized world. The Jew wants to destroy Christian video and all social order – chrétien. Or, in our era, the declassified princes, As the democrats said, they wanted and chent par-dessus à joir so widely that possible « of concupiscence of the chair and eyes, and of the organ of life . But for those who arrive there, the 'a fallu, and he must always be good at reading elements and destruction caused to their port the objects of their convoy. They then want to destroy, you too. That's why I agreed that it would be soon between these Jews and these Christians. In the course of these Four decades later, the march of Judah the Iscariot is still repeated and concluded.

In exchanging your services, I thank you, your says the Jew, all means of satisfying your ambitions, your cupidities, your passions; only help me to convert the Church and Christian society. And the sons and – the brothers of Christ have consented to sell their master and your father, to deliver his oath, your mother, the saint Catholic Church; they are constituted as assassins at the Jewish wages. Celui-ci when all the introductions in his masonry, in this pandemonium where he is

'data meets all the heretical forests and

. – 24k –

schisms of the past and present, all the revolts the current organ and impetus, all the bestial aspirations of modern sensualism. Then to The disposition of these goods has been misleading Jews and all the forces of secret societies, including which they can play for themselves, but also in even time, working for the Jew.

And the princes of Judah are not you, and are not even more keen to look and take it easy.
They just need to say, at the right moment,
. best direction to survive in the world of destruction, and to maintain unity and absolute respect for the environment of the rank of their formidable masonry army.

Done, under their high surveillance, Jews and apostates Christians, one and only, Jews, and many more that is, they are my blessing. They destroyed everything which supported the church; they are ready to destroy | she-it-self. By the eyes of these renegades, the Church Catholic always a great torment: in its presence one cannot stop playing without regrets and without fear so she has to displease.

These claims of the Jew are strongly disputed between us:
They are like dogs in the kennel. They work to be reversed mutually; they change politics as easy as clothing; they fit in a governmental form to another, at the expense of their colors or their ambitions; they ranted the front-against nation; They shattered the world through the common repeated uprisings of wars and black revolutions; little imported to the Princes of Israel; they are inquieted averagely, their interests are at a disadvantage.

"

Because their valets, in their agitations and their bouleversements, destroying something from the church Catholic and Christian social order, they are satisfied. facts. Of course, these characters in the action and more or less retentive, but in the background real slaves and puppets, which the upper The leaders of Judah supported and favored and longer, this will be the preference of the man here saura demolish the best, it's the plus big and the most secure. They laugh, reject and replace the instruments are defective. used or rebellious. The replaced at their present point, they do not know that bars of choice. For over 50 years, the secret cause all politics in the civilized world is here.

If, to these senior managers and to these supervisors of sot de formidable destructions, l'on made this object-serious action: When you hear the order is already broken

Christian socialism and racism in all two hemispheres notion and all practice of religion some conquer, you It will be impossible to establish and maintain domination 'universal that you dream about on the masses of income in-governors, they replied: We are devastated now, because today is our only but; we have to overcome the obstacles to our projects by all means and means. Mais quand We build our own account, we act differently. We, and our people in their whole being, we are religious. The Lord Abraham, Isaac and Jacob are always our God. The devils are destined to be our slaves, and the slaves must have the same religion that their masters. The Christians, however, became fierce that the what

BE RE Le aired

e –

Mg eee...

aah, ee from ET

a ae ao ee nage eed

DE et i Fe AA Ant Meter Sea via Nie

– 216 –

countries, tombstoned under the blow of the anatomy that had book of the Law against Idolized Peoples; et al., or They converted to the religion of Moses and adored the God of Israel. or well we kill everyone, like our fathers, by divine order, have been exterminated on entered the people of Chanaan. |

Tel is the future that the chiefs of Judah reserve à all the non-Jews. It is, in effect, in this sense that the Talmudics, the compact body and "indestructible of the nation », interpreting the prophecies of the ancient Testament.

XI.

It will therefore be a long time before all the Catholics, all the Christians, and all those who pretend conservators, finally, face this enemy,

In reality, they are involved.

It says: We are in the rain of the Revolution, we are giving up the joy of the revolution. The pages eloharsh, and quite genuine, are written by men of talent and authority over the things that plague us: but This is not enough at all. He did not want to stay on this abstract terrain. It is necessary to sort the considered purely philosophical arguments and to see where it is,

At our time, the visible and tangible engine of the Revolution. Car the Revolution, this perpetual war you misunderstand the good, you find it and it always comes to life in men; they propagate, strengthen and triumph by men; it is not an epidemic virus

– 247 –

that the ostriches are transported throughout all countries. The choice of capital importance, it is to know and to see what are these men, after the unmasking, then-which they hide, and, in combat, surely. en they believe that it is possible to move and destroy.

In the classes lit up by the company, a certain number of serious spirits recognized today That the Revolution is the Franco-Maconnery. Malheureusement les gens absolutely convaincus of what happened his-torticolis are not yet very large. Mais la Franc-Masonry is not entirely true of the Revolution. He was judged to have said: "The protestantism, it is the middle of the Franco-Masonry»; of even one must say: « Masonry is not that voted by Yes Revolution ». The cause is total, permanent, principally efficient; et, hello! trop effective, this are the Jews. In this formidable battle of the king of revolutionaries, Satan, against the Catholic Church, here, in the 15th century, beginning to take proportions If they are thundering, these old troupes are venues, since . for a cent, enter the battle line under a shape and with new arms, and bring to the

the present hour, the Revolution, in all its reality, It is the Jewish nation, active throughout the world, the orders of his chiefs, in several army corps and under many teachers, inside, outside and to meet of the Catholic and Christian society. In the two hemispherics, Republic. Franc-Masonry, Juiverie, are a single and the same thing.

The Republic, it is usually the flag. the étisqueeze, watch; The masonry is absolutely the

– 248 –

dream, the soldier, the army; la Juiverie, it is always the heart, the direction, the command. OUR ENEMIES, IT'S A JEW! – |

The counter-revolution cannot be real and adequate so let's do that in one of these two ways, or by the destruction of the Jew or by his conversion. The Jewish people are "indestructible": sacred books the teaching. His action could be linked and his reduced power, for a time, by the roads pro-identities that appear longer, after give to the Catholic Church and to societies a cerno period of rebellion and triumph relative. More Judaism cannot separate itself from the people's environment. À a moment or to another, he repeats his march ascendant and revolutionary. Only, the conversion to Catholicism brought about the revolution.

I have exposed myself to some means which I believe are sensible, at the current time, with some success against the political and anti-social action of the Jews, and of the relax a little (4). And of course, I say, this would mean that the most extensive advertising on this truth that, 'in all respects, and particularly in France, everything is forgotten by the Princes of Judah and his subjects, Israelites and Franco-Masons.

But here I propose a procedure that seems to me appealed for more success, to know: A UNIVERSAL LEAGUE-SALES PRAYERS AND ASSISTANCES, IN THE INTENT to obtain the conversion of the Jews and the Franco-Macedonian brothers.
The perseverant prayer together with an incalculable

(1) By courier from Vienna, from Poitiers, especially from August 27, 1881.

étendus, there is a quarantine of years, when proposed to the Archbishopric of Notre-Dame-des-Vic- - towers of Paris the general and daily prayer for the return of the Angleterre to the Catholic Church!

What a precious resource for the Church that converts sion of this Jewish nation, not it is just to recon-naître the wonderful natural qualities! This people not only the people of God have chosen and formed by him. He is well behaved; but, like old buried, he preserved the gifts of nature for the first time.

How not to be interested in them magnificent ruins!

I believe, for me, everything wrong that it causes us do and want to do it, I can't stop loving this race of Jews, I am interested in everything that laregarde, to all its movements in the world, to all its progress. It is the race that appears to Jesus, Mary and Joseph, the Apostles and First Christians.

Without a doubt, today like others, under _the vast majority of mistakes and vices from the Talmud When the envelope is opened, the Jew presents a repugnant aspect; it is the more so, the more egregious. Mais voyezdonc quelle transformation soudaine operates on it at the moon contact of his secular wheel with Christian civilizationtienne! Despite all their efforts to save the completely, heretical and masonry sects preserve their insecurities and the fire that Jesus Christ met on the ground. A pain the Jew is touched, and yet he is no longer recognized-sable. These men are these Israelites, even protesters-tants, even enemies! How intelligence develops

e
|

- 280 -

to you, quickly and admirably! Sources works she produces! They don't have any hearts, I say. This It's not for a big name, quite true. They say the Christians and especially the Catholics. We welcome the dismantling, and this is still unfortunate that Jesus Christ and his true Church buried in these hearts, which men complete and perfect They have passed We admire this transfiguration in our conversion to Catholicism. The list of these saints and savants of Judaism, who, thanks to us, days on the feet of the real Messie, it would be too long fair. What beautiful names they breed! And if the nation totally converted! what people! As the representative turn the place which is due to its title by the human family, it is said that the first thing to do is all the people of the land! Uh! we have no redouters hence its universal domination. We appeal-contrary to all our wishes. With their genius, their stimulating activity, their natural energy, and all their other qualities transformed and surhausseen by the dons of the Spirit-Saint, the children of Jacob the universe immediately turned to Jesus Christ.

Verrons-we en effect, more or less, the Jew Catholics begin to operate in the world this immense changing and realizing the spiritual unity preached by the Evangelical: one bird and one pastor; or well, after has been the restorer of the empire of Satan, Israel, miraculously lifting the bandeau of his eyes and prostrate at the feet of the real Messie,-sera-ti} for the Church a supreme consolation and a last rest?...

- Scriptural problem of an ardue solution!...

. - 1.7 -

It is still the case that, after the formal doctrine of Saint Paul, the refuge of the Jewish nation was a very very good for the people, his conversion would bring to the world the advantage of a special order and extraordinary: life ex mortuis (1).

Prisoners therefore ardently for the conversion of Jews and the Franco-Mason francs, their converts.

Can these lines fall under a man's eyes in the heart of the author, and suggesting to establish and direct an association of prayers and good works for the entire conversion of these powerful enemies of the

I now register my name with the associates, and I begin daily prayers in this intention. |

(1) If there is a universal reconciliation mission, which assumes tio, nisi vita ex mortuis? (Ad Rom. c. XI, v. 15.)

In the two books Franco-Masons and Jews and The Jews masters! I have exposed and proven the disastrous influence on the Christian world of the Jewish nation, inspired and directed by Satan.
On the repairing and benevolent action for all humanity whole of these same converts, I prepare a work of lon-I think that, dear friend, I hope I have a publishing day ahead of me.

– 252 –

SUPPLEMENTARY NOTES.

I. – ANTI-SEMITIST AGITATION (see p. 130 and below)
vantes).

This opposition movement and struggle against The Jewish race, which began in Germany, is aimed at Austria, and it was revived by the last attack that the Jewish Talmudists were there. This offer will be embarrassed, because it is not already, in its retention and in its consequences by the secret maneuvers of their bosses. It is to suppose that this agitation, suscitée surtout par les protestants de l'empire germananique, without serious results until this hour, will arrested and absorbed in major events that the princes of Israel prepare and will soon be attacked, according to their habitual tactics. An attendant, they are profit, because it is there, for their sakes, and they the outbreak of the European conflict which is trame sur la question d'Orient, et la affaire de Tunisia and Egypt are not a prodrome. This interminable question of the Orient, dont les Princes de Judas tienent the principal sons, est pour ou par-above all the question of Palestine.

– 253 –

II. The Young Man in Russia Question. dE p. 136)

Due to the presence of many Jews in the nihilist association, general Loris-Mélikof |

(May 1880) joined all the foreign Jews of Abanthunder Saint-Peterbourg within six hours.

(V. Francs-Maçons et Juifs, page 503). Otherwise,

The following year, in various locations, the Empire, incendiary and pillaging of Israeli property by the Russian nihilists. It was two beautiful occasions for a Universal Israelite Alliance to intervene. Elle there is no lack of active participation in order to benefit from the general and local politics of the Prince of Israel. The Russia resisted (V. p. 136). But, as always, the finally get to grips with it, thanks to the power d'action and at the disposal of its top bosses. The day- 5 naux de Vienne (Austria) we meet in effect

(June 1882) that General Ignatius's chute is due & their opinions on the judicial question. His success in may, Count Tolstoy is a friend of the Jews and condemn every measure of persecution against you.

(V. Courrier de la Vienne, 18 June 1882.)

III. RECENT MOVEMENTS OF THE ISRAEL POPULATIONS OF THE EUROPE-ORIENTAL. (V. pages 175 et seq.)

In these last years, the Princes of Israel have printed, and continue to print to the Jews of the EUrope orientale a movement of emigration here, I think, tell them about their former kingdom 8th

- 284 -

provisional in Romania and to prepare their return definitely in Palestine. They are employed in this double but all means and benefits from all occasions.

The opposition and some complaints are being voiced by the people Russians all over the world came almost entirely to an end in 1879

In 1881, the Jewish invasion of this small country. More Grand chefs have never been embarrassed before an obs-tact contrary to their projects. They employed this sometimes violent proceedings. These things are over before the transformation of the Russian Empire into kingdom. The Russian nihilists, instruments of the Jew me, by his orders, to pill the goods and to burn the houses of a notable number of Israelites habi-

. the provinces of south-west Russia, and their neighbors from Romania. They were chased by you and the have been forced to flee by millions to Romania, and in the Austrian border provinces. (V. Uni- in the month of May 1881, notam. n° of 22.) Comment, in a parallel context, the Roumains could Are they complaining about the entry of Jews into their country? How apparently they refused to accept these things- glad fugitives and those who seek refuge in our security and trust? They are not indignant towards us all of Europe? They also don't understand this and are lazy. This way of operating an emigration and this roguery are all made in their looks and habits of the top Jewish leaders who dare to sacrifice in need of fortune, and life itself, of some members of the nation, in interest and for success of their secular children. At this same time, we loud noise advertisement in the public sheets that _ thousands of solemn Russian Jews came to demand and obtain the permission to pass in Spain, after being arrested to the persecution of the nihilists. It was quite simple a new rouerie of the Princes of Israel and one of These comedies are not made in Germany. They are propo-. meant only to distract attention from this big new and closing the bottle in Roumains, s'more they went to complain. Indeed, these Jews are not are all in Spain, but good, like the others, in Romania and in the opposite direction. (V. Universe of 20 and 25 June 1881.)

- 255 -

After the nihilist violence, Jewish leaders use now the anti-Semitic agitation, pour in and accelerate this migration movement. The governor- ment Russian is in danger and we learn this now- the Jew's maneuver in an official document

(July 1882):

The information from the Ministry of the Interior states "This circular, indeed. qu'un grand nombre d'is-

« agents of certain foreign Israeli associations, « leave your homes to emigrate to other countries. v
(V. Courrier de la Vienne, 24–25 July 1882.)

Things have to pass from the same mania in Austria.

It is not difficult to recognize in these foreign societies of the Universal Israelite Alliance here, and in these "other countries", the Danube provinces biennial. Since Prince Charles resigned from the pres-Juve, after being proclaimed King of Romania, the Jews can, without any fear, and do by the orders of your bosses, leave to all sides

– 2356 –

in their states. If they get older, they will, and to tell them about an invasion of Palestine, semblabe careful, they are doing well in Romania.

A journal of this kingdom, Russian Independence, we have, in a recent article, these curious and im-important information:

"The Jews sing," he says, "to leave us." They are makes the decision to establish itself in Palestine and to refrain I am the kingdom of Jerusalem. This time, he said that really decided to put into effect this beautiful decree-sion; what are your organs doing?
P Aperatorul, from Bucharest, the advertisement: _ |

« The idea of colonization of Palestine begins "to take Racine into the hearts of Israelites in the country.
"The Jews are leaving the social classes and are associated « with pleasure at this cheerful idea. A reunion with eu In Jassy on Sunday, the Israelis were the most "Considerable and priceless. This reunion on a "decided to take the capital to come to the aid "to the poor Jewish people who want to emigrate. A committee
"It was announced that this would be the case, and here's how it was composed:
"MM. Dr Lippe, President; Isr. Singer and Jules « Adolf, vice-presidents ; Moise Mates, Martin Salter « and Edouard Kirschen, secretaries. à

' The Aperatorul advert in the outside continues 1'Indé-Romanian counterpart, that in Jassy it had formed a so-the city of ten families who have decided to emigrate grow in Palestine to protect agriculture. »

A belief that the Russian people, in 1882, were _ sentiment towards the Jews, it is the conclusion of the same journal article: |

- 957 -

We wish this committee the greatest success, and we are convinced that the government should come, him too, to help all the Jewish emigrants. Qu'on free transport to the border, and that let them pass with all the honors that their are you.

- "Only that we take measurements for everyone | These Jews, once out of the country, can no longer stand and trer. " | Br

(See Annales.de the mission of Notre-Dame de Zion in holy land. (Trimestral Bulletin, no. 21, June 1882.)

That the Russians are doing well, the Jews are not leaving- | they point to all Romania, and abandon no their projects on this subject. If the scrutiny given by the Russian leaf is exact, and nothing can suggest the opposite, it must be concluded that the Princes of Israel have decided to apply to the Palestine the deportation program that their subjects have been executed with great success in the environment of Christian nations. They are always working to send Roumanie to establish a Jewish state; Corn in attendance that they absolutely love the masters, this country will serve its central point and the ral-liement. The top chefs will dress and push the Israelites need the most. We are preparing and we are organizing everything for a serious colonization and quickly, and the colons part. Romania, even with its current government, and even better when the Jewish monarchy of Our Lady becomes public, serving the mother-father temporarily in the care of colonies of the Judea. That this company succeeds, that

- 258 -

The Jews are beginning to settle, silently, little by little little by little, by family (people today, they save well, they cannot be lifted), and in a long time court, they former the majority of the population. So, well, they arrive to be picked up by ruse and and politics of this country, or rather their great name give the Princes of Judah a powerful reason to advertise for you and your nation this part of the Turkish Empire in the Rules of the Question of the Orient, or well, in a conquest war, they will their brothers in the precious auxiliary race. Laquelle of these hypotheses be realized? God only says.

But these successes and all these movements of the Israelite race, in our era, paradisiacal announce, to courtesy of the courtesy can-be, the performance of good of the prophetic texts of our holy books. |

ERROR.

– Lakes

Page 6, in the place of honorables, read: honorablez.
Ibid, where appropriate, read: OE; the cause.
Page 7, in the place of the King, read: EL Rey.

Ibid, in the place of A la, read: ALO.

Ibid, in the place of paraque las, read: paraque LES,
Page 9, in the middle, read: INTENDED.

E i
,
,
5 –
–
– never ee
F –A ² v) EE ;: Ümq9ey ...

! i 7 y À .. 2 i a . s 5 . ka a 4 à 2
, à = . . ` t – é 7 „ ; oai
" ae 5 y . . . ;
“ 7 . 1 z + r. – h N
as ' | = +. 2 "deer
vo. . Coi à – – i 2 i \ : i 1
š Po
– + . © > – ni 4 – . LT me
: } , $ se . G $ 2 i 7 ' { „ , is

s : jx ae -
- 7 ; , 2 A e'
| : . # À : 8 p -
=: a b- a . \ : = ` 7 Š
- 3 i NF À .
r . a > 2 - a '
+ . 2 3
= wor . 4
' - . r . 5 = 2
r : 3 y 5
' . Š 3 z $ = 2
À : à A . ' .
7 | . N + `
i R ' . N
. . . - 2
i = v B 7 . +
° 7 . s E
' $ t ü = 2 ` a en 8 à T 2
$ - 5 : r
iy A = . x 8 5

4 * ar.
2 2 ` * A 5 A :
Q " 7 x , D i $ =; a à g à ` 5 f + 7 =
$ i — Sy : i + e Š :
ER 4 7 : Ry x
< >
: - - . x
Š | + eae
. is Pa i - $ = é
. X
+ 7 85 . N 1 . =
i . - - ii? -
` sn 5 5 š 85
LEA 5 . - š
D3
mS , > p ` . » ,
8 he . " 8
` 25 x ry * . » e 4 5 $ $ Pr ry L à
- - . * a
oa . ~ + 1
e ie 5 + K + : - +s 4 À A 7
- 1 ` i * ;
- = $ ' eo - 8
1 z & ` 825 2. 5 a *
= a ae NJP a 1 =

P na pii 2 - - - a $ `
 - * 9 Br G a C
 FRE a han 5
 - = 82 " te ~ *
 - . 3 D Š
 ic 7 5 . >, ~ " oa - 3 = à 4 . a = +: « 8 à $
 . 2 = To UE ` Te ` X : 8
 *. oN P . a - * . and yt SD , a
 " he ii ` . ie x © 6s 5 .
 - - - 3 1 D - +
 - ve is ax - * BAR oe s LS 5 - > 2 2 ; à E ae
 + {> 5 - " < 5 + g #
 AT r . + a &
 ; . & axz , ;
 a 1e SaN i . A ` big = - AA RR : . - = F : $ > > f $. xg 7 = `~ ioral - * - = , t * - u : oho 0 - 8 -
 u - ` f BE Hi . à men a er . nn + = * x Sr = j 5 me te EN : ' x E 8 N i = x N i = = à 8 - 5 - à 1 . % p 7 i = ' b 8 = x ` pee 2 x jiy TD . + = 3 : 4 $ m. xa AF = 2 j R #
 we EE ES s 7 \ % 5 t * Ê - . | = LS 5 " 5 > 2 A : 5 7 2 . ga = $ - ; .. x
 x 45 - = = 3

Let nt  ' E 8 OR : Te Le E. - ee en ce \ a ' = À ee a Fa ' : : : eee ; - : ' í ` Sok . Say you are pregnant! $ " oF - ?
 nie $ Krs y es i / eS Ps . - 5 P 5 RER NÉE : at 5 : i : ; he . s | 2 8 £ : i .
 2 . uve - Ri ` ~ z = 8 ne . i ' 2 Š ` 1 - 5 Ts `
 A 5 " = - 2 si = = $ =, 4 . = " = + - $ ~  5 F me . ii 5 ; ~ " 5 J ~ - Een i ~ = . E N 2.5 Nu 7 Sond Sok - 7 ' > 7 s — . > 7. + Le = - ra » no. - :
 PS ee ; s `i NLO A oS i ` Here - Der a8 : z de - ` Ses F => 3 z ee and fa mee. HE - Fe Fr Pos UNIS £ : Goodbye? - - Se US pia = - - T jak: F e ` + ` m major = Ê a * a . Be 8 2 Pe Ce La + Fe a 78 ee T: = en IN pi 2 ry 25 .

TABLE OF MATERIALS

P PREFACE. . C2 ey ° 0 e , La ° e . e . a ° L Ld ` V

New documents on the subject of yes. 1

FIRST CHAPTER.

TWO JUVENILE LETTERS OF THE FIFTH CENTURY. '

First text, and translation. SR ee +, 4

Second text, and translation. Oh yeah? a he ea ee OG

CHAPTER TWO.

AUTHENTICITY OF THE TWO JUVENILE LETTERING OF THE XVIII CENTURY.

Presentation and reconsideration of contrary opinions, – + + J9

Verdict 8 and external evidence of authenticity, . . 46

CHAPTER THREE.

EXPOSURE AND PRESUMPTION OF THE CONSEQUENCES WHICH REVEAL THE

TWO JUVENILE LETTERS AND MORE OTHERS

DOCUMENTS.

Three main consequences: three paragraphs, . . 59

f – 962 –

Pages

Paragraphs Jer. Secular Unit of Command and Direction – among the dispersed Jews.

I. – Since their dispersion up to the 19th century. 61

II. – From the 11th to the 14th century. 66

III. – You are also included in XIX®. . , . . ; 73

| Corolla. The Jewish nation, you Xie? au XIX' siècle inclusive, it was constituted and directed like an immense secret society. . . . 87

IV. – Authority of the Princes of Israel: |

1° She is absolute and incontestable, as she of the old Sanhedrin. . . . RE90

20. The great movement of . you |

Jewish people of our era have been imprinted and regulated by the nation's top leaders; Jews

Talmudists and Jews modernized in the 19th century. 103

10 From the Dispersion to the 11th Century: Synagogues. 116 20 Average age: Ghetto 121 30 From the 18th to the 19th century: Jewish lodges. Alliance israelite universal. 128
Two corollaries: 1° Combine it easily & aux Princes Jewry to take over all societies secrets. . s we ae wre E 137 2° The formidable power they give today. . . . + + + + 139.

VI. – Residence and grand duchess of the Supreme Prince d'Israel, in the 19th century, 140

Paragraph Ile. Design and plan of universal domination, with the chefs and people of Israel.

I. – Secular desire and hope for this domination. 144
II. – Plan drawn up in the 15th century to become a pioneer.. . . 166

– 263 –

Pages

III. – Almost complete implementation of this plan at XIX®

siècle. 2nd century. 163

IV. – Annex to the plan of 1489: Formation of a State Jew in Romania. 1171

Paragraph 111°. Current sentiments of the Jewish nation and its leaders against the Christian Society and the Christians.

I. – The Jewish nation, descended from the Pharisees, is for- . | me, since the first century, by the Talmud, is code of religious, political and social excellence. 182 Ill. – Doctrines and prescriptions abominable of the Talmud against the christians. 191

III, – Inculquées sans cesse aux Jews by the teachers–

` minds of your doctors. . . . 2 2... 201

IV. – Impossibility of defending and excusing the Talmud

| and the Jewish rabbis. . . . 2 206

V. – This Talmudic education is carried out to all eras, the Jewish, vindictive and revolutionary translator at the age of 18.

chrétiennes. . . . 0 ,. ... «© . « « 210

VI. – The Talmudist Jew of our days to the same sen-times like his ancestors. 216

VII. – The Jew modernized his position on this bridge. 222

VIII, – Talmudic Jews and Modernized Jews, United and d'accord sur le terrain des «Principes modernes d, become the second sacred code of Israel. . 229

IX. – General conclusions on Jewish sentiments at the equestrian center of the Christians. «+ 235

X. – Lenteur et prudence–des Jews in their agisses– current items. . . < –e 237

N

TI – – – — –

2 * ".

– 264 –

| Pages

XI, – Moral character of the Prince of Israel and their

Christian and Catholic auxiliaries. 241

XII, – The Jewish people, driving force and director of “the Revolution v. Call to prayer for conversion sion of the Jews and their proselytes, the French–

Magons. "Bi EEE;

SUPPLEMENTARY NOTES.

I. – Anti-Semitic agitation. Sg a> ss rs 6 Se, FADS

IL. – The Jewish Question in Russia... 23

III. – Movements of elite populations Eastern Europe: Emigration in Romania, in Palestine + . . . + 253

4
~ i —

..POITIERS. – TYPOGRAPHY OR DIN.

This is a reproduction of a library book that was digitized by Google as part of an ongoing effort to preserve the information in books and make it universally accessible.

Googlebooks

<https://books.google.com>

Google

About this book

This is a digital copy of a work preserved for generations in the areas of a library before warning by Google in the context of a project aimed at allowing Internet users to discover line.

This relatively old book is no longer protected by the copyright law and is in the public “to appear in the public domain” means that the book in question has not yet been submitted expiration. The conditions required for a book to be placed in the public domain may vary without links to the past. They are the symbols of the richness of our history, our culture quite difficult to access by public.

The bottom-of-page notes and other annotations in the margin of the text present in the original the long path through the building since the publishing house, passing by the library to find

Usage instructions

Google is working in partnership with libraries to digitise works appearing in the public domain, also accessible to everyone. These books are in fact the property of each and every one of us. He is definitely embarking on a costly project. Consequently, and in view of the fact that there are no necessary provisions to prevent possible abuses which could result in the delivery of third parties, technical constraints relative to automated requirements.

We also ask you for:

+ Do not use commercial files We have designed the Google Book Search program for personal use. We therefore ask you to use only these personal files. They do not actually work in a commercial way, something but commercial.

+ Do not respond to automated requests Do not send any automated request that it is on the basis of searches concerning translation software, optical character recognition or any other domain. If you have significant quantities of texts, do not hesitate to contact us. We encourage the implementation of works and documents appearing in the public domain and cheerfully served to you.

+ Do not delete attribution The detailed Google content in each file is essential to inform you and allows you to access documents via the Google Book Search program in advance. Do not delete it in no case.

+ Remain in the legality that is the use that you make of the files, do not forget that it is your responsibility to watch out for the law. If a building is located in the American public domain, do not be aware of the other countries. The legal duration of the author's rights of a book varies from one country to the other. The works whose use is authorized and those who do not are not. Don't believe that simply because Google Book searches mean that they can be used in a way that is not available all over the world. You expose yourself in cases of violation of copyright law which can be severe.

About the Google Book Search service

By favoring the search and access to a number of books available in many languages, not to mention the fact that it contributes to promoting cultural diversity through Google Book Search. In effect, the Google Book Search service allows internet users to discover the world's literary heritage, all while helping authors and of online searches in the full text of this work at the address <http://books.google.com>

[| AUSTRIAN |
Austrian National Library

2,069.093-A

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

HISTORY
DOCTRINE AND BUT

FRANC-MACONNERIE
+ By a Frant-Magon who is still plus.

DEDIE TO ALL HONORABLE PEOPLE.

The country is available on the TV a revo-axillary phalange lutipnnaires. |

TRAILLARD,
Franc-Macon.

She ges

J, B. PELAGAUD ET Cie, IMP.-LIBRAIRES
THE NSP LE PAPE.

LION, PARIS ,
11 Rue de la Madeleine, 44.

ur
TE
+
è

A
+
~i x
H
4

i mots È
a ar
soe
fie. Wed ie
r = t 2 te

Cas

_ HISTORY

FRANC-MACONNERIE,

PROPERTY,

o —

PEENES R m nn

Lyons. — Impr. by JB Pélagaud.

HISTORY
DOCTRINE AND BE

FRANC-MACONNERIE
For a franc that is not enough.

TO ALL HONORABLE PEOPLE,

The nation has its head on all a pharyngitis pharyngitis lutiennaires,

TRAILLARD,
Franc-Magon.

QUATTRIME EDITION.

JB PRLAGAUD, IMPR.-LIBRARY
YOUR. 8th r. LE PAPE.

anaran only the, , t RUE mu serine 2,089. 0 . Only

3 RE eer -- w --

WARNING. _

-- Gran

I was a parvenu on the page of illusions; the spring sunshine shone on my front, and an immense desire for} know the reason for each event ment ne cessait d'agitate my friend My heart, burning with love, was attached to the whole the young people to this giant who saved the king, broke the thrones, and saidae e took Europe to its own devices. Des mon enfance, the record of his victories and his _ triumph has exalted my imagination-tion; and my pain was immense, when-that I snatch my star, fortune abandon, and enemies' hands transport on foreign land.

Not knowing the Bourbons that by history, ignorance of what exists even some members of this famille auguste, and this one with a hair that the fish takes new reins from government. I think attribute to trahison the Emperor's Chute.

nicely contributed to his misfortunes; but I don't know what to do. Je m'atso join the Napoleonic party, and with him I can't wait to do turn-face under the new name of liberals. This party will become popular,

—ñ— co, Gore ap PL . — nn E a Er

— VII —

ii also has journalists at its disposal tion, the characters who patronize naient paraissaient act with so much good thing is that I have the crosses since then, and I attached myself firmly. I'm not late I don't realize that the majority of my friends appeared in society we were quite right to have contributed to the Napoleonic Wars, and I don't understand anything about this mystery. U.N between you where I work for myself declare that the company did not member only possessed the secrets that I'm looking. I hate the employer the necessary means to be ad-mis. After a few years, I'm part-all grades of the division exterior or symbolic. The more multi-please forgive me, I judged it well of no avail to know the secrets which would have convinced me; but this is we VIII —

crets, I don't know them anymore. On me expressed his need to be always ready to see my brothers at depends on my life, to avenge death d'Adonhram, personnage évidem-fabulously, to deliver to the people of oppression, and to practice the liberté, equality, fraternity surtout in the lodges; but no other mysthere didn't surprise me. I don't ignore it unlike Louis-Philippe d Or-
The Grand Orient has created France. I assume that I am in the loggias interiors or in the graden lift the veil which caught me the truth; with great force and precision I pass now by all these grades, et. each devins Maitreécossais. What is not my tonnage, when after having supported the most effrayan-

=

tes, I realize that I am marching from labyrinths upon labyrinths! Je ne pus again discover, by force of observation-tions, which has a deep forest of minded against the religion here, had made the joy of my child and my youth. Compared to 1850, and the agitation was great, in the lo-total We met swords, we carried and guns to support Yes, I am free naked. The throne of Charles X. ren. verse, and our Grand-Orient will proclaim meroides French. A painful experience ejaculated that he was exposed accused of trahison. Louis-Philippe paused at all his serments. To punish with-treat me in an infamous way, of young people attentive to his days; Corn it was written that the rain did not end qu'en 1848. So all the mysteries furent dévoilés; but I can't get the
%

PR ER

I say here: I only say that I understand the maxims the most hidden their rank in dogma; I can't read it anymore in the secret acts of the Order that I don't have any entries yet era. I expect the best days, trained the French masonry in his own books, I finally quit a Company that I am not used to:
naître, and I am today offering to public the fruit of my investigations is of my studies. Grasp the sky with 14 I received from God and from the men are afraid of a life of nonsense!

"HISTORY

| FRANC-MAGONNERIE.

.
wate

to verse 5 of the three chré-Seas long Europe: the whole is coming vertie aux lumines de la foi, a noble and holy enthusiasm takes hold of the people; absolutely no one wants to leave it until the end of monuments éternels de la religion sainte in. where one found peace and happy. Therefore, the corporate form worker training that tackles the problems vinees and here, in the middle of the. subscribers of princes, sheep and of the faithful, raising these monuments su-blimes and these giant basilicas here

1

- 2 - N

feront à jamais the admiration of the post-said the most receipient.

These corporations issue the title of Confrérie des Masons de Saint-Jean, En récompensate their loss for religion, the sovereign Pontiffs and meme 'those kings the leasing of corvées, impositions ct de all tes otre charges im-placed among the remnants of the population. Delà they win the name of Francs-Maçons. Plus their z&te allait croissant , plus aubsi' furent 'many of the privileges they have rent ehrichis. How they come to you head the archnects more agile and the reveal the most intelligent, on their the 'monopoly exempt -d'étever in all the Christian monuments refigious. Devenus finished many times, they are and do not touch anything except Friends, in Italy, in Spain, but one Angleterre, En Alferragne and just déis they know the Phe as the nerd from PEurope.

3

In 1270, Pope Nicholas Hl confirmed all their privileges, their privileges special diplomas. accompanied by di-favorite spiritual verses. All the Popes 'finally up to Benoit XH his opponent
The most popular signals are the af-fruition of local statutes, editions
"royal, municipal regulations, etc.
As the ordinary arrives, when sees 'associations youre united by «welcome and kind regards, everyone -in their peregrines some hom-my perverse and evildoers who do not delay pus to repair the shingle across the island good grain. H is formed in the environment of a propaganda hall 'impie. The hom-with superior rank, which in devenus les chesses, laissèrent le but ma-material for attaching to the doctrinesmau-'Waises: even they initiate their infectionsries; of the kind that these doetrines ayant deeply penetrated the social body, the Masons were accused of searching & in-4,

- 4 -

'woduire in the PEghse des, schismes;, des heresies, troubles and desses in the States. They already had Venus until Yes, I disagree. Supreme Pontiff and against all sovereigns. Finally the parut evident that the Masons worked to re-
'table the order of the Templars, a | Wenger: Yes death of the Grand-Maitre sur les kings who -was condemned, or they delivered 'in their meetings with all the crimes
'Don't be these lasts. there were accusations; That's what Rebold says in his tower of the Franc-Masonry. We are therefore I am obliged to send a letter Yes, destruction of this cause for celebration; without this knowledge, the reader. pourrait trepreneurs say Sur – Yes Frane; Manon nery. '

: The Order of the Temple: f ut established. par. Hugues de Paganis. Jl available for everything: that a Christian charity lienne can inspire zéle—in favor of

at

trust that the passion was committed to visiting the places sanctified by the presence of Sau-veur. These knights; where is it from-' tend to log and guide the feet travelers, soon return celebrated by their exploits against the Satrasins. On can say that their courage and their piety ' they acquire a reputation proportionate trained in the services they provide to Christian World. Pope Eugene Ill con-this order which must soon be some throughout Europe, only by chance of his arms, but always with his goods ses. The preserve. these latest advantages; :

but he also loses his religious spirit.

devoted his existence and his prosperity. On:

it is time to return to the position here they had it made. Yes, that was more a simple solution in the practice tique of their true premieres; on their reprochait of horrible crimes, of for-facts that ultimately amend their:
tuction: When even they were still

20 eN

in their strength and that he failed have the courage to speak out their vices, Matthieu Paris les aceusait having changed in tense lights of their predecessors, to have aban-given their vocation to deliver to the bition and to the debauchery. They had to not tyrans, usurpers, injustices. Universities. of intelligence with the Infideles, they said that the projects of the princes chrétiens , Frédéric Il meets in communi-quanta of his plans to Sudan of Babylon, here,. detesting the perfidy, and warning this emperor, your other crimes have not been committed not very large, not very large;

but now enough to understand that we must not throw away the cat-verse by the way, this order is fa-mix.

To His Excellency Philippe-le-Bel, King of France, two sick men for their crimes advertise what they have important seeks to revel in the subject of the Templars.

I, om

Philippe was amazed at what he learned, without anyway, and add a lot of weight, stop by caution, on a single day all the Templars. who is found in the kingdom; on the examination, on the question and Ton was replaced by many testimonies-ges qui appear s'ajouter aux simples soupçonsqu'on avait d'abreast concçus. In every province, in every kingdom or Christian Empire, in every tribune-never got hold of the same crimes.
The legal acts preserved. up to us days are unanimous, we watch the Templars sold as crime, li-vrég aux most vulnerable packages,

The result of these two is that the Templars, on the day of their reception, re-Jesus Christ is with you, the Cross, the cavaliere of crachats; which chose especially the Friday-place to love the Savior, they prostrate-there is a monstrous head and he ge

Vadoraient ; which they were entitled to deliver us to others to leave the abominations contrary to nature; which appeared: to the flames of the children who existence remains unknown to them; qu'ils s 'committed to continuing to follow, without no exception, the orders of your boss called the Grand-Maitre, to save nothing sacred and profane, to see how li-cite all that concerned the good of their Order and insist on not wearing the hor-ribles secrets of their night mysteries, under the pain of the worst prisoners.

By making these, several temperatures pliers add what we have with.

trained to these horrors through violence, the prison and the most cruel treatments; which would have liked to imitate a great name-bre d'others here, in view of these subscriptions-tions, entered into other orders religious, but they did not know what to do by the crainte of terrible vengeance which they came to craind; that already they

= 9 -

these crimes have been secretly confessed and received Vabselution. They assure raient, and versed d'abundantes lammers', which for a long time they wanted to be reconcile with religion. pa

After many testimonials, none of the various parties from PEurope, the:
Pope Clement V complied with the final decision-there are no complaints about the frequencies Trahisons that the Christian princes had:
victims in their wars against the Sar-rasins; il consentit qu'on poursuivit le ju-gement of the Templars. So we agree cent: quarantine of these knights in Paris.
All fonts are the same, except three who has no knowledge -

on this, no more cross should be taken to This information is provided by religious and of French gentlemen. II in fact make a new one in Poitou, in pre-sense of cardinals and other .emen characters that he himself designs. lei | 1.

– 10 –

still looking back at the same things that happened with complete freedom. Le Grand-Maitre Mo-lay and all the chefs renovate in.
presence of the Pope for the thirty-first time.
One of the servant brothers called in teamoignage by the Grand-Maitre, ensure the the truth of everything that has been said. These same information continuing, not following a few days, but during several "nées à Paris, in Normandy, in Cham-in France, in Provence, in Languedoc, etc.
A synod held in London on the English Channel, and for two months we heard repeating the same confessions, the same infa-bad; Parliament therefore annexed the order ` whole and confiscate all his goods. Cepenthen we still have the same information tions throughout Italy, in Ravenna, in Bologna, at Pisces,"4 Florence; and, bad Pressing of several thousand euros – reux d'absoudre those who swear by justifier, we cannot find the same things results, ` |

– 11 –

I know that we want to justify this big criminals, unlike Philippe-The beauty was guided by a spirit of geance that the tortures had been carried out of the forces that the government French convoyed leg well immensely of this order, that is.; mais, d'abord, Philippe-The good Lord welcomed the Grand Master Molay, point that the design is for sale and of his children. He did not admit it a single land of the Order for its profit, and all the verbal processes signal to us two cents a day as if very free- _ ment. The conciliations do not want and the Pope makes the greatest efforts for find the innocent knights; he declares zero the prince's pursuits, and suspend their functions the arche-old and young inquisitors. Gette conduct yourself strangely, that the king accu-Pope Clement says he favors the crimes of the Templars. They don't return

ee
qu'after having asked about his _pre-sense, not like a young man, but like a siren of the innocents, soixante and sweet knights. It only fits to justify the objection of those who have favorites. If the error occurs, their mouths are already repeated li-quickly and without objection. II laissa plu-sick days are sleeping, before allowing that we have our own deposits; but we persecute freely in their confessions. he asks him-me the Grand-Maitre and the principal super-tournaments of various provinces of Au-dela de the sea; he asks those who infirmities persist in our country; on their lit the deposits of others, and they and adherent. This is after having requested These great coupables are persistent in their declarations, and their having-mandé sur ce point their whole freedom, which is obliged to accept that the plague trumpet that he reiterates the menaces

|

sil

to French sheep and sheep and let's see complete the process. vg |

It is therefore clear that the Tömpliers detachable | of the best deals monstrosity; qu' 'il n'y eut in their pro-it is not haine, not envie, not passion quelconque : it is done to the detriment of certain The defendants wanted the justifiers. We will trying to think that the people who want the hold game memory, how could-we assume that we are good, in the France alone, two cents knights are de-clearly voluntarily detachable from more grahdes horreurs dont they sont perfect-'ments innocents? This would be an infamy almost as hidden as the crimes of memes, It's true that Jacques Molay, after having supported three times the truth of these avenues, I want to retract: but the scenes from this scene are in your no need to brush to know that this big

The criminal was attacked by murderers and

= e reconstructions of their former glory.
Ses regards, son gesture, sa voice, tout an-there was no spirit about it, just like that. The she explains that it has not appeared any more-but for a long time the company did not The Grand-Maitre, it's all about the Supégeneral manager. I never had anything else against his 2nd and, in mountain on the tit,

rats, ne ce moment supreme, protester of their innocence? It did not work believe that all the Templars infamies don't we parlons. il n 'y. en eut not convicted in Spain, not in Mayence. It even made it clear that the nine thousand houses that owned this Order is powerful, there are several of them
These atrocities are unknown. On croit Generally speaking, the two tiers in furent infected, where more than one de- |

=“

- 15 -

testassent or not abandoned, au moment of their reception, qu'après bea coup of bad treatments and the menaces the most terrible. '

Things are really impressive, and here very much that everything else comes together The Templars are coupable, it is that plus thirteen or quarantine. mille suryéyourselves to the destruction of your order, the.
even to Philippe and Clément V here. they were condemned. They disperse in various countries, in several countries, me where they didn't come anywhere near. and the do not find anyone who accuses injustice the judgment was against their order, not one which retracts the avenues which it has made in the prisons where they flee while the process lasts. Tels are ce-while men like the French-Ma-They regard their masters and don't they glorify themselves by going down.

They descended badly-ment. It is enough to convince you that

- 16 -

browsing their archives and examining the intimate reports between your order and this of the Templar. After their destruction, the Templars escaped to the proscription reunite quite often in Ecosse to preserve their harmful substances. mysteries. According to their code, they add the view of the kings and of the popes who came to destroy their infernational society; They judge by knowing their authority and to convert the religion here anathemated their impies of dogma, Pour.
they are linked to the Macons who already were buried in corruption, their transmit to them. mysteries of iniquity, their serments, they haggle against God of the Christians, against the priests, against the kings. These mystères are Venus up to us with an increase in malice, of rage and anger against society as a whole whole that they would destroy, in precipiceso in the abime that is in the summit, and in leading to the surfacing of the earth which is dam, the bottom base.

In the time where the confréries of Macons constructed the magnificent eagles ses què nous adinirons again, he falls to their faces are the most expert men, the plus instructions. But as they were ra-res and that compared to the Masons playingsaient of great privileges, which they ad-met in their company. same. of men who were not Christians, what we have allowed: to follow their cult in secret, it is a wine from the Orient, from Italy, tuxquels are joined by: Sarrasin's Venus d'Spain. In view of these men dis-tingués by their art, the characters the more emaciated and more instructed found flattened the title of Member honoraire; II fat so easy aux Templiers, here we are too. of distinguished men guess: because this body is composed of many different items.
doctrines and their mysterious secrets.

The Acts of Latomorum, which are other chose: that my history of the Frants-Maçons

– =

written by their adepts, dissent in their volume V, page 5, which from the year 1155 the Frane-Maconnerie was placed under the patronage of the Grand-Maitre of the Temp-pliers, which all matters of: this as-
The society was divided by the Templars.
It is so clear that already in this era, the corporation of masons takes over aux Templiers and in need of a protectorate real. During the Masonic era, the Jewish philosophical doctrines, Egyptian Hebrew, Greek and Christian. L'an 13t#The Templars, desperate to see restore your order dont les bens came to the Joannites, s'af-affiliated to the Masonic corporation, and King Bruce les and reunited legally, s'en declare the Grand-Maitre, and your lady the name of the Order of François-Maçons. Plus late kings, princes and grandees characters who completely ignored the nerie s'y firent recevoir : sans que Henri VI,

– 19 –

Guillaume d'Orange, Baubusson, etc.
When the nobles and princes returned from the Orient, after the mishap issue of cruises for the capture of places saints, find almost all ruined in their fortune, at the place of attribuer their ruin in the life of their teacher come soon, they reject the mistake on the clergy and the kings; and for it revenge for all the times, they will be released in the French Masonry where they discovered vrit his mysterious affairs and his hat against the Church and the governments. This document The tires of Power are titled: The Franc-Maconnerie, etc., by Acerellos.
Vers Pan 1535, les Francs-Macons already spread throughout Europe western and meridional. He even tried which they fear at the point of attack but. What is it about, the governments beginning to take shading; en the kind that these-ci, is traveling discovered, publish a piece that they don't send

– 90 –

a copy in each box, and in con-carefully serve the original for.
serve their justification. In this piece It is worth mentioning the main logs at Vienna, in Austria, in London, in Paris, in Lyon, Antwerp, Madrid, Venice. Cologne, et, de beaucoup d'autres, Son éten-due ne. allow pas that I am here copy, it is necessary to report the passages gone the plus sailors. The voices: « In « these bad times where the discord « and the dissent of citizens < but the trouble and the disasters, < impute to our society of Francs-Ma-« cones of princes and machinations | « secret and public. To dress on
"We measure the profane and us.
« go to the public exposition, because "that we are all bound by a pact « and inviolable mysteries, we « accuse of wanting to restore the order of K her domains and avenge the death of last Grand-Maitre on the dedeen-dances of kings and princes who are in | rent-coupables; and says that, for this,

=

– 21 –

eve +6

in the Church, the troubles and the sediment tions in the empires; that we are my-animés by the forest against the soul-our Pontiff; against the emperor and the sovereigns; that we do not want to knew other power than ours-riesen dont we execute the orders secrets by letters and by mandates missionary resources: occult; what we are pleased to announce that we have assembled that people are linked by horrible and despicable after having « reflect, we have resolved to expose « but of our order and of sending

"a copy of all the logs, Or, our 0

Very antique and very secret order not led by the Templars; it existed " already in Palestine, in Great Britain and in the Roman Empire. Establishing disputes

«

«

«

R

=

– 22 –

of the different sects of Christianity, some knights imbued of truth principles of morality, croyant see the religion ugly and corrupt, volatile conservator. the good princes graced in the heart of men and women the joy of being part of the mortars, formed rent an association where it is masters, companions and brothers unis. Here are the doctors and nurses and a lighting and lighting e-commerce science. The Grand Master or Patriarch 'who,' said he, 'who knows what brothers' names, still exist today; and C is by his cares that give us this writing tire of old charts, for dé-clarify that in our Society the areas of the light is reflected on all brothers and even on the. profane world.

According to our wishes, we We never want to question the religion

'go to the:nation. It does not have to be no physical exertion for pro-

– 25 –

« See who wants to learn from you.
"Our princes must love everyone « these men. Our secrets and our mystique-« There is nothing else but what to repeat « Our welcome is without ostentation. No West brother of the: Society, at least « do not know our mysteries, which he does not «It was announced by a master in seven days that « Res, it cannot give the fear of sar eption by the signs and the words « :dont'so servent les Franes-Macbens dE-« dimbourg. Because our company a chef who is the Grand-Maitre, the
"I must always have it in my heart-« ponder 'of letters and deputies on "'All the earth,' after all, cannot be « seul Corps. » | me f
Sar is written, in the midst of 80s signatures allmandes, 'écossaises et autres, ily in a two-part French version De Colligni, Virieux (1).

(1) Several authors have assured that the German, Swiss and English princes who are

/

– 2% –

One can only notice that the: Masons as.
surely here they are not allied to lent that the signs are intended for these uses Edinburgh which is precisely the city where The Templars then joined the French Macon's. Both the Templars and the French The Macons are good brothers, and we come later in an obvious manner.

 Since then we have not spoken, Frane-Maconnerie is known to be launching in politics at least in England; after the war between the house of Lancastre.et d'Yorck to laquelle elle part,
 'In 1645 she married King Charles I.' of his throne and fortune to perish on the faint-hearted. It's her, on the contrary, here, . aydnt reçu les serments de Charles II pen-then his exile, the replacement on the throne of his fathers forty years and more late. Since then deliver them and their countries to Protestantism, : 1 nothing but libertines, but francs-

,

- k-

For the French Francs-Magoris: acquire a say power in Angleterre, that the roses so it is difficult to get used to the which inspired them, but improved so as not to become slaves. Ainsi Elisabeth sends the soldiers to close the grand lodge Yorck, but the officers welcome invitations to initiate; who is place, and they fire at the queen a report tres-favorable. La Franc-Maçonnerie, de-then this era became very strong;
 - so reprimanded in Angleterre, according to their bosses have more or less access to throne; when the dix-
 At the turn of the century she decided that she would trait in the 'logs the men of all the cults, the Jews; tures, etc.; car, dit-on,
 The Franco-Maconnery Alliance is an alliance between manitaire destinée à perfectionner Phumanifesto. But the masonry of An-glacier, and parlons of what had been France this infernal society. |
 Des Pan 1535, it: and available in France two large lodges: Pune in Paris, the other in Lyon; but working in the area, they gradually catching attention. We say alone-because they contribute more late great opportunity to support the wars of religion gian., in favor of the Calvinists who ravagèrent several provinces and s emparerent from Lyon, Macon, etc., to their commit the most horrible attenactually Louis XIV, realizing that Franc-Maçonnere arrived in France its ramifications, repairs in the Bastille all the Grand Masters of the Order; no sooner said than done, the Duke of Antin

It went wrong, and the attack was not carried out.
This moment, the masonry is recovering this in all of France, we are talking about Paris the lodge masters, one escaped for
- Grand-Maitre the Count of Clermont here it's so inacuf, what's wrong with that YOrdre de sessere in the whole kingdom and to dress longer at all times blaze of the field under the rain

- 27 -

Louis XV. It is a confusing situation-ge. The grand lodge of Paris bears the name of Grand National Lodge of France; malgre this pretentious denomination, it is of other lodges that wanted to be independent-pendants of celle-ci, say that the large lodge of Paris. This one arrives in Paris and is re-pet in all the main cities of France. II and the écossaises logs, all-mandes, the logs of the temperature system pliers, of Villuminism, eto. All these Various versions of Francs-Maçons are available Procedure inanimate; but everything is It's just the same. It was said in a néral de détruire alle siècle de superstition, it is all about religion; all iyrannie, it's all about the governor-ment, all authority; to establish freedom, it is said, disorder and confusion; fraternity, which means liberty-public transport, the community of fine foods and children, the destruction of the fa- | mille; equality, which means sharing of the goods; the universal pillage, the brigantine days in grand style. Ceci will be clearly demonvery, when we say but that S is always proposed the Franc-Masonry, and of what she proposes again. Here what Acerellos says, stories already city of the Masonic Order: if it is examine the various systems, we see fa-specifically that everyone fights in pairs different batinières, celle de la Croix (it is the Templars' fault), and that the flamboyant star, which is the. panos phié impie ou nature pure opposee d any species of cult.

Even though the French masonry is not
She is not dressed in the high class of the so-citation; that it does not corrupt the sa-shoes, philosophers, nobility, France becomes a truly religious country everything is done by religion; education, instruction, literature, newspapers, everything was covered with a religious cache which manifested itself in a thousand ways;

- 29 -

until thés qua: les. logs,:se_propagèrent , d'impiété "the license, the libertinage , Vine subordination. progresses rapidly.

Perverse men, apparently Franc-Masonry, pure, punished repellent of their doctrines and 'publish this job. impie and 'monsirueux that des büyaux.du: last of the priests on put dtrangler the last of the kings. It is therefore 'be franc-maçon. Voltaire. wrote to the bun of 's adeptes: Ecrason's Pinfame; cetinfame it was. a. Ses. to the 'religion of. Jesus-
oa |

This fate at 17 78 that I drew at Chartres, Fun plus tard Philippe- Egalité, après 'have all the answers, be sure to receive _Grand-Maitre.au. Grand Orient. On com-
- then landed in Paris only a quarter of an hour ago lodges Maconniques and two cents quarantine-
.sept in the provinces. Elles reconnais-
- says all the Grand Orient like the 'Torite, supreme. Until the confusion - it was extreme; of systems $ without name 2.

more partisans, and more ridiculous, the most bizarre things are attached a huge number of dupes. They did not I agree that on two points: their haine furious against religion and against monarchy. Voltaire, in order to receive, got into it all over the place philosophical and imaginative. Diderot, the Alem-bert, Condorcet, La Harpe, Fréret ; Helvétius, Marmontel, Morelet, Beaudeau, Barthelemy, Raynal, Montesquieu and the Marquis d'Argenson, minister of Louis IV; all these perverted men are burning brightly 'd'être Francs-Maçons or of their service de support only by their writings, only by their advice (1). But they don't know almost too much to dissimulate, the des-true of all religion and the establishment-

J) It is at this time that the super-Jesuit résegue, against the French 'Masonry makes the greatest efforts, because which they supported by religion and monarchy. | ie Ra pre

part of a universal republic and associate. As they appeared, their under the name of Rainierrate of progress of the human spirit, progress of light, destruction of the reurs, discovery of the truth, they gagnèrent Frederie, king of Prussia, grand en-beyond religion; Joseph II, Emperor d' Austria; Catherine, Empress of Russia; the king of Poland, the king of Da-Nemarck, the King of Sweden and the majority of princes of Germany. All these people, without s'en douter, worked at the anéantisse-with their own power. Pour s'en Convaincre, we do not need to read your correspondence, and considering their oeuvre. Not only they kill the Jesuits, like one of the more solid columns of the Church, but they are serve religion, serve all your eommunion du Saint - Siege; they are-Roger has the right to visit all the cor-

,

-.52 -

res pondances of the prelates and the priests with the Court of Rome and all the almonds other animals that do not belong permit. to reunite in council. On, that is that the Pope was the enemy of all these,
powers and that one had to stand on guard. | against him, and against all the sheep. , .

'After the Frane-Maconnerie cuts the conquest of both crowned heads, she does not refrain from complaining against the. su-persecution, against fanaticism; elle tour-nait en ridicule all the ceremonies sa-created, the Roman liturgy, and everything that entered the clergy and part of the faithfully respect the sovereign Pon-depth and the Roman church. Big name d'évêques, étourdis or fascinated by these çlameurs, a new form emerges on sacred rite, changing their Breviaries, retracing almost everything that I have thanks to their attachment to Saint-Siège, but they are buried in a serious error;
This did not change, in the

- 33 -

form that. wanted the French masonry, it was the total destruction of this exists. TE

The measure that kings and princes religion begins, it is displayed hostiles at Sains-Siege and is of spiritual power, the Franc-Ma-gonnerie, by the mouth of his philosophical phes, they exalted like the heroes here there are a number of errors that appear lairs. Bayle, Voltaire, Fontenelle redou-sluggish and combative with more
'for this reason: they appeal for truth.
They employ all the arms that talents can be provided. Is primentous les ions, all forms, since the pleasure up to the point of pathos, since the pamphlet to the most skilled compilation, just-from the novel. The theatres, by their ordres "retaining the words of tyranny, de superstition ; means of covering their he is furious under the. voyage of patriotism

= sh to philanthropy, to love, good and of truth. Hs eurent l'art de ca-remove the prejudices to carry the surer cuts, not surprising fit several times, not even a single whole, showing those who are alarmed of their projects and their trends, which they not wanted in the religion that a little more tolerance, in the policy that little by little freedom. They come to menopause ger the government when they fight-religion and worship are dead when They fought against what they called the tyranny; all in showing that they are wanted to abuse the most revolting tants, they understand and the authority and the religion in their prince; revoquant iout en doute is published that the ruse and the force came to establish the religion and the power to keep people in the slavery, they taught to friends of Yes, freedom that superstition covers the despotism of an imperious ruler,

3% = qu n must briser this idol -infme for to destroy then despotism and acquire finally yes freedom. They did not attempt to reclaim more the independence of reason and berté d'writing like the salut of the genre bumain, and profitable to relieve Catholicism as a complete hy-Simply put, don't leave the house very much that domination in the blood of its victims, the religious and the religious servants like useless people to Ja sçciété, the fools who nourish themselves des:sueurs of the people in trampan by gnajent dareligion. as the result of the more badges of mischief; they poured in the administration, in the wounds; in the laws; I found absolutely nothing appression. durreté, barbary; the kings, the Priests, the magistrates were eyes of the monsters who prodigiously. The bloody human beings and who made men the march of their ambition and the aw36 -

their despotism. They published a book of hello where all men will be brothers, where there was no more war where reason, tolerance, .
appeared in sovereignty.

The conjured givenèrent to their iiss which was: other than the clubs, of the names that indiquainted their pretend to the public well, as these economists. They are trying to get Youverture d'écoles industrials et élé-mentaires for fools gambling nesse, and in particular the country of writing which they made composer and print. A club of this species, Voltaire was presdent à vie, reunites at the baron's hotel d'Holbach; d'Alembert ; Turgot, Cöndorthis, Diderot, La Harpe and: Lamoigneu guard-des-Sceaux in a fixed position. Volume: tairé, writing to d'Alembert on October 27 1765, he recommended Tor-three of the Franes-Magons; and this is what happened era when we saw the nobles and all the

- 57 -.

philosophers enter en masse in the loges, which forms something under the Presidency of the Grand Orient Pilippe-Egalité, due d'Orléans. | Ä

I cannot resist the desire to let go Here speaks Louis Blanc, leader of the revolution-tion of 1848, dignitary Franc-Maçon, in its history of the first revolution French version. Here is what he says: « Ex-

* Masonry, France, embankment « ciblesdésirs, agitated by a thousand hopes « confused, got price since some « sometimes a strange aspect. Alors com« stop running away from the people « rumors that stir in the sense « various. We spoke of characters « between us by redoubled seeds "and all to the tenebreux sais.
« We are dissatisfied with the secrets « here lies treasure; on their attributes a built a magical power.. They come « the boss who was looking for

8th

E.

« in the heart and here and there « just a stunning opulence.
« The phone between you also did not save you « domains, no contracts, no rents, no

'« family, meant a soulful existence
'« Vera, and thought more in good faith that the princes are in spectacles and in fe-tes. It was Philippe d'Or's silver « léans that we also replenished for soul-and deliver the people at the right time; read 4 disciples and added what was missing.
« They enjoy living swimming in « Fetude of the occult sciences, C'était to dissuade surveillance and stun « Pinquiétude du government. S'ils

« traveling around mysteries,

« It was to dominate the look better

"and of the wonderful devil credulity; yours « chiefs (all philosophers) were supporters of the revolution; lor qui ser-have to prepare, this or that prepare-

« the fondue in magic pans , gone from the central food bank

= 2

=.

– 59 –

by secret documents, by the conspirators' descriptions,

« But stop importing from-find the reader in my then burned under the trumpets, under the autels, the revolutionaries well-very profound and aggressive that the philosophes encyclopedists.

« An association composed of men of all countries, of all religions, of everything lies between us under the spell of continue to guard in an inviting manner-label the secret of their existence intérieure, soumis à des réseaux lugubres, taking over fantastic ceremonies, ensures the welfare and rent for égaux, which splits into three classes, apprentices, companions and maltres, cest en cela que consiste la Franc-Masonry; mystique institute tion that we have to go down again

« friend of architects.

4 Or, at the age of the French Revolution,

5.

«

«

«

£

– 40 –

Caise, the Franc-Maconnerie is under threat vait d'avoir prise un development immenses. Replacing in Europe en-animals, she inspired the meditative genius from Germany, strongly agitated the France, and presented the image of a society founded on the princes” contrary to those of civil society.

In the masonry lodges the pre-intentions of the hereditary organ proscrites , and the privileges of the naissuddenly ejected. When the profane wanted is initiated, the entrance into the room appealed to the Cabinet of Reflections; he lisait on the walls, tendus of black and cou-green funeral emblems this in Description: If you have any distinctions Humans, sisters, who don't know anything about here.

According to the discourse of the orator, the recipient while I realized that the but of the Franc-

Masonry was to remove the distinct functions of color, rank, and nation; to combat fanaticism; delete the sa hi =

« nation to nation. It was

«

I explained what I meant by q p a q q P

« the temple was raised to the status of a great architect

«

the universe, temple without columns, symbols of strength and wisdom, was crowned with grenades of ram-mitie. To pray in God was the only see demanded; also it was available above the throne of the president of each lodge, a delta radiating to the center duquel was written in Hebrew letters the name of Jehovah (God). |

_ «Ainsi, by the bases of its existence

The Franc-Maçonnerie tended to declare all the institutions. It is true that The Masonic Order parlait de la soumission aux lois, du respect aux sou-verains that the Masons were king in the monarchical states and to the supreme magistrates in the republic blinks; but these reserves remained commandees'par la prudence à des assciations menaced by the governor-

I
shady parts that cannot destroy revolutionary influences de la Franc-Maçonnerie. Those here in continuously build the part well are rich or poor, noble or wealthy-biting; but, besides, all must be recognized as égaux and s'ap_player brothers. It was a propaganda in action, a living prediction.

"From an outside perspective, he had an omto pronounce, a secret to learn for the good price of effrayantes courageous subies, a secret to keep, under the hair you want to execution and to death; of the signs private individuals except the brothers who are re-known about the two corners of the land; of the ceremonies that are reported became a story of death and sem-will conceal ideas of vengeance.

What can we find more properly at former conspirators? Comment

¢

EEE

"a separate institution, aux. approaches « d'a crisis, she did not give up « arms at the address of the sectaires, at the genius « of freedom ? |
_« The institution is expanding, the demo-« Cratie gourmet and take place; on the side
« A great stroke of luck to my brothers, not the mason « black served uniquely to charm « the organ and to occupy the leisure, he « (EUR which is overwhelmed by thoughts « getives, those that the spirit of revolution « OPS agitation »

Already the court of Louis XV was reprimanded de Franes-Maeons. The Count of Argenson, the Pompadour, the two of Choiseul and M, de Malesherbes was completely outside of conjured. When Louis XVI mounted on the throne, Voltaire greeted Frederick; « Je do not know if our young king is marching on the traces of his predecessor; but I know what he chose for his ministers that almost philosophers. » II wrote these on August 3, 1775, This prince cut, in effect, u eee

the misfortune of being surrounded by philosophers, it's all raining. Turgot was completely destroyed in the conjugation; The Necker House is other minister, for a long time the place of their reunions. The revolutionary The rest also took Brienne to the throne Archbishop of Paris, expecting his obtain the trahison of all the other évêques. The counts, the marquises, the chevaliers, the members of parliament, the Lawyers have been gaining a lot of money from jurisprudence throughout Europe. All of these empires do not occupy themselves with fighting this which cited prejudices, errors popular right now in the asylums of clergy

« Soon, add white, it will be produced « rent innovations from a re-« doubly, like the three degrees of « Ordinary masonry involves a « large number of men opposed to « state and principle of harassment

a

«

Irishman
whole being prepared, the innovators. multiplying these degrees. They create the rear logs for the hottest ones.
They add the grades of Elu, Chevalier, du Soleil, de la sainte Observer-vance, de Homme regenerated. It was autant of sanctuaries tenebreux dont the doors did not open until after a long series of estimates, calculated by

"in order to see and observe the progress of revolutionary education of adepts, their constance and the tremble of your heart.

« Yes, in a practical environment bloody, too eerie, everything is rap-and equality. Also Francs-Maçons inspired a vague terror to the gou-vernements. It must not be thrown they were anathématised in Rome by Clement XII and several others three papers; poursuivis in Spain by PInquisition, persecuted in Naples, and 3.

*
` « qu'en France la Sorbonne declares « dignes de strait, Ally, « thanks to the baby mechanism of his in-« institution, the Franc-Maçonnerie finds « in the nobles and princes more de « protectors who are enemies. The King of Fré-« She caught the frog and the table, Pour-« what is it? The existence of the highest grades « very carefully taken care of by these « Me, they only saved the French « Masonry what could you do to your s drer sans péri. They did not come to « I am angry because they kept « in the lower grades where the bottom
« The doctrines are not entirely confusing-« ment, Beaucoup n'y voyaient qu'une « occasion of entertainment, of the ban-« what a joy and a comedy of sorrow « galite; but here the comedy touches on « drama. H arriva que les organs « Contemptuous people cover the « Their name and their influence on the « prizes directed against each other. v

You understand, kings, princes, nobles, - bourgeois, people, you understand, This is Louis Blanc the Frane-Magon here. we declare that in the French-without any harm, we will serve you at the prices directed against. you-memes,.. more Jaissons speaks Louis Blane, eat him who is in charge of instructing you if you in ephemeral cases,

« Except for the springs that don't "We say, there is only one, not one
"The dissertation is not at all necessary,
"It was the Duke of Chartres who left his family
"by Danton, this Philippe-Equality is eluded-« bre in the fasts of the revolution (which "vote for the death of the king), but he who
« to his suspected tour of the revolution here « yours. What a young man and still read « to the delight of the spectators, the « let's get the spirit of opposition here
"There is a lot of crime in the branches « this. The French masonry company was founded.

1

She gave him a domination exercise without effort, he promised the « travel to real domination, "and he prepared a throne less in « view, but less exposed than this « Louis XVI. He therefore accepts the large
The boss who offered him that and the Franc-« Masonry is being strengthened, constituted by the Or-« three on the principles entirely de-« Mocratic and sarcastic, the name of Grand-« Orient. At this moment, the Masonry to attack most men who « We found ourselves in the midst of the melting « revolutionary. » |

Stop here for an instant reply from Louis Blanc, and said that in 1785, the 15 February, the French Franc-Maconnery, before the explosion of the great revolution, address two circulars to all French-Masons of Europe to engage in be one more straight, to put together to their work and to reunite in Paris, In these circulars they say that the ar-because prudence does not allow for fier au paper, et mintre à Fimpres-sion; that we cannot even do anything divulge in the presence of all the adepts, but we will reunite separately the app-prentis auxquels on dira ce qui sera per-my by prudence, and then on may explain more clearly the-by the superior masters. II sen suit always that the masters alone are the real according to the Order, and that the other Masons In reality, the valets and the sol-that of the riot for the bullfighters-ments. The masters are seated ensuite at the head of the government, when the victory is gaining, and the others, after having cried toot: under the cap! so: Vive la charte, or live freedom and equality! en are quittes for some heads or some-these members of less and less more low in the shadows or in the misery,

- 30 -

as we have seen in every revolution. But let's talk again Louis Blanc who knows the secrets of the Order in the quality of Maitre-Maçon. The congress now based in Paris; Germany and send its illuminated.

R 2 RF S & SX RER R

RR BR

=

« In the box of the new sisters, add Louis Blanc, we will meet Bailly, Brissot, Camille Desmoulins Condorcet, Danton, Petion, etc. This is Fauchet, Gou-pil and others who dominate in the box de Bouche-de-Fer. Sit back and relax of the Vingt-Deux at the Palais-Royal. Lors-that the revolution grew, the log of the lip d'Orléans; some of them are afraid vaient Lafayette, Lameth, etc. But the French-Magonnerie does not have anything a homogeneous character, every log has its system, everything else agreed to reverse the order established. »

It is also the French-Masonry

8th

prepare the premiere revolution, excite the ignorant people to revolt, to make it the most beautiful promises, and it seems that the whole nation was in rebellion, but that she only passed through the streets ineonnues. |

Unlike what it said in masses in all the excesses, other members of The Order of Louis XVI who left without contradict the king with the best intentions, and He encouraged protests from the more fierce loyalty. They made him the painting was more distressed than the more effrayant of the revolutionary force and the Vimpuissanee royale, so mounted in certain concessions the peace and the consolidation of the throne. Hsparvenaient ainsi à lui arracher, one to one, all the means to support you. Employer tour at tour leads to flattery and menace, they renew-said the ministers to replace them their gray, isolating the sovereign of his ser-the most faithful, and save

- 32 -

maintain, above all, the strength of the state.
Legislative power, executive power, all of them approach the army. They are not slow to proclaim the rights of the man, rejoicing the king in the Temple, old prison of Molay, and the fire die to avenge the death of the Grand-Maitre des Templiers; also the desire of the Franc-Masonry is found in game.

Already they have taken possession of the goods of emigrants and all those who possessed goes to nourish the poor. Afternoon they sell them at a high price, the indigents mourning of peace; to deliver the their import units, we invent the depots of warning, and soon these species of prisons become insufficient for the con-tenir. There is nothing more than another cult that him for good reason; more in com-pension on create the assignments and the law you maximum ; the guillotine is in per-

ee
manence ; on emprisonna, on exile, on fusilla, a mitre, a head-cutting, on fit the war, on quadruple the impetus, on ruining trade, on establishing clubs, on planta des arbres de liberte, on ctala absolutely the symbols of the Franc-Masonry: the level, the sill, the compass, the compass; on brisa les cloches, we close the churches, we chase the priests, we burn the castles, we destroy the clochers, the misery falls on his head; but the Francs-Macons enrich themselves and governor. On woman a pension aux girls-boys; he is no longer powdered, but at least there are no more teachers to complain against these horrors. Read The Francs-Maçons were very happy, the de Voltaire was accompanied, they came from-true Pinfame! -3

Until 1792 the Jacobins or Francs-French Masons have not yet found their date that day they called their freedom; but the 12th of August this year,

N o
quarantine hours after decree the decadence of Louis XVI, the monarch what is said was brought to the Temple, this revolted join absolutely the words li-bravery and equality. They publish, at this point-sion, an arrest which ended in nothing their secret: « See, they wrote, all "France is not a great country; all French are Francs-Macons and the whole universe will be soon. The great but it is finally realized; freedom, equality, all men are brothers. Voilà no-

« must know the real authors of « the great revolution. » Yes, it's easy of the connaitre and of their fair hon-new! they can say anything cells that will follow.

Together with the emigrants who were refugiés is on Angleterre, is airborne, plus sieurs à where the revolution finally came green eyes, replenished more having been members of this infernal

R

R RB

– 55 –

association and having at least indirect ment contributed to this horrible bouleversement. We can quote between other Lally Tolendal. Another disaster occurred in 1768 became aware of his long absence from loges and that the pressure is strong render, because he is preparing the cho-are of the utmost importance. « J'entendis, add the same, I understand the things who offends me at the point where I am cross obliged to prevent a minister.
I said to him that the king's days had ended in danger that the State was threatened; the minis I am sure that my opinions are not-not fond of. II crossed without pain with an army of 200,000 men there was nothing to hide from the French-Ma-çons ; but when the king was arrested at Va-Rennes, he was disappointed: I saved everything since two years, how is it done?
I don't know what to do? »

This was not enough to have dethroned the king, having been arrested and condemned to – 56 –

dead; the French-Masonry decree that I didn't get the point of God. At the place of the Christian was the order of the day region of the Francs-Maçons, when they the power in the hand. Tel is therefore your _ cult! |

Some Germans do not speak out against treatment. In a circular from 1783, they disent: « Quite a meditation on our three grades, easily recognize under these symbols that form freedom and equality the foundations of our order; sagesse, force, beautiful, here we have our columns. » It's about time beauty is our God!

The French masonry has achieved its but. She had already killed the king for her ger les Templiers; the throne was reversed, the churches closed, the cars destroyed, the poured and weaponized princes, the blood scattered in the streets, the poor people souffrait, France is covered in ruins and of course, the government was between tea

the hands of the French masonry! more the group of students from lodges and clubs, where the low part was served for ac-complete his work leaving the grounds of this, and returns to the name of the people against its own superiors, ries. Bientôt we see the masters of the premières logs mount on lemême échafaud you led the king. La Franc-Masonry is powerful to convert and to destroy, but weak like a enfant to drive his work, It is even if God takes revenge on his enemies.

The chefs of the French masonry furent if he is mistreated, he will only stay three days in Paris; everything else falls apart under the redoubled soups of the Jacobins. Le Grand-Orient, which had its day with Philippe-Egalité, reconstituted on 27 December 1799, and in 1800 he had the soixante-quatorze lo-total Three years later, the Grand Lodge Ask him to revise his statutes; ceite three-year hard revision. Like the Vice three cents logs; at the location of three degrees It's already thirty-three. We have seen which was too dangerous to leave take the mysteries to the grave, on the reserve therefore for the higher education grades; the lower grades are completely ignored where on earth are the men, these are the niais of the Ordre qui sans en con-read the signification. Napoleon I, who aware of the danger of this association, in good politics do not want to be member, persuaded that he should not let go-do not penetrate the secrets; but it fits also his brother Joseph Grand-Maitre, hoping for this way to prevent the plots. When Joseph became King of Spain, he agreed with Cambacérès under the title of Grand-Mattre adjoint. par the freedom that he left to all the lodges, the gain their confidence and hope to reunite all the Masons around the Grand Orient.

 They regard themselves as their sau-

- 59 -

price; also the revenues from this rap-portrayed by Joseph deux million and Cambacérés cent mille francs annual-ment. We won't be disappointed when one says that in 1812, a thousand four-century-new lodges released by the Grand Orient de France, and includes the military lodges here composed of new regiments, On in made the opening and left the séance

~ au orl de Vive I Eu pereur! by means of the military lodges, Napoleon enchained all the officers in each box. The
 The Prime Minister was one of his partisans.
 It was a powerful means of surveillance and police. The French Masonry is based in: traveled to Spain and Portugal, she

. and fat d'aluminum emulsifier; il s'en served to create an imperial party.
 In general, this gives the Masons sdumis , it is what they expected , applied of Napoleon's powerful protection, can give all the people a royal me of brothers. Otherwise, he did not do not believe that the emperor was a partisan of the Franc-Maconnerie, he was released from Contrary, but in good political terms the super-portrait and s'aide. |

00 =

It did not seem possible to believe that Frane-Maconnerie is always loyal to Napoleon. When she is clear that it was not an instrument anymore-three of her hands, she forms in Prussia a powerful association for the expulsion of Napoleon. To escape from this, he falls hearing all the logs of the Alle-magne, get the approval of the king of Prusse, where we gave the hope of the German sovereignty, and preparing the defects, casualties in the army French don't the bosses appear to the lodges. Acerellos, histories of the Franc-Masonry, assures that in 1813 the lodges contribute significantly to the defeat of those who weighed on all the crowns-Europe's markets. Finally everything is transformed the colossus.

= 61: =

When the giant collapsed, the French Masonry; who crossed the borders of Germany-a vast republic, watching that something was impossible in a moment where all the princes come to their disposal tion of the formidable armies, parvint à obtain at the Congress of Vienna the reconstitution of the Swiss Republic, which then his action foyer, ainsi a liberal constitution for the France. Louis XVIII, circonvenu par les Francs-Maçons, donna her chart here more later she returns her family into exile.

Louis XVIII, parvenu on the throne of his fathers, cruel power to govern tenants the environment between liberalism and royalism tea. Under the name of the liberties, the Francs-Macons renews all its tactics which ushered in the first revolution.
They serve the press, the tribune, of the jury, of the associations, to attack in an infamous manner and organize a new revolution. In all of Germanygne and throughout the Angleterre the companies Masons initiate a development excessive, colleges, universities, the literature, all gained in this sect; the Protestant presiding judges furent acquises. We welcome the people to regard the liberties as their souls animals, your friends. This denomination is gue was not capable of destroying or governments, or nations, like the name of Franc-Maçon. The liberties rent considered as friends, soul - tied to everything that was weak.

&

– 62 –

This is because of the congress of Ve-Count Augwitz presented a memoire where it disappeared everything that was available to redoubt of the Franc-Maçonnerie. « Arrive "At the end of my career, he says, I believe it is my duty to throw a coup -« d'oeil sur les menées de secre-« You don't let the poison harm humanity "Today I'm older than you. Their his-

E5

toirc. is close to my life, I am two to give you some details. Mon education and my dispositions me don-no desire to penetrate more profounded in the sanctuary of the science; before knowing and before

« to understand the situation where I am

R

A {La}

R A R R A R A A

« I have volunteered, I have direction supérieure de la Franc-Ma-convoy of Prussia, of Poland and from Russia. Le deisme and even the a-thisism became the religion of the sects, the central seat was in Berlin, but it was the domination of the world. They let him conquer the throne and serve of kings to dominate and then the destroy. The bosses were in correspondence-pondance assidue , their employees particular numbers and sent reciprocation of the emitters. La révo-French solution and the government avail was resolved and the result was associations and funerals. » This is it.

- 64 -

Sorry, I don't know any words fit a living impression on the emperors from Austria and Russia. Subject to France the revolution is advancing beyond giant. It is certain that the generation here -grandissait under the rains of Louis XVIII and Charles X gave his arms and soul tie of the Franc-Maçonnerie who had net in the university and in all the large schools.

Lafayette, great masonry figure, Laffite and others are deploying an activity infatigable to amene a revolution, and the Macons are exercising a certain influence on the elections of the deputies who decreed finally the reversal of the gou-vernement. Fischer, in his review of the Franc-Masonry, ensuring that the francs-Macons in France became more numerous that the electorates. Louis Blanc, this boss of the revolution which informed all the secrets of the Order, tell us Poriginedu

09 -

not to mention something important.

About the era we don't speak out - He assassinated the Duke of Berry. This .
where does the coup go - was it only coupable?
The French masonry received its army bras? Louis-Philippe, intimately linked to the logs, did he get paid and led the way?
II was always free to each one to more on this point a judgment to his makidney. This cannot be the object of a doute, it seemed that we were bring the royal family to its source, or at least one of its members the most capable. Louis-Philippe was Grand Orient!

Leave a comment now, Louis Blanc.
On 1 May 1821, three young men from Ba« zard, Flottard and Bucher find « Standing in front of a round table, rue Co-« skin. This is the result of meditation on this « three unknown men who are looking for Celts « Charbonnerie (Carbonarism) here, what "That month, I embraced France.

4.

- 66m

The troubles of June 1820 came to result in the military conspiracy of August 19th She had already warmed up the evening of the 'bat; the shocking coup on the conspirators "got stuck in the American box. Read the main members are dispersed; Jou-
- Bert and Dugier leave for Naples which The Masons are preparing for a full reform lution ; the two young people offer their service and joy their heads. But the army satrarchicane To demand this revolution, and refute General Foy's predictions the Franc-Maçon. Dugier report under san wear the tricolor ribbon, sign of his especially in the Italian Charbonnerie, and teaches to Flotard the mysteries of this ce. The log here tells you that this sect was semblable to an army

' born to Christ the patriot by excel-
'tence. We do not follow this principle, but it is stated that the Bourbons have already ramenès par l'étrange , the Francs-Ma-

- 67 -

cons Charbonniers returns to France the right to rule over the government here he liked it. We share this Macon-high-end retail, central retail and special offers. To escape from penal code, we fix the number for eighty log, but the high sale is composed of seven founding members. All of them other sales were too high and in doing so the instruments are But like the soldiers who fell at this association, it was declared that each member had a gun and quarantined cartouches; on Sex in the arms on the parquet covered with straw to avoid I understand. The secret is well guarded that the government is not aware of anything.

When France covered these sales like a network , I'm head of conjures itself defiantly and is lying with Lafayette. Bazard is charged to build confidence. Lafayette married no and enter with him in the upper sell his friends deputies.

- 68 -

Once applied to this person - nages, the conjured ones repeat themselves in the departments, Flotard in the West, Dugier in Burgundy, Rouen in Brittany, Joubert in Alsace; en little by little there are plots and conspirators throughout France. Les sol-that won at the Franc-Macon party, in garrison changer, col-servant Charbonniers porters. We don-without letters and a piece of money in copper divided into two; to this sign, allaient habiter. Ainsi la revolution marchait d'un pas senza rapide d'un throne and to a new bouleversement of the company (1).

è

(1) Here's how to print the journal
Friends of the People of September 15, 1830: and De 4815 to 1830 the secret society of Carbonari, 5 arrived in Italy and will be returned soon throughout Europe, it threatens all the kings. Elle registered in France a certain number of députés, and several between our main toys-

- 69 -

Charles X, threatened by re-agitation revolutionary which manifests itself in the Rooms and everything, buried in a great perplexity. Click on the article tenant a grand role under Louis-Philippe.

According to these chefs who constitute I sell first (name given to their log) was another sale of the product formed the famous committee of recteur, the government does not stop meet the members who were named de cing. This committee established the reports of the sale is not with the high sale, where composed of representatives of private individuals res which has been one of fifty-five members, Jamais association ne with more of rigueur in the choice of its members. Elle demanded an independent fortune, an educational cation distinguished, a passionate love of the berté, an invincible horror of despotism, a courage that reaches beyond the dead, but what is proposed by the association was the reversal of the throne by the means of the press and arms. Every member should have a gun and at least quarantine cartridges. Supreme sales received now two million who were the fruit of volunteers and who were employed but propos The revolution had be done by the deputies; the poor, people excited by you and by the journalists prit-

– 70 –

XIV of the Charter, the ordinances these don't all over the world even in the soul-come present. The organ journalists of the Franc-Maçonnerie appeals to the cons-pirates with weapons. The king gave up his arms, Today, manifestoes and the court is obliged to withdraw to Rambouillet.
The legendary house and other summer These Masons won the accelerator of rapports mensongers and infames on the fidelity-the troops who are here to help –no orders and no shouting of fight for the king. According to this time, 'Dupin and others rushed to Neuilly for averür Louis-Philippe d'Orléans , Grand-Maitre des Franes-Maçons, he is believe it or not, the revolution has come | victorious and that the people] waited for texts of orders for self-discovery.

Charles X died and the revolution happened. n Agar comment parlait PAm du Peuple dont editors were all French-Masons, 1 that honest people understand!

| eo

give him the reins of the government, Lafayette succumbed to the fire in the streets the outbreak of war is like a plague of other three loggias. Charles X, near those who displeased him with his lost cause, be obliged to wash and take sadly the path of exile,

The old throne gave way to the scrouler, the Fayette and her accomplices hate the learn something new that they donate to their chef Louis-Philippe d'Orléans, who took the premier king bourgeois like the Pappe-layperson. The conjured, there is nothing more to craindre, revealing openly that they conspired for five years; et.
as the elergé was opposed to all its forces to conspire without power stop, they attack him in that the priests wanted to restore the dime and the feudal rights which they wished to re-put the people in slavery, force them to charrue for him to work the land

- 72 -

like animals; that the priests sent enormous sums for go to the stranger, every night they exercised with arms in the churches with their adepts, that the basements of churches were empty handed. The people furieux wanted to visit the churches and Even the cures, it is placed on the cross public, the breeze or the reverse; l'é-Saint-Germain l'Auxerrois railway line, at Paris, was sacked, and Sainte-Geneviève changed to a païen temple. It happens even question of delivering the presidents, and by the replacements or by the school teachers auxquels absolutely fit to beat beautiful houses, or by Protestant ministers which undermines France to rebuild their doctrine, supported by the governor-ment.

However, the people are gradually becoming little by little the trumpet sounded. The purchase is better again, when consigned, in the place thousands of men in quarantine, taken to

- 73 -

four-thirty thousand; when trading buried and that the impressions there aren't. was worth more than nine cents millions, far from being ported to the seventh or huitcents millions. The French-Masons also notice that their bosses trumpeted and that Louis-Philippe ne kept no promises that they had made; that the bourgeois king did not work to gain his fortune, which he placed in 'Angleterre and the Americas in summer enormous. Exposing the conspiracies re-beginning. -

France has launched the revolutionary naires, and their victory is an effroyable rope broke, one cut that the re-revolution would be general, as the Franc-Masonry has acquired power!

Unless you know that Belgium who delivers a protestant king for tomb between the hands of another king Protestant who does not seek re-

8th

- 74 -

ligion., but if you leave: surround the Ministers of France and Macon. The King of Saxony 'lost part of his authority and a constitution, A Brunswick the sou-The club is chased, the Polish company a war under the influence of alcohol; Italy broke away, Switzerland itself and North America is embarrassing, launching no one is listening to you, I want to say of the Protestant ministers, modifying their constitutions against the Catholics, and 'Saccagerent of churches and oaths.

Carbonisation, which has won prizes in come to Italy, don't stay away. A la suite of disasters of 1830, agents Revolutionaries of Paris e4 of Switzerland appear in this beautiful country. Modene and Bologna bears the flag of the Republic of volte; Rome follows their example. What is -rainbows of -Grey paper goire XVII.. Without vigilance of the seere-Bernetii State Council, the city of Rome tom-bait in anarchy. Their plot is over

- 15: -

departed, they jetted over Parme. Mary Louise is chased by her relatives. At Spoleto the papers are required to send troops away for deliver the archives which will take longer Pie IX ; mais.vaineus, the rebels from Ancestors and massacre the mayor. Vain-cus and not discouraged, they ask for font a national guard on the grand scale, They are about to become bosses. The Pope the excommunicate, they. present these errors:
three spiritual; car they don't cross

France here supports. absolutely the revolution languages, the Franks-Macons demand an amnesty. The Pope pardons the prince Canino, at Mamiani, at Mazini and at heaw coup d' oeuvres; but those who work at simply repeat the ideas. sevolutionnaires under the name of a scientific congress.

This congress is reunited every year either in a city, either in an autre. Gregory XVI takes the only one who do not allow in its Elats. We flaltait

;

aa
the governments of Turin, Naples and even Rome, in their entre-see the possibility of expanding your territory and to become more powerful. Gregory XVI died on 1 June 1846. This time velle, the secret societies push a cry of joy. The barrier was broken; Italy's grand movement is over finally explode. We met the heart of Pie IX, who succeeded Gregory XVI; read revolutionaries exalt themselves to the nines; they want to be their guards, they are incompetent against all the administrations, their suggesting horrible intentions, in the accused of criminal plots; some cardinaux, disent les Franks-Macons, veu-perhaps five thousand Romans would die.
Every day the admirers of Saint Father are assassinated, their days are not not in safety. We are in administrative custody-expensive provinces, and the journalists from! Europe publishes absolutely those who are right-what was discovered against the Pope

ee
they become their only support. On de-calls on a national guard nals. to help the Pope in the reforms which meditates on the well-being of its subjects, without exposing his person to vengeance of the reactionaries. It is just that the revolution tion advances beyond giant. On éloignetous the Pope's former servants, and on the bee, pushing the crisis of joy. Even at the time of the French Revolutionary Masons of Lucques propose to the prince the example of Pie IX, demanded the reforms that were agreed upon. It is life of joy which lasted from the foil, and on created Vive Pie IX! The parties are over by insults to God; compensation for-freedom of patriots.

Louis-Philippe had already been raised on the throne qu'en qualité de Grand-Maitre des Francs-Maçons ; but parvenu to son but, he occupies more of his children than of promises made to the Order, It is not long:

= FR aa

not to evict his person Lafayette: Laffite and the other chief masons. The affair blit, autant qu'il le put, the power of the Or-
- dre qu'il avait eue. Des lors ses anciens amis judge himself guilty. After a thousand attempts d'assassinate and well of partial revolts, the and today the Maçonniques meet in various places, especially in Saintes where we are a new way to escape from the crowd.
But Louis-Philippe, who knew everything-these Russian employees to detach their parent, for a long time, attacks, and, for its safety, evaporates to build the gigantic fortifications of Paris. Therefore the crust becomes vulnerable, like the eagle in the sky does not rise from a ro-cher; but he took his friends and their vengeance would erupt.

In a large number of cities, the Francs-Maçons, applied by the orators de la Chambre, organizer of banquets under various pretexts. When it happened, tion to make the same thing in Paris, the

- 79 sec

the government wants to oppose it; the ora-
The most distinguished guests of the room: protesting, foreseeing the insurrection: et blame the government for the attack against freedom. Louis-Philippe is done but the crowd grew in the street, and he, who crossed safely, holding on to it était sur la nouveauté nouveau which ap-almost entirely in the Franc-Masonry, also well known among the plus.opinions of the revolutionary party and a large part of the bourgeoisie, soon found in the same perplexity that his cousin Charles X had trône. At the moment of tempest, he far too close to the target. Ainsi to take advice he could not that is, the voice of the trahison (1). Dune part on secretly executing the revolution tion, d'un autre on montrait à Ba

(Y) Everyone in the world knows the role that you
M. Thiers in these circumstances.

- 80 -

because for the service of the prince, we per-said that he could not tolerate this banquets that were infallibly the disorder; then it attracted the head to the embezzler. Odilon Barrot, souby the pretender conservation party as well as by the reform party, everyone was sold to the Franc-Maçonblack, white soon group around him a few million workers and three thousand school students. The National Guard, ap - Pelée to support the monarchy, and not to travel in the opposition deputies that passive resistance says that we have had seized in the lodges, refused his consent course to the monarchy without being delivered to the revolution. The troupe fit d'abord son de-see and remain mistress of the ground; Corn, During these times, the entourage of Louis-Philippe persuaded him that the troupe was indecisive, that the insurrection was grandiose at eye view, that soon his days will not be more secure, The old man at marriage

- 81 -

{want whites, terror sensation, woman sa resignation in favor of his little son it was Charles X, when the Duke of Orléans

-levé against the Franc-Maçonnerie. So his old friends, seeing that pimping he broke away, turned against him and abandoning, not subject to es- to preserve their places. They fire a last effort in favor of the count of London; but we replied to the Duchess protestante who presented his son: He is too tard. The answer came in 1830 at the Duchess of Berry here, she also had presented to the people the Duke of Bordeaux. It is only by his throne that Louis-Philippe, not by the power of Pin-surrection, but victim of torture. Also this old conspirator, in part pour lexil, s'écria-t-il « It's like Charles X! » Yes, the same conspiracy who had already perished Louis XVI, tomb of Na-Poleon, assassin of the Duke of Berry, pro-8th.

- 82 -

clamer to Louis XVIII his charter of revolutions, the same one that was reversed Charles X, chassa Re à son trip.

Cest. even if France submits Vignominiature of life, on February 24, 1848, soumise.

at the age of 18 at the Franco-Masonry person of Lamartine, Ledru-Rollin, Louis Blanc. and consorts. Bientôt des députés from the Grand Lodge of France, revêtus of their insignia, worth depositing between the hands of the provisional government.

J

their act of adhesion to the republic. Grédecorated with the insignia of their grade, region-vent the deputation which pronounced a dis-presented by the body of Bertrand, president:

of the Commercial Court, in quality of representing the Grand Master. « Le Grand-The Orient de France declares, in the glare of and Grand-Architected of the universe, which comes « express the sentiments of the French

« Masonry on the subject of, agitation and

- 83 ss

1

ciate who is taiiifestée. Sur Ih bán-
: kidney of Macens, of all times, this

The teacher has written words: Freedom, Egalité, Fraternity! Ne Kapplaudissent what the nation receives from the consecrated masonry function. Quarantine a thousand Ma-divided into three cents boxes prompt their confederates to the governor-

« not new. Crerhieux responds what the Grand Architect means: homies are free.. In all the times, mem under the tyranny of the po-see, Fa Masonry is lost these words are: Freedom, equality.

Fraternity. The recipe is found in the masonry; sur toute la sur« face of the earth that signifies Auguste is known from Frane-Macon. Welcome to all the parties of the world, the Grand-

A

Architects of the moon reunite all the people in the same mood. » The deputation retires from office a thousand times petes from Vive la republic! :

- 8b -

On March 10th, Lamartine arrived at the hotel.
The following statement will be: & I am the conviction that you are from France-Masonry that gave birth to great ideas here we have launched the foundation of the revolution from 1789, from 1830 and from 1848. » And maintenant understand that all the maux de la France viennent de la Franc-Masonry? This improvised government be obliged to submit an assembly blue national. This Assembly must accept the new constitution of the France and all the state forces for the conquest of Europe at the Republik. But the nation that is upset still the weakest sufferers at the first, and caused a deep aversion. It was easy to predict that this governor-no longer tended to the republic social. Also, despite all its influence on the elections, the Assembly, without ramener outsit the monarchy, s'opposa opening to democratic institutions

Sb os
 ques and sociales, The government pro_visoire, entered into his plans, souleva the masses of workers here distributed the treasures of France. It was said that chase the Assembly and form a committee of public army salute with power without bornes. So, we propose domi-in France by terror, and souput the universe at the crossroads of the republic social. The report on the events of months of May and months of August are not designed what four names : Ledru-Rollin, Louis Blane, Caussidière and Proudhon; more the formally declare that they have been pre-instead of the government of Dont Lamar-the chef told him, it was said by laFranc-Masonry; we wanted the reversal of the Assembly which opposes everything capable of new developments.
 II signals a multitude of functional res loud in the departments and agents of the clubs paid by the governor-ment to tighten the people under the

*

. - 86 -
 power of socialism. The 15th of April rat a bulletin ins-lequel on lisait ces lyrics: If the elections are not a triumph-for social truth, tl still remains ati people who make the barriers a mean de salit , cest d'annullel les decisions d uns fake representation. Pendant ce temps-Yes, we appealed to national workshops all the bad subjects for the former a formidable army capable of to be thrown onto the assembly. Your name passed cent mille. The Red Newspapers threatened to throw the députés in the Seine, s'they do not anticipate a socialist march. Louis Blanc and The defendant was accused of being on the costs of effective movement here place against PAssemblée on 16 April. Source-what days ahead, what last came convoked at the prefecture all the commissioners police officers and they arrested their mollesse, their smile, and their recommendation

To 87 -

men of order who are waiting for them long to respond, four cents.
thousands of workers did not hear the signal.
to rush through Paris, they are not laissez-faire no stone on stone. Grandmenil, écrivant: to his naughty side in Angers, he said:.
Caussidière recommend to bring here some of your famous bombs; Corn silence before everything! In other words, the minister:
held in his cabinet of conciliabales nocturnes; we met a question Pexis-tenence of the National Assembly. The plus,, My club is chaired by Sobrier and these human rights by Vilain,, deputy of the 'officers in charge of. par-run to all the garrisons to engage the troops to attack their bosses.

These two clubs comprise more than ransom thousands of all army members. When where the attack on the Assembly took place, find on Sobrier where there are various prices-secrets that should be published after the dissolution of the national representation;

- 88 -

only lisait: « Establishment of a committee of public greetings, transport defense, gent monnayed, death pangs against all French who emigrated, suppression of all administrations, formation of community committees, etc. » In Lyon, the The mayors of the city and not at all~ tends to signal to put all in fire and song. We no longer speak that pilling and guillotine. Enfin la Franc-Masonry wanted to rain on each vres, du sang et des d'combres. Hayreuwhile the National Assembly invests the General Cavaignac of the Supreme Council door. The bourgeoisie and the combat troops-tired for three days with courage; the dictator triumphs. But how about the savait favorable to the republic, it does not appealed to the presidency, and the defendant in private life.

After two years of fighting in the order and the disorder, we wait to close the four national lodges of France, en-

- 89 -

following the Grand Orient, then finally all the clubs, all the lodges.

But the Franco-Magnolian revolution not been born to shake the France under the weight of its power, to to destroy his treasures, to destroy the mercy, to stop the industry, and to fair trembler everything that has an honest heart-not to exaggerate all the bad things . sions, to arracher the centaines of curés à their troupes of cherries; she has the carry embarrassment and desolation throughout l'Europe. Yes, in 1847, the great agitation expensive and French-Inacon Mazzini got excited of powerful demonstrations in all the Piedmont. King Charles Albert, in lieu of the reprimand, let yourself be seduced by the because all of Italy is crying sceptre, d'aililleurs truly paternal. Also de toute parte n'understand that this crisis repeated by a million voices: Vive Charles-Albert! Vive Pie IX! We have no part-milk that of reforms and constitutions.

- 90 -

Against the backdrop of February's revolution _ triumphed in France, which secret societies they are agitating with fury in the Peninsula, Rome is reading satanic joys, tou-these nights the city is filled with lanterns and lights of joy. The population, in united shape or in gunnels, street circuit with tricolor flags, in a hurry the Marseillaise. Evidence Paris and Rome se tendaient la main, On court à l'ambassade d Autriche, on breeze the statue of _ Pempereur, we burn our armouries, we do and then hunt the Jesuits. En vain Pie IX give a new constitution, on him responding to the famous phrase: II is too tard. The city of Vienna is now combustion; Metternich, he supported Louis-Philippe is chased; the emperor

March 15, Berlin is covered by a barrier-of; effroyables commotions! the king takes It's gone. This same day, explosion revosolution in Milan! on massacre les au-

| - 91 -

torités, the troupe cannot support the choir.
March 20th, revolution & Parme! the Prince of Wales is a triumphant prince, but he was ignites the effusion of song. His humanity is forlorn, he takes the path of exile. The March 22, the Republic is proclaimed Venice; Place Saint-Marc is demolished and the triumphant revolution; absolutely the Furious people take their arms, and Paul-torité is anéante. In all Ptalie on do not see any improvised battalions; all the clochers sunk the tocsin, and lee peu-please be guided by the transport that takes of the fureur and of the foil all the time.

'Fous the tears are. ebranles ou renverses. |

Looking at this movement, Charles Albert that the French-Macedons proclaim the king of all Italy lets himself be fascinated and declares itself against Austria. It is not don't know that Mazzini and his accomplices don't let him serve you, for the sake of the leperdre. Then he tried to escape

*

-. 92 -

the Austrians of Lombardy, their pretendus amis proclaimed the republic to . Milan. At all events we cannot see that perfidious. Romarino, Mazzini's student, is not to proclaim the Republic to Hello, in the place where Italy is located in No-vare. Tandis que la king de Naples trumpeted envelop his soldiers in the Italian war, Mazzini and his agents launch a formidable insurrection in its capital.
The Franc-Maçonnerie also decided to love all the princes of Italy, but c'éready to detonate. Cependant Ferdinand II reported on the revolution of immense result, and that helps to save l'Europe. |

Abandoned by the revolution in its capital, he failed to reconquer Sicily, Here, too, was the beginning of a revolution. If it was well served, a simple demonstration, accompanied by a detachment right, is it enough to hold a hand?

*

— OF —

in fact; but one thing is certain sent an army to be speary tatatrice of what happened. Subject, after long periods of inactivity, on attack the rebels; immediately they are dispersed, but not entirely stupid; the general Desaulet can promise a victory Certainly, but it seems that this glory and let the time pass to the Masons solutions to reunite, to call the English to their rescue and to the rescue their canons. In a few occurrences, the king has a great council; more along of traits like that of Charles X:
"Sir, tell them, the capital is in_ surrection, the English declare in favor-for the revolution, the army is not Plus, the revolts are about to bomb the city, the guns are raised on your head, give a chart or everything is lost. » A parliament of men in.
where the trumpet king had placed his trust.
Mazzini said that the revolution is

— 94 — .

given by the sovereigns; à sorce de les trom-by way of attachment protests, the word is found accomplished. The king of Naples has a constitution that does it accelerate the revolution.

On says comment the effroyable tempête dechained across Europe by the Char-Bonnerie and the Francs-Magons are at peace, from the energy of this good and dence of the new emperor of Austria, finally by the energy of Louis-Napoléon ac-currently emperor of the French.

What we have to say. We cannot help but material, it is easy to see that all the maux, all the revolutions that are in Europe since 1970
. And now, they are the works of secret societies...
The civil wars, the assassinations, the deaths and the expulsion of kings, the im-pots forced, - abolition of all religion, the communism in society, the des-destruction of order and family, the ruin

2ND FLOOR - general, the assimilation of peoples to a troupe of wild animals and the do-supreme and despotic power, voilà ce that means the Frane-Maconnerie. Si son history was not enough to prove, we only bypass their statutes. Nous n'au-rons qu'à ouvrir las eyes 'for being con-vaincus que si damais salle atteignait but, the moral world would be an anti-Puniyers died in barbarity, the human nité touched it at its end.

BUT DE RA FRANC-MAÇONNERIE. PUBLISHED BY THE MACONS ARE OUT OF THE WAY. MISCELLANEOUS CIHCONS TANGE, eC SA aw à Be

*

see the proper words of Heim-bugs pronounced in a box at 19 January 1843: "If the power is obstructed

E ==
to maintain that the spirit of the era repousse and which is used for a long time, the a stronger power must be lifted and breeze these entrances. It is necessary that the old échafaudages (State and religion) s'écroulent, and it is through the violence that they will reversed. What time should be used tomber, and if the mortars are looking for the me when they were 8 under the ruins. »

The Masonic Review for Finstruction of the brothers contains this passage remarkable: « He must keep the brother in the continuous meditation on certain ideas social, important; our constitution is democratic. Union of Members of different religions in religion nature, equality of rights, joys communes. The priests of religion, au place to see in us the auxiliaries and the useful preparations, no mistake in the long run times still mean farewell: they

¢

= 07

we are accused of idolatry if we voulions donner à l'humanité a personification, like on a costume from the work for the divinity. »

The French-Masonry also proposes three things: the destruction of everything here exist, This is the old demo fading read, the abolition of all religions, to create a new religion: this religion consist to put God on the side and to make man and God. Voilà the cult of the déesse Raison. pu

The Masons' Manual contains these roles pronounced by Gottald Salomon, preacher Israelite, member of the lodge The Naked Aurora in Hamburg: « Pour-what in all the Franc-Maconnerie no meet-t-one pas a single christian symbol-tien? Why the compass, the compass, the level? Why the name of Christ is not-he was not pronounced once in the serments? Why don't we see passer la ereix? a Christian masonry

6

ele carré, etc. »

Count Fernig, French General ct
Vice-President of all the lodges in France ce, wrote & Berlin: « In France on de-
- tell the candidate not what he is, but what is his life. Our God is not of particular name, it is the Grand-Arehitecte de Vunivers, the worker at Pequerre. Maintain religious prejudices the middle-dge, it is not the law of the progrès. » Klos, one of the most instructive The Magons say it is impossible of introduction in the masonry. un chris-positive tianism. The book of the eonstitu-tion. of the great logs declare that in la. Franc-Masonry does not propose that to practice social rights. Ainsi the French Masonry. is a company here not true, and he cannot ally himself with Christianity.

. If we chips a coup- d'oeil on the Lutomia of July 1849, we are 5

"that masonry is an institution Christian teaching, which is the wall of Christian prejudices, raised by men friends of darkness and mensonge, little by little. For those who do not-sat put a big tide on the edi-of imposture, they have concluded an alliance with the power to educate, to teach a religious region of the State, introduces hypocrisy in the company; but soon the Samson of a main 1 demonstrate the difference; U.N dangerous cracking fits duckdre in the temples of the Masonry, and, under the protection of secret, of the hom-with all my heart and soul reux fought, and the lights pene-crossing through all the openings. » (Sans doute the lights of hell.)

In the memoir of the jubilee mason
In 1833, these offensive phrases were published: domination now, and with her the scaling vague. The thieves gave bad advice, and

- 100 -

He looking for fireworks and jets at in the area of the battlefield an object of-wine to make your instrument perversion. What was this divine object? The Do not pronounce the word "this is a horrible" ble magic, which in little syllabuses signify the combination of horror: assassination, assassin-sin, assassinated; it is Christianity. Corn of noble and generous men at heart form an alliance that ensures the triumph; she appeals to Franc-Macon-
nery. »

The Franc-Maconnerie also considers the Christianity as its legal enemy; she has to destroy it at all costs. It is so that the journalists who are sells not to proclaim freedom of saying everything, and of discovering the blackest 'calomnies against the fathers and against the religions. All the bad guys who come to Humanity is attributed to the priests. Si Cholera starts with fury, and that clergyman sacrifices himself to save and serve

- 101:-

The sick are healed by the people:
I think that the priests are emphasizing the fountains. It must absolutely be achieved, destroy the clergyman who is the defender of the order of dogma and morals. |

But new cites testimonies; laisons parler Blumenhagen , venerable distinguished by the Masons. In the son Manuscript for the Brothers in 1828, the ex-firstly: "It is absolutely forbidden to servation of the civil governments. Je le disclarity; he said well of the existence of our association. No you will not see the naked naked women who are balance on our heads? We must raffle fermir, before the storm hits usporte, What is very advantageous from drrober our secrets about the eyes of the mon-to our other preserved secrets. We devons act with prudence and energy for protect yourself because it is in our bonne mère la masonnerie. L'enfance st 6.

– 102 –

the adolescents of our order have passed away; it must be firmly established in the heart of:chaquf. pays. When in all the university visits the Masonic temple, the powerful land faces eux-even more sin, abandon us main the domination of the world, and lay-give people the freedom that we give them prepared aurons. Who is the master of the world We agree once again that we aurons takes the but silly desire, and the people don't look any further * | princes who part ways with the initiators. »

A seat is not slanted, before The Masonry has completed a part of eette prediction, Two years after, she cou-ronna Louis-Philippe son Grand-Maitre; but they want to get rid of her secrets, she turns into 1848. 2s nn |

Here are some thoughts extracted from a discourse of Traillard pronounced in a loge in Lyon: « Autrefois, when the Ma-

– 105 –

The sounds are quite loud for sub-train their productions to investigative tions de la police, this glorious transgression sion was punished by a long detention or by exile. Just like before. grew the arage. Yes, the reason, the philosophy , 7 demolished the old stone-to-stone building and in 1920 the foundations; the char of The state was stunned, the nation was convowhat; The rights of the poor are violated. pro- | of things should have been destroyed. The nation had a whole phalanx of the revolutionary dación. His orators the dogma of freedom prevailed here always had fouled feet by the civil society; this dogma is today delivered in all codes. We have the mission to continue the work. Avant everything, we believe we will take from the in-education of the youth; and instruction should not be allowed to pass, because the individual quit the school; she must embrace all the ages of life. Do not suffer that the Catholicism exploits the power that the so-laid low in the man's heart.

– 104 –

Aim for equality and justice; the people do not no need for large yellows. Morality immediately abandon the fraternity; it will be clearer than that of PEvangil. » The Franc-Maconnerie is still was composed of revolutionary ideas-res, she always wanted to destroy this exist; enrayer le char de l'Etat, s'empa-education by mutual schools and the institutes that are in conflict against religion, and morality deserves better that of the Evangelical. These are Franc-Mason adds to his teaching these paroles : « Protestantism is not that middle of the masonry. Celle-ei a con-state the antipathy that exists between the doctor-cross and cell of the church. »

Here is another one, Gieseler who 1848 also sat in the Chamber of Deputies of the Com-– 105 –

pas-d'Or, mixing his voice with that of Ma-French characters who celebrated their triumph: "Freedom is no longer needed. to flee to the shadow of our lodges. Elle pedestrian zone without barriers in public places.
The great era has finally arrived. We greetings with joy to the children of ferments, &cume, to remove this who is impure and makes the links where But wanted the container. With the word égalité, it combats the excessive ac-cordée aux avantages de la condition, des riches, of honour. The quality of The toy makes all the distinction. » Masonry also needs to be leveled up completely. The no more wealth to live the poor through work and the aumone.

Comments now Fischer, speaking in the Lodge of Apollo in Leipzig in 1849: « In our Germany, all our efforts must tend towards the success of democracy-tie. Someone alive who is the resistance,

a |

the aristocracy the most epinephrine is forced by knowing that the system of privileges and of the tutelary, for there is already one, is lost in an irrevocable manner, Ni the riches are overwhelmed, nor science profound, can not seek the domination. Democracy is an event although our art was necessary drive and that our art pushes more loin encore. Democracy is our . fant. For over a century, we have viewed with great care the parches of the nobility and ribbons of distinction. Read universities and the evangelical church (it is-(Protestantism) we have given a powerful contingent. Our Principle fundamentally is the fusion of all the whole in the same fraternity. It is not not without violent opposition, can even be without a war glante. The choice is not yet decided dee; our case is not yet clear. »

The thing is clear, the wings peu-

- 407 -

let's see: What does the Franc-Macorsnery? a republic that embraces Punivers, and the Francs-Macons in the no distinction, just for you.

They nourish themselves with sweat and blood the people, and the laissez-faire in. the deses-perhaps without the hope of a better life.
Echoes these words of Fischer, they are appeared in the Marennique Review of 1880 were pronounced in a box: « Whenqworl attack the religious side of the Order, to fight a chimera. The great majeering from the Order not only unaddressed not Christianity, but she is. combat to excess. »

Rya in the raid ARRE a large number of dupes that do not appear in this association that the ideas beneficiaries et al. d'humanité.
How expensive it is to reveal the secrets of the Order, they supported the Magon- - she doesn't work for the good public, she

- 108 -

a horrible, completely out of order exterior.
"Fischer will be loading the instructions:
The people here, in 1848, had raised the tendency of the revolution came to be written on their banners victorious these three words Augustus: Liberty, Equality, Fraternity; sacred words that have long been with us pronunciation with emotion in our many masons. After the revolution of France, in the midst of an immense con-ears of citizens who applauded at government of the republic, on vit, en plein midi, opposite the Francs-Magons.
We heard their orators say with orgueil: Your victory is a black victory. It is We are here, since centuries, we are consecrated in silence to the worship of liberty, of legality, of fraternity. We are happy sons ee day fortunate where the princes of The Masons have been part of the Yes, where can I finally overcome the voyages that led us over to the re-guards against enemies of light. It is

- 109 -

we who have preserved this sacred fire right that's beautiful. day that our eyes can

Yes, masonry. This is not the cause of his triumph that we have recognized in 1848; this is not because of his It is a mistake that we are renewing today-d'hui.» (Words pronounced in Leipzig en 1849 and printed.). Ä

_ Voila, a lot of truth in a few words. The French Masons declare that the sorry it's her work, she's not happy worked in secret for the sake of order, she wants the taxes to be increased as in '1848; she wants to see the eom-mercy, hurt the red republic, the Voraces en guenille governor en mai-three, and the honest people tremble, Il 'add: « It's a serious thing that There is an association here, by its Consti-tution itself, convo me ardently the do-mination. The brothers who come to Masonic innocence is the dignity of

7

- 410 = they appealed to the Gods of the earth. » The Maéotinerie therefore absolutely wants the domination. What joy for the people, when it says no!... We we have in our work, and we have summer 'saisis d'admiration. What good are they faith oo 1 | : Continuations to make us edifier; it's tou-Fischer who speaks: "Humanity in summer: happy and like. retreated by the -first French revolution (by the guillotine and confiscation, by the ren-. Versenent de la religion; certes!) Leg He hurry and privately get back to normal. La der-animals revolution to freedom and equality to add the fried food (yes, and in quality of brothers the men devaient is pillé read us the others by order of the company that Wulaient les Masons). Preserves the goavernail in your faithful hands, veil-love for world education in fondant of institutions for the age that immediately delaying youth. » You have rai-

t

– 111 –

son, M. Fischer; on the train where you walk, you are going to the wilderness, to the destruction of society, the end of the world cannot wait, and you will be greeted by the devil?

Giese, member of a Hall lodge, Éri-
It was said in 1848 that "the various societies of craftsmen, of bourgeois, of polytechnics, techniques and others, even the societies of song pours the same but that the loges. " II spoke more clearly, SÜ said that these companies form the so-those of the French masonry. It is for that the workers of Paris and Lyon are always ready to revolt at the preme by order, as well as the schools polytechniques and a great deal of others.
There are no master masons here shoveling? 4

I now think Maurice Muller, former trainee at the law firm citizen of Berlin and member of a lodge. In his work of religious reform, he says:

7T. >

– 412 –

"A real paganism is closer to for us a Christianity has fallen; nous said that the masonry had exercised a healthy influence on the negation of the catholicism. » Even Maçon prefers the paganism to catholicism. Living the moon masons who teach us to love Jupiter and Venus! E Here comes Draeseke, protesting so don't the journal Astrée reports the spoken pronounced in a lodge in 1849.
What will be discovered by the ignorant of us? mysterious things. We teach that in the Franc-Masonry he is decrets that will never be known

Even when we see the princes or the kings become heads of masonry, on can therefore be assured that they will not no secret. Laissons speaks Draeseke: |
"In our temples, he says, he is without something was said about a secret, even for the say more precisely, we do not speak that

– 115 –

the secrets. The one who is in the eyes initiated without entering our sanctuaries; but others do not get along well with the know, don't meme by the means of all its grades; it is a profane thing, even ascend to the Orient of the Temple, and fit-it examine the Grand Master's jewelry. Read means that we employ for resolve this problem, our symbols, our images, our signs, we regard like secrets. Our symbols are not not the object represented, they are not allusions. » So we are well prepared that the majority of Francs-Magons, even Sometimes the Grand-Maitre, he is not of the dupes that are left by the don't they know about the portee.
Behind you he is among the others who discover the secret. I] suffice it to say that see their disposition of the men linked by their strengths and they must in the occasion under the hair of death, like this arrived in Rossi in 1848 and is now

– 114 –

coup d'others who were afraid to have
. They were not yet sufficiently faithful to their commitments.
Ainsi fussiez-vous prince or king and grand-Head of the Franc-Maconnerie, you are | a profane, you will never say anything, La Franc-Masonry considers the man as a bid or like a machine organo, she never comes and immortality, Jen woman prays. In a lodge of love The masters' pun pronounced the words following: « How we have the full of temptation to dispute if the embarrassment is done before us or with us? The eme subit all the body modifications, she su-bit the same modification that the body.

body of his-self. If we notice the causes of the establishment of the spirit lité, we see that they are not Pef-fet of the very interesting policy of the pre-three. This dogma was very useful for gou-reject the ignorant. » I am no longer now that the Francs-Macons

==Ji

no authority, no religion, your secret is the most intimate done h make all the men an immense froppéau de hêtes whic h rien in clean, but who presumes according to their force what they need for as-souverir their faith; and misfortune to this BE Sera pap the more fort! he was condemned to perish, because it is not another law that force, ©

. To confirm the truth of the observations previous actions, and to ensure that the Frane-Maconnerie is a monstrosity indigenous peoples of the wild, here located in the forests of America or l'Océanie, I finish this notice by quoting, from the red on the front, some extracts of another phrase pronounced in the log de Liege; and I tairai the one from this Franc-Mason in respect of his person, what is not I deserve not. |

– a When the man considers that his only by tontes the creatures is done

– 116 –

d'intelligence, he is the author of the that this intelligence was agreed to deliver entirely to the pleasures where are you together with the prayer?... say that the name of God is a word spoken. de sens. That man then leaves search outside the world what the are those who bring him joy that the nature refuses him, that he studies nature, that the application reveals itself to its owner congratulations. This is not a point out of nature that we may seek divinity; They say that nature is God. Tenons we are therefore in nature. Source that stay what he is used to, the existence of man it is a fact. What he says preaches what he look for it to be preserved.

« Superstition is spreading across everything, and vigorously corrupt. If the Christian religion had been proven to come from God or from nature, he said, met with soumissions; but religions are inventing

The
tices by imposters more or less _ skilled. What the Christian religion is it's good for the children's authors; in what she tells her institute she deserves rien. Before proving the divinity of the religion, he would prove the existence of
God. » |

« As for his ministers, the bad conduct of the sacred doctrinal church of a large number of individuals who composed of degrading the majesty of the preme Etre qu'on suppose; we do not pernot as pure as a source can produce a lot of salt. The de-.
the eruptions of these people, somewhat respectable, the croyance. They don't all believe in the main to open the body, but they are the power to lose one's heart. The vulgar is contrary to their belief, and is without exam. We see it ourselves, in this century, of people who have more light that he did not fall, he asks you in the cry of despair at the sovereign

7.

- 118 -

Yes. This is dangerous because the people are seduced and trained by the persons don't venerate the knowledge. "

« When the Christian religion will ripped off her mother's plates, she does not rait point derigueur; people instructed not he had to respect the exterior, and sorry, these pains and these rewards chimeras of happiness or misfortune éternels. v

The legislators imagine ap-link religion to politics and the stop the collapse of civil institutions by religious institutions. We have felt the insufficiency of the law; de là le be-should appeal to your divinity for help.
If the natural woman was not satisfied, she would
- gave to the princes who are not of citizens charged by other citizens to ensure the safety of all, and that subjects that require justice to be fair, dead or late, by insurgent against an

* o - MP -

tovilégynese fuur quepor la viplenoe.»

I am a nation that wants to a moral is said, he must teach Yenfance and n'auront need ni de su-persecutions in the eminences. The priests and the tyrants lined up for the destruction of human genres are subject to the
"to discover the reason why they died-
-gnent and qu'il écrasent under the Bee de their divine songs »

"My dear brothers, this law, this
'Deity, O princes, are your princes, your dogma, your law. It's your pro-payment that you have committed your en faisant partie de l'art royal (de la Frane-Magonnerie). The honor of all impose the sacred obligation to fight the eau 'de l'espèce humaine, la supersti-sien, and he substitutes the code N not in nature."

from me. she tried hard to contain my in-dignification while I am transcribing this amas d'horrible blasphemes; I've

- 120 -

which meets all the requirements of crown jewels, headdresses are all the scélérats who have bouleversed the world, we had to write a summary plus complete d'ordures, de scélératesse et of infamies that they are. All the fury, all the rage of the devil to penetrate you in the heart of this Maçon, for his ins-burn the grove, the rage does not exist against all men, all laws, all the princes, all the religions and against God to come to me all the principles the most consoling and to strengthen the belief that man is not very fin de siècle de livre aux pleasures maux qui environnent, il s'en faut que it would have been better to descend to the last degree of abrasion and weakness.

 But after all, he must know the sa franchise ; it is the only one of all the Francs-Maçons who gave you the courage to completely lift the veil that covers your mysteries and their secrets. The others are wind of enigmas, of parabolas, the pronon-cent a word that evokes you like a light for you to let go in a deep obscurity. Here is more secret.

– 11 –

 This brother speaks to the brothers who will not not convinced of what he is saying. Son discourse will not be distributed among friends persecuted in the lodges of France, d'Allemagne, from Spain, from Italy, from Belgium and America. He can then speak to his heart open. It is good that they call the fundamental principles of the French Masonry, because there are no mistakes.
 Or, here are these principles; résumés, finally, know what to do
 Franc-Maçon by his side: |

1° There is no point in God, it is the tower which is God; I don't know this well what is it, nature, but little by little door; if you pay better, say that.
 the man is God. Ä |

2° The man, unfortunately, is 8

– 122 –

is a prayer; and it can and should be delivered to the pleasures of the beasts that God is.
{What a horrible God!}

3° The man is a woman, everything is sit in his body; It is his body. chair who thinks, who instructs, who calcule who foreshadows the future, who has ideas spiritual, Comment des pensées spiritual-current events can be transformed into a corps matériel, I don't know anything, I know only that the other beasts do not of spiritual thoughts; but man is not today who receives 'good privileges' total; who are they? I don't know anything, It's a mystery, can I explain?

4' Because there is no point in God, nément il n'y a ni angels, ai saints, ni.démons. However, the demon here is good I am not God without sin, but I am not I don't know.

'5° Puisqu'il n'y a pas de God, the reli-This region is a superstition, and we must specter that nature lives like the bests.

– 123 –

6° All the brothers are almost ghosts and monsters. I know they are not living pas si mal that me, here, after me Doctrine, both live together and pray, I because they are better for men what me; but they don't like the Franc-Masonry, they are not French masons çons, these are monsters: they péfissent. |

7° The kings, the emperors, all the civil authorities are tyrannical, without except for Henri IV and Saint Louis. What fait-on of the tyrant? We are detonating, we are hunt, we hunt; it must be done by all Your princes: voilà the conclusion.
This Fl is truly a fool that has people who teach respect for religion, ees; these people then become the people.

9° Finally, notice carefully that this Macon speaks in a box in presence of his brothers, whose discourse must be eoramuniqu& to all the logistic centers of the EU-

- 124 -

rope; instead of taking his brothers to tea-Minus, these principles are their dogma, Many of them are worthy of proclaiming. Ainsi the but of the Franc-Maconnerie is of all reverse, that no longer lets support that chaos, to make all the men a troupe of wild animals that do not tant plus retenus, ni. by divine laws, not by human rights, must be de-first read us the others. Disons, in terminant, that Satan in all his fury n'a we have invented a more effective way to destroy the world. Telle est cepen-and Thorrible company which is replenished throughout Europe, almost all the sovereigns who flaunt, who excite their passions, which do not leave their display religion and church as a obstacle to their power; it's her here conducting the monarchs of Turin, de Bade, even from Brussels; who exercises one more timealmost sovereign over the people from Italy, Piedmont, Switzerland, and

- 125 -

dont let ramifications tend & be developper de plus en plus. Everything that is passed in Spain just now we write these lines, the monarchy here periclite, religion already persecuted, and In America the churches are burning, all This is the work of the French masonry.
The Queen of Spain enraptures the char that precipitate. We see that the char is revolutionalist will stop or if it is scratched by him. - 4

We end up working in pairs latest citations. L'4stree, manuel des Francs-Maçons, these proposals ex-it was too difficult to fight on grand day. It is about promoting freedom of thought and sentiment of the indéthought that he was looking for a replacement This gigantic monument was raised by the ambition. Under the cover of the authority Even the masonry worked hard the work which he had confiscated. 2° La Maçon-

- 126 -

black you suit foot A foot, eat all of you no, I think they are just in the in-time of your love. She will monitor you on the ombre environment will envelop you ronne. His influence secret breeze all your plans, your powerful arms will bring you love the handle that you notice withthree of them. The insensed cris cannot be affected becomes its power. 3° She is holding up on the throne, by the means of men normative documents that are associated with our projects.
race to your impulsion, the genius of Pindépendance embraces the whole heart reux; the Punivers course, ignited all the people. It's up to you that people need to see their chains brisées. 5° Yes, without leaving, it is at the influence of the masonry that is required attribute major political events ques. 6° In the following, a noble road, the Masonry, this August rule of law, triumph over all his opponents and dotera the universe of his laws. 7° Heureux, si

- 127 -

I was born in the heart of young Ma-with this August sentiment of Tindepen-dance! Introducing politics in The masonry will be like the arch from Israel where the Levites alone came right to hand. »

Let's talk now Mazzini, this famous head of secret societies. Below direction, the clubs firent des progrès in-months in Italy and throughout the EUrope. Here is their program: "The rege-generation must take place in large countries, like France by the people; in princes.

« The Pope enters the path of reform me by necessity, the King of Piedmont by Tidée de la couronne d'Italie, the two of Tuscany by inclination, weakness, imitation tion; the king of Naples by contrast. Read people therefore have to speak loudly and commander of the insurrection. Ä

«Those who appear under the

– 123 –

their princes ought to express their care, singing, so as not to drop the ef-fray and not too loose; profiteer of the minimum concession to reunite and remuer les masses, simulant the reconbirth. The festivals, the hymns and the at-troops give birth to ideas in giving the people demanding, and 'light-back on his force. »

ie

ORGANIZATION OF YOUNG ITALIA.

« ARTICLE 1°. The organization is ins-titular for the destruction of all governorates of the Peninsula and for former single state under the regime régime publicain. u

« Ant. 2. Mant reconnu les horribles – 129 –

lack of absolute power and those more grands encore des monarchies constituted functionally, we work hard. to base a republic, one and indivisible.

« Art. 30. Those who do not obey orders of the secret society, or here in revealing the mysteries, it seems gnarded without remission. Chatting myself « Art. 31. The secret court pronounced change the sentence and design one or two affiliated for immediate execution.

« Art. 32. Quiconque refuses execution-cutter the arrest will be censored parjure, and,
like that, it's on the field.

« Arr. 33. If the coupable breaks, the will poursuivi without resting anywhere, and should be amazed by a great invitation sible, he lies in his mother's bed, or in the tabernacle of Christ. |

« Art. 34. Every tribunal shall be secret competent, not only for players the adepts coupables, but to make – 130 –

kill anyone who has aura it was astonishing anathema.

« Art. 39. The officers shall carry a antique form dague; the sub-officers and soldiers armed with rifles and bayonets, plus a long-legged handle, at-fastened to the belt, and on which they pre-teront serment. Signed MAZZINI. »

It is after this Magonnique law that thrown under the iron of the assassins executed. editors of Mazinienne's top works, the director of the police in Modena, the Chief of Police of Naples, the legatee Ravenna, Lessing of Zurich, the genealogists raux Latour, d'Auverswal, de Lambert, de Lignowski and Count Rossi. An infectious the death of others in all of Italy. I request now, an honest man can be French-Macon? He could become an accomplice of the AS.
sassins, destroyers of public records.
of the property destroyers, of the family, of society as a whole?

– 151 –

II is true that the very large number of Frane-Macons ignores the real threat of s'instruct d'after history? why-they tend to close their eyes in front I do, the incontestable presumptions, the main pieces? Misfortune to the princes here imagine that you are caring or tolerant the monster, they laughed, and that menagerie. With him he has no peace nor treve; it slips completely into the Councils of Kings for the taking and troiaper under the appearance of devotion; his army is always ready, his pointgnards always price à frapper. Moieven who writes these lines and who nêtré some-us of the mysteries of this infernal society, I love not what I death, if some observers, my aneiens eonfreres, know that they appeal to the plaintiff. Je serai trop heute-reux, sir, by my death, I will pierce the crime that I committed in my

- 152 -

timidly in a society that I don't ignore the drawings. |

ee

RULES FOR RECEPTION OF GRADE MACONNIQUES.

The masonry grades are divided into two parties. The first one understands the three first grades of exterior, or symbolliquefied. On the outside names; because that the Macons who are in ruins are in contact with the outside world that profane appeals, because they are not the instruments or like the soldiers of higher grades, ready to execute withglement the resolutions taken by the division interior design. The appeals are also symbolts, because the mysteries of the

- 14153 -

Franc-Maçonnerie is not yours-lés, whic h are in an obs-

The second division calls inside, because of the deeper secret she doesn't Senvironne, the most secret ceremonies tes and du but qu'it is proposed. On the ap-skin still Rose-Croix, because it decoration is red in memory of the Temp-pliers that lead to the founders. The do not enter into good details; I need to tell him that he is more essential in the admission to some exterior and interior grades.

The person who wants to learn is lead to the log indicated on the day. Between in a solitary room where you find wind two illuminated chandeliers. Here, the rest only a few times, after what time is his clothes; we met at the gau coast who and his right hand, his souls are mis in slippers, he takes off his hat and his silver, he bandages his eyes

8th

– 154 –

and on the way to a black room.
II does not have his bandeau after a certain times when he heard it staggeringly three big coups. Then he got involved in a table on the top there is a lamp al-light, a dead head and even a bible. The room is completely covered in black parsed of signs and marks in a saucepan.
A brother between him and him asks why the desire is to be received; if it already appears belongs to some other association, and gil consent to submit to the surveys, On he threw his hat and his sword is in a state of submission; one returns some time after, and ayant bandaged the eyes, on the way to gates of the temple. The log is from eoul blue, the throne of the Venerable, the tables and the officers are of the same color.

The Venerable is here, under a blanket; behind, left and right, are the brothers; right ahead; the secretary, to

– 135 –

there is a table on the ground where you can see three chandeliers allumées, a Bible, a _ cross and a compass; on the side from the West there are two surveillance officers; en-three of you are the master of the ceremonies; sur the sides are two ranks of brothers De-by a species of autel there is a car-rése longe rése rugs sur la sant peint all kinds of masonry instruments; around, there are three goats all around, at porte, a sentinel defending Ven-tied to all profane. The Venerable then a slap in the face: «By order, my brothers; » the addition: « Surveillants, in-former brothers who want to create a reception area for apprentices. » On check if the doors are well closed, it is well-kept, and the surveillance _ dissent football, It is the word that passes, here pronounce letter to letter alternative-ment. Then the master said that he wanted to face this person like brother Macon, that he was favorable, that – 136 –.

nothing against his reputation and which was placed in the temple parvis, in the black room. The one who is char-
'to prepare the candidates assure also which is in the intention to admit. The Venerable order from T to see now veau and explain it energetically the things that he will impose, and that the will is persistent. On the way to the temple gate; the Venerable Communiwho responds and adds some features which characterizes. The candidate frappé three big hits at the temple gate, à Vexterieur, and the Venerable woman cut off the maillet in a loud voice: "By order, my brothers. »Everyone becomes their constituent apprenticeship lodge; the master added: « Surveil-lant, see here amazement. » The surveillance « approach, open and ask: «This is là? » The producer replies: «A man des Franes-Maçons. » On request the name, the age, the state, the religion of the candidate, is already appeared to some society and some are the motifs that exist, which are guarantee, as we direct our path.

– 157 –

The novice answers all these questions; therefore we allow him to enter; on open the doors with loud noise.
His position is at the poi. tranela point dune sword, and he finds in the face of the Venerable who is on his son throne. He asked if he wanted to be ad-mis, after what the order is that make three trips. The surveillance his new place the sword on the chest, and when he arrived at the Méri-Colonel dionale, near l'autel, the lady master a coup de maillet and all the brothers agitent their skin boards here, by the frôelement, produce on the candidate a indicative impression. The lion, the candidate is conducted in the assembly area by the seventh side. The master reads a sentence and he does it again two tripstotal After that, the Vencrable makes a

i – 158 –

my voice is strong and swaying: you are still free, he says; we can
'you are traveling to the right place where you are;
yes, here, your name will not be pronounced in this assembly; I agree with you some moments of reflection. » After a few minutes, he asked a precise answer. When he replied nicement, Yes: the Majtre says: « The sort and it's over, I'm not there for anyone. Conduisez the candidate to the auction by the three masons. » He is on his knees, his feet are in a cross, his head is posed on a Bible. The Venerable says: « Placez with compass on the side where the heart lies; " and the addition: "You have well reflected on 'what are you going to do? You are ready to confirm by your blood what you already knew with celebrities, and ready to continue? » The re-next and the candidate repeated the question.

x I am right, by the name of the architect stun the world, they never forget the

– 159 –

secrets, the signs, the attachments, the words, doctrines and usages of Francs-Maçons; to guard everything an external silence. I promise and I am true that I never take, not by the plus-me, not by signs, not by words, not by gestures that men do not write, litograph, engrave or print; the no we publish what we believe here, no this one might confide me in the future. Si I lack my word, I ask myself Yes, the next question is: why don't I cry? wres with a red iron, qu'on me cut the main, qu'on'm'arrache la langue, qu'on I cut the gorge; that my body sit in a box when ad-meet a new brother, in punishment of my infidelity and to offend the others; that we burn next, that we jet the sendres aux vents; that it does not remain trace of my treachery. Also true that the Great God see me. Ainsi soit-il.» Soors on make a harmony conducted by – 40 –

lee brother musicians; the Venerable takes the maillet, and place the compass on the candidate's breast, he says after having there are three hits: "I welcome you to name of the Freres-Maçons in the name of the architect of all the world, in his name of the Supreme Chiefs of the Order, in truth you can't trust me, and I embrace like a real Frere-Macon.
Surveillant brother, lead the way the temple. »

The Venerable adds some words energetics. We do not leave the box qu'a weak light, and we are little near the tense, meaning a lamp-pe à l'esprit de vin burns on the autel; tou-

the candidate, and everyone pronounced a voice source: That God punishes the patient. On his eyes are tied, it is about him a complete chain; at the moment where unbande les eyes du novice, one makes mon-give him a flame and everyone writes:
So passes the glory of the world.

- 141 - |

The master says: « My brother, from myself that you have seen all the points of swords directed against you, for you display the punctuation that is reserved for features; of the same thing that the safety you don't forget what you need. Read swords are cut off, you are sick in the chain of brothers. » We have to then teach the novice, on the way to Master, the health is strange; the Master him with the apprentice table, the white scull, a pair of gloves whites to wear in the box with a sign of innocence, and another pair for his favorite. He explains the signs of Maconniques, the guttural, which signifies the serment ready: when he cuts the gorge, it is ` infidèle. They say: we are on the move, reunite the four doigts under menton, and the hand will touch the right ear; then pull the hand up to the shoulder right, and let's let it rain up to the waist. The word of the order is yes-kin, God created me,

- 112 -

For reception at the level of comipa-gnon, the ceremonies are almost memes, meaning that we can just adjust qu'à seven times, and qu'au-desses du Grand-Maître in the box, we have the star flamboyant in the midst of Laquelle find the letter G; the battles changent; the couture and arms of the recipients are discovered; They also fit with the black room. The cinq font applicants voyages : the first, armed with a maillet and a scissors; the second, from a eompas and of a rule; the third, from a pincross and rule the penny; at five, they not very helpful. After seven, nothing and others ceremonies, recommended by the company gnomes that never return; they are in font ser-ment. On their behalf the table was sniffed by of blue silk ribbons, on their women the sign that consists in placing the hand on the ground" due to the heart, and the hand forms a équerre; then let's just slide the

– 445 –

but on the chest. We teach you the eating habits of their own; on the happy ones; to declare that he is minute and the master is withdraw, assuming the box is closed. |

For the Master's degree, the log is all decorated in black; sur Pautel is a dead head on the side of a lamp shining on the spirit of wine; There is a tear on the carpet, souvent a brother servant and is pleased. The the law is obscure; all the brothers are dead of black; Sometimes we add a ta-appears black embroidered with a dead head. Read formulas are almost the same as for the previous degrees. We introduce the companion to the reculons, the two-man team: to lorient; he has to do ainsi three tours in his disant time in temps:
"Think about death, it comes closer," or other similar words. After certain questions, the Master, who appeals to Venetian rable, have to approach the candidate from Paul-without masonry; he broke the cer-cueil, which souvent is not what is in painting;

– 144 –

'fe Venerable said: « Surveillant brother, do not harm the body. » We retire from cer-cueil the mannequin, s'il y en a, de makidney that the candidate does not see. The Venerable lies under the oath, the maillet à la main, in front of the candidate, by two brothers near the circus, and he lies a symbolic discourse; after what is he place the maillet on the front three times.
The investigators identified the candidate by behind and flying in the circle or thou, on all sides the flamboyant star, the whole box is well lit and on chant. A surveillance camera is currently taking the main. the candidate in doubt: The fear abandon the chair; another takes the three main and said: The chair abandons the os. The master approaches, says to the whole head in dismay: I am writing the relax. He met his feet against his feet, these knees against his knees and the release;

then he put his left hand on his shoulder

PEEEE

left to right ear: Mav, putrefaction, and left ear: Berac, in appearance; So, we have a hymn, we demand the serment of our souls never return to the younger brothers or to the profane. On his announcement the catchisme. The Master's sign is made in holding the main right and applying the open hand on the belly, but that's hold the back of the main guid in front the eyes.

For the Master's degree and perfect or eco-said, the room is decorated with green colors; on the carpets there is a reindeer, a sing, a lion, a pelican. We do not don't eat that much; it must be offinished. The Venerable is placed in Porient. The candidate is locked in the black room, put a rope around it and it is advertised by three batteries. We ask him if he is from-towards freedom and equality; s'il a du courage and constancy. After the ré-I mean, it's introduced. We are approaching the 9

- 146 -

renard, followed by the song, by the edlom-he, etc:, and he returned to the reindeer. After an exam . severe on the previous gradesdents, the mountain up to the throne; there, the pro-nonce the fermentation that renourishes all eyes what he already did before, in fact nobody knows the lower classes not to the profane, and sd dévoue to all the ble Pembrasse, the commune of the gnes, the word that passes, which is Adonaj that the skin, then the table, the green cord, the hero of Saint-André, and his

the catechism, |

II. we remain. to say quelanes 'words of grades inférieurs;. qu'on namme., Anat

_Crossing the River Ghapitraux. -5 ~

The first grade is on or eco-companion. D'abord la cham-

'Bre, the board and the awning are covered of black; the Grand Master is dressed in black, his hat is embroidered with blue stars, the a black ear and a quarter-inch handle

- 447 -

ordinary insignia. Everyone is, outside the Ordinary signs, a long coat of devil. On the eaves there is a lamp and a crown. In the outdoor room is a black brother and a lamp surrounded by a shabby chic funeral drape; in a troi-The room is brightly lit and a black brother. After various ceremonies,. the lodge is declared open; two brothers, Pun in the outdoor room, the other inside, waiting at the Parcandidate's rive. When he crossed the first room with master quality; in the second, a brother placed himself in Tau-tel him ask how the use behave better dangers that threaten, and why do not be content with the Master's degree which he obtained. If the candidate is looking for sort it out, he says he shouldn't take it three to him, if his life is ruined; but if he persists in his project, we Pautel conduit; we ask you if, au the name of the already prepared, it can be
- 9.

- 148 -

of not daring to tell any brother of lower levels of secrets that lie devoid of energy. After the affirmative reply, on he took a sonnet, then he present a lamp in silence: « Venerable brother, the roads are dark; buy

He showed him an added sword: "Si you return without having a doubt vaincante que vous avez l'entrée, say that you are persuaded by this sword; il you will not have more permits after you do not repeat the turn to the rear. »

The applicant arrives at the room of environment, meets a brother the sniper at the head that asks him where he wants everything.
The candidate replied that he had instrunecessary items to discover the route.
Arrived at the door of the interior piece, the make a coup de sonnet. Le Grand-The master cries out: Brothers, be vigilant. The the door opens and the black brothers encircle the postulant, armed with swords. Les frè-1

- 149 -

res qui are outside, the Grand-Master asks who is he, etc.; then, sa-teaching the brothers, he informs them about saying that the venerable brother is 'admis. The superior brothers respond by an affirmative sign, the others, in putting their lanterns in front of their eyes.
The Grand-Maitre added: "Please pray remain with the venerable brother. » The surveillance

Lants take their swords crossed over the candidate's breasts, and what they say the formula for the sentence and the law of no-but to discover the secrets of the grades inferior and less than the profane.

He promises in the most sacred way;

the addition that is not trustworthy, it means it is bad, I must return or regenerate-more, and commit to supporting his brothers in his good and his song.

After that, we have to accept the during the écosais journeys. Ensuite, the black brothers, who were caught in the tour d'une table, the surveillance font tour-

– 1450 –

our new brother to the East, font make eighth-seventh not in the tempvery, both to the west and to the middle, and your black brothers, carrying their lanterns before their eyes, allowing the conduise à l'autel. We jet to the knees; he had his hand on the autel, but that was put a stick on his chest. Le Grand-The master said: « Promise me to déprotect the masonry of your life and the your song and renew your soul? » Then he stands on his head, makes the sign of the crown and the fact that it is raised. So, on the ground that is about to be made, the crown of his main army, the name I learn from the Ecossaise lodge. The place the point of his hand on the cou, the
the new brother's breasts and mouth.
A black brother received the message and said to him: « Soyez the welcome. » We're heading for a bouret noir where are the instruments of sound grades. We give you an instruction; on him promised to reveal secrets later and we take him in a uniform manner, a cordon with of dead heads, a sonnet, a lantern and a pointer don't put it away-put the signification in an alleyway. gorique. We end with the Catechism, where It is a question of revenge for the death of a man who was assassinated.

For the reception of a master. 80 or Chevalier de Saint-André, the Autel and the thrones are white in color, ornés of a heroine from Saint-André; on the Autel, the ya Bible, compass, rule, sword, crown» no, illuminated lamp, six candles. Les frè-he had the bare sword in his hand; on a cous» without red are the insignias that must are conferred; on a blue cushion are the jewels from the lodge; there is a green in the south, The eerie memories and the pre-caution slightly different from the previous ones. _

It's true. to stand as a candidate for the Evangelical Church de Saint Jeanqu'il ne dévoilera jamais aux brothers inherit the secrets of the Order. Cn – 152 –

the Master's duties, wherever we are talking about sending and de-protect his brothers; he met at the corner a golden cord, in his place that she had left the instrument of death of several hundred and I wanted it to be there myself sort. The introducer announces what is coming that pass into the outdoor room.
On request permission to enter the candidate; then we rapped three coups d'épée à la porte: it opens; more than near the order of the Venerable, we will see here it is; then we repeat the attacks; the novice is introduced. The Grand Master he asked a question, sur his age, his state, his desire. The consent-generally accepted, we have to do it all the non-masonry, the signs, the attouchements; the brothers answered with a sign of surprise and entanglement.
We address the new candidate questions dont on ddresse procès-verbal , as well as the answers. On an order from § – 153 –

Grand-Maitre, the inspectors are their swords on his chest and his head In the Bible, pronounce these words: « En face of the Grand Architect of Luniver, the Grand-Mattre de cette loge, des surveillants and officers and brothers of the écossais, I we are committed and legally defending our Ordre, of stretching and of not letting me smear not by fire, not by flame, not by the persecutions of acquiring everything my functions. If you take me away-ments, I agree to submit all the suppli-these, all the things that I she left me in my old age teeth: also true that God helps me, the supreme architect. v

After that, . we have to travel the candidate; at each tour, the surveillance Lants give him a coup de croix. After that the brothers have expressed their consent: by the noise they make with their cardinaux; then the very top brightening ` 9..

- 134 - e

tenant the rope I didn't speak, on place the candidate as a machine ready A soulever a loud fardeau, and the Grand-
The master said to him: «Before having an egg-walk in this dream, I love you that you have carefully examined your conscience and your conduct; pousometimes you just have to count on yourself, and you have enough strength to support the light that you contemplate here? »
After the applicant's response, the Grand-
The master replied: "We see!" » Now the precipitation releases, it is thrown on him, he said to the wind, he put the sword in his heart and asked: "Where have-did you get the word from the master? » The reply: « In the middle of nowhere. » So, the Grand-Maitre added: « I am content with you; you have perfectly supported the épreuves; you support the same cell-those who await you again. » Le Mai-three ceremonies tour around the cou the candidate the rope that holds and in don-and was opposed to Haut-Eclairant, where he says: & Venerable brother, your way is.

ineertuin, I have a expectation of peace.
there is an obvious danger; but you cannot collect more than the remains.
You're ready to go. who could you, arrive. Surveillance brother, conduct. the brother in wonderful clothes. » » On the place under the grass, to reculons, and:
the master says; « Brothers lighting up, .approat your service at matheurdur. ». The brothers, in fact, their sponsons: author of lui; the grand maitre d' penetrates. in the environment, his application on my buttocks- ka pointe de son: épée ; two other brothers meet their swords on their legs. Le Grand-Mai-three times four times in succession the front, and in the prepositions if pronounce these months:
« 1° I am not in the right of power

2° gous this green; 3° I admire you;
4° by this fourth cut in grade: de Master chef. » On the way to the golden cord, on the embrasse and on the conduit to the autel. The place a hand on the crown, the other on the Bible. Yes, he pronounced it a nouslowly, renew all those here have already been agreed, and by law, invoking the supreme architect. So the Grand-Maitre took his sword, the blier, the red ribbon of Maitre écossais, the maillet, etc., and his explicit allegorical every object, even if the decorations of the box. In this same conversation, the Grand Master explains the cross of Saint-André which serves as a decoration-tion, in silence André was a disciple de Saint Jean qu'êt à pastron, after tromper les simples, and that for Grand-Maitre of the Francs-Maçons, this which is always an absurdity and a abominable impiety.

– 456 –

By admiring the candidates to a level somehow, the Grand-Maitre is missing I also like to talk with a big serious the story of a pretender Adonhi-

– 157 – |

ram that doesn't exist anymore. It was, that the Grand-Maitre, the first and without contre-said the most savant architect who works to the construction of the Temple of Solomon; but of the companions, indigenous people of this they did not receive the same salary that the masters assassinate; dependent other workers jurors claim revenge mort. All the ceremonies, all the instruments of masonry, such as the maillet and the sword seem not to have but enough to avenge this death. Yes, count it not a parabolic, it would everything is much more fun for the children; but we say that this Adonhiram is not because Jacques Molay doesn't have said, here, the Grand Master of the Temp-pliers , fut convaincu des crimes les plus the Francs-Maçons, funded by the Templiers who surveilled are judged to be victorious the destruction of their order by the reverse of royalty and religion

– 138 –

where a common agreement was reached their power becomes dangerous religion and FRIat. Here is the real story of la Maeonnerie. It is not necessary insist on a point that is evident fromalmost everything that was said in this his-tour. The French masonry wants to religion the deesse of reason, and for gou-vernement the universal republic here for the sake of equality, freedom, ternity: freedom from disorder and misery, Equality in the sharing of goods and brigandage, fraternity in prisons and the faint-hearted. This is what we have seen in all revolutions: in France, in Kalie, in Germany and abroad, when

The French-Macedons were the masters.
We can quote Philippe Egalité,. Robespierre , Ledru-Rollin " Barbès , Louis White in France; en Italy Mazzini , Ca-nino; in Spain, at this moment, a Democrats' mistake, eh? It has to be. a la Franc-Masonry of the Bouleversements,

– 139, –

of the revolution,. and for her-even the places and the dictatorship. At reception by a Grand Master, the ornament The main thing is the triangle. . Yes, like for the other grades, black room, compass, maillet, Bible, autel; on menace of the most offensive chats the candidate which revealed the secrets; he sailed the head and the law of not declaring anything here that is, even to the Grand Master, all the order; of the secrets that we learned dra, A little less than having to obtain the permit-sion of the Master of the Lodge. We declare Therefore the Magons of the lower grades do not know any more the real things nothing, and that.me at the moment we have no can still explain the. points con-tenuis in his serment and in the ceremonial monies , that time to learn the cause and reason,

Finally, the fourth degree of the Order interior is the Grand-Croix de

- 160 -

St-Jean, or the perfect lodge. Unlike the candidate is in the black room, the
The master opens the box and addresses on the asking several questions to ensure that we are safe, and that we are not at all sun that doesn't have the degrees you want. The de-mande le mot d'ordre, exige les attouche-ments, signs, etc. Then a brother assistant will ask the candidate, in:
the black room, if you can imagine what point was a hypocrite who did not want.
who know the latest secrets, or is it decided to live and die in accordance with all his servants; then, after replying, : let's leave it again reflecting in the chamber-very obscure. We return to him, the frappe to the door opens, the inside, and approaches the throne that calls Solomon. The Master, address these words: « You are let them know the secrets here, Since the first grade, you have not been presented as allegory. Si jamais you betray me, I know I have the right

- 461 -

that you pierce this sword, and that I I'll take care of myself to punish me to give a black heart, a creature is imprisoned at the level of the Master true. I ask you now if you want your whole life to remain faithful au secret. V. Yes.-You can read the hello to your friends as guaranteed you keep the secret that you confiera? eat well, it is grave. Otherwise I will engage you in attendreencore some temps.» Surprise reply of the Apocalypse in an outer room-Fire, or good brother hears him in action Yes read, this one produces a stronger one impression. He returns immediately and pronounces his soul remains in the presence of God that take a look, in the presence of the Grand-Master and all the brothers, and said: « What the loss of his name and he goes to all the mice, he reveals the secrets here probably confiscated; also true, he says, that God

9

- 162 -

help me and my holy word!... » Le Maître the baise in the front and he swept all kinds of blessings, S il est fidèle à sa promise. After that, he gave the sign which consists in closed hands and educated, and the word of order which is Zaba-reth, God is my wall, or Da Kineth, God is my blessing. The decor of a white cordon cross and the declaration appointee of the French masonry.

How we are becoming more and more new admis malgré all ses serments , on him make a disgraceful discussion where we are Moses, the Holy Trinity, the Evangelist, the saints Innocents, Jésus-Christ, the nouvelle Jerusalem , etc. In the end everything is mystere. What we mean now is that the Franc-Masonry is an innocent choice; l'inno-scene does not show the light, it is watch with simplicity. And always this what do you get from certain graof, he had horrible ceremonies-mysterious, assassination figures

- 165 -

sinat, etc. It cannot be said that swords, these handles that play a grand role: everything. admissions, there is something evocative that breathes he sang. But here I am, without doubt, who is clearly stated in these accusations.
In several manuscripts and rituals a report from the Franc-Maçonnerie, 2TM part, one finds the curious details on black tendon. There is a species in the background of cave covered with tree branches; there is an ass ghost; a head garnish the hair is simply styled. on the corps. Someone tells us that the door a royal crown. Opposite a table there is a stool in front of the stool; and transparent blue represents a bra armed with a sword; he is already there. table a portable lamp and a large poignard ; from the other side of the room

It is a fountain that repels water.
The candidate is therefore the head of the – 164 –

on the fingers; he cried: « No Don't look, your eyes won't open greens that when we hear three frappe coups. » We close the door and abandon the candidate for his reflections. On frappe three strokes, they reveal their eyes and remain only to examine the objects lugu-hot and irritating people who are around him.
A brother in a serious relationship, he makes take in a goblet of water to the fountaintaine, in his dismay: « Buvez, car il vous remains well to be fair. » Then add: « Buy now this lamp and this handle, resolved at the bottom of the cave, wonder what you find, defenddez- you, and you shall be deserved to be saved. " The between; the brother wears the suit, he watches the fan-he said to him: "Fraganza. v It is true, the head tomb. « Turn on the light, cry the brother, take the head off your hair and follow-
moi. » |

A constant tradition that always ra-said that when Philippe-Egalité fits – 165 –

receive Grand-Orient, we have to cut it the head of a crowned king. Also, vote the death of Louis XVI his parents!

Here are the orders for masonry banquets:
The table, if possible, is set on iron on horseback; soul of the Venerable at the summit.

war. The wine is very powdery, the pain brute stone, cannon glasses, candles all around stars, napkins with drapes, the tuile dishes, the truffle spoons, the pork forks, scissor knives, the sand sea, the brilliant powder liqueurs etc. We examine carefully if no profane n'est entré, et l'on soigneuwhile the doors are closed. When we want to eat the health, the Venerable says: Align the ca-none (the glasses), attention, poor things!
(So we take the knives from the left, right glasses.) The add: Hide the poor! to the health of the Republic or of the King, of the Emperor, Jon the Constances. A game, fire, good

- 160 -

fire, fire light plus ef ; and the one that was: then on applaud three times. The Venerable Lady a coup de maillet and we sat down. H en . estde.même of other health facilities in Venerable, to the surveillance officers, to the brothers, etc., up to sept. Ensuite on entonne des couplets à la glory of the Frane-Magonnerie; after what the Venerable asks for: Source What time is it?-The surveillance: Minute. Puts-that is minute, leaving the work, nothing but the brotherly meringue.: II frappe then three maillet strokes, each quit his enlistments and retire. bes: Competent Masonic francs. between your years since creation. you moon; even when we said 1857, yours Pan: 5856. They belong to months the same names as the Jews, even at. little by little, and starting their year at Months from April to March.

To be admitted in a sym-I'll teach you a ball, it costs 120 francs; eompagnon, 40 fr.; Maitre, 60 fr.; po

- 467 -

affiliation; 30 fr.; diploma, 6 fr.; cotisation annuelle, 36 fr.; regulations, 1 fr. 00 e.; a year ago for the Grand Orient,

What is, at this moment, the Grand-Maitre or the Grand-Orient of all France-Masonry? This question may be of interest to more, a reader. Or, all the authors which are occupied assuring that "est Lord Palmerston, Minister of the Government Mont-Anglais. Lord Palmerston, born head of French masonry in the whole universe and parvenu at the direction of the government of Son Pays, fit punish his Masonic brothers. in all the branches de l'administration, Dès , when the Angleterre which, while good, years, fighting in favor of the monarchy chie, not only in her, but in Europe as a whole, adopted for the pre- once the principle of non-intervention tion. in all the revolutions that survinrent. She covers her protection, au

- 168 -

least passive, all the insurrections. From this uncertain success of the revolutionnaires in France, in Portugal, in Belgium that, in Holland, in Brazil, in Switzerland, in Italy, in Rome, absolutely. If the Hongrie, Poland, Switzerland, Naples, Siege, Milan, Vienna and Berlin, greet each other in their revolutionary tendencies, or the insurrection broke out too late, on in future at peace with the people for their sovereigns, or to the loyalty of their armies. There was an English agent here, concert with Mazzini; conducted the log of Capranica Theatre, where Jes Assassins of Count Rossi, minister of Pie IX, who took a step to have a repairer his mistakes passed in servant fidelity- ment the head of the church. All over the world said that it is from London that part of the rection and the word of order for all the loges and secret societies of France, from Germany, Switzerland, Italy, all the five days. like the Gazelle dissait

- 4169 -

Prussian on April 4, 1851. It is by the determined the signal is given for a general war in a whole kingdom entire. The direction of Palmerston pos-located non-stop by many agents, She also has some considerationsbles. She gave the army a budget for the payers. This character is always display the fierce anarctic tousles protectorchistes and all the revolutionary committees: naires. Under the head the rongeur is Franc-Magconry prepares for Angleterre of the days of the devil, for a longer time or less elected, and can be in Europe good of misfortune; and misfortune to the states here you go together with her!

e.
CONCLUSION,

to

Of everything that we have said, the suit necessary that the French-Masonry ' 10

- 470 -

1° tire his origine des Templiers, c'est-à-says, of a company which has completely rejected once by religious power and by the civil power; dont the boss perit of the head of the bourreau to cause his crimes, the most infamous that could possibly be giner, and his rebellious impetus quine tended to the total destruction of the religions; 2° that the French masonry is pour but; after the three-month trek of the Prime Ministers who own the believe that de.venger on the kings and the sovereigns in general the order of the Temp-pliers; 3° that which shall evade his will, she wants to return all divine authority and human, fair trade society say that it is organized, establish a republic, social and universal, and s'emprotect all lucrative places;

Christianity which orders the obeisance to the authorities and respect for the good sweater: it's for the French-Magons

-4

- 471 -

'even those who have not initiated mystères, brings an instinctive grove to 'religion and the sacred; 5° that Frane-Maconnerie is the mother of all Secret societies say that the carbonnarism, Villuminism, young France, young Europe, socialism, etc.; 6° que this company is actually more dangerous, which is applied to the soils of the more excruciating not very many members recognize the meaning and the portent.
Enter the Franc-Mactonnerie, this done you know what you didn't know, it is a fair trade in impiety and destruction. Already his army is innominatebrave ; the governments and the peoples who are committed to their own conservation must do the recording while it is and it is still time. I am sure that the Most of the sovereigns of Europe are entourage of Franes-Macons where the scourge, which covers all their procedures; flatten their penehants; but the poor<

- 172 -

without absolutism and even despotism; both the excitatory and the risky treacherous, at expense ruinous for the people, at the expense exaggerated; so they show the way of peace and happiness in the government not representative and constitutional; looking to stay in a state of sus-continue to fear the Church which they font consider like your enemy the more dangerous. They were journalists at their wages, they are embracing Tinstruc-public function, to strengthen the influence of the clergy and of expressing the sentiment of the foi. They threatened the emancipation of the national nalités, speaking without losing freedom for the

They are the secret supporters of the protest-tax and free exam without having more of us to Protestantism than to Catholicism licism. They provoke the reunification of phil-lanthropic and scientific for and trou-see the opportunity to replenish your doctrines

- 173 -

revolutionaries and anarchists. Absolutely this active and inaccessible company is 'appli-that of the destruction of the Church, of the E. act and of the property, speaking without the end of freedom, unity, fraternity ternity. There is a moment or two, to force provocation, they bring the people back content; So they are at your service a The whole army is ready, and I hope that the guard national account in its own name and with no number of adepts, the tour is played, the revolution is done. |

What do you mean by "pay attention"? all the revolutions that have escalated in Europe. de-then seventy-five years were prepared, conducted and executed by the Franc-Maconnerie ; the chefs have said a few times, they are happy. But they are a re-universal public and social; Taboli-tion of all worship and the rain of the raison; they dissent, they proclaim.in se-It's between you and something: in public.
Their members surround the thrones,

- 171 -

occupy the majority of ministers in the State, in the provinces, in the Penseignement, in the parliaments of all pays. The chefs of the Frane-Macorinerie disposing of enormous sums and work-become active and explore Europe.
The Grand Chapter of the German Masons
It says: The Revolutionary Order of Europe for long years.

I don't know what I'm waiting for have revealed the secrets of a company powerful and vindictive; but I confess that if I knew, his plans would be his projects, but I never wanted to have

'I thought that I could propose a boulevard—is the universe, the destruction of all authoritarian tea, of all worship, and of driving the people like a troupe of horses to satisfy his ambition: now I have to say goodbye of this monstrous association, I eloigne, I am the denouncer, I am the madman, and I invite all the honest people to Sen — 175 —

to escape, to have in execution, to hey moi. |

The unfortunate king of Serdaigne is, in this moment, the point of view of all the Franc-Maçonnerie.. We watch it in perspective the Italian unity reunites under his sceptre; the Pope and the brothers like an obstacle to his expectations; Austria » like an incommodious friend; it is for—what we have to do with conceiving a tree marked against the father who died . for his support in the adversities where he lives unfailingly, sil n'a no force to evict his person from characters who work for the prescriber Charlés-Albert. On the separate floor the Austrian who could be very useful when you treat them front prepared his chute. Mazzini entertains around his whole army of conspirators who succumb to his those who flatten their ambition and who, after serving him, they will precipitate.

— 176 —

like his opponent, in the procl.mant monster and tyrant in the name of equality and the fraternity. There is no more light for him of the Italian monarchy, but can-be exile or I don't know what I'm doing.

Monarchs are unfortunate, be prudent and vigilants; your enemy, like a lion rugissant, tour without cessation near you for you to dévorer, everything in you caressant.

annoy you, people, how the catastrophe what we are preparing is the color of the flowers ves of sang and you plunge into the _ maux tels que vous puissiez des hurle-ments, you maudire those who auront trumpeted by the mouth of the rich and of goodness.

€
*

4 >

>
> oF
"yp

AY7
X, ++,

+ Council of Ministers

H &

TR I —

m eich 22

>

Digitized by Google

| Austrian National Library

AWAY

French

English

Full text of " The Jews, Kings of the Era: A History of Financial Feudalism "

See other formats

L.

C

HISTORY

OF THE

FINANCIAL FEUDALITY

^

OF THE BUILDING OF ROSARY

9 VAUGIAR STREET

THE JEWS, KINGS OF THE ERA

HISTORY

OF THE

FINANCIAL FEUDALITY

BY A. TOUSSENEL

Legitimate speculation consists of buying at the best price
A possible market, to resell at the highest possible price...
It's the soul of commerce.

(Sylvaiu Dumou, Minister of Public Works.)

Financiers support the state like a lifeline.
Holds the hanged man. (Montesquieu.)

My father's house is a house of prayer.
You've turned it into a den of thieves.

(Jesus knew the merchants of the Temple.)

(Mythology.)

VOLUME ONE

PARIS

GABRIEL DE GONET, L'Imprimeur-ÉDITEUR

\

L'ILE DES REAUX-UTS, G
1847

//,^/

^ :
i ^ J

'1 7r

THE JEWS, KINGS OF THE ERA.

INTRODUCTION.

I call, like the people, by this despised name of Jew, any trafficker of species, any unproductive parasite-tif, living off the substance and labor of others. Jew, Looter and trafficker are synonymous for me.

Many have accused me of a crime for having nailed the name of a people still living, as a label to a

- minor profession. I reply that it does not depend on the writer's pleasure in altering the value of an expression consecrated by custom, and which I could not find, in my national language, a better name than that of Jew, to designate those whom I wanted wither.

I was also told that I could have dealt with more Out of respect for a people who have accomplished such great things, a people, in whose midst God has so long delighted-

I don't know the great things that the few-Jewish pity, having never read his history except in a a book that only talks about adultery and incest, of
I a

II. THE JEWS, KINGS OF THE ERA.

butcheries and savage wars; where every name that one reverence is tainted with infamy; where all great fortune invariably begins with fraud and betrayal-his; where kings, who are called saints, have assassinated husbands to steal their wives; where the women those called saints enter the generals' beds enemies to cut off their heads.

I do not bestow the title of great people upon a a horde of usurers and lepers, burdening all of humanity manita since the beginning of the centuries, and which drags its hatred of other peoples across the globe and its incorrigible pride. A race forever defeated, cha-tied down, enslaved, in the shadow of complete protection special of the Creator, and always regretting slavery and the onions of Egypt, and always ready to return-to the worship of the golden calf, despite the signs of the God's wrath. Just ask those Jews, who earn with us one hundred million in one year, if they They are extremely keen to revisit the walls they have sorely cried over.
of Zion!

I do not call the people of God the people who put ruthlessly put to death all the inspired prophets of the Holy Spirit, who crucified the Redeemer of mankind, and the insult on his cross. If so many of God's chosen ones are . coming from within the Jewish nation, it is natural that the protest of the victims rises, more frequently more than elsewhere, abysses of iniquity.

For me, as for all sensible men among whom the prejudices of history have not dulled reason, the people who made the great choices

IN IMODUCTION. III

its contents in Jewish books, must "call the Satan's people, not God's people: and the God of the Jewish people is none other, in fact, than Siitan...

Who poses amidst the lightning, and iiiiarclie uccuui-

Satan, the god of armies, the god of carnage, the evil god, jealous god, wicked god who punishes Lot's wife for the crime of her daughters, who Abraham is ordered to murder his son. The real God, the God of the Gospel, the one who reveals himself through love, the one who placed in the heart of the father the tenderness* paternal training, never ordered a father to slaughter her child; for this abominable crime would an offense against his law.

No, the God of the Gospel, who prescribed to men to love each other like brothers, and whose Holy law is engraved in all our hearts, isn't it? the same one who dictated to the dark legislator of Sinai the execrable formula an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth, and which orders his followers to exterminate without mercy all those who do not pronounce purely siboleth.

What if the Jewish people were truly the people of God, he would not have put the son of God to death; he would not would not continue to exploit, through parasitism and Vu-* Surely, all the workers whom Christ wanted to redeem- ter, and who are the militia of God; and God did not not marked with the seal of anathema by inflicting upon him the leprosy, just as he inflicted leprosy on the pig.

By virtue of Charity, Reason, and Faith, anathema to all the impious religions that say God is evil;

IV THE JEWS, KINGS OF THE ERA.

because these religions are the invention of men inspired by the spirit of Satan and who made their God in their image; and the impiety of dogma can be measured to the inhumanity of its sectarians.

Now, what people has been more bloodthirsty in its revenge, more persistent in his hatred and in His contempt for the rest of humanity, like that of the Jew? Wherever this race lives, I defy anyone to show it to me. occupied in a useful or productive function, occupied to something other than swindling and robbing the nation which received it into its bosom (France, Russia, Poland, Portugal, Germany).

And where there's a Jew, there's a Protestant, you know. The Englishman, the Dutchman, the Genevan, who are learning to read the God's will in the same book as the Jew, pro- advocated for the laws of equity and the rights of workers dispute between these races to determine which one belongs the price of avarice and greed. In Geneva, one claims that one Genevan is worth six Jews. And, incidentally quite singular and quite characteristic, the love of Gold in all these races is proportional to the into-tolerance and religious fanaticism. The Talmudist of Frankfurt, the old Jew of usurious blood, the circumcised one, is no more fervently attached to the letter of the Bible and the worship of the golden calf by the Puritan of Geneva, whose ancestors burned Servetus, whom the me-

The English Methodist, rather than the German Pietist.
They are all children of the same father, and to whom the god Israel promised one day, in the person of Jacob, the

INTRODUCTION. V

land ownership, to the exclusion of all others peoples. And all these sects are equally ardent to continue fulfilling God's promise, all also proud and hostile to foreigners whom they call Philistine, worker, and they com-Together they pose an immense congregation of vampires whose stomachs are in the banks of major capitals, and suckers everywhere. The tra-valiant men who exhaust themselves and die from their labor, on three-quarters of the Earth's surface area, work to enrich a few thousand lazy nabobs from Judah, Amsterdam, and London. All the gold that extracted by the mine or by the plow from the entrails of the Earth is drawn in by an invincible power of suction. target, in the safes of the Englishman, of the Genevan, of the Jew, aristocratic races who have taken a vow of laziness and idleness, and agree to live off labor and production of others. And the billions They may well be crammed into their cellars, and their cellars '
They find they are never enough full, and they invent ways to fill them - Poisonous goods. Such is the will of the God we worship. in the Bible, the same one that allows the Puritan Hollan-; dais of spitting in the face of Christ to extract from | Japanese, a few thousand crowns! Oh, it must have been This Dutchman, on the austere reader of the Bible, was the accusation that he was selling out to the enemies from his homeland, munitions of war, he replied that one showed him the way to hell, and that he would go and sell on the spot, the powder of the damned

I tell you that there are predatory peoples who live of the flesh of others, and that these are the mar- peoples Chands, those who were formerly called the Phoenicians and the Carthaginians, who are now called the English, Dutch, Jews, and that the Bible is i.e. religious code oii all these predators find the justification of their tyrannies and their hoarding-ments. The Englishman, whose main profession is to stealing pieces of land, to exploit those who They cultivate, and never travel without their Bible. Cromwell, the The Puritan executioner is a character from the Bible. Evil- Thus, too, the philanthropist Malthus, the one who refuses to the child of the people a place at the banquet of life^ who only wants places at this banquet for the rich. Malthus, I assure you, was imbued with the spirit of the Bible to the very core. In all the wars of fanaticism, it is in the name of the Bible that one slaughter, not in the name of the Gospel.

History will one day tell if the famous principle of the Reform, the right to free inquiry, was accepted as generally as it is claimed, as an idea of progress. If many sovereigns, that of England in particular, did not see themselves rather in the principle of self-saying emancipatory, a way to remove the power-temporal sance, that is to say the brute force of which they were armed, under the yoke of spiritual power; a way to substitute for the infallibility of the individual to the infallibility of the Pope, the personification of the Church and Vicar of Christ. I confess that I am not com- fully informed on this famous question of freedom, and that where so many philosophers and historians have He pointed out progress; I only saw movement of retreat. The twelve articles of the peasants' charter are contemporaries of Luther and go a little further that he was involved in religious and political reform; but the the same princes who united to defend Luther against Rome, they also united to crush the in- workers' uprising. I will be persuaded, with difficulty... it was the pure love of freedom that drove him Henry VIII of England, and later Elizabeth and Cromwell to break the yoke of Rome. I distrust the religions that accept Henry VIII as pope. Pro- testators of all faiths, your alleged The religious and spiritual revolution of 1520 is only one insurrection of mercantile populations, of races of

INTRODUCTION. VII

of the Gospel, return to the Bible. The God of the Bible, in fact, has no son like the God of the E-gospel to drive the money changers from the temple, with blows of the whip. The God of the Bible does not punish the guilty in the afterlife: there is no afterlife in the Bible. Enjoy, plunder, steal, be happy in your flesh, and don't worry about the rest.... Ah, I understand that the sale of indulgences, that the scandalous wealth of the Catholic clergy, the life of its popes and its monks, may have grown in time to the Puritan reaction and provoked the evangelical Reformation; but something nevertheless speaks to my soul that Rome's mistakes only accounted for very little among the causes that detached them from the Catholic faith princes of Germany, England, Switzerland, the Holmoor. Something tells me that, if the principle of free The examination, formulated by Luther, would have threatened the power temporal power of the castes, as it threatened the spiritual power ritual, more than one of the dissident states would still be at- Today, within the fold of Rome. Who has made everything First a Protestant in our country, in France? The nobleman, Coligny, Condé, the enemy of royalty and of people. And besides, if Luther's faith, if that famous the principle of the Reformation had the power to create free men, it is clear that the English worker would not be today the most miserable and the most oppressed by all the serfs of the globe; the an- aristocracy clay, the most insolent and proud caste that ever was.

VITI THE JEWS, KINGS OF THE ERA.

I also find that these Anglican ministers have good grace in thundering against the scandals of the Church Roman, the great prostitute, them, the rentier bishops of a million or more, and living in every vice, and making money from theft, drunkenness and prostitution Tuition!

I know that people often object to those who think like me on the secret spirit of Protestantism and on the harmful influence of the Jewish book:

c(How savage their opinion is... that what they What they want is a return to the Middle Ages, to prejudices. fanatics who considered the Jew cursed. They reproach for breaking with the charitable opinions of time, with the humanitarian theories that have proclaimed, in '89 and ever since, the brotherhood of nations.

INTRODUCTION. IX

said that their language is not from that era of fu-"Zion and oblivion, is not typical of a Frenchman of this century..."

My language is that of a sincere writer who has not of fanaticism or systematic repulsion for any cult, but who believes he has understood the history of the people Jewish and who thinks:

That the religion of the Jewish people inevitably made it so a people who are enemies of humanity, as the Bible states catechism and the code of the oppressor peoples.

May the Jews never remain victims, may the just the time it takes for them to become persecuted eurs. That the State which imprudently grants them the citizenship, future masters are created, and that the France, for having given in too quickly to the impulses of His generous charity is already their slave.

Evidence supporting this accusation:

The French government has granted a monopoly transport on the Northern line to Jews. That's a Jew who is the director, most of the employees
The administration is Jewish. Well! I don't think so. not that it exists in any other administration pu-Republic of France, a staff more repulsive than that of there for the tone, more proud, more brittle in its relations with the public, and less concern for comfort and the lives of travelers. This Northern Railway had barely been in operation for a week, that universal complaints were already resounding across the nation-> negligence of the service, regarding the brutality of the agents. Occurred, fifteen days after its inauguration, a dreadful catastrophe, which unites the inauspicious date of July 8, 1846

X THE JEWS, KINGS OF THE ERA.

to that of May 8, 1842, and the name of Rothschild in the name de Fould, in the history of industrial disasters; and the parents of the numerous victims, instructed by experience, didn't even dare to translate in front of the courts of the country the homicide company, although Every day the courts sentence people to domconsiderable interests of clumsy coachmen guilty of recklessness.

Justice must have two scales, one for us.
French, another for the Jews. Alas! behold, at Instead of demanding justice, this brave French people, The people liberated in '89, cry out for Christmas for the Jews, and that, not content with clapping their hands at the impunity of He chooses monopolists as his agents. I begins to believe in truth that Judas Iscariot has too eager to go hang himself. But how do you find-You, these poor children of Israel, who continue to Playing the victim? Isn't that the attitude?
"Grieving" suits them well!

So, 5 despite all the fake philanthropists and
Of all the charlatans of liberalism, I repeat that France must cruelly atone for the wrongs of its cha-charity for the Jew; imprudent charity, deplorable charity a concept that all the great thinkers of all centuries They had warned him of the dangers beforehand; for Tacitus is On this point I agree with Bossuet^ with the encyclo-Pedists and Fourier. Tacitus, the most illustrious of all historians of antiquity, rise up against the untamed table pride and the spirit of deceit of the Jewish people.

INTRODUCTION. XI

Bossuet, who believed this people was chosen by God to re-Bossuet cannot help but reveal his law to the world. to write that the Jews are no longer anything to religion nor to God, and that it is right that their ruins should be spread by the land, as punishment for their hardening of their hearts. Voltaire kill the Jew under the epigram. I just read in a A very recent book, written by a converted Jew, Mr. Cerf b  er from Medelsheim, that the Jewish population of France provided a double contingent of repeat offenders of that provided by the other population, all proportions tion kept.... although the Israelite race abstained ge-generally of any kind of attack against persons sons and confined themselves almost exclusively to the practice of theft, fraud, usury, and deceit in recruitment matters. The author, who has generously put himself... fortunately in search of mitigating circumstances for the misdeeds of his former coreligionists, he adds with candeur that ((given the nature of the usual offenses of the Is-Raelite, which presupposes an in-depth study of ways to frustrate the Penal Code, the law should hardly "To reach only a small number of offenders!!"
THANKS !

Listen after that to Fourier, the most powerful of geniuses of this century: .

"To these recent vices, all vices of circumstance, let us add
The most shameful, the denial of Jews to the right of citizenship.

"It was therefore not enough for civilized people to ensure the reign" From the treachery, it is necessary to call upon the nations of usu-rers, the unproductive j^a^ria/-ca'Ma. The Jewish nation is not Civilized, it is patriarchal, having no sovereigns,

XII THE JEWS, KINGS OF THE ERA.

recognizing none of them in secret, and believing all deceit commendable, when it comes to deceiving those who do not practice Her religion. She doesn't flaunt her principles, but we know them. enough.

"A greater wrong in this nation is to indulge exclusivelyitively to traffic, wear and tear, and mercantile expenses, according to the London painting, a painting which only tells us that something everyone knows.

"Any government that values good morals should..."
to compel the Jews, to force them into productive work, not to ad-to put that in proportion to one percent for vice, a family merchant for one hundred agricultural and manufacturing families; but our philosophical century indiscriminately admits legions of Jews, all parasites, merchants, usurers, etc.

"When it has been recognized (and this will not be long) that the Political science must focus on reducing the number of marchands, to bring them to genuine and solid competition daire, one will find it difficult to conceive of the incompetence of this philosophy-Phile, who calls upon a completely unproductive race for help, mercantile and patriarchal, to refine the sly commerce already intolerable conditions." {New World, p. 421, 2nd ed.}

I really don't see any serious objection to to oppose these considerations of wise politics. The ilreformist chandelier which here condemns the Jewish people as guilty of parasitism, was not, that I know, a man with prejudices. It was the profound pen-the commander whose ruthless logic brought down the commander anarchic trade, and denounced to European states, forty years in advance, the advent of feudalism mercantile and the reign of Judah. And note that the governments of Russia and Prussia, governments Those who were hardly suspected of utopianism were brought in very recently their Israelite subjects, the principles of politics laid out in the preceding lines. Emperor Nicholas, who founded a large number of special institutions, and that one could not to accuse of ill will towards this race, the emperor-Father Nicolas, who gave him every opportunity to leave from the state of abjection into which she has fallen through the exercise of wear and tear and other degrading jobs, has just been ordered by a recent ukase (July 184-6), "that before the In January 1850, Jews had to choose a profession in the category of honorable professions specified at the beginning of the said ukase. From the same period, Jews will also have to give up their clothing, in order to that they no longer constitute a nation within a nation. In addition, numerous immunities are granted to Israelites who decide to embrace the profession agricultural.

Emperor Nicholas no longer wants the Jews to be a nation within the Russian nation, and in this he has par-Absolutely right. Emperor Nicholas, who takes here the defense of the Russian worker against the usurer parasite, against the idle, against the unproductive, seems to me much further along the path of true progress-table that Mr. Odilon-Barrot, who does not want to remove the insurance monopoly is in the hands of speculators. Instead of foolishly rising up against tyranny Let us gladly accept the example of the autocrat wisdom and true philanthropy that he gives us.

The Jews are a nation within the French nation.

XIV THE JEWS, KINGS OF THE ERA.

Whatever they do and say, they will be there. A conquering and dominant nation before long. That the blind and the sellouts who do not see or do not want to Slow not to see these things, so don't make me a the crime of having sharper eyesight and national pride more irritable than them. I've just proven that if I I'm mistaken, at least in good company. Before we finish with this stolen title of the people of God, let me quote one last sentence from Fourier, phrase taken from an unpublished manuscript that his heirs lazy people forgot to have one hundred thousand copies printed to please;

"The Greeks... were truly God's people," while the Jews, who claim the title of God's people,

The annals constantly present the crime in its raw and complete form. its ugliness, even in the person of the wisest of their kings; and without any monument of them remaining in the science or the arts, no act that can excuse the wrong of having continually tended towards barbarity, when they were free, and continually at the Patriarchate when they were enslaved.

Now we know, if we wanted to know, the causes of the reasoned aversion that the author of this book dedicated to the children of Israel, and who have hitherto prevented it- I tried to unite in my thoughts these two words, Jew and French citizen ^ and who bring the sarcasm of the indignation and anger on his lips, at the idea that merchants of opera glasses or cash, who arrived at who knows where from where they may be called upon to make the laws of their country.

INTRODUCTION. Xi

when the most glorious children of France, of men named Béranger, Fourier, Lamennais, are not even called upon, for lack of money, to choose their representatives. But nobody here understands. therefore, as long as the privilege of the electorate and eligibility will depend solely on gold, it will be impossible for us French, a noble and en- people enemy of trafficking, to support the fight with the Jew on the field of national representation! Push! down to its ultimate consequences, this system of the exclusive representation of gold, raise, raise the census, and you will see that the Jews of the nation will Parliamentary majorities everywhere. A Jewish citizen French! The coupling of these two names seems to me monstrous. But the richest of all the Jews of The era owes its fortune to Waterloo! Yes, their fortune to all of you, to these cosmopolitan bankers, date of our re- towards and our crushing "Enough with the curses!" one of them cries out to us again. good soul, a charitable soul, misled by an in- A simplistic interpretation of the Law of Moses. This law that you so viciously denigrate, socialists ingrats, this law is the only one that proclaimed the abolition- tion of property and debts after a certain time. "

Property is abolished! How so? Let's hear- us. Jewish law says, in fact, that property sells due returns to its original owners at the end of

will be freed, and the poor will reap the

XVI THE JEWS, KINGS OF THE ERA.

fruits of the earth; but far from finding there cause for I, like you, marvel at the liberalism of the law
As a Jew, I see in it, on the contrary, the fact that condemns Israel....

I see it first and foremost as land ownership being subservient to a tribe, to a family of landowners by the grace of God, a variety of the English lord species.

Secondly, this sole reason that real estate ownership
The movable property was to be returned to its original owners. after a certain period of enjoyment, he explains to me Why did the Jew never want property?
knows the Jew's invincible aversion to work fields, a repulsion that will not prevent him from-vahir within twenty-five years the ownership of the three quarters of the land in Lorraine and Alsace.

The Jew is never anything but camped on the soil he inhabits. penis. He doesn't want to be tied to it by the bonds of the property, because he knows that these ties would be a hindrance His gait would prevent him from running where the traffic He calls to her. This cloak of the fatherland weighed upon her shoulders, and he got rid of the incomfashion. The English, American, Dutch trafficker no more firmly planted on the ground than the Jewish trafficker.

As for your supposed abolition of debts, all What, I ask you, does a subscription mean for seven years?
the issuance of any debts for usurers who do not They only lend on pawn and for short periods? Alas!
You have allowed yourself to be seduced by false philanthropists. my good soul, and you also believed that it was the misery and persecution had forced the Jew to to take refuge in usury and mercantilism. Illusion

INTRODUCTION. XTII

And foolishness, do you hear; illusion, charlatanism and Deception! The Jew is sealed by his religious faith to the hocanting and all degrading trades including the czar Nicolas tries to free him. "He who works is exempt," This is the true faith of the Talmud.

"Work is pain," said the inhuman God. hand to the Jewish Adam. "Work is happiness, the

men.

Look at the Muslims; they have nothing to reproach.
like us to the Jews the torment of their Redeemer, and yet no Christian people has ever prospanking Jews is as contemptuous as Arabs and the Turk. Why is that? Because the Jew never wanted to engage in nothing but trafficking and usury.

I remind you that no alliance is possible.
between that race and us Christians; and the proof, that is, most of the distinguished Tuifs of that time They renounce Judaism.

Now the Jewish people, who belong to the same God, how brilliant individuals the English have produced! dualities in the arts, poetry, science, that fact is not debatable. Yes, I know that these last ones In those times, glorious names of artists emerged from the lineage of Israel; but how many would be cited to me in the number who do not have some blemish on their glory money!

That this people was endowed with powerful faculties organizers, I deny it even less; but I say that his responsibility is compounded by the false employment he » b

XVIII THE JEWS, KINGS OF THE ERA.

made use of these superior faculties. Vultures too are large birds, and they soar high in the airs, and which we sometimes admire in their flight, which does not prevent us from feeling nothing but repulsion and disgust for these vile predators who re-they feed on the flesh of corpses.

So it wasn't me who, in the first edition
In this book, I seemed to ask forgiveness of my pu-public for having implicated the Jewish race in an at-tackling the feudalism of money. I leave the responsibility-the nature of the act of contrition and apologies to gentlemen directors of the cooperative bookstore and my first editions authors, who perhaps hadn't read as attentively-I am lying, the lines of their master that I have allowed to cite them. And would to heaven that the school of society-silence, so powerful today, would have no reason to reproach to his superiors even more serious acts of disloyalty!

So you are asking me, gentlemen of the library

Jewish nation, whose poor children imprint your newspapers and your books –

Consideration and respect, you say, for the alleged misfortunes of these vile gambling dealers tage, whose voracious parasitism takes every year from the work of our suffering brothers, the tributes of many several billion, not counting the toll of prostitution tution, the toll of suicide and that of hunger. From the pity these lazy, well-fed people who make us throw ourselves at the led by their insolent pen-wielding lackeys, that misery is the fatal lot of the masses, and that there is no place for the child

INTRODUCTION. XIX

From the poor to the banquet of life. Oh! no, not, if you please Please, no, gentlemen peaceful democrats, the fate of those who are exploited and who suffer has
I was so overcome with pity that nothing remained of me. as to you for those who exploit them, for these high and mighty lords of capital, your candidates revered. Peace to the workers of all nations, Okay, peace and brotherhood! But war too, and a merciless war against the parasites of all religions
From all flags, war on the bankers!
Cosmopolitans, war on the Jewish monopolies!!

And you, who proclaim yourselves humanitarians, do not... do not risk extinguishing in the heart of the French nation the the last spark of charity that warmed him, his noble contempt for commerce and hatred of oppressive peoples....
But rather bless the supreme Providence for having wanted the mercantile feudalism to have as its first godfathers of the children of Israel, sons not degenerate of those Pharisees and Scribes who crucified Christ, so that the Christian world might recognize Vin-Fame, to the defilement of her name!

THE JEWS, KINGS OF THE ERA.

HISTORY

OF THE

FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

PURPOSE OF THE WORK.

It is in the life of nations, as in that of individuals, critical periods where it would seem that the blood congeals in the heart; periods of stillness where all the conquests of the past can be lost through a fault; where usurpation, provoked by general inertia and apathy of minds, it rests upon the debased institutions and consolidates itself for centuries.

The French nation has reached one of those times fatal.

Parliamentary impotence is evident: we see it. It would seem to have recently become chronic. The Chamber deputies, a representation too faithful to the country there-concealed, fragmented like him, votes on laws by truncating lessons; the words system and unity frighten him. If some miserable matter of wallet or
I 1

2 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Secret funds sometimes manage to galvanize its torpor. The majority, briefly rallied by fear, are now... band as soon as the danger has passed; and each agent, hastily resuming control of the interest locally, resumes firing for its own benefit with renewed vigor. The law, stripped of all grandiosity and national, is now nothing more than a money transaction between avaricious parochial pretensions. There is no majority assured for the ministers only on the condition, by those here, not to govern* Buy consciences and To overcome baseness, that is the edifying work, and at a low price almost exclusively assigned by the customs of that time to power; and the bailiffs, charged with policing the ministerial antechambers are not enough to expel to serve the beggars who besiege them at all hours of day and night.

And when these ministers are caught red-handed They do not give themselves up for the crime of electoral fraud. even the trouble of denying it; they are content to answer to those in the opposition who accuse them: You will not- They're no better than us... And these ministers say True; there is no longer a question of conscience in this so-called representative regime, where two hundred thousand voters paying two hundred francs are supposed to represent thirty-five million French people; there are only... one day when a naive member of parliament had quoted from the podium the names of some English ministers who died of shame for to have been caught red-handed in a corruption case.

People no longer die from shearing these days: they make a living from it. Inside, all the levers of the administration

PURPOSE of the work. 3

central are broken because it is no longer the prefect who administers, but rather the deputy who reigns in the country and which has jobs. The ministers having used to paying at prefectures or in halves of the general revenue, the votes delivered to them, the highest offices of the State have lost their prestige in the eyes of the people, and the holders of these functions their former influence. The accused-charges of bribery against magistrates of the order The highest are on the agenda; a marshal of France admits in court that he compromised the dignity of command through a faultive of the money from the tribute imposed on the enemy; a Minister of the Navy confesses ingenuously on the platform that the accounting of his department is not free from some irregularities. The bankruptcy has gained a foothold among the tax collectors as easily as possible. lying that among notaries and agents of change; we even started translating it in front of the assize courts for indecent assault. Twenty-Five Algerian public officials were extradited. both before the courts, revoked or similar-completely censored for acts of extortion, of indiscipline or incapacity; and the courts of the Those in metropolitan France are no more unemployed than those in Algeria. scandalous cases of bribery and kickbacks wine. One could even say that there is on this subject competition between certain administrations of the war and navy. Clerks from the administration are half in operations and profits beverage counterfeiters. Employees of the mints are accused of having sold the hallmarks of the control. Fraud, demoralization, and contempt for Integrity is everywhere.

1\ OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

The judiciary itself, for so long the last-a safeguard of our freedoms, of our honor, in the general collapse of public morals and fairness. 11 judges were found to condemn to prison and fines for poor, guilty workers of having joined forces to live off their work^ without the idea came to these rigorous executors of the law, to implicate the teachers, guilty of having united to live off the labor of their workers. Barely Was there a single ma- brave gistrat to invoke this coalition of masters as a mitigating circumstance in favor of the unfortunate miners of Saint-Étienne. Even less French justice, so harsh on the poor, has... She was advised to summon him to court for the crime of looting. from the public treasury, these bankers of Judah, of London and Geneva, which so brazenly join forces all the days to obtain a monopoly at a bargain price loans and railways.

Outside of the international arena, France has fallen to the rank of Second-order power: absolutist states They are in quarantine, as the poet said. deal with balance issues without his involvement European, and they expel her from their congresses; and the France, instead of nobly withdrawing into its formidable isolation and charging a high price his return to the heart of these congresses, where nothing can If France decides without her, it is shamefully begging. the favor of resuming his place there; and, so that he might

PURPOSE of the work. 5

She forgives, she becomes humble and modest; she grants to the English navy the monopoly of policing the seas; It allows foreign cruisers to inspect its navies: or when public opinion, raised by "So many indignities," protests the French government. He uses cunning and turns the question around, and promises to hold from now on on the west coast of Africa a fleet of twenty-six sails, tasked with keeping watch for the benefit of the enemy Glas. Twenty-six sails to police the coast western where we only have to safeguard minimal interest; barely two or three buildings to monitor the eastern coast where Madagascar is and Bourbon!

However, taking advantage of this parliamentary impotence, taking advantage of this inertia of power and torpor of minds, mercantile feudalism advances rapidly- at the heart of our institutions. Taking advantage with ha- The weakness of the divisions that the press foments between the deep into the ground, pressing down with both feet on the throat of royalty and the people. She is not still completely organized today, it will be tomorrow; she already has the producer and the consumer in her grasp.

The Jew is at his mercy. He reigns and governs in France.
In this document, I outline the origin, trends, and... successive invasions of financial feudalism; I outline the dangers of the current situation and I indicate-that the means of getting out of it; I show that it is possible-it is still possible to curb the insolent power of money;
I call upon the monarchy and the people to unite in order to...
(to be rid of the silver aristocracy, like royalty) and the people have already done so under Richelieu, to throw at

G OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

down with the caste aristocracy. I demonstrate that royalty only has to want it again to save once more the freedoms of the people, and to be gloriously transfigured seduction in his eyes.

And now, to those who might be tempted to me
When asked who I am, I answer:

I am one of those whom one might call men of the day, as opposed to those we call the hom-my tomorrows; I am one of those devoted and ill-skillful people whom we are always sure to meet at the most heated by the melee in stormy circumstances, but who readily forget to undo their conditions the day before the battle and to claim their share of the spoils
The day after the victory. I served the cause for ten years. of power with an energy of devotion that the pe-
The spirit of the struggle has not cooled for a moment. And this Because of order and authority, I would still serve her, if it were indeed permissible for a man of heart to make himself the supporter of this dishonorable policy that they ap-modest pellent, and whose real name is .sert? î7e. When I saw that these ministers who had given me a mission to defend them, betrayed the authorities and sold out France belongs to the Jews; I deserted their camp, so as not to not to go over to the enemy with them.

By what signs is the royalty of the Jews recognized? 7

CHAPTER ONE.

Mr. Fiuelti signs recognized the royalty of the Jews.

The Jew reigns and governs in France. Where can you find—
Have the proofs of this royalty been written down? Everywhere.

Everywhere, in all our institutions, in all the facts of the day, in all the determinations of the politics from within or without, in the votes of chambers, in the judges' sentences, even in the king's speeches.

Yes, the king! The king, who must know that fortune
The Jew can only achieve ruin through the ruin of the people; the king, who must know that the worker's misery has
It has never been more appalling than it is today, since He is the one the exhausted workers are attacking. of courage and hope; the king, to please these Jews whose safes are overflowing, are forced to congratulate themselves to cite every year, on a solemn occasion, ever-increasing progress in public prosperity.

And these Jews make him say that the condition of all The classes improve and rise, when the prisons are dying everywhere in abundance, when the progression of offenses certified by administrative documents runs five times faster than that of newborns sessions; when the official poverty figure rises, for Paris alone, from sixty-two thousand to four-twenty-six thousand in six years; when it is finally noted

8 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

that infanticide, this last reason for stupefaction—the misery of the human species, has won, Since 1830, in France, seventy-one percent!

The kingship of the Jew is recognized by the fact that the Jew is in possession of all the privileges which constituted formerly the prerogative of royalty.

The privilege of minting coins was once one of those Regular rights. Who is minting money today, if not The Jew?

The king does indeed lend his image to the metal, but it is everything. He cannot increase or decrease its value.
It is the Jew who sets this value by means of Yagio. an industry of his own, an industry monopolized like the others, and which gives to the one who holds it the mono-
'pole for the sale and refining of precious metals'.

Who else collects the salt tax, if not the Jew? The tithe national debt capital?

The charter clearly states that the king appoints to positions public officials, make treaties, command armies; but That's wrong.

The king can indeed appoint to the positions of officer and from judge, to positions whose holders enjoy of a salary of twelve hundred to three thousand francs; but all the high-level or lucrative jobs in finance

'I have seen more than once, seen with my own eyes, a darting from the courtyard of a hotel on rue Laffitte, at the laborious trot of six vigorous horses post, a heavy and massive car bound for Naples. Con-Built for this exclusive destination, the car contained in its double funds a sum of four million in gold, louis, guineas and ingots. Each of his trips, which were repeated, I was told, several times a year, it brought the sender a profit of two or three hundred thousand francs.

By what signs is the royalty of the Jews recognized? 9 and the administration, and even those of the judiciary, are at the Jew's behest. It is the Jew who distributes them. the general recipes to his pious servants and who dismisses the tax collectors general who are in his way. That's he who gives to Mr. Emile Pereire and Mr. Infantin thirty thousand francs worth of seats and profits of five one hundred thousand francs to two million on the sale of the ac-tions of its railways. The Jew, former owner-inclusive of transport administration throughout the kingdom, will soon have more employees than the State.

The king doesn't make treaties. I defy the king and the chambers to make a customs alliance treaty, a cotton, coal and iron treaty of which the Jews do not They don't want to. Anzin didn't want the meeting of the Belgium to France, and this meeting did not take place.

I ask if a king is truly master of his will and who would truly command the armies, would have left one hour at the head of the army of Africa, of an army of one hundred thousand men, this incapable and brutal swordsman-tal, who never knew what to do but retaliate with insults to humble dispatches from the king's ministers; and recon-to be born, through new outrages, of unheard-of favors whose hand the king has bestowed upon him?

And justice, too, is not served in the name of the Capital coalitions escape the law, that's because the Capital is more powerful than the law, that is, capital—Only that is inviolable and sacred. May the king's crew knocks down an unfortunate man, injures him, the law will come to him. aid for the injured, if the generosity of the civil list does not precede the requirements of the law. Let the Jew littered the roads with corpses, which he had the monopoly, the law will side with them to let it pass the impunity of the Jew.

10 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Before the law had granted the railways to Jewish, any traveler could move freely on the Main road, on the king's cobblestones. Ever since all communication routes, railways, canals, rivers belong to the Jew; no one can pass through them anymore without to pay him tribute.

Who holds the banking monopoly and the monopoly of Transport, the two arms of commerce? The Jew.

Who has a monopoly on gold and mercury? A Jew.

Who will soon hold the monopoly on coal, of Salts and tobacco? The same Jew.

Who has a monopoly on announcements? The Saint-Simoniens, servants of the Jew.

Who has a monopoly on printing newspapers?
A Jew whom the public prosecutor accuses of fraud stamp.

If air could be bought and sold, there would be a Jew to seize it tomorrow.

Who reigns in the chambers of the king who could not ob—to manage in fifteen years a miserable endowment of five one hundred thousand francs for the eldest of his sons, or for the Jew, to which the chamber of 1843 one day wanted to allocate from a a single vote yielded a profit of three to four hundred million*?

A German man once wrote: ((Fifteen years ago that King Louis-Philippe serves as a revolutionary lightning rod a revolutionary to these money-grubbing merchants who reign and

'The case of the Northern line, where the chamber delivered the track free of charge

By what signs is the royalty of the Jews recognized? 11 govern in France... Well! let's do it into extend to all these wealthy bourgeois, that they earn-would only half a percent exchange their king constitutional law against a president of the republic

The exchange would take place as early as tomorrow.

That German man knew France well.

But let's mention a few important facts of the day, for to show everyone where things have come to. Sketch-broadly speaking, it outlines the policies of our leaders. both inside and outside; let us follow the actions of the Jew in all the twists and turns of this politics of fear, and let us establish the omnipotence of the financial aristocracy before delving into her story.

Foreign policy.

When our ministers pretended, in these
In recent years, there has been fear that war might break out between England and France, concerning a question-from Tahiti or Morocco, they affected a terror which was not in their soul. If they thundered their innocent cannons of the Invalides, on the occasion of the blessed peace treaty concluded with Abder-Rah-Mann, believe that they wanted nothing else than to make themselves attractive to high-level commerce; they They knew perfectly well that the war would not take place.
because the Jew doesn't play there.

he]mî plays at peace, that is to say, upwards, and That is why European peace has lasted for fifteen years. In vain Emperor Nicholas, whose instincts barbarian chieftains irresistibly drive to conquest and war, he tried ten times to rally-

12 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

the sea, the universal conflagration, by blowing on the extinguished ashes of the old coalitions; his efforts have failed. The Jews kept him in check; the Jews put the autocrat banned from all European stock exchanges; and when, finally, under the pretext of a graa wonderful visit to Queen Victoria, the emperor of all Russia came to request the assistance of the banks quiers of Rotterdam and London, the emperor of

Let us not thank the Jew for the peace he gives us; if he had an interest in the war happening, in the war happening, in the war happening would.

Another guarantee for maintaining peace. The actions—English railway companies have the majority in the London House of Commons; they also—element in the Chamber of Deputies, in Paris. Now, these All-powerful speculators have millions invested. in French roads, as in those of their homeland, and the war would cause them enormous harm. So it will not take place.

And then there was England, six million Irish hungry and three million chartists, which makes that England could not for a long time declare war to France.

It is said that Queen Christina, to whom the ambassador Englishmen from Madrid wanted to reprimand regarding the marriage of Infanta Luisa to the Duke of Montpensier interrupted him abruptly right from the pre-First words, saying: This marriage is decided, and he will take place on such and such a day." This princess spoke with dignity sovereign who is not more frightened than is appropriate England's bad mood. England will no longer frighten anyone who dares to look straight ahead.

By what signs is the royalty of the Jews recognized? 13

But I'll go further: all the reasons for a holy war. If they were there for France, we wouldn't fight. The English would bombard Acre and Beirut, and would threaten to seize Alexandria and Suez to Muhammad Ali; the Russians would descend the Bosphorus, that we would not fight, for the simple reason that the The management of French affairs belongs to the mar-candles, and that these merchants will always take care to to hand it over to the trembling and the old men, knowing full well that old age is hostile to everything that is called movement and idea, and that the ear makes it hard at eighty years old to speak of homeland and of honor! If the English bombarded Saint John d'Acre, with a view of our squadrons, our ministers, I... I'm sure they would order our squadrons to return to Toulon, to leave the sea free for the English. If the The English forced the Pasha of Egypt, the dagger on the throat, to abandon Alexandria and Suez to them; if they ric, France would let it happen; the Journal des Débats, an English sheet printed in Paris and from which the editors' name is John, would find char-Mantis reasons with new expressions, for to demonstrate to us that France has everything to gain from these acquisitions by England, where the Journal des Débats sees only triumphs of civilization over the barbarity. And while awaiting the event, the Journal of Debates, which have the express mission of lulling public opinion to sleep public on the invasions of England and on the concessions of the French government, conti-ih < 'OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

It would be a shame to mock the publicists in a very pleasant way. naive people who would dare to accuse British policy of insatiable greed and duplicity.

This will not prevent the possibility that tomorrow or after the year-England should not take Suez; for the act of cession is to-then prepared for a long time; and it is no longer necessary, forcer the signature, that a favorable circumstance that Skilled agents can bring about birth at any hour.

One of the most beautiful political quotes from the Journal des Débats, the official Jewish newspaper, is the one that he... inspired the reading of the peace treaty with the emperor from Morocco. France, which was provoked and which defeated at Tangier, at Mogador, at Isly, he allowed himself to be... damned, as we know, to pay all the costs of the war and to make amends for his triumphs at the feet of the English ministers. To justify this deplorable self-denial, the Journal des Débats said that France was rich enough to pay for its glory.

Rich enough to pay for his fame! But the fame of Weapons are paid for with blood and child labor. people; and this blood and this labor must not be undone It's a complete waste of time to think.

The day after the Battle of Isly, Abd-el-Kader found asylum, as before, in the States of defeated, and a few months later, the Algerian War, what we thought was over, started up again even worse than before. and the governor-general of the colony asked the metropolis a reinforcement of twelve thousand men and I do not I don't know how many millions more.

The same foolishness, the same cowardice everywhere. Cowardice, I said the word because it's fear, nothing but fear that

By what signs is the royalty of the Jews recognized? 15

They were not afraid to worry England, they would have gladly left the leader of the victorious army to renegotiate the terms of peace; they would not have submitted this responsibility was assigned to an English consul.

Restoration France had brought to an end the two expeditions from Algiers and Spain, despite the English government and against the Anglo-Egyptian tradition to establish itself, in order to create a counterweight to British power in the Mediterranean. The Year-England took its revenge on us harshly by-then 1830; it substituted its influence for ours, in Spain; it detached Syria from the possessions of the Pasha of Egypt, and almost annihilated the Egyptian navy yours. England refused to recognize the legitimate timidity of our domination in Algeria. For sixteen years that we have occupied Algeria, the English consul of this residence has not yet found the moment to exhibit ber son exequatur à l'autorité française.

England wants Suez, the key to the Indian Ocean. as she wants Panama, as she wants custody of all the straits that control the great Global trade routes. That's why it does not want to give Muhammad Ali any rest or respite before that the old man had agreed to let him pass, as he had already delivered his ports and ships to him. The French government is willing to look at to consume this plunder with a weapon in hand, rather than to break the peace so dear to the heart of Israel.

We know that England maintains on all points from the globe of missionaries of discord, charged to sell Bibles and drugs and especially to-

16 DEF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

to traverse the establishments of rival powers. When One of these missionaries succeeded somewhere in to incite peaceful populations against our troops and to shed the blood of our soldiers, England does not allow the representatives of France to de-include his agent in his work, or else, if there is impediment, she demands that the French government-The French compensated the emissary who was prevented from carrying out his duties from his glory.

There was nothing in the entire Toulon arsenal, at least not at the time... The expedition to Morocco involved neither a canoe nor a large vessel. mast for a tall ship... But the ministry finds a way to provide a grant of twelve one thousand francs per month from the equipment funds of the Marine to a politically correct newspaper!

It was said that they had decided on the Madagascar expedition with a view to retaking the large island and the pro-Colbert's schemes. I never believed in those plans; they had only decided on the expedition on paper and for to have a pretext for extraordinary expenses, a way to inflate the figures and hide the real ones Causes of the maritime budget deficit. Subterfuge inexcusable, because the room has always had enough patriotism to transcend, in its generosity, the requests from the Minister of the Navy.

Our maritime trade is in the process of being fully decadence, while the figure of our exports increases. In the general trade of France, which sets in motion a value of two billion and more, represented by three million barrels, imports and exports by foreign ships

By what signs is the royalty of the Jews recognized, 17

Gers account for more than two-thirds, and yet the French navy is vested with the monopoly of transport of colonial goods and supplies from our colonies.

France, which has a view of three seas and which seems having been placed at the western end of the old continent to serve as a warehouse for trade Europe with America; France, watered by numerous rivers that flow in all directions tions and penetrate everywhere inland; France, one of the most fertile and best-equipped countries cultivated people of the world, allow themselves to be successively abducted all the advantages of an exceptional position ad- Amazing. Before long, if we're not careful, Antwerp and Trieste will have dispossessed Marseille and Le Havre of supplying the central European market. The merchants of Le Havre were complaining not long ago-construction projects in two years.

But the 5 percent has exceeded one hundred and twenty, and the ac-railway companies are advantageously positioned; the nation, consumed by the fury of gambling and speculation, He no longer has any concern for the nation's affairs. The tax returns, and the parasitic Jew builds for-Fabulous tunes... What more could you want?

No! There is no need to fear war, and there is no need only one argument to demonstrate it The obvious impossibility. The House of Representatives voted for compensation for Pritchard, to say that she paid less attention to the lives of French soldiers than the small-time interests of English traffickers.
A nation that proclaims such a policy, that

THE FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

grants financial compensation to enemy agents, caught red-handed in provocations to revolt against her authority, this That nation no longer fights; it has abdicated its rank. inviolable power.

Now let's take a look at the politics within.

The politics of the home.

Ministerial follies. – France bled dry.

"Where the omnipotence of the Jews appears in all its Splendor lies in the great inner question, I I mean the financial question. There are only the financial questions that are big questions.

Let us choose, from the legislative program of its-last proposals, the three major financial proposals censels who, along with the question of annuities, have made the more noise. The fate of these three mini- proposals aerials will give us the measure of the power par-elementary, and will demonstrate, in a clear way for all, that the government is already nothing more than the human-ble vassal of financial feudalism and the servile exe-cutter of his high will; for it is necessary to let this excuse to those in power, which the unfortunate ministers who have brought similar projects to the podium, were forced to do it.

These three proposals are the law of sugars, the law enjoyments. The government has not yet dared to take—to take the initiative on the issue of annuities; he will will allow it to be imposed.

It is understood that I do not want to enter, for

By what signs does the Jewish people recognize the nobility of the Jews? 19 the moment, at the heart of these questions, that I will address more fully in their place; I deny any limit to explaining the text of the ministerial proposals and to quote from proper names, to show what interests these propositions were to be used, and what spirit had inspired.

The question of consecrations.

Here is a question that has been unsuccessful for ten years, all the intellectual forces of France, and that two men of goodwill, of sound mind, re— They could weld easily in two hours.

France has exhausted the genius of its statesmen and the science of his professors of political economy; the The press blackened square meters of white paper. with this formidable question of sugars; and so many other things No amount of hard work has been spent, yet it has resulted in this:

Our colonies are dying and our maritime trade with them. The metropolitan beetroot, whose cultivation—ture does not occupy a thousandth part of the territory, French, received from the munificence of the national treasury a bonus of seven hundred and twenty francs per hectare, without this unfair premium granted to sugar beets, to the detriment of sugar cane and the merits of the sworn faith, was enough to ensure the prosperity of the beet—turnip. The native root is dying like the reed. of the tropics; and the treasure has suffered, for fifteen years, According to the former ministers themselves, a loss of sweet one hundred million on the revenue from sugar tax'.

- That is to say, the treasury would have received two hundred million more on the sugar tax, if all the sugar that entered French consumption The coffee had been supplied by our colonies or by foreign trade.

20 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Listen carefully to this: during the last fifteen In recent years, sugar consumption has almost doubled the revenue from this tax has remained stationary, if even

It has not decreased.

Tax revenue remaining stationary, during that the consumption of the imposed object doubles and when the The V tax rate hasn't decreased!... I defy the most strong-willed people from Charenton, all of them, imagined a financial combination that could also be mer-Old results!

And note that to get to this point, to create this situation, deadly to the colonies as well as to the in-native industry, both in the treasury and in trade maritime, it was necessary to openly violate the colony charter-niale, to break the existing reciprocal contract between the metropolis and its sugar islands, and in which it It was said that the colonies would not be able to obtain supplies-only in French ports, and by French ships Sais, of all natural or manufactured products which they would need, and that on the other hand the me-
The nation would buy all the goods from its colonies. sugar, coffee, cocoa.

However, the metropolis did force the colonies to con-continue to source their supplies exclusively from her; but she did not buy all the food from her colonies. She allowed the sugar from her territory to make competition to colonial sugar on its own market; and the sugar from its ruined colonies remained in-sold. The French government didn't even have it here to invoke the excuse of its tax interest to justify this blatant abuse of force.

What are the signs of Jewish royalty? 21

However, let's not accuse the government too harshly. rigor. Mr. Duchâtel, in 1837, and Mr. Lacave-Lapla-In 1842, they tried to put an end to this a state of affairs that is ruinous for the country and dishonorable. for the administration of finance. Mr. Duchâtel has wanted to kill the beetroot by an indirect means, by the tax relief on colonial sugar, a proposed ration neat and fair if ever there was one, favorable to productivity tion and consumption, to the interests of the treasury as to those in commerce, and whose result was Sure. The chamber of 1837, ill-advised, rejected this project.

Mr. Lacave-Laplagne loyally proposed to sup-to promote sugar beet cultivation, by means of

The chamber of 1842 found the government proposal overly generous mentality on the one hand; on the other hand, not quite favorable to the interests of the all-powerful co-refiners' company. She adopted a mezzo-soprano ending in a bastard system that must kill one of them within a given time and the other industries. We saw, in this discussion, a minister of the king defeated in the elective chamber on a bill introduced by him, to collect the d- the project's failure, to patch it up as best as possible, then report it to the House of Peers, and get at the Luxembourg Palace, the ardent advocate of the system that he had fought with all his might at the Palace-Bourbon, eight days earlier.

Why this legislative dithering, this contempt? of sworn faith and national interests? Because, In the matter of sugars, all national interests naux are in direct opposition .^ve^ç.^lps interests of the clique of rafters, who are close to the upper echelons of banking, and that the chambers and the power do not know how to worry- to deserve only one thing: to truly merit the powers that be financial.

$2 n FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

""IVy à' better though, in terms of good-natured gou-government and financial absurdity, that the com-combination that has just been presented: there is, or rather there There was the railway one. I will be content with that. to enlighten the public, to report the text of the project concession for the Northern Railway, the project the original one, that of 1843.

The Mord railway.

The government tells a Rothschild company:

"I desperately need your help."

for the construction of my Northern Railway.

The treasury is empty: these cursed fortifications are ruining me-

They are and forbid me from even thinking about any business.

of public utility. If you would sympathize with my suffering,

We would share the work. I would grant you all the profits and I would keep them for myself, that is to say for the taxpayer, for the nation, all expenses and all charges. Here are my conditions:

((I'll take care of all the earthworks first and of all works of art, the only lucky part of the company; in short, I am building the entire path to owners. All these expenses were assessed by the quotes at eighty-seven million, but they will certainly pass the hundred mark. Now, listen-

By what signs is the royalty of the Jews recognized? 23

When the road is perfectly level, prepared; when I have spent one hundred million for to bring him there (I who didn't have a moment's thought) cent to be allocated to public utility companies that), I'll deliver it to you free of charge. You'll lay the rails, You will provide the cars and the equipment, everything whose expenditure is known in advance to the nearest penny, and which could well cost you around sixty millions. I'm asking for an advance, an simple advance: one day I will reimburse you in full. ((In the meantime, and to pay you for this advance sixty million, which would have cost me two thousand four hundred thousand francs a year, if I had them borrowed, I abandon you for forty

ANS all the profits from the operation of the railway Northern Railway, the main railway of England and Holland on India, the great road between the north and southern Europe, the most fruitful line of globe, a net annual income assessed by yourself "At least fourteen million."

Fourteen million in net income per year, during forty years, for interest on a loan of sixty thousand lions!

(f Does the deal suit you? Let's see, so as not to Don't commit lightly; meditate, weigh everything carefully. terms of my proposal. I repeat: I spend One hundred million to build the road, and you sixty millions for the provision of equipment; I renounce forty years, in your favor, to all the beneficiaries the details of the line; I grant them to you in full; and then, at the end of your lease, when I have you paid forty times fourteen million, five hundred

% OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

sixty million, if you prefer, for the interest of your sixty million over forty years; when the branches of Calais, Dunkirk, Boulogne, will have reimbursed you on their own, by their toll, the amount of this first advance, I tell you the estimated price of your equipment.

The Rothschild family, which has rendered so many services the current government could not leave him in the embarrassment over so little, over some sixty thousand lions, a pittance. The Rothschild house, which possesses—perfectly follows his four rules and who knows his purse as if she had done it, must have thought that it would be her. It is easy, under such conditions, to issue advantageously—ment his promises (T actions j and that by limiting his profits a simple profit of 100 to 200 percent. Based on these promises, she would find herself exempt from to spend one cent on the operation. Consequently—Consequently, the company had deigned to accept the offers of the government, and the matter was going to be resolved when The Chamber of Deputies decided to propose some modifications to the project. The chamber requested that the cost of the equipment was not reimbursed to the dealer sionnaire after the lease expires. That's when the Jewish, having hinted that he would agree to pass through these ruthless demands, the Journal des Débats shed copious tears over the recklessness and the g—neurosis of the child of Israel. It is evident to all the sensible people, wrote the Journal des Débats in July In 1843, Mr. de Rothschild requested the privilege of... ruin! There was hardly anything, in fact, on this matter, that two or three hundred million to be won.

By what signs is the royalty of the Jews recognized? 25

I'm not exaggerating here; I'm taking the eva— figures The company's own evaluation. In principle, the company's engineer, an Englishman, had fixed the net income figure for the line of ten million North. That figure was already reasonable enough. for the interest on an advance of sixty million; but the discussions that took place in front of the newspapers and In front of the chambers, the comparisons made with the income from other, less favorable lines, and the donations findings from statistics have since brought about revelations instructive information that has spurred countless malicious tongues concluded that the Englishman had mistaken in less in its assessments, and that the com— The company had surfed, following ancient and loyal custom. of commerce, demanding a great deal so that he would... was granted a great deal. The English engineer, whose re— Religion has been enlightened by the revelations of the tribune. and the press, therefore boosted the line's gross revenue from the North to twenty-eight million. Now, as he had been Experience has shown, to date, that the costs roughly the gross revenues of the railways, that is to fourteen million that the company's engineer Rothschild assessed the annual net income of the path of iron from the North. Baron Dupin has perfectly demonstrated, however, that this figure was by far in- less than that given by the resultant of all the comparisons with lines operated for ten years; he fixed the net revenue of the Northern Line at A minimum of fifteen million. That's a figure that we can take it safely, especially since Experience has already shown (roads to Rouen and d'Orléans), that the maintenance costs and the price of machines decreased each year, while the number of travellers, that is to say the normal income, increased.

26 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Let's recap. The government is spending:

1. For the construction of the road, compensation, etc. 100 million'..

2" For the loss of interest of his Capital disbursed, the interest of one hundred million at 4 per 100 ' for forty years, and abstraction made of the interests composed, here 160

3" For the abandonment of income from the Northern line, at fifteen thousand lions per year for forty years, here. 600

4" Finally, for reimbursement of the material, according to experts, for the purpose of lease, ci 40

Total... 900 million.

A small capital of nine hundred million sacrificed by The State, for what purpose, for what grandiose result?...

To become the sole owner and administrator of the Northern line in forty years from now

Nine hundred million that will not be represented at of the railway, worth one hundred and forty million, the material included; plus through interest savings 'That figure has increased considerably since then.

By what signs is the royalty of the Jews recognized? 27

that we will not have paid for forty years for sixty million advanced by the company, that is to say—to say a sum of ninety-six million, to at a rate of two million four hundred thousand francs per year 96 and 140, 200 KILLS – six million for nine cents!

The government is abandoning an annual net income fifteen million so as not to impose an additional burden annual expenditure of two million four hundred a thousand francs, a profit that gave him the means to return immediately to its con- expenses construction, acquisition and earthworks.

And all this, under the pretext that the treasure is at dry. Admirable recipe, to fill the void, rather than depriving him of a return of six hundred million and more!

I ask if the courts would allow the free disposition of his fortune to the son of the family who admitted him would govern as the current government administers public funds.

However, there were only two or three newspapers in the Parisian press, the National and the Phalange between others, who dared to denounce this to public opinion shameful squandering of the treasury and these scandals of Neronian prodigality. And when we wrote in the last of these leaves that folly and ignorance ministerial rance, having attained this power, constituted a true act of treachery; when we we urge all our colleagues in the press to believe themselves to be with us against the Jews, some of the writers for the liberal press were not afraid to to call us obscure rJahaudpurs, and the press cover—
» 2*

28 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

The conservative woman lumped us in with the rioters. The gold-official bank organ, e Journal des Débats, writer—table, that the cause of Y association was lost in France, if the chamber had the misfortune to let itself driven by petty economic considerations financial. The State could do too much to encourage reputable companies, according to the Journal des Débats!... From associations and serious companies!

The State taking charge of all the expenses of the mines of iron, and renouncing for forty years all the profits from the operation, that's what the pro-political economy experts from the Journal des Débats call it association Y. Speculators who speculate on promises of action and which are beginning to collect, through gambling, on the stock exchange of shareholders, all the sums they will have to pay for the furnaces of iron, and the quality of the rails and equipment; that's what the debates are about. They call reputable companies. Never will torture be done. They also shamelessly using words to make them say the contrary to what they mean.

And the writer of the commercial newspaper who supported with the greatest zeal the interests of the Jews in the railway issue; the one who persevered the most vigorously to demonstrate the impotence of the State, in matters of public works, belonged, it was said to be in the royal mining corps. It was the same who had published, a few years earlier, the best pages ever written in support of the execution of all major public utility works by the State. What do you want? One does not become MP and minister to remain true to his convictions.

By what signs is the royalty of the Jews recognized? 29

I don't know if there will be a reversal of all this that world towards good, as there was a palinode towards the evil; but I want the sons of all before they are twenty years old these traitors, writers, members of parliament, ministers, who will have sold France to the Jews, in the bad days when we are reduced to changing our name.

Because the crime of waste and extravagance of the treasury's funds are proven. The Jews, the Jews themselves—they themselves declared that they were being given too much of a deal. beautiful, and that their delicacy did not allow them to abuse ministerial incapacity, and to accept leonine conditions.

The Jews agree to reductions of twelve years born within the duration of the lease (twenty-eight years for forty—for the Northern line would have made a small discount of one hundred eighty million, twelve times fifteen million!

They waive the clause regarding the reimbursement of Equipment after the lease expires. Here, for the path Northern iron, a second discount of forty million, otherwise more.

That is to say, the Rothschild company, in the af-doing it from the north, could have done without compromising oneself and in content with the same profits as the companies from Bordeaux, Vierzon and Avignon, which make brilliant business deals..., reducing by three to four hundred thousand lions on the figure of gas first claims.

I am asking what name to use to refer to the ministers.
guilty of a transaction conceived on such terms, that it leaves to a generous bidder the right to to give up expectations of profits of three to four hundred million on a single deal!

30 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

And I tell YOU now that the Roths- company child will not stop at this miserable figure in his generosity. I tell you that this reckless company and novice who, two years ago, applied for the privilege of ruin himself, he will persist in his foolish ventures, by despite the warnings of the Debates^ and that after having Having waived reimbursement for the equipment, she is capable-able to offer the government to reimburse him the one hundred million that the construction of the road cost to him, not asking the French government, in exchange for so many sacrifices,' that a little gratitude..., with a lease extension of about twenty years

I have just outlined a brief, but accurate, history.
plans for the concession of all railways... ,

'This was written three years before the awarding of the railway contract North. M, from Rollischiid, waived the clause for the reimbursement of the material. Mr. de Rothschild agreed to reimburse the State for all the millions that the construction of the railway cost. Mr. de Rothschild agreed to a fifty-year discount on seventy-five for the lease of the Creil to Saint-Quentin branch line; it exceeded in its generosity exceeded our expectations; and, on the day of the auction, the ac-
The units of five hundred francs rose to eight hundred, that is to say that Mr. de Rothschild, owner of forty thousand shares, it is said, was able to to realize that day a profit of twelve million for himself alone.... And the ciiaii the privilege of ruining himself, when the case involved two hundred thousand "At least two more lions to win," wrote the Journal des Débats, in November 1845, that the five hundred franc shares were still much below lewmyaleur at 0tlf^'f/*/i4l'''- And the Journal of Débats, note well, was one of the strong shareholders of the North. In what way? century and under what regime do we live, my God, may the law be to remain defenseless in the face of such incredible trickery, and that there is no They have nothing to stigmatize them but the contempt of honest people! Where are the time Colbert established the famous chamber of justice and forced the speculators And the Jews of his time to disgorge one hundred and ten million?

By what signs is the royalty of the Jews recognizable? 31 ab uno disce omnes^ We were able to see, by this rapid presentation, How are financial matters handled in these A time of political agitation and senility. It will be The same show, always and everywhere, right to the end. the current power in front of serfdom and remembers- weaving with pleasure, to better pass under the Forks- Caudines of the new feudalism.

Redemption of profit-sharing shares.

This third question is no less curious and less informative than the two preceding ones: even Folly on the one hand, and the same rapacity on the other. Mercury has lulled all the Arguses of public fortune to sleep.

The Restoration government had little affection for the bankers, who returned the favor, and that was his misfortune-hour. But this government had understood that it it would be impossible to do without the participation of the bankers in his projects of rebuilding aristocracies. Consequently, he summoned them to him and baronisa. And you had Rothschild barons and counts Lap..., as we already had Counts Pourt... and Counts Vig.... Mr. Jacques Laffitte, the friend of the little-ple, was Mr. de Yillèle's right-hand man in the matter of the conversion and in that of Haiti. The government of the Restoration was perfectly willing to do cheap public wealth to the contractors. In this respect, he was the true first cousin of the governor-current situation.

This government therefore has to build canaux in 1821 and 1822, like this one of the roads of iron, addressed the coin merchants and said to them:

"I need one hundred and twenty million, see a

3. OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

I have little trouble obtaining them, I will generously pay the service.

"First I will serve you the interest at 5 1/2 and at 6.

"Then I will reimburse you in forty-five years, by means of a depreciation premium or an-overnight stay of . 1/2 per 100 on the capital of one hundred and twenty-eight million; a bonus that will always be the same until the day of full reimbursement; so that this bonus will represent, in the final year, an interest of 50 percent of the remaining capital to be repaid. All of this, including the bonus and interest at 5 1/2 and 6, calculated, so as to equate to a net interest of 8 percent.

"I will also grant you, as a substitute-depreciation allowance, the excess of my income channels on the annuity to be paid, if it ever happens that These revenues give me an interest rate of over 8%. 100 of my capital.

I promise to deliver the channels to you on time. fixed; if I do not faithfully keep my promise, I will pay you an interest increase as compensation. from 2 percent, up to the day of delivery.

((And you, capitalists and speculators, Jews. Hol-Landes, Genevans, you will be the masters of fixing ^ se-at your leisure^ navigation rights fees on my canals; and I, the State, I, the representative and the born defender of the country's general interests, I have not-I will not have that right; I will not be able to touch these rates without your permission.

"That's not all: when I have completed-Your one hundred and twenty-eight million, capital, have been reimbursed. interest, premium, additional premium; when you are no longer for nothing in the matter..., I will give you the enjoyment

By what signs is the royalty of the Jews recognized? 33

half the revenue from all these channels; some, and the best, for ninety-nine years, and forty years for others.

This is what is called, in financial jargon, superbe affair of the canals of 1821-22.

accommodating type like those of our time graciously subscribed to the governor's proposal government: they began by borrowing five the money they lent to eight, by means of the creation-tion of one hundred and twenty-eight thousand shares of one thousand francs, representing the one hundred and twenty-eight million to be provided to the State; and they immediately bore the figure of these actions at twelve hundred francs, using a system of a bonus and a highly ingenious lottery system. The
The lottery had not yet been abolished during this reign.

That wasn't enough: it was a matter of achieving the ave-to immediately give a body, a value commercial to this possibility of right of sharing and of enjoyment that was not to begin forty-five years (starting in 1867). To do this, the compa-financial institutions, that is to say, the companies that had bid on the loan, created this fund which became so famous under the name of enjoyment shares ^ one hundred and sixty-eight thousand pieces of paper listed in at this time at one hundred and twenty or one hundred and forty francs at the Sotck exchange.

These one hundred and sixty-eight thousand shares of enjoyment therefore represent the right to share that the companies will one day have in the revenues of the channels of 1821-22.
There are actions of enjoyment attached to each canal: those of the Rhône-Rhine Canal, for which the
I 3

34 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

The sharing agreement must last ninety-nine years, are the more sought after.

However, the future of this right to share does not appear strong. brilliant today, since this future rests entirely-relation on the revenue figure of these channels, and that these canals, which have already cost the State three hundred thousand lions, and which are not finished, do not report in this at the moment two million a year, that is to say a little less than 1 percent of the capital disbursed. On the other hand On the other hand, the question of competition arises from railways, which had not been foreseen in 1821, and which does not appear likely to improve the figure of this income, which does not even amount to 1 per 100, today. So the holders of the enjoyment shares, who are mostly Genevan capitalists, are frightened by the prospect of these not very reassuring eventualities. rantes; and they naturally desired to detach the rea-picturesque language. Consequently, they demanded that the government immediately buy back their right of future sharing in the canals of 1821-22, a right whose value is entirely problematic, and whose exercise should only begin to run in twenty-two years old.

Their demands were very modest, following the use: the Genevan capitalists, bearers of the ac-enjoyment rights, they asked for forty million of these one hundred and sixty-eight thousand scraps of paper which, at the current stock market price > would barely be worth it half; and note that this course is supported by Taggiotage.

Financial companies, bidders for the loan, took charge in this circumstance of They are the ones who give a hand to the Genevan capitalists. which inspired the government to propose buyback position.

By what signs is the royalty of the Jews recognized? 35

Repelled with losses in 1842, the companies financial institutions, acting in the interest of Geneva, are re-came to the attack in 1843. To force the resistance of the government, they have put their formidable right to change the rates, a right which had been given to them granted by the financial law of 1822. They have im-submitted to the government an order dated... April 17 (1843) which increased tenfold the prices of con- timber construction, and tripled that of coal on the canal from the Rhône to the Rhine.

It was an admirably orchestrated scheme. The reason- the changes that capitalists were making by acting in this way Genevans and their loyal servants, gentlemen of the com-financial companies, was very logical and very simple. They were saying to each other:

((Here is an order that eliminates trade) construction timber between Germany and Switzerland and France; which closes the Mulhouse market to coal mines of Saône-et-Loire and Saint-Étienne, already excluded from the Paris market by the price increases of the Loing canal, privately owned. This The order will cause an uproar in all the eastern departments, which will affect us very little, those of us who are not French. Immediately, all and unite to have the order overturned. He will be written from all sides that it is impossible to support the longer the tyranny of financial companies censures, and that we must break free from them at all costs. At all Price is precisely our business; this is where We are waiting for the French government, and that we We offer him his ransom for forty million. Qua- Forty million is good to have! We don't know what can happen to our actions of enjoyment in twenty-two years from now, while we know perfectly- the fact that there are magnificent profits today to be carried out on the railways. With these forty millions that the French government will give us We will speculate on the concessions of the best lines; with these forty million, we Let's lay the tracks and wagons on the roads. that a generous administration will deliver to us all ready. Brave government, which had already taken charge free of all land acquisitions and all the earthworks, and which will eventually supply the same price the rails and the equipment, while we others Genevans, who haven't spent a penny, we we will receive 25 percent interest on a capital "Purely imaginary!"

36 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Our ministers, as one might expect, have not had beware of throwing yourself across the path of such a combination wonderfully fabricated; they yielded to the demands financial companies; they had the courage to to propose to the chambers, in 1843, the repurchase of the aff^etions of enjoyment, at the imposed price of forty million.

Unfortunately, the attention of the elective chamber had been awakened by the alarm cries of the press, and especially by those of the writers of the Phalange and the National, the only ones, we have said, who had remained loyal to the cause of taxpayers,

By what signs is the royalty of the Jews recognized? 37 amidst this rampant squandering of treasury funds The elected chamber, enlightened by the protests vigorous from Messrs. Schutzenberger, Dupin aîné and Billault vetoed the proposal; but it was reproduced in the following session, and that's understandable. The Genevan is tenacious and doesn't give up for a

The order of April 17th has been repealed.

During the debates in this case, I admired the at-The grieving attitude of the Minister of Finance. The in-wealthy statesman, who had declared, in 1838, that the resistance of financial companies to the wishes government and trade was a real ca-public friendship once again exposed the miseries of the situation of power in the face of the demands of bankers. Mr. Lacave-Laplagne, in a sudden burst of fervor In his zeal for government, he once forgot himself... to the point of severely indicting Imperie of ministers of the Restoration, guilty of having alienated to financial companies the inalienable rights of State in the canal issue. Risum teneatis!
Mr. Lacave-Laplagne, a member of the cabinet who has abandoned for six years, to all companies financial institutions of Judah, London, and Geneva, all the kingdom's railway lines; Mr. Lacave-Laplagne, working in collusion with his colleagues to ensure that the major banks have a monopoly on transport of France, and deploring the weakness of its predecessors ceasers of the Restoration!

But what to say about this impotent government that going on endlessly repeating its eternal refrain of misery and of a shortage of funds, to excuse his laziness, and

38 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

who seems to eagerly seize every opportunity to do plundering the public fortune for all the lynxes from the country and elsewhere?

The treasury is empty, and the government chooses, in the construction of railways, the only work that They cost money and forbid themselves from doing work that generates income!

The treasury is empty, and the government is proposing to gifting forty million to speculators foreigners, to buy back from them a right of which these spec-
The authors will only be able to enjoy their rights in twenty-two years, and whose
The value is quite problematic.

And these forty million can be used for the installation of these rails and the supply of this equipment, including the The expense so greatly frightened the government that it better to throw more than half a billion into the water, than to take it upon himself to bear the cost.

tenth and even a fifth, the capital of the
A 5 percent annuity, with a capital of three billion. The
The outcome of the operation is certain, and the government Don't dare try it!

And why doesn't he dare try it? Ah! Here's the
The reason for his timidity: Reducing the annuity is imposing capital. However, under the system of silver feudalism, Money must be free from all taxes, just like land.
of the lord under the system of noble feudalism.
This is why the French government doesn't dare no longer touch the annuity than the English government on the ground.

The three ministerial proposals above re-fully reveal the state of affairs, the omnipotence
The Jews and the prostration of power. I will say more later

By what signs can the innocence of the Jews be recognized? 39 the means of seizing power against his will from his assershameful screwing, and forcing him to raise his head.

But before we finish, let's mention a few proper names, so that we may know to which masters our country obeys.
The latest law on sugars, disastrous for sugar beetroot, disastrous for colonial sugar, for our power-maritime activity and the trade of our ports; the last-
The latest law on sugars could have no other effect than to exclusively favor the interests of the clique refiners. The sugar refinery is a high a parasitic industry that counts among its leaders men with names like: Périer, Delessert, and so many others.
Mr. d'Argout, the Minister of Finance, brought one day at the podium, the details of the sacrifices that prosperity requires The refiners imposed on France. He was question of a twenty million bonus paid in one only one year, in 1832, I believe, to the gentlemen of the raffmeurs, as a drawback, that is to say, as a refund of the tax levied on raw sugar upon entry. Since it was in the process, Mr. d'Argout should have told us-to take what the prosperity of the Anzin factories, pro-
The property of the Périer house had also cost France.
The last law on sugars was passed under the in-influence of the actions of a Swiss refinery banker Originally, a devoted conservative, a philanthropist Protestant who has articles written in newspapers that he balance, that misery is the fatal lot of the masses, and that the writers who demand for all workers a Sufficient remuneration has a deranged brain. The in-the interest of France's maritime and colonial power sugars, as the interest of our power continental yielded to that of the ironmasters and coal mine owners, in the matter of the Belgian union.

^0 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

The concessionaire of the Northern Railway is approaching shovels Baron Rothschild, the king of finance, a Jewish man made a baron by a most Christian king.

The one on the road from Avignon to Marseille, Rothschild or Talabot; - from Alais to Nîmes, Rothschild; - from Versailles, right bank, Rothschild; - of Saint-Germain, Rothschild; - ^ of Saint-Quentin, Rothschild; - of Versailles, left bank, Fould; - from Rouen to Paris, Anglo-French; - from Tours to Bordeaux, English; - From Orléans to Paris, from Orléans to Vierzon, the coalition from all nations, mostly Jews and Genevans.

One-third of the 5 percent annuity is in Geneva; and that is That is why, I repeat, it is inviolable and sacred.

Thus, high finance, cosmopolitan banking do-mine everything; everywhere the interests of the Jews are prominent.

Thus the enormous profits taken from wealth French, on the work of the plowman and the craftsman French, do not even fully benefit spec-French growers.

When the victorious emigration took its, in 1815, its revenge for 1793, and struck revolutionary France of a revolution indemnity of one billion, there was at least one compensation for the sacrifice: firstly the France had forcibly seized the property of the émigrés;

Compensation was owed to them. Then the inter-said that the burden on national assets was lifted, and the the awareness of the holders was reassured; which meant that the real estate prices immediately rose by va-

By what signs is the royalty of the Jews recognized? ^1

their, and that the amount of compensation was reduced all the more so.

lution, when the current government distributed to them the railway raids; and the legislators of 1842 were far more magnificent towards the Jews than those of 1825 towards the émigrés, since on the the only line in the North they left to the concessionaire Half a billion to be won.

Calculate the hundreds of millions that the lines at Building more will cost the treasury, add to the sum what the government could have earned if it had kept for himself the profits he had given up to cosmopolitan speculation will lead you to figures fabulous.

Who pays all these hundreds of bonuses through speculation? millions? ■ – The worker, the people.

Who suffers from the ignorance and cowardice of those in power? – The people.

But what are they doing, I ask you, to these English people? to these Genevans, to these Jews, to all these foreigners, that Is France being bled dry?

Yet God knows how easy the solution was of each of these financial questions, sugars, conversion, canals and railways, and how many copies They were there to show the way forward.

For the conversion, it was a matter of daring, and nothing of plus. For canals and railways, there was the theory of the exclusive monopoly of the State, theory justified by the example of the United States and Belgium and of France itself.

I want to demonstrate, at the end of this volume, that the government, by seizing the monopoly on sales and the manufacture of sugar, with prior compensation, can halve the price of this commodity; by to double or triple consumption; to double or to triple the tax revenue. And I would add, from that moment on, that this solution is the only one that can reconcile the immense national political interests and political Christians involved in the issue.

^2 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

But when an entire nation has reached that point to this degree of intellectual blindness, that his ministers bills like the ones I just outlined, No demonstration is easy. It requires skillful precautions and long detours to bring in the truth in sick minds; and it is almost Being too right is just as dangerous as being wrong.

with them.

So, for the moment, I fear I might be too right. against my country, if I were to get to the heart of these issues of railways, conversions, and other things. I know although there is no specious objection against the conversion, against the granting of the monopoly of canals and railways to the State; I also know that the country would gratefully accept a law on the sugars which would begin by bringing an immense re-reduction in the price of the commodity, at the same time than a significant increase in treasury revenues.
But there are better arguments than those against mono-State pole: there are prejudices; there is the stupidity of people and their fanatical ignorance, and bad faith of those who lead him and shout at him that he is less It's dangerous to let yourself be poisoned by the industry.

What are the signs that distinguish Jewish royalty? UZ anaicliique, than to increase the means of influence of power. There is also the cowardice of Authority, which trembles under the iron fist of the wealthy merchant deputies and certified poisoners who vote, this self-a state that dares not say to the people: "Our cause is the Likewise: let us rise up and march against the enemy common.))

Finally, there would still be, against the consequences of-statements regarding the sugar monopoly, this objection, all-powerful and terrible among us, that would be too much Beautiful! For I want to increase from sixty to four-twenty million, mind you, the tax revenue sugar and, as a consequence, eliminate the tax on salt. So find, in this country, sensible people who want to take such utopias seriously!

Sensible people are those who thought, in 1843, that Mr. de Rothschild was requesting the privilege of ruining himself.
We, who did not fear such a catastrophe,
And we explained why we were utopians.
Rioters, madmen. Yet here are these u-tracks, which these obscure chatterers have won at the France, just for the Northern Railway alone, a savings of at least three hundred million, three to take from France, and which we have kept for her.

So, as I was saying, the French people abhor...
Grand and beautiful in terms of financial reforms or social. His representatives, it is true, have misled him. have swum so far with such caution, making the improvements that it's not his fault if all changes are too
The sudden change in regime frightens him. The old buildings The patched-up buildings suit him better than the new ones. He will-

44 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

This blind people will learn that anyone wants to...
to make the traders who are bleeding him dry; he will, on the other hand, be inflamed with a fine zeal for scraps of one hundred crowns, applied to the emoluments already insufficient on the part of the officer or judge. I know one of the Colberts of our time, a high-level economist school, which led to him becoming Minister of Finance.

However, these fatal prejudices, this distrust of the power-see that the merchants actively maintain in the mind of the masses, through their lying press, are the most terrible obstacles to the spirit of progress.
I say that it is impossible to achieve reform any kind, financial or political, somewhat important, as long as the power and the people They will regard each other as enemies.

That's why I want to try to demonstrate to power and to the people the danger and absurdity of their mutual distrust, before addressing the discussion of no political or financial nature. When I will have established, in all its obviousness, this truth palpable, that VĖtaty is us there - that its interests and his purse is ours; - ■ that the champions of the power and those of the people are friendly troops who they fight in the darkness; - that feudalism
The financial sector alone benefits from these collisions; - 'so it
It will be easy for me to arrive at proof of legitimacy. of the government monopoly that will kill feudalism financial. And from this principle will follow of their own accord numerous consequences, fruitful in terms of solutions happy for all the questions of the time; and These solutions will also adapt easily to the issue sugars, as well as those from canals, rents, and

By what signs is the royalty of the Jews recognized? U5 customs unions, as well as all financial matters wombs, in short, which carry in their wombs the fate of national liberties, however they may seem, at

At first glance, they appear to be filled with nothing but numbers.

I spoke of the omnipotence of the silver feudal system. and the vassalage of power. Let us now examine the causes that led to this shameful situation: I I want to talk about the split that exists between the monarchy and the people.

^6 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

CHAPTER II.

The split between royalty and the people. – Origin of the deganoi popular. – Theory of the g;ouTerneuiant-ulere.

It is easy to incite a people to revenge ignorant and suffering; the feeling of hatred against royalty is generally more tenacious in the heart populations that love. Diderot wrote that The history of kings was the martyrology of nations and the leaders of the people, who knew Diderot and who did not know the story, repeated to this people, the oracles of the fiery encyclopedist. After Diderot was followed by economists, who published that governments were the born enemies of the people.
The suffering people are always willing to consider like his friends, all those who want to change the The regime under which he lives. The people had adopted, from the outset before '89, this fatal doctrine and, from what the gougovernments were the born enemies of the people, he had logically concluded that the people are all the more I'm glad that government action is weaker there that the power is more disarmed.

If the people could read into their own condition, in the daily realities of his working life, he would savewould pay today what his faith in sem-blabbery and dogmas.

These dogmas constitute what is called the theory

ENGLAND. U1

has done more harm to France than all the setbacks and all the catastrophes that have befallen it in these five-how many years.

It is important to investigate the origin of this heresy.

The government-ulcer theory is English. birth, since it comes from economists. The An-England is the home of all false principles, of all revolutions, all heresies.

Let's look at the role this power plays in the drama of modern history, and let us try to characterize-to reduce its harmful influence.

England.

England is the impure Babel, is the great boutique oii are prepared and sold with equal succ- These doctrines and poisonous drugs: and the mind of fire that burns the Red Skins, and the opium that poisons the Chinese, and the principles that make to arm citizens against citizens, peoples against few-Ples, races against races.

The heresy of the ulcer-government going straight to the abolition of the monarchy, the aristocracy of blood, which reigned and ruled in England, had an interest powerful enough for it to become firmly established in the kingdom of France, where hatred of England was as a hereditary tradition of the old monarch-Shit. So this theory was perfectly successful among us. English economists, who produce it-first sat under the revered patronage of their false science, she went on to work with the French encyclopedists

Ù8 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

The philosophers of the last century, affiliated with this sect, gave it the polish and brilliance of their style, and They managed to get her in, through a barrage of epigrams, in the current currency of the ideas of the time.

When this theory had had its final say and It was done on January 21st, one could believe that she had was killed by the experience at the same time as the royalty. Unfortunately, the unpopularity of the government The Restoration government allowed the liberal school-rale d'exhume l'hérésie mortel des ruines de 93, and to rehabilitate her in the eyes of a generous nation, impatient to get rid of a power that reminds her of-

The ulcer-like government thus became entrenched once again in people's minds, thanks to a commendable sentiment of national pride. French economists, liberals raux, the philanthropists subservient to the English idea like the encyclopedists, of whom they were only the bad tail, helped in the ravages of evil by pro-paging their absurd laissez-faire doctrine which tended to the annihilation of authority. Radical writers Caux, who rail against all powers, advance The daily work of demolition. The fleeting success of the Saint-Simonian doctrine, which closely followed the revolution of 1830 and which tried to rehabilitate the power, did not even manage to stop it for a moment the shift in public opinion.

And all those people worked so well with their voices and from the pen, that public opinion is completely misled today on the account of power. Perhaps we should even go and search the archives figures of pure radicalism, to find some reasonable ideas about the providential mission of government. The French people and their representatives have reached this degree of blindness, that they adopt-tempts the country with a fatal, but repressive, proposal of the influence of the central authority, in preference to the A useful and national proposal, but one that is susceptible to to serve the interests of the government. By Messrs. Adam Smi', Jean-Baptiste Say and their successors, the the function of power in the State has been assimilated to that of the cat in the private house. It has been written that the gou-government was a necessary evil, an enemy that one was forced to maintain, in order to get rid of another Anarchy is a more dangerous enemy. The comparison is lame, because the Dornestic animal has been a lot He was treated better than the power. They didn't take away his freedom nor its claws, that is to say its means of action: while the power today can neither defend itself to defend, nor to defend the people.

ENGLAND. 49

English politics has had no more auxiliaries devoted, more disastrous to our national interests than these French economists, copyists and plagiarists of Malthus; who have only ever written in favor of the privileged of the Birth and fate. Bonaparte knew the secret ties who united the cause of England with that of the ideologues, and he expelled them from the Institute as unworthy. It was Mr. Guizot, the Protestant, who restored to

It was in order; Mr. Guizot had belonged to the Madame de Staël's coterie; Mr. Guizot is the man of England and the Entente Cordiale. We are of his religion before being of his country.

England, which has lived under prohibition for so long—1 4

50 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

During the time she was able to live through it, she soon understood that the adoption of this system by other European states Peasants would inevitably create competition for him deadly and would indefinitely close the market to him these states. So she changed the battery, and in Hope to ruin all the industries in the region When confronted by her rivals, she began shouting: Down with protection! Down with customs! A league was immediately formed in France to support the interests of the monopoly and Glas. We see it right now in Tœuvre.

These English lords are, it must be admitted, of very high rank. bitter and very happy artisans of discord, that never the seed of evil that they have sown on a chance will inevitably bear fruit in its time. and that always, on the contrary, the spirit of vertigo of nations that they are driving to their ruin, come to the aid of Their treachery! With an idea of philanthropy that they They were careful not to apply it in their own country, Ireland. where the exploitation of the worker has taken on the character of the most atrocious barbarity, they set fire to Saint-Domingue provoked the extermination of the white race They killed our maritime power. Well, they have nine-tenths of them were accomplices in this crime. of the inhabitants of France, and in number, the most-part of the publicists and renowned speakers. They have had to justify the alarms of absolute governments and keep them armed for twenty-five years against us, the First, the demagogues' enemies, then the conquests formidable of this leader whose insatiable ambition fati— They had the victory. From now on, if they need it, they will not have, to resurrect these terrors of Europe absolutist, than to point the finger at the alar— sovereigns denied, these gigantic fortifications, the folly of The current government has dishonored the lords of Paris: ungrateful bastions erected against the people by those who

ENGLAND. 51

1. The amount of money these fortifications cost, applied to the increase in our naval forces, and in armament of our maritime citadels, since England is our only enemy, the only one against which we must practice repetitions in case of new conflicts calf. But to turn the front of these ramparts towards our allies natural, to the states of continental Europe; but of order the armament of these fortifications in full peace, the day after the day when the tri- than ever before the chances of maintaining this peace were no longer numerous; and wanting to persuade the nation that the fortifications of the capital did not threaten a hundred that the foreigner, it is too much to rely also on the Public credulity. I'm going back to England.

With another word, that of independence ^ the Angle-Earth has torn half of the new world from the Spanish monarchy, ruled by kings of noble lineage French, our inseparable allies. Since the day of the separation between the colonies and the metropolis, between Mexico, Lima and Madrid, the English aristocracy reigns in fact, through smuggling and anarchy in Mexico, in Peru, in Buenos Aires. She no longer has to detach from Spain in America, the magnificent colony of Cuba. It is actively pushing for this goal through its emissaries. and its consuls, and Cuba will one day share the fate of Saint-Domingue. Guadeloupe and Martinique, our the last possessions of the Antilles, are worked in this moment, it is said, by the same seeds of revolt.

|52 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

And how would the wealthy Spanish colony hold out? she, when the metropolis itself once saw itself on the verge of capitulating, of surrendering unconditionally to Fan-England, that is to say, to accept a trade treaty with this power. Hasn't England im- planted its mercantile suckers in the for ten years within the unfortunate peninsula? its goods Transported by contraband, do they not circulate? freely from the Pyrenees to Gibraltar under the protection of this same anarchy, which she always calls the Name of freedom? Wasn't it she who settled the in- surges from La Granja, and long supplied with expenses personal details of this regent who bombarded Barcelona? She was negotiating a cotton treaty with Espartero, while she was negotiating with Santa Anna the acquisition- California's tion? After emancipating America- than the south and destroyed the maritime power of the East pagne, all that remained for England to complete more deadly and more poisonous than his hatred! Yes, A hundred times more deadly... Look at Portugal from the Methuen's treatise!

Now, understand the madness of our liberal publicists and radicals of today. King Louis-Philippe finds opportunity to place one of his sons on the steps of the throne of Spain, he seized it, without worrying about the protests from the English chancellery. The alliance of a French prince with a Spanish infanta was the surest way to paralyze this influence-British which weighs so disastrously on the pros-Perity of the Peninsula. Here are all our newspapers, and the more patriotic, who begin to join in the chorus with the

ENGLAND. 53

paid insulters from the Morning-Chronicle and the Times to accuse of recklessness and insatiable ambition current government.

But France, by accepting absurd theories English economists, is more guilty than the unfortunate Spain; for she does not have, like this one the excuse of his poverty and ignorance. There are eight For centuries France battled with Great Britain.
Brittany; and perhaps there is no such thing as in its history a single catastrophe that she does not have the right to attribute to the efforts and machinations of his disloyal enemy My. France knows there is a fundamental incompatibility. of principles and interests between her and England. The France aspires to moral unity, to legislative unity as to the territorial unit; it is Catholic in religion as in politics: that's its tendency under all his strong governments, under Richelieu, under Louis XIV, as under Napoleon. England, however, aims at fragmentation, because it lives off the tearing apart elements of the globe; it is Protestant and schismatic In short: Individualism and Protestantism are one and the same.
She doesn't understand why someone would dedicate themselves to the service of humanity, like France, when we can ex-to exploit; she only resigns herself to doing a little good that in the hope that a worse evil will result; té-less the emancipation of the black race. France, at On the contrary, in its greatest errors, it seems to be guilty only of an excess of devotion to the
The cause of the people. You will find some admirable pages. and acts of sublime charity, alongside atrocities odious in the history of terror. Many of these bloodthirsty legislators who referred back to their judge

50 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALISM.

tiaturel tSLUi of innocent defendants, firmly believed to the sanctity of their work. And not one of those drinkers of blood, like the supporters of absolutism the ap-pellent, would not have dared to formulate these apologies coldly barbarians, coldly inhuman, including the Malthus and The Jean-Baptiste Says were not afraid to dishonor Their writings: That there is no place for the poor in banquet of life, strictly speaking, society owes nothing to its members... Ob! Yes, if it were true that The good and bad principles were arguing over the empire of this world, the first would be personified in the France, second only to England. The English are so Indeed, the scourge of God, that God raise up virgins enthusiastic about driving him out of France, as he He did it to drive out Attila. That's why there's hatred. France's national policy for Great Britain is legitimate and holy. It is the hatred of the day-bird for the night bird. I don't despise the aristocracy. English, like French, but as a Christian as a man.

And not a noble heart will reproach me for... to let oneself be carried away here by stupid inspirations of a narrow and barbaric nationalism... because there has been England, three million and more Charlie Hebdo supporters who... also mercilessly condemn the attacks whose politics that their government has been found guilty of- towards humanity, and who demand the ruin of this an impious government, - because the judgment that

* There are two poetic dates in French history to mark the end The Middle Ages: The Miracle of the Virgin of Nanterre, driving away the Huns of Paris; that of the Virgin of Domremy, driving the English out France.

ENGLAND. 55

Our ancestors pronounced it so long before us, is written by all points of the globe on the ruins of cities were ransacked, in Nanjing as in Copenhagen, in Saint-Jean d'Acre as in Barcelona. I detest the aris-English tocracy, because one of its members, one of our great modern poets, also dedicated it to the execution creation of posterity; because there is finally in the only Ireland, seven million starving people who curse it

Yes, England is in this situation of-terrifying, that she cannot forget a moment of tor-to kill other states of the globe, without exposing oneself to perishing.
England is doomed to die from the peace united-Verselle at a given time, because peace at The others are waging war in her own country. This too is not
Not declamation, but pure truth.

Because England, once again, lives off mercantilelism and the commercial exploitation of all the peoples. It alone produces manufactured goods enough to supply twice the five parties of the world. Therefore, any foreign producer is her enemy. 11 She must therefore try to understand-sea developments in all nations wealth and labor, those of the manufacturing industry especially, since these developments tend toso much so as to wrest from him his monopoly and to create from him deadly competition. The best way to pre-To cause such a disaster is to prolong the minority in-industrial of nations and to maintain within these nations a permanent hotbed of war and anarchy.
She does it. The monopoly on the supply of globe makes wealth available in its trading posts pro-

56 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

digious; she uses it conscientiously to sub-
To spread unrest and revolutions everywhere. The war Monopoly feeds, and monopoly feeds war.
Whether war or monopoly ends, the colossus of English power, a veritable golden colossus at the feet of mud, collapses at the same instant. Therein lies the whole a secret of British politics, if there is one.
The Englishman obeys the instincts of his nature and the exi-agencies of its position; it is a people of prey, like I said, who is forced to kill to live, and to whom he
It would be utterly absurd to go and ask for a loyal and generous politics, because that would be him requesting suicide. Great Britain's policy Tagne must be ruthless, like hunger its mobile, and it's justice to be done to the bloodthirsty bastards government bodies that direct the destiny of this state, that they admirably understand the needs of their Fatherland! Find me a statesman of this time, I'm not talking about France, where it's no longer made, but in Russia, in Austria, who can even come close to their Sir Robert Peel.

to isolate themselves from the scourge and to quarantine these hungry buccaneers.

Moreover, the English aristocracy makes no secret of itself. of its governmental necessities. The aristocratic English cracy, on the contrary, displays the sole characteristic of A size befitting his infernal policy, if admirably described by the author of Paradise Lost ^ an English poet. This policy is insolence and the greed of Rome combined with the treacherous cruelty of Carthage. She doesn't bother to find out what the EU will say.

ENGLAND. 57

rope of his murders and plundering. He is accused British policy is cunning; it's cynicism. rather than what we should say. There are only the predestined and the fools who have the right to speak of the Albion's perfidy.

The Danish fleet hinders the freedom of movement England's presence in the Baltic: an admiral and Glais burns the Copenhagen fleet, it's still a less maritime power.

England never waits for a declaration of war to attack French or Spanish ships. He necessary, for the realization of its land-grabbing projects of universal trade, the possession of all the detraits, from all the points that command the major global trade routes; it takes Gibraltar away from Spain, Malta and Mauritius to France, Cape Town and Ceylon, to the Dutch, Aden on the Red Sea to Arabs; and she makes, from these stolen possessions, citadimpregnable walls which first give the empire of the sea to its fleets, and which then become so many homes contraband, hence the English goods unmarked will be the neighboring continents. And woe to the ships. friendly states that would claim to protect their industrynational sorting against British smuggling, they will be sunk without mercy*.

The Viceroy of Egypt, I said, strengthened by the support of the the French government of the Restoration, had founded some semblance of a state, of maritime power. It had freed the road to Mecca from incursions of the desert Arab, and the populations of Syria the bloody oppression of the Turks. But the restoration—the order wherever it may be, but the resurrection of a people, are death threats to the interests English. Then come the days of July which cut through short of the anti-British policy of the Restoration. So the London cabinet is taking advantage of the revolutionary embarrassments the revolutionaries and pusillanimity of the French cabinet to destroy the civilizing work of Muhammad Ali. An English fleet bombards Beirut and Saint John Acre, within sight of our impassive squadrons. The revolt erupts on all sides in the states of the viceroy, who, Reduced to mercy and betrayed by his allies, he abandons his conquests and its fleet; and the Christian populations from Lebanon, torn from the centuries-old protection of the France, are returned to the abuses of the Turkish pashas and to the Albanian sword. That is ruthless self-interest. of the British aristocracy who demand that it be So. English businesses don't want the keys of the Isthmus of Suez, whose possession he covets exclusive, be in the hands of a powerful sovereign. And And what good are so many reasons? Alexan's fleet-drie was hindering England in the Mediterranean, as Copenhagen's was hindering it in the Baltic; it got rid of it.

* Case of the Spanish brig el Rayo, 1844.

The prosperity of Lahore, the work of another Mehemet-Ali, Rundjet-Sing, lasted even less than that from Egypt. The East India Company knows that its vast estates, populated by their one hundred and fifty millions of slaves will escape him from the day when the Misery and anarchy will cease to reign there, and it will not She doesn't want to suffer from a bad example in her eyes. She seized the Rundjet-Sing states.

ENGLAND. 59

On the other side of the Atlantic, in the strait of two Americas, a second isthmus destined, like that of Suez, to one day serve as the main route of maritime communication between the inhabitants of the two major divisions of the globe. Consequently, the Angle-land had to work to secure possession of the isthmus American. Back when Spain was mistress of South America, England had been granted by this power the right to cut wood on a isolated point on the coast. She founded on this point, at Ba-Lise, a small establishment. Then, when the colony Spanish, freed from the yoke of the mother country, prayed showing her teeth, that she held her rights from previous government, and which had no reason to deal with the new government. England has acquired since then, moreover, undeniable rights to the possession of Balise and the entire Mosqui coast-tos. An august sovereign of the country sold him the Ownership by notarial deed. We are mistaken when We imagine that England seized by the cunning and by the violence of all the states that it She has them in all five parts of the world, she has them all If purchased privately, ask the sellers instead; The proof is that she pays life annuities to a multitude of Indian rulers who ceded their rights, starting with the Great Mughal, the successor-Sister of Aureng-Zeb. Moreover, from wherever He derives his rights to the Isthmus of Panama from this She won't be the one embarrassed to make them go-dormouse. It had once blocked the port of Saint-Jean from Nicaragua. Following the invariable rules of poetry

60 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

English tick, the blockade of the port is the first act of the drama that ends with the permanent occupation of the country.

The English aristocracy doesn't even need to to justify these spoliations and injustices in Public opinion. The opinion of its citizens is for her. The English of all classes are per-convicted that England has a right of escheat on all the seas and on every continent. Navigators had discovered in recent years, on the coast eastern Africa, an island of Ichaboe, where lay a layer of powerful fertilizer deposited there by the birds of the sea from the antediluvian era. As soon as the days-English nationals to prescribe to their government to get their hands on the precious deposit. The Sun writes: England must not allow other nations to... to protect this island if we do not take possession of it, Others will seize it.

Loyalty and integrity are meaningless words in the political language of the lords; fidelity to treaties It is deception, treason is skill. England is in peace with Russia, and the English provide weapons and gunpowder to the Circassians for warfare against Russia. France and England were tight the knots of the cordial agreement there but while the The sovereigns of the two states feasted, visited each other, the Rader, inciting Morocco against France, seek to incite the blacks of our Antilles, and raise their Reverend Pritchards to bark at us. The Angle—the earth is at peace with unfortunate Spain; it is she, however, who settles the score with the leader of the insurrection of

ENGLAND. 61

La Granja, which gives Espartero the four million of the networks he needs to go and bomb Barcelone, Barcelona, the industrial capital of Spain—gne, this rebellious city which is the cause of the Peninsula is not yet subjugated to England by another Treaty of Méthuen, a cotton treaty. Périssé Barcelone!

The English, forced to withdraw from Madrid during this war of independence which saved Great Britain Brittany, from its ruin, burned the most beautiful of factories in the city, to bid him farewell. He The English industry has to survive!

I am not aware that any other nation has exerted pressure on the world of a weight as overwhelming as the nation and clay, may have cost humanity so many tears, may have motivated so many accusations against God's justice. The Norman, the fiercest of all the barbarians, has makes people believe in the existence of the ogre. Continental Europe—tale of the middle age was not far from taking the English civil wars for the convulsions^ of a damned people. The general belief was in the 15th century, that only God could do anything against this brood of Satan. One of the greatest kings of England, the same one who endowed his country with a religion, and who made himself pope, King Henry VIII took five women and had three of them murdered by hand of the executioner. The ordered religious persecutions by the Virgin Elizabeth and by the Puritan Cromwell, surpass in refinements of atrocious cruelty all that that the history of the emperors of Rome and Istanbul had left us with something more edifying in its genre. A of the most honest writers in Great Britain,

62 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Malthus, frightened by the problem of exuberance population, positively declares that society can To deny the child the right to live. His followers will They go further and develop his thesis. They ask in to the mothers who have served their country well, in im-grinding the fruit of their entrails; they want one deposits the remains of the tender victims in sumpkiller patriotic cemeteries, where these laced-Monians may come to breathe the soul of their children In the scent of roses!... This bonus theory to infanticide, achieved some successes near the population of the manufacturing districts of England.

Many mothers in those countries breastfeed their children with laudanum, day to get rid of their unwelcome caresses, and the procedure, it is claimed, It works wonderfully. Calming potions are available.
according to formula y, all prepared by pharmacists from across the Channel.

Let our French economists do their thing, and they'll... will soon arrive at similar theories. It is not said Not a foolish thing in England goes unheard. in our country.

This misery of the English proletariat, crammed into The industrial penal colonies, therefore, are truly awful, truly horrible, that she manages to extinguish even in the
The heart of a woman, the feeling of maternal love?
– Oh yes, very dreadful, very horrible; listen closely to Dickens' touching stories... But what can you do?
For you, it must be this way for a Lord of An-England wears on her finger, in a pu- ceremony republic, a million-dollar diamond, and that all those of his caste might cry out in a fit of frenzy Proud: The vine does not grow in England, and We drink the wine of all nations!

ENGLAND. 63

The wine of all nations, that's true; and also the blood and sweat of the English nation, my lords, for It is the misery of your vassals that makes your wealth; It is their overcrowding in the cities that increases the price of all food items that only you produce it miserably, and which decreases through competition arms the price of all the luxury items that only you Consume, my lords! This is for you alone, my lords! that the child is tied up every day, for sixteen hours, at the service of a machine with iron lungs who never tires; tied up for sixteen hours!... one child, a poor human creature for whom his Weakness should inspire pity! This is for you, half-lords, that the foreman's whip is attentive to correcting

The suffering of these unfortunate people is so intense, that they once softened Lord Ashley's heart, a pious man. Lord Ashley interceded with his colleagues to obtain a law that would reduce by two hours of child labor in factories.

It was simply asking England that it signed his death warrant. Lord Ashley's motion was rejected based on a very sensible speech by Sir Robert Peel, the prime minister, who demonstrated conclusively that the slightest sign of pity, the slightest alleviating the child's suffering, would infallibly put England on the brink of its downfall. The speaker was right, the machine is the heart from England, and this machine cannot cease to beat for a single instant without the asphyxiation of the State what followed. The destinies of Great Britain did not never hanging by a thread.

64 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Moreover, no speaker in this debate considered to deny the torture the child suffered in the factories. That wasn't the important thing.

The English lords, following the example of the patricians of Rome, have recently removed the small a crop that required too many workers, and they replaced it through large-scale farming, meadows, and pastures: Pascua, jMSCua... The Marquess of Statford drove out his estates twenty thousand peasants who found there to live, and replaced them with flocks of sheep which cost less in housing fees and which are more economical carry more. This system was adopted with enthusiasm, by a large number of lords and by the economists, net income supporters, has painfully increased the misery of the manufacturing classes, by rejecting in the cities of the masses of rural workers who are came to offer their work at a discount, in competition with industrialists. But the measure increased the revenues of large landowners, by reducing their expenses. That was the main point. What did it matter after that the paving stone cities are trampled by a few thousand dead More hunger?

What religious men these lords were!... and zealous! propagators of the Bible, who would believe they were offending God to work on Sundays, and who do not suffer that one mistreats the Lord's creatures, the horses, by clay declares inviolable, belongs to the aristocracytie, and that the children who work sixteen hours

ENGLAND. 65

per day in the factories are not blood noble. It is forbidden to strike a horse in England.
land, but you can kill a man with your fists;
Even the newspapers announce these killings in advance.

The miners of Newcastle County were weary, the other year, working night and day to enrich their masters, ungrateful people who do not leave them even enough to live on in return for their hardships; they had the audacity to ask, like the workers from Lyon, to live by working, that is to say that they demanded a pay raise. The claim-tion was strange, anarchic above all. The marquis from Londonderry, outraged by such impudence, ful-Mina immediately issued a paternal decree that forbade all the retailers of its towns and villages, nothing sell to the insurgents until they returned in the assignment.

Ah! How well Voltaire and Montesquieu knew this what they did when they went to England to to see free men M II there is only this Great-Protestant Brittany to produce Hudson-Lowe and philanthropic masters who forbid their serfs drink and eat it!

And it is hoped that these lords, so harsh, so impioustolerable to those of their nation, will relax for foreigners, with their infernal selfishness. Madness! Deceip-tion! But open your eyes to the daylight, And look:

'On July 1846, Hussar Frederick John White died by the fatal effects of a cruel and barbaric flogging he received on 15 days ago, last day in the cavalry barracks at Heston.

(Jury's verdict.)

5

66 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

England bought tea from China every year for enormous sums. The trade of the to offset this cash expenditure. She found this precious means of exchange in opium. But the opium is a poison, and the emperor of China prohibits at the entrance to his states the poisonous commodity. But certainly, prohibition was no longer legitimate, nor more holy; but the emperor's edict dealt a terrible blow. vulnerable to the interests of the East India Company. The An-England has armed itself to defend the interests of its merchants; she subdued the Emperor, who wanted to save his people from poison, to choose between this poison and the destruction of all his cities. The emperor has receives an annual tribute of thirty million; but these thirty million did not account for the company East India Company. Then the cities of the celestial empire were burned, and opium triumphed. Of all the nations of Europe that call themselves Christian, not one did not protest through the voice of its sovereigns against this appalling abuse of the right of the strongest; the chief Even Christendom itself remained silent. There is It has been a long time since the God of the Gospel has had any life. Cairo here below! The Vicar of Christ is an old man who borrows from the Jews, who protests against the she-mins of iron and who gives his blessing to the executioners of Catholic Poland.

However, these same Christians dispatch each year towards China of zealous missionaries, to preach the word of Christ and to suffer martyrdom for it. Now, I would very much like to know what these apostles cover-angry people might have to answer to the idolater who would address them in this way: You say that your religion is a religion of charity and peace, you Lie, for the red barbarians (English) are your brothers, and your God allows them to go as far as the ends of the world, burning cities and poisoning to sound the peoples.)j

ENGLAND. 67

Our atlases lack an informative map, which I recommends the work to one of our skilled craftsmen. editors: it would be a world map on which to-marked by stains of fire and blood, all the places on the globe where men kill each other. Let your mind wander over this map: search carefully from Hudson Bay to Tierra del Fuego, from Spitsbergen to Ceylon, from the North Cape to the Cape of Good Hope Hope, from Canton to Saint-Jean d'Acre and to the cape Finistère... Everywhere, with very few exceptions, blood shed by Englishmen. Where the Englishman does not does not wage war on its own behalf, as in 1 North Africa, on the shores of the Caspian Sea or from the Black Sea, he is the one who sells the weapons and the Powder with which one kills oneself. It exists in the noble City of London, home to biblical propaganda, a a number of manufacturers of cheap guns, weapons that can only be placed among the few wild plains of Central Africa, New-Holland or Oceania. Sometimes these merchants sold their cargo to war-torn populations with Great Britain. To put their conscience at rest and reconcile their mercantile interests with their Patriotism, they say and they prove that these weapons waste can only be dangerous for those who use it. It is also the Puritan city of Londres, which has a monopoly on the supply of idols for all the countries of the world. – Holds idols, false gods and generally everything concerning his condition ^ all at moderate prices....

68 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Ah! I excuse the oppressed nations whose faith re-Religious life falters; I excuse the starving workers who doubt divine Providence. The justice of Lord is also too slow to strike.

They are there behind the white rocks of their island.
a thousand families at most, a nest of vultures, that the evil genius holds bound to the flanks of humanity to drink its blood and tear its flesh.
It is to feed the insolent splendor of this handful despots, it's to serve these insatiable vultures their daily feeding frenzy, that so many crimes are committed put on earth, that so many nations slaughter one another, that so many ships are lost at sea, that the forty million arms of English machines they work day and night, so that opium is harvested, that The Irish and the Saxon are reduced to throwing themselves upon the coarse foods that pigs disdain. II This has been going on for centuries, and the lamentations of peoples have not yet ascended to God, and this The God of the oppressed has not yet raised up among his faithful an inspired orator, with ardent words, for preach the crusade against these executioners of the earth!
Lord! Restore understanding and sight to the councils powers, and let not your justice withdraw no longer for your unfortunate people!

The ancient world applauded the fall of Carthage, Albion of old, the sovereign of the seas! What

ENGLAND. 6d

Heinous crimes had Carthage therefore committed, so that The ancient world applauded its destruction? Broken some treaties... brought the scourge of war to Italy.
But what treaties did the English aristocracy not have? broken? What faith has she not violated? In what Has it not carried the scourge to such remote places on the globe? of war? And does he not rise up against it with all his might?
the places in the world where people suffer, enough of this whining spells and curses? And the English aristocracy Has she not sufficiently provoked the revenge of the people? and the justice of heaven, so that the forbearance of the pa-hold on until the end, so that a tribunal of sovereigns may assembles and pronounces against the guilty party the formidable sentence: Delenda Carthago.

The thing is, today, you see, is so Beautiful! These millions of Irish people reduced to the condition of Hungry cattle begging for food and wandering by the streets their eloquent rags; these millions of pro-English legitimæ, our brothers in suffering, who are waiting The day of liberation, like us... China who learns the art of destruction, at the school of his vanquishers quors; Hindustan, Egypt, Canada, Spain^ Portugal, all these dismantled states, eroded by England and who are silently chafing at the bit servitude; France and Holland, who have to ask account to the usurper of so many plunders and so-ties; Russia, the born enemy of the masters of Asia; Germany, the United States of America which have to continue the recovery of so many grievances... And science, which now gives wings 'to the ships to drive them to the bottom of the more impenetrable sanctuaries. – And the sympathy of all

70 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

peoples who have a soul to sympathize with the sufferings Frances of oppressed races.

No doubt, these are all the elements of a a vengeful coalition and a holy crusade!

But where will the inspiring breath come from today?
powerful enough to rally against the tyranny of the lords, of the Englishman who reigns and governs in France.

Ah! the great sovereigns of my country, Richelieu, Louis XIV, Napoleon, where are you!...

Because, believe me, it will be an original sin.
an indelible stain perhaps for the government Frenchman from the last revolution, having been greeted at his accession by cries of jubilation from the English aristocracy,... and history will record these Tory cheers as a shining testimony of the firmness and nationality of the ex- policy exterior of the Restoration. History will also tell that this French nation which had one day proclaimed Friend of all oppressed nations, lied after 1830 to his holy mission and to his solemn declaration.
She will also not have enough blemishes for the authors of the secret pact concluded between the jailers from Paris and O'Connell's persecutors. But then A righteous voice will rise to say that there was no more of royalty in France at that time, and that they were the Jews who held her enslaved.

Does this mean now that this tyranny of Lords, be it laid upon imperishable foundations, and that the good genius of the people cannot come to
It will end without further intervention from God. Not Truly, thank heavens, because all inhumane politics

ENGLAND. 71

Maine carries within itself the seeds of its own ruin and its own punishment.

Thus, as long as the law of the poor lasted, the manu-
The English biller had an impact on the manufacturer of continent a huge advantage, that of producing at cheaper. The English manufacturer produced at cheaper than its rivals, for the reason that it was only required to pay his workers a minimal amount salary, the law of the poor taking charge of perfecting the the price of the day for these. Then the most touching an agreement existed between landowners and industry manufacturing, and the manufacturer wasn't considering any-to complain about the franchise of the land, privilege of the aristocracy. But the law of the poor came to be removed. The manufacturer was now forced to supply-to rely on its profits ^ a sufficient salary for those who work were valid for him. Immediately this painful obligation-reuse awakened in her heart the feelings of philanthropy and equity that had remained there as-exploit the worker shamefully. He began to finding the price of wheat a bit expensive for the people, then he attributed the high price of grain to the laws of customs designed in the exclusive interest of the owners landowners, that is to say, lords. In short, the ma- The English nuclear manufacturer is currently engaged in demolition. these customs laws which are the palladium of the aristocracy, and there is no doubt that he will succeed in overthrowing them to be, with the help of the charterers and the people. The lords have already been at the forefront of concessions, by agreeing to temporarily be subjected to a disguised land tax (income-tax) f and here is the nation voting on statues in Cobden. The English aristocracy is already threatened by that side of his night of August 4th.

72 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

However, what our ignorant economists don't They don't want to or can't understand, that's why We, the people, have no right to take cause in these battles between the trading aristocracy and the aristocracy by birth. The league obtained the free Importation, so be it! This means that the coalition of large landowners brought pavilion in front of that major capitalists, major industrialists; but This does not mean that the coalition of capitalists brought the flag before the workers' coalition. But that's the crux of the matter. The day after the day when They voted millions and statues in Cobden, the English manufacturers were reducing the wage rate of their workers. Never was such a deception so complete.

However, it is for the English establishment while- to face a far more imminent, inevitable peril everything. England, by killing work among all the poor- ples, to turn these into consumers, that is to say- to say that those dependent on its industry have killed wealth of these peoples. It consequently dried up the sources of consumption itself; hence this conse- consequence, that she must perish from hunger sooner or later, amidst its heaps of manufactured wealth. The day of the event is not far off; for all the progress in mechanical science, all alliances Customs officials are bringing us closer. And that day will be the era of the emancipation of workers and of the es- slaves in all countries of the world; and the proletarians Tensions on both sides of the Channel will be raised a hand now friendly and fraternal, and the memory old discords between the two peoples will die out in the joy of shared emancipation: that's why I long for that day with all my heart.

France has received a mission from God to emancipate all the peoples, even the English.

Based on everything that has just been said, it should suffice-fire in France than a principle of political reform or commercial was recognized as originating from Great Britain tagne, to be at this very moment, and nothing but on the label, rejected and loathed. This repulsion would all the more rational, since England has never committed the folly of applying to herself the theories that it spouts to other nations... It's the An-England, which has spread the most ideas throughout the world broad freedom of trade, and there is no nation who has abused customs protection more than she and prohibition. She never claimed the abolition of tariffs only for manufactured goods on which foreign industries could not to compete with its own. All that "We do better than the English" is prohibited in them, and one only has to consult the text of their legislation-Cereal production, to know what to expect regarding the sincerity of their commercial liberalism. If they
They are leaving their fort today; it is hunger that is driving them
We have driven them out, let us be quite certain of that, and let us be wary of them.
of these forced tariff reductions that Sir Robert Peel threatened to unleash a fury against all industries

74 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

striations of continental nations. When the English pronounce the words freedom or competition ^ our ears must always hear monopoly and Hoarding. Their freedom of trade is war.
with machines and capital; as they have ten times as much machinery and capital as We, on the other hand, are certain of victory, and that's why they demand battle. Needless to say, on this As with other questions, economists
The Institute is for them.

That's why I insisted so much on the origin of the ulcer-government theory, if cixère the philosophers and statesmen who have governed for fifty years, had said to this su-throws the whole truth into the country, demonstrating it, proof in hand, that the English aristocracy had not sown the ideas anti-monarchists in France, what to give us of the occupation at home, and in order to take advantage of our internal difficulties in seizing control of the seas and of global trade; it is probable, I said, that the sympathies of the people had turned back- much more quickly brought closer to royalty in France; and this agreement between the monarchy and the people would have made all attempts at amé- quick and easy general instructions; for, once again, royalty has nothing to fear from these improvements, and prosperity- On the contrary, worker safety is the best guarantee profited from its stability.

I have stated the origin of the government-ulcere theory.
I will try to demonstrate this in the next chapter, at with the help of evidence drawn from our own history, that progress on popular freedoms in France followed constantly a parallel path to that of the car- royal identity, and that it is not one of the victories won- supported by the monarchical principle which has not benefited directly to the people. The solidarity of these two in- interests are even so intimate in the history of France, that it is true to say that the history of miseries and of The prosperity of the French nation is merely a copy of the story of good fortune and bad days of its kings.

ENGLAND 75

76 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

CHAPTER III

parallel progress of popular freedoms and the conquests of the
The monarchy in France. – Solidarity of the two monarchical interests and democratic.

I don't know of any story that gives such a powerful impact. so many denials, including our own, of the heretical principle and It's absurd that governments are the born enemies. of the people. University professors must truth-tellers, so that the child who goes out at twenty years of their hands not being penetrated, until the bone marrow, from the evidence of this contrary axiom: that the people's interest has always been in solidarity with the interest of the monarchy in France. It is necessary among the masses to the French population, or a very deep ignorance—rance of his own history, or a large fund of ingratitude, to explain the number of proselytes that the insane dogma of economists has recruited in her breast. The encyclopedists who murdered Louis XVI, in writing that the history of kings was the martyrology of nations, were more English than French. They were reformers driven by a philanthropic spirit. sincere anthropy, I know, but who wanted to destroy monarchical authority at the same time as religious authority, and who had converted to Protestantism in politics, because of the history of Cromwell and

SOLIDARITY OF MONARCHIAN AND DEMOCRATIC INTERESTS. 77

Luther had told them that Protestantism was the the most formidable war machine that could be built to bend to this dual purpose. The odious lie of Diderot was speaking out at the same time and in the same places as Voltaire's La Pucelle, this book infame, which its author composed to flatter pride of the British aristocracy, and to sacrifice to him the the most touching and noblest heroine of our history national history. Voltaire understood the history of France, as he understood that of Rome, when In one of his most mediocre tragedies, he a tyrant of Caesar, of Caesar, a man of the people, there V immortal enemy of the aristocracy, and when he transformed in Jacobins and sans-culottes the Cassius and the Brutus, that is to say the leaders of the Roman aristocracy, the Polignacs and the d'Épernons of that time. There are no Not today, in our provincial colleges, a sixth-grade student who is not in a position to give the lesson on this text to Voltaire. But Voltaire returned to the cause of freedom and humanity, so many and such great servants vices, that he must be excused for having betrayed her He had little love for Jews and held them in low esteem.

Let us therefore follow the development in our story—parallel and synchronous ment of the monarchic and popular freedoms, by taking We take care to only stop at the main stations.

The great emperor Charlemagne, protector of leave the sons of his lords who do not benefit from the lessons he gives them, and distributes the jobs to the children of the people who demonstrate ability. The nation begins to breathe again, safe under his scepter. powerful, the scholars whom the emperor attracts to his court from all corners of Europe, and especially from Ireland land, strive to draw the peoples out of their barbarie. The sciences and the arts, fundamental elements of any emancipation of the industrious, already throw a faint glimmer of light under this reign.

78 OF FINANCIAL IFEODIALITY.

Charlemagne died, and the scaffolding of his institutions was erected. collapses with him. Royal power falls in qu-noodle, in the hands of his weak successors, and The feudal nobility immediately began to organize itself. And there you have it, by the death of a leader alone, the French nation doomed to eight centuries of feudal tyranny. With the great The rights of Charlemagne's kingship are dead. people. Caries, heirs of the powerful emperor, having plus the wrist strong enough to compress like him the rise of diverse nationalities, which victory had broken and twisted under his yoke, the vast monarchy Carolingian disintegrates and dissolves. The Nor-Mands take advantage of the general confusion to insinuate themselves to flow through the heart of our provinces via all the arteries riverine; and the rural population, forced to re-to seek the protection of the counts against invasions Baltic pirates, aided by his own hands to build these fortified castles where feudal despotism must to sit for eight centuries.

These Norman pirates, whose invasion had so much unfortunate consequences for the freedoms of Europe whole, they take root, don't they, in these lords English, whose tyranny weighs so heavily today on humanity. The sons have not degenerated from their fathers,

SOLIDARITY OF MONARCHIAN AND DEMOCRATIC INTERESTS. 79

They are still, as before, the greedy tyrants of the sea; the Gallic race fortunately has a stronger fiber ticklish compared to the Saxon and Irish breeds, in the place of liberty; she threw overboard all its old castes, Frankish and Norman; in The last storm. Only the Jewish woman remains... of the second race by that of the great vassals, re-does it momentarily take over with the advent of the Ca-pets, of these national leaders chosen for their valor, and whose heritage forms almost everything that is ap-France is still shoveling... immediately they resurface from all parts of our communal freedoms.

The memory of those first acts of liberation the people find themselves indissolubly united in history national history, with the glorious names of these epic kings Louis VI, whose memory is dear to us, Phi-Lippe-Augustus, Saint Louis, heroes with strong arms, that Fortune sometimes seems to abandon us. battlefields, to make them shine even brighter beautiful luster their iron courage and their magnanimity*.
At that time, the people understood admirably-the fact that the cause of royalty is his own. The little-
The people, the king, and the clergy themselves all rely on the other and lend each other mutual aid and sittance. They frequently band together to overthrow the en-common enemy, the lord, the Puiset who holds seated-the avenues of the capital of France, or the

The royal house of France had thirty-seven of its princes killed or taken prisoner on the battlefield, and among these three kings: Louis IX, John II, Francis I." The Duke of Aumale had the right to to say: Never has a prince of my race retreated.

80 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Burchard (Montmorency) who plundered the abbey of Saint-Denis, where the national flag is displayed. They en-
They also see this gentleman on the crusades, and they pro-
They took advantage of his absence to make him confess.

During this long period of anarchy and calamity-mutilated, which is called the Hundred Years' War, starting from the disaster of Crécy until the triumphs of Joan In Arc, the misery of the population is at its peak. It is that the kings of those times were called John II and Charles VI, one a prisoner of the English, the other hit of madness. It's that a king of England, aided by the Burgundian traitor, sits on the throne of France.
Finally, God takes pity on France and its misfortunes. of his people; he raises up an inspired virgin for to expel the enemy from this soil that supported him with pain; and the day after the triumph, when royalty has regained ground, the freedoms of the communes are being restored with her.

The alliance between the people and the king is becoming increasingly close-

The nobles, the traitors who conspire with the foreign, Saint-Pol and Armagnac, while he He chose his barber and his doctor as ministers.
During this reign, the throne and the commune were shared publicly the conquests made over feudalism.
The burghers of Rouen are reclaiming their rights to to keep their city for themselves; Bordeaux is free of the suzerainty of Toulouse. The nobility, which has long dismissed by French historians, like the
The patricians of Rome paid off Livy, the nobility
He had his reasons for making Louis XI into a monster, a hyena altered by human blood. But historians

SOI-ÉTAT DES INSTITUTEURS MONARCHIQUES. ET DÉMOCRAT. 81

The people have rehabilitated his memory, and they have reason, in turn, to make it one of our greatest princes.

The merging of the two monarchical and democratic interests cracy, operates even more intimately under Riche-This place, this harsh reaper of geniilhommer. To each of the blows with which he strikes this threatening feudalism, this eternal enemy of royalty and the people, he seems-May we see freedoms spring forth from the soil of France and the wealth, as we see the grass of the meadows re-to be born greener and thicker, when the scythe
The farmer cleared the soil of weeds.
Don't interrupt me here to accuse me of looting.
Barrère, the Anacreon of the guillotine; I am not In my defense of the scaffold, I am reporting on a fact that I'm not analyzing it. The question of the morality of the means is not involved here. Oh my God, war, this a series of atrocious and senseless butcheries known as War is undoubtedly the most stupid and the most unjustifiable follies of humanity; and I believe fer-that, two hundred years from now, our nephews will have the same for the heroes of the battlefields repulsion that we feel today for anthrophages; and yet our fathers sang the Te Deum for the victories of Jena and Austerlitz, and we would still sing, without too much bitterness, I suppose-pose, for a revenge of Waterloo. Then take that I sang the Te Deum in honor of the triumph of royalty over the aristocracy, in honor of the great cardinal who created France's maritime power, who forever drove the English from the continent, in destroying Protestant La Rochelle, and which did not have to
I 6

82 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

to blame himself at his death for the murder of an innocent man. I resume:

Richelieu thwarted the plan of English Protestantism, who hoped to federalize and republicanize France, and to divide it into twenty noble fiefs, like this which took place in Great Britain. It constitutes our admirable monarchical unity. Remove Louis XI, Medici and Richelieu of our history, and the people of France would be reduced to the same degree today. of stupefaction and agitation that the Irish people-canopy. No oppressed nation could count on him.

A little later, under Richelieu's successor, The peace of Munster was being made. The roof of France was the arbiter of Europe's destinies: its global flag-Rieux floated on all the seas; his armies occupied-pay in the four parts of the world as much territory that England possesses today; and the savages of North America, like the inhabitants tants of the Ganges peninsula, the Doge of Venice, like the poets whom Louis XIV pensioned, the appe-they were the great king. At that time, the theory of the gou-government-ulcer had not yet taken root in the national soil.

It was then, in fact, that true royalty was able to to develop in its glory. The monarchical principle decidedly prevailed; the privileges of the aristocracy are extinct or about to become extinct; the vassals former rebels have become courtiers, and are forced to sell their last feudal rights to municipalities to obtain the means to appear worthily at the monarch's court. Every commune has its freedoms: the people entered into power by Colbert, Louvois, and Catinat. The king protects Ivolière against the marquises and the hypocrites: all the talents, the lot of the people, even talents from outside, are no-paid services; all capacities admitted to to produce. Nobility is granted to the cloth merchants of Ab-Beville. All the interests of the State are personified. in his head, and the great king, in the conscience of his popular mandate, can say: the State, it is I y-sublime declaration that those

SOLIDARITY OF MONARCHIST AND DEMOCRATIC INTERESTS. 83

He was the first consul after the victory at Marengo. And What other names, please? What names of parliaments or legislative bodies were better made to personify the nation in its shining majesty, May the radiant names of Louis XIV and Napoleon be remembered!
No court has shone brightly in the history of kings. like that of Louis XIV; never has royalty been so tour of such a brilliant halo of celebrities of all kinds. Beauty was accepted there just like talent. like poetry, like eloquence, like all legitimate superiorities, and popular foundations and useful aspects of this reign have surpassed in grandeur all what has happened since. At the same time as the pen-
The monarch's artistic vision gave rise to the palace of The Louvre and the enchantments of Versailles, the feeling of... his patriotism gave birth to the creations of Toulon, Fréjus and the Canal du Midi. Its engineers covered the borders of the kingdom, which the foreign respected, with a formidable line of citadels; and on the conquered territory of North America, Our military establishments were arranged in tiers from the mouths

&k OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

from the St. Lawrence to those of the Mississippi. The forts of this country, which have since become large cities peaceful, still bear the names of today this heroic time (Louisbourg). These were cou-Bastille quays designed in a better system than those of today. Mazarin's pupil, in fact-sant his grandson king of Spain and retreating his borders up to the Strait of Gibraltar in the south, in covering itself to the east with its conquests of Franche-County and Alsace, had at least found a way It is honorable to protect one's capital from invasions. of the enemy. It is still the foresighted gratitude of the prince who founded, for the old servants of the State, the Invalides hospice, and endowed the naval army with its pension fund, two model foundations. All the principles of administrative, legislative and financial unity among other things, the uniformity of weights and measures, all the improvements made since then by Turgot, by the Convention and the Empire, are contained in germinates in the ordinances and in the institutions from the reign of Louis XIV. They were men of the people designated by their ability who made up the council of the great king.

The encyclopedists and some drama writers-Turges, among whom I regret to encounter a hundred years of biting into this glory; but the people Who today has not witnessed the misfortunes of the end? of the reign of Louis XIV, misfortunes nobly endured moreover; the people, who did not suffer the winter of 1709, and which has the skin of past generations Less sensitive than our philanthropists, the people...

SOMDAHITft OF MONARCH INTERESTS. Kf Db.MOCRAT. S5 pleased to admire the munuiuenls that the great king, and he takes pride in this magnificent heritage tage facing the stranger – and when he revolts and that he drives his kings from their palaces, it is he in personne, who is responsible for guarding the treasures of the Louvre, because he knows these treasures are his.

Would the people, after that, have revolted so often?
if the great king, forgetting the memories of the Fronde, would have founded his Versailles within old Paris itself, and would not have prepared, so to speak, the divorce of the royalty and the people, beginning by making mis-swimming separately. The Parisian gangs that invaded Versailles, on October 6th, were congratulating themselves upon their return from their victorious expedition, having reconquered their king.
11 is above all an act that systematic detractors-the tics of royal grandeur do not forgive the In memory of the last of our kings: the revocation of the Edict of Nantes. It seems that the expulsion of some Protestant industrialists dealt the death blow to French industry, as if France did not possess not yet today a large enough number of these unfortunate manufacturing cities where the populations they become stupid, demoralized and wither away, and where the e-Packs and revolutions are constantly at work. Ah!
As long as no industry is organized here, and the salary replaced by the company contract between capital and labor, as long as our large factories invoices will only be large factories of helots, of starving people and prostitutes, and that it will take some armies of two or three hundred thousand men for to keep these workers, as one does with convicts penal colonies where conditions are no worse, do not por-

86 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

not so high the glory of the manufacturing industry-behind, and let's try to be more lenient towards the great king, who was mistaken, no doubt, but who believed he should sacrificing the interests of a few manufacturing towns to the higher interests of the State. The revocation of Barthélémy, like the atrocities of '92, are among those heinous acts that cannot be justified, when we only consider the facts themselves. We have the right to brand the slaughterers with the harshest epithets: leaders of the Cévennes, the assassins of Coligny and the Septemberers; but it would be unjust to slander also harshly the political thought that dictated these assassinations. 11 It is easy to write that the end does not justify the means, two or three centuries after the event has passed; it's especially easy to do sound retrospective morality, when one is outside the passions of an era. But when we consider the importance of the goal that the authors set for themselves: acts that are condemned; when we see that the greatest minds of the time joined hands with these executions, and that they were actually justified in the areas; when we refer to the habits of violence from the old politics, one feels inclined to approach to present the facts with less severity. On August 24, 1572, as on August 10th and September 2nd, 1992, perhaps was it a question for France of being or not being. When Medici ordered the massacre of the Protestants, the Colignys were more powerful than the king, because they had armies of ten thousand men, and the protestant testators threatened to partition France. Some dealt with Germany, others with Spain.

SOLIDARITY OF MONARCHIC AND DEMOCRATIC INTERESTS. 87

OR with England; each great lord made himself known its share of royalty in the dismemberment of the State. Should they have been allowed to act? It was always the struggle between unity and fragmentation, between the king and the people on one side, and the great lords on the other. The matter was more political than religious; and the people and the king were in complete agreement between them to put an end to the great lords, friends of the stranger. I know of no more stupid fable than this invention of King Charles IX firing from his window on his people. Hey! You foolish chroniclers, the people the king lovingly shot at the Protestants for his. This is important because this people was Catholic and many more fanatical than the king; and he was clearly seen to be more late by the desperate energy of the resistance that he opposed the Protestant prince Henry IV during the siege of Paris. This was seen even more clearly through the abjuration of the victor, who was forced to sacrifice his religious beliefs to those of the people of Paris ^ which does not did not escape Ravillac's dagger.

political and religious unity in France, and in the thought of these two great statesmen, the protestantism, a friend of England and feudalism, was an insurmountable obstacle to the establishment of this unity, to the greatness and supremacy of France. Politics was, for all that, and even more so than zeal, a religious motives for the persecution of heresy. In any case, the dragonnades of the Cévennes that the philosophers have so furiously accused not close to the atrocities committed previously on Catholics by Elizabeth and Cromwell, atrocities that encyclopedists and playwrights have which have been kept silent.

88 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Similarly in 1992, when the August 10th explosion erupted when the days of September arrived, the European coalition army had entered Lorraine and was now only sixty leagues from Paris. 'When Danton and his men struck those blows ribles to launch the revolution forward, to sur- to excite all the passions of the national spirit against The traitors, the enemy threatened the capital, and I did not I don't see why the people of Paris, who still believe today to the poisoning of the water of the foundations taines, in times of cholera, would not have added faith to the rumors of a secret alliance between the traitors of Outside (the emigrants) and the traitors within. These emigrants who were in the ranks of the enemy hadn't they boasted, before the allied princes, to bring the French people back to reason in six weeks Maines? Didn't they compare this people to a pack? of dogs in the wrong who would hurry back into Duty, at the sight of their masters' whips? For me I am one of the people and do not deny it, I find an excuse for her fury, when it falls upon the in- the fools and the traitors; and, I repeat, the true love of liberty and of France can provide ample apologies for most of the excesses of the revolution tion. You speak of blood shed by the people; but the a people, who had just broken their chains, had only one a day to avenge eight centuries of oppression! But I would like to see if ambition and fanaticism... Religious fanatics or shopkeepers have less hands red like democracy gone mad.

The reign of Louis XIV was the pinnacle of the monarchy in France. Since then, the prestige and popularity of power has always been declining until the days of The Convention and the Empire. Successors of the great king, first, the regent of Orléans allied himself (some- Some say it is being sold to England; it is being taken for Cardinal Dubois' favorite, a disgrace to the purple robe Maine. The second one is beaten by the English, loses North America and India and our ships, and sign the fatal treaty of 1763, a second edition of the treaty from Brétigny. Both seem to be taking on the task to debase royal majesty through their infamous debauchery and their dissolute morals. Then the legitimate contempt of people for their leaders made in a short time of progress so rapid that all virtues and intentions the most praiseworthy actions of the unfortunate Louis XVI are powerless later to avert the explosion of national anger amassed against the monarchy. It is Here, as always, the righteous man who suffers martyrdom, in expiation for the crimes of the wicked.

11. There is no paradox in arguing that, after Louis XIV, It was the Convention government that did the best understood the mission of power. The Convention established the principle of governmental unity on a basis unwavering. She was the one who wrote Unity and Indivisibility on the frontispiece of our laws; she who has abolished internal customs and merged the provinces; She was the one who standardized the legislation and measures. Like Richelieu, Louis XIV, and Catherine de Medici, The Convention relentlessly pursued and annihilated the aristocracy and federalism. England has sold out against the Convention of all European powers, and the

90 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Convention improvised armies and weapons, the generals and victory, and she superbly imposed to a defeated Europe. When the young Republic deals with the old, crushed monarchies, and that the representatives of Austria declare that they recognize the State new: "The French Republic," said its negotiator- The creator doesn't need to be recognized; she is Like the sun, she shines in everyone's eyes. Convention brought forth from within the popular classes myriads of heroes. Her poverty did not prevent her to give talent and ability the greatest share of the influence that might still have been exerted on them. She extinguished the civil war and postponed the external war to the Enemy territory. Patriotism and genius of the unjust rulings. She won, that's already a lot. to justify the means it employed to conquer; for this committee of public safety, which had Vendée and the federates to submit, Lyon and Toulon to resume, all of Europe to fight, this

The Committee of Public Safety was also not on roses. And then I find that the stains of spilled blood For freedom, things quickly fade away. It must be said now, to the eternal glory of the Convention, which no assembly National wheat has not gone as far as it has in justice and Christian charity, for it is the only assembly who thought of proclaiming the right to work, a sacred right and imprescriptible of man*.

- I don't want to forget to mention that the immortal Turgot, in
The edict of 1776 had previously formulated this principle, and that the honor-The initiative originated with Louis XVI's minister, and perhaps even to this prince whom the people sacrificed by the executioner's hand. Turgot

SOLIDARITY OF MONARCHIAN AND DEMOCRATIC INTERESTS. 91

The solemn recognition of human rights at work, is the most magnificent monument to charity legislative that human societies still have built. I take the word charity in the super-The blime that Christ gave him: V love of the genre human. Recognition of the right to work for
For everyone, it's about the abolition of pauperism, of the proletariat, Wages, anarchic competition. That's the order.
Instead of chaos, freedom instead of oppression.
sion, the right in place of the fact, the association in place of the the place of the struggle between all the active forces of the society... How far we've regressed since then!

These are the results that strongmen achieve.
and many others, such as the sale of property of the clergy, this just and legitimate measure decreed by the Constituent Assembly, which tripled the territorial wealth of France and brings in such a large number of pro-legitimized to property. I ask if the people would welcome to complain today about the abus of pousee committed by the Convention.

However, the Convention was unable to bring enjoyment to the people said in the preamble to this edict: "God, in giving to man needs, by making the resource of work necessary for him, has made the right to work the property of every man, and this property

"It is the first, the most sacred, and the most inviolable of all."

cipes, even when one is obliged to deviate from it, in order to know, from less precisely, to what extent one deviates from it; so as not to deviate from it as much as necessity demands; so as not to, from less, to follow the consequences of a prejudice that one fears to overturn, as if following a principle whose truth was recognized.

(A report on loans of money.)

And Louis XVI often said: "Only Mr. Turgot and I have—Let us sincerely entrust the people.

92 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

of the sacred right she had recognized in him, because he is not within the power of an unconstituted democracy to maintain itself and complete its works. The democracy can only be formed and move forward with the help of the monarchy's pivot. It has been a long time since the United States of America would be constituted as a monarchy, if they had powerful people in their neighborhood rivals to fight. The very mobility of democracy He needs the support of a principle and a less mobile authorities than itself. However, the Convention by copying England, by bringing under the executioner's axe, a royal head, to throw it to the absolute monarchs of Europe, as a pledge of defiance, the Convention had broken the old talisman of happiness of France, the union of power and the people. The country's fortunes nearly perished in the deluge of ca-friendships that followed this bloody rupture. The nation whole had for a long time a vague feeling that God's vengeance weighed upon her for the attack. that she had allowed to be committed in her name, and it was necessary that the innocent sons harshly atone for the crime of their fathers. France is a monarchy. Before To rediscover her guiding principle in life, royalty, she had to to first endure the despotism of anarchy, and then, through the natural course of events, despotism of the sword. And the crowned soldier who returned this prince-cipe had to soak it again beforehand in the blood of eight million men.

Personal merit, dedication, and ability,
The only titles of nobility granted to the people were recognized. under the strong power of the Empire. But the triumphant one, seized by Caesarean madness at the height of his glory,

SOLIDARITY OF MONARCHIAN AND DEMOCRATIC INTERESTS.

He misunderstood the principle of his power. He believed he had democratic on the oldest line of monarchs—absolute European dogs. He established a court of counts and dukes like other sovereigns; he aspired to all thrones, as if he wanted to to make people forgive its revolutionary origins, by force of grandeur and glory. Then the people, who saw the gold—the pride of man pierced through the actions of the leader, He lost interest in him, and the ambitious man found himself alone. in times of misfortune. I ask that I be spared—give it if I don't feel up to praising it more ardently the memory of the hero whom so many cursed of mothers, and by whom the victorious Englishman encamped twice in one year in the squares of Paris. But he loved the people and France, and the history of the Em—

The father cannot make us forget that of the first one.
consul, rabbits, magnificent page certainly from our national history.

Since the Convention and since 1814, the prestige of power has only weakened among us; for the people, from that time onwards, owed little to its kings, if not for tranquility since 1830.
But tranquility through compression and numbness—Dissension is not the normal order, nor peace, nor the public prosperity. The nation in which pro—the crime rate increases four times faster than that of the population, is not a happy nation. Also Could popularity not return to the name of Napoleon?
Leon himself, only after he was no more. We have not—Let us not laugh at his glory resurrected, if we had had to to fear.

^^ OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Alas! the cruel punishment inflicted by Providence the generation of '93 did not benefit the generation current, and did not divert her from the path of perdi—tion. On the contrary, it is in our time that the mania Regicide developed with the most fury.
The assassins' staff, thank God, had all that that it was necessary to deter people from crime, and I hope that The epidemic has subsided for a long time.

Regicide is, after all, only the conclusion the logical and fatalistic belief in born antagonism governments and peoples, to the dogma of economists to whom the French government pays listeners and a public chair to spread their Science. Other symptoms of the revolution virus. the idea that the doctors of economism have instilled of the number of offenses recorded by the cri- statistics Minelle, by the scandalous success of these newspapers which are merely the annals of crime, by the state of our prisons that are bursting at the seams everywhere due to overweight.

Incredible madness, this fury of regicide and of revolutions in our country, in France, in a country crushed, tortured, debased by the feudalism of money, and who Soon, it will have nothing left but monarchical despotism.
as a shield against the despotism of capital!

Undoubtedly, there are inhumane governments. by their very nature, governments whose interests are inevitably hostile to those of the governed. These are the Caste governments, those of Rome, before Au-

- I printed this sentence in 1845; the symptoms of the disease were apparently only smothered.

s.

SOLIDARITY OF MONARCHIAN AND DEMOCRATIC INTERESTS. 95

Augustus; those of Sparta, Venice, England, the oligarchies and aristocracies, republican or otherwise, adorned or not adorned with a vain semblance of royalty, like the English aristocracy. Under this regime of castes, indeed, there is no people; or else the people is something that can be called indifferently The helot, the slave, the serf, the peasant, the Irishman. That is a defeated race that owes its labor and its blood to the victorious race, until the end of time.

Why did she let herself be defeated? I vee victis!... Thus the barbarian Gauls who took Rome, and later the Gauls, the barbarians of the Rhine,
The Franks who enslaved Gaul!

Woe to the vanquished! When by chance this enslaved race revolt to demand their rights, or simply to demanding bread and work, the delegates of the The victorious class responds with an insolent apologue. by Menenius Agrippa:

((We, the Roman Senate, the patricians, or the Lords of England, or the magnificent lords of Venice, we are the stomach of the social body, including the function is to digest the substance of the work public...- You, the people, the commoners, you are the legs and arms condemned to work and toil ^

So bless us, instead of rebelling and you would pity us; for if we did not have the kindness of
If you try to digest it yourself, your muscles would get quite agitated. quickly, and you would thereby be deprived of the advantage of con-continue to exhaust yourselves for us*.

'Philanthropic and Swiss bankers, whose reputation for

9(i OF FINNANCIAN FEUDALITY)

^\h«

When these arguments, which make us happy TH«-Live, by Mr. Rollin and all the professors àliumaîiiiésy do not succeed with the people, so The patricians proclaim martial law, and Ton mi-They cut the people who remain silent, and that says it all. Ah! they They have no bread to eat, well then!
will give them a bayonet in the gut. (Lyrics) (of a moderate conservative from 1834.)

In these oligarchic countries, privileged countries of the Suffering, there is no nation, I repeat. History-
The national tradition is that of the patrician families. cruelty, greed, contempt for all laws di-vines and human beings, insolence and arrogance are the salient characteristics of caste despotism.

The patricians of Rome feed the moray eels their fishponds with slave meat, because the
The learned gastronome Hirius, or someone else, discovered that this food had the property of fattening by
It takes a short time for the moray eels to refine their flesh....
What can be said about that? The most virtuous of the time Don't they teach similar principles? The worm-killer Cato, among others, this revered type of the mo-ancient reality, did he not proclaim and put into practice this precept of domestic and agricultural economy: that 'One must get rid of one's slave as soon as he is old'.
The most charitable Romans would get rid of these old slaves by exposing them on a deserted island of the Tiber where they were dying of hunger. Julius Caesar, the man virtue and probity are most firmly established, they do not give no other mission for the newspapers they subsidize than paraphrasing to serve the fable of Menenius every day.

' "Vendat senem servum.... et bovem. f (Cato, from Re rusfica.)

sort of monarchical and democratic interests. 97 of the people and enemy of the aristocracy, was the first who rescued the gladiators and slaves from the circus condemned to perish at the jaws of lions and tigers, and who enlisted them in his troops. 11 dealt with the same humanity as prisoners of war, which rallied His fortune was due to so many incredible acts of devotion. One of his legions formed of Gallic soldiers, the Alauda legion^ contributed powerfully to the success of the battle of Pharsalus. Which does not prevent all the apo- the philosophies of philosophers are not for the virtuous Cato and all their anathemas against Caesar, and that Voltaire did not deem it appropriate to have the vain- Pompey's villain on our stage, as a tyrant.

The Spartans, enemies of idleness and very dear Even moralists practice killing helots at arrow shots, to keep their hands sharp and they intoxicate from time to time, to inspire their children the disgust of drunkenness.

The English lords, more philanthropic and more green-killers than the Spartans, especially on Sundays, the English lords do not kill their Irish; they conf- try to let them die of a singular disease

Link: "a disease whose symptoms disappear"

"As soon as the sick person is given food," said one English writer in a report on the distress of working classes in Ireland*. However, as the

* There is no day when the English newspapers, which describe so com- amusingly the magnificent attire of the Marquis of Westminster, and which give the name of its diamonds, do not record a little further on, several cases of individuals who died of starvation {deal from starvation). Then afterwards, they deny the famine. When Augustus had been drinking, the Poland was drunk...

I 7

98 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Spartans, the English lords take great care to maintain their Irish helots in a stupor of drunkenness, of the intoxication of gin, which makes slaves more greedy vernables. One day one of their priests, a man paid by them to spread the word of God, alarmed publicly demonstrates progress in temperance a national calamity, like a dreaded threat-table for his beloved England and for his religion, this regeneration of stupefied beings who want to return to their dignity as men!

Oh yes, the reversers would have perfectly reason to want to demolish the governments of this species, whose interests are so appallingly opposed to those of the governed; but the task is Not easy. These aristocracies are cautious, they have Life is hard and they are ruthless, and they know how to to protect against plebeian revolts that they crush sent. The kings, who do not have the same reasons for arming themselves against their own people presents fewer obstacles. That is why the insurrections preferentially target them.

The government of the aristocracies being only the prolongation of the brutal act of force, of the right of the victory, the application of the formula harbute vœvictis y It is clear that this government cannot loosen the grip of the nation's chains, without exposing itself to perish. The Normans of England would have since The Saxon and Irish races, long emancipated, ease, if they could have done so without giving up their their wealth and power. But they conquered Their privileged position on the battlefield of Uastings,

K

SO r. IDVRITÈ DES INTÉRÊTS MONARCH. KT HÉMOCRAT. 9«)

they will only relinquish them if defeated on another clianip battle.

The monarchical government never had and can never have these necessities of oppression-Zion.

The monarchical government is modeled on rheme of the family, on that of the sidereal system, on all the emblems of unity, order and harmony that Nature offers something to our senses and our intelligence. If The history of national liberties in France proves to each page the intimate solidarity that existed of all time between the interests of the throne and those of the people, The history of despotism itself would confirm this Perhaps even more virulently. And it has to be done. that it be so; for a principle to be just, it consequences without encountering contradiction or absurdity. God forbid that I should take matters into my own hands because of monarchical despotism, a form of government barbaric birth, good for childlike peoples. But I say, however: look for the most odious names of history, the reigns most cursed by the poets those of Tiberius, Nero, Louis XI, and Richelieu, and you will see that never the curses of the contemporary people have not associated themselves with those of the writers. Nero was the idol of the people of Rome, and I'm not talking about Nero, who regretted not knowing how to write. when he had to sign a death sentence, I'm talking of Nero, of Lake Fucinus and of the burning of Rome, of Nero reached the height of Caesar's fury. This does not prove anything in favor of the morality of the few— Yes, it's possible; but that proves that the people

100 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

suffers little from the most impetuous excesses of despotism, eh; that's all I wanted to demonstrate.

The sun, emblem of royalty, also causes by its ardor, the storms and the epidemics: the sun is nonetheless the star that ripens the vine and the harvests, and which gives life to nature; now, if science has could give Thomme the means to ward off lightning and to make it a docile instrument, is it to be assumed that God denies man the means to prevent The excesses of royalty?

Here, moreover, are nobler proofs of the sympathy the people's pathos towards despots.

All the big names that have come to us, through— towards the gratitude of the ages, crowned with a halo resplendent with popular glory, are names of despots: Pericles, Alexander, Augustus, the Antonines, Charlemagne, Aaroun-al-Raschid, Soleiman, Louis XIV, Frederick the Great, Napoleon. The traditional... The traditions of peoples like to attribute to these glorious names all the laws, all the discoveries, all the useful and popular institutions. Nations seek instinctively, the big names sought shelter. The masses ad— They valued and respected strength, even in the individual. because strength is almost always the companion of justice, and that force in power is their the only guarantee against the oppression of the powerful. The despotism which weighs most heavily on the workers— Theirs, as we know, is subordinate despotism, the dant. We also know that the tyranny of monarchs is usually carried out in a sphere where the worker does not happen; the traits of absolute power all pass

SOLIDARITY OF THE PRIESTS: MONARCHIST AND DEMOCRATIC. 101

above his head; Tarquin's rod only breaks
The poppies. Let us add that perfect equality of citizens before the king, the living law, is already one of the first-consequences of the principle of absolute monarchy I've read it, and this equality is certainly less illusory. in countries of royal or imperial despotism, that that which is written in the French charter. In Turquie, the last of the slaves and officials of the Harem is capable of becoming grand vizier. It even seems that this right be written on the imposing and majestic face killer of individuals of this race. And indeed, the Turks and Arabs of blood all possess this not-wounded by attitude and this calm dignity that inhabits
The command doesn't always work in our country. to the highest state officials. In China, as In Russia, it is the emperor who rewards and who protects merit, which makes and unmakes nobles. In these semi-barbaric states where royal majesty is surrounded by an almost divine prestige, the ability is remunerated by the position, and confers nobility with all the privileges of the order. There, intelligence is not forced to humiliate oneself before privilege, as he arrives under the guise of the noble aristocracy, nor to bow under the ignoble yoke of money, as he
It comes under the government of the bankers. You have to read the fueros of Aragon and Biscay, admirable institutions of true democracy, to get an idea of what absolute monarchical power can carry carrying popular freedoms running side by side with Him. I give Spain fifty years of revolutions. to find, in its new institutions, the municipal and provincial freedoms of which it was provided under the absolute monarchy. In the States hereditary rights in Austria, a country of absolutism and good-hour, of dances, feasts and eternal songs, the

102 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

The people bless their sovereign and call him their father. The people did not want their freedom, which our soldiers were vainly seeking. The men brought them to him at the ends of their bayonets, in the days of the Republic's victories. And to have Having noted this true fact, I suppose I don't need to the establishment of a state of inertia, which reigns through terror in conquered countries, a government of spies, of assassins and henchmen, a state made of parts and mor-stolen things, which the treaties of 1815 built, which new treaties will soon be demolished, I hope. father; for divine justice cannot forgive political inequities such as the dismemberment of the Poland and the Tarnow massacres – The government Prussia's despotic regime is ahead of all the so-called liberal governments of Europe, for the foundation of social charity institutions. Everything that is good and popular in Russia emanates from the emperor. This Tsar Nicholas, whom the press Parisian woman so complacently adorned with the title of Nero Tartar, is the current sovereign who works with the greatest artistry and perseverance towards emancipation workers, thereby breaking the power-the sance of the boyars, and the mercantile parasitism of the en-children of Israel. One day, the Danes, tired of the exercise-citing their rights, they spontaneously renounced their freedom, and they proclaimed absolute monarchy. I doubt it. that they had to repent of this decision. The the happiest and freest people in Europe, the

SOLIDARITY OF MONARCHIAN AND DEMOCRATIC INTERESTS. 103

The Tuscan people are governed by a sovereign with little power. almost absolute. 11 exists at the moment, at the gates of the France, in one of the richest and most industrious people of Switzerland, an ancient population French ment, and that the treaties of 1815 have foreign made. This population, which found im-material benefits in his change of nationality, has taken such disgust to the regime of liberties Swiss, whom she once wanted to emigrate to mass to go and found somewhere in Africa a peaceful colony^ under the support of a strong government.

Ah! The hatreds of the people for kings are more stupid yet guilty, and the writers themselves-calling themselves democrats, who push nations to overthrow The sowing of thrones, cruelly betrays the cause of democracy!

Thus, the history of despotism and that of monarchy protest against the theory of the ulcer-government ap-explained to royalty. Natural history, including the eco-Nomists and philosophers undoubtedly consider the teachings as ridiculous things, also offers us in the government of the bees the emblem of interest-the world works, the queen as well as the people, and where the workers ruthlessly put the parasites, to show us that the constitution of the order Perfect and attractive work does not involve idleness.

But let's look for less religious evidence.
and less abstract demonstrations of this principle: that the happiness of the people, that is to say that of the workers vagrants, demands the close union of the people's interests and the government.

404 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

CHAPTER IV.

Consequences of the weakening of the authority.

The weakening of authority leads to the abandonment of weak, of the worker.

When capital no longer has any obstacles to fear from the role of authority, providential protector and na-
The worker's natural rights are plundered by capital without mercy.
work and talent of their rights, or else he remunerates them-He does as he pleases. This pleasure has become the law. industrial transactions.

The capitalist has put his foot on the consumer's throat to the producer and to the producer. 11 them odiously ran-They were both conned. He bought it for three francs, which in
It was worth six francs, and sold for six francs what was worth three.

The exterminatory competition, engendered by anarshit, reduced the craftsman's wages below the minimum sufficient to ensure its food supply.
The workers themselves pushed for this reduction tion by competing with each other, and they had to simultaneously face competition from the masters.
The machine operator came to give the worker a boost.
Please. All the progress of industry and of the science, which should be a benefit to humanity in general, by activating production resources and by easing man's workload, they converted for the worker in instruments of oppression and

CONSEQUENCES OF THE WEAKENING OF AUTHORITY, 105

ruin. The peaceful machines have become used it to crush their unfortunate competitors rents; and the monopoly of lucrative industry was established killed at the hands of the rich.

The progress of fragmentation and wear and tear has marked—which goes hand in hand with these encroachments of capital that the
The law's brakes no longer held him back; for it was liberty, the free competition, preached by economists who... would generate the monopoly and its consequences.

A dreadful and progressive poverty has spread over the manufacturing districts, and like a veil funereal intercepted the last rays of feeling religious figures who still rekindled the hope of poor and sustained his courage in his afflictions.
At the sight of the injustices of which he was a victim, and that God and the government tolerated on earth, The worker began to doubt God's justice and that of kings, and he rushed headlong into his despair against the altars and thrones that did not protect him not. Insufficient wages made the work re-pugnacious, and chasing the craftsman from the workshop, threw him onto the public thoroughfare and submitted it to all suggestions from vice. So the government and the rich expanded their prisons and increased their armies to resist to the new invasion of the barbarians.

Prisons and soldiers, whose...
Maintenance expenses on the backs of the people's labor! That's everything that scientists and statesmen have known imagine ways to prevent the explosion of outdated needs tionaries, engendered by misery, despair and the demoralization of the working classes.

106 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Prisons! When there are unfortunate people who seek refuge... they cite it as a grace to be admitted until the end of their miserable existence, to be sure of a bed and daily food!

The government and the wealthy also advised the use of savings banks to those who requested work and bread. They sent books of wisdom to the poor girls who cannot read, for stop the progress of prostitution that trickles down the cobblestones of big cities.

And like the disorder and inclement weather of the seasons sometimes bring with them an epidemic of—commercial, and the follies of the governed, and the pusil-The shameful unanimity of the rulers brought about this scourge. of industrial and financial feudalism, one of the most vile scourges that could afflict the nations.

ORIGIN AND ADVENT OF FEUDALITY, 107

CHAPTER V.

Industrial Feudalism. – Its origin. – Its progress. – Its wractère.

The days of financial feudalism have therefore arrived.

France is currently suffering under the yoke of this... sance and there is no other government than The hamlet, I repeat for the tenth time. The king, the rooms only exist on the condition that they serve its demands and whims. We wrote for ten years. that King Louis-Philippe held his crown from a Half a dozen bankers at risk of suspension of payments. The top banker and the top industrialist are quite supportive of revolutions, when their special-Financial operations go wrong – They deliberately empty third parties, in this case, would set up their workshops in the public square. in order, should their downfall occur, to be able to blame their gambling losses on their pa-Triom- Triomphantom their protean traits. When they Presented in this way as victims, it is not uncommon to see, and the king they made and the people they lead, contribute to come to the aid of these debtors by relate. And while, thanks to these slandered acts of generosity, the industrialist is rebuilding, and his purse of men-
The diant is transformed into a general store, the assassins-sins, inflamed by the preaching of the press and the

108 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

clubs are preparing to attack the head of state.
their infernal machines and forbid the king the streets of his city. To the stockbroker, to the parasite, the povariety and gold! To the king, to the laborer of the nation, parricidal bullets and curses of people î The government motto of the party of the ban-is this: The king receives bullets and does not govern.

A small newspaper called the Chronicle[^] which lived In 1846, he wrote that the financial royalty of Mr. de Rothschild was far preferable to royalty official of King Louis-Philippe, for the reason that the
The Jew had no bullets to parry.

Mr. Guizot and Mr. Thiers are great orators and distinguished historians who have written many volumes on things of the past. These two men state officials have been sitting at the helm of the state for fifteen years. business. Well, I'm actually saying that if we had them asked two years ago under what regime they were living,
And what power they served on two knees, they did not I would not have said. For this power which they exercised-carried out the orders with such flexibility, this feu-industrial duality of which they are merely the humble examples.
They were slaves, they did not know her; they did not know not even the name of the idol they worshipped. He has
It took the entry of the sect to open their eyes.
Saint-Simonian in the high councils of Judah.

Mr. Guizot and Mr. Thiers, ministers, counted well for a long time thirteen thousand francs every month to the organ official of the ruling clique, without the temerity of their had come to inquire which masters held sole power paid this price of fear. I forgive these two half-

ORIGIN AND RISE OF FEUDALITY. 109

nistres all the good they haven't done for fifteen years, because it may not have depended on them to do better to do. They saw enemies where there were none; they They saw the calm waters where the reefs shimmered.
Blind pilots who didn't know the sea on which they were sailing on, it is hardly surprising that they had not brought their skiff safely to port. When the
The Argonauts set out to conquer the fleece of gold, they took Lynceus as their pilot, whose sight was so sharp that it uncovered the hidden pitfalls at the deepest deep waters.

And how could one not forgive Mr. Guizot and Mr. Thiers, their impotence and their fumbling. of blind men, when this aristocracy of money, which reigns and effectively governs and controls all forces living beings of the State, she herself was unaware of her power yesterday still and didn't know that it was made up of?

of the free woman, which count in their band a good number of children of Israel, to make com- to take from the king of the Jews the extent of his power and the significance of this greeting from the Father: "Sire, all the The income from this country belongs to you... and so do our hearts. and our feathers.

Industrial feudalism is established: it holds At the moment, she holds power and she believes in it for a long time. time, if public stupidity lends it life.

B^a fiftiethism infrastrielle.

Industrial feudalism is a form of government planned and defined arrangement, which has its conditions and its reasons for being, like the feudal nobility. It is a tyranny that states are forced to endure by the natural force of things, in such circumstances data. It has its own distinct character and its own institutions. special tions.

HO OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Industrial feudalism arose from the financial exhaustion- the foundation of states, like the noble feudalism of the as- subjugation of the vanquished race to the conquering race. Montesquieu forgot to define it, and to app- to understand the basis upon which it rests. A man who had more genius than Montesquieu took care to re- to remedy this oversight. I will not name him, for fear that one Don't call me a Fourierist; he was more unfortunate that the prophetess Cassandra, because people did not believe in his predictions, even after his predictions have come true- were carried out.

Forty-three years ago today, this man announced for the time in which we live the coming of industrial feudalism, to which he gave the name that she wears. Those were the days of the treaty. of Amiens. The prophet, who at that time filled the high- your duties as a clerk at a Lyon merchant's office born, did not give in to the illusions of the Consulate and peace. On the contrary, he announced the resumption of pro- chain of general hostilities and a conflagration universal, in comparison to which wars those who had just finished should only be watched like children's games. He also deduced in a brochure which struck the first consul, the conse- financial consequences of this new euro- upheaval the prediction, and it died on the appointed day. Its ravages had lasted long enough to undermine all the Stalls and hand them over to the Jews. The plague invasion has made at the time assigned for its appearance. If the feudal industrial technology is still only in a rudimentary state dietary in certain privileged regions of Europe rope, it arrived in France in a state of development-Perfectly.

The fire did indeed reignite a few months later.

ORIGIN AND RISE OF FEUDALITY. 111

It gained a foothold among the various warring nations. rents, following the wars of the Empire, when the immense levies of men that consumed these gigantic struggles would have forced all governments reasons to resort to national borrowing.

We can take the fateful year of 1815 as the era of the new power, although, even before this at the time, the coalition of bankers and hoarders of wheat would already have caused the Mos- campaign to fail Moscow and Waterloo, these are the dates that the in-Jewish intervention in our national affairs reminds.

And these dates are significant. Like mistletoe parasite that blooms in winter amidst the mourning of the nature and while the frost is on the branches of oak tree on which it took root, the financial feudalism-The cerièrè blossoms in all its splendor during the days of ad-community of the nations over which it has power. Its fortune is making a living from public distress.

At that time in 1815, France, rather overwhelmed that, defeated, succumbed to the efforts of the coalition-tion of all European powers. Condemnation-born by the fate of arms to pay compensation of war of one billion five hundred million, she owed to become prey to cosmopolitan traders who li-They hardly sought to exploit his distress. Then began to to form this high finance committee, which was more late the council of ten and who claimed the monopoly The present and future of all national loans. The France borrowed at a high rate, because the funds

112 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Calm was barely restored in Europe, and the France, recovering from its upheavals, that the Restoration openly indulged its anti-revolutionary tendencies. The domestic policy of the Restoration having played a significant role in the speed of the progress of financial feudalism, it is necessary to examine it quickly and from this point of view exclusive.

Politics tied the Restoration to the interior.

The fixed idea of the Restoration, the idea that ruined it, It was a matter of reconstituting the old regime, something that was also easy, roughly, than making a river go upstream towards its source.

The electoral law is the true charter of freedom among all peoples; the Restoration made an electoral law-torale, which set the eligibility threshold at one thousand francs, and which granted all voters paying this tax the right to vote twice. Never before had the right to money was recognized by law in such an insolent manner.

11. After that, it was a matter of concentrating in the hands friends of power, the means to achieve wealth represented by this contribution of one thousand francs. In short, it was a matter of reconstituting an aristocracy.

ORIGIN AND RISE OF FEUDALITY. 113

by making it rain on the newly privileged, like equivalent to the franchise of noble lands elsewhere times, all the favors of power and all the large budget management. To this end, the first draft was prepared famous financial or customs law of 1821-22. These laws prohibited almost all sources of the foreigner, who, in retaliation, struck a near-prohibitive tax on most products our soil. The new financial law, for example, protected the industry from large landowners, livestock farmers, through an indirect premium of fifty-francs per head of cattle raised in France, by imposing a tax on each head of foreign livestock A direct payment of fifty-francs. We wouldn't have dared. to restore to these large landowners the immunity of the land; She was cleverly replaced, by agreeing with them on the international pot, on the budget, a magnificent bonus for all the products of this soil; it was possible to find a way in this way to reimburse them for their taxes. It was difficult to avoid.

charges written at the beginning of the fundamental law of kingdom. The iron manufacturers, the owners of forests, factories, coal mines, the large manufacturers, refiners, all industrialists, in short, whose industry required the possession of vast capitals, were admitted to enjoy similar privileges. These wonderful reforms, of course, only took place at the Name of the interests of national industry, iron national, of national meat. By means of rights exorbitant entry fees imposed on similar products From abroad, privileged industries were allocated the monopoly of the domestic market. As for the others
I » 8

Wlt OF FINANCIAL FEODALITY

national industries, but which had the fault of exercising- cer by small owners, small manufacturers, They were ruthless towards inconsequential people. sacrificed to the principle of national industry. Wines, spirits, and silks were found in this case. The people were forced to give up meat boucberie, which the surtax on foreign livestock made enormous- The winegrower, to whom all the mar- The outside entrances were closed by the tax of repro- projections, and all those within by the elevation of the city toll rights, was gradually brought to its ruin; no more than ten years of this regime were required to reduce him to his current state of misery. There are years in which the value of wine, in four-fifths vineyards, does not represent the tax value and the costs of cultivating the vines. Another law, which was merely the corollary of the latter, was presented in The same period, 1821-22, is the law of the canals. which I mentioned at the beginning of this piece, regarding the project of the repurchase of profit-sharing shares. The government, to facilitate the flow of high-quality products metallurgical and mineralogical industries and activate domestic trade had the wise idea of linking the kingdom's main waterways, the rivers their rivers, via an artificial navigation network of approximately 19,400 kilometers. This network channels were needed to establish immediate communication production sites with consumption centers tion the most important. I said the golden bridge that the the government took this opportunity to address the arms merchants gent from whom he borrowed a sum of one hundred and twenty-eight million, paying them an interest rate of 8 percent roughly, regardless of the right of sharing for forty and ninety-nine years in income future of the canals. These canals have already cost the State three hundred million, and after twenty-three years they do not are not finished; and like the bankers, who have not provided that one hundred and twenty-eight million of this sum, However, they are the absolute martens of the tariffs of these canals that were delivered to them as collateral, it follows that these channels have therefore rendered no service to the international industry. They could have, moreover, that the The goodwill of the administration would have been paralyzed. by the incredible resistance of the two pro- companies owners of the Briare and Loing canals, who are the keys to navigating the Loire, resistance capable which was enough to paralyze trade in the basin of the Loire. Today the coal mines of Saint-Étienne no longer arrive in Paris where they are replaced by The coals of Anzin and Mons. The wines, the fruit people from Auvergne are also deprived of this outlet che. Imphy's metallurgical products take still the rolling road to head towards the capital tale. The royal decree of April 17, 1843, issued at the behest of the financial companies of the canaux, eliminated the trade in construction timber tion of Germany with the east and south of France. The same order closed the markets of Mulhouse. and from the East to the coal mines of Saint-Étienne and Saône-et Loire. The bad luck that has clung to it since a few years at the Saint-Étienne mines, their had some time earlier sparked competition the coal mines of Alais, belonging to the Roth- family schild, for the supply of steamships from Mar-

116 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Seille and Toulon. Baron de Rothschild made himself awarding a railway contract that transports the products of his establishment in Alais on the Rhône and on the ports of the South. As well as the factories of the East and the The outlets from Paris were lost for the coal basin 1st from Saint-Étienne, the richest of all those from France and the one that produces the best coal quality; likewise the wines of Beaujolais, of Maçon-people from the nais and Lyonnais regions, have abandoned the canal route center, state-owned, which formerly led the wines from the Saône to the Loire, to take the canal route of Burgundy. The wines of Burgundy proper said to be the wines of the Côte-d'Or, which are exported almost all, still largely follow the dis-

One wonders what these loans were used for... towed under leonine conditions and these loads of three one hundred million imposed on public funds, and these two thousand four hundred kilometers of navigation artificial, since the coal mines of Saint-Etienne, not more than those of Allier and Saône-et-Loire, since the woods of Germany and Grisons, no more than the iron and copper from the Nièvre and the wines of the Burgundy, do they not benefit from this navigation?

Here is the answer to the question: these expenses of three one hundred million, these loans of one hundred and twenty-eight million contracted under leonine conditions, were used to donate to the upper echelons of banking, to Jacques Lefèvre, to the Pé-rier, Pillet-Will (Jewish), Barthd^ny (Genevan), De-lahante, etc., the supreme direction of navigation the interior of the kingdom and of France's trade central. It also served to bring about creation,

ORIGIN AND RISE OF FEUDALITY. 117

for these gentlemen, a multitude of stock market values which are called the shares of such and such a channel, three four channels; finally the creation of one hundred sixty-eight thousand shares of enjoyment, including the creators and owners would now like to undo it for the modest price of forty million. I It is also worth recalling that the actions of enjoyment, one of the values that have always had the greatest influence on operations stock exchange regulations, belong for the seven eightthièmes to the Geneva bankers....

I said that for the government it was a matter of Restoration to reconstitute an aristocracy, and that This government skillfully went about achieving its goal.

Liberalism had some great names in it finance. The opportunity seemed perfect to attempt the fu-the union of the silver nobility with the nobility of blood, this merger that the good General Lafayette wanted to push-to ser until complete evaporation. The government sa-knew perfectly well that liberalism would allow itself to be to enrich without too much resistance, and that the fiercest Puritans within the party would even go so far as to tolerate the affixing of a baron's or count's coronet to the somewhat bare panels of their modest crew.
Mr. de Villèle was well aware that the hearts of the wealthy is eminently amenable to the ambition of achieving honors wanted to have.

It was in this too that the favors of the budget to the financial companies of the canals, illustrious the most prestigious names in finance; that we abandoned simultaneously provided the canals of Saint-Quentin, 118 OF THE EODALITK L'ÉCONOMIQUE.

Saint-Martin, etc., belonging to the State, to some big speculators, to whom fortunes were made principally after a few years.

It was also around that time that Mr. Ternaux was created baron like Mr. de Rothschild. It would have depended only on Mr. Laffitte, who was Mr. de Villèle's second-in-command in the 3 percent case and in that of Haiti, to be made a baron like Mr. Ternaux. But Mr. Laffitte, who had no sons and whose daughter was a princess, he nobly scorned this vain title of baron.

However, it wasn't so easy to get them to take the shift towards liberal finance on certain issues political matters, such as those concerning canals or customs that the people did not understand, and regarding the which she could humanize without compromising herself too much to put in front of the public. The Restoration, to re-construct his semblance of the old regime, "his obsession, was obliged to operate in parallel with its laws of finance or afterwards, political laws imbued with of the same trends, such as those of the right to entailment, primogeniture, substitutions, endowment of the peerage. Liberal opinion had little to gain and everything to lose by giving in to these bills counter-revolutionaries. She therefore remained loyal to the cause of the people, and fought them fiercely. The em- loan of four hundred million for the Spanish Civil War, expedition undertaken by the French government against the freedoms of a constitutional nation, has not had not been voted on by the chamber, without a strong opposition position on the part of the liberals. Finally, when it arrived on the day of the great feeding frenzy of the Restoration, when the men who had suffered through the revolution, struck a contribution of one billion on the children of those who had created it, liberal finance, which dates back to days ago, and who had no compensation to receive, squandering of public funds, this measure is a reaction. the fact that the men in power were covering up, of their On the one hand, there's the beautiful name of legitimate restitution. The opposition of Mr. the Duke of Choiseul, of Mr. the Duke of Noailles and of the Marquis de Lafayette, who were not of finance, but nobility, and who had a lot lost in the revolution, was likely to produce more the effect on the chambers than the outbursts of liberal bankers; but the project had been approved in advance by a compact majority of stakeholders in the question. All expenditure of eloquence and patriotism it was a complete waste of time.

ORIGIN AND RISE OF FEUDALITY. II

We know how, from this triumph onwards, the pre-demands of the emigration party or of the former republicans, had no more limits; how these claims momentarily suppressed by the wisdom of The Martignac ministry only made matters worse. explosion under the ministry that succeeded him and which was the last of this government. The nobility of lineage had completely lost their way in this dizzying phase, the teachings and the example of M. de Villèle; she had the immense wrong of treating concessions as unworthy and humiliating were the considerations and cajoleries of the great Minister for the top barons of the Stock Exchange. The finance, wounded in its pride and its interests, She never forgave him. She would have accepted the merger, she would have tolerated many violations of the charter, if he had been would also have made a killing off portfolios and honors; but the Restoration was moving away from the financial path, it openly regressed towards 1760, it called for Ministry of the names of Yœil-de-bœiif. There was a struggle between the two prides. And the House of Bourbon of the elder branch broke against the house of Messrs. such and such, cash merchants, brown sugar manufacturers and candlelight, supported by the press and by the out-drivers who were expelled from the workshops.

120 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

The July Revolution was the victory of Hastings of financial feudalism. From that day on, that- He began to suspect a little of his power.

This July revolution fundamentally changed fills the scaffolding of counter-revolutionary attempts- the legacy of the Restoration. The nobility lost its his last privileges and his last hopes. His the luggage fell entirely into the hands of the vanquished

The people gained nothing in rights or wealth. to be; the tariffs on wine and meat have not been lowered, far from it.

But France has lost a great deal of influence there; because, from the day after the fall of Charles X, she had was forced to renounce the alliance with Russia and to throw himself into the arms of England, his mortal ennemie.

The monarchy... The king was assassinated six times, and his Clemency has not yet quelled the rage of the assassins.

There is in the history of these last fifteen years two facts that show what the monarchy has become ea-France.

The first 40 days of the government, Belgium
It was offered to the king's son: it was reunification with France.

ORIGIN AND RISE OF FEUDALITY. 121

Belgium is a country of cloth manufacturers. and canvas, coal, and pig iron. Angers, Elbeuf, Rouen and Lille would have lost a lot at this meeting Union. The offer of the Belgian people is rejected.

In 1843, thirteen years after this defeat, the king of The French, in agreement with the King of the Belgians, are trying to renew at least the trade alliance with Bel-gic, not wanting, he said, to see at its border Prussian customs officers.

The cloth merchants of Elbeuf and Roubaix, the manufacturers of iron, the cattle breeders, are forming at this new in small convention and threaten the government-the possibility of withdrawing their protection from him, if he does not withdraw Not his plan. The king's government backed down.

We have seen the consequences of the policy of the Restoration, in its relationship with progress of financial feudalism. Let us finish the story of the de-developments of this since 1830.

At the sound of the fall of this throne, whose rebuilding... tion had cost the Eu-Rope, fear once again gripped the Powers. All armed, all were once again forced to re-were contracted at a rate of eighty, the committee of ten who had awarded them all, decided that there were no—would not wage war, that he would not provide money to those who would want to wage war. Then the funds re—They numbered up to one hundred and twenty, and the profits made in a few years, often in a few months by the lenders reached fabulous figures. The minis—The Laffitte district and that of March 1st, the two worst mid—ministries of the government of July, are also the two eras that players will surely remember—slow with the most tenderness. It was done in this time, it seems, of admirable strokes of Stock exchange. Fishing for coins resembles fishing for gou—Jons, who thrives best in murky waters.

122 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

So much so that the Jew struck all states with a new mortgage and a mortgage that these States will never repay with their income. The Europe is subservient to the domination of Israel. This do—universal mination that so many conquerors have dreamed of The Jews, now in their hands, have put everything in their hands. The God of Judah has kept his word to the prophets and gave victory to the sons of Maccabeus. Jerusalem imposed tribute on all the empires. The first share of public revenue of all the States, the clearest product of everyone's work workers, passes into the Jewish stock exchange under the national debt interest rates. And please note that Not a single Jew has done any useful work with his hands, since the beginning of the world.

Saint'ISIinoii and Jnda.

However, until recent years, the constitution The tuition of the silver feudal system was not yet a thing of public knowledge. It was being talked about vaguely, but Proper names were unknown. The Jew took it well, the The Jew was hoarding everything he could find under his hand to seize and take, national loans or railways; but in doing so, he was not to obey, so to speak, the impulses of one's instinct native. He hoarded without realizing it; he had awareness of his actions, his worth, and his political force through its lever of acquisition. The were referring to these seasoned practitioners, these stockbrokers subtle; the theorists came to them.

ORIGIN AND ADVENT OF FEUDALITY. 12S.

The scattered remnants of Saint-Simon's tribe sonL reunited with the scattered remnants of the tribe of Judah, and these two great remnants, to console each other, have awarded themselves the division of the world's spoils civilized, especially from France, the cream of the crop milk, as the Jew says. F/alliance was all the more natural that the Saint-Simonian Church counted among his faithful include many circumcised men.

We know the sacramental principle of the holy faith Simonian: to each according to their ability, to each case peace according to his works. The unworthy role that they play Today the apostles of this doctrine will not make me not to be unfair to them, nor to disregard the immense services rendered by them to the cause of pro-sandstone. Even my mind does not shrink from the conse-extreme consequences of their theories on inheritance. They proclaimed this inheritance a great iniquity, which we said they were wrong, and that their principle that we declare today revolutionary and subversive of any society, will not be sanctioned tomorrow by the universal assent of the wise and written in the law; because, in the end, there are abuses, and odious and revolting abuses. so much in today's inheritance law. Thus, for to cite just one example... fate has given me...
A father, a Marceau, a Laplace, a hero who will have shed

124 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

for his country, to the last drop of his blood. a scholar who will have dedicated himself to the service of humanity all the intelligence and intelligence he had received from heaven genius. He dies, and because of the higher purpose that this hero, or whom this scholar was pursuing, will have completed him. absorbed during his life, the aura diverted him from taking care of his personal affairs, family matters, I, his son, will be nothing, nothing but the heir of a A difficult name to bear – while the son of Fépicier a contemporary of my father, a cretin whose entire Existence will have been lost in the details of a business deal. tiny, and by that very fact that this grocer will never thinking of his country, he will inherit from this useless citizen the right to make laws, the right to represent myself, Me, in the nation's councils! And you call That's fairness, gentlemen who support inheritance.
Even so, and you get condemned by your tribesnaux, under the pretext of offending public morals,

As long as you want, I absolve, I find that the rich man's son should consider himself quite lucky already to receive, as a reward for the joy he gave himself to be born with the right to command the work of others, and to consume without producing... And then if you wanted seriously attach to your dogma of inheritance privilege of eternal inviolability, you should have do not begin by boasting, as if it were a success perfect revolutionary conquest, of the auto-da-fé of the night of August 4th, when all the titles of nobility, as many privileges as the courts of other However, they also declared them inviolable. You had to remain-to respect the hereditary nature of offices, that of the peerage, that

ORIGIN AND RISE OF FEUDALITY. 125

of the royalty that you have broken ten times since uu half a century; for you should know that deep down all these pri-villages are the same, and that hereditary transmission to be silent about a judicial office, that is to say, about the privilege to apply the law, is nothing more monstrous than the hereditary transmission of the privilege to do this law, or to choose those who make it.

As for women's emancipation, I must confess... that I am among those who, far from fearing this great a measure of reparation and fairness, they all call for it Their wishes, not being something proven to me, that the liberated woman would take advantage of her freedom to... throw at our head, as they so complacently suppose-so many old fogies in parliament and elsewhere.
I also have the misfortune of considering them infamous all these legal markets that take place in front of noto be silent, and which are called marriages of convenience or of convenience.
Vengeance; infamous markets where heartless mothers they sell the flesh of their daughters to old men, for a little gold or for titles; illegitimate unions, if any was, in the eyes of God, for God consecrates only those whose bond is love.

Would to heaven that France had no reason to reproach the apostles of the Saint-Simonian faith, what a pair!
Harmful acts, the harms of utopia! But there is something else that their utopias to repress and stigmatize, there is their a despicable pact with the shop, and their apostasy!

It is easy to formulate a principle.
The Saint-Simonians' approach was not particularly bold, Nothing too scary for anyone. To each their own.
His abilities, f, for each ability according to his works. If the

120 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

commercial, at least many desire that it be able to That's how it should be: the difficult part is always putting it into practice.
The difficult thing in this case was deciding who would be the appcapacity assessor, the reward distributor-Think in proportion to your capacity. We know how.
A horsewoman whose school cuts this Gordian knot. The
The people acclaim the most worthy. The most worthy is the more beautiful, more eloquent, best suited for cap-to win hearts with his conquering charms, as the Duke of Guise of the Henriade; he is the individual, in a word, which bears the most visibly imprinted on His face bears the seal of divine election. The Father, the acc-proclaimed, begins by choosing all the great dignitaries-state officials; it is rare that one does not find in
In such circumstances, friends willing to serve you Atlas, to share with you the weight of public affairs these friends elect the rest of the officials; and there you have the organized social machine of the grassroots justice-that at the top; it wasn't any more difficult than that.

Then there was a man like the immortals and named Enfantin, no less famous for the power-the use of his cue strokes in the noble game of billiards, than by the frequency and distinction of his words hunting, and who, on the word of a few creatures charming and with the help of her modesty, she presented herself as possessing all the physical attributes required for the job Pivotai, and the Father was acclaimed in a small gathering. as we were in the aftermath of the glorious past, and that Paris hadn't had time to recover from its revolution in three days; as the excitement boiled in-deep down in many people's minds, this man had followers, even henchmen of both sexes,

ORIFILINE AND ADVENTURE OF FEUDALITY. 427 and his hope swelled immeasurably with the number of these; and soon the treacherous mirage of Illusion to him gave a glimpse of his royalty in the very near future paternal officially installed on the old throne of Bourbons; a monarchy by divine right, that one, because it had to be conquered by the sheer power of the gaze.

"At the Tuileries in three months," said this man. in his dizzying dreams!.... c< At the Tuileries in six "weeks," repeated Tinfidèle, echoing the street of Monsigny.
And there were even some impatient disciples little well retreated; so that the Father, yielding to the con-a message of impatience, sent via the Globe, to Queen Amélie the now famous epistle, where the royalty on August 7th was invited, in the most civil and the most charitable, to evict from the castle royal to make way for another.

Unfortunately, the public prosecutor took ombragging about these claims; that the candidate of the good God, that the chosen one of favoritism was summoned to the dock of a tribunal, and that the blow of his gaze missed completely on his judges, who condemned him, He and his family should go to prison and be fined. I don't have need to recall how, following this con-Damnation! The bewildered disciples scattered by the globe, some in search of the free woman, the others looking for a fifteen-cent job francs.

The Father, who had been ridiculed before his judges and who clearly saw that their sentence had killed in public opinion, its power to fascinate, also understood-early on the need to resort to another means to

128 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

to regain possession of the Tuileries. The castle of Tuileries plays a role in the Saint-Simonian epic same role as the land of Italy in the history of the pe-reminiscences of Aeneas, this land that rises every mornings on the horizon and which we never approach. Italiam!
Italiam! The Father turned towards gold, and resolved to operate exclusively from now on by the power attractive to metal.

Charles Fourier and Saint-Simon had said how Financial feudalism was founded. The Father decided on the to establish. The elements of the new power were there in the hands of the Jews, all ready to operate; it was simply a matter of connecting the various pieces of the machine and to give it the initial push. The Father said to himself:
"I will be one soul that animates this machine," and the thing It reads. Certainly, there was brains under that brow. magnificent, and I'm beginning to realize The influence that made so many distinguished minds docile to this man's authority. I'm starting to ex-to explain that great thinkers, that skilled writers vains having the name Jean Raynaud, Pierre Leroux, Abel Transon, Moïse Retouret, Michel Chevalier, Ch. Duveyrier and so many others, were able to accept with even those who prescribed strict fasting of love.

To come to rule through gold, to become the tributary of jobs and favors, it was necessary to begin by rehabilitating oneself in the eyes of the public, by erasing the task of the verdict of the assize court, by giving pledges to the powers of capital that we once had frightened. 11 It was therefore decided in council of the order, that the most compromised would withdraw, momentarily from the political scene and would seek to attach their name to useful endeavors. Justice and public opinion is lenient these days towards demigods and dethroned sovereigns; the competition The demand for these jobs has been so high for a hundred years. Forty years, one no longer knows oneself what that one can become. The authority did not believe it necessary to hold the hand in the execution of the sentence of the Assize Court, and to make his prisoners languish in chains. Mr. Michel Chevalier began by having himself presented for America—that from the North an important mission from which he emerged gloriously, while Mr. Charles Duveyrier popular—his name was featured on our various dramatic stages and that Messrs. Lambert and Fournel were trying to take back towards the vicinity of the Nile the gigantic works of Pharaohs and Ptolemies. For his part, Father accepted with humility, to better conceal his plans jets, the modest functions of a member of a com-Algerian scientific mission. Others had found an asylum within the daily press where they held an honorable place. In short, six years after the sentence, the doctrine was represented at the Debates by Messrs. Michel Chevalier, Adolphe Guérault and Fournel, at the National by the Pereyre family, at the Courrier Français by Mr. Emile Barrault: I could go on and on; Mr. Charles Duveyrier found in the leisure activities that he left the cult of Thalia, while he wrote, for magazines and daily newspapers, articles remarkable. From the end of 1838, the public forgot had lost the memory of Ménilmontant and the predictions cations of Monsigny Street; nothing remained of the school

ORIGIN AND RISE OF FEUDALITY. 29

I 9

13(' Dt FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

that the custom of wearing a tunic and a beard, custom

It was in this year, 1838, that the government, through the organ of Mr. Martin du Nord, had the right pen- the aim of bringing the project of the large network to the chambers of the national railway, a gigantic undertaking, whose execution was reserved for the State. Feudalism The financial aspect was killed in its infancy, if the project had obtained the assent of the chambers, because feudalism financial stability rests on two key pillars of acquisition, the banking monopoly and transport monopoly; it de- she was therefore dying lame and inevitably lingering in her road, if one of these two supports was missing. The high finance and the Saint-Simonian press knew to avert the danger. The Debates published against evil- a crazy government project droyant from which he never recovered. Two years later, the two main lines in the West and the South were granted by the State to two large companies; the Fould and the Rothschilds had been invested for a long time. operating time of the Saint-Germain lines and Versailles, intended to serve as bridgeheads to other future major lines. Five years later, all the major lines belonged to the major companies. The Julys had called from London the English to help them extort money from France.

Five years later, Jewish bankers held the wheel letter from the Stock Exchange, and carried out in this industry profits of one hundred and fifty million in one year. Five years later, Mr. de Rothschild crossed, in triumph- the northern regions of France, and of Princes of the blood adorned his procession. Five years after, Mr. Emile Pereyre, a Jew by nationality and former saint-Simonian, was director of the Northern Railway, and owner of a few million won gambling railway shares, why he claimed to be entitled to the votes of the electors of Nocjant-le-Rotrou. Father Enfantin was the council secretary administration of the Lyon railway, with fifteen or twenty thousand francs in salary, in above the small profits amassed in trade of the same actions, something like five celit A thousand francs, a million, the devil knows those figures. better than me. Mr. d'Eichtal, the brother of Saint Simo-Nietzsche and Jewish, was appointed deputy, still for the same reason, for having won enormous sums at the roulette wheel of the Stock Exchange. Mr. Michel Chevalier, former saint-

ORIGIN AND ADVENTURE OF FEUDALITY. 131

State councillor, professor of political economy.
Mr. Charles Duveyrier, a former Saint-Simonian, held the Monopoly of press mercantilism. Mr. Olinde Rodrigues, a former Saint-Simonian and Jew, had a voice in advice from the Rothschild family; the alliance of Saint-Simon and Judah, offensive and defensive alliance sive, s had concluded forever on the altar of the golden calf, altar built from the heaped riches of the France, and the Father's gaze rose radiantly towards the Isaac's god, to thank him for the success he had achieved his efforts were rewarded, and he showered his graces with blessings son. For all this was the work of the Father.

It is now being said throughout the world that this dispen-The millionaire is already tired of not having to distribute to his loyal subjects than from Tor, impure gold, taken by the païasitisme on the work of an artisan and on the cre-

4 iy l I)t FINANCIAL FEDERATION.

dulitude of the onlookers. It is said that charity is re-rising to the heart with success and power, ^t that he is eager to have placed in the hands of his Jews, the remaining monopolies to be taken: salt, tobacco, coal, irons, to give generously to the people.

So said the Conservative Party at the time of the riots, to those who distrusted him: "Assure us Peace and tranquility first, to allow us to carry out the reforms that the people have the right to demand "to tender of his revolution." The riot ceased to rumble. inner peace and days of security are ve-bare-only the reforms that the people hoped for Its revolution is yet to come. Will it be so? the benefits of the holy alliance of Saint-Simon and of Judah?

It is also said that the new Samuel, who knows everything the power of the leverage at his disposal, he considered taking it to serve to establish peace on an unshakeable foundation universal. The English want the keys to the passage from India, and might be tempted to seize it in a movement of impatience, if they were refused for a long time. The Father understands that, to prevent any unfortunate collision, the keys are entrusted to his loyal servant Rothschild, by virtue of the consent of the powers con-customs of Europe except, by the gatekeeper of the Isthmus, to share the toll revenue equally between him, the sovereign of Istanbul and the viceroy of Egypt. The struggle is between the British Empire and the Father, let us wait.

Too many Jewish names illustrated the staff of the Saint-Simonian church, so that the fact of the constitution of financial feudalism by the disciples of

ORIGIN AND RISE OF FEUDALITY. 133

Saint-Simon has the right to surprise us or to outrage. They were Jews, there had to be some. of For and of the betrayal at the heart of this thought world. Judas Iscariot, who received the price of blood, was Jewish... and so was Simon Deutz.

IJii onbli de Montesquieu.

Montesquieu forgot to define feudalism industrial; that's a shame. There was, on this subject, a provocative definition to expect from the thinker spiritual leader who said: "Financiers support the state, like the rope supporting the hanged man.

Industrial or financial feudalism, or commercial, rests neither on honor, nor on the honors, like the republic and the monarchy of Montesquieu. Its basis is the commercial monopoly. Civil, oppressive, and anarchic. His character is the greed, insatiable greed, mother of cunning, of bad faith and coalitions. All its institutions bear the hallmarks of hoarding, lies, and of iniquity. If monarchical despotism only destroys The proud and respect the humble, there is no such thing thus of the despotism of the safe. This invades the a poor man's cottage is like a prince's palace, Any food is suitable for its voracious appetite. Like mercury subtle, insinuating itself through its weight and fluidity to through every pore of the matrix, to seize of the tiniest particles of the precious metal that it contains, like the hideous tapeworm, whose rings parasites follow in their convolutions all the viscera of the human body; thus the mercantile vampire

^iSft OF FEUDALISM FINANCE.

extends its suckers to the extreme ramifications from the social organization, to siphon off all of its sub-

The tone, under the regime of silver feudalism, is the selfishness that vainly seeks to conceal itself under the mask of hypocritical philanthropy. Its motto is: every man for himself.

The months of homeland, religion, and faith, have not of meaning for these men who have a coin instead from the heart.

A homeland—merchants have none: Ubi aurum ibi patria. Industrial feudalism is personified in the cosmopolitan Jew.

A religion—I told you that the Dutchman trampled Christ underfoot and spat in his face, to acquire the right to trade with the Japanese.

Commercial faith was formerly called Punic faith. It is called the British faith today.

There is a parallel to be drawn here between the aristocracy nobility and the financial aristocracy.

The motto of the noble aristocracy is this: Noblesse oblige.

That of the financial aristocracy: Every man for himself.

Every man for himself! Noblesse oblige! These two mottos admirably characterize the fundamental difference the situation that exists between the aristocracy of birth and the aristocracy silver stocracy.

After the conquering nation took possession from the soil of the defeated nation, the leaders of the horde Victorious forces are forced to fortify themselves in order to take roots in the ground. They build their fortified castles, their feudal manors, and maintain careful—their caste granted the privilege of military ranks and high-ranking government jobs. They don't pay taxes. of the land, but certainly of blood. They claim On every occasion, the honor of defending this land of which they are the lords. They honor above the entire profession of arms, valor, the de— The vow of the inferior to the superior. The protection due to the oppressed, to the weak, the deference due to the

ORIGIN AND ADVENT OF FEUDALITY. 135

are implicitly contained by them in this An expression of valor. Hence the traditions and the tone. of chivalry and gallantry. The knight, for
To be admitted into the order, one must swear to protect and to Write to the woman and the orphan. Noblesse oblige! The descendant of the valiant, whose glory is written on the stones of the land, is held to bravery.

But I ask what they are required to do, by virtue of their originally, these high-ranking financial barons, who descended tooth of bankruptcy or of a forage auction illustrated with bribes! Alas! These are no exception. not to haunt the gambling dens of the Stock Exchange, and to solicit scandalous markets; their conscience is perfect-resting on this chapter, and the specters of their ancestors do not disturb their graves, for to cause them grief at night.

The high-ranking financial baron does not pay taxes the earth, for he still possesses, around his chest teau, a factory by means of which he makes himself re-to offset the fund's tax liability, through the premium it obtains in favor of its industrial product, beef, iron or beetroot. Moreover, he keeps the best of his assets, and he doesn't suffer from the taxman

136 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

touches this sacred ark, to make it contribute to the expenses of the State, -in proportion to his fortune, as stipulated in the charter.

The high-ranking industrial baron does not pay the tax of No blood either; even less. 11 pays the unfortunate to defend the soil of the homeland in its proper place; he has not No homeland, anyway. The soil of the homeland no longer laughs. now for defenders than the proletariat. We counts more than one hundred thousand in the French army sold.

Under the regime of the blood aristocracy, the real Nobility is the nobility of the sword. The gentleman abandons to the villains all lucrative professions tives, trade, usury, chicanery. The words of Robin and the merchant have in his mouth the value of an insult.

The aristocracy of the crowns, on the contrary, professes the most sovereign contempt for honorable careers or honorary. Even the most insignificant jobs suit him,

It's easy to do there. She will stir up all the things without repugnance. the mud of our impure Babylons, if only it She hopes to find gold at the bottom. She gives up poets, to the fools, the army, the judiciary, and the Church, real fool's jobs where you are forced to put in her own. From the profession of legal interpreter, she does not reserve only the part that reports:* the procedure, the Chicane, the solicitor's study. She has a great weakness also for the notary's study. Jacques Ferrand is one of his types. We don't know of any Jew who cultivates the earth.

The tone of the moneyed aristocracy is not chivalrous

ORIGIN AND RISE OF FEUDALITY. 137

risk. You can't make a financier swear to lend. aid and protection for orphans and women, before admitting it into the body. The financiers do not they are not poets; the word poet is even to their eyes the most bloody insult one can hurl at a man. Deceased. The Globe, a Catholic newspaper. written by Protestant bankers and drafted by Jews, a tried to kill Mr. de Lamartine by calling him that.
Journal des Débats, a friend of high finance, and to whom his classifieds sheet brings in more than three hundred thousand francs per year, once against the same article in three columns, where this insult to the poet was repeated Thirty times. Admirers of the style of this sheet
They found wickedness charming. Philanthropy Bankers exist only in words. They emancipate the blacks, but they persecute the Irish and refuse to assist dying Poland; it is for Poland dying, that was invented the ignoble "everyone at home".
Financiers also have their own religion; I don't know it I don't know them. Their tournaments are horse racing bets. where enormous sums of money are wagered on the skill of a Jockey and a horse's hock. 11 Some people buy their opponents' jockeys to be safer to win. We often play these good tricks on each other.
Racecourse stock exchange. I was wrong to advance pre-dementia that one did not see any Jewish farmers; he
On the contrary, there are those who successfully manage 1 pupil of the racehorse. On the rides of Longchamps, in place of the powdered marquises of the old regime, their dancers and their brillents crews, we see today appearing in the line one from the other, shoemakers' cars and shoe polish merchants, with the address of the retailers written in large, legible characters. We saw marchand's display their shop right in the middle of the trade fair. The Louvre, through compliant brushes.

As we have established everything at 1 o'clock a parallel between the various types of aristocracies, etc. Let us choose one among the various despotisms.

Monarchical despotism, a guarantee of protection and equality for the masses, only affects the social mites, like lightning striking great buildings, and the radiance it gives off is enough to illuminate a nation for centuries.

The despotism of the bloody aristocracy, crushing and inhumane for the vanquished race, ardently stimulates the feeling of national pride through grandeur and the character of his enterprises; he knows how to attach an importance to the prestige associated with the word "patrie" (homeland) was something to be a Roman citizen in the time of Pompey and Caesar; that's something today than to belong to the nation that defeated Napoleon and forced open the gates of the celestial empire.

World peace, the cause of brotherhood workers and peoples have no greater enemy This feeling of national pride and of rivalry, that the lords of the British aristocracy take such great care to maintain in the minds of their wretched serfs against everything that is not English, Industrial feudalism, heavier, more unstable— It is untenable that the noble feudal system bleeds a nation dry. white, it makes her stupid and debased, killing her at the same time both physically and morally. His despotism is the most Disgraceful to all for a generous nation.

ORIGIN AND DECLINE OF FEUDALITY. 139

This is the one we live under, the one we need break.

Now that we know who's leading us, let's explain. easily this continuous lowering system in front of the foreign, adopted by all our ministries without exception since 1830, and the eternal concessions of the political, and the decline of France from the rank this internal disorder, these complicities of the administration Intervention in commercial and electoral fraud the, of these transactions of conscience so common in the official regions, of these coalitions of cor-broken and corrupt from all classes, of this scandalous nepotism, these public sales of jobs plois, of these general revenue sharing between gen-father and stepfather, between brother and brother-in-law; of these daily conversations, in short, and from this de-progressive moralization that gradually infiltrates heart of the administration and the country.

A great misfortune, an immense evil, is that the press, when it reports on this shameful state of affairs, by placing the responsibility solely on the monarchy, and deflects this responsibility from the true perpetrators of the prevailing system. And would to God that royalty were still quite powerful and quite influential in our country to deserve blame or praise, regarding a any act of the administration. But, contrary-a leap into the fiction of constitutional government, It is the king who now cannot do well, hindered that it is by the coalitions of privileged merchants-

140 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

giés, and he is the one accused of all the evil that is Done. We saw it clearly in ten cases of political alliances. tic, and especially in that of precedent- Belgium duly cited. 11 There is also a very simple way to ascertain the facts and to judge who owns them Power and responsibility. To know in advance who reigns in France, see who the debates serve. The Day-The National Debates took sides with the merchants against the King of the French in the question of the Belgian union;
So it is the merchants who rule; therefore the king There are French people not named Louis-Philippe, and there are a host of kings of the French in France, and these suverains are called Pérrier, Delessert, Fulchiron, Bu-Geaud, Mimerel, and they are cattle breeders, cloth manufacturers and iron producers and native sugar. But the press, which is not afraid of attacking the official monarchy, wouldn't dare attack the real royalty; the press that should repeat all the days the names of the real culprits, carefully avoids a such indiscretion; and financial feudalism profits from this silence to continue the course of his acquisitions.
I'm getting to the story of these land grabs. But I have it is necessary to establish beforehand that, in fact, the capital is completely above the charter and the laws in arguments that I have already stated and on which I will return many times during the course of this work. But the matter is so serious and public opinion so- The republic has been so cruelly distorted for forty years on the subject I am dealing with, for which I hope I will be forgiven. I hope so, given my insistence and these repetitions.

LIES OF EACH. IM

CHAPTER VI.

Mcnetonges of the Charter.

I open the charter. What lies from the very first lines!

The charter states: Article V. All French people are equal before the law.

A noble and intelligent writer, whose eloquent The book caused almost a revolution in public opinion public, the author of The Mysteries of Paris ^ has exhausted this the question of inequality of citizens before the law, and His relentless criticisms were heard. Some magistrats from Holland, Italy, Sardinia, Germany Magne, informed France that the poor man was stripped at home of the rights he had enjoyed in various less developed states. From this comparison humiliating result was the proof that this nation French, who shed so much blood for the conquest of equality before the law, who wrote this principle in the head of his charter, as the most precious of all, was one of the most backward states in Europe, relating eagerly awaiting the enjoyment of this equality.

All French citizens are equal before the law. But What is the law without the courts to enforce it? I would like the Minors of the charter to explain to me, how the field proletarian and the craftsman of the city, whose only means of subsistence is their daily wages.

142 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

and a meager salary, and who cannot pay off either Neither a lawyer nor a solicitor should proceed to make a claim. They will receive the justice that is due to them in court. I will ask how the unfortunate man who does not have a hundred with the money at his disposal, he is the equal of the rich man before the

that the plaintiffs endowed with this sum. The equal of Rich! But I maintain that the father of the family, torn apart through the misery and hunger of his children, steals a sheaf of wheat in the neighbor's field, a thousand times more likely to end up in prison than as a notary and the stockbroker who flees to a foreign country stealing the millions entrusted to them; even more chances that the opulent Messalina, whose hand impatient and expert in chemical preparations, has sprinkled with morphine acetate, the beverage of a husband or father-in-law too tenacious in life. With a Little fantasy and feigned warmth, a lawyer Paris will be right three times against one of the conscience, judged by a timid and sensitive jury. But all the French citizens are not equal before the lawyer in Paris.

Article 2. All French citizens contribute to the expenses of the State in proportion to their wealth and their income.

That would be true if there were only... winegrowers and farmers. Oh! those ones, yes, the workers of the soil, the workers of noble industry, also contribute to the expenses of the State, in proportion of their work. They are all equally affected. and crushed by the tax, in all parts of the kingdom. Property tax that hits the product before that this product is shaped and suitable for conversion in cash; consumption tax, debit tax, traffic tax culation, octroi, indirect taxes including the costs of perception absorbs 28 percent of the amount received; the contribution affects them in all forms with admirable insistence.

CHARTER LIES. 143

But this is not the case for the wealthy capitalist, I said it earlier; capital doesn't pay. of tax. His industry, which fears neither fire, nor Hail, nor epizootics, is as clear as the earth of the lord of old. The government would not dare to impose it, because this rich man would take away from the government his voice and his newspaper. The rights to grant and flow which crushes the urban craftsman, and which interfere they say the use of butcher's meat and wine not counterfeit goods are not appreciated by the rich who don't buy them. not retail, and who only consumes products of superior quality.

Blood, it is the people who alone acquit. The capitalist who owns by his mortgage as a rentier and lender owner of all the lands of the kingdom, and who skims the income, does not even consider himself obligated to them to defend. He leaves that task to the mercenaries, to the in-poor people who don't have fifteen hundred francs to give, poof A replacement. Tomberau is out, it's for the unfortunate man. peasant, the obligation to abandon his plans to establish-sowing; a bad number is the ruin of his family, the loss of his freedom, without any hope of ambitious compensation. For the wealthy capitalist, this It's not even a concern. Those fifteen hundred francs that he The issue is not what needs to be given for a replacement. of a morning on the Stock Exchange, not even that of a game of a hot water bottle during a night of pleasure. It would be very- It is considered bad form to grieve over a loss in this world. also minimal.

ILTU OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Article 3. All French citizens are equally eligible. to civilian and military jobs.

The moral sense had to be already cruelly perverted in 1814 among the French nation, so that the legislators of this country dared to inscribe on the front-a preface to his charter, such an audacious untruth-potent. I want to let the facts speak for themselves, not the in-the dignification that these lies arouse in me.

I believe it is not accurate to claim that all the Citizens are also eligible for civilian jobs and military.

Because first you have to pay two hundred francs of tax to be a voter, and five hundred francs for to be eligible; and that the electorate and eligibility are all-powerful titles for admission to civil service positions under a representative government.

Representative government, let's not forget it But it's a British import. It's by consequently an institution designed to promote exclusion itively capital and to crush the worker. The gra-The termination of the functions of a member of parliament would by itself open the This opens the door to all kinds of corruption. It will be very expensive... "deputies without pay," said Mr. de Talleyrand to the author of the charter. Let's count what the majority Mr. de Villèle's vote for the billion cost the today, and we'll see if Mr. de Talleyrand said True. It is quite obvious that an administration that does not lives only by the majority and who controls the jobs public authorities will only entrust these jobs to those who can to serve her. And there is only one way to serve this administration, namely to maintain or increase its majority. For that, one must be a voter. However, (due to the French citizens are not voters. No money. No job.

CHARTER LIES. U5

The article is still lying, because, in order to be admitted to the position of sub-prefect, auditor at the Council of State, To be a judge, one must be a lawyer. However, to be admitted to the bar, one... You need to have enough money to keep going for ten years. the courses of a college, and the courses of the faculty of right for four more years; and this diploma of a lawyer, which can be bought, clearly proves the monetization capacity to be silent, but does not always prove intellectual ability elective. To become a notary, solicitor, agent of To change, you need gold, lots of gold. To be of- To be involved in scientific weaponry, one must have the means to gain admission to special schools. Then, to properly fill most jobs Whether administrative or judicial, one must be wealthy. heritage; because not one of these jobs is sufficient paid to allow the holder to live honorably reasonably with his emoluments.

Therefore, French citizens who cannot not to spend twenty thousand francs on their studies and their rights, are not eligible for all jobs civilians and military personnel.

That is to say, all liberal professions are subservient to wealth and inaccessible to capacity alone, and that Article 3 of the Charter lied as Article T' and Article 2.

Article 7, which enshrines freedom of the press, and 1 10

106 DEJLA FEUDALITÉ FINANCIÈRE.

which stipulates that every French person has the right to publish their opinion, plays just as insolently with good faith and truth; for it is necessary first to lay down a treasure when you want to publish your opinion, and then he You have to pay for the newspaper's format. The charter, so as not to not to lie, should say: "Every Frenchman has the right to to publish his opinion, when he has two hundred thousand francs in its crate.

I'll stop there; I've chosen the examples quite high up, and I've shown enough in these early stages to be in right to conclude that there is no capital provision of the fundamental law, which does not humbly bend faced with the omnipotence of money.

Money alone can determine the electorate's tax liability and the property qualification for eligibility, the value of the poor citizen is equal to zero, in this so-called land of equality. I I see no guarantee for him other than the right to pay the tax.
pot and the one to dismantle its guard, but that's all.

Let us now turn to an examination of the means that feudalism financial institutions employ a means to seize public wealth.
blique.

MEANS OF SEIZING PUBLIC WEALTH. U7

CHAPTER VII.

Means of misappropriating public funds.

The means employed by financial feudalism to The aim of achieving the seizure of public wealth is:
the monopoly on trade and everything that is inparasitic industry, usury monopoly, disguised as the name of credit; monopoly of legal wrangling, of nota-riat, from the press, and from all high positions financial. We will see that each of these functions are adapted from countless privileges constituting a true feudal system.

trade link.

Commerce being the power that reigns and governs Today in France, all French people have the right to publish their opinion on trade. Trade This can be discussed; he still has plenty of other privileges.
of inviolability without that one.

It would only take one line to do The history of trade. The nations that have traded the most particularly devoted to trade, in the

those who have left their mark on the memory of men, the most shameful and detested reputation—Isocrates the Athenian wrote twenty-two centuries ago,

148 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

that all nations are forced to arm themselves and to to unite against those who have usurped the empire of the sea, and who are the tyrants of humankind. He also said that Domination of the sea is a disturbing chimera the spirit of those who aspire to it.

The Jews, who are with the Genevans and the Greeks the most skillful traders in the world, and who do not that of trade, have not yet obtained the right of city in all civilized states. The Inquisition has was instituted against them in Spain. In France and elsewhere, they were long considered as em-Poisoners of fountains. The kaïd of Blida had come one day I will demand justice for the insolence of a Jew.
As I was trying to excuse his wrongdoings, and that I had ventured to express this bold opinion that after all, this Jew was a man, the kaïd took me her right hand in both of his, and asked me with a dismayed look, if it was really serious that I affirmed that a Jew was a man like him and me. The children of Lorraine are convinced that the Jews never approach each other without asking: Com-
How many Christians did you steal today? And indeed, What can two Jews say to each other today?
Exiting the Stock Exchange!

Among civilized nations, France was the last-to abandon his prejudices against trade.
I remember perfectly that our mothers defended us-used to spend time with the sons of merchants, under the pretext that there were only bad lessons and bad examples to be learned in the society of these little ones. And there is no good in that.
a long time, since I was born several years later

MEANS OF SEIZING PUBLIC FORTUNE. 149

the century, and that I have only seen five in France so far or six revolutions at most. Women conserved wind much better than we have noble instincts and generous. The painters also resisted bravely. to the contagion of ideas from economists who have rehabilitated Trade among us is difficult. But I know of great quarters of bankrupt stockbrokers, to mis-rabies that cut with their whips the faces of their mistresses steal their hair at night.

•

Definition of commerce.

There are three or four very famous definitions of trade.

Montesquieu said: Financiers support the State like the rope supporting the hanged man.

Fourier: Commerce is worth buying three francs which is worth six francs, and to sell for six francs what is worth worth three.

Jesus Christ told the merchants who had established Their shop in the temple: My father's house is a house of prayer ^ and you make it a cave of thieves.

The Greek allegory is prettier and more complete than these various definitions. The Greeks, those marvel-their minds, which were so well in tune with each other when painting the truth beneath the veil of allegory, which spoke of Love sons of Beauty, and who brought out Minerva all Jupiter's brain army, to express that the Wisdom had a mission to combat Error, the Greeks had placed under the patronage of the same god, Elo-

150 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

quence, Commerce, and Thieves;... and this god, their Mercury Trismegistus, was furthermore charismatic to lead souls to Hell.

Jesus Christ, Fourier, Montesquieu, paganism, This is a rather overwhelming contest of authorities against the morality of commerce.

Nature, which does not vary in the expression of its Feelings like those of a man are no less cruel. that Christ and Greek antiquity are represented in the emblems of the trade it offers us.

It's mistletoe, a parasitic plant that lives at the expense of
of the tree on which it takes root, - which blossoms When this tree loses its leaves, - who has the leaf contains a viscous juice (glue), suitable for taking the birds (the dupes).

It's the tapeworm, a parasitic worm that feeds on the a food substance for humans, which weakens them and It reduces him to nothing.

It is above all the spider, this admirable and striking shopkeeper's emblem. A hideous insect, all claws-fes, tout jeux, tout ventre, mais qui n'a pas de chest, that is to say, room for the heart! – The arai-Gnée spreads her web like a trafficker his shop, in all places, in all passages where there are flies or barges to catch. – She withdraws in a kind of dark den carved into the back of his network, and from where she sees everything that happens outside, like the trafficker in his back room-behind her peephole (a Jewish name). – She builds her a trap set in such a way that she is warned of the slightest visit by the general upheaval of its canvas, like the shopkeeper by the doorbells of all his doors and All its windows are lined. – The spider doesn't rejects the corpse of his victim only after having sucked all the blood, like the merchant who did not refers to his practice only after having extracted everything from him the money from his purse. – There are veno- spiders mutes, just as there are wine and tea sellers who poison their goods. – Finally, in In this species, the big ones eat the little ones!.... Messa-businesses, railways, anarchic competition....

MEANS OF SEIZING PUBLIC WEALTH. 151

The present era testifies to his devotion to Mer-cure, god of commerce, eloquence and of thieves. The statue of this swift-footed god, in acrobatic posture, admirably positioned in the middle from the main courtyard of the grand hotels on Lafitte Street. It also creates a charming effect at the roundabout of these dark and smoky galleries, which are called passages and which are exclusively devoted to the com-Merce. The bronze Mercury in the Galerie de l'Argue In Lyon, he had his body pierced by more than one bullet. proletarian in April 1834. The eviction of the god of the com-merce, pierced through and through by the lead of the weavers – there would be some there for Mr. Michelet material for ingenious connections.

The statue of the god of eloquence is missing from the palace gold in the mouth.

But let's rid the definition of commerce of every allegory and every epigram, and let us call it his real name.

1.52 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

What trade should be, and by what means it must be exercised.

Trade is the agent of the distribution of products, the intermediary agent between production and the consumption. It is an administrative function by which. Essentially, commerce distributes but does not create.

Social wealth can be summed up in two terms, the Production and consumption. Production is the first term of wealth. Soil is rich, a country is rich, regardless of human labor, by its nature, its climate, its vegetative power. But man does not produce for the sole pleasure of to produce; and so that it may produce beyond what might be enough for his consumption, it needs to be stimulated by the certainty of exchanging the superfluous of his production against foreign products from which it will derive advantage and well-being. Work was unknown in the paradisiacal era as well as in Tahiti, during the discovery of America, because the richness of the soil provided ample- relates to the consumption of the inhabitants. Production is therefore a slave to consumption. That is what this suggests that the value of the product is proportional on demand, or that the value is the ratio of the supply of the product to the demand. The mission of the commerce is to facilitate exchanges between the products of various latitudes and diverse peoples, to transport • These are the products that consumers demand, and to establish the balance between supply and demand for to determine the value of the products.

The activity of consumption reacting on the production. In production, it is important to promote consumption by every imaginable means. Man has an interest in to take advantage of all the resources of the globe that God He gave it to him to exploit, and consumption is the indispensable to the individual's material happiness. The difference that exists between opulence and comfort, Comfort, poverty, misery, is only a difference in consumer preference.

MEANS OF SEIZING PUBLIC WEALTH, 153

To activate consumption, and consequently production, it is necessary to minimize the transport costs, that is to say the remuneration of the intermediary agent responsible for transporting the products where they are meant to be consumed. That's why in all countries of the world the establishment and the improvement of communication routes, by water or on the ground, which makes transport less dispensable and faster, are rightly considered like the first public utility companies. This is also why it is important that the State be solely responsible for construction and administration, of these trade routes.

In a well-organized society, commerce, The distribution agent is only entitled to a simple brokerage fee proportional to the value of the service rendered. In this company, the price of the delivered item represents the cost price of the object, plus the producer's legitimate benefit, plus the price of transport.

The cost price of the item, and the remuneration of the carrier, legitimate rights due to the producer are given by the true currency, unknown element of appreciation under the current anarchic regime. Transportation costs and the remuneration due to the carrier are fixed by referees. I am not adding to this overall price the premium to be levied for national tax, because, In a well-ordered society, taxes are not levied on production, nor on consumption, nor on the transport, but of course, the overall income figure, on actual wealth. The municipality, as soon as it is organized, and each year reviews its benefits. The wing levies for the State, from its income, the share that the State demands of him. Any tax that is not collected on income inevitably falls on the responsibility of worker. Article 3 of the charter will not be a truth that when the law has found a way to impose the income, and the result is less difficult to achieve than one I don't think so, although it involves substituting loyalty to lying in business transactions. The no more difficult to establish than that of a house of trade. The only institution of the trading post. municipal, whose organization has been described in various books from a socialist school and in the newspaper Peaceful Democracy would already be making considerable progress the question. The practice of collecting tax on profits-fices has long been maintained in the administration of some important cities in the North, the cities Ansea, Lübeck, Bremen, where loyalty and good faith has presided until recently over the re-trade principles.

154 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

In this regular and organized society, the distribution bution only uses the necessary number of agents to ensure the transport and placement of the products. She gets rid of this multitude of intermediaries parasites that are currently distorting its institution, which overload the products with expensive prices, which They refine the goods, which they then resell at a lower price. of the cost price, which does not prevent them from withdraw at a profit, by means of bankruptcy. Finally, the distribution agency, wisely organized, replaces lies and fraud with loyalty and Truth, the complication of the springs through simplicity and the regularity of allocations, waste by economy, and commercial anarchy by order.

MEANS OF SEIZING PURPOSE FORTUNE. 155

I said what trade should be, the slave docile in production and consumption, the agent loyal to the distribution of products. Let's see what he is today.

What commerce is.

Commerce is not the docile slave of production, nor that of consumption; on the contrary, He is their master, and a tyrannical master. fuck.

Trade controls production and consumption At his mercy, the capital hanging over his throat. It is he who fixes at his discretion, the production price, that is to say-state the remuneration due to the worker. 11 reduces this price at its minimum while simultaneously raising it to its maximum-mum that of consumption of which it is also the arbitre. He buys three francs worth six and sells six francs, which is worth three.

The capital originally went to trade, because that the profits from trade were unlimited, like those of production, because trade was the closed field for the adventurous pursuers of the fortune; and finally because the most consciences Large people were always at ease there. The alliance of Capital and trading markets tightened daily in days until complete merger, and this merger of two elements in one has doubled the power of e-crushing of each of them. The preeminence of the element-Commercial management, in any company, is a sure sign that anarchy reigns within this society. Capital must go to production in a Regular society, that's its natural inclination.

156 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Capital-backed trade makes the decline when he needs to lower the price of a material first, cotton, silk, oils, cereals. The produc-the author, deprived of advances, unable to wait for his returns as long as the big capitalists, is forced to sell at the price he dictates. The capitalist immediately seizes the product and then he does the rise; he has a thousand ways to achieve it. So the ma-a manufacturing plant that needs silk or cotton for food to build his factory; the baker who needs to fa-Nothing to make bread, buy at the right price to the sole holder of this commodity.

The game of commerce has only one stroke, the monopolizer-It's a lie, but this shot is pretty much a sure thing.

When capitalists want a monopoly, they do not shy away from using the means of con-They will sacrifice ten million, if necessary. to ruin a rival company, a messaging service, a loan auction, a railway. This is high comedy.

The charter states that no tax can be levied.

MEANS of appropriating wealth. 7

if it has not been voted on by the chambers, the work charter! the Prohibition is good for tax agents, but Those in free trade have no need to worry about prescriptions of sovereign law. Us strike at the more concerned with the authority of the chambers than with the inconvenience taxpayers. But it is fair to recognize that taxpayers have never thought to complain about these usurpations of commerce. When the taxpayer is ruined by the abuses of the upper class, by the swings of speculation, of which the High commerce holds the lever or the scourge in its hands. As they say, this exasperated, honest taxpayer... takes part in the government, he even unites willingly against the government with the artisans of its own ruin. Liberalism will never wash away its alliance with the bankers.

High commerce or high banking, these words are anonymous ^the big banker being always more or less refiner, candle seller or manufacturer- (cant of plates), high commerce has a monopoly on banking and transport, these two branches of industry that Emperor Napoleon once had the inclination to take for the State. The bank and transport are the two large pipes of a suction machine and crushing forces that extracted all the gold acquired within a given time quit by the worker, to pay it into the fund of the lazy capitalist, and the power of attraction of the Capital is directly proportional to its mass.

This is how commerce is the subjugated slave and docile in production and consumption.

The Jews, I call by that name, as we know, all the cash merchants, the Jews hold today- of today the couriers, the railways, the canals. The channels that do not belong to them outright, the State alienates their enjoyment of it for eighty-nineteen years old, with the right to review and amend it modify the rates. This right to revise the rates is nothing other than the right of life and death over the industry of such and such a country. The ordinance of the 17 April 1843, which the Geneva bankers imposed to the French government, immediately removed several branches of trade between the south of the France and Germany. The state that does not have the right to relinquish its sovereign right of revision all taxes, the State, in the throes of its devotion to high finance, has done more than possible for her. However, one can judge based on only one for example, the danger of granting so much latitude, in of the canal owners, there is one, that of the Loing canal, which never wanted to reduce a single of its tariffs, nor widen its locks; which has driven out Paris market, Saint-Étienne coal and wines of Auvergne; which has rendered almost all useless these very expensive pipeline companies that were intended to connect the navigation of the Rhône basins, from the Rhine, the Saône and the Loire, to that of the basin of the Seine. The resistance of the Loing company, that the current finance minister has stated to be a true public calamity, paralyzing trade of thirty departments of France; but what he What's incredible is that the finance minister possesses the 'legal means' to stop what he calls it a public calamity and he doesn't dare to user.

158 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Means of misappropriating public funds. 159

11. Indeed, there is an imperial decree from March 1810. constitutive of the property of the Loing canal, which dis- it is stated that the tariffs for this canal will be revised in 1840. 11. It has therefore been six years since the State was endowed with all the means of ending this public calamity that de- laments the finance minister, six years that the minister is backing away from enforcing the law. He is perhaps waiting- to be that a new centrist MP will come and ask a second time expropriation for reasons of utility public of a property belonging to the private domain of the crown.

Because this is a painful thing to think about and to to say: The ownership of the Loing canal, key to navigation the Loire congregation, is part of the private domain of the crown. As if the legitimist press and the press radical policies had not tarnished the monarchy's image in a sufficiently negative way. a large number of imaginary misdeeds, gentlemen administrators of the private domain wanted this hostile press would at least have one legitimate grievance to exploit, and that she had the right to say: that the silvery harshness administrators of the private domain, were obstructing to the territorial and industrial prosperity of thirty decades departments. I don't think the government of July, which has many enemies, had more dangerous than the administrators of the private domain, than those on the civil list, those people whose stinginess proverbial maintained the place for fifteen years of the Carrousel in a state of disrepair, despite the prescriptions- provisions of the law establishing the civil list, which left-

160 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Thus, to return to the tyranny of commerce,
We do not see a disastrous claim by capital, without the cowardice of the administration on the side.

When these high-ranking banking barons became con-
To cede the Normandy line, they appealed to their brothers of England, like the crows who They cry out in Fair at the scent of great prey. This are English engineers and English workers who built the road to Rouen. They were engineers English engineers who built these tunnels of the chemin of iron from Rouen, whose delicate vaults reclaimed so many niceties; they are strangers who carried out these works which the commissioners of the gouvernment refused to receive. The Ba- viaduct Rentin, who didn't even wait to collapse, passage of the first convoy from Paris to Le Havre, is also of English manufacture; if it could have stood upright Six more months, and his death would have caused the death of a a thousand people. It seems that our learned schools had not been deemed capable of developing engineers Force builders to construct the Barentin viaduct! The
The day after the accident, the finance minister... congratulated himself in front of the chambers, for having been able to put in place France benefited from the experience of the English, in railway matters. Our learned schools were not not in a position to provide sufficiently expert engineers to lead this national enterprise – France, who possesses three to four billion in cash, was not rich enough to provide the capital that this job required!

It is said that it was the Jews of Spain who introducedsired the Moors in the Peninsula, and those of Polo-

MEANS OF ACCUMULATING THE PURIFYING FORTUNE. l() Ut. Ittl

The Russians in Warsaw. This Mendizabal who wanted Selling Spain to England must be Jewish.
French Jews will have endowed their homeland with the engineer and of the English worker. Nor did we want that It was the State that benefited from the transport price of French travellers and French goods;
We found something more national and more in line with healthy practices. doctrines of political economy to reserve this be-profit to English speculators!

The Englishman in Rouen! The Englishman receiving a standing ovation public and decorations presented by the minister trade in the city where the English set fire The Maid! Poor Joan of Arc! They've granted amnesty to your executioners, before glorifying your memory instead of your torment; and the great poets and the great sculptors your brothers have not yet dared to avenge you for the insults of Voltaire. What a fine subject for sculpture, though—dant!... The Englishman, in the guise of the angel of darkness—bres, vanquished and trampled underfoot by the virgin ra—Goddess, in the pose of the liberating archangel, there, in the very place where the defeated English burned it all alive.

Noble Princess Marie, you alone, you, the daughter of king, have you considered using art to consecrate the memory of the heroic virgin, daughter of the people; that is why posterity, which began so soon for you, will unite now, in his pious admiration, your glory immortal artist to the national glory of the one whose Your poetic scissors have rediscovered the features!

To consolidate the power of the financial aristocracy—already master of the bank, the channels and the messaging services, these major drivers of commerce, we give him
I 11

162 OE FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

grants the railways. All the institutions of credits have belonged to him for half a century. Before twenty years there she will have been driven by the force of the cho—their aim was to become masters of all industries. are surprised in Paris that the administration of the railway Rouen has monopolized the trucking industry for the transport of goods arriving in Paris by this way. What will they say when they see the Jews of the railways in possession of all the forges, of All the factories, all the manufacturing plants? We need Although a monopoly is established, how can it be fought against?
three manufacturers who have their products transported Free! The Versailles court will tire of condemning the Rouen railway at one hundred thousand francs of dom—interests towards the Seine riverboatmen. Con—Let us continue the examination of the oppressive privileges of the com—merce.

Bank.

As we live in the age of fiction and a bank in Paris that brings them mountains of gold, an institution through which they have monopolized the benefit of all the Paris discount and a large part of that of France. He is not coming back, of all these discounting operations, one cent of benefit to the State, and they called their bank, The Bank of France!

This so-called Bank of France, this coalition big bankers, if you prefer, received the privilege of minting coins and practicing usury, but of triumphant, thirty-six-carat wear and tear,

MEANS OF SEIZING PUBLIC WEALTH. 1.63

She has the right to issue three times the value on paper. their cash capital. As she lends to 4 percent on a single capital and that it has three capitals for one, it follows that it lends real-ment at 12, sometimes even at 15 and 16, and the The proof is that the bank's shares, which are of a thousand francs, are worth three thousand three hundred today one hundred francs, and at that rate yield 4 percent. The dividend each year approaches one hundred and five how many francs. And when I say that the bank of Paris ready at 4, I'm being very generous to her. Big bankers, shareholders of the bank, do not lend at this rate than on effects bearing their own signature, and this precious signature, which gives the discount privilege, they have already sold it 1, 1 1/2, 2 percent to the bearer of the bill to be discounted. This bank is an admirable mechanism. France, and it's a real shame that not everyone is aware of it. He doesn't understand the power and the game!

Not that I blame this provision of the law which allows the bank to triple its representation capital, on the contrary; nothing seems to me more ingenious- better than this combination which allows to reduce the interest rate for the borrower, at the same time that we increase the interest rate for this loan by means of creating fictitious capital. This is there one of the most wonderful results of credit and a result whose consequences would be far-reaching, with a A government endowed with a little intelligence. But what which I find supremely absurd and sub- truly unjust in this concession of the privilege The law of wear and tear is that the benefit of this wear and tear, carried out on the general transactions of the pavs, not re-Don't come to the State, that is to say, to all of us. I am asks again why, since the bank has the right to triple one's capital, and that it is not proven that it can't also quadruple it, why Ron would not try to reduce his es- rate account for 3 percent. Three times three would make-brand new, just talking about the discount, and that's it That's still a pretty nice little sum for capitalists. reasonable. Then there would no longer be any reasons for not going down successively to two, that is-that is to say up to six, since $3 \times 2 = 6$, and I believe that it This method could potentially negate a decrease. general in the rental price of capital across all the surface of the kingdom and in every kind of trans-stocks. The indefinite decline in the income from idle capital. is the law of progress of societies. The Bank of Angle-earth one day resolved to reduce its es-counts for two and a half. What's stopping us from doing it?

France, what we do in England. And how our Don't industrialists understand that it will be completely impossible to compete with TAugleterre, as long as the money is cheaper in London than in the Place de Paris?

If the Bank of France were worthy of bearing this title, if the Bank of Paris was truly the ban-that national, a bank mortgaged on the for-public tuition, today a vote would suffice House of Representatives to reduce the price of money at 3 percent in France; and the small farmer and the small industrialists who would see this reduction take place

MEANS OF SEIZING PUBLIC FORTUNE, KiS

on the interest rate on the loans they are obliged to take out to draw up before a notary, those who would see the capital to become more humane, under a decision of the chamber, com-would begin to understand the solidarity that exists into their fortune and that of the State; and they would become accustomed finally to consider the public revenue figure as the thermometer of their prosperity.

I advise all revolutionaries to re-to take the bank away from the Jews and give it a monopoly The state. Banking, transportation, and insurance are institutions that cannot produce all their useful results only in the hands of the government.

It is a great misfortune for France that the Emperor-reur, who did not admit the legitimacy of the profits of commerce, and who distrusted bankers and suppliers, did not dare to follow up on the idea that he one day had the opportunity to seize control of the bank and the transport business. The Moscow disaster would not have happened in the first place, because it is the coalition of Jews of that time which, in retro- during the departure of the six-week expedition, brought the disaster; and the Emperor, after having saved France from the bloody regime of anarchy, would have liberated her equally element of the ignominious yoke of silver feudalism he would have left in the memory of men the most glorious serious of all names, and his popular dynasty re- would reign over us today.

We did not have a Napoleon at the head of the government. government since 1815, and the government, since that day, was no less guilty in his complai- sessions for the encroachments of industrial feudalism trielle, that the people and the newspapers have not admitted

166 b FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

gles in expressing their sympathies for the Jews. I read in a liberal newspaper that enjoyed a great popularity in its heyday, a very- warmly opposed the state monopoly on the telegraph. The esteemed organ of democratic interests demands- said that each individual had the right to establish his telegraph line to him and to speculate at his leisure on the public funds - However, the people are not agitating; the people have no money to build telegraph lines phiques.... That's true, but the opposition newspapers systematic, they are indeed worried about the truth! Their pa- Trioism consists of accusing the power, not defending it. the people.

The Bank of France, which belongs to capitalists of Geneva and Judah, recently decided that there is no would have more provincial banks, competition from These things having become detrimental to her interests, she de- consequently orders that the State not renew the privilege of the banks of Bordeaux, Lille, Le Havre, and it offers to replace each of these establishments- ments by one of its trading posts. Solomon, who was Jewish, was quite right to put the merchant's purse in number of the three things that are never drunk.

It is likely that the government will obey the in-

Wear.

Wear and tear is crippling the national labor force in France.
tax that your most competent writers assess to over two billion per year! Not only The government is doing nothing to stop the devastation.

MEANS OF SEIZING PUBLIC WEALTH. 167

of the scourge, but he doesn't even dare to take advantage of it against the Jews of the oppression they exert on the people by Wear and tear. He's not cunning enough to make himself understood. to the working people that this is the tax of usury and not the budget that's killing them. He's letting himself be accused. of taxation and represented under the image of a vampire thirsty for the sweat of the people, because it rewards them with a Insufficient wages for poor public servants and he doesn't have the courage to point the finger at the people his true enemies, the true vampires, and of tell him: a These are the ones your curse must strike-per!... » This book was written with the intention of coming to aid the government and give it heart.

Furthermore, I vehemently suspect the legisl-author who drafted the French law against usury, for having wanted to encourage the profession of loan shark. If I ca-I am quite excusable in my thoughts; he is well it is permissible to be mistaken about the intention, in judging based on the facts.

Thus, the law prescribes a severe penalty against the capitalist who lends at a rate higher than 5 or 6 percent. This is a huge legislative error:
Money is a commodity like any other.
a commodity whose value is fixed by the rapport of the otire on request. The interest of the ex- capital The stake, whether placed or loaned, must be in line with the odds of loss or success and the solvency of the company lender. One cannot lend on the result of a machine to experiment at the same rate as on the first mortgage on a building. Defend against honest capitalist man to lend above the legal rate for speculators and artisans without guarantees

168 OF YOUR FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

For the adventurous industrialist, it's simply a matter of delivering this speculator, this craftsman, this industrialist, feet and at 1 wear and tear the entire field of lucky business; and the usurer, who has no pity to fear from the competition of The honest man takes advantage of the monopoly to exploit to doubly ter the unfortunate man who is delivered to his mercy. Not only does he charge her exorbitant prices the chances of non-repayment of the loaned capital, but he is still compensated for the chances of danger legal consequences he faces, in his capacity as a loan shark. the less the borrower would have to pay off this last- no more premium on usury, if the honest capitalist was allowed to compete in these kinds of transactions. It was certainly a lawyer who drafted this law. There, if not a friend of the Jews. Turgot, the great mi- minister who said that the property of the arms, that is to say- to say the right to work was more sacred than anything the other properties, did not share the opinion of our greatest jurists on usury. Solon, the The Athenian legislator left all latitude to trade in species and authorized usury, which brought 1 gold from all countries into the coffers of Athenian merchants, the most daring speculators of autiquity^ But you don't need to be Turgot or Solon to understand that all the laws made against usury turns to the benefit of the usurer.

It must be noted that such an honorable man, who has become minister for having reduced the ap-

- The Athenians of Pericles' time were familiar with the letter of currency exchange, marine insurance and the bar

MEANS OF SEIZING PUBLIC WEALTH. 109

poiaterments de queues-iins of his former brothers of arms, in the name of the people's interests, has no right to- demanded the reduction of the smallest cent on the budget- get TWO BILLION from wear and tear.

This is because wear and tear is an industry whose mono- pole has always belonged to the Jews, and that by the current period of tolerance and philanthropy, Everything in our country that pertains to the Jews is inviolable and sacred. They had once had it engraved on their banknotes of the bank, that the counterfeiter was punished by death. Violating the privileges of bankers, what an abominable crime! Unbelievable! Only death was capable of expiating this for- Done. Go ahead and demand the death penalty against the public poisoners who adulterate flour, the wine, tea, with poisonous drugs, which lead chromate! It would be a beautiful sight to see how the

The Journal of Economists would receive the sole claim that they wanted to hinder the freedom of trade. The Journal of Economists, having learned that an Academy-provincial family, from Rouen or Reims, had The question of stopping the embezzlement was put to the test. competition without hindering freedom of trade ^ answered this very important and dignified question to be taken into consideration, by the buffoonery above-Next: we ask how to make a horse run. by tying its four limbs together. It's the same sheet who, hearing of a riot in Elbeuf, pro-seriously considered creation as a remedy to the crisis of a chair of political economy at said place.

170 OF FEUDALITY FI1\ANCTÈRE.

Bankruptcy.

There is another usury right known as commercial credit, and which has as its corollary the privilege-the law of impunity for theft; it is the right of bankruptcy, in-core a sacred right in the eyes of economists and the French people.

Such a merchant whose commercial credit is thirty a thousand francs, embarks on a reckless speculation which is, strictly speaking, just a bet on the rise or fall of the first commodity available, Oil, sugar, soap. He's starting with even more with the ardor that he only has thirty thousand francs to lose in in case of disaster, and that he has one hundred thousand francs to earn in Success story. Did luck turn in our favor? That's the question.
A skillful man, an honorable merchant. The people glorifies the fortunate speculator, who, thanks to credit which he managed to obtain through his lies, by inflating the figure of his assets, he withdrew from his thirty thousand francs an usurious interest of 500, of 1000 for 100.
Whether luck turns bad, on the contrary, our
The player gets away with just telling the poor devils that he plunges into misery: "What do you want, My friends, I had invested your savings and my hopes. on the red one, and it was the black one that came out; accuse the injustice of fate and respect my misfortune. I tell you I offer 10 percent of the capital you entrusted to me. when I could offer you nothing: go in peace.
and give thanks to God.

One could, however, reply to this unfortunate man

Means of misappropriating public wealth. 171

"We did not entrust you with our savings for play them at the roulette wheel of the Stock Exchange, but for you to assist in the operations of a domestic business. It is therefore a real theft, a real abuse of power. the commitment you made, by exposing yourself to the chances gambling involved money that didn't belong to you. The vo- their highway robbery at night at the edge of the woods, a short risk of the scaffold in committing his crime; he did not seek to capture the fiancée of the traveler, to seize his purse; he is less criminal than you. Commercial credit has a natural limit, and that gives rise to your speculations enough latitude still so that you don't have to care to cross it. Since commercial operations- commercial transactions are simply series of buying and reselling. you had to calculate approximately the differences these, that is to say the chances of losses to which you explain these operations, and stop at the figure of these differences that your own capital can cover. Beyond this limit, you're playing with money that... didn't give you a chance to play; you're playing with the ar- "You're stealing someone else's people..."

All of this is quite true, but it will not fail learned economists, to respond to this reasoning- that if we were to accept such theories, all commercial transactions would become impossible, and that with such scruples, Mr. Marquis Aguado de Las Marismas could never have won in a few years a fortune of twenty million, the castle of Petit-Bourg and its hotel on Grahge-Batelière Street! A great misfortune indeed, when the Marquis of Las Marismas wouldn't have earned twenty million! One

172 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

A Jewish newspaper once mentioned Mr. Aguado's fortune. as an example of encouragement for workers laborious.

They do not want to understand that if Mr. The Marquis of Las Marismas earned millions, that's that probably others have lost them. You don't See how happy a rich man is; have you calculated from How much misery, despair, and suicide! perhaps, the happiness of this favorite of

Alas! these protests of probity and reason are too weak to fight against the torrent of ideas of today, and the law that encourages bankruptcy was made for a people among whom the moral sense was already corrupted. I said it: we were English by Our theories are revolutionary, we still are more through our business theories. We have glo-
The speculator, whom our fathers despised, was reviled.
Bankrupts are the Bayards of feudal finance cière, the wounded nobles of the great industrial battlestrielles. Bards and minstrels, tune your Drunk on the tuning fork of the century's ideas, and draw from it the chords the most touching and most sweet to sing the
The downfall of the treacherous molasses. Inhabitants of Montmorency, simple villagers with pure morals, braid flower crowns to adorn the forehead of virtuous Kessner, that good and compassionate man for the miseries of the worker, so generous to the poor people of his parish, but who one day forgot himself even stealing eight million from the treasury of which he was the Cashier. Eight million, is that all!

Regarding stealing the treasure, the suppliers and the

MEANS OF ACCUMULATING WEALTH. PUHI.igUE. \Tô common people adopted the maxim that stealing Government was a venial sin. I have often heard the people's humility, the bourgeois himself, exprisea the wish to be only two hours minister of finances. M goes to certain classes of society where everything the world is perfectly convinced that a minister finance is a man who has no other be-he's only interested in piling up coins, and to whom he belongs permitted to divert the quantity he deems appropriate netable, for his own personal account. For these people-There, the Ministry of Finance is the only enviable one. They are also in the habit of taking no account of the known figure for an employee's salary. "You don't "Don't talk about the stick trick," they object. with a deeply knowing look, when you teach them the figure;^ d(s emoluments of a sub-prefect or a judge. It is very painful to think that all these people-This only serves to reinforce the administration he is accusing. his habits and the vices that are in his own thought. Certainly, this people needs attention.

To moralize him!

In principle, bankruptcy is never excusable; it major, like a robbery that would strip you of everything—completely, a shipwreck, a fire, or a flood donation. The law, by encouraging it through its excessive tolerance has led to abuses, including those affecting workers. is primarily a victim. Off-site, all these fail—lists that we see succeeding one another daily in the major trading centers, they can be summarized inevitably led to a work stoppage and unemployment. of industry somewhere. Now, unemployment of what—

Naked from Financial Feudalism.

a few days, in that time when anar— competition
The chicique has reduced wages to a minimum, and where the ou—Friday lives almost everywhere on a daily basis, it's the arrival of misery, hunger and despair for the me—the nage of the industrious poor. These criminal statistics new ones whose figures are swelling so rapidly from year to year in a year, they peremptorily denote the ravages of the depravity of morals; but this depravity is merely a consequence of widespread misery; and the periodic stagnation of business and the backlash industrial crises are largely responsible for the lag—worsening of this misery. Every day reports evil, the novelist and the poet, like the administrator author; every day the press records the story of some unfortunate woman died of hunger; every day the courts have to collect the supplication of which—that individual picked up on the public road and solicited citing the benefits of incarceration, and yet neither the Neither the despair of the people nor the terror of the rich will prevail.
to draw power from his incurable apathy.

Two years ago, workers in England... aimed to present a petition to parliament in which they demanded the ministers be forced to guarantee each worker the remuneration ratio of his work, otherwise to abdicate power for cause of incapacity... These good people, who had imagined, as I did, that the ministers were made to ensure that the people did not die of Hungry! Reading the petition provoked hilarity. touching within the honorable assembly. From on this side of the strait, the ministerial newspapers the Globe and the Debates were welcomed by charming sar—

MEANS OF SEIZING PUBLIC FUNDS. 176

In cases where claims are so logical and so simple,

Great nations had no other fish to fry!
These workers are now truly becoming a force to be reckoned with.
Demand! . . . Laugh until you're stuffed, write without compassion, and serve the tranquility of the sated egoists, by denying the misery of the masses; above all, try to postpone the day where these unleashed masses will remind your ministers that they once held the charge of the people, and their de-will be held accountable for what they have done for this people, when they held power.

Your rights in detail.

The right to bankruptcy is the right to theft on a grand scale.
scale; but industrial feudalism does not despise She sacrificed small profits to large ones. She did granting commerce the privilege of impunity Flight details.

The coal merchant who sells under false weights, who mixes his wheat flour, bean flour, or plaster; the right-a guide who uses magnesium carbonate for feverish patients for quinine sulfate; the wine merchant who debite to its practice, under the name of Bordeaux or Bourgogne, a drink made entirely from scratch and in which only lacks one other ingredient than juice of grapes; all these honorable shopkeepers have the right to steal and poison with impunity the people. The law, when it is very severe, pro-announces a fine of one franc, sometimes three francs, against the corrupt baker, to whom his
The prevarication brought in one hundred francs that very morning;

176 OF Funeral Feudalism.

She never dared to pronounce the suspension, even temporary, of the guilty industrialist; she retains all its harshness for the unfortunate man whom hunger has driven to steal a one-pound loaf of bread, offered to his covetousness on the front of a shop, or the sheaf of Wheat spread out in the neighbor's field. There is hardly any risk of imprisonment for this last crime, under the pretext that the The sheaf is entrusted to public good faith. The baker-apparently does not abuse the good faith publique, when he weighs his bread with a wooden scaleteuse. The law is fairer in Türkiye: first, it does not let the man die of starvation, for lack of a piece of bread; then she nails the baker by his ears at the door of his establishment, and the-
The sign at least warns the passerby of the danger. I don't
It is not asking that French law borrow money here.

justice took care to indicate to the customers, by a written notice the water that she would have hung on the baker's door unfaithful, the number of convictions that the thief has endured. It is customary, on major roads, to to line dangerous passages with a guardrail; for- what not to report to the public, as a precaution similarly, the unsanitary workshops in which he runs Is there a risk of being poisoned or robbed?

This is the case here of opposing small-scale fraud. free inhabitants the usual loyalty of the agents of the mo- state monopoly, tobacco and gunpowder retailers, For example. When a tobacconist is caught Caught red-handed in the act of smuggling on our premises, he is on- the suspended field; its flow is closed; it is con- condemned to a very heavy fine which considerably reduces

MEANS OF SEIZING PURPOSE WEALTH. 177

(Iérableiueiit ses benéfices illicit. The fine is taken regarding the guarantee; it is revoked if fraud has was far too detrimental to the interests of the treasury. Therefore, complicity in smuggling is very rare. in France among these retailers, despite the enormous con- a summons for contraband tobacco that is being sold there. And Then, the issue is that retailers are subject to a sur- active monitoring and control of their competitors. This punishment that threatens the corrupt official is for the consumer the guarantee of quantity and of the quality of any product sold by the government These guarantees are even more comprehensive. with control of the currency whose production is a state monopoly and a model institution. The control of the tester, who is appointed by the governor government to which it provides a pro- guarantee proportionate to the importance of its operations, is, for the buyer of a piece of jewelry or gold or silver cutlery gent, a sure guarantee of the value of these objects. There can be no fraud, because the tester and the governments are responsible for this value at- tested by the brand's control. None of these ga- ranties do not exist for the customer in relation to the merchant free, and this lack of guarantee, vis-à-vis a single a bad-faith merchant, most often leads to for the mass of traders the consequences in- calculable. For example, the trade of Bordeaux or from another port ships to Constantinople, under the the name 'Champagne wine,' a drink that has another analogy with true Champagne than the ability to pop the cork. The consumers-

178 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

noncent to the wine of Aï and Sillery, for fear of Bordeaux Champagne. That's a lost opportunity. for the vineyards of Épernay and Reims, for a important national industry; and all the owners— silence and all the loyal merchants of these regions will pay for the crime of two or three scoundrels. The same scoundrels ship to Illo-Janeiro or to Mexico, colored fir tree rolls as a substitute for silk ribbons from Saint-Étienne, and the consum— Mexican and Brazilian citizens, outraged by the fraud from these unscrupulous shippers, obtain their supplies now in England, Switzerland, and Germany. The trade journals and the Academy of moral sciences, represented by the Journal of Eco— Nomists demand that the law respect these infamies. individual acts that compromise honor and interests material possessions of a nation. They claim that these are not there are only slight drawbacks to the freedom of the com— Mercy, which, like the spear of Achilles, heals the injuries she inflicts. I can see them clearly from here. the injuries that the Achilles' spear of competition; I don't see it either clearly the wounds that she has healed and recovered. The wound, in fact, is still bleeding: our products are expelled from the Levant, which formerly bought only from us. South America has taken its demands elsewhere. The Chinese consumer to whom the manufacturers The people of Elbeuf shipped sheets that transform the trousers turned into shorts, overnight will not want to expose himself to a second mishap of same kind. Meanwhile, the Union traders American and English, who are too clever

MEANS OF SEIZING PUBLIC WEALTH. 17 —

"People who can afford this kind of trickery, this fraud." regarding the quantity and quality of the merchandise, our rivals, I say, are actively working to suppress us to plant, and they succeed without much difficulty; for All their products are of superior quality. These. that England and the Union, the Union especially, com— adopt the principles of solidarity in matters of? trade. In the United States, there are controllers of> tobacco and flour, whose wages exceed those of our French ministers, because we have sen' controllers take care to ensure that it does not leave the ports of The republic has only one inferior product which would dishonor the country; and to give full grace. rent to buyers, they write on the barrel which contains holds the flour, tobacco or salted meat, the quantity, 1 quality and place of origin of the food product The government thus guarantees V sender loyalty.

Nothing would be easier than getting a a similar method for our maritime expeditions Many times, this state guarantee has been demanded. in the name of the honor of commerce; but the government-ment was afraid of upsetting the majority of the body commercial. Public opinion, on the other hand, has said that. if we were to invest the authority with the right to prevent 1, fraud, he would use it to corrupt voters... r Unfortunately, the voters are more corrupt than the government. government. Mr. de Cormenin, who was formerly friend of the people since he attacked the government.
Mr. de Cormenin acknowledged this truth a long time ago time, and in this, the friend of the people has shown

180 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

courage as much as reason, why his voters returned it to private life.

Meanwhile, the unlimited right to fraud, translation exact meaning of the word free competition, continues to dis-to honor French commerce abroad. But I don't then reasonably surprised by the indifference of government, with regard to trade fraud international. I don't see, in fact, why this a government that does not want to protect its citizens against the sale of poisoned wine, bread, and tea, would abandon this indifference in favor of the e-foreigner.

PriTiIô{>'e de l^ncurcérability.

One day, however, the law pretended to show itself-
It is very harsh on trade. She awarded the con-looting by body against the merchant who would not fulfill not his written commitments. The learned jurist who wrote this strict provision into the Code, must be a close relative of the person who made the provision which concerns Tusure. The severity of the law has made the negotiating a magnificent privilege with Vincarcérahilarity.

Indeed, the privilege of incarceration means that the licensed individual who offers no kind of guarantee, the pensioner, who has no creditworthiness, finds it possible to borrow, on the commitment of his individual freedom, of which freedom is important, which brings us back to customs of the Germanic tribes as recounted by Tacitus. This privilege is even if precious, let the unlicensed citizen abdicate every day is his own, that is to say, the privilege he has to avoid being imprisoned for non-payment, to be admitted to the same benefits as the patent holder. That is to say, the unlicensed borrower becomes all negotiating by day, using a bill of exchange, a simple change of formula in the obligation which temporarily makes him a merchant and renders him incarcerated. With this change of formula, he finds to borrow at a reasonable rate. Ultimately, When the patent holder wants to avoid prison, he still has the great resource of bankruptcy. Bankruptcy is a kind of commercial confirmation that relates to the netaking advantage of all the sins he has committed since the baptism.

MEANS OF SEIZING PUBLIC WEALTH. 181

We know the story of this great financier, of this famous speculator, who spent five years in Sainte-Pélagie to earn three million that he owed to a creditor fierce crier, one of his former partners in supply-army formations. The public generally found the A joke in very good taste.

What do you say now about this severity of the law that condemns to death or imprisonment, the counterfeiter of banknotes, and which allows the first patent holder to manufacture counterfeit money Naïe with her signature?

Here comes yet another of these anomalies, my-strueuses that we encounter at any moment in our institutions and which dishonor our Codes.

the merchant and the farmer.

We have just seen the merchant, the licensed one, admitted to discount one's paper or to borrow from the needs it for its more or less illicit operations. The merchant has only his credit, a purely chimerical, as demonstrated by the bankruptcies of the quidians. Let us, however, compare his position with that of the landowner, of the farmer. We will— On one side, we have the merchant, the parasitic industrialist, who has no other guarantee than his privilege of incarceration rehabilitated, surrounded by all the favors of the law, — of the other, the useful worker, the worker of the soil, the possessor of a pledge whose value is known, crushed under the strictness of the Code. The subject is serious enough to some clarification is needed.

182 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

The manufacturer without collateral borrows at 4 percent. I said, on a blank sheet of paper, without an intermediary agent. paid. The most favored owner does not borrow never on a first mortgage, unless... ten to TWELVE percent! And thanks to an intermediary.

I see the entire body of notaries rising as a single man, as when it came to burying the Teste proposal, and to protest with one voice against the exaggeration of this rate of 10 percent. I hasten to reply to the notaries:

"You frequently lend at 5 percent on pre-first mortgage I lend you even at 4, when the loan figure is a bit high and the investment very sure; and generally your fees do not increase with an interest rate of barely more than 1 in 100, the interest in the embryo. I agree with all of that: but let's be clear A little, for what amount are you lending?

I am asking you (I am asking you for what amount you lend to 4 or 5, relative to the total value of the pledge that

MEANS OF SEIZING PUBLIC WEALTH. 183

Are you mortgaging your property? I'm asking if you're lending. at 4 percent, for the entire value of the immovable furniture? n

The notaries' association tells me no, that it does not made a loan at 4 and 5 on the first mortgage that for half, or at most two-thirds, of the value of the building; fifty thousand francs, sixty thousand francs on a building valued at one hundred thousand francs. So, I agree with the notaries, and they had great It was wrong to protest against my statement earlier.

of a mortgage of fifty thousand francs, that is to say—to say for half its value, the owner does not can no longer borrow except at a usurious rate for the other half. The fact is undeniable and it is natural. We knows perfectly well that the owner who must cin— forty thousand francs on a building worth one hundred thousand francs, will never repay this debt with his income in five years, the usual term for bonds mortgages, nor in ten years either. So if this The building can only be vacated through expropriation. a capitalist will not invest his funds in an event— almost guaranteed tuition of a trial; and how Should I invest again? On a second mortgage, when? the value of the land can decrease by half while suddenly, through the effect of a revolution, so that that the value of his pledge be completely destroyed. To pass an experienced capitalist on the disadvantages of a loan secured by a second mortgage include: It is necessary to offer him significant advantages, that is to say substantial interests. That's why the owner who has borrowed at 5 on first mortgage, for half of the value of his land, borrows 10 for the other half, more often at 12 than at 10. I'm talking about the pro— owner who has no other income than that of his building.

184 OF FEUDAL MAINCIERY.

A piece of land worth one hundred thousand francs therefore only has one valued at fifty to sixty thousand francs for the honest capitalist. I then ask if a loan to 5 or 6 percent, which begins by reducing fifty thousand, worth forty thousand francs A pledge of one hundred thousand francs is indeed a loan at 5 percent? What if borrowing at 10 percent on the the entire building or 5 on only half, is not quite the same thing. I'm mistaken, it There is an advantage to borrowing the largest amount. We see that the most charitable mortgage deals with the owner like the pawnshop, the unfortunate one.

Now, if instead of talking about loans of one hundred a thousand francs contracted by means of bonds which do not loans will only be renewed after five years. very rare in a country with eleven million of plots covering fifty—two million hectares; if from this sphere of the small number of privileged people, we go back down to the most common category, to the mass of mortgage loans of five hundred and

One sees the wear and tear of the unfolding in all its luxury.
legal rate ^ preferred usury.

It is known that in countries where cattle are raised, located far from major cities, such as Marche, the Charolais, Bourbonnais, Limousin, Auvergne, the interest rate paid by farmers who operate However, they are one of the most lucrative branches of

MEANS OF SEIZING PUBLIC MONEY. 185 agricultural industry, is 1.5 to 20 percent. The interest what the winegrower and the laborer pay passes all belief. I bet we can give you at the admin-mortgage administration, solely through inspection of records, the exact extent of the portion of the territory occupied by vineyards. We need to see how many industries there are. parasites live in France off the miseries of this poor agriculture, the lifeblood of the country, and which gives work for three-quarters of its inhabitants!

Thus, while the small farmer who has a
His capital, a capital in the sun, borrows a hundred crowns at 20 to 30 percent, to buy a cow or to
To marl his field, the industrialist who has only his credit, borrows on 4 percent banknotes all the money which He needs it to play.

It will be interesting to see the comparative table presented.
of the state budget and the usury budget, to see Which of the two weighs more heavily on this people? who confines himself to exclusively cursing the greed of tax authorities. I have sometimes heard things done on this subject. instructive calculations.

The soil of France, it was said, is burdened with a a mortgage of fifteen billion for the benefit of capital.
Let's assume the legal rate is 5 percent, that's a tax of seven hundred and fifty million that agriculture pays to the capital, after having settled a large part of the contribution of the two hundred and fifty million that the Jews take a cut from the country as interest on the debt national.

Assuming that notaries are content with simply pre-raise 1 percent for their fees on all the mortgage obligations they take out; assuming that all the mortgage obligations they pass renew themselves only every five years – fifteen thousand-billions of mortgages give us each year for three billion in mortgage-backed securities to be renewed, the fifth. That on this figure of three billion, the The notary charges 1 percent for the receipt, 1 percent for the new act, that is to say 2 percent; 2 percent

Out of three billion, that's sixty million per year.
The mortgaged real estate would therefore pay to notary services, solely for the drafting of hy- contracts pottery, an annual tax of sixty million, by basing on the legal interest rate and taking the five-year period as the average duration of the contrat. I repeat these figures, I do not guarantee them Texac-titude.

When we add to all these figures, whatever they that is, three-quarters of everything that is swallowed up by the cli-three-quarters of the year in the abyss of the chicane of what is lost from public funds to the benefit of parasites who call themselves bailiffs, solicitors, lawyers, dockworkers, businessmen – the two billion to paying through usury, and the billion to be paid as a bonus to major industrialists, refiners, manufacturers, fabricators iron cans, etc., and the millions to be paid to the flood-tion, hail, fire, bad weather seasons, at conscription, we end up no longer knowing what is most admirable, or the power of prodigious vitality which sustains property in our country land, or the patience of the worker, or the profound misunderstanding of the government and the legislature The men who watch, arms crossed, all these gas-looting and all that misery; without seeming to be in-

j

MEANS of misappropriating public wealth. 17

to quit in the least to know how everything
This will end.

Poor lawmakers! They've turned agriculture into a branch of the Ministry of Commerce!

They have been Minister of Agriculture for three or four years, an esteemed manufacturer from Sedan, who had spent his entire life making black cloth.

The manufacturer who became a minister through power generals of agriculture. His first choice fell naturally on a candidate who until then had studied agriculture only in the cash books of the Mr. de Gi*ardin's journal, but who was the cousin of

Mr. de L. This is from Mr. Cunin's own mouth—

Gridaine, that I hold this innocent epigram, to the address of the poet's cousin. This minister, who did not... he had never spoken to me except that one time, he confided in me. that the first instruction given by him to the new the inspector general, had been to surrender immediately—to the veterinary school in Alfort, to learn at less the first words of his profession. Mr. Cunin-Gri-Daine is a man of integrity and sense, who would have been perfectly placed, I suppose, as general manager—general of textile manufacturers, but which is not equally well placed, in the country's interest, as mid-Minister of Agriculture.

To sum up : all the privileges, all the resources to seize public funds, all the favors of the budgets are for the parasitic industrialist, for the commerce, a simple distribution agent, but owner almost exclusively capital.

And all the legal iniquities, all the charges of

488 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

The tax burden falls on labor, on production, superior element of social wealth.

And the cowardice of power and the blindness of the o—public subsidies also contribute to maintaining this abominable situation.

That's because commerce has rallied to his cause, without the to want, formidable auxiliaries; which will say the why the terrors of power and the folly of people.

AUXILIARIES IN COMMERCE. 189

CHAPTER VIII.

The nn\\lliaii-e!ii «lu rniiiiiii'ree.

Everything that makes noise in France, everything that is... lodge in this land of logomachy and sterile agitation, anything that possesses influence of money and opinion, the solicitor, the lawyer, the notary, the journalist, the cabaret-third, make common cause with commerce, with the financial feudalism. This anarchic and false regime... go: they instinctively sense that their position will be shaken by the adoption of the first legislative reform serious situation. 11. It is therefore their responsibility to prevent this misfortune; and that is why they cling on, and of the tooth and nail, to the maintenance of what is, and to- what they so persistently divert the temp- petty crimes that threaten the feudal system of the stronghold for the to blow up the monarchy. All these people live off privileges, and their fortune is based on misery and public discord. It is obvious that the lawyers, lawyers and journalists would perish if citizens did not quarrel among themselves, and if the governed were in agreement with the rulers.

the lawyer.

What is a solicitor?

A solicitor is a man who has bought, on credit, a

190 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

establishment invested with a manufacturing monopoly legal acts, and who has an interest in freeing themselves. as quickly as possible from the price of its acquisition; He is a man who thrives on the quarrels of others and that the law even dispenses with the guarantee of capacity that it demands of the lawyer; as if this law wanted to consecrate- to create in principle that money is the supreme ability. Prosecutors were less well viewed in the world today: they belong- were brought to the stage, where they were lashed out with his sarcasm. They're making members of parliament today: I don't believe so. that this is the case of praising the progress of the mind pu- public. We are being too lenient these days. for parasitic functions; our tolerance is com- complicit in the encroachments of the power of the crowns. I know although it is easy to cite an honest lawyer; Which is not surprising at all, since no one chooses themselves. its function in this society turned upside down, and that one is born admitted, so to speak, as one is born blind or selfless and honest will have a double crown in the sky.

The solicitor wields considerable influence over business matters public by election. The tax figure that the The corporation's influence on the country is enormous; it is counted in France three thousand three hundred and seventy-seven studies of lawyers whose average value may be forty one thousand francs, one hundred and thirty-five million. Each The study is to be paid for over ten years; we have a figure. an approximate way to assess this tax, which would amount to to one-tenth of that sum, or thirteen million. The Friends of the people don't want it touched. One something that would flatter them and the people much more Also, it would mean cutting off one or two rail- lions the king's civil list, and to reduce accordingly the salaries of architects, bricklayers, painters, of sculptors, etc., who are busy embellishing the pa- the royal palaces and museums, which serve only to to the people and to the artists.

COMMERCIAL AUXILIARIES. 191

The lawyer, living off privileges and bad laws, cannot want privileges to be abolished and Let's make good laws. He will start a revolution. before agreeing to the reform of the system Mortgages and property seizures. Members of Parliament that he sends to the chamber, they are careful not to ask similar reforms.

Since the press has become subservient to advertising, the lawyer has become a powerful figure in relation to the press.

the lawyer.

I fear that we in France have as many a- lawyers than legal proceedings in separation One year, a few thousand lawyers...

If all these people lived off their profession, the fortune all of France would pass through it: we don't count fortunately, there are two or three thousand who practice and who make a living from their talent.

The Chamber of Deputies has nearly one hundred of them is not very reassuring. Without the wolf hunters who have a great interest in preserving wolves, since hunting Wolves are their greatest joy, a long time ago that this species would be destroyed in France as in 192 OF THE FINANCIAL FEDERATION.

England. Lawyers who live off the obscurity and imperfections in the law cannot be justified. able to work wholeheartedly to clarify the texts and to perfect the Codes. They have, in the preservation bad laws, the same interest as the wolf hunters to the conservation of wolves. If I were sovereign, I I would not give the law on waterways to be made to lawyers, no more than customs law to be applied to smugglers.

The practicing lawyer, who possesses talent and in-construction, is the humble servant of the lawyer; it is the cas-characteristic of financial feudalism: Virtuspost nummos.

The lawyers, who claim to be great friends of the people, are very proud of the privileges of their order. It's even the only corporation that has preserved this word?—vile in its official vocabulary, since this the era of '89 when we imagined we had made a table stripped of all privileges. One of these privileges... the lawyer's most lucrative, one of those consequently—The thing he cares about most is that of power Speaking for and against, with the same fervor, the same conviction and the same integrity. The people considered for a very long time the lawyer was the widow's defender and the orphan. I do not forgive the press for—risk of not having taken sides, loudly and clearly, for President Séguier in his latest case with the Paris Bar Association; for Mr. Séguier had had the courage to say out loud what everyone The world thinks in hushed tones. The truth, therefore, is a terrible something that no one dares to hear.

It's not the lawyer pleading in court who costs dear to France. This one often gives, on the contrary.

COMMERCIAL AUXILIARIES. 193

great services to society and can silence a lot of good, when he takes his true profession to heart. which is to fight abuse and defend the oppressed against the oppressor. The one that costs the most is

The elective chamber.

He who pleads in the chamber, remains silent when he is The one who is Attorney General or First President. The one who does not plead its case anywhere and is very difficult to place. made up of the local opposition and small newspapers and small banquets which sanctly maintain the agitation-tion in the country. H is not without influence on the Poor choices by the MPs. Like the law schools reject into society a number of con-The staggering number of these lawyers without clients, the home of the agitation, constantly fueled by this full-fat food The sap is rising, becoming more active every day. The company waits without doubt that the mine will explode, to recognize that the ground she was walking on was not very-solid. The unattached lawyer is a born enemy of the government. government that did not recognize his ability and his ti-Very. It is an important auxiliary of feudalism. commercial, in the sense that he does not attack it and that he actively works to demonetize and weaken the pou-See. General rule: Anything that harms the monarchy and The people benefit, but the trafficker does.

The title of lawyer does not provide income, but it
However, it provides the means to do so.

This is the first rank of the new knighthood. diploma, which represents the money spent by the father
For the education of the son, it is proof of nobility.
of the holder.

- 13

194 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Any administrative career is closed to someone who does not provide proof of financial nobility, ma-court clerks, judges, prefects, Council of State, consulates (there is one for the Council of State) and the consulate expressly reserved in favor of writers of the Journal des Débats, organ of the aristofinancial cracy). All the sons of merchants do their right. The government, complicit in the encroachments-members of this aristocracy, work every day to broaden the scope of the diploma monopoly, and to closing the administrative career to the capacity without money.

Many people are calling for electoral reform complains without knowing why or how, and only the pitfall of adding capabilities. Now, what we find In terms of capacity in France, these are lawyers and doctors, people who bought with money, and not always with talent, their titles of capable.

Certainly, if public education were general and gratuite, if the propagation of this instruction was considered the first duty of the government if ability alone granted diplomas; if From today onwards, the teacher of a certain class, the a public official of a certain rank, an officer of a of a certain rank, the priest, the member of the municipal council-cipal, of the agricultural show; if all those who fill missions of dedication and trust, were included in this category of capabilities if I do not pro-I wouldn't test against the addition of the lawyer and the doctor. But if the list of new voters does not must understand that these latter, I declare that this

COMMERCIAL AUXILIARIES. 195

This addition will be a further misfortune for the country.
because it will increase the number of enemies mis du Douvoir and that of the friends of the silver feudalism.
Let us be careful not to strengthen the financial element in the electorate: that's where we need to look for it demolish, on the contrary. Let us not reduce the electoral census. let's raise it; let's increase it from two hundred francs to a thousand; but let us say at the same time: Every schoolteacher communal, every officer, every judge, every bearer of A diploma of any kind qualifies one to vote. That's it. as we recognize merit and intelligence, the only titles of men's superiority, and how one puts back The metal in its place. Isn't that a shame, tell me? than former ministers, than court presidents royal decree that generals should not be electors when this voter function is assigned in Pa-Laughs only to two thousand tavern owners! No doubt;
But the people have faith in the tavern keepers who poison them.
and distrusts the public officials who serve him and whose cause, the cause of the capacity, is his own.
I am quite right to profess supreme contempt for so-called liberal ideas, which are nothing but English ideas, because it is the progress of these ideas that led to the split between the public servant and the people, as he had previously begotten the split between the monarchy and the people; and I don't know no more terrible obstacle to the emancipation of peoples, whom these fatal divisions have brought about.

Because notice this other tactic and this other perhaps far too much subtlety and perfidy in directors and accomplices of the system I am attacking,'

196 OF FEUDALITY FI^A^ClfcR^:.

because there is certainly more lack of foresight and negligence rather than premeditation in the errors of all these people. But that the plot is led by Machiavellians are short-sighted philanthropists.
It is nonetheless dangerous, and it is important to... indicate the goal and the route.

As the government conceals and all-powerful of the silver feudal system, supported by the competition public opinion and the inertia of those in power are pushing the legal professionals monopolizing all the positions administrative; another movement parallel to this one takes place in the press, and must complete, if it succeeds, the crushing of democratic interests. It is the demonetization of the civil servant in public opinion.
They cut his already insufficient treatment, and they want expel him from the room, under the pretext of incompatibility eligibility for a salaried public service position with the mandate of a member of parliament.

However, the civil service is in a state of anarchy. shit of current society, the only lifeline that can save democracy from shipwreck. The function-public sector employment is the last remaining option still to the common man, son of his works, of to occur and to eventually exercise a influence on his fellow citizens. Ability is the only legitimate privilege. The son of the common man who he possesses it like the son of the rich man, as we have seen In the Revolution, therefore, it is in his interest to have this privilege. be recognized by society. However, this privilege cannot to be recognized and sanctioned only by the public service salaried employee. Putting public officials on suspicioncion, therefore, is to proclaim the downfall of democracy

AUXILIARIES 01' COMMERCE. 197

cracy. It's tiresome to have to explain Such simple truths.

Poor people! I pray that I may be forgiven for these in-Interjections that appear so often in my writing, But the thing is, the foolishness of this people is too much strong, and that the cunning ones who deceive him, abuse by led these people to believe that he had conquered the price of fifty years of struggle and suffering, the right to be eligible for all civil service positions and military. His conquest was written in large letters. at the top of its charter. We throw our children to the mouth-laughter, under the pretext that each soldier carries in his cartridge box, the baton of Marshal of France. And then, when he is about to exercise his right Having bought it at such a high price, they come to tell him, poor man, that the job of a public servant is a job infamous, that every public official is suspected of Treason against the people's cause is the damned soul. of the government, which is the born enemy of the people, and that we cannot cut these magistrates' nails too hard modest, to these professors, to these priests who earn their twelve hundred francs a year, to defend, to into educate, to moralize the people, and that it is necessary to refuse pensions for the country's elderly servants, who do not ask for no other favor than the ability to complete gently living their lives in the sun, without being forced to extend a hand!

Oh! Have mercy, have mercy on the people, gentlemen of the shop, chicanery and the press. Respect at minus the idiocy of this people whom you have stupefied.

Certainly, the functions of representatives of the country are

198 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

high enough, large enough to absorb all the capacity and all the leisure activities of a single man, and I I also want the nation's representative to give all his time devoted to the study and defense of interests of the nation. But for that, I need a reform A democratic prerequisite; I need an electoral law which only requires guarantees from the voter ■ par-so much, which declares all citizens eligible for less of unworthiness; and which, as a corollary to these two provisions, allocates to members of parliament a salary and a honorable treatment such as the position it remunerates nère, and which is not too disproportionate with the income of a candle merchant.

That's how things work in Belgium and in the United States of America, a country of democracy in-intelligent, where one has the courage to think and to speak out loud: May the individual who dedicates his talent and his vigils in service to his fellow citizens, also just rights to the recognition of these, that the or who sells counterfeit drinks.

If I have within me in my life an act of disa well-documented commitment to the interests of my country, It is the acceptance of a salaried public service position.
Those who have never borne this cross, who have not They don't know what perseverance it takes to do the good and firm to stoically endure the miseries of the condition, slander and insult,
They pity the public official instead of accusing him.

Unfortunately, the people do not want to persuader that free civil servants are always those that cost him the most. You don't want

COMMERCIAL AUXILIARIES. 199

Pay your MPs, they pay themselves, by cor-breaking off the ministers, and having themselves distributed, to to them and to those of their race, jobs, dignities, the missions, the railways, all the important posts-officers of the army, the administration and the ma-Gistrature. Ask Baron Dupin, who holds multiple the salaries of ten paid positions and which is so strong in statistics, what France has paid for, de-then 1830, to the families of Messrs. Dupin, Barthe, Persil, Odilon-Barrot and other lawyers, no less elo-Quents than good cousins and good brothers, the number you will frighten. Mr. Odilon-Barrot is certainly one of the the most honest and selfless men of the room; but his family receives no less on the budget, by itself, a small civil list of one hundred and thirty thousand francs a year. Judge those who are less selfless.

Let it be said by law – that every French citizen is eligible – ■ that the functions of a member of parliament are sa-lariated and incompatible with any other function publique – very well, I adopt this system in every respect.
But until this gap in the legislation is fulfilled, I don't want anyone expelled from the chamber public officials, the only representatives indicators of intellectual capacity and democratic interest cracy.

If there were a rational exclusion to pronounce (I'm not asking for anyone), if there were, I said, today an incompatibility to be established between a function and that of deputy, it would certainly be the incompatibility of the lawyer and the legislator, by the rai-

!:0(> OF FEUDALITY KllNANGJÈRE.

They would be driven by bad laws and die by good ones.
have an interest in making them bad.

In fact, there were at that moment one hundred and thirty lawyers at the elected chamber, not to mention the general prosecutors generals, the first presidents, the judges who were lawyers. 11. It is a matter of seeing, according to the legislative work, which has been done since 1830, if it is the element of the bar who has erred in parliament, and if it is appropriate to increase the influence of this element, by removing of the national representation, the only men of experience and practice it contains. Let me names the lawyer who claimed human rights at work, a right proclaimed and recognized as early as 1776 by Turgot.

We have seen the intimate union that privilege creates. of money between three parasitic industries, commerce, The procedure, the bar association. Joint liability is even closer between capital and the notary.

notary's office.

The notary is the supreme pontiff of society. temporary; because this society no longer has faith and no longer worships than the golden calf. The notary holds in his hands the fortune and family secrets of his fellow citizens;
The notary knows the price of electoral consciences, and the weakness and the strength of each party's position. That is the important man of the time.

The notary is a ministerial officer responsible for drawing up-to record all transactions between individuals to indicate He did not hold his position from the king, although he He calls himself a royal notary; he holds it from his crowns. He keeps

IJU COMMERCE AUXILIARIES. 201 with him the minutes of all the documents he draws up; He can ruin whomever he pleases, by making disappear-to preserve this unique record of every transaction.

These important and necessary functions should to be, for these reasons, one of the attributions of self-administrative authority, since the treasury alone did not have the authority to... interest in defaulting, and can alone guarantee citizens against to be taken by capital like everything else; it is an evil—

An indescribable loss for the public good.

The notary profession is still one of those lucrative functions—technologies whose monopoly belongs to capital. We de-comes a notary, not precisely because one is capable of being so (many people are capable of being notaries who are not and vice versa) but Because we have money to buy a study. We usually pays for his studies with the woman's dowry that one marries. Often one doesn't even marry, in this that part, just to have a woman who buys you a study.

The honor of the notary profession has suffered some rather serious damage. in recent years. A notary was executed.

Belley, who had murdered his wife and his servant—that. Another one was exhibited in Nîmes, condemned for the crime of incest against his daughter neure and murder of his son. 11 of them had one in Paris that enjoyed general consideration rale and who was affiliated with all sorts of good societies works. He disappeared one fine day, taking with him his clients a sum of two or three million. At what—that time later, disasters of the same nature struck—pay for the places in Evreux and Orléans. The cities of

202 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Nantes and Limoges have just suffered a disaster similar. I was shown several of these in Toulon. gentlemen who are employed to row on the galleys of the State. One of them was in the penal colony for having com-
He put eight hundred counterfeits on himself.

If the disciplinary chambers were to show more strict criteria for admitting candidates into the corps It is likely that these accidents will not happen again. would not be as frequent. 11 is well known could-republic, indeed, that many notaries speculate for their own account with their clients' money to-which they pay only a meager interest, under pre-Text on the difficulty of investments. However, a notary He who speculates and gambles is, like a stockbroker, in formal contravention of the statutes of its pro-He therefore commits a breach of trust and must,
for this single act, to be sent before the assize court.

When the notary wants to gamble, he turns to the banker.
He lends to him the funds entrusted to him by half-account with the stockbroker in the speculation on rents. This criminal malfeasance-negligence and unjustifiability cause harm to agriculture notable, because these funds, used for gambling The stock market is lost to agriculture, which is lacking resources. of capital. Every time embezzlement has place, whenever an institution is vicious, You can bet for sure that the consequences of the malfeasance and vices of the institution re- They will be concerned about agriculture. The notary is betraying his duties. of his profession: ruin for agriculture. The chamber is delivered into the sovereign influence of the jurists and the Bankers: ruin for agriculture. The lawyer cannot not wanting, in fact, for anyone to lay a hand on the re-mortgage regime, which gives rise to lawsuits, which are the source of his fortune; and the vices of the system mortgages divert capital away from agriculture which would come to him were it not for this impediment. The banker, in turn, takes advantage of the flaws in the hypo-regime librarians who make all the money flow back into their coffers which does not go towards land ownership; the banker is Therefore, like the lawyer, he is interested in blocking the reforms. that the agricultural industry is waiting for in vain. And the in-the notary's interests soon become associated with this coalition of parasitic industries against the ca-industry nation's hospital. I was developing these considerations one day-depositions before Mr. Billault, lawyer, undersecretary of State at the Department of Commerce, who found them very sensible.

COMMERCIAL AUXILIARIES. 203

We sometimes wonder why France hasn't She has not yet been able to establish the agricultural credit system in her country. as Switzerland and Scotland have done for a long time, Prussia, Hussia, and Poland itself. Here is the The answer to this question: the organization of banks agricultural businesses would deal a fatal blow to the fortunes of bankers, solicitors, lawyers, bailiffs, notaries; and bankers, lawyers and no-silenced those who are all-powerful in France, do not hear not that the French government is dealing with these ma-third parties.

There might well be a heroic remedy to apply to This scourge of the notary profession. We've thought about it many times. but the difficulty of the undertaking caused most to back down bold. It would mean abolishing the notary profession and making now an administrative function, like the recipes for recording and preserving hypothèques; for it is not understood why the contributions from notaries were abandoned to the industrial-private sorting, rather than those of the conservatives of mortgages. These functions would be surrounded by all the desirable guarantees of morality, hierarchy, of monitoring and guarantee. This is obviously the most direct way to remedy the flaws of the institution, to restore security to transactions and trust in families. But the reform would require the reimbursement of tuition fees to all holders of the tuition-areas, and the public is unaware that the prices of all These studies are now compulsory. Then there's the number of these studies is nine thousand eight hundred and forty-six, worth on average fifty thousand francs and the compensation the amount to be paid to the dispossessed holders would approach five hundred million. They claim that the time is not yet right. coming again to resort to the use of this hereditary process royal decree on the repurchase of offices. I'm willing to do that, but I finds, however, that it is urgent to wrest from the capitalists such a terrible mortgage lending monopoly, this right to arbitrarily impose agricultural wealth, without the competition of chambers.

I said earlier that the annual tax levied by the notary services on the national worker, had been valued at sixty million (an exaggerated figure, just for the drafting and renewal of mortgage contracts Cairo. Now come the inheritance taxes, of sharing, of marriage, and non-hypothec obligations librarians. We can estimate the total tax amount collected by the notary on all transactions national by the same process as F tax of Ta voué. Since there are ten thousand notary offices, worth in a total of five hundred million, and that the price of a study It must be repaid, usually in ten years, it will... follows that the country reimburses gentlemen each year the notaries, the sum of fifty million, that is that is to say, one-tenth of the value of their studies.

THE COMMERCIAL AUXILIARIES. '205

The people and their friends, I repeat, never dared protesting against the enormous nature of these crushing taxes the worker.

notaries and poor drafting of legal documents, a gentle bond of cordial understanding between the notary and the solicitor.
Notaries are not responsible for this consequence.
The consequence of their clumsiness. The building contractors businesses are less favored by the law than enterprises Contract holders, they are responsible for a period of time a certain time of the solidity of their buildings.

If notaries were Jewish officials, responsible for drafting the documents for all transactions, these acts would be perfectly drafted first and n-They wouldn't be subjected to lawsuits, because we don't would only become a notary after undergoing a long sur-numeracy, and demonstrates an undeniable ability-ble. Then the price of the procedures would be fixed, like that of the recording. Finally, the acquisition price does not would not be concealed as it is today in the meadow State justice, and there would be a guarantee by the treasury the consequences of poorly drafted legal documents.
Regarding the loyalty of the declaration of the contracting parties Regarding the value of the buildings, I am... press to acknowledge in advance that it would not be enough

200 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

to obtain it willingly, to have the editorial staff pass tion of the acts from the hands of the notary to those of a public servant. I am deriving this obligation loyalty, of the agricultural credit institution and of a type of mortgage which will be discussed later far.

Moreover, government notaries cannot-would only be responsible for drafting the contracts.
Mortgages and other loans would fall under the allocations of agricultural banks managed by the government government and which would lend themselves largely to cultivation eurs, for almost the entire value of their buildings, at less than 4 percent.

I am essentially suggesting that if the government were to consider-today to attempt this organization of agricultural credit Cole, the simplest operation in the world, studies of solicitor, bailiff and notary would have lost the two-thirds of their value within two years, link it is easier then to buy them back with the benefits profits generated by the agricultural bank; because all the re-useful forms train each other and hold each other together by hand, like ailments.

of speaking to, that the government hardly gives to to turn evil into good and bring them to a transaction painful tion. A government of lawyers and of shopkeepers get on the wrong side of the lawyers and the no-silences, in the ridiculous aim of serving the interests of People, that would be a pleasant idea!

However, without resorting to the route of redemption of studies and the suppression of offices, the government is in a position to introduce as early as today in

COMMERCIAL AUXILIARIES. 207

The notary agency has made a significant improvement: the responsibility or solidarity.

Since a notary cannot go bankrupt and he commits theft and breach of trust every time that he exposes his clients' money to the chances of speculation, it is natural that the entire body of notaries to answer for the misdeeds of each of its members. The Indeed, the corporation bears no responsibility. as long as the notary confines himself to his assigned duties of his duties. If the notary exceeds his authority, then the entire body must be punished for having received in his breast an unworthy one, especially since the chambers of disciplinary bodies have a mission to monitor any infraction to the regulations of the notary profession. If this solidarity exists- He was certainly keeping quiet about the crime of theft and bankruptcy. would be less frequent among notaries, due to the rai- his that the institution's rooms would be more strict for admission, and that each notary, being interested in preventing wrongdoing by his colleagues, would be actively monitoring them.

The government is now almost forced by public opinion to do something Regarding the reform of the notary profession, I strongly urge him to to push along this path of solidarity which has been already pointed out by excellent minds.

In fact, public opinion was so warmly alarmed in recent years by the figure and the number of bankruptcies of notaries who have succeeded Having given in one after another, the ministry has finally woken up from its long torpor. The ministry presented, in the Session of 10:42, a bill on the notary profession. This- It was an innocent project, if ever there was one, quite incapable of to remedy the evil and which did not contain a disposition less effective than a paragraph whose purpose is to e-extending the jurisdiction of the disciplinary boards of the or-Dr. However, the emergence of this innocent project has enough to provoke outrage from the press, including the

The notary holds the principal organs by annotation.
It really takes the habit of despotism and the inviolability has made the notary's skin quite sensitive possible, so that his sensitivity could have been irritated to So little. The project has been buried, or almost.

But an opportunity where the omnipotence of the tituoffices, notaries, solicitors, bailiffs, etc. manifested itself brilliantly, it was when a guard of the seals that had courage and awareness of their position, dared to lay hands on the holy ark of the ve-The nature of the charges. Hardly any intent to attack. boldness had she sweated outside, that a coaformidable resistance against the common enemy, the pouto see, suddenly formed in the ranks of these privileged-A subscription was organized immediately; it is said that it reached the figure of two hundred in eight days seventy thousand francs, and that the leaders of the coalition decided that part of this money would employed to buy the convictions of the main or-Parisian and departmental press gangs tétale, to the ends of demolishing the imprudent minister.
A delegation of notaries and solicitors was introduced at the king's house by Baron Desmousseaux de Givré.
The speakers of this delegation had to argue to His Majesty some very powerful arguments those opposed to the minister's project, since the ill-Controversial project has disappeared since the programs po-

COALMERGC AUXILIARIES. 209

litîqucs, and languishes, at this hour, buried in the A list of upcoming improvements. The minister fell soon himself, and it is assured that, when the chan-those of parliamentary fortune would have restored him to his
As a lawyer, he waited in vain for his
The causes of his former self came back to him. The lawyers, bailiffs, notaries, lawyers at the Cas- court
The Church had excommunicated him. The courageous minister His name was Mr. Teste, who has since... been Minister of public works and proved himself so devoted, so docile to the compelling demands of financiers in the railway concessions. Sad condition of Men in power today! Here's a minister ruinous folly of imprisoning the capital; which he congratulated me, in my capacity as editor of the Press into it the energy with which I fought this disastrous project, and one that allowed itself to be doomed to fail partly the executor of this freedom-crushing design! Here is one of the men who best understand the mission and the rights of power, and who accepts the task with restoring overall viability and the mono-transport hub of the kingdom to all the wolves-cer-finance executives! A man who moans with woe from the prostration of the authority and selfishness of the century, and which did not hesitate to take to the podium as the defender of this deplorable system of railway sections, a system conceived by the spirit of weakness and corruption, to give a kind of feast to appetites jealous of all the districts of the kingdom, for that each deputy could throw to his constituents, at return from his legislative campaign, seizure of royalty.

I 14

210 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

If the mere threat of an innocent reform of the abuse of the sale of offices was enough to anger the susceptibility of the high and powerful lords of the offices; if the king, the ministers, the press itself, were forced to acknowledge in this circumstance the notary's suzerainty and to bow respectfully—Before him, judge the violence of Torage that would raise a proposal from all corners of the horizon tending towards the reform of the mortgage system. Shaking up the mortgage system, God of God, the mortgage system, the cornerstone of the chicane, the sacred foundation of the lawyer's fortune and of the bailiff, the golden goose of usury! But just thinking about it, I think I can already hear the storm. A revolutionary is stirring, and the people are restless. and who is asking for his weapons, to fly to the rescue of his good friends who are threatened!

I spent ten years of my life as a senior editor or editor-in-chief of major Paris newspapers or of the province; I have never been able to do to enter into none of these sheets a single article against the misdeeds of notaries or against the abuses of the quibble. "We cannot reasonably attack—" "They objected to me, 'the people who provide for us,'" all the capitalist owners of my newspaper, at Paris as in Toulouse, Lille as in Orléans. "Furthermore, attack the government or defend—"

Thus the notary is inviolable and sacred; cele in-Violability is not written in the charter, as that of the king, who is insulted every day and whom assassin of Tejups to another; it is written in the

COMMERCIAL AUXILIARIES. 211

facts and in public opinion, which is worth a little better.

I don't want to end this chapter without showing, by a simple comparison, how the way to consider the issues changes with the interests that the questions concern.

There is no one who does not recognize the absolute identity-read from the current position of the postmasters, with the one that would be done to notaries by abolishing the of-These postmasters had patents and... privileges for which they had purchased the rights to the operation dear, before the railway concessions. The railways have completely annihilated their hands the value of these privileges; consequently, they are entitled to compensation, as would be entitled to Office holders in case of eviction. However, you should see What difference is there in the press reports? with regard to both interests. The ruin of the masters of The post office is half full, and it's barely even that-which newspapers, to ease their conscience, have devoted an obituary to the industry of postmasters. Notaries and solicitors are still full of life, and the entire press threw fire and flames, when the government talked about reducing their profits. Newspapers have to respond to that that notaries and solicitors provide them with announcements, and not the postmasters. I'll add, that no one was moved by the ruin of the postmasters, because this ruin benefited the Jews of the roads of iron, while the ruin of the offices would not have benefited than to the people and the government.

Thus, the notary holds the voter in his grip through money.

212 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

the chamber and the government by extension, he holds even more closely the newspaper through the advertisement.

The press is the first of all powers in a free nation. It is wrong to assign it only the Fourth place. Opinion is the queen of the world, and The press is his prime minister.

Freedom of the press is the most precious of all the conquests of the spirit of progress; for it opens to all the improvements the field of the future, and it ruthlessly closes the way to the return of despotism.

The press is the priesthood of thought. The high priests of the cult of thought, in France, They are called:

MM. de Girardin (Press), publicist; Boutmy (Press) j industrial.
Léon (Constitution), ex-pharmacist, illiterate; Armand (Bertin), owner, illiterate;
Louis Perrée (Sieel), former merchant, illiterate; Buloz (Literary Reviews) ex-printer, illiterate; Solar (Epoch), Jewish by nationality.

These proper names, with the exception of one, the first, do not correspond to any literary idea, political, religious or social issues correspond to a number of one hundred thousand subscribers and more.

The managers of the five or six newspapers mentioned above are pretty much the absolute masters of Parisian advertising. Among these newspapers, there are four, including La Presse. Constitutional y the Century and the Era, which provide

COMMERCIAL AUXILIARIES. 213

They alone provide the intellectual content for one hundred thousand subscribers. and this by virtue of a discounted auction.

That is to say, the expression of priesthood applied "To the press" is a ridiculous and meaningless expression. and that the question of advertising is now only a question-shop rule and industrial competition, such as All the questions of the time. Do you want to have them? The proof of this truth, a well-supplied proof, well-founded, very solid; compare the two newspapers which are called the Press and the Era. At the head of the The drafting of these two large sheets is found two distinguished writers, two names of great beauty value as journalists, Mr. de Girardin, Mr. de Cassagnac. The Conservative party prides itself on them in the same sheet: yet another reason to value oneself and understand each other. On the contrary, and I am the one trembling very little before proper nouns, I dare not reproduce in all their Rabelaisian crudity, the testimonies the esteem that Mr. de Girardin received from the era, and those that the Press referred to Mr. de Cassagnac. ((The priests of bygone days, when they met, They just laughed, they didn't argue...

Why this outpouring of insults and this exchange? edifying personalities? Because these two mes- The two men exploit the same clientele. A matter of... A tick, and nothing more.

The next step is to examine how things have come to this point, and to explain what causes have led to the monopolization of advertising by industrialism.

Three main causes precipitated this result;

21/j OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

First, the lack of organization in the press; then the tax obstacles imposed by an admitted government rule to advertising; finally the promiscuity of the idea and the mercantilism, in other words, of the advertisement.

The press is not organized. Today's press is an industry that, like others, lives off trouble- the problems of society and the anarchy of ideas. Unfortunately- Fortunately, she has a huge interest in maintaining these problems, because the number of its subscribers is increasing with public misery, especially with war, and he diminishes as soon as the storm subsides.

The press is not organized. Commerce has its regulations, the bar, the notary profession have their chamber of discipline, their councils; the army, the clergy, the judiciary also has its councils and hierarchy. The press has no regulations, no council, no chamber discipline. No institution guarantees the public neither the capacity nor the morality of those who present themselves as reformers of humankind, as rectifiers of wrongs, as directors of governmental thought. Let whoever wants to write, let whoever wants to admonish the men of the power- See. No one claims to practice the profession of shoemaker before learning how to make boots; but Anyone can aspire to govern the state for a small amount of time. whether he has Demosthenes in his memory or bile regarding the responsibility of those in power, would He should have started by submitting himself to this principle of responsibility.

Do we seriously want to elevate the press to a sacred duty?
In terms of thought, the first step to take is to to create within the institution a courtyard of honor, a

COMMERCIAL AUXILIARIES. 215

council, a literary justice of the peace (the name does not does nothing to the matter), which is for the public the ga-Trust in the morality of the Tordre staff. 11 faults Furthermore, that this family court be vested with a power strong enough to be able to command its helm any writer guilty of wrongdoing, or simply of contravening the laws of probity and delic-catesse, and to inflict reprimand or blame upon him, or suspension, depending on the circumstances.

The major state bodies, the clergy, the magistracy The army, in particular, would not have retained it if for a long time their prestige, CV, and honor in the eyes of the populations, if they had not taken care to apply severe-these principles of surveillance are applied to all those of their order. spear and responsibility which alone can ensure to an institution a lasting power and an in-legitimate influence.

If the staff of the French press do not enjoy, far from it, a consideration proportionate to the talent she displays and the importance of her position that she occupies, the cause of which should not be sought ail-their lack of official warranty which comes to be reported.

However, the influence of the French press has enormously-has suffered, it must be said, from the disrepute of his staff.

We are still a frank and generous people.
whatever we do to distort our natural character-national and to make us more flexible to the principles of tolerance rancid of the mercantile spirit. We are not still convinced, all, that probity consists of exclusively to settle its effects on the due date.

216 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

the heart rather than the purse. Which means that Many do not accept these capitulations of conscience, these sudden reversals, these sales of opium union, so common, alas! in the history of the press of today.

The press needs an institution that guarantees to the country the integrity and competence of its staff; and purging this staff would certainly be a A useful measure for all parties. I would add that none party would no longer have anything to gain from the measure than that of the power, of which the press has become, since 1834, the refugium peccatorum of all the banished writers for One cause or the other, camps of legitimacy or radicalism.

But the institution of an honorary jury, or of a a disciplinary chamber for the press, is not even indispensable for the implementation of two improvements important information that can be obtained on the-field. The law can abolish the fiction of management, this revolting lie she wrote on the frontispiece of newspaper, as if to announce the god one worships in the temple. The law may also require a signature of all the articles published in a newspaper; and even as the current law does not in any way prohibit such-I'm surprised that loyalty hasn't been shown in the articles.
This makes this formality a duty for all writers. from the press. I gave up writing for the Democratic peaceful because the management of this newspaper has not would not allow me to sign my articles; me-sure that would have been orthodox and in accordance with Master's instructions.

COMMERCIAL AUXILIARIES. 217

The forced signing of article would be on its own a guarantee that the writer would work on his thinking and would polish his style. Who would care, I tell you-order, to sign with a proper name the insults and the vulgarity of the time, or to write this name following of these articles from the Journal des Débats where one expects-rights on the generosity and imprudence of Mr. de Roth-Schild, requesting the privilege of ruining himself? Do you believe not like me, that people would look at twice, before exposing oneself to the chance of an ineffable ridiculecable or to the responsibility of a heinous slander?

The forced signing of the article would still have this the advantage of familiarizing the reader with his writers, and of according to his ability and his works. So far I only see writers of no worth that could disappoint measure, or even those who are used to ca- Expensive to bite. But never the talented writer and of the heart, never the loyal writer, who only writes this that he thinks, will not claim for his work the benefit from the anonymous source.

I repeat, the disrepute of the press, pro- stemming from the lack of guarantee of the morality of the in- the institution, was for it a cause of weakness and of ruin, and public indifference delivered it without Defense against the encroachments of the makers. The makers And the speculators, the plague of our time!

l^ul raves fiKcales.

A French citizen who wants to publish his opinion political, in accordance with the right that every French citizen-

218 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

This country, bound by the charter, is obliged to pay into the treasury a deposit of one hundred thousand francs initially.

In addition, there are the costs of drafting, printing, postage, post, amount to a sum that varies from forty to fifty francs for each copy of the newspaper daily. La Presse, a newspaper whose authority must be accepted in terms of advertising costs, the Press brings the amount to three hundred francs per day, the de- thinks of a newspaper that has a print run of sixteen thousand copies. Let's say one hundred thousand francs per year.

It follows a priori from these figures that, in order to establish a newspaper that has several years of existence ahead of it A newspaper that has subscribers to engage requires that... to possess a capital of four to five hundred thousand francs.

not all French citizens are generally With this sum of money, there is no recklessness in to assert that the monopoly of the political press ap- belong to the money men and that the laws of sep- tembre have flagrantly violated the charter.

By increasing the difficulties that make the press Politics and daily life are a monopoly for the rich. The French government has committed one of those enormous blunders that cannot be excused in the circumstances. It is indeed appropriate to say here that hatred

It is by concentrating the action in a few hands journalism, by multiplying its power tenfold, in him conferring unity. It is the monopoly of the crowns and unity of direction which made the Constitutional strong under The Restoration. If the current government wanted mitigate the power of journalism through its laws of
In September, he acted directly against his goal.

COMMERCIAL AUXILIARIES. 219

11. It is surprising that the example of Belgium and the United States, where the press is almost completely freed from fiscal constraints, has not yet dis-Sipé the terrors of which all European governments Europeans seem to be targeted at the press. These governments do not want to see that the strength of ex-Press panning is subject, like that of gases, to Mariotte's law, and that this force is due direct compression weights.

I don't understand the newspapers either. subscribers, like Le Siècle and Le Constitutionnel, which re-today they are calling for the abolition of the September laws; because I consider the September laws as the pre-the primary source of these newspapers' success. I repeat that everyone has troubled eyes on this question-tion of the press. The example cited earlier of the the power of the Constitutional Court under the Restoration, and that of the nullity of the influence of journalism in Countries where the press is completely free, are these... during arguments that definitively settle the matter.
Once again, this is only under the regime of the /t-unlimited freedom of the press, that the theory of the spear of Achilles, so dear to economists, can find its application.

The privilege of advertising, granted to capital by
The laws of September were bound to inevitably lead to this The disastrous result we are witnessing is:
subordination of the idea to money in management of the country's intellectual movement.

Of what was needed, five hundred thousand francs to found-According to a daily newspaper, it was bound to happen, in fact, and it happened that most daily newspapers

220 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

companies whose funds were raised by speculators politicians or financiers, or by wealthy bankers, or overly trusting shareholders. Beau-our wealthy financiers, our politicians Ticks have their own newspapers. There are 11 of these newspapers. where the influence of the silver man predominates, of course-very, but rarer, oi^i it is the influence of man politics. It sometimes happens that each of the two interests drawing on its side in the same newspaper, the The unfortunate leaf no longer knows which way to turn, and recalls the amusing predicament of Buridan's ass between its two little oat pellets.

The question of advertising has become so pure It's a question of shop and competition among us.
that rivalry and hatred no longer meet, as we saw earlier, with their character-type of relentless pursuit than in daytime businesses nals that exploit the same opinions. The sym-Political pathos is just a worthless word; Newspaper entrepreneurs no longer speculate on this mobile. The enemy newspaper of the Press, a newspaper con-servant, it is not the National ^ radical newspaper;
This is not the Sibcloy newspaper of the left-wing opposition; It's the Journal des Débats, it's L'Époque, two others organs of the Conservative Party. The Press accuses the Debates about being willing to sell France for two more subscribers; the Debates are appealing against the Press all the rigors of the legislation; and /'Epogi/e exhausts against the Press the vocabulary of the personalities involved laughing. And they all accuse each other of to be guided in their maneuvers only by misery

THE AUXILIARIES OF COMMERCE. ÛH palatable instincts of greed. I wouldn't bet that they

They are not all right.

Greed! That's the word; to the honor of the country, to the
No one thinks about the interests of the people; shareholders even less so. It's not about the ostensible income from the newspaper that the manager of the company The takeover has been speculated on, but certainly on the secret revenue. There is ministers and foreign powers who pay richly supported by a newspaper with twenty thousand subscribers born, and this income is not accounted for to anyone;
And that's the reason for these scandalous controversies and... these fierce battles that take place over the spoils of the subsidy between soldiers of the same cause!

a rich subsidy of some kind, such as those newspapers must have sold itself to the first industrial interest that came along. One lived off the issue of sugars, the other from the the question of slavery or that of emancipation; one of a railway; that of a subsidy tion of the former regent of Spain. The existence of beautiful- The cause of other accidents remained a mystery.

There are newspapers that are in complete agreement in politics, that is to say, those who understand each other perfectly to declare that the reigning minister is a bad minister, but who no longer get along as soon as he is question of the system to replace the vi- system leader. But how can we agree on poli-

- We know the famous response of this virtuous newspaper manager to a person who came to him to suggest that he take sides with the colonies Regarding the question of sugars: "Desperate, sir, not to be able to to please you; but we sold our question of yesterday. "Sugars. An honest journalist has only his word."

222 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

tick, when we disagree on the paths and means of a system, that is to say, on the means application, railway issues, teaching gnement, etc., etc. We are not at the end of Our contradictions: we will see many more of them.

Advertising has become purely a matter of The shop, the press had to adopt the principles and the the tone of the shop, and to become subservient to the service of the interests loans from those who keep it alive.

We will arrive shortly at the examination of means of competition. Let us point out from the outset a of the most unfortunate consequences of the subjugation of the advertising for coins.

These newspapers, which so loudly proclaim their independence... dance, but who cannot bite the hand that Those who make a living are, however, obliged to prove from time to time they are not afraid to attack each other to the powers. So, as they are forced to res- respect the moneyed men who reign and govern In France, they are attacking the nominal government to show courage. Always this poor man A government that can do nothing about it.

The liberal press, the trade press, of the the one that calls itself dynastic in order to have the right to Perhaps fighting the government is more comfortable. the one that has most harmed democratic interests, in separating, in all circumstances, the cause from the dis-democracy from that of power, and by giving full collar in the heresy of the government-ulcer, so favo-susceptible to the encroachments of capital.

But the greatest enemies of power and of

COMMERCIAL AUXILIARIES. 223

The people are incomparably more important than the ministers, who... should fight bravely at the head of the party common, and who cowardly give the signal of the rout, in every encounter, shouting: Save Who can!

Thus, there were only three newspapers in Paris in 1843.
who dared to attack the che- concession project min of iron from the North to Mr. de Rothschild, the king of the finance, and these three newspapers were called the Natio-The press did not...
than to take sides with the farming companies, a a bastard system, and the author of the hostile articles was appointed Commissioner General of Railways, or something similar, and since then he has remained silent.

Through a strange contradiction and which notes admittedly accurately reflecting the disorder of ideas of that time, he finds that these are newspapers friendly to the monarchy, Debates, the Globe, the Press, the Century and the Constitution tional, who abandon the cause of central power, and who want to hand the country over to the bankers' clique, while these are the organs of pure radicalism and of socialism which remains faithful to the cause of administration administration. Le National, La Réforme and the newspapers com-communists, not very friendly to the current government in the On political matters, he is against the bankers. in most material matters, as well that Peaceful Democracy, a newspaper outside the parties tis, and which, in its capacity as an organ of the Theory of Fourier was to march at the head of the crusade against financial feudalism.

Competition being the supreme law of commerce anarchic, and the press absorbed by commerce having adopted the principle of competition, the supreme

The leadership of the country's intellectual movement has passed in the hands of business brokers, men intense in matters of speculation and the Stock Exchange.
This is not progress.

These new directors of public opinion, very few mostly competent in political matters or social and having only contempt for ideas, have naturally, they had to seek a method of appropriation. to apply it to the exploitation of the commercial element the building they had seized. They soon found it in Vanno7ice and in advertising ^ they created the press at forty francs.

The forty-franc newspaper was born the day after the promulgation of the September legislation.

The discount advertising entrepreneurs have not em-bent, to overturn the monopoly of the old toys which I hardly regret, other than the method of exaggerated price drop.

They said: By giving forty francs the same merchandise that sells for eighty francs in the shop next door we are sure to remove to this one its barges.

Now, like the merchandise we sell-Donations of forty francs will cost us more than five As for us, we need to arrange things so as not to to make a fool's bargain.

And this method is readily available. With the help of our drop overpriced, we will acquire advertising immense. Through this advertising, we will offer the commerce and especially quackery a convenient means to do without the service of traveling salesmen, of

COMMERCIAL AUXILIARIES. 225

printed materials, circulars, posters, trestles of faith. The more our advertising increases, the more we will raise the price of our ads. What we perdrons by the journal itself, by teaching, we will regain it through speculation; which has been done.

The announcement is, as we can see, a method of con-Currence, who played a role in advertising companies the same role as the exaggerated drop in trans- prices

It was the forty-franc press that finished off the into subordinate advertising to capital or speculation, this Which amounts to the same thing. It's the forty-franc press. which definitively gave precedence to the interests of the boutic on the interest of the idea in the direction of the publicité.

Because the advertising contractor who provides the subscriber for forty francs a newspaper that costs him five-quante, explicitly states through this price reduction, that he will now seek success outside of the community of political or religious faith with the a-good f which was supposed to be the condition for this success.

And as soon as this newspaper editor is forced to con-publicly stating that the revenue from the advertisement can only to compensate him for the loss he suffers on the subscription
In fact, he also explicitly admits that the fourth
The age of the newspaper will now be the most important to her eyes, the one he will care for with the most love.

The cause of talent and political probity has received a serious setback the day he was recognized in principle
I believe that the best-written newspaper was the one that...
Question of the robe, the/factor, or the lion's ointment occupied the most space,

I lô

226 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

It was necessary to retain the subscriber, to cultivate them pre-even more so, since the income figure of The number of advertisements is proportional to the number of subscribers; but nevertheless, the subscriber was no longer considered moralement than like a number^ an accessible element-evening, almost an evil. The Press once declared that she had more subscribers than she could handle, and that she didn't want it anymore. The era did better by-core: she had eleven thousand subscribers; she lost them gave twenty thousand; she even found peers of France and former ministers to sign this lie Printed. It was all profit this time.

So advertising became subservient to merchandise. to the lawyer, the notary, the Saint-Simonian, and the Jew, who hold the newspaper by the advertisement.

The witty author of The Bohemians of Paris has pushed returns, even further back than the founders of the Press at forty francs. Listen to Bagnolet and Montizon, two bohemians from Paris, discussing this question Cheap newspapers.

Bagisolet, mawjeant. By the way, you were telling me about a big affair....

MoNTizo^-. Yes, a press matter.... a newspaper that I have had wrinkles...

Bagnolet. Ah, is that a newspaper?

MontizoN. For a long time, the need had been general—how to feel from a daily newspaper, large format, and at what francs per year.

Bagnolet. A four-franc newspaper... What! You don't I only take four francs from each subscriber I....

MoNTizoN. Slicux than that, my dear... four francs that I give...

COMMERCIAL AUXILIARIES. 227

Bagnolet. How can you give them away? But it's ruinous.

Mo.NTizuN. Not at all; my system is quite simple.

Bagnolet, Ah! Let's see the system I

MountizoN. You know the newspaper speculation at forty Francs?.... The political and literary journal would go bankrupt very quickly. without the classifieds sheet, which produces one hundred thousand each year francs of net profit.

Bagnolet. Ah! Bah! One hundred thousand francs; I didn't know that fat figure.

Montizo. Yes, my dear fellow, one hundred thousand francs worth of advertisements that pay up brave industrialists enticed by the twenty thousand subscribers born from the aforementioned sheets. Now, a newspaper that would have five five times more subscribers would also generate five times more revenue. nuncios.

Bagnolet. It's as clear as a gas lamp.

MontizoN. Instead of twenty thousand subscribers, have one hundred a thousand... and soon, instead of one hundred thousand francs worth of advertisements, It will cost you five hundred thousand pounds.

Bagnolet. But how do you find one hundred thousand subscribers?

Montizon. I'm sure I'll find them, since I'm paying for them. I give them four francs per person. My subscribers cost me four hundred thousand francs, and as my advertisements remind me of it— They carry five hundred thousand, I have one hundred thousand francs in gross profit.

Bagnolet. Ah! my friend, it's superb, it's magnificent; I understand... I grasp your whole system... you lay down four and You remember five, you remember six... you remember everything... and your fortune is done.

I'm afraid that the author of The Bohemians of Paris I have said in these few words all that there was to say on the morality of the advertisement and the press below of the cost price. The Press there, the Century, the Constitution- tionnely and all the newspapers that live off advertising and advertising, will spend a lot of recriminations tions and sophisms before extricating himself from the terrible Bagnolet's argument. Newspapers at forty francs give each of them a gift of more than four francs their subscribers. La Presse, which was not afraid to re- reduce its subscription price, at the same time as it enlarged its format, got closer and closer more than the Bagnolet solution.

228 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

La Presse, which had leased its newspaper in 1840... noncesauprixdecentvingtmillefrancspour douze thousand subscribers, and with the condition of successive increases of the rental price, proportional to the increase of the number of subscribers, La Presse published, in 1844, the account of its profits. It resulted from this report, that the fourth page of the sheet had yielded one hundred eighty-eight thousand one hundred and twenty-one francs in 1843; while the entire newspaper, subscription and an- including nonces, had only brought shareholders that one hundred eighty-four thousand two hundred eighty-seven francs. The press had at that time a little more of sixteen thousand subscribers; the Press paid forty-eight francs outside the barrier; therefore a newspaper at qua- forty-eight francs, and which has more than sixteen thousand subscribers, loses another three on his subscriptions one thousand eight hundred and thirty-four francs.

What's quite pleasant is that in the moment even where the newspaper La Presse published this information curious things, its main editor, committed against that the aforementioned newspaper did not have to concern itself with its quarter page!

The same writer also tried to persuade us one day that V announced was the reward of virtue. We responded to this excellent joke by asking the press why, if its principle was

COMMERCIAL AUXILIARIES. 229

In truth, she failed to recognize the value of the Journal des Débats. who possessed the most magnificent announcement sheet of the time*.

More recently, the Press having been accused by the Peaceful democracy of complicity in encroachments elements of financial feudalism, the newspaper with large format protested vigorously against this new-
New attack: "Accusing us of complicity in the invasions of financial feudalism, he responds, when we impose sacrifices on ourselves two hundred and fifty thousand francs per year, for to make ourselves worthy of our high mission!

When messaging entrepreneurs decline Their transport costs, we also imagine that it's to kill their competitors, not at all; public opinion public slander odiously the entrepreneurs of messaging services; these good people are only trying to... to make them worthy of their high mission...

I felt like feeling better after reading it. from the article in La Presse.

So this is what has been proven. A newspaper with forty-Eight francs cannot live on with sixteen thousand subscribers, and twenty thousand would not be enough to maintain decent-
The press is charging forty francs. And Mr. de Girardin wrote in his newspaper La Presse, on July 8, 1846, the Day of the Fampoux disaster: no announcements No newspaper! The Seine Commercial Court, in a case between the newspaper Le Commerce and a The advertising company has since confirmed this doctrine.

'La Presse wrote that the Journal des Déhats would sell the Franc$ for two subscribers at most.

230 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Ad merchants can arrange as They can choose what they like from a newspaper they bought.

Thus, journalism only survives under the good pleasure of the announcement. Public opinion is no longer the queen of the world, He is the slave of the Honorable Company of the Mar-Orvietan cans. This company, if it wanted monopolizing the advertisements, would be contained in its hands the fate of all advertising bodies. She all he has to do is create a newspaper for twenty francs, and concentrate-to focus all his announcements on him, to give the blow Thanks to all existing newspapers. I'm amazed. that the magnitude of the result has not yet been seduced the adventurous imagination of a Rodin, of some party leader, of the Legitimist party, for example, who possesses vast capital ^

When our fathers made their great revolution to ensure for their homeland the benefits of freedom the press, when we made ours in the
Our fathers could hardly have imagined, with the same intentions Nor do we, let's admit it, work for the most great glory of Doctor Charles' secret remedies Albert or Dr. Giraudeau's pills Saint-Gervais.

Sons like fathers, the legislator of '89 like that of 1830, had believed they were ensuring the rights of the thought, when they had written at the beginning of the founding law-

'This was printed long before the founding of the famous en-enterprise of monopolizing commercial advertisements, under the reason social Ch. Duveyrier and company. At the time the author was writing these lines, Mr. Ch, Duveyrier, the fierce Saint-Simonian, fulminated, of complicity with him, in the peaceful Democracy, of energetic protests actions against the tyranny of capital.

COMMERCIAL AUXILIARIES. 231

the mentality of the country, the principle of freedom of the press.
And wrinkled was far from their minds, to do publicity-cited an instrument designed to promote trade drugs.

Certainly, the interests of commerce have been totally foreign to the higher motives that have made them re-Freedom of the press was established by fundamental law.
and I challenge the most shameless of all industrialists the shop interests that dominate today all the others in the matter of advertising. The

The right to publish a newspaper has become one of the privileges the most valuable assets of the capital, and intelligence public access through the press is subject to good pleasure and the interest of money.

The favors of the law, such as the transport of the day-low-cost nal, had only been granted to the enseimovement and the spread of the idea through the press.
But now a parasitic industry is fraudulently creeping in-fortunately in the political leaflet where the law had not she hadn't even considered reserving a place for him; she pro-first of all, the immunity granted to thought, for to claim the most positive benefits from this im-community; not content with using and abusing the community pleasure of the law, it usurps a quarter of the space originally intended for political education, re-religious or social, and it ends up monopolizing the mono-advertising hub.

Revolutionary law and common sense had said:
((The newspaper, an instrument of intellectual dissemination, will thrive on the talent of its writers, on the sympathy that the
"The greatness of the idea will find its place within the masses."

232 b LA. FEUDALITY FINANCITRE.

The current law and the men in the shop have weighed the purse of men with ideas; and feeling it less heavier than theirs, they said to these; c(We you let us refrain from entering into a struggle with us, because we will sell our merchandise at a loss, until we have ruined you or we have constraints to abandon to us the monopoly of the publication cited. » Has the right of capital?

And the government, the members of parliament, the judges, tolerated this usurpation without a word, although the the usurpation process was flawed by an im-profound morality; for, in order to achieve hoarding advertising forced the industrial press to to sell its products below cost price.

However, any industry that sells its products to-below the cost price, and which does not remunerate the workers that it employs on the product of their work is an immoral industry because it forces workers to resort to theft in order to survive and

It is incredible that the legislators have not I also understood that selling an item below its cost price, that's committing actual theft with regard to of all those who possess the same object, and that this theft must be punished more severely than all the others, since it inevitably brings along in its wake the bankruptcies and commercial disasters and suspensions construction projects, all calamities which can be summarized exacerbating the misery of the workers.

Selling below cost price is the weapon that big capitalists use to ruin the small ones that compete with them. It is through this means that the courier companies that serve Even today, the main cities of France, have seized a monopoly on transportation. By lowering their prices in an exaggerated way, by transporting the Travelers at a loss, they ruined the companies which did not have, as they say, such strong kidneys that they; and when they had conquered the monopoly, They compensated themselves for their sacrifices by taking money from the public. previous results. This competition is simply a brutal war in which victory is won advances to the largest capitals. All the frauds commercial, without exception, are the consequence. Thus, small-time dealers in the impos-ability to support the fight against traders in Large companies are forced to close down if they don't.

COMMERCIAL AUXILIARIES. 283

to alter and falsify their products. Never a power that would have a sense of its mission, does not should tolerate the existence of an industry that produces its products below cost price, because all An industry placed in this position cannot escape to bankruptcy, I repeat, only through fraud or through monopoly.

The announcement is, moreover, one of those trees that can judge by their fruits. I want to see her perish before little under the explosion of universal indignation of honest people.

It began with the scandal and the police correction-tional. We know the role it played in the devastation of this fever of disastrous speculations which signaled the course of the years 1837 and 1838, and which is has returned in recent years, thanks to the system of railway line concession adopted by the government. The announcement is guilty of a greater crime in our eyes is to have given birth to the perpetrators. and having placed political influence in the hands of agio-low-level makers, on whose behalf the pre-The first statesmen of our time are forced to rely on. It increased the power tenfold and encouraged the disorderly pretensions of the financial aristocracy ceremonial. She is largely responsible for this position of vassalage, where the state finds itself placed vis-à-vis the high Bank barons.

234 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

The memory of the announcement will become part of history. to that of the good old days of speculation and orgies the Stock Exchange, to that of the exploits of the knights of the lansquenet, in memory of those shameful times when a A stockbroker could earn sixty thousand francs per month to place bets!

And power is destined to pay dearly one day for its culpable tolerance towards this illegal industry legitimate. By sacrificing serious newspapers, the newspapers devoted to the worship of some principle or other, to ensure the fortune of industrial newspapers, he only did so to create masters with whom it will be necessary to It will happen sooner or later; and the demands of the monopolists press coverage will be proportional to the figures their subscribers.

The announcement spawned the serialized novel which has given the monopoly on advertising to speculators capable of paying one hundred thousand francs for a novel. The serialized novel has killed bookstores and literature.

Indeed, these newspapers are forced to cultivate Subscribers cannot search for the ad

COMMERCIAL AUXILIARIES. 235

to educate and moralize the people, because there is gain more subscribers by appealing to prejudices country and by serving its passions, rather than by enlightening it on its true interests. Now, the classifieds newspaper is required to bend down to the level of the mass, instead to force the mass to rise up to him. It is not as well as faith and devotion to the idea proceed, these noble elements of progress that power sacrifices.

Another unfortunate consequence of the advent of Cheap newspapers were the ruin of the press departmental, more impartial and more conscientious than her sister from Paris. The provincial press, obliged to lower its prices as a result of competition from newspapers in the capital that are sold at a loss, and do not being able to find resources like these in the announcement, was condemned to live on subsidies and of sacrifices, as the most honorable part of the Parisian press. So the question of the announcements judiciaires has become for the departmental press a matter of life or death, and the administration unfairly exploited her distress.

The political newspaper has once again found immense [issues] here. advantages due to its freedom of movement, on the scientific journal, on the weekly or monthly, which are devoted exclusively to development development of this or that religious or social principle. These newspapers, these magazines, which were never able to have the idea of prospering through advertising, these collections which could only survive through subscriptions, they didn't have no less, they were forced to lower their subscription prices ly, as a result of the reduction in newspaper prices who live solely off advertising. And as the most

236 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

It was often these subscription prices that had to be lowered again, had already been reduced to a minimum by the the dedication and selflessness of the founders, it It followed that the men of progress, that the Intelligent men had to abandon their work. or else condemn themselves to sacrifices beyond their strengths.

That is to say, the triumph of industrial journalism triel, dedicated to the propagation of the anti-syphilitic rob and The success of the liafé cV Arabie has as its inevitable corollary the ruin of the serious newspaper, dedicated to teaching the religious, political or social ideas.

This disastrously inferior position that the triumph of the commercial press done to the press ideas, is the most cruel condemnation of the legislation-tion which governs advertising in France. If we had a real government, an administration that whoever knew or dared to dare, tomorrow, all the anomalies the monstrous things I just pointed out would cease.

having promiscuity between the publicity of ideas and the re-industrial claim – that the newspaper intended to inform the people's movement, must not continue to do the off-bass drum of the vulnerable merchant

Swiss... And this law would reduce the security deposit of nine-tenths would require the signature of all the articles in the newspaper, would abolish the stamp, reduce the postage costs, and would relegate the industrial advertisement to its place in ad hoc documents that would pay tribute to the State for the announcement of goods as for that of judicial sales.

Immunity to the spread of the idea that can illuminate

i

AUXILIARIES OR COMMERCIALISTS f.K. 237

to make men better, that's the principle a liberal approach that should dominate the subject; but that in no way, industrialism which benefits and spec- cule, cannot benefit from the privilege granted to the inte- higher realms of thought. No more promiscuity by consequently between Vidée and traffic, between the newspaper and the announcement. No more close contact, so that the newspaper returns to the normal conditions of its nature, for that his fortune and that of his writers no longer other bases than superior talent and usefulness of the publication. No more promiscuity, so that the Quotidienne is no longer forced to announce the songs neither Béranger's nor the Charivari nor the works of M. de Gi- garden; so that the Constitutional^ that Mr. Eugène Sue removed from the grave, no more insults in her first Paris to the theories professed in the newspaper- your savior by Mr. Eugène Sue!

But the government trembles at the idea of emancipation. passion of the press. He's not the one who should be trembling. However, rather these high and mighty sei- journalists who keep him on a tight leash and who They sell their protection to him at such a high price. Cavity is the first effect. of this emancipation would be to free him, him from a- edge, of a humiliating yoke; and public opinion would no longer have to deplore scandals like those which we witness every day. For example- the cabinet meeting of October 29th would not have been convened. damned to entrust the eminent functions of clerk- royal salon near the Théâtre-Français to a Mr. Buloz, an uneducated and non-French person, who attributed

Mr. Buloz was carrying two magazines on his belt!

238 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

lia presse g^ouverueiaeutale.

Not only does the government have nothing to fear of the emancipation of the press, but no party is in a better position than the government to be led by the emancipated press; and ministers who have the budget, who pay such a large number of public officials, are not excusable from never having worked to rally support for the defense of power the most famous and popular writers of country; for all men are powerful in intelligence are the natural defenders of intelligent powers, of authority and order. But to win over these high-ranking officials individual voices, these popular writers, you have to have the courage to say out loud from the podium what you want and here we go; and it is not with hypocritical declamations against the rise of evil passions that one can hope to appeal to generous minds and to

Men

of power, which you have raised through eloquence and to know the top positions of the State, open wide to talent, a career of jobs and honors, in order to that the most capable may rise like you. Give pride of place to the scholar, the poet, the orator, to the artist, so that all these legitimate superiorities unite their influence with yours; so that all these forces of intelligence, dull and cold rays today Now that they are scattered across the country, condense and unite in the sphere of power, into a radiant home of light and life. Talk about liberty, charity, glory, to this nation so easy to

COMMERCIAL AUXILIARIES. 239

to govern, when one knows how to appeal to the heart; exhibit your practical means of social improvement, so that the people are certain that you are taking care seriously consider his fate. Try to enter into this way, and call to you; you will see if there is a lack of generous prayers to answer your call, and if this nation is as ungovernable as you predicted. stretch...

But instead, here I hear Mr. Thiers, a former chairman of the board, a five- to six-year-old character must be just a 'post...

Mr. Duchalel, a Minister of the Interior, who...
The most skillful government writer finished: that who is best at developing the useless side of questions !

So the unfortunate press had to... government eventually conforms everywhere to program drawn up by the hand of Mr. Thiers and of Mr. Duchâtel.

Because there is a government press and I have some-What reasons can support this assertion, having held my position for ten years?
place in this press, and thoroughly knowing the personnel of its writers, among whom several are of my creation. The government press is sub-funded by the navy's budget, it is said, from a-edge, and then on that famous million in secret funds that the ministry receives each year from the two chambers bres, as a sign of trust and goodwill friendship, but nevertheless subject to a charge by the ministry.
Is it written in the deed of gift to protect the so-society against the explosion of evil passions which

260 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

fermenting in the shadows. Count Duchâtel, mid-Minister of the Interior, having once had the singular audacity to deny the existence of the government press Having been forced to speak from the podium, much to my regret, to deliver a public and solemn rebuttal to him under the-
to which he bowed. I like to hope that the lesson has taught him will be beneficial for the future and will make him understand the obligation to abandon his shameful tactic which never imposed it on anyone. The figure of the sub-
The amount involved sometimes reached enormous sums. particularly under the ministry of October 11, which enlavishly maintained seventy newspapers at a time. I I know a provincial newspaper for which I was offered the editorship of... tion in time, and to which the Minister of Funds secrets allocated a monthly stipend of five one thousand francs. In the Globe trial, it was proven that the cashier of this newspaper received five thousand francs per month from a generous hand unknown to the street of Grenelle. If the Globe competition, an insulting newspaper fifteen hundred subscribers and in small format were paid sixty thousand francs in 1845, we can calculate by approximation the figure of the subsidy granted to the day-large format images of the era and the debates^ in return that the Débats were still in small format, under On April 15th, I heard it said every day in the office from the minister, that the support of this newspaper cost twelve thousand francs a month at the ministry, and in this The sum did not include an additional 1,000 francs. per month for the son of the house. I suppose that The somewhat petty state of affairs must have improved since then.

Mr. Thiers is a minister with a broad hand in matters of subsidy for protective newspapers. He's the one who invented in collusion with Mr. de Rémusat the payment subsidies in the form of banknotes, with the aim of af-to overcome the writers who have rallied to a compromising formality-putting them off, and which bothered them cruelly. It's important to know that the writers, before the advent of March 5, were settled by means of warrants drawn on the cash register Gérin that they were required to sign, which made proof of their dependence. Payment in banknotes bank that the head of the cabinet gives you from his pro-

COMMERCIAL AUXILIARIES. 261

The first main has the advantage of concealing any proper name, to allow virtue to become more human.

The law on legal notices that allowed the the Minister of Justice to make this source of revenues a monopoly for the politically correct press, a considerably lightened in recent years the responsible for the ministerial press subsidy. I I would not dare to assert that there is now, in de-Apart from the Parisian press, more than a dozen sheets directly maintained by the cashier of secret funds.

I held my place for a long time, as I said, in this subsidized government press, all the time that the cause of order and power has been put in question and that the ministers were able to allege difficulties of the situation and the riot as an excuse of their inertia. Because that's one of my weaknesses, to at-to do everything for the democratic cause of the rally-the power and the people, to expect nothing or almost nothing from the people alone. I have given up gen-fortunately to the rich sinecures, thanks to the ministerial favor rielle, to the softness of the far niente, the day he me 1 16

242 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

improvement to be expected from the Conservative party, and beautiful—Many of my friends followed my example, when they they didn't give it to me.

The public may know that I have been for my country,
On the occasion of these revelations, a major object of Scandal. The Ministry's Office of Public Opinion
He didn't forgive my frankness. Poor devils. to whom I had given the grant accused me of imposture; my successor in the drafting of the Southern France, which receives the salaries of the minister's brother, as I myself received them, He was outraged by my cynicism, and he was decorated. Not one none of these writers dared to acknowledge my gratitude aloud.
The service I wanted to provide them. They don't care. that the minister settle them using his secret funds as agents of the secret police, and disavows them.
Chement!

After the shameless denials from the office of ministerial public opinion, then came the insults of Bureau of Radical Public Opinion. The Bureau of Opinion
The public on Lepelletier Street honored my book with a a quote full of kindness towards the author, and that thirty provincial newspapers rushed to reproduce with scrupulous fidelity. I was represented in the note placed at the beginning of the quote like a notorious criminal haunted by remorse and who felt the need to unload the burden of his shame through a public confession.

11 There are only two small errors in, Vapprécia-benevolent tion of the public spirit office radical. The first thing is that I never considered the

COMMERCIAL AUXILIARIES. 245

the profession of ministerial writer is considered shameful; the Secondly, I never asked for forgiveness from no one had practiced it. I may well have regretted a-to have served the cause of government laziness believing I was serving the order; but if I have been Having been mistaken in this, it's too bad for those who have deceived me. deceived, and not for me; that is to say, I couldrais faire au bureau de l'esprit publique de la rue Le-Pelletier gave the same answer as Ninon to 1 sent from this grand lady who wished to give him a place at Convent of the Repentant Daughters: "Tell the one who you sent that I am neither a daughter nor repentant." I I owe this justice, moreover, that I have been able to preserve a ministerial batteries and radical batteries firing all about me. It would have been a tolerable thing, though—a new and exciting way to have the same day before the correctional police court of Paris, sixty newspapers from the north and south, from Western and eastern France, newspapers sold, incorruptible newspapers, and to make them hurl insults at each other with love for one another to prove me right, and to expose them all at once as imposters. One a clever man who would have liked to make people talk from him, would not have let such a magnificent advertising opportunity.

Mr. the Marquis de Boissy, in the Chamber of Peers, Mr. Lherbette in the Chamber of Deputies, said to Mr. Duchâtel: "Or admit that Y, the author of the Jews, kings..." of the time, spoke the truth regarding the subsidized press-born, or bring him to trial for crime of slander. Oh! My God, Mr. Minister of Linen—

2Zii OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

the exterior would have asked for nothing better than to treat me—to bring before the correctional police; but by mis—the courts admit the evidence against the ministers; and if I had referred the matter to my accuser sateur... because no matter what constitutional minister one is, one should not be able to lie with the same aplomb Before God, rather than before the deputies. Mr. Count Duchâtel was wrong not to respond to the honorable Mr. Lherbette, through silence, as he had had the good spirit to do for Mr. the Marquis de Boissy. When it comes to secret funds, that is to say, a As a matter of trust, the ministry has no account to to give to no one.

For me, it is a very serious question to know Which of the two is the most corrupt, the most cowardly, of the minister who publicly disavows the writer who serves, who gets himself killed for him, or the writer who accepts such a disavowal. I think that's the case here. to send the parties back to back, as they say At the palace, the shame was shared.

And when I address these ministerial disavowals, whose humiliHation I would like to save for the future My former colleagues, please note that this is less an accusation of ingratitude that I address to the minister, than a reproach of clumsiness and pusillanimity. Recognition is one of the attributes of nature.

to blame the extinguished hearts that lack it; but This ingratitude, finally, is systematic among the de- current holders of power and stems from a vice of heart. This is how the favor deserved by servants real vices that were denied to the courageous writer

COMMERCIAL AUXILIARIES. 245

and devoted, will be offered to rennenii, to the pamphleteer. Thus, all ministers since Casimir P rier have worked to let them say that it was better, for to earn their favor is to attack them rather than serve them. See the outrageous rewards given in the time by Mr. Thiers to these two writers who e- They were relentless in their attacks against him with such fury. blackmail had been practiced this time with such impu- The minister had shown himself to be so easy, the recantation of the two hravi had been so abrupt, that the consciousness the indignant chamber did not dare to sanction the pact imposed by greed over fear. You might believe- to be that the sycophants of Tletris have bowed down under the blow of the sentence to hide the im- awarded at their brows.... Us wear today the head more proudly than ever; they continue with success in the trade of slander and insults, and when the chances of their profession as defamers call them on the benches of the correctional police, Messrs. The king's lawyers greet them respectfully and call them admirable writers. Well, I don't know any a more corrupting government tactic than that and even more dishonorable! To give a decoration to the au- Barnave's author, because he wrote a nasty book against the king's family; to grant a sub-prefecture to an editor of Le Revenant or the Gazette de France^ because he spent ten years of his life insulting the king; thus buying defection and apostasy, instead to reward loyalty and zeal... I say that it's working to discredit one's own cause and de- to identify a reward for immorality and to encourage the feeding frenzy all the assailants of power. The ungrateful minister and cowardly, refusing to honor the writer who serves him, gives everyone a measure of the esteem he has for himself. even. He provokes, so to speak, the insults that the the opposition press is already so well disposed to distribute to writers for the government press. It kills zeal in the hearts of the ambitious; it deprives itself of who would gladly accept the responsibility of defending the government cause, if there was also honor and profit from doing so. 11 betrays this cause, in a word, and on the other hand he exposes himself to the discontent of ministerial deputies who need to be defended in their departments against systemic attacks matics of which the opposition writers the ac- They're wiring. I once had enough influence to decide a few talented young people to embrace with me the cause of power, in the time of the riot and the political storms. All, or almost all at least, have given up on that career for the past four to five years. Mr. Duchâtel has been asking for years, without being able to find them, writers at five hundred francs per month, for cities like Toulouse, Lyon, Lille. They offered me more, and I refused. And certainly, it's not contempt for gold, and even less so the fear of being called a paid journalist that made me I rejected the ministerial offers, because I do not despise not gold, which is not to be despised, and I have always worn with ease the title of ministerial writer, which I I could never get used to considering it as a insult. I refused, despite my sympathies for the power, because it was demonstrated to me by too much long experience that it was impossible to use to both the interests of the government and those of the middle-ministry. I refused, because it disgusted me to do journalism for the exclusive benefit of the aristocracy financial, and that the ministry's newspapers have not There is no other mission to accomplish today. And I told the minister that a conscientious writer could not form convictions, on the day day, on the pattern of the palinodes of the Debates.

246 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

COMMERCIAL AUXILIARIES. 247

Here are some more facts that are personal to me and that will give an idea of this state of shortage in the- what the government press has been doing since long dive.

In 1837, I was writing the ministerial journal of Lille, /(' North, subsidized at eighteen thousand francs per year. Mr. de Rémusat, one of the fervent doctrinaires of the e-Poque, having called me to the editorial office of the newspaper Peace there, I was given as my successor, in Lille, a former editor-in-chief of La Glaneuse de Lyon, a red sheet whose inflammatory publications had contributed enormously to the explosion of April 1834.

damnation to three years imprisonment by decree from the assize court, had just escaped of Clairvaux, when he was chosen to replace mecer. The public has a bad habit of not to believe in the sincerity of conversions that are too rapid. did not believe in the sincerity of that of my successor in Lille. ceaser, and the new editor of the North was struck in the middle of the street, in the face, by a legitimist writer who refused to side with him by force of arms. The aggressor, brought before the police court - tional; was sentenced to sixteen francs in damages-

2^8 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

interests. The ministerial writer does not have the presence in the spirit of slapping his opponent on both sides he plays, at this very moment, and deposits thirty-two francs on the clerk's counter.

In Lille, I had been replaced by an editor of The Gleaner in Toulouse, a few years later, I was filling in for someone in the drafting of the ministerial newsletter. southern France, a former editor of the Tribune there and when I definitively abdicated the title of writer- In vain, ministerial post, I was given as my successor, to this Last diary entry, by a young, disgraced spa owner very little versed in the study of political matters and social skills, but very strong on the violin.

Can we get an idea of the ease of morals and The lighthearted tone of the government press? A few strokes will suffice. A member of the board of f Esprit jmblic having one day given his resignation, under the pretext of disgust for sinecures (the scene (it passed under April 15th), Vami of the minister took the It was difficult to get out of work to come from- ask the scrupulous writer for permission to do to have his portrait taken in a considerable number of copies to please, he said, to keep to posterity the features and physiognomy of a species primitive that everyone had long believed lost.

It was under this same ministry of April 15th that... a funny hoax took place which made its author an infinite honor: two writers from an ultra-doctrinaire, two fiery henchmen of Mr. Guizot d'a- before the coalition, unknowingly sold to Mr. Mole and unintentionally... sold and not paid for by the negotiator teir who took it upon himself to conclude the deal, and who faithfully kept the secret and the sum. The mystic-tion later earned force of jokes to the victims (quorum pars....), plus the title of ingrates.

I wanted to share these confidences with the public, firstly to show him the profound Tincuria that reigns in the advice from those in power, and also to destroy within its spirit, this suspicion which is so well in keeping with the customs of the era, that this volume might well be only the explosion of resentment in my self-esteem offended and my ambition thwarted. Alas! no, I do not I am not one of those broken, hired lackeys who beggars, pamphlet in hand, and no one has less that I have the right to complain about the ingratitude of the pou-see. Attached within a five- to six-year interval to cabinets of five to six ministers, I was able, without even to reach out, to seize the softest and the richer sinecures; and these sinecures were still It was at my disposal when I wrote these lines, and what-My friends blamed me for not accepting them. Marshal Bugeaud, the most powerful man from this country, made me give places against my will to cling to his fortune, and I renounced everything this bright future for the simple reason that, since that I have reached the age of reason, the taste of soldiers has pass.

Thus the ministerial press in general, and to what extent- With a few rare and brilliant exceptions, it is only one second edition, not always corrected, of the Journal des Debates, and this Journal of Debates is the organ of the in-exclusive interest of the big bank. The government therefore employs all moral and material influences the resources at his disposal to facilitate invasions financial elements. 11 works conscientiously- seism to rivet the shackles of power' and those of the people, and it hasn't yet occurred to him to change the field thesis and to have it developed by sixty newspapers at once the saving principle: that the interests The rights of those in power are the same as those of the people, and that The people and the government have the same enemies. Beau- A stroke of luck has come our way, I'm talking about the writers. the most devoted members of the government press, for rejected our offers. The fear of compromising ourselves with the powerful financial institutions have always contributed to their goodwill against invincible obstacles.

250 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

And yet what we dared not undertake on a large scale, mind you, we were allowed to try it in all the important localities where it was believed our useful energy. If all the ministerial press had become more democratic than the radical press, which wasn't difficult, what I was doing, the power would have very few enemies today in the ranks of the people; and the bankers, instead of being his masters, and his imperious masters, would be his very-humble servants.

Let us summarize this dissertation, which the reader is asked to excuse the length.

Advertising is subservient to the advertisement. The merchant, the notary and the solicitor, who are the distributors of the an-The pundits are the true masters of advertising. They are Jewish lackeys who shape public opinion France.

COMMERCIAL AUXILIARIES. 251

IjC cabaret.

It is another parasitic industry, an industry commercial aspect that I would be wrong not to include on the list of auxiliary powers of commerce, because it plays an important role in the movement of lamachme re()résentative: it's Tinduslrie from the cabaret, one of the major levers of Election.

I don't know the tax figure for the cabaret deducted from the wages of workers in France. This must to be something frightening and colossal.

The cabaret filled up like the forum, with desert-tion of the workshop. Its prosperity, like that of all parasitic industries that use mistletoe as their emblem, is inversely proportional to the country's prosperity. time of selection, that is to say the time of the agitations-political actions, is for the cabaret the era of showers of gold.

The cabaret is a leprosy that clings like the vermin among the wretched populations. The more this misery The more it increases, the more the cabaret's splendor grows.

The spirit of fire flows through metal taps. gleaming, magnificent copper-rimmed barrels polished, labeled and arranged in admirable order.

This is where the unhappy worker comes to numb himself. on the consequences of the reduction in his salary, and seek momentary oblivion from his suffering, forgetting about the future of his wife and daughter.

The prosperity of the cabaret speaks of the depravity of morals, disgust with work and family, abandonment

252 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

of the household. I boldly assert, without having compared the figures, that the increase in the number of cabarets marche parallel to that of offenses and Foundlings. The cabaret is the mother's terror. from an active and hardworking family.

It is in the cabaret that preparations take place and that... peddle the adulterated mixtures that poison the people, under the false name of wine or alcohol. I I have never been surprised that the populations of the large cities attributed the cholera epidemics to male-profits from their liquid suppliers; on the contrary.

There is a close solidarity of financial interests between The cabaret and the political newspaper. It's the cabaret that makes the political newspaper's fortune, and vice versa.
It's for lazing around, drinking, and reading or to hear the newspaper being read, that we're going to the cabaret. The cabaret, the tavern and the café itself, which is not than a bourgeois cabaret, are the theaters where the ora-The members are preparing for the battles in the stands. 11 there are these theatres, even in the most remote villages of the France today. It is in the cabaret that these matters are settled. major election and municipal council matters, of the National Guard and others. I know a lot of localities where cabarets are leased by candidates of the chamber, for the entire duration of the operations electoral. You can eat and drink there for free, on account competitors. 11 were in Châlons-sur-Saône, under the Restoration, an election that cost around forty of one thousand francs to each of the two candidates. In An-England, a country more advanced than ours in this area of representative government, the number of these de-The thought sometimes amounted to a million. From there a reasons that should calm tempers in the area of any electoral reform, which would only concern the lowering of the property qualification. When the electoral property qualification will be reduced to one hundred francs, it is the cabaret that will be the absolute master of the election. I do not ardently aspire after this result. Power is an instrument of which the handling isn't learned in a day, and I don't like not to see firearms in the hands of those who do not know how to use it.

Cabaret is already a powerful force today, and a respectable power.

A philanthropic banker, Mr. François Delessert, was a member of parliament for the sixth arrondissement of Paris before 1837. The sixth arrondissement of Paris, rue Saint-Martin, rue du Grand-Hurleur, rue aux Ours, is a the most industrial districts of the city. The worker It's teeming with people, and so are the cabarets. Mr. François Delessert having actively cooperated in restoring the funds savings institutions, establishments intended to receive savings workers' concessions^ the numerous merchant voters of wine from the sixth, furious at the competition, decided they believe that their virtuous deputy had betrayed their interests the most expensive loans and undeserved in their esteem, and they they stripped him of the mandate of trust they had given him previously invested. Should I say that their new The choice fell upon Mr. Arago; not, alas! upon Mr. Arago, the illustrious astronomer, but about Mr. Arago, the speaker who then took the floor at the banquets patriotic. Mr. Arago, tribune! Oh! That's yet another one unforgivable crimes of this abominable anarchist social shit in the bosom of which we live, of inevitably diverting the most from their natural path

254 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

noble intellects and the most magnificent talents. This was a man whom God had certainly marked. pointing the finger so that he might do great things, so that he was the prince of science; for God had given to this man and the genius who conceives and the eloquence that popularizes, and even the majesty of the features and the power-physical fitness that appeals to the masses. 11 had also placed at its heart a burning feeling of sympathy for the working classes; the mission that this favored man had received from nature, was obviously to translate into popular applications all the discoveries of science, and to personify populations who are suffering and who are in such great need with the help of genius. But the power of prejudice and the traditions of a narrow and sterile politics have distorted the growth of this brilliant nature, and led astray the not a scholar from his very first entry into the career. And the illustrious astronomer, the born minister of progress peaceful, did not take long to descend from the heights of science to declaim against power, in the name the supposed interests of the people, and to achieve this Banquet speaker, agitator in turn. But who then, My God! will defend the power, if the astronomer to whom his special studies must give such a high idea of order, if men of this caliber, created and brought into the world to understand and glorify power, raise their hands against him!

I have just given, on the occasion of Mr. Delessert, one of the founders of the Paris savings bank, a Proof of the cabaret's political power: I will cite a second example. In 1831, when Europe abso-

COMMERCIAL AUXILIARIES. 255

Lulist, frightened by the triple revolutionary explosion from Paris, Warsaw and Brussels, armed in all haste; when France needed all its resources financial resources to arm themselves in turn and defend themselves to the possibilities of a new coalition, Mr. Laffitte had the idea of reducing the tax on drinks by a third. The timing was perhaps not right for re- to reduce treasury revenues; but finally there was a way to ensure that the proposed reduction, a reduction of forty million, benefited the producer (the vineyard-ron), or to the consumer (the people).

However, the reduction only applied to the debit right, that is to say, it only benefited the intermediary, the caba- to withdraw. The small consumption was in no way lightened, because the largest reductions are insensitive to the worker who only buys retail, to the cannon, to the small glass. Then the consumption of- remaining stationary, production was not ac- tivée.

The capital of France has more than twenty thousand voters, and in that number nearly two thousand merchants, fortune tellers, lemonade sellers, and retailers of liquids.

Thus, the powerful industries that exert the most on the advice of the authorities, are parasites, living off the hardship or fortune of labor-, theirs, and subservient to capital. And the power and the people remain defenseless under the blows of this coalition formidable, shaping public opinion.

Now we know why no one dares to attack the high finance, and why, on the contrary, all the attacks on 'revolutionary' politics converge towards royalty.

256 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Therefore, it becomes necessary to demonstrate to the public the folly of the prejudices that guide it, and for to bring her back, if possible, from her absurd prevention. To resist authority, it is necessary to force it to recognize:

1" That the French people, supposedly liberated by the revolution of 1789 from the yoke of noble feudalism, has simply changed masters.

2. Secondly, that these new masters should be... the bankers are calling out, and the royal authority, far to be able to infringe upon popular freedoms, On the contrary, it is today the only capable counterweight. able to counterbalance the crushing power whose safe is armed against popular freedoms laires; and that finally the false democratic idea, which has thus far relentlessly sought to dismantle the monarchy and to demonetize it in public opinion, has only done more working for the financial aristocracy, by gradually making us lose all the value of conquests of '89, and the blood shed by our fathers.

To arrive at this demonstration, let's have someone pose before us the privileges of the old and the new regime. Let's compare the privileges of the past with those from today, and let's see who benefited from the profits of the two revolutions.

OLD AND NEW PRIVILEGES. ^57

CHAPTER IX.

M.QH ani'iciin and Icm new prl%ik>gc.«i.

What were these ancient privileges that our fathers enjoyed? were so very right to complain and to Get rid of them? I'll list a few that I found formulated in the complaints of the writers of the last century.

The gentlemen did not pay land tax;

They had the right of lowland and average justice;

They extorted money from the traveler and the merchant by their arbitrary toll rights;

They possessed the privilege of hunting;

The privilege of dueling;

The privilege of ranks in the army and certain offices in parliament and court.

Some other insolent rights described as rights of the lord, and which they no longer used before 89, if they never wore out.

People were still complaining about customs, letters of cachet, of the tyranny that weighed on thought; It was said that the state's fortune was in the hands of contractors decorated with the title of tax farmers; on shouted loudly against the tithe, the taxes, the salt tax, the clerks, against the internal customs, the forced labor, against the trade guilds, the masterships 1 17

258 OF FEUDALITY FINANCIAL.

the guilds. Louis XVI's liberal initiative had abolished interrogation and torture.

This is roughly the bulk of the grievances that TAs-national sentiment attributed to the old constitution French grievances, the redress of which was achieved by the revolution sement, by proclaiming administrative unity and le-legislative body of the kingdom, freedom of the press, equality citizens before the law, the proportionality of taxation, the eligibility of all citizens for ranks and jobs. Let's compare the two eras.

Immunities of noble lands.

Property tax. That's true, but they paid the tax blood: all were required to serve the State in the army.

The gentlemen of today pave the tax land; but most of the properties of these gentlemen—men, mines, coal mines, pastures, receive a protection bonus from the state for their products that are equivalent to soil immunity. The treasure. He gives back with one hand what he takes from them with the other. The real estate holdings of the high barons of Au—Today are the mines and forges of Anzin, of Fourchambault, from Saint-Amand, from Saut-du-Sabot, of Alais, of La Grand'Combe, of Decazeville, the forests from Count Roy and the Marquis d'Aligre, the refineries of Messrs. Périer, Delessert, the pastures at students of Marshal Bugeaud, the factories of sheet of MM. Grandin and Cunin-Gridaine.

The protection that all these properties enjoy has prevented the union of Belgium with France had not taken place for sixteen years; that France had not acceded to the Zollverein and effected by a commercial treaty The alliance of Central Europe, a guarantee of peace universal.

THE AINCLINS AND THE PRIVILEGED VEGANS. 259

The indirect or protection premium, granted to. French ironworkers, who cannot support competition with the production of rAUernagne, from Russia, Sweden, England, the Belgium makes all of France pay for iron, and no—particularly to agriculture, twice what it would be worth without this protection. Same result for coal.

The high price of iron reacts to the high price of Forests. Forests are being destroyed because there is a vested interest. to cut them down completely. The bare tops as a result of the Reckless deforestation opens the valleys to flooding. dation and the hillsides to the hurricane. The periodic devastation—The consequences of these floods are detrimental to the fortunes of the poor. cleric an annual loss of sixty million, in crop losses. The climate is deteriorating; the olive—Every year, Vie takes a step of retreat towards the sea. The southern provinces are devastated by the mistral wind. Government engineers, councils of de—department, declare that the origin of the evil is in the destruction of forests. They are demanding reforestation.

but the interest of forest owners is that the forestry legislation that maintains the high price of their property, not to be reformed. The rich purchase— They cut down the woods to clear them; the men entered through the election they obtain authorization without difficulty land clearing that is refused to the municipalities and to small landowners. The government will not dare to propose reforming forestry legislation, because that such a proposal would be likely to irritate to the detriment against him the resentment of the upper capitalists and forest owners. These large landowners... presented two or three years ago to the electorate a petition to Teffet to obtain an increase of excise duties on coal from Paris. The price of fuel, so burdensome for the working classes, did not yet seem high enough to these gentlemen.

260 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Forest owners have the same interest as the owners of coal mines and ironworks, not to allow coal to arrive in France at low prices from Belgium and England.

The protection afforded to refineries and factories of native sugar have cost for fifteen years two hundred million to France: she killed the fortune of our colonies and dealt a fatal blow to the prosperity—commercial activity of our ports and our power maritime.

The protection of fifty-five francs per head, granted to large livestock breeders, has put the meat prices out of reach for consumers members of the working class. To benefit a few large landowners in some departments of the France, where fragmentation has not yet spread its devastation, the government deprives of a healthy food and substantial the part of the population that needs it most of this food to restore its depleted strength by the work. She makes the consumption of meat from Butchery: a privilege for the upper classes. Janiaie the nobility of yesteryear did not claim for itself alone

I
THE OLD AND NEW PRIVILEGES, 2(i I the right to eat beef. Mr. Maiv—tower of University Street, to prove to me that the

The French people were interested in ensuring that it was not consumed meat in France only of domestic meat, that is to say meat from his own pastures, great owner of the Dordogne. He did not succeed in me to abandon this foolish opinion: that the first the condition of a domestic meat was to be affordable to the national stomachs.

The protection afforded to our factories sheets, canvas and cotton, besides the inconvenience of to make the nation pay double for its clothes that they are worth, provoked, like all the others protections listed above, re- measures reprisals in neighboring states, which imposed ri-in turn, our wines, our eaux-de-life, our silks and all the items on which the French production had a marked superiority.
I have already said that the wine industry, which employs seven millions of arms in France, had seen closures externally, its main outlets, at the same time that the ever-increasing rise in the grants of cities were closing off the major inland markets to him.
But vineyards are the crop of smallholdings.
and small property provides few deputies and peers.

The tax figure, including the protection granted to the needy industries of the large landowners and the big capitalists strike the national worker In France, it is said to amount to more than a billion, of a-approximately calculations, based on the documents of

262 OF FEUDALITY FINANCIAL.

1. Customs administration. Let's consider that we Let's pay for everything we consume in wine, com-fuel, clothing, fabrics, construction, locksmithing, wheelwrighting, etc., a third or half more expensive than We shouldn't have to pay them. As for the damages caused to the territorial fortune of the present and of the future caused by the depopulation of forests, it is approximately It's impossible to evaluate you.

I ask the people what they have gained so much from Fabo-lition of the franchise of noble properties, and if it is royalty that he continues to pursue his hatreds which inherited the privileges of the old regime .'*

steel, but it manufactured neither iron, nor brown sugar, nor breeches, like the nobility of today; she does not didn't make the villains pay a billion bounty for the products of its industry.

And the nobility of old paid the blood tax, that the nobility of today lets everything fall apart entirely on the shoulders of the people.

Is it really certain that the people have benefited from this change?

Privilège <Ie basse et moyenne Justice.

The nobility before Louis XIV exercised power over its domain the right of lower and middle justice.

11. It would be unfair to say that the nobility of today—of today, that the aristocracy of the crown exercises over its lands the right of lower and middle justice, a right which does not exist—It was more common in France even before 1789. Certainly, it's a of the great benefits of our revolutions that justice that is exercised today in the name of the sovereign, that is to say that is to say, in the name of the nation, by a magistrate in charge to prosecute the guilty parties automatically and to protect the rights of all. I bow respectfully before the institution of the public prosecutor's office, one of those which seem to me to be of a nature to give the most perfect the idea of the providential mission of power. I readily acknowledge that justice is best served in France, more so than any other country in the world, and that the French judiciary has always nobly supported its long-standing reputation for integrity and scientific rigor. In fact of judicial privileges, it is true, the good people—Men today have only the privilege of the court of cassation and that of the most eloquent lawyers cats; but that's still too much; the cost of the fees Moreover, pleading always leaves a huge advantage. tage to the rich and bad-faith litigant against the poor ousted.

THE OLD PRIVILEGES. THE NEW PRIVILEGES. 2f)3

Arbitrary toll rights.

The gentlemen of yesteryear used to extort money from the traveler and merchant by arbitrary rights of TOLL.

Alas! today all the canals, all the che—belong to the high and powerful lords of the bank. Today's lords do not extort money more fraudulently the lone traveler; it is on the universality of citizens that they strike their rights arbitrary tolls. The railway companies iron and canals have the right to change the tariffs on the canals built with the State's money, e est—that is to say, with the people's money. They perceive the products of state-built railways with the people's money. All means of communication pay tribute to the financial caste; one cannot not even passing over the bridges of major cities like Paris, Lyon, Rouen, without being obliged to acc—to leave the toll imposed by the new feudal system. The Nobles of yesteryear never ransomed travelers with the same harshness as the proprietary administrations silences of the Loing and Briare canals, which have driven from the capital's market the coals of Saint-Étienne, the wines of Auvergne and the irons of Berry.

26^ OE FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

The nobles of old never treated the manants with more arrogance and insolence than the Jew the railway does not treat the traveler today.

Well, is it still royalty or high society? bank, the Jewish bank, which has monopolized the inheritance of the privileges of the old regime overthrown by our fathers?

PpîTîlêjSfe of the hunt.

For me, it is a well-proven fact in this world, that is, if it depended on the financial aristocracy of to be granted the privilege of hunting, she would seize upon it. would have been invested as early as tomorrow. The latest hunting law, which contains some useful provisions against braconnage, does not sufficiently conceal its tendencies towards the return to aristocratic privileges. During the discussion of this law in the House of Peers, an honorary A senior member, a Mr. d'Oberlin, I believe, asked

THE OLD KT THE NEW PRIVILEGES. 26:"; that the right to bear arms could only be granted to The individual owning ten hectares of land, at minimum; and the carrying of weapons, note well, is not contains only fifty-two million hectares, and that these fifty-two million hectares are di-targeted at eleven million plots, the adoption of the

Mr. d'Oberlin's proposal would have reduced the first Suddenly, the list of those authorized to carry weapons was reduced to something.
One hundred thousand citizens. We also know, and experience tells us so. proves every day that no one is more jealous of everything which seems like a privilege that the newly enriched, and the latest law has obviously made hunting rights a kind of privilege for the rich. I hope this-while the new nobility will hold less than the old one to this exclusive right of hunting which of-commands, in order to exercise in a princely manner, the ownership of vast buildings and an expensive pi- apparatus quarrymen and packs. Real estate ownership relates-We wear little and our nobility calculates. She will seek rarely invests their capital in this type of project.
She would prefer to monopolize the hunting market.
in the state forests; or else, it will be done grant free hunting rights in the lands of the crown. One does not refuse gallantries of such minimal importance to the prominent capitalists who make the elections.

Who else has benefited from the abolition of the exclusive privilege of hunting rights taken from the nobility ]) By the revolution of '89, if not the money men?

206 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY,

Privilege «In duel.

It is rather childish, I know, to recall the privilege-
The legend of the duel, concerning the privileges taken from Tan-ancient nobility. But it is a rather curious fact to It should be noted, however, that the privilege of dueling itself-even, that is to say the right to draw for oneself re-compensation for a personal insult, or having become a pri-money's lair. Today, when a jury has
The court acquitted the defendant of the homicide charge, but did not Don't just condemn him for the damages. caused to the victim's family. The court condemns The duelist is fined, and she pronounces the constraint. by body in the event of non-payment; that is to say, he
You have to be a capitalist to have the right to shoot ven-fear of an affront that the law leaves you to punish, since she does not punish him herself. The responsibilitypecuniary and correctional penalties that affect the te-less prohibited, more directly still the right to revenge for the kind-hearted man who has no fortune.

to ask a friend to lend him his life; but he will never dare—but to borrow his purse or his freedom.

From the privilege of the sprades.

The old nobility had the privilege of ranks.
in the army and positions in parliaments.

I have previously demonstrated that the grades in learned weapons, as well as most of the administrative jobs that require a diploma

OLD AND NEW PRIVILEGES. 267

lawyers had become the privilege of young men belonging to wealthy, or at least well-off, families.
The child of the people, who is necessarily excluded from the arms scholarly due to the high cost of preliminary studies, therefore can only earn his ranks in other weapons, and even then only by his courage on the battlefields. But when you're not fighting, everything His chance of advancement is, so to speak, greatly reduced.
Moreover, this military career that the child of The people do not choose, but have things imposed upon them, is full of deprivation and setbacks for the officer without fortune; because the salary allocated to subordinate ranks The army's dullness doesn't literally give anything away. to live. Those who defend the land are no better rewarded with national gratitude than those who cultivate it. A stockbroker who knows how to behave must winning in a single morning, in the game of effects pu-public and to register bets from players, as many and more of money than a lieutenant of infantry or cavalry in one year.

Insufficient emoluments also distance from the prosecutor's office and the judiciary, the young people of talent. Anything with eloquence and a future in it—today he goes to the bar, which richly rewards his illustrations, and which makes them into deputies and mini-Very. All these talents are lost for the better. because, for the public prosecutor's office, the organ of vengeance social. Society allows itself to be outdone in generosity by the litigants and the poisoners. Singular so—society, which brings popularity, fortune and power see to the protectors of crime, and who do not grant that little cold esteem for the hardworking magistrate who works to purge the company of all its elements impure!

All the important positions in the judiciary are therefore solely due to the inadequacy of the emoluments, beholden to fortune, and high offices are too often the reward for political voting. All the These days, the old services are overlooked and sacrificed. to the demands of nepotism and the combinations of parliamentary majority; a first presidency of The court is put up for auction by the vote. One of the most illustrious-very notable orators of this time, a jurist-eminent sultan, Mr. Romiguières, advisor to the court supreme, could not be appointed a few years ago, first president at the royal court of Toulouse, because that the government was afraid of upsetting by this choice, endorsed by all the magistrates and of public opinion, fear of upsetting a lawyer talentless, a member of parliament with shifting opinions, and who did not feel sufficiently compensated for his merits, having risen, in ten years, from the rank of me-
The lawyer sings to the first president of the court Royal!

The hereditary nature of positions in old families parliamentarians, in compensation for its abuses, im-at least knows the presumptive heir of an office of advisor on strict morals and dress, in harmonegates with the character of its future functions; and there Where talent was lacking, the tra-principles of honor, independence, and diversity masterful magnanimity. Today, it must be acknowledged that to be born, despite the principle of immovability, is most often the dedication of the deputy or the o-

LtS ANCIENT LL" THE PRIVILEGES. 269 rateur [l]oliti(jue who leads to the first positions of the judiciary; and the career of the public prosecutor is no longer, like the others, anything more than an open arena to Political ambition. The public prosecutor's office, for many,

It's just one step towards becoming a member of parliament.
Some poor young people from the provinces, without fa-A thousand still venture into this sad career. in the chimerical hope of some brilliant marriage union. They don't know that the dress of the magistrate, as well as the sub-prefect's embroidered Thabit, has lost all prestige; and that our bankers' daughters, docile to the examples of the wealthy heiresses of Albion, They no longer ally themselves with magistrates!

Thus, this alleged right of eligibility for ranks of the army and to the functions of the judiciary that one he told us he had been won over by the child of the people Our revolutions are nothing but an illusion and a deception; and It's money, always money, money alone that confers military ranks and confers the duties of conseiller.

lies droits du seiii'neir.

I heard it said at the Opéra-Comique that the Lords of old arrogated strange rights to themselves on the person of their vassals on the very day of their wedding. As long as the woman remains a vassal, Man will always claim strange rights over her. I don't know if these rights have ever been exercised elsewhere. that on the stage of the Opéra-Comique, by virtue of a freely accepted contract; but what I know is positive—What everyone knows, as well as I do, is that

270 Dt FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

These rights of the lord are exercised odiously today. today; it's that the heads of industry, the high barons the new feudalism doesn't even wait for the day weddings, not even on the day of the nuptial agreement, to pre- to levy an infamous tribute on their vassals. I know. that the job given in the workshop to the father, to the mother or to the brother, is, half the time, only the price the indulgences of the daughter or sister. The mid-Englishmen complain that their chiefs of staff The workshops steal from their wages and their food ture, and that, moreover, their wives and daughters are forced to prostitute themselves to these demanding masters, to that they continue their kindness to husbands and to fathers. The ferramliniei-s of Lyon GthsfiletiersdeLWle font hearing the children's complaints. Sometimes these misfortunes— They suffer the ignominy in silence, and the father content to curse her daughter's beauty, which pre- destined for the pleasures of the opulent. Sometimes even the mother, degraded by the shocks of poverty too long, gets used to placing an honest hope- teuse on the fifteen years and on the attractiveness of her daughter. One of the most honorable merchants in the capital of North, an industry leader, once wrote in a local newspaper, that if some pen ran- geuse dared to undertake the publication of the Mysteries From Lille, she would have to reveal abominable scenes of incest and promiscuity... perhaps, the fathers and the brothers hurrying to take the lead over the leaders lies farmers general.

In the last century, people vehemently denounced... tax farmers, especially the philosophers who man-They were gathered at their table. It was a universal concert of righteous indignation against insolent luxury, the
The plundering and immorality of the traders. I believe in reality. the grievances and the sincerity of the accusers. But is it It is quite possible that there was a time when the Turcarets and the Mondors displayed more luxury, more Morgue, more ridiculous than today! Who had given, I beg you, to this new marquis of the rue Grange-Batelière, this elegant azure livery, and this dashing crew, and the high superintendence of Behind the scenes at the Royal Academy? A little bit of happiness in the placement of Malaga wines, a little bit of habit-leté especially in the negotiation of Spanish loans gnols who caused Belgium and France to lose a hundreds of millions. I already said that the newspaper Globe had once cited the example of this scandalous opulence to demonstrate to the worker that the way of Fortune was always open to good conduct and to zeal.

Look at these magnificent horses that stop of their own accord! even at the door of the Café de Paris, the Porcherons of the gilded youth of the time. They are driving the Richelieu Behind the scenes, an ageless seducer, whose high
The tie gloriously frames the masculine and noble face.
It was the pectoral paste that gave him these leisure activities, that gave him
He made Terpsichore and Melpomene reign as sultan.
It was the pectoral paste that made this man a
I 17*

272 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

A top-tier politician. If he is not a member of parliament or director general of fine arts, that's what day that he was haranguing his flock of voters, the word of France pectoral arrived on his lips in place of that one of the French electoral speech he wanted to give, and he did not No applications have been received. This young nobleman, adorned with a soft blue transparency, which descends with He, from the sumptuous crew, is a toothless lion of the infernal lodge, an English banker's broker, the even who once represented, with such success,

The tragedy G... and. This Jew, so ugly and so rich, in whose home...
The quadruples are winnowed like wheat in the barn. one day asked a prominent artist to make his portrait, with the nose of Mr. Duke Decazes.

A highly successful, commercially minded writer who held essentially to win the favor of the king of finance, the Jewish baron once titled: the God of big shoulder pads of world finance (textual).

We no longer abandon, as in the past, the revenues public to the tax farmers who were amo-deductors of certain taxes; we untie with love the cords of the national treasury so that the Jew may draw from them with both hands. We borrow money in large quantities.
interest to the bankers, for lending it back to them for free.
We are conceding, or at least we want to concede, access to certain roads.
Northern railways all built there when the railways of iron from Orléans and Rouen, which the concessionaires have built themselves ^ earn one hundred percent. It's not more, as in the past, of abandonment and neglect government coercion; it's servility Creeping, it is the prodigality of fear. In times

OLD AND NEW PRIVILEGES. 273

At least during the regency, power was not displayed puritanical and austere morals, like the ban-quiers philanthropists of today, and vice marched With his head held high, he was less concerned with walking straight ahead. than to stagger with grace. Cardinal Dubois, Having sold out to England, he openly confessed his sympathies. for the unsung heroes and heroines, and not to-did not cry out in a hypocritical voice against the passions bad, to make him continue as a dictator.

However, the bankers have halved the figure of the king's civil list, after 1830, at the same time that they multiplied theirs tenfold. So, it's not the king who enriched himself with the spoils of the country.

Helpers and beautiful things.

It seems to me that the combined rights and the exercise have advantageously replaced the aids and taxes.

Salt costs fifty cents per kilo today; its cost price is one cent, that is to say that we pays fifty times its value. The people of the Camloincloths can hardly be used for food;

his livestock. The salt that nature has sown in abundance. on the coasts of France, which it deposited in blocks inexhaustible in the depths of its soil; salt which is the best specific treatment against epizootics at the same time as the first element of the student of the livestock; salt, which should cost one or two cents
The kilogram at most is a luxury item!
He must return his sixty million to the State, nor No more, no less. If you were thinking of reducing it, the Jews
i 18

27^ OF FEUDALITY FLINANCIER

YOU would tell you that you do not have the right to alter the the value of their pledge. However, the Chamber of Deputies passed despite the Jewish veto. On the proposal of Mr. Demesmay, deputy for Franche-Comté, she reduced the two-thirds tax; but the chamber of the elderly, of Conservatives are here. Already Mr. Gay-Lussac, who is a a leading scholar, stated that the suppression the salt tax was of no importance to agriculture ture, and that this tax was, moreover, so well established,
It would be a real shame to disturb him.

Wine and butcher's meat are no longer accessible impossible for the worker. The granting and the contributions impossible-direct trade also included meat and wine luxury goods ^ affordable only for the class bourgeois. It is to this same administration of rights combined that the country owes to the institution of the exercise, an inquisitorial process that gives the tax officials have the right to search the bottom of your Check your wardrobes and mattresses to see if you're hiding anything there.
Not wine. Precious conquest of the revolution that The exercise! A method of tax collection. humiliating, vexatious, and provoking fraud, and whose perception absorbs more than a quarter of its re-came.

Why the combined rights, or rather the contributions-indirect taxes? Why are salt, wine, and... so expensive?
Meat? I just told you: to protect the in-industries of the big capitalists, to retain all its value as collateral for usurers, for national taxation.

THE ALVClits and Lfcs > OR PRIVILEGED CALVES. 275

"Internal Customs."

more serious obstacles to the merging of all interests of the kingdom, which has protective and prohibitive rights of today. Mr. Thiers acknowledged, it is more impossible than ever to make Bordeaux happy without bringing misfortune to Lille. Customs legislation after the legislation of 1821-22 kills all our industries: natural sorting, to protect non-viticultural industries, wheat, and sacrifices the South which produces wine and silk, in the North which manufactures cotton and wool fabrics. Bordeaux rightly demands the restoration of this internal customs belt whose destruction has been reported as such a great benefit to the entire kingdom.

Saitrises and Jurandes.

The guilds and corporations constituted a single-abusive pole. I concede that; but the masteries and the guilds had as a corrective at least to develop order and to foster in the industry the feelings of dignity, loyalty, esprit de corps. The severity of the statutes of the corporations guaranteed the public against the fraud. French commerce enjoyed, under the regime of these privileges, with a high reputation for loyalty, to both inside and outside.

What has the people gained so far from the abolition of masters? the people have won the privilege of to be able to be poisoned and robbed with impunity.

276 OF FRENCH FEUDALITY.

The manufacturing privilege is still, as above—First, the privilege of money. Talent and integrity. laborious work gives even less access to it than time masterships, where the masters were eager to attract skilled workers to them. An engineer—Did Nieux discover a mechanical process which employment can save half the cost of labor. of the work — who will benefit from its discovery? It is the money man who alone possesses the means to pay the patent for the invention and to have the money; because the government, instead of encouraging by a national award for the author of a discovery useful, start by making him pay his tax genius, and often forces him to go into exile from his homeland to seeking encouragement. One of the inventors of The propeller for steam navigation, Frédéric Sauvage, was being held, some time ago, in the prison of Le Havre, for debts probably incurred on the occasion of...

more money than him, enjoyed the glory and the benefit of the invention. One of my friends, whose name will soon have the same place in the history of mechanics The fame of Watt, the inventor of the machine hot air, he had invented about ten years ago, in his early youth, a lamp of which he was ignorant— would deserve all the credit. I was happy to sell his patent ten thousand francs to an industrialist who resells it to another, after having accomplished in four years a benefit of four to five hundred thousand francs. The patent, which had been taken for ten years, has not yet expired, and the second buyer made even greater profits even more so than the first. And it is likely that

THE OLD AND YOUR NEW PRIVILEGES. 277

MF... I experienced the same misfortunes for the machine-powered China, if chance hadn't led him to encounter a young man, gifted like him with the genius of mechanics— nic, and which, understanding at first glance the importance of the discovery, did not hesitate to put his strength and his intelligence at the service of the inventor who would have been obliged, without this assistance, to go to— to demand, like Brunel, protection for the English.

Mr. Jobard, from Brussels, a man of infinite... courage and spirit, he said, regarding the favor which governments have always been pleased to confer on the inventors, that it was impossible to deny the progress of ideas, since former governments they punished inventors with prison, while they today they are simply imposing a fine on them. under the pretext of a patent for invention.

The machine has become, in the hands of men my silver, a weapon of war with which they drive all small industries— out of the field of industry sorters. The machine gave the metal superiority absolute on intelligence. Like those English lords who drink the wine of all nations, although the grapes don't ripen on their island, the capitalists have the right to say today: u The conceptions of Genius doesn't blossom in our heads; but it is us only those who benefit from all the conceptions of the ge—

"No!"

To the freedom of industry, to the abolition of guilds, wages. The consumer has lost the guarantee that he formerly had to not be deceived about either the quality or the quantity of the merchandise. French trade has lost its reputation for loyalty and good workmanship. The company benefited from all the disorder and all the crimes of anarchic competition.

278 OF FEUDALITY F[NA!NCltre.

The monarchy has seen the number of its enemies increase—to be of all the unfortunate people whom mercantile selfishness has chased out of the workshop.

I ask that we leave this disheartening parallel at that. The reader must be tired of hearing, like me to repeat the same arguments. I conclude from the rap—the preceding relationships:

These so-called revolutionary conquests with the—which people have been led to believe, are only shameless lies. The money confiscated from his exclusive profit all principles, all institutions tions, all the reforms of the 1789 revolution, and The emancipation of the worker is something that needs to be revisited. completely needs to be redone.

I will present a picture of the fate of this in a moment. people and their privileges; I must demonstrate previously, the monarchy is now enslaved to men of money like the people; and that the racivics, who draw on power and who respect the Jews are working against the people.

POI.ITIOIF. DES MERCHANDS. 279

y. . ,..i - , - . .j* ■

-.Jfc--i-

CHAPTER X.

I/ariMtorrntlc tlnanvlére, »>enlc re^poiMablé de la poltti<|ii« du inside and that of the tlehorR.

of blood and silver aristocracy, of history above all,
It appears:

That the aristocracy of blood, the conquering caste, has only its own strength for support, and that nothing can save her from her destiny, when her time is arrival.

That the moneyed aristocracy, on the contrary, has in its favor all parasitic industries, the bar, the notary profession, the press and public opinion, all powers which they band together in the event of conflict against the aristocracy of blood.

The noble feudal system is characterized by development-individual serfdom;

Financial feudalism: the collective servitude of the industrieux. I demonstrated the fact before presenting the for-Scientific mule. The salary is just a disguised name. of serfdom. The field worker is no more free from this servitude than the manufacturing worker ture. The misery of the Irish farmer is no less^
The one at the Manchester mechanic was terrifying.

One key difference to point out between serfdom of the Middle Ages, or Russian serfdom if you prefer, and the

280 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Industrial serfdom means that the lord is bound to to protect the serf and to provide him with the tools of labor, capital, land; while manu-A farmer can get rid of his worker and throw him away. on the island in the Tiber when he no longer needs to benefit from it. The noble, like the monarch, like the colonizer himself of Antilles, grants a pension to the former servant; the
The high-ranking industrial baron sends him back to public charity. charged to the budget of the States, in accordance with principles of sound ancient morality, professed by the virtuous Cato.

However, let us not be mistaken, when the feu-Financial duality will be more perfectly constituted. that is, when the leaders of the new caste com-will better grasp their power; they will tell themselves that there It was a grave imprudence on their part to abandon so many elders. servants to the promptings of misery. As soon as they re-will only know this misery, which breeds revolts lutions, no longer threatens anyone but themselves, they agree-a retirement home for infirmities and old age, and they will do for their children what the nobility used to do for his own people, what the planter in the colonies does to the today for its blacks.

There are some seeds of [something] in present-day society these institutions of guarantee. Some high-level industrialists triels, more far-sighted than their colleagues, considered to establish some bonds of solidarity. In the Anzin factory, for example, the children are already educated, the sick are cared for, the disabled people fed at the company's expense. I saw some honclever people, even highly capable prefects, to be ecstatic

MARCFLAINDS POLICY. 284

faced with this magnificent result of a philanthropic spiritpie. I would have liked to share the enthusiasm of all this world; but, to get me there, it would have been necessary that one first proved to me that the magnificent result of the esThe philanthropic impulse was not the magnificent result a very sensible calculation on the part of the administrators tractors of the model factory, an ingenious process of competition, to retain them in Anzin, while paying them slightly cheaper than elsewhere, special workers that rival establishments could have defrauded them expensive, because Anzin pays its workers less than the neighboring factories, through his philanthropy which seduces the worker and binds him to his masters. Another consideration still prevents me from being so easy to the praise; that is the general adoption, by the high industrialists, of the philanthropic welfare system The practice of the game in Anzin would decide immediately the establishment of industrial feudalism, a regime where the worker, reduced to the state of a beast of burden nourished, soon loses his dignity as a man, and accepts the yoke of capital for an indefinite period. knows that the situation of black people has incomparably improved in the southern states of the Union, since the philanthropists of this country are engaged in taking over from the espiece for sale. I doubt the race will rise up for longtime in these philanthropic states, where the black The male and his female are treated with the same respect. and for the same purpose as the stallion and the broodmare of the stud farms. The good apostles of Saint-Simon, who lead the affairs of feudalism, did not fail to appexplain to the employees of their administrations of railways the same principles of guarantee and of solidarity. The newspapers of the liberal school, and the Economists, and onlookers, have been pushing for this subject shouts of joy towards the sky.

This establishment in Anzin, which is so often question in this work, and whose prosperity costs so dear to France, can give, through its administration current situation, an idea of what the government will one day be like government of financial feudalism.

The company's affairs are managed by six administrators. administrators for life who answer only to themselves, and who appoint the director and the new members of the council, in the event of the death or retirement of one of them. They are accountable to no one for their decisions. shareholders do not have the right to dispose of their shares that after having received authorization from the council of six, who buys them, if the price suits him. This system The Venetian, armed with the protective system, maintained the e-Anzin's establishment on the path to prosperity marvelous. The soil of Anzin, the original title of the shares, was issued one hundred and twenty-five years ago, during the regency, at the price of two thousand four hundred pounds. The same The soil in Anzin is worth nearly two million today. francs. But I'd bet that the price of the day The miner's rate has not changed, unless it has decreased. The shares of Anzin belong, for both a third or three-quarters, to the Périer family, which has also the mania for possession, in all the major Cities in France, the locations where construction is permitted new neighborhoods or new ports, in Paris (Red ball), in Le Havre and everywhere.

Once upon a time, there was one of the less fortunate members of this wealthy family who had been made director of

MERCHANT POLICY. 285

1 establishment of Aiizin, but which, after what-months of practice, had been recognized as less than his job. So he was politely asked to give up his Make way for another, stronger one. As was necessary, though. to properly reward the goodwill he had shown As proof, in the absence of administrative genius, he was given a first-class prefecture. It was always as- It's good for France, if it was worthless for Anzin. Since this book was written, the prosperity of Anzin was disrupted by strikes of a certain nature threatening. One cannot remain a prophet twice over.

Contempt for intelligence and the function of public blique is of ton under the feudal regime of ar-gent.

Ask these high-ranking financial barons one law that protects literary property, the property of intelligence, this gift that comes from God online RIGHT :

"A law to protect the property of novels-
"Creators and poets!" they will reply disdainfully.
And what good would it do, please, to take the interests of People of that kind? What! It's us that we are asked to protect socialists, dreamers veurs, a bunch of lazy people who call us con-servants-boundaries, and who want to translate the notaries on stage, after having insulted them in their books Immoral! Come on, are we doing towards us? Does society need Read Jocclyn or The Mysteries of Paris? Period! Period!
May counterfeiting ruin them, these cursed writers.
The sooner the better... Who's forcing them, after all?

284 OF FEUDAL TINT CLASSIFICATION.

to write? For us, we only print bill-bank notes, and the law punishes counterfeiting with death author..., the law also protects against counterfeiting çon, the Puss in Boots sign and the anti-syphilitic robe l We don't care about the rest; society has nothing to demand.
moreover. "

When I repeat to you that they are bankers and not writers, as is sometimes said, who made the July Revolution.

However, the King of Prussia, the King of Denmark and the Queen of England, who are not for thinkers the same contempt as the top bankers, declared, a long time ago, that they were ready to sanction with their support any measure having for object the guarantee of literary property in their respective states; and Mr. Guizot himself, who is a great writer, introduced a clause favorable to the literary property in the recent treaty concluded with the Sardinia. Let's hope so.

Ita foreign policy, sovks the rt^iie of» mareiiands.

This is reflected in external politics as in the everyday realities of people's lives.

Because the Jews have no homeland, the
The country where they rule cannot have a functioning system. of national policy, that is to say, which is based on the sympathies of the nation.

That's why there is no longer any politics in France national; there is one in Russia and another in England-land. In those parts, the people know what they want

POLITHE OF THE MERCHANTS. 38-5 the head of state or the dominant power; he associates himself to government policy; and the government, strengthened by the support of national sentiment, it pushes forward with zeal for achieving his ambitious goals.

All Russians want Constantinople with the Tsar; All Englishmen, Whigs or Tories, want Tisthmus of Suez and China with Sir Robert Peel or Lord Pal-Merston. We don't even know, we others, what what our nominal government wants, by reason that this government doesn't even have the right to have a will. But what's unfortunate for him, that he is responsible for all the harm his masters.

All the ministers who succeed one another in power-
Then in 1840, they insulted each other in vain, by trading accusations of negligence and fault-hurts; for all are bustling about in the same circle, all are also condemned by a superior power laughter at pushing the wheel of the lowering system continuous. Mr. Guizot, who created this word to stigmatize the Mr. Mole's policy, his rival, has the right to take place, as well as Mr. Thiers, among the most intrepid supporters of the system, as he so harshly described them.

However, it is easy to prove in a few pages that the interests of the Jews who reign and govern in France, do not allow the king's government, It is no more within Mr. Mole's power than Mr. Guizot's to adopt a system-theme of national policy.

And first, what are the natural alliances of France, that is to say the alliances on which can French policy be based on?

l-es alliimco^ naturelles do h France sont ceux

2^^ OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

with Germany, Belgium, the Netherlands, Switzerland, Piedmont and Spain. All these countries belong to us. Indeed, through their mercantile interests and their sympathies for the peace policy. All these countries also have reason to fear belligerent tendencies queuses and usurpers from Russia and England. If France wanted to become the linchpin of the pacific system- fique and progressive, all intermediate states would hasten to become satellites of the new center of attraction. So France, armed with this alliance and this imposing counterweight would be quite powerful to now speak to Russia and England language that suits France, and to use im- mediating his role as supreme arbiter of destinies of the world. Its strength would easily contain it. Russia's expansionist ambitions, which wants the Bosphorus, and England's encroachments who wants the Isthmus of Suez. She could oppose, when she deemed it appropriate, each of these two policies to the other, and neutralize them.

Since this is the case, let us hasten to to conclude this valuable alliance with Germany, Spain, Piedmont, Belgium. Oh my God, The king's government could never have asked for anything better. and Mr. Mole and Mr. Guizot tried many times to to forge the alliance; but there is a slight difficulty in the thing, I've already mentioned it ten times in the course of This writing: it's that the high barons of the factory French people cannot join hands with this arran- agreement and sign the treaty; and these are the gentlemen who make the laws at the Luxembourg Palace as well as at Palais Bourbon.

DLS POLICY .MERCHANTS. 28T'

Because, in order to conclude a treaty with the Zollve- kidney, with Belgium, Piedmont and Switzerland, it We need to start by razing this customs belt which France is isolated from its neighbors; it is necessary to proceed to the reform of these tariffs of 1822, which forced all the European nations to unite against our industries; to stop the effect, in short, it is necessary Eliminate the cause. Let's eliminate this customs. And these prices, not immediately, not tomorrow, but let's reduce them so that they disappear little by little, imperceptibly.

All the better since this is Belgium, a rich dea bottleneck of four million inhabitants, towards which our rivers and our canals lead; Belgium, which has need for our wines, our brandies, our soaps, of our oils, our silks, our articles of...
fashions and styles;

And which in return offers us its coal, including the Competition will lower fuel prices too expensive for the poor, and to bring a little respite to the devastation of our forests;

His irons, whose low cost will bring a significant improvement in the condition of the buttocks timator, from the manufacturer, in the cost price of railways.

This is still only one side of the advantages. commercial advantages of the alliance with Belgium; these advantages are far more important from a political standpoint. tick. The close alliance with Belgium expands France's influence in Europe is disproportionate.
Antwerp and all the citadels that the enemy built end of 1815^with our gold, cease to be armed against.

2«6 Dli FEUDALITY ^■1^ANCIÈRE.

France; on the contrary, they are coming back to us, and,
Ultimately, the victorious coalition of 1815 tra-We've worked for you. Let's deal with Belgium then.
The interest of seven million farmers who live of vine cultivation, Lyon, Paris, Bordeaux, Marseille, millions of farmers and workers from Populous cities are clamoring for the treaty....

So the king, who takes into consideration the needs of the nation and the interests of the greatness of France, orders his ministers to present to the chambers a proposed customs alliance with Belgium. The
The king said that if this treaty is not signed, Belgium will be forced to enter into an alliance with Prussia, and that the
The border of his kingdom will be guarded by uniforms.
Prussians.

Hey! We do care about the color of the uniforms that guard the borders of the kingdom, reall lay themselves in a formidable chorus of indignation the voices of the major manufacturers who live off protective system. All alliances perish and all political interests, before we leave and the mines of Fourchambault, and the factories of Elbeuf and Roubaix. Who knows where the torrent will flow? would stop, if we loosened the plug on the reductions of tariffs as stipulated in the treaty with Belgium. Treaty point, The interests of national industry come first!

And the newspapers tasked with transmitting the information to the king orders from the top barons of national industry, him have signified the injunction to remove the ma- The unfortunate Belgian alliance project. And the ministry, seeing a small movement forming against the government industrial convention, hastened to subscribe to the demands of his lords and masters.

POTJT (ONLY MERCHANTS. 289)

The government should present a draft treaty with the Rhineland, Bavaria, Baden, Switzerland, Piedmont, the situation being the same, the same Interested parties will make the same threats. Because all these countries supply an abundance of livestock which is detrimental to our agriculture, as a result of the fragmentation- property rights, deforestation of the mountains, and the exorbitant price of salt; and they are indeed forced to offer us this livestock, in exchange for our exports tions, of our spirits, of our wines, of our silks, of our bronzes. Now, you heard Mr. the ma- Réchal Bugeaud exclaimed, in the exaltation of his patriotism, which he would consider the invasion of livestock from Germany as a calamity as disastrous for France was facing a new Cossack invasion.

You will vainly object to Marshal Bu- Geaud, who claims to be a skilled man of war, that three-quarters of the city population and campaigns in France are condemned, by the rigor of the current protective system, to renounce for the use of butcher's meat, to fall back on charcuterie meat; which means that dequis cin- what is the average height of French conscripts? decreased by two centimeters; so that in Paris, in Lyon and in Rouen, in the towns where the conscription lists contain the most proper nouns, the population does not can no longer provide its annual quota of recruits. – You will no longer be able to point out to him that those those that justify the size are hardly worth more than their unfortunate brothers, since out of the army of four- I 19

290 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

twenty thousand men who are in Africa, he ten thousand or fifteen die annually from disease a thousand. ((Anything you want, Tillustr will reply warrior, but the interest of the Excideuil pastures, I I mean, the interests of domestic meat come first!

And besides, what do these questions of mortality matter?
of size reduction.^ If too many soldiers die
In Africa, if France's glory costs her so dearly, It is not the bankers' money that is perishing. hare and nostalgia, under the devouring climate of Algeria; it's not the bankers who pay the one hundred million that the national treasury swallows up every hundred million years in the stinking marshes of his latest conquest.
And where would we be, for that matter, if we wanted to lend listening to the complaints of all the dissatisfied?

This statement, which is encountered all too often in the the mouth of our conservatives, reminds me of the answer from this gravedigger to a soldier who was complaining against his early burial; ((If we wanted to listen to them all, we wouldn't bury a single one, n

Thus the government is bound to the Hsières by the silver feudalism, that is to say, through the coalition of major bankers, major industrialists, major Owners, all privileged by the current legislation.
Therefore, any attempt to reform this legislation emanating from the most retrograde spirit of the Restoration-tion, is designed to break against a beam of systematic resistance, more powerful than wishes of the people and the will of the king's government!
Thus France is inevitably led astray by the aristocra-new alliances outside of its natural alliances, and condemn-born to drag the ball and chain of the English alliance indefinitely.

#

MERCHANTS' POLICY. '291

From the day French politics was reduced to to rely on the friendship of Great Britain, this policy was dedicated to the system of lowering continu.

England does nothing for nothing. The Revolution in July, by breaking France's close alliance with Russia, an alliance whose annihilation inevitably the new government in the arms of England. England was supposed to sell us its friend-tied; the price of this friendship could only be a discount-France, England's eternal rival, her enemy from the day before. And we have nothing to blame.

England for what she has done against us; for, to her
In place, we would have done the same as her.

So, let's excuse the French government, which, having to choose between the alliance with England and the war with all of Europe, opted for the alliance Damn it. Let's give her credit instead for her efforts to to win back its natural alliances, and that our res-feelings fall back on the fatal power which The influence of the Jews paralyzed these efforts.

The economists and writers of the liberal school or, to put it better, of the English school, do not want Not that it should be so. These men want the
The government remains the scapegoat for everything the iniquities to Israel, and it would appear, according to the act of The folly of the unfortunate Henry, which these doctrines com-begin to enter the workshops.

The overlord power with which the silver man is armed
In our country, that's the whole secret of our humiliation. within, of our effacement outside.

292 BE LA FÉODAF.IÏÈ FINANCLL-RL.

It is the maintenance of the privileges granted to the elite capitalists by an old regime legislation, which bank to the English alliance, source of all our shames, France in July. That's the truth that everyone needs to know.
writers for the national press repeat every day. The power of the Jews, that is the stumbling blockpement, the obstacle that stops our country in its tracks of her destiny, which condemns her to inertia and to passivity. And let's no longer deflect national condemnation. from the front of the only guilty parties, to launch him into power who has not incurred it.

Let us take the most bloody affront printed on France In recent years, this treaty of July 15th, mo-eternal nument of the bad faith of British politics tannic, a shameful testament to emptiness and disjointedness of this modest policy that floats in the vague and The waiting, deprived of any point of support. The mysteries of the conduct of the French government throughout this
The matter will quickly become clear to us, if only a little stance, the interest of the silver faction.

England wants Suez; she knows she cannot get away with it. to address this important point without ruining the power of Muhammad Ali, who had managed to establish a little order and security in the vicinity of the Red Sea. Therefore, with this aim in mind, she muddied the waters by East, and caused a break between the sultan and the Pasha of Egypt, in order to create an opportunity for inter- to come between the overlord and the rebellious vassal, according to his Usual tactic. Then, as it was necessary to snatch the pasha with the support of the French government, his ally and its natural protector, England, compromised this last government with the continental powers tales, who expelled France from their congress and concluded a treaty against her. That was one of the first benefits of our alliance with Great Britain. Great Britain is using France to do fear in Russia and the United States following Toccur- rence, and absolutist powers, to intimidate France and keep it in check, when it is in its interest to France is not countering it in its execution of his projects. France, which trembles at the slightest wind, was careful not to interfere in the affairs of the Pasha, when she saw a fan- European coalition leader. She didn't guess that England was only trying to frighten him, for the forcing her to stay at home for the entire duration the execution of Mehemet-Ali.

POLLTl0lit DES MALiCHAIinDS. 293

France expelled from the European Congress by the powerful continental sessions, England took time to profit. His ships devastated Beirut and Saint- Acre; Alexandria did not escape destruction that by absolute submission to the victor and the resti- tution to England of the Grand Seigneur's fleet. The prestige of Muhammad Ali's power was annihilated; the name of the King of France, who had person- unified Christendom and Europe for more than six centuries keys in the vicinity of the Levant, had fallen from all authority; the populations of Syria were resettled under the yoke of the Albanians; anarchy reigned in all the surrounding areas of Asia Minor, under the intiüenco of the England's triumph. English policy did not She wasn't asking for anything more at the moment, she returned his friendship with France.

The Ministry of the 1st March tries one day to save itself
He wormed shame through threats and boasting. falls into ridicule, and leaves as a legacy to the country the disastrous resurgence of the resentments of 1815, which leads to the resumption of the project to fortify Paris.

The Eastern Question is a major issue.
and which is not finished, and which will reappear soon or later with his entourage threatening eventualities of War. The Eastern Question has only one solution.
Peaceful as possible, the neutralization of the Bosphorus, the neutralization and the piercing of the Isthmus of Suez, of by the decision of a congress of European powers—nes, a decision that will place the inviolability of Constantine—Italy and the Arabian Gulf under the protective guarantee continental powers, France, Germany, Naples, Spain, Belgium, Prussia, the Ba—vière, etc., and will thus prevent any attempt at usurpation—exclusive support from Russia and England land. But the silver faction that rules destinies France is not capable of understanding solutions of this order.

The moneyed faction that runs the affairs of France initially considered Eastern matters from another perspective poifltdevue. The great lama Enfantin had not—core got hold of the question.

"And first," asked the high and mighty lords of the bank, what does it matter to us that The English seized control of the passage to India, since We don't sell anything to India? And what about these Druze and these Maronites of Syria, about whom we are constantly bombarded, What does it sell, what does it buy? what is the weight of imports and exports of the

MERCHANT POLICY. 295

Do Syria factors weigh in the overall balance of the com—Merce? — Very little, certainly. — Well!
So, what do you want us to waste our time on?
to address the suffering of these populations, who They neither sell nor buy anything, while there are so many great opportunities to be seized on price fluctuations at the Paris Stock Exchange?

— Just a moment, gentlemen, this Eastern Question is a matter of higher political importance, a of French influence, of humanity, of religion Catholic. – To others, with your humanitarian interests– silent and Catholic; we are no longer in the time from Peter the Hermit to enlist us in a new old crusade. Pray, if you wish, Mr. de Lamar– I'm going to write you a meditation on this... »

And England continued its run of triumphs. and brought about the ruin of Egyptian power, thanks to the complicity of government inaction French.

But let's wait: what has been a disgrace for the France, which would have been a defeat for anyone else a government that was a government of speculators, was For the silver faction, a victory, and the most unexpected– the source of all victories. Ah! those bankers had reason to take so little care of the interests and the France's dignity in this Syria issue or Egypt: that wasn't where the problem lay. I I'm telling you they are Jews.

It is a thought, an unchanging thought, a favorite dream that their imagination has cherished for fifteen years, the project to fortify Paris. They have their treasures there, their 296 OF THE KÉOiiALLTÉ KLNANCLliRE.

coiIiptoJrs that nothing protects against the dangers always present from the revolution or the riot, to within a volatile population. Their safety is not will be full and complete only when a belt of The bastions will guarantee their power and their safes against any new revolutionary attempt. Oh! if there was a way to take advantage of these threats, including the
The Eastern Question has just darkened the atmosphere. litigious, to put the savior project into action! If he there was a way to divert public opinion in the country from the the question of the East, of transporting the danger from the shores from the Arabian Gulf to the banks of the Rhine, to make people believe to this credulous and hot-tempered people that its enemies are In Germany, not England! – And quickly, the Tyraeus of the Debates, sing the Marseillaise! Mr. Thiers; evoke memories of the Empire, and warm up with your newspapers, the patriotism of the people; bring back from Saint Helena the remains of the Emperor, and that at the
to the general surprise of Topinion, the governor–
The movement carries away its bastions...

The Tyrtées des Débats sang the Marseillaise,

The tour has been completed.

We have indeed come to talk, the low forehead, the boasts of Mr. Thiers and the loss of French influence in Syria or Egypt, to people who are not French, and who do not have their trading posts in Syria or Egypt, and which have won over by this charade of sulking and these braggarts-nades, a fortified enclosure of bastions for the city of riots. Certainly, the game was well played, and Mr. Thiers, If he wasn't the first to be deceived, he's an accomplice.

PORT. LTIQ LIE DES MERCHANTS. 297

skillful. But now that the trick is done, now that the France has asked forgiveness from the powers for what they had expelled her from their congresses ^ today that there is no more for the mystified than the excuse of their good faith and their innocence, how many those who, like the author of this writing, were not fooled by the mystification, and who fought energetically against the disastrous project, how many of these people don't have the right to congratulate them on their perspicacity! There was yet another another consideration, no less important for the bankers who voted for the fortifications of Paris: It was a matter of leading the treasury into reckless spending. to force him later to cry out in misery, and the re-leading to the impossibility of attempting any major undertaking a public utility company. And, indeed, the government-nement has been happy in these last few years of to be able to argue the scarcity of the treasury, to abandon-give the top bank barons all the li-railway companies that their rapacity demanded insatiable.

And there you have the secret mechanisms of foreign policy. of today's government! Talk about mar-dear to the conquest of a continental alliance system peaceful with such elements! Talk about al-natural link with Germany to people who have turned against Germany at the same time as against the French nation, the front of the fortifications of Paris !

And why would these bankers take it so hard? Do they have France's interests at heart? Three-quarters of them They are not even French; for it is there, remark-Let's be clear, a characteristic of financial feudalism to inevitably drag the nations it governs out of^ pathways to nationality.

Paris is just one of the trading posts, just one of the headquarters
The mainstays of financial feudalism. The true homeland For financiers, that's Geneva.

END OF VOLUME ONE.

TABLE

DEt>

IMAGES CONTAINED IN VOLUME ONE,

Purpose of the work Page 4

Chapter One. By what signs is the kingship of the Jews recognized? 7

Foreign Policy 41

The politics of the home front.— Ministerial follies. — France bleeding to white 4 g

Question about sugars 49

Railways 22

The Northern Railway 22

From the association and reputable companies 28

Redemption of profit-sharing shares 34

CuAP. IL Split between royalty and the people. Origin of the de-Popular finances. — Theory of the ulcer-government.. 46

England 47

Chapter III Parallel March of Popular Freedoms and of the Conquests for royalty in France. Solidarity of the two in-monarchical and democratic interests 76

Chapter IV. Consequences of the weakening of authority 404

Chapter V. Industrial feudalism. – Its origin. – Its progress.

– Its character 4 07

Industrial feudalism 4 09

Policy of the Restoration within 4 4 it

Saint-Simon and Judah 422

An oversight by Montesquieu 4 33

Chapter VI. Lies of the Charter 4 4i

Chapter VII. Means of misappropriating public funds 4 47

Trade 447

Definition of trade 4 49

What commerce should be, and through whose hands it should be to be exercised 4–5 days>

r

3W0 TABLE OF MATERIALS.

What is commerce? Page 155

Bank 462

Wear 1.66

Bankruptcy 170

Flight rights in detail, 1.75

Privilege of incarceration 180

The Merchant and the Farmer 181

Chapter VIII. Trade Auxiliaries 189

The lawyer 1 89

Lawyer 191

The notary 200

Press 212

Tax Obstacles 217

The government press 238

Cabaret 251

Chapter IX. The Old and New Privileges 257

Immunities of noble lands 258

Privilege of lower and middle justice 262

Arbitrary toll rights 263

Hunting privilege 264

Privilege of the duel 266

From the privilege of ranks 266

The rights of the lord 269

The Farmers General 271

Aid and taxes 273

Inland Customs 275

Guilds and corporations 275

Chapter X. The financial aristocracy, solely responsible for the political from within and from without 279

Foreign policy under the rule of the merchants 284

END OF TABLE OF CONTENTS.

i^03

^ 030

-t^ 17 ic;u"

Toussend, Alphonse,

HN

3 9097 00146527 8

Toussenel, Alphonse,

The Jews, kings of the eDoaue:

1847.

HN

U29

.T75

IBU?

vl

Toussend, Alphonse.
The Jewish kings of the era.

HN

h29

.T75

vl

BRANDEIS UNIVERSITY LIBRARY

French

English

Full text of " The Jews, kings of the time: history of financial feudalism "

See other formats

1-tr-..:ta'*jVL/^

JEWISH LKS, KINGS OF THE TIME

HISTORY

OF THE

FINANCIAL FEUDALITY

BY A. TOUSSENEL

Legitimate acceptance consists of doing the best possible market, to resell the ploa eber possible....
It is the Soul of Commerce.

(Sylvain Dumun, Minister of Public Iravanx.)
The financiers support the State like the lifeline holds the hanged man. (Montesqaion.)

My father's house is a house of prayer. And you have made it a den of thieves.

(Jesus driving out the merchants from the Temple. J

Merctare, god of IVloquence, da eommereo and thieves.

(Uylliology.)

VOLUME SECOND

PARIS

GABRIEL DE GONET, BOOKSTORE-PUBLISHER

RUE DES BEAUX-ARTS, 6

^847

/

/

7/

/ 4 v'''^

HISTORY

OF THE

FINANCIAL FEUDALITY

OF THE ROSARY PRINT

KLIE DE VAIIOIRARI), U

THE JEWS, KINGS Î)KI/KPOQUE

HISTORY

FROM r.\

FIMKCIÈRE FEUDALITY

PAU A. TOUSSENEL

True speculation consists of buying at the best possible, to make the price as expensive as possible. i.'tîst the îte of commerce.

(Sylvin Dumun, Minister of Public Works.^

The financiers support the State like the lifeline i:i-nt the hanged man. (Montesquieu.)

my father's house is a house of pris-re, cv you have made it a den of thieves.

!_ Jfsas chasing the merchants from the Temple.)

Mcr^'iive. god of "loqnfii<'C, commerce and thieves.

TOMK Dia

PARIS

GABRIEL DE GONET, BOOKSeller-EDITED K

RUE DES BEAUN-AKTS, 6

4,847

/

THE JEWS, KINGS OF THE TIME.

HISTORY

OF THE

FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

FIRST CHAPTER.

"enevc.

There is a stock market proverb which says that a Genevan worth six Jews. The inhabitants of Geneva tell their turn that those of Neufchâtel are worth six Genevois. Geneva is one of the capitals of Protestantism and puritanism, hence Judaism. The same political and religious faith must have generated the same customs in Switzerland and Judah. The Boston Puritans pushed further than their co-religionists of Hel-taints their love for the Bible; they almost wear all Jewish names, so no one gets confused in the name of their faith.

The position of Switzerland is said to be formidable under the military strategy report. I believe it is more formal dable again in terms of financial strategy.

w 1

2 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Switzerland sits on France, like mistletoe on the oak. Switzerland has no army, no taxes.
Why would she have an army of her own.* The soldiers of France, paid by French tax, are there who watch over it and protect its neutrality. Switzerland better than spending nothing on maintenance of her troops: she sells her soldiers, she draws one income. That which ruins nations everywhere, makes him benefit to her. I would even point out in this regard that Republican Switzerland only sells soldiers to absolute monarchies. In Palermo, he is a compatriot by Guillaume Tell who forces you to put your hat down in front of a show poster stuck on a wall, under the pretext that this wall is that of the king's palace.
It is Republican Switzerland which sells to all the tyrants nals of Italy, the bayonets with which they included lies the desire for independence of this unfortunate country. History will one day wither from some call-infamous lation, this role of executioner's servants that the sons of noble Helvetia play for a little gold.

Swiss consumers pay half as much that the French consumer, the sugar and salt that France supplies him; and this, we know, is a fact of immense significance in the question of competition industrial rence, the whole question of cost price depending on the price of basic necessities.
Switzerland, by first applying the principles of association with only branches of agricultural industry that the aridity of its mountains entailed, the student of livestock and cheese making, converted into jackpots the waters of its glaciers. She made the same prodigies in the manufacturing industry. It is as well as in y iitrotluisuiit 1 alleu. diin' < l hi divifioii du work y she monopolized the iliGiio|)ole (Je l hoi loji* jie, the most lucrative binds all the iudusliiei; liiiiii; inet. 11

There is in Geneva, a literate city, a kind of university where there are public courses. Lv prolebseur of physique, who is perhaps paid a thousand francs per year, has, I was told, an income of five hundred thousand francs; the geology professor, a lion of the locality, some something like seven to eight hundred thousand francs a year.
Geneva would pave its streets with silver ingots, if the fancy took hold of her one day, and if she didn't know take more advantage of the metal; (young would buy the empires, if they were up for auction; and all constitutional governments, all less at auction.

Every year, adults in need of Switzerland, intrepid species hunters, equipped with a pa-unfailing endurance, come down from its mountains to spread throughout the rich valleys of France, generous and hospitable land par excellence, nourishing complacent host of all parasites. All succeeded-are able to settle down in a short time in Paris or in the other major commercial cities of the kingdom; because all have a spirit of order and perseverance which must lead to success. Everyone does first wear, clothes or boots. The tailor is the banker of family children who are ruining themselves. Many of the major hotels in Paris belong to Swiss tailors. Many of these industrialists, including barbarian name says enough foreign origin, practice usury until they have acquired the means to be honest. After twenty years of practice, they own palaces and liveries, run horses of blood on the racecourse, buy in front no-silence or elsewhere a beautiful poor young girl, and end up feels by withdrawing to the banks of the native lake, in some delicious villa, where peacefully ends their old age. And when one of these noble usurers paid its tribute to human nature, the journalist of the place dedicates to his memory a notice always sung. "The cause of liberty and philanthropy lost today one of its most fervent apostles, the homeland one of its greatest citizens^ and we one loyal and exact subscriber in his payments.

U OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Geneva, Bay, Lausanne and Neufchâtel have heaps of gold deposited in the cellars of all European banks. I was told that Ge-Neve had nearly fifty million in funds French 5 per 100, and fifty million or more on the Place de Lyon. Basel built Mulhouse, whose interior dustry and houses belong to him. Geneva has wrested Greece from the sultan, and will not wrest Greece from An-Britain Ireland, more unfortunate and more worthy of pity than Greece. Geneva bribes newspapers Paris to defend the policy of Mr. Guizot, the Protestant. I speak about it learnedly, having been during one year the editor-in-chief of one of these sheets, an ultra-doctrinaire journal of very large format, and lives up to the promises of its title. Geneva imposes the prices that suit him on the canals of France (order of April 17, 1843). It's she who doesn't want not that we reduce the pension. The great council of ten, who for a long time took over national loans, and who levied the papal tithe on the income of all European States, was composed of Genevans for the three quarters, and Jews for the rest.

THE JOURNAL OF DEBATES. 5

The major legislative challenges of the latter years, and those of the current transfer, have proven than financial feudalism, whose high barons do not are not French, could dare anything from now on. A time postal reform was being discussed in the House, opinions were divided on the question. A lot leaned in favor of the reduction requested by the author of the proposal. " But you have not thought about it, wrote a Jewish newspaper, reduce taxes, re- to reduce tax revenues is to alter the value of the pledge on which Mr. Rothschild recently lent you two hundred million is an abuse of the trust of the generous banker; » and the room, lit by this luminous consideration, rejected a proposal which the usefulness was not questionable, for fear of altering the value of the Israelite's pledge, therefore try to make enter an idea of significant financial reform into the heads of people who don't even want to hear talk about a reduction in letter postage!

Lic «Foiirual tics Oébats.

Financial feudalism has, to make known its Good pleasure to the men of nominal government, its official journal, the Journal des Débats.

It is in this leaf that true men politicians of the day, the men of money, go looking for- dear, not what the ministry thinks, but what that the ministry will do. The high bank obtained ministerial servility as official news were published in the Journal des Débats before being in the Universal Monitor. These are the items of the Journal des Débats, written by some associates of the house R which makes the rise and fall at the Sotck exchange. We dared to print that every ministry was required to pay the Journal des Débats an enormous con-war contribution.

6 T>E rA FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

There have been great ministers who have tried to free ourselves from this onerous protectorate, Mr. de Villèle among others. But M. de Villele was overthrown by a coalition in which the Debates figured gloriously sement, and the Martignac ministry which succeeded him was obliged to reimburse the Journal des Débats for the three years of the backlog of by Mr. de Villèle. Mr. Thiers, who for Mr. Rertin the elder was never more than a little spiritual and boastful draft, also had one day, at this that we assure, the desire to revolt against the descent potism of the Debates. But old Entelle was overcome with a only reverse of article the presumptuous Darès, who put immediately thumbs up, asked for forgiveness and hastened to make peace with the newspaper cashier. The act of contrition was accepted, but he did not succeed in calming the feeling of the irascible Burgrave, who understood the need to make an example. And the day after day when peace had been made, the little minister was able to read àsinfîle Journal des Débats, as a way of thanking you, a blistering satire of the actions of his administration tion. We report a sublime response from Mr. Bertin the former to Mr. Thiers, who prided himself on making it work frontally, Ms. Bertin helping, the Journal des Débats and France. "France, as much as you like, would have replied the old man; but the Journal of Debates, never. This matter only concerns me and Here is Saint Mark. » (Saint Mark, one of the apostles of the religion of Debates, the same one that they did aca-demician two years ago, because he was missing a title and a sinecure to have as much as the ba-ron Dupiu.)

THE JOURNAL OF DEBATES. 7

Mr. Guizot and Mr. Duchâtel are honored by their rush to carry out the slightest orders from the Journal debates. "If it is possible, it is done; if it's im-possible, we will do it. » They use his subsidy to knees, and on a golden platter. The devotion of M. de Montalivet in the Journal des Débats exceeds the limits of servility. It is, strictly speaking, the Journal of the Debates which reigns inside, when M. de Mon-talivet is a minister. Mr. de Montalivet must have talked more by those around him than by his actions; not only because he cluttered up all the offices audiences of the worst writers of the Debates, but because that he has accustomed public opinion to bring into play the name of the king in all the manipulations of the ministerial press, and to consider the Journal des Débats as the organ of the castle, of the Court party. And how could the public doubted the intimacy that existed between the royalty of the rue des Prêtres and that of the Tuileries, when we saw appearing on the list of editors of the journal all the names of the princes' tutors? We imagined, and it was a great misfortune, that the fa- thousands of the castle had the upper hand in the re- newspaper's action, while they were only tolerated

8 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

by management; and we have built nasty accusations actions against the court party with wicked arti- keys to the Journal des Débats. One might have thought, however- whereas if Mr. Bertin's journal had been subservient to the court, the court would not have left the guilty party there author of this bad book and this bad action which we call Barnave.

I was able to live as long as I wanted under April 15 the region of favors, sinecures and rewards. I don't know why, despite my affections for power, I could never stay in this region more than a month. He has to exhale from this official environment a scent of moral rickets and the harshness of money which suffocates the man of heart. I wish I could tell the truth, without offending anyone whether it was among these people with whom I lived and who did me no harm; but in conscience there has too many in the number of which fortune is an in- results in capacity.

It would seem necessary that the chief of staff of a Minister of the Interior, that the man to whom holds the management of the government press and the Office of the Public Spirit, was at least a man of letters, if not a man of wit. The chief of staff of Mr. de Montalivet was called Félix Lebertre: that of Mr. Duchâtel's name was Edouard Mallac. Do these people who are prefects or directors of the services on the list civil, nothing better; but, for God's sake, do not trust not the direction of the public spirit to people whose hand has never known how to hold a pen nor the brain one idea !

Credit and the influence of disabilities are one of the greatest calamities of this time. Mr. Hartmann, Mr. Fulchiron, Mr. Delessert, Mr. Calmon are not certainly the most eminent speakers of the Bedroom; and I haven't heard that they are worth better in advice than in battle; these messages sirs are nonetheless among the most important so many characters of the country.

HAS

THE JOURNAL OF DEBATES. 9

The Journal des Débats is the official organ of the high bank and not the castle. He will protect the court, as long as the court proves docile to the wishes ties of the powerful lords of rue Bergère and the rue Laffite, otherwise, no; and his dedication to the dynasty tie will never go further. The Journal des Débats has buried many dynasties in his life, and long ago time that he swore to no longer attach himself to institutions so fragile.

Someone who had carte blanche to sell a hundred fifty thousand francs a newspaper worth four hundred thousand, one day offered this newspaper to the civil list, to the king! M. de Montalivet replied that the King, while recognizing the importance of the offer, found himself obliged to refuse it, for fear of give the anti-dynastic press a new pretext to make royalty united with the articles of a day-nal. The refusal was plausible; but I knew good source that M. de Montalivet had not even dared to share the proposal with His Majesty, so much was great his fear of offending the Debates. One says that eight days later, high financial barons offered three hundred thousand francs from the newspaper in question, and which was not given to them.

Every time that Mr. de Montalivet, the man of castle, arrives at the Ministry of the Interior, it is a ex-editor of the Debates, Mr. Lesourd, manager of the grant of Paris (place of twelve thousand francs), which takes responsibility for distributing grants to the press man of wit in all the force of the word.

10 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Mr. Petit-Petit is also an editor of the Debates. Jean or another, who takes over the management of the firm of public spirit in difficult circumstances. THE dedicated and courageous writers were not lacking in the cause of power under the ministry of April 15. When these writers, among whom I counted many friends, had conquered in the great battle electoral size of 1837; when they had largely provided their contingent of work, energy and zeal, the minister, to worthily reward their services vices, named the editor of the Debates above, head section inside, then query master, then referendum at the Court of Auditors.

This Journal des Débats is therefore the supreme arbiter of the destinies of the nation, and Bertin reigning Egyptrie of all ministries. It is at the same time the Aeolus who raises the waves and Neptune who devours them storms. He sang the Marseillaise in 1840 at the head of these invincible battalions that Mr. Thiers, the great winner, had promised to lead, had no one, to the conquest of the Rhine, but to the growth of leaves. The leaves not having grown that year, for happiness, the Journal des Débats calmed down and started to intone the hosanna of fear, at the head of the tremors blenrs of modest politics.

The Journal des Débats is a real powerhouse,

THE JOURNAL OF DEBATES. H

which is almost officially recognized in Europe, and who sometimes enjoys poking at the nostrils father (\e Russia. There is no beautiful coronation of Emperor of Austria or Queen of England, snns an extraordinary envoy from the Journal des Débats.

But the Berlin sheet is above all the large sheet of profits, the Red Book of the current reign. I dares you to enter a public library, in an amphitheater of the Collège de France or In Sorbonne, without bumping your head against an editor of the Debates. The Court of Cassation, the Court of Auditors, the council of state, embassies, council rovalde the ins-public destruction, everything is his responsibility. All that corrected a proof and blackened some paper in the smoky place on rue des Prêtres, has the right to aim to a ministerial portfolio, or to an embassy, the excellent idea, a few years ago, of making an order which reserved consulates for students of Consul Pox. Mr. de Broglie's order never had any meaning. The real school, the unique school of consuls is the Journal des Débats. THE Journal des Débats has its consul general in Baghdad (fun Jew), another in Alexandria, another in Jerusalem, another in Genoa, not to mention an ambassador to Constantinople. Mr. Adolphe Guérault, a former saint-if-momevL, editor of the Debates, a man of wit, harmed in Europe; Mr. Guizot, to save him from trouble and create a distraction for him, found him a consulate at the other end of the world. One day that the Journal of Débats had become very angry with Mr. Count de Rattichin; consul general in Canton, I wrote in a newspaper that it was a good bet that the whole sheet powerful had among its editors a candidate willing to succeed the honorable civil servant. Tone of bitterness with which the Journal des Débats noted my perfidious insinuation, it was easy to recognize that the line had carried. I have been assured that the holder actual of the consulate of Canton had belonged to the editorial tion of the Journal des Débats.

12 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

A few years ago, we embarked on an expedition edition for China. Naturally we failed to do enter special scholars, naturalists, industrialists, agronomists, in the staff of the ambassade; Mr. Henry Brunel was refused a place there, bequeathed by three large industrial cities of the North, Lille, lloubaix el Tourcoing. On the other hand, there were reserved a sort of dlioneur post for the representing the Journal des Débats. The representative of Journal des Débats^ another ex-Saint-Simonian, Mr. Xavier Raymond received a salary from the State of TEN THOUSAND francs, in addition to his salary editor, to write articles on China, which were probably to be inserted in the Journal debates. The expedition doctor, the doctor Yvan, who was responsible, in addition to his medical service, scientific, zoological, botanical research, astronomical, etc., etc., should only affect FOUR THOUSAND francs; but the figure of his contributions ments was increased by two thousand francs per Mr. Guizot, at the time of departure of the expedition. He there's no denying it: I got these figures from MX Raymond and Mr. Doctor Yvan, speaking all

Since Mr. Berlin gave Mr. Michel Knight a government mission in the United States Unis, which earned his newspaper the publication tion of the famous Letters on North America, he has taken a liking to these missions which the government is doing the costs and from which his newspaper profits. It is indeed a quite pleasant and very economical way to increase the interest of a periodic publication. After the Letters on North America, by Mr. Michel Chevalier, came the Letters on Spain, by MAGueroult; then had to come \g& Letters on the China, by MX Raymond. In three or four years from here, France will have plenipotentiary ministers and consuls who will be called Alloury, Jules Maurel, John Lemoine, Benazet or Berger de Xivray. Mr. Adolphe Donné, will be perpetual secretary of the Academy of sciences, in place of Mr. Arago, Mr. Francis Barrière, director of the Jardin des Plantes. Mr. Francis Barrière is a learned botanist who discovered the seed of male hemp, and which, in its serials, is called a big flirt....

The Journal des Débats can do anything, even good things, but he doesn't abuse it. However, he must be forgiven much for having published the Mysteries of Paris.

The French Academy and the theater come under the leaf-Leton des Débats and like ministries, embassies sades, consulates, and the rest come under the first Paris.

Mr. Saint-Marc Girardin, editor of the Debates (twelve to twenty thousand francs), is a member of the Council of State and the royal council of public education (twelve thousand francs), professor of eloquence at the Sorbonne lil OF FINANCIAL FEODALITY.

(six thousand francs, deputy. M. de Sacy is a librarian cairo in Sainte-Geneviève, Mr. Fbilarète Chasles at the Institute; Mr. Michel Chevalier is a State Councilor, political economy professor, ex-MP. Mr. Trognon, Mr. Cuvilier-Fleury, Mr. Antoine Latour, raised the son of the king; Mr. Vidaillant {Quid Vidaillant?) must be prefect somewhere; jM. de Bourqueney represents the Bertin family in Constantinople; Mr. Loève-Veymars in Jerusalem, Mr. Alletz in Genoa, Mr. Guérault in Mazatlan, M. Lefèvre de Bécourt in China; Mr. Lesourd to the grant; Mr. Petit-Jean at the audit chamber. Mr. Doctor Donné had the misfortune to fail in a competition for 1 aggregation. The Journal des Débates, to avenge ungrateful medical science on his merits, had Mr. Adolphe Donné appointed in-general observer of all medical schools in the kingdom. However, the ambition of the Débates was not satisfied. The newspaper noticed one day, in 1844, that its editorial staff still occupied only two or three armchairs at the French Academy, and he ordered that we prepare one more for Mr. Saint-Marc Girardin. Mr. Saint-Marc Girardin visited first round; the century is one of mediocrity. Mr. Jules Janin took it upon himself to assert, in this circumstance, the literary titles of his collaborator in Débates. It is a small service which will find its reward think about his time, and I am very afraid that the author of Barnave and Ane Mort dons the embroidered tailcoat green ryes before MM. Alfred de Musset, Balzac and Alexandre Dumas.

The Débats series also has the right to high and low justice on the theater, and insolently rules contemporary literature. The highest illustrations of poetry, novel and drama are condemned to accept the courtesies of the critic, to avoid splashing his pen.

THE JOURNAL OF DEBATES. 15

Mr. de Chateaubriand, Mr. de Lamartine, Mr. Victor Hugo were perhaps obliged many times to do antechamber at the Débats serial and a newspaper store! Georges Sand had to ask him dât ^ one day, the permission of having genius for me serve as the expression of my eloquent and courageous friend Eugène Pelletan. The series of Débates allowed to be called, one day, a third-grade skill order, Mr. Alfred de Musset, one of our greatest poets. The same serial professes a sovereign contempt for Mr. de Balzac, for Mr. Scribe and for Mr. Alexandre Dumas. There is a myopic Aristarchus there who wrote two volumes to transmit to the posterity the shocks and gestures of a pallet, and who makes every Monday a soap opera to demolish the pieces to success. This colorless soap opera, which I am bored of-tender call for so long the spiritual, had moiselle Rachel... Mademoiselle Rachel is an actress offline, which resurrected Racine and Corneille, and who, through his admirable diction, made us discover, in the masterpieces of the masters of the stage, marvels of harmony that we never suspected not!... The hero of the serialist was a doormat" floured which made the Funam audience happy bules ^ and which was said to be sublime in the Bœuf enragé.

Criticism without faith would believe that it only accomplishes

16 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

half of her duties, if she limited herself to denigrating the talent; she likes to complete her work with an apology of mediocrity. The contempt for the poetry of Alfred de Musset's corrective is the admiration of the prose of Mr. Saint-Marc. This is bad faith in composed which is called impartiality in the high regions of criticism.

It has sometimes happened to the admirer of the bench to pass the Rhône through the city of Marseille, to make the French lake of the Atlantic Ocean, or to confuse the small port of Cannes, in France, where Women landed father, with the town of Italy where Hannibal defeated.
He treats as pedants those who criticize him with these incredible nonsense.

Alas! the cowardice of our morals protects criticism unjust, and the indifference of the law leaves talent without support. And this is one of the shames of contemporary literature. temporary that there was only one among us writer of the heart to protest, at the risk of his release berté, against the ignoble despotism of the Journal des Marchands. How can we also understand that, in the many of Hermione's passionate admirers, he has not met an Orestes to make him laugh the sound of the insults of the rascal who has so long insultée.

It is true that it costs to speak one's truths to the leaf-Debates lesson. The law punishes with six months in prison and a fine of six thousand francs for these dangerous acts. very frank. Thus, such has spent twenty years of his life insulting women, pouring out ridicule and the outrage on all artistic notables or literary works of his country; someone has lived twenty years of calornies or paid apologies, which has the front of claim for his person the privilege of inviolability and can hide under the aegis of the law for from there brave the indignation of Ibome de coeur.

But embezzlement in public employment, management position, for example, and impunity is yours ensured despite the denunciations of the National, for little that you are related to an editor of Le Jour-final of the Debates.

Be a serialist and organize parties for your mistress by the prefects and lieutenant generals, have the prize of virtue distributed in schools by the hands of Phryne, and the public prosecutor will not see in this impudent bravado of the uneducated man cation and heartless than a charming joke.

There is one who was not ashamed to undress his legitimate woman in public, the very next day of his wedding. La lenemos virgen.... I thought, for a moment, that the captain would show us the conquering before our eyes. All the austere Puritans, which I have just spoken about, belong to the editorial staff from the Journal des Débats.

The first Paris insults M. de Lamartine and calls him shovel poet to make him sad. 11 jokes agreeably with the utopians who demand for worth the right to live. The literary series begins tackle MM. Alfred de Musset, Alexandre Dumas, Balzac, Scribe; the scientific soap opera to Mr. Arago.... With that perhaps there are not a hundred of us honest people in France to whom reading the Debates inspires only sovereign disgust. The Journal of Débats, which I have always seen rather poorly written, has the singular privilege of being fanatic for his style. I once quoted one of his applauders in-enthusiastic about the following sentence from the Journal des Débats from I don't remember which issue from June 1,846:
#2

18 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

((The country is represented by its government. This is not a fiction, and this fiction must above all be respected outside!..")

That, you people, exclaimed the delighted Roman.

Another time that the ministry of October 29 was emerged without too much damage from a difficult pass, the same newspaper, which meant that the cause was saved, wrote, as a result of a singular preoccupation, the cash register word for good reason. The misunderstanding was found adosaddle.

The Bertin house had, of course, its visited the parties which took place in Madrid, on the occasion of the recent matrimonial alliance treaty concluded between the house of Orléans and the house of Bourbon-Espagne. The envoy from Maison Bertin had met on his route des gendarmes, posted from distance to distance to ensure the march of the French prince; he reads a adorable sentence on the picturesque effect of the gendarme leaning on the support of the rock in the attitude of the melancolie.... 11 noticed, in a bad village, a dozen Spanish peasants dancing in the square public, in the light of three or four flying rockets, taken in direct sunlight. The strange pyrotechnical innovation that delights him in ecstasy. His admiration no longer holds and overflows: "I am leaving you," he wrote to the readers of Debates there to return to which of these shows that we do not don't see twice in your life! »

■ •'''Ie JOUÀNAif. DES f3f;BAIS. ''1*)

It doesn't quite sit well with me that I found out that the sycophancy has been pushed further today by Boileau DespréauX.

The Journal des Débats had three of its champions injured in the last electoral fight, MM. Cuvilier-Fleury, Alloury, Michel Chevalier. It goes down, and I wouldn't be surprised if he was left behind before long by the time there leaf much more attiusattte and beautiful More spiritual blow, where the oft is always sure* of less than recoritre good measure of epigrams^ to lack of reasons.

But I would like to know why the serial des Débats would be held to justice or respect for a successful artist, for a woman, when the first Pariah does not even believe he is held to respect for the King's own iiis | when the first Paris does not not afraid to inflict his insolent lecture on the Jeline and valiant prince whose noble patriotism is exalted both in view of the endless encroachments of the Angle-

A son of the French king reprimanded by his patriot ism in a so-called French sheet. Ah!
these are the shows that could not be seen by us given only in days of national degradation and which say an era

This leaf, however, is the all-powerful organ which dictates to the government its conduct in the matter of the Orient and that of Ireland; which helps to replace the Catholics of Syria under the abhorred yoke of the Turks; which makes the pale M. Guizot tremble just at the threat to withdraw his esteem, and who laughingly asks Robert Peel d'tn end with the bad joke

20 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

of O'Connell... These are the noble minds who impose at the ministry the choice of the representatives of France abroad. Are you surprised after that that France be so worthily represented outside, and that the Rosas and the Esparteros, and the Turks of Tunis, and those of Jerusalem, so full of deference to the consuls English, treat ours so cavalierly! Surprise you that France has already fallen, in the minds of peoples, to the rank of second-rate power, and descends so quickly the slope of V lowering continu!

In everything I have just said, nothing is exaggerated.
What I said, I saw or heard; I only did repeat the common complaint, the complaint of the deputies most sincere conservatives and that of the ministers who feel the full weight of the yoke, but who do not feels like it's breaking, like it's so hard to remove Wed any subsidy to the Debates and to have written every day, for six months, in the official sheet heaven, that the Journal des Débats no longer receives any government communications. Because, not only ministers are required to deliver the latest information important news to the Debates ^ not only the ministerial journals are instructed to present weapon in Debates in any meeting; but it is inter-told these unfortunate leaves to take sides the ministry against Debates. We can give credence to my accusations; I would not notice this cowardice without evidence, and I had time to collect some in the ministerial regions where I lived for ten years. That we let me cite one: four years ago at most, the cabinet of October 29 had been threatened with losing the pro-protection of Mr. Count Lloyd, Mr. Fulchiron and Mr. Mimerel, if he persevered in his union project customs with Belgium; he withdrew this project. I took then the freedom to reproach him sharply for this honour. recoil in the subsidized newspaper that I re- I was currently in Toulouse. I attributed this unfortunate determination to the influence of the Debates. I I spoke out against this harmful influence; I deplored in bitter terms the subservience of this cabinet to the sheet Berlin, organ of the coterie of big merchants. In a word, I took sides with the king, with the minister- terre which sold me against the Debates which made the war against the king and the ministry. So Mr. Mallac, head from the office of the cabinet of the Minister of the Interior, which had probably been made with the Debates surety of the passive obedience of the ministerial press (he has since become prefect); Mr. Mallac, my friend, wrote to me on this occasion, to ask me if I wanted to lose us. It was much worse, fifteen days afterwards, when the Journal des Débats had called mid- Ministry of Finance the injunction to exhaust the jurisdiction action of the courts against a rival company (the Press), and when the ministry had obeyed the order. This time, as I had pointed out with more energy again the cruel oppression exercised on the ministers by the Journal des Débats, Mr. Mallac shook his head for me. I didn't need Mr. Mallac's head: I didn't I didn't accept it. Only I prayed to the chief of staff from the inside to give me a successor at most quickly, because it was impossible for me to do common cause with the enemies of power that I I was committed to serving. Mr. Mallac had a lot of fun of this strange scruple and withdrew his esteem from me, this which greatly distressed me.

22 OF 1.A FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Another time, the Journal des Débats having found excessively clever in giving mo-accomplices rallies to regicide Lecomte, the editor of the newspaper ministerial office of Lyon, the Rhône, had the misfortune of judge this tactic as clumsy as it is treacherous, and the greater misfortune of printing it. He was in Tins- ^ so much even broken in pawns.

We know, from the diplomatic history of the latter years, how the Journal des Débats conducts affairs that of France, to such an extent that our nationals are more willing to run to the protection of consuls British than that of the French consuls. The role that the Journal des Débats plays in the affairs of the interior was to be even more harmful to the interests of national greatness.

We can get an idea of the sympathy that the Journal des Débats feels for the working classes, by the tone alone of the articles with which he welcomed, not long ago, this incredible pretension of the anti-mono-English polists, who demanded that their government provision was required to provide each worker, in exchange of his work, a salary sufficient to live on. As if governments were made to take care of to feed, house and clothe the people and to ensure the equitable distribution of the products of the work...! It is necessary to see with what lightness of boat theirs and with what charming irony, the pimps of banking and commercial parasitism, reducing destroyed the arguments of these poor workers their English. Let the French government take notice a little giving in such faults!

LK JOURNAL OF DEBATES. 2i

Alas! the threat is unnecessary, the government of Mr. Guizot completely agrees on this point with the government of Mr. Robert Peel; both believe that ministers have better things to do than to take care of feeding the people and organizing traffic vail... and, for example, that it is much more im- to organize electoral corruption and feed laugh the parliamentary majority. Don't be afraid, Mr. Guizot will not expose himself a tenth time to losing his esteem of the Journal des Débats, to win that of the people!

However, we could read from time to time, in the Journal des Débats, articles by Mr. Michel Cheva- bind or of Mr. Philarète Chasles, not only by- fully written, but, what is better, well thought-out dry and marked by a high tendency, a tendency progressive social. This is the height of skill and of the trickery of journalism. These articles, which do not are worth nothing to the politics of the Debates, have only one goal: prove to the subscriber, supporter of progress, that we are not not the enemy of progress, that we understand it, that we desires it, but the time for realization is not not yet come. The time for reforms is never receive one hundred thousand ECU per year from the rental of their announcement sheet. It is by means of this learned tactic that we have so far succeeded in retaining in the see the many conservatives who would be tempted to defect to the party newspaper of the Bornes, to move into the Press camp. Progress articles s of the Debates are usually published in the fortnight preceding the quarterly renewal. We saw the Journal des Débats touch on radicalism, the day before the major renewals. It's a reason of this nature which made the Journal des Debates the reckless publication of the Mysthres of Paris, where it is said that the people have the right to the necessary / only the careless leaf went further this time than she thought would happen. Also a lot of big ban- Who have withdrawn their confidence from the Debates since this dangerous publication, to found a new new leaf on less revolutionary principles. The Globe ^ this worthy precursor of the Epoch, the Globe y journal of slavery and Parisian high banking, was charged with bringing justice to the incendiary theories of Mr. Eugène Sue and Peaceful Democracy ^ and the Day- final of the Debates, which according to the newspaper La Presse, its intimate enemy, would sell France for two subscribers moreover, the Journal des Débats bitterly regrets its recklessness at this hour and he works with all his forces to reconquer the ground it has lost. His ten- progressive dances will now pivot on the per- cement of the Isthmus of Panama. When the English force the doors of the Celestial Empire, to win a few more consumers at their factories hungry laughs, the French government, which does not want not fall behind that of Great Britain in the path of glorious conquests, seizes the islets of the Marquesas, three or four nasty rocks lost in the Pacific Ocean, and populated by a few thousands of savages, and who have already cost us more of men and affronts that conquest would not be worth from Madagascar. When England pushes for demolition of the viceroyalty of Mehemet-Ali, to put the hand on the Isthmus of Suez, thanks to the anar- shits and troubles, the French government detaches an engineer to the Isthmus of Panama, to make

24 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

THE JOURNAL OF DEBATES. 25

Napoleonic style in reserve for these special occasions sions.

The Journal des Débats is bound by the question of bou-tick, in the external question as in the inner question: this is why its manifestations progressive and social cannot succeed.

The Débats announcement sheet reports, it is said, almost a thousand francs a day. This number says more that all the reasoning in the world to explain the greater importance of the commercial question in the newspaper shop tips. It is avoided that there is no ministerial subsidy, if considerable and so humbly served that we suppose, which can be taken into account with this advertising income, normal and almost independent income during political crises. However, the owners Debates there which have the protuberance of calculativity excessively developed, know that this income depends on the number and financial value of their subscribers, and it is natural that their concern is attached to prevent unsubscription. This is why they sang the Marseillaise in 1840, when they saw the country's opinion on the war. This is why the Press criticized them for being willing to sell the France for two more subscribers.

Moreover, the Debates make light of their virtue political and do not pose as Catons. If they

^6 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

gent with the gods on the side of the conquerors, if they ap--
On occasion, Napoleon portrays a tiger or an ogre.
Corsica, a crocodile, an acrobat, at least they have the good spirit of not praising merit in every way loyalty to the flag. There are only conversions too abrupt which offends their delicacy. betrayed her-his, to please them, needs to be taken care of and firm-linked with art. Nor do they admit that the ungrateful attitude is a moral infirmity, as some pretend; they prefer to call it V independence of the heart.

As the feudalism of the safe is the law today today to all the other powers, thus the Journal of the Debates and its official organ, makes the law to all newspapers. The most virtuous of legitimist leaves, radical or dynastic are necessarily led liberal, died a few years ago, smelling of patriotism, confessed, in his final hour, that he had never written in his life but one and the same article, always the counterpart of the first—Paris of the Debates of the day before. The Journal des Débats gave a tear in memory of this good man, and cited his political conduct as a model to follow to all those in his communion. He renewed the expression of his regrets, on the occasion of the retirement of Mr. Léon Faucher, editor of Courrier Français, who walked worthily in the footsteps of his virtuous predecessor Châtelain. The National, the Constitutional, and the Century, do little else than MM. Châtelain and Léon Faucher; they do not have the frankness to agree, that's all. But these newspapers have a lot of struggle to conceal their joy, when the great newspaper descending from the heights of its royal silence, willing to commit to discussing a polite question tick with them. The day when the Debates respond to Constitutional, the streets of Paris are not enough wide for the shop crew. Régnault dough exult, like the rams of Scripture.

THE JOURNAL OF DEBATES. 87

However, the Jews found that they did not have enough? of the Journal des Débats, despite all its power; and they thought of giving him as acolytes, by means of of the announcement monopoly, the three other bodies the most widespread in the Parisian press. By the year—nonce, the newspaper; by the newspaper, the deputy; speak deputy, the railway. It is France that will pay the whole thing. France is rich enough to pay for its glory!

28 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

CHAPTER 11.

Forced immobility.

It has been established that financial feudalism, armed with monopoly of lucrative jobs and big industries, flanked by the notary, the chicane and the press, further supported by the stupid credulity of opinion, was absolute master of the direction of the

However, since the interests of the people are diametrically ly opposed to the interests of the financial aristocracy, who lives off the exploitation and misery of the people, he is obvious, a priori, that no reform project tending to improve the condition of the masses, cannot be proposed by the government. It's good to lose its time, in fact, to want to bring in a feeling of justice in the heart of the man of art gent. Avarice ossifies the fiber; the heart of man bank is armored with brass, locked and padlocked like his crate.

That the government asks for a reduction whatever conch of the tax, the Jewish newspaper will answer it that he has no right to alter the value of the pledge on which lent his masters. – Is he talking about reducing rights on irons, a coalition of industrialists all-powerful forces suddenly form against him. – Reduction on the salt tax, a scholar is there, who his status as shareholder of a company which consumes a lot of salt without paying any duty, is of the opinion that the legislation is excellent as it is, and that it would be stupidity to want to change it – to remedy to the abuse of the venality of charges, it is almost pro-call for a revolution.

FORCED STILLNESS. 29

From this it is easy to predict the outcome of all the proposals that can be presented to the chambers bers in the interest of the people; and we know in advance the fate reserved for all reforms.

Let's go over all the financial questions of the day, and we will see that the omnipotence of the Jews had imposed the solution in advance on those who say the country's representatives, but who are not truly that the lovers and false servants of royalty Jewish. Let's examine what had to be done in the questions of railway, canals, rents, oc-three, etc., let us note what has been done, and announce what will happen. The profession of prophet is not good difficult today, because from the day this book was written, until it was published, half of the facts that I had stated in the future, had to be printed past tense.

CHAPTER III.

Railway question.

Let's see how the railway question has been working since 1831, and let's first establish the principle.

In principle, the route and execution of lines.

Because the State alone is powerful enough to prevail to reflect in the route the general interest that it represents, on the claims of local interest. He alone is fit to found unity in the system. There is nothing for him good or bad line; the correct line is there useful line; his only guide is fairness, respect of the rights of populations, the principle of justice distributive.

He alone has bridges and shoes in his body a perfect and inexpensive instrument of execution gods.

Exploitation belongs to the State alone; because the price is a tax which must be fixed by the chambers, and this rate must be mobile, since the question of tariff or transport is the whole commercial question cial. Give a Jew the right to change prices of a railway, tomorrow it will become industrial, free will destroy its products of all transport costs, and will ruin all its competitors. It's allowed, and these things are done every day on the way to Houeu; on the one

QUESTION t)ES RAILWAYS. , 31

de Beaucaire, etc. Economists call this free competition.

Let us pursue the consequences of our principle.

If the State is rich, it is fair that the price of the min of iron lowers to the level of ex-costs ploitation, so as to cover only these expenses and interest on sums paid. The principle of minimum transport costs must also apply ly to the channels. It is important, as I have already said, in the dual interest of production and con-summons, that the product reaches consumption,

If the State is poor, the law will fix the right it must levy on the transport of passengers and mar-goods. It is in the general interest to modify these prices, according to the requirement of the cases.

If it were decided that railway revenue should not rise above operating costs and the rent of construction capital, the people who travels today for nothing on the roads... dk the State, would not have to curse this so-called progress of the railways which ultimately makes it a condition worse than in the past; because the greed of private industry spoils and soils everything it touches. If the railways belonged to the State, the people would benefit from all the economic improvements that science and time must naturally bring new channels of communication into services communication. However, we are able to appreciate the result which we achieved by acting in the sense opposite. Let's take the Kouen line for example, that the chambers alienated the Jews and the English for ninety-nine years. It is observed that Industry advancements have already reduced the cost of traction and maintenance in a significant proportion since the day of the concession. To the latter At the time, locomotives came back at forty-five a thousand francs, they cost less than thirty-five thousand Today; then the administration agents extend their work better, and the competition which is done between them will necessarily result in the reduction payment of their emoluments. Here then is that, as a result of the reduction of these costs, the benefits of concessions naries amount to figures out of proportion to the benefits that the chambers believed to grant them. Now, have the people been allowed to participate in these benefits? tricks? Not at all; the people pay as in front; only the Jew receives greater returns and it will devote its surplus revenue to the acquisition of a multitude of monopolies which relate to the operation of a transport route unique. This additional profit will be used to reduce by 50 percent below the legal rate the freight of foodstuffs circulating from Le Havre to Paris, in order to to ruin the competition of the Seine, so that the court of Versailles will be forced to condemn the one hundred and ninety-two concessionary company both of the river route, for not having followed the prescriptions of its tariff; and it won't be fault of the rail-way company, if the water of the river which goes from Paris to the sea continues to flow for the service of the country.

32 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

It has been at least three years since the Minister of

WEST OLiS CHEMLNS D/i l-Eli. 3â

public assets were pledged by the chambers of millions needed to improve bass navigation Seine, and he does not dare, he does not dare to order finance the expense! –

However, the State must find a way to reach an agreement with these sovereign companies to to benefit the country from the progress of science. There only recognition of this principle: that the prices of transport costs must be essentially mobile, would be enough to nullify all arguments supporters of corporate exploitation.

If transport costs on the railways were reduced to a minimum, production and consumption tion, the two absolute terms of public wealth, would receive from the creation of railways a immense impulse. The example of the United States, Belgium, the Grand Duchy of Baden, and that of the most of the States of Germany, are there to de- show the immense advantages of the system of execution execution by the State. The railways operated by governments are already distinguishing themselves from the paths of bankers, through the good care and consideration given by the ministration surrounds travelers there. The travellers are not ransomed there and piled up in crates livestock, as is practiced in France on horses mins of the Jews, for whom the question of profit is the supreme question. With the State there is a guarantee for victims in the event of a disaster. The horrible disaster of May 8, 1 842 has already demonstrated that this responsibility was purely illusory with the companies. The re- results of the investigation provoked by the new ca- catastrophe of July 8, will probably demonstrate it even more clearly. But what does this seem to you?

11 3

34 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

with regard to the liability of companies in cases of disasters? Is the disaster contained in the limits of the event, from the simple event to the terrible, the company and its agents will be imperiously ordered to pay damages, prison and fine. Does this disaster take into account the proportions of the catastrophe, impunity is assured to the guilty. Nor the disaster of May 8, 1842, nor that of July 8, 1846, where the victims piled up in heaps, did not cause any condemnation for the Foulds and the Rothschilds. The incident of March 21, 1846 on the road to Rouen (broken of the Falaise stagecoach), where there were only two men killed and some injured, earned the agents of administration, Lapeyrière, Gauthier and Stanley, a sentence of five thousand two hundred francs amende and a few days in prison. I think there is something to review in this case law and in this legislation.

And then let's not forget that the steering unit is the first condition of any economy, of any regularity, of all kinds. But there is no unity, no order and savings possible only with the system of execution by the State.

If the State had been responsible for the general construction of railways in France, the entire surface of the kingdom would be crisscrossed today like Belgium, and we would not have to deplore these legislative errors which established the system of sections, one of the saddest monuments of improvidence and of the parliamentary incapacity of that era. And instead of adopting the radiation system which must have for the unmistakable effect of making all life flow back in the center of the State and cause plethora there, during the circumference perishes from atrophy, the lines would have been pronounced, suddenly, for the system-vertebral less bulky and more equitable, and who would have left all the great cities of the kingdom their respective importance and their ancient action on the surrounding regions.

QUESTION OF RAILWAYS. 35

Thus would have created a government confident of itself, which would have been driven by a sincere desire to work for the interest and glory of the country, and to rehabilitate power among the populations. What a wonderful opportunity, tune of the people to that of the State! The government calls on all capitalists in France to contribute to the company with him. It guarantees its partners a half-minimum of 3 or 4 percent interest; he leaves them glimpse the hope of a considerable profit. So a savings bank a little better combined than that of the Delesserts, you will agree, and where the funds do not remain inactive, and where the State is not exposed to threats of sudden repayment. With this system, I swear, it would have been easy to find billions overnight in France; And the railway company then took a truly national character. The power alliance and the people united in the fusion of interests silver. A big step had been taken in the career of peaceful improvements; the move was given. Ah! these unfortunate people who hold in their hands the reins of the State must be struck with complete blindness for not having seen anything of these things!

36 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

The blind, alas! instead of seizing the opportunity to rally power to the people, in this question of railways, they opened the way for the invaders ments of financial feudalism.

So the high barons of the vault, considering that the lords of the Middle Ages levied a duty toll on bridges and rivers, demanded the same privilege.

And Mr. Rothschild, of the tribe of Judah, advising that the gardens of Versailles and the forest of Saint-Germain were the main meetings of the population Parisian, said to the minister: "Give me the pleasures of the popular of Paris; that from now on all Parisien who will go to Saint-Germain or Versailles be required to pay me tribute. »

The minister hastened to seize this opportunity to be pleasing to the king of the Jews, and he granted him both lines of Versailles and Saint-Germain, the villas from Paris. The press shouted: "Glory to the Jews" and the people, forgetting that the tax levied on pleasures the rich and those who have fun should return in the state coffers to serve to soften the mid-sister of the poor who groans and suffers, the people repeated with the press: "Glory to the Jews! »

Mr. Rothschild placed his shares with profits enormous profits, thanks to the good offices of its agents stock market and independent newspapers which have acquired accepted his actions.

We are in 1837. At that time, the Jews^ are not yet aware of their power; too much

QUESTION OF RAILWAYS. S?

happy to have wrested a concession from TÉlat, they do not require a minimum interest guarantee. Their claims are modest!

Now, Mr. Fould, of the tribe of Benjamin, seer this, he prayed to his co-religionist Rothschild to cede to him. der a reasonable share of its profits; to me- nagging, in case of refusal, to raise altar against altar, that is, path against path. But Mr. Roth- schild took no account of the threat, and the dis- rope was in the camp of Israel.

Then Mr. Fould turned to the minister and asked him about his route to Versailles. We could not refuse him the left bank, since the other had the right.

However, the minister timidly objected: "Two paths both on Versailles; on a necropolis... two paths which will run parallel, to which only hundreds of meters away, during the half the journey...! This will be a spectacle which will be exposed to ridicule from abroad, and then competition ence will be fatal to both lines. »

If competition is fatal to the left bank, both worse for the shareholders, must have thought the deputy from Is- rael; moreover, if the left bank has bad business, isn't the public treasury there to come to him help and lend her the funds she will need?

There were therefore two railways from Paris to Ver- sailles. Mr. Fould has placed his shares advantageously. But soon the company's bad days are over. naked; the directors of the left bank aimed at eco- nomie; they did not renew generously enough their equipment; and one day a hundred people were killed

38 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

OR burned on the wicked path, because we had done use of a locomotive of a difficult character; and the families of the victims remained without recourse against the results of Jewish greed. THE-state, in such circumstances, would have compensated the miles; the Jews, no. We gave them a pro-these ; but sue for damages to the powers of capital! the idea was bold – it's that is to say that I saw the moment when the eloquent defender of the homicidal administration was going to obtain an in-pardon against the sons of the tortured! One or two more tears from the lawyer, and the court condemned the plaintiffs. The unfortunate people had to pay the costs of their pursuits.

The State lent free to the administration of the bank left five million, five million he may have borrowed at 4 or 5 per cent from the same bankers to whom he lent them for nothing. Let us not hurry to cry slander, to call the impossible, because this is not would not be the first time that 1 ministerial ineptitude in would have come there. When the administration builds a way like that of the North, and after having known it educated, she wants to abandon its exploitation for free for thirty or forty years to bankers, it does not does not do anything other than what I just saidj because the funds it devoted to the execution of the route, were borrowed by her from the bankers. She pays the interest on the capital at the same time as it transfers free of charge the route carried out with the help of this same capital

*Railway employees said in court that the Mathien-Murray, the machine which killed or burned a hundred people, was a capricious machine! !

QUESTION OF FEK'S ROADS. 39

tal. She borrows at interest from these Jews the money she their loan for nothing. The true can sometimes not be not likely.

A magnificent opportunity presents itself today to use use the left bank railway (Versailles), in making the head of the line of the Chemin de la Bretagne, Chartres, Rennes, Brest. The government does not even dared to think of taking advantage of the situation. There is bet ten to one that the government will reserve at the railway on the right bank of Versailles, ap-partner to Mr. de Rothschild, the advantage of serving as head of line at the great Western railway. However, the station two paths from Rouen and Saint-Germain.

While these two concessions were agreed at the gates of Paris, the ministry of April 15, by the organ of Mr. Martin (from the North), today keeps seals, was preparing a comprehensive bill on the railroads. The system was based on the principle principle of state enforcement; the statement of reasons; was clear and judicious. The minister was not afraid to expose oneself to popularity, by demonstrating solidarity of interests of the people and the government in the question of railways. But the minister was weak in defending his system.

The day after the presentation of the project, the Journal des Débats^ which had published under the signature of Mr. Michel Chevalier of such victorious arguments in favor of the system of execution by the State, published against the ministerial project an article including this project did not get up. The Journal des Débats, who knows its parliament like its ministers, did not lose its time to discuss the principles; he calculated the expense of 1 company, increased it to three billion, and wrote at the end of his article: the State is asking us for three thousand farthings; or find three billion...? And the others newspapers repeated after the Debates: where to find three billion?

THE OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

The project was killed by the betrayal of friends. We appointed, for Tenterrer, a commission in the- when they met MM. JauLert, Duvergier of Hauranne, Arago, Berryer, Hiers and Odilon-Barrot. It is within this commission, as we knows, that the coalition was born. The high notes parliamentary abilities above, seeing ourselves so close, did not take long to notice each other that they were not as black as they had been figured until then. Old enmities were abjured; we first agreed to overthrow a mini-project truly democratic material; and the first act of coalition having succeeded, Mr. Duvergier told Mr. Barrot or to another; ((If we got along now to topple the ministry of Mr. Mole, a ministry which has lasted for twelve long months already! - For what not," replied M. Odilon-Barrot or another. As soon as said, as soon as done; and the same coalition that buried the democratic railway project, overturned the

The episode of the coalition of 1839 is certainly the most shameful page in the parliamentary history of last fifteen years. Only the neck was missing humming at work. I would have liked to see, for editing formation of France, the leaders of the victorious parties adorning oneself with opime remains the day after life-

QUESTION OF RAILWAYS. H

tory, in accordance with the doctrines of the representative system sentiative. I would have liked to see them sit at the same time on the bench of pain the legitimist lawyer, the com-king's missionary to Cherbourg, and the man who paid Deulz, the Jew.

Mr. Arago, member of the general council of the Seine, has since nobly recognized the Terror committed by W. Arago, member of the Chamber of Deputies and commission of the Railway Act of 1 838.

Large projects sometimes resemble sugar loaves, the pieces are good. Such was at least the opinion of Mr. Count Jaubert, who said to jNI. Odilon-Barrot: "If we took one of these mor-those on our behalf; the best, for example, the piece from Paris to Rouen; you would be president of the board of directors, me, general director; and we could offer seventy shares to Mr. G"

Mr. Odilon-Barrot accepted; Mr. Jaubert was awarded the line from Paris to Rouen via the plateaus, and was appointed general manager of the company.

This time again the business was done on a contract basis; the State participated neither in the loss nor in the profit.

The tray business did not work, because we had counted without the bankers friends of the English and the people who preferred, in the interest of the people, to see pass the Rouen line through the valley. The pre-trail made by them won. The Rouen line passed through the valley, where it competes with the Seine. There Saint-Germain forest is half lost for the pleasures of the king: these Laffitte houses seem to be called to triumph over the younger branch of the house of Bourbon as from the elder branch.

Count Jaubert renounced the line of plateaus with all the more resignation since there was only money to lose in the business. Tell me about a accommodating government like ours— A capitalist introduces himself: "Here," he says, "is a line of railway which gives me Aa, give it to me; " and the government gives it to him. If speculation arises noce well, the speculator keeps it; but if the action does not place himself advantageously, if the speculator is forced to operate with his capital ^ he is free to renounce the concession and to return it to the government, saying it has changed its mind on the affair of the other day. Of the interest of the people and treasure, not a word in all this. We will call the people when there will be something to guarantee, the moment will not be long. Fampoux and all the bad things the lines will give birth like the companies of the trays. The Journal des Débats and other newspapers, I no longer know which ones, proclaimed in principle that it was right to grant the companies all the lucrative lines: Lille, Orléans, Le Havre, and re-server to the State, that is to say to the people's purse, to tax, all the expensive lines. The Journal of Debates has repeated on various occasions that we cannot favoring serious companies too much.

Then an Anglo-French company took over the line of Rouen through the valley, while the so-citie Leconte, Bartholony, Pillet-Will, etc., seized rait of the lines of Orléans and Corbeil. Here, the cause bankers has gained ground. For Orléans, the government guarantees interest at a minimum of 4 percent; for Rouen, the concession is made for ninety-nine years old; and not only did we interest is paid, but we lend and even give money. The law decides that the government, which does not not participate in the profits of these gentlemen, their gain will cover the loss. We are not yet at the best days of the law of June 1842. The Orléans concession dates back to 1839; that of Rouen on July 15, 1840, glorious date for French policy abroad as inside.

QUESTION OF RAILWAYS. ftS

The guarantee of a minimum of interest by the taxable, to the stockbrokers who speculate on the prices mins of iron, was already a victory for the concessions have insatiable appetites.

They therefore wrote, in the law of 1842, that the State would take charge of the construction of the roads of iron and that the exploitation and administration of it could then be granted to the companies.

This law of June 11, 1842 is intended to appear globally one day among the most interesting monuments of the madness of the 19th century. She decided that in any event it would be the State which would be responsible for the exclusively expensive part of u-companies public tility, unless abandoned to private interests the profit part.

The Jews and the Journal des Débats translated in their language the provision of this law of 1842, which states that: "the exploitation and administration of mins of iron could be granted to the private industry vee. » They claim that these words; could be, mean shall be; and they demanded, in con- sequence, the concession of the Northern railway,

UL\ OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

under the conditions that I have already explained, but which we can recall too often:

The State will cover the costs of the journey (one hundred and fifty thousand lions approximately), and will cede this route free of charge to Mr. de Rothschild; Mr. de Rothschild will advance the material (sixty million), the value of which will be reimbursed to him stock market after forty years, to say estimation; and, for the sake of this advance, Mr. de Rothschild will receive fifteen or twenty million per year, for forty years. Well done!

But it was still just a project, fortunately. However, the northern concession having been postponed, the chambers and the government felt the need to do something for the Jews of the South; we conceded the line from Avignon to Marseille. The inspector divisional officer Kermaingant had estimated the expenditure of this rail-way at twenty million: the State grants concessionaires a subsidy of thirty-six thousand lions to facilitate their business. The concessions naires issued twenty-five million shares; and as the shares gained 120 percent, it finds that the line from Avignon to Marseille costs in this moment to the French people sixty million. It's not that the navigation of the Rhône could do for them undertaking a disastrous competition, they decided to eliminate the Rhône which transports merchants say and travelers too cheaply. To what God he also thought when he created the rivers!...

But the French people who spent so many thousand lions for improving the navigation of the Rhône!! They tell you it's about Jews and commerce,

QUESTION OF IRON CHILIMENS. Z|5 and that the interest of the people of France has nothing to do in this.

This is where things had reached in 1843.

It was once said, however, that the combination ministerial, which made Mr. Teste a president of chamber at the Court of Cassation, had had no other purpose than to bring a minister to public works who did not, like Mr. Teste, have commitments made with the dealers, and that the appointment of Mr. Dumon (from Lot-et-Garonne) indicated a change system management in cabinet advice. We have said that the ministry, having acquired the certainty that the majority was tired of concessions to high finance, had returned to the system of state execution. Alas!

However, this new minister who was supposed to stop the feet of the Jews, this Mr. Sylvain Dumon (from Lot-et-Garonne) is the same one who proposed and accepted ter all concessions, the same one who awarded the road from Bordeaux to the English speculators, and the Vierzon road to a coalition; the same one who granted a lease of forty-one years to the con-assignees of the Northern railway and quante-five years to those on Chemin de Lyon; the same who was not afraid to attach his name to these follies ruins which are called the path to Lyon by the Yonne valley, the Troyes junction, the one from Reims.

It was the distinguished statesman who delivered a day, in the session of 1844, these words remembered rables:

"Speculation consists of buying the best in bulk^

66 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

their possible market, to sell in detail the most expensive possible. Speculation ^ thus defined, is legitimate....
It's the soul of commerce! ! ! »

If I were in business, I would want to provoke sur-le-champ a national subscription, to establish ger to Mr. Sylvain Dumon a bronze statue or of marble, and I would have it engraved on the base in letters gold the words above.

However, respect for public outcry has made what no minister of that time would have dared to do. THE profits made in Orléans, Rouen, Bordeaux, Avignon and Vierzon, had opened the eyes of the public.
The rooms have well matched lines and spaces. connections to those who requested them; the rooms, guidesigned by the ministry, have been renewed with love the madness of the double tracks in the same city; they have voted for the stock market the most magnificent prey we have never offered to his voracity; they granted concessions of forty-five years to successful bidders; but it is no longer the State which builds the road at its own expense.
It's always a win: something like three to four hundred million, I don't know exactly.
The Rothschild company missed its mark ago two years. And his unfortunate leader was right to exclaim when he had committed his stupidity: "I am ruined born ! I am broke ! I missed my fortune! " Leader of the illustrious boutique was afraid, and the fear, this poor go master, ruined it. For not knowing how to do it in time the sacrifice of a miserable sum of fifty to sixty million, he was reduced to later paying two hundred million and more, to reimburse the entire expense of the way, when we only asked him to provide

QUESTION OF RAILWAYS. U1 wagons and rails, to reimburse the expense of a saw that, fifteen months previously, we ceded to him for Nothing. Oh ! the great financiers, the eagles of speculation, whose gaze was unable to penetrate to the bottom of an affair whose infallible result opened to us eyes at us, puny ones, who never stopped screaming at them with all the strength of our lungs: "There is for you on the way to the North three hundred million to earn! »

the spirit of the poor man, and that it was heard in the silence of darkness, cursing Debates the infatal fluency, and exclaim like Augustus after the defeat of Varus: "Péreyre, Michel, give me back my millions! »

The pain of the unfortunate man deeply moved me. This is more or less, I believe, the alpha and omega of the question of railways. I said what he should have been done in the interest of the people; I said what was done in the interest of the Jews.

We denounced, as early as 1843, the rampant waste of finances, the perils and infamies of stock trading; finances were wasted, the Jews made profits of several hundred million on the agiotage. We announced that the Jews were pressing would ask the State to deliver to them before long the routes that he was responsible for building. We had written that the railway concessionaires, barely invested with their monopoly, would kill navigation; the Versailles court decided that we had prophesied correctly. We had stated that it was impossible that the railways executed with so much promptness presented guarantees of solidity sufficient. A terrible disaster inaugurated the taking of possession of the Northern railway by the Jews; the viaduct by Barentin, work of the English engineer Locke, collapsed of its own accord, as we had anticipated. The Vierzon viaduct not only has not held against the first shock of the Loire, but it was a cause of ruin for the entire river valley, the aid of devastation.

A8 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Today the French nation which proclaims itself the progressive nation par excellence, is behind all the small states of Europe in terms of administration railways. On the other hand, France consacred his treasures to make his capital a stronghold; it isolates itself from nations, when other nations rally. But Geneva and Judah triumph, the Age and the Debates are going on, and the French people are happy... Happy, because the rooms, by conceding to the Jews the railway monopoly, took away power a means of influence and corruption. You will see that these bankers will never dare to buy electricity totors with branches, like the Ardoin. And hard cash!

Poor people! while he celebrates his conquests on power, here are his brave friends from Rouen, the bankers and the ex-patriotic writers, have the courts decide that they are not tenured to have places in all their convoys for the people ! ! !

The court which pronounced this sentence expressed the regret that the legislator forgot to reserve for hoiiiiiiiies of the people a place in each convoy of railway !...

OLESTION OF THE CHTMLINS OF 1ST. 49

And note that the vehicle that the friends of the people had until now been reserved for workers, and that they refuse them today, was a vile wagon open to the cold and the rain, a cart like somewhat humane butchers would not want them for transport their livestock. In Germany and countries of absolutism, the people are admitted to the paths of iron; he pays much less in proportion than in France; it is received in cars perfectly closed and perfectly comfortable; but he has the displeasure of being transported by the vile wagons of power.

I read that a medical room in Khin, frightened of the number of chest diseases caused by the open-air mode of transport, reserved for this people loved, had sent a request to the government, with the aim of obtaining the reform of this system. A man died of cold in the winter of 1844, on the way of Ofleans. Talk to me, tell me about philanthropy bankers from Judah, London and Geneva, who force the poor traveler to choose between illness and second class seat!

We are being told something odious to which we temporarily refuse to believe, but who, if it had been held, would paint in all its beauty the feelings of unbridled greed that germinate in the heart high barons of the new feudalism. A between frame taker would have been responsible for presenting car models of the three classes, by the management owners of a railway company that we do not do not want to designate. Model No. 1 would have been adopted as meeting all the conditions of luxury and comfort; No. 2 would have provoked some criticism ques motivated by an excess of elegance, which could harm the first places. Finally, number 3, that of the last class cars, cars that the worker takes, would have been pushed back with vehemence, as making the conditions of carriage infinitely too beautiful for poor travelers. "It is necessary," the expert responsible for examining the planes, it is necessary that the chest fi/uctions can pass into the Troisihnes! ! ! – Either, the entrepreneur would have replied, but if you do so badly, the police chief will refuse. "That concerns us," the agent reportedly replied. the company; and the model of the third cars class would have been made according to the drawings of senior administration. Unfortunately the disastrous the entrepreneur's prediction would have come true; and Mr. prefect of police, who imagines that the duty of the magistrate nature is also to ensure that the rights of poor citizens are not outrageously violated, would have vetoed the execution of the model in question, and the administration, which counted on the rain chest inflammations, would have been obliged to re-nounce his philanthropic speculations.

50 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

So, the Chamber of Deputies, which did not have predicted that men would suffer from the cold on their v'^^agons open, during the harsh season, the chamber-ber of 1845, enlightened by f experience ^ decided that the future third class carriages would be closed during the winter.... with curtains.

Listen now. The transport monopoly

CANALS. 51

can't stay in your hands for long Jews. The people are already tired of tyranny and rapacity of all these people. The government knows stupidity he committed. A ministry made up of people of heart can happen at any moment, which will hasten to take back the property of the State, to break the shameful pact concluded with the Jews by his predecessors assignors, and the track will be bought back at a reasonable rate nable. – And the expropriation measure will have no partisans more fanatical than the writers of the Journal of opinion on the superiority of the execution system and exploitation by the State. — ■ The sooner the better.

Canals.

The question of channels is the same as that of railroads. The channels must be for bulky goods, wine, grain, iron, coal the, etc., what the railways are for the travelers. All lines of communication must belong to the State, so that the products do not run not the danger of being overtaxed by the greed of private interests.

Mr. Count Jaubert proposed, a few years ago years, in the chamber, a project of total overhaul of the current pipeline system, project of which he had kindly entrust me with the writing. Mr. Jaubert requested but the leveling of navigation rates for all the central canals, and the lowering of these tariffs at a minimum sufficient to cover the administrative costs nistratiou and maintenance. He threatened expropriation for reasons of public utility the Briare canals and du Loing. The project eliminated collar hauling of men, demanded the paving of the roads, ensured the drafts and speed of the navigation gation, etc.

52 FROM THE. FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

What Mr. Jaubert asked for the central region of France of which he was a deputy, I ask him I would like for all of France: quick navigation, inexpensive, constant, at uniform prices as much as possible, but essentially modifiable in principle. Navigation would have been abolished a long time ago the barbaric and expensive process of rolling, if the government would have dared to lead to the execution of the general network of water communications, from one end from France to another; and the savings that this work grandiose would have made on the construction costs and road maintenance, would have already considerable-lightened the sacrifices of the nation. United States, with thirteen million inhabitants and ten times less resources that France, have executed in this genre prodigious works. This work must the admiration and shame of France which had watershed channels, one hundred and forty years before the

The leveling of navigation rates throughout royaume, and the exclusive administration of these routes of communication by the State, are these measures

'The Briare canal, the first canal with a dividing point that we have built in Europe, was started under Henri IV, by the care of Sully. It was later granted, in 1638, to a Boutroux company which completed it in four years.

CANALS. 55

that an intelligent minister would hasten to include in head of his program. Legislative reform channels is one of the first bases to lay for establish the material fortune of France. And I do not not only his material wealth, because the government government would have a monopoly on navigation an easy and safe way to guarantee the consumer the quality and origin of the goods, in fact without disappearing, through its control, a part of these frauds which dishonor the anarchic commerce currently tuel. This would still be a way of assessing the basis of consumption tax on foodstuffs placed in sale, so that the Argenteuil wine was not not imposed the same duty as wine coming from Clos-Vougeot or Château-Laffitte. The law that re-. will give exclusive ownership of the canals to the State and which will decree the leveling of prices, must have, in Furthermore, that the State canals will only admit buildings constructed according to the principles of the system decimal metric; that the barrels, shaped from a- near the same system, will bear a stamp of the government with the indication of the quality and quantity of the merchandise they contain, all certified by state inspectors.

The canals that continue the rivers and rivers, these great paths which walk, were intended to provide States with more services than roads of iron. The completion of the major canal network sation of France should have, in good administration, precede the installation of railways; the necessary sare and the useful first, the luxury and the superfluous afterwards.

The room, in connection with taking care of these questions

cial, will give forty million to the bankers of Geneva so that they do not push too hard the financial companies of the French canals in tyrannize our commerce and our government. She will forget the proposal Jaubertel will continue to let state channels, in power of companies financial, this public calamity that Mr. Lacave-Laplagne, in December 1838. – For which the chamber will continue to enjoy the esteem of Journal of Debates and other friends of the bank. The chamber of 1845 has already justified these predictions; she voted for the principle of redemption on the proposal by Mr. Lacave-Laplagne.

Question of annuities.

We never spend so much effort on words that when we do not agree on the value of the terms of a question, and the noise that is made in such a circle constancy is yet another of the reasons which prevent let's agree. I don't think we made that much noise around the conversion of annuities, only to confuse raise the question, prevent minds from agreeing, and force the government which does not ask for better, to leave it aside.

The question of annuities is the simplest of all financial issues of the time. Conversion of the annuity, it is the annuity tax. Convert is impose.

Mr. Victor Considerant, one of the most intelligent of this time, demonstrated this truth until axiomatic evidence in an ad hoc writing[^]]published under the pseudonym of a former deputy. I do not think not that there is any plausible objection to the theory of Mr. Victor Considerant.

QUESTION OF ANNUITIES. 55

The state that borrowed billions from the Jews at 4 0 for 1 00, the day after A\ aterloo, said to his creditors iers, today that its position has improved and that the rate of public funds rose from 50 to 120:

“You once took great advantage of my disastrous situation; you built on my distress splendid fortunes. – Since 1815 until today, I paid you interest of five francs, for each in the bad times. I intend to finally lighten the sacrifice of my national workers who pay you this re- come usury on the purest of their work. Since the funds are at 120, that is to say I no longer pay only five francs of interest for one hundred and twenty francs that we lend me, I want to borrow at this rate what you repay at par the three billion that I have to. Assuming I only borrow from 4 and 1/2 for 100 instead of 5, it's still a tenth of the pension that I will save at home. I don't see what you would have to object against such a plausible project. In right, my proposition is not contestable; all of- The debtor has, by law, the right to release himself; the code never made an exception for the state. »

But faith in treaties! cry the grieving Jews and with the Jews, Mr. de Lamartine, who had the in- incredible chance to meet the children of Geneva and Judah, on the ground of faith in treaties!

I answer: the treaties have never prohibited the United States

56 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

lat the right to free oneself. It was not written in the contract between the State and the Jews, which the first continues it would be impossible to pay the latter an interest of 10 per 100 per year, until the consummation of centuries, and when everywhere else, the interest on money would have fallen to 3 or 4. There is no negotiator stupid enough to having stipulated that the right belonging to each individual vidu, fraction of the State, does not belong to the mass of these individuals, which is the State. Even though this absurd condition would have been stipulated, the first The government's duty would still be to make it dis- appear from our legislation. And then, what does it matter all these arguments from vulgar jurisprudence? Is this that there is no law of the supreme interest of the State, to break everything that stands in the way of the prosperity of the state.

Now this law of the supreme interest of the State which has no need to be written in the charters, because it is written in public reason in ineffective characters cables, this law, which revolutions apply, when the wisdom of governments does not prevent the app- plication, this law says: that a living society cannot be attached to the corpse of a dead society and that the ge- new generations are in no way required to respecting the dead letter of contracts kills them or only hinders their progress; – that the first need of States is to live, that the sovereign is absolute in his decisions, and that z7 even the right to be unjust, at one's own risk, etc., etc.

And in fact, the legislators are only constituted to see the new needs of the social body

QUESTION OF ANNUITIES. î^l

and to free its members from the shackles of the past. There is not a useful reform which is not the violation of an old contract entered into in good faith.

If therefore the sovereign, which in France is made up of king and of the two chambers, finds that it suits his interests to impose the annuity, he is free to do so; because there are no limits to his power. Only the justice being a principle of stability and order, it is to believe that the sovereign who must fear future reprisals, will only act contrary to justice, case of absolute necessity.

But I would like to be shown here to– which the sovereign would not have the right to impose the rent of the rentier, as he taxes the vineyard of the vine–ron and the field of the plowman and the manufacturing industry cant, and as he has the right to tear away from France, in the name of the national interest, its last man and his last crown.

So this is what is understood. The State always has the right to free oneself and repay one's creditors par, that is to say at the rate agreed in the employment contract prunt.

Now the State cannot profit from this pre–tense reimbursement measure only in one circumstance.

For the operation to be feasible, the creditor to be repaid does not want the reimbursement. Because if the State were obliged to really borrow three billion, to reimburse each of the annuitants of the State, it would obviously recoil from the slowness and the difficulties of the operation, that the coalition of capitalists elsewhere could make it impossible.

So that the creditor does not want the repayment—ment, he must not be able to find a place elsewhere cement more advantageous than that offered by the i'ent converted from the State. It is necessary, in a word, that it consents to the conversion. This is why this question annuities are no longer called reimbursement, but the conversion of annuities. It is in fact a conversion and not a refund.

However, it is obvious today that the creditor can find a more advantageous investment than the converted pension, since the current pension at the rate of 120 really brings him only 4 percent, and which the government wants to convert to 4 and 1/2. He is therefore more than certain that the annuitant will agree to big heart this new annuity which will not change his position. Therefore, the time to try This operation could not be more timely.

But pay the annuitant four francs fifty cents times of interest, for a capital of one hundred francs, instead of to pay him five like before, that's all simply impose by authority his income from a tenth. Therefore, we must not say the question either tion of the conversion but the question of \ tax of the annuity.

The failure of the reimbursement or conversion of annuities, is not always proof of the inappropriateness of the attempt; but the success of the o-operation invincibly demonstrates the opportunity.
A pensioner who finds himself very happy to accept a reduction today, clearly states that it was overpaid yesterday.

But why does the State, which has the right to impose

QUESTION OF ANNUITIES. 59

écus, does he not dare to impose them, and does he prefer to impose serve meat, wine, land, work, contrary-ment to the wish of the charter, which proportions the charges to fortune?

Ah! here we have arrived at the true question, and it is here that Mr. Hiers and Mr. de Lamartine found themselves in default. Mr. Considering himself didn't even say, it seems to me, everything he could will say about that.

The government does not dare to present the draft conversion or reimbursement, despite the opportunity of the current moment, precisely because the conversion is the tax.

Capital tax!

Because converting the annuity there means touching the arch saint of industrial feudalism.

Distinguished statesmen come to tell you in the House, talking about a bill on the conversion: this operation was perfectly successful, more several times successful in England; she must get the same success in France....

These great politicians fell into a complete error. Their comparison is completely wrong point. The analogy is not exact.

In England, it is the blood aristocracy which governs, who owns the land and the privileges. Money is a lot in England, but it's not all, like here. The House of Commons can impose it, and the House of Lords will not protest. But would you mind touching the privileges of the land which are the basis of the power of the aristocracy in England. Talk about imposing the floor or removing the import duty on foreign grain, and you will see the lords scrambling and crying out loud at the violation of the old pact there and set the kingdom on fire. There is no other question than this today in England. The Lords did not accept the measure as a provisional measure; but the good people do not know that these provisional measures are always final days; it is, as they say, the beginning of the end. In vain, poor lords, curse you Robert Peel every moment of the day; in vain do you stupidly baptize him with renegade names and of traitor. It's not him, it's God who betrays your cause. Robert Peel is the only savior who saved your aristocracy from its ruin, if it was not written there high that the English aristocracy must perish at the hands of the merchants, and that his time has come. Ah! I am happy to recognize in these senseless clamors that raises Robert Peel's savior project, the symptoms of the vertigo which precedes the death of all tyranny.

60 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

The question of annuities has the same value in France than that of cereals in England.

Capital is the financial feudalism of France what the soil is for the noble feudalism of the Britain; it is the palladium of his power.

Also, listen to the Jews and the Journal des Débats shout to desecration among us, as soon as we want to expensive to rent. Property tax in England and the annuity tax in France, these are the two questions between which the analogy exists; but still once the question of conversion in England bears no resemblance to the question of conversion in France.

QUESTION OF ANNUITIES. ei

Hey! certainly the sales conversion has perfectly successful in England, where it does not strike not preferred property. But the tax of the land, and the tax on vûiy and the tax on salt succeed also admirably in France, where they do not strike that the working classes there but try a little to imput down the lazy classes!

I have just indicated the Gordian knot of the question annuities; but I search in vain among the ministers or their presumptive successors, a Alexander who dares to cut him. A minister who would dare issue on a financial question half of the bold principles contained in this last paragraph graph, would risk raising an immense coalition of all the capitalists of the kingdom and to make put a price on his head.

And the room! and the charter which requires the proportionality of public charges î

The room, \q Journal des Débats, modest journal and immaculate, will cry so loudly about the immorality of conversion that the room will never be able to hear the words of the charter.

Besides, there is no charter for Judah and Geneve. The French charter is the Brunehild of Scandinavian legend who despises the timid, and who only grants her tenderness to the strong man who terrace and viol.

Some, however, believe that conversion is that the ministry and the Jowjuil of Debates will not have could prevent it, and there is the chamber of rentiers, the chamber of peers, to neutralize the efforts of the elective room. The Minister of Finance, Mr. Lacave-Laplagne, is a supporter of conversion and has not dared to make the commitment to present a proposition on this subject, despite the insistence of the chamber deputies.

62 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Question of sugars.

I said that I intended to reserve the solution of the question of sugars, for example of financial reforms which seem immediately achievable to me. I therefore refers to the end of this work to deal with the question thoroughly.

Customs question.

Customs are the bad tail of war and the antagonism of peoples is the war of the stamp replacing that of the barrel. Customs are barriers that the progress of the industry and the use of steam demolishes daily, and that the intelligence of governments will eventually meet one fine day, to the cheers of joy of the people pulses. This tendency towards political unity, literally raire, commercial, reveals itself every day through new customs union treaties between two peoples neighbors. There is no progress in the industry, in science, in the ideas of peace which is not hostile at the customs. Rail traffic must deliver before long a mortal blow to this bar-system bare; air navigation would kill him in one fell swoop. The abolition of customs, the last barriers that separate rent the States, is, in a word, the first condition of the achievement of universal peace. So one day he there will be no more customs, each people will surrender to the special industries that the nature, and each product will be manufactured locally where it can be manufactured at the best possible price. It is already evident that the legislation of civilized peoples takes a step every day along this path of united agreement

QUESTION OF CUSTOMS. 63

Now, as absolute principles do not arise do not write so quickly in the code of inter-relations national only on paper; like the people more advanced in civilization are not yet at proclaim the reign of peace and to dismiss their soldiers meas; as every nation is finally required to live of one's own life and to take advantage of all the riches of its soil, it is a question of knowing whether the customs system, which aims to protect the industry of each country against the industry of the neighboring country, was not itself an institution of absolute necessity.

However, the evidence of this absolute necessity strikes the eyes. Isolation, the result of war, forces a nation to dig the sides of its mountains to to draw the metals which it cannot do without and that the foreigner once supplied him. After that, you must let this nation pierce roads, dig canals to bring the products of the new industry at places of consumption. A host of industries begot each other; populations in-third parties have been established over time on these various industries; they live on it. Because peace comes to be done, because in a foreign country and where the tra-

6i OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

value is paid less than with us, such product can be purchased more cheaply than in our factories national, will it be necessary to abandon an industry important and created by long efforts? will it be necessary mercilessly immolate national interests to the principals pes of freedom of trade? obviously not;
the state owes protection to its workers. Also longtime that the threat of war will remain suspended on nations, governments would commit a serious imprudence to abandon, for a benefit precarious, an industry, even expensive, linked to the creation of basic necessities. So, as far as possible, a nation must seek not to not be dependent on your neighbor for fuel, metals, beasts of burden, cattle, consumption data; and the efforts made by the governments to locate in their respective regions The prospects of these parent industries are laudable. Also long as nations fear each other and there will be standing armies, there will be, I repeat, [necessarily sity for governments to protect certain industries. The greatest fault that could be committed of Germany, would be to give hands to the system commercial freedom of Robert Peel and Cobden, supported in our country by the sect of economists, Bordeaux tees or line managers. These governments must not adopt the principles of freedom of trade absolute ciality, that as long as it is demonstrated to them that their main manufacturing industries are in able to compete against the industry British on their national market. I do not see, in fact, a better outlet for France and r Germany than their own market; but it is necessary let these two States keep it, unless they prefer to resort to the expeditious process of Mr. Frédéric Bastiat, the French Cobden, which triples you with just one stroke of the pen the number of inhabitants of the globe, average original and economical to provide consumers tors to all industries that lack them. We know that Mr. Frédéric Bastiat, the standard bearer of the economy Anglican mism, the most frantic leaguer of the moment, nourishes this fixed idea that the globe is populated by three billion inhabitants. We believe that it is deceive of two billion and some two hundred million. We are not close to that, anyway. Who has never been wrong by two thousand farthings out of three, counting a little quickly?

CUSTOMS Dts QUESTION. 65

But let's not let the principle degenerate into abuse. If God has blessed each area, each region, with a superior special product than all other countries seek, it was so that the nations would understand the need to unite to improve their lot. Don't al- therefore let us not, by virtue of the principle of fear, rebel against the wills of God and force our fields to produce sugar, lest the An- gleterre does not prevent sugar from the torrid zone one day to reach us. On the contrary, since the exchange is the true bond of friendship of peoples, let us contract with all peoples exchange relationships so powerful that the nation which wishes to declare war on us, be obliged to declare it to all our allies. By this way we will more surely avoid a collision with An- ^ gleterre than by all other methods of distrust, n*5 and luxury, the best way to avoid war is to soften people to the enjoyments of peace. There new policy must repudiate the barbaric motto of the old policy: Si vis pacem, para bellum, et inscribe on its standard the Christian motto: Si vis pacem, para pacem. Let us strive to restore peace sweet and dear to the nations, in order to distance them from never the scourge of war. It is probable that At this time, some of these wishes are already granted, and that the policy of conquest and aggrandizement dissent has had its day, for the Euro-continent at least.

So that this principle of protection to industry does not degenerate into abuse, this Protection is only granted to viable industries. The indigenous sugar industry, for example, is not a viable industry. The protection given to him until this day is a fault and an injustice for the rest of national industries. To judge whether an industry is viable, it is necessary to consider whether the prices of the raw material, fuel and transport, which are always the essential elements of the re-price comes from the products, are not that superior at the corresponding prices from abroad, that any concurrence is forever impossible. In this case, it is of the government's duty, after having facilitated listening distribution of products by the easiest and the least expensive, to set a deadline for the protection. Today, in fact, the use of steam equalizes the conditions of production almost everywhere; transport prices tend to balance out across all country. When a national industry, favored by the rapprochement of the internal market, cannot support competition in this market with an foreign dust, it no longer deserves to be protected by a special favor; because his inferiority cannot more than from the incapacity or laziness of directors of this industry, and the State must not bonuses for laziness and incapacity. Likewise, from this only one industrial establishment in France, a mine, a metallurgical factory would produce the coal or iron as cheap as Belgium, I would conclude that the protection granted to coal and iron nationals is abusive, and that it only encourages the laziness of producers. The duty of the State, again once, is to provide all industries with

QUESTION OF CUSTOMS. 67

This duty fulfilled, he is discharged towards the entrepreneurs national. If these entrepreneurs are not enough skilled, let them bring people from abroad more skillful than them; but that other industries natural, such as the agricultural industry and the industrial wine industry that supports itself, is not not obliged to pay for too long from their purse, education of forge masters and iron makers fabrics.

One of the reasons which contributed the most to making generally adopt the customs system, it is that the tax on entry of foreign goods is for the administration the easiest way to make money. Also it is the favorite process of Barbarian states. There are many learned economists who are not yet fully convinced that it is the consumer, that is to say the one who buys, who pays definitively this customs tax, originally levied on the foreign trader.

68, OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

The Chamber of Deputies, dedicated to the cause of the great industrial, which requires the maintenance of protective tariffs or prohibitive, will never dare to undermine the financial system that governs France today.

4|uestiou cattle.

Let us apply our principles to the question of livestock.

If the protection system applied since 1822 to livestock production in France, had brought happy fruits, if the price of meat had decreased clouded, if the well-being of the population above all had increased, I could adopt the opinion of agronomists who consider maintaining the right of fifty-five francs per head of foreign cattle, like a essential conditions for the prosperity of our agriculture. But experience has spoken on this system. I see that the indirect bonus has encouraged the inertia of our breeders; that the rental price of pastures has increased, without the benefit of the tenants silences have increased; and I don't see any profit yet than for capital. The worker did not see his con- Although the situation has improved, that of the consumer has gotten worse. The Journal des Débats itself admits that the nine tenths of the inhabitants of France fast from meat know more to condemn the inhumane system which reserves the national market for our breeders. I have already explained elsewhere than financial legislation of 1822 had aimed to lend support to the rebûweavers of the old regime. If we want to destroy privileges, we must start by reforming the laws on which these privileges are based.

QUESTION OF CATTLE. 69

The legislation of 1822 sought to free from all taxes the land of the big owner. To give him back her former immunity, she said to this great pro-prayer: "Produce oxen, and I will pay you for this product a premium which will equal at least, if it does not surpass it, the figure of Timput land only you would have paid to the State. The money I'll take from you in the left pocket, I will put it back in your pocket right, and the country and the rooms will only see fire. » Which makes the cattle breeder find himself today placed in a privileged position, superbe, and to which he seems to care a lot; because it is a very pleasant thing, certainly, to not pay tax, and the cattle breeder does not pay tax, I say again. However, it has in no way been proven to me that a financial measure is fair, because it arranges perfectly some great owners of what-few departments of France. I even admire, with Mr. Frédéric Bastiat and the other leaguers, that the wine-growing population of France which amounts to seven thousand lions of individuals, did not demand more energetically than it has done so far against tyranny and contradictions of a law which superimposes the land when she produces grapes which disappoint her when we don't don't cultivate it and let it produce Vherhe. – Absurd, extremely absurd, that's the note we need include in the margins of all our finance laws.

There is here, moreover, a preliminary question which

70 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

prime, in my opinion, this question of livestock I want talk about the excessive fragmentation of property into France. I want someone to tell me if, a priori, this mor-that exaggerated does not oppose the production of livestock, regardless of other unfavorable chances responsible that he brings after him for the producer, a never fight with advantage against the German breeder magne and switzerland; and I ask if from then on the protection system, in force today, does not does not pursue a goal that is absolutely impossible to reach. We can indeed see that if this impossibility was obvious to everyone, as she is for me, the question would change completely from the front, and that the only reason which maintains the system, would immediately lose its value.

Then, did the government and the legislator did everything that had to be done to place the product native tor in the best possible conditions of production? Has the government formed the agricultural credit, to drop to 4 and 5 per 100 the interest on the money that the tenant breeder pays 12 and 15? Did he reform the mortgage system which condemns the agricultural worker to usury? Did he do insert into a rural code a clause which guarantees the legitimate rights of the farmer against the demands of the greed of the owner, so that all the improvements introduced into the culture by the work and talent, do not benefit exclusively the idle capital? Did he reform this abominable tax salt which charges fifty cents per kilogram a product whose cost price does not amount to

QUESTION OF CATTLE. 71

two cents, an essential product for the student of cattle? Let us first carry out these reforms, let me make a good law on irrigation which allows to use the waters to create rich pastures of our rivers and our rivers that we leave flow towards the sea without taking advantage of it \ and then after, if it is demonstrated to me that the French breeder cannot hold on the French markets against the breeder of Württemberg or Baden, I will vote to maintain of protection, unless the premium figure is reduced current. Until then, I argue that this premium-of-right customs is exorbitant, that the misery of the people condemns it, and it is important to reduce it immediately quickly, because the people who fast do not have the time to wait. And since the measure does not prejudge would say that to the big owner, the reduction of price of meat should only lead to that of the price of the rent of the pastures, I am of the opinion that it is not this is a consideration of fairly high importance for that we take it into account, and that we renounce for her to the conclusion of commercial alliance treaties its ministers and the chambers do not dare to adopt.

I further affirm that the consumer, whose interest is the first to consider in this question,

' M. (le Gasparin, in his Cours d'agriculture, estimates at four hundred million the annual product that our agriculture could obtain from the intelligent use of the waters of our rivers, following the example of the Lombardy. But the way once again to achieve improvement any with a national assembly whose most prominent speakers eminent people, Mr. Belhmont among others, are determined to reject any measure favorable to the people, under the pretext that it can become a instrument of corruption in the hands of power.

72 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

cannot remain liable indefinitely for defects rural legislation, imperfections in the code and of the negligence of those in power. That if, moreover, it is necessary absolutely a bonus to these big owners of berbags, which catch up by the premium granted to their produce the tax they pay on their land, well! that we pay them a direct production bonus, in replacement of the indirect premium for the entry fee.
At least in this way, viable industries do not will be more forced to vegetate or perish for the longest great prosperity of unviable industries, and all taxpayers will bear their share of the burden. I know well that the worker will hardly benefit from the reduction tion of the price of meat. I know well that the minimum salary is a fatal level which regulates the condition of all workers, under the law of anarchist competition chic, the price of the worker's day being fixed by that of basic necessities, such as bread and meat. I still know that the worker tra-will be worth more, when the price of meat butchery will drop, and he will hardly have more ways to buy meat than today. But the reduction of the entry duty on foreign livestock, on especially lean livestock, will at least benefit agriculture French culture, in the sense that it will increase the figure of livestock existence and the mass of fertilizers.
In fact, the small farmer in the eastern provinces will have great ease in acquiring the working animals of Baden, Switzerland and Savoy, to fatten them in the winter in the stable, and to consume on site its roots and its vegetables that the fragmented culture pro-said with advantage. 11 v would also have to limit the

QUESTION OF CATTLE. 73

grant rights on meat in the cities, and to supoverpower the monopoly and the coalitions of butchers capitalists. But the police alone can now today to thwart the maneuvers of these gentlemen. It does not it's just about wanting; no one wants to be unhappy ment than those who cannot.

I am led to believe that if the laziness of the breeders French large landowners, had not been since twenty years maintained by this exorbitant bonus of fifty-five francs, struck on foreign livestock, I am inclined, I say, to believe that large property, formal notice to do its utmost to meet the challenge cit of the protection premium, would soon force the hand to the administration, for tax reduction salt, a substance which must play the leading role in the cattle breeding industry. However, I hold that, for this sole reason, to rally the big owners to them silence, the supporters of the reduction of the tax on the salt should all support the gradual abolition of the tax on foreign livestock, the exaggerated figure of which allows our breeders to fall asleep in their laziness and in their safety.

The question of foreign livestock being linked to the question general customs and that of hy-pothecarian, like all questions relating to agricultural industry, presents problems that are too complex to be resolved before twenty years by our deputies, who however pay five hundred francs contribution land. A mortgage reform will have no chance of success in the elective chamber, only when the eledemocratic and monarchical will dominate there, that is-that is to say when the eligibility certificate has been abolished and read OF FINANCIAL FEODALITY.

that the ability, dedication and services rendered, will be titles as brilliant as patrimonial wealth nun to represent the country.

But who prevents the rooms from reducing until then successively and from year to year the livestock tax foreigner, the retention of which will obstruct the conclusion of any commercial alliance treaty between France, Germany and Switzerland? Which prevents replacement the indirect prohibition premium through the direct premium to production? Which prevents us from halving the rights on lean livestock, the fattening of which can benefit our farmers and increase the mass and his prohibition colleagues, all-powerful in the chambers and in the general councils; Mr. Bugaud, who threatens to draw his large sabre, all the times we talk to him about Rhine oxen.

^kill of salt.

There is not one reason, just one, to motivate o-gods salt tax, tax which charges fifty cents times the kilogram a commodity that nature lious has given for free. I can't find any other language in my language expression than that of madness to characterize the obstinacy nation with which the finance ministers persist try their old ideas of taxation on this question salt. These are questions of this nature, the French government forgets it, which generates the re-developments. I don't know any political nonsense that-able to move the minds of the populations at the same time thank you for that one. I do not want to discuss this law of salt, which is not debatable. The Chamber of Deputies has also adopted the principle of reduction, and perhaps be it will soon adopt that of suppression. But the monopoly on sales and manufacturing salt belongs in part to the Jewish king Rothschild j the ministry will never dare to ask for its abolition.

GRANTS. THE

Grants.

There is another financial question that comes up often. wind in the complaints of the populations and in the petitions to the chambers, in the wishes expressed by the assemblies electoral wheat of the country; it is that of grants.

The ability of cities to impose themselves extraordinarily nary for the needs of edility and luxury, is become, for workers, a crushing burden.

The government, guided by a narrow fiscal spirit, which no one can ignore here, is favorable to this municipal tax system, because it collects the tenth of this tax.

The tax of granting is unfair in its means, vexing tory and expensive in its perception processes. The allocation of one tenth of the grant income to the State constitutes a flagrant inequity: I will demonstrate it further away.

The grant affecting almost exclusively foodstuffs of primary necessity, wine, drinks, meat, it follows that it is the winegrower, the breeder and the workmen who pay almost all of it. The granting of Paris which strikes the entrance to a piece of wine with a right of forty-five francs, already prohibits entry into the capital of all mediocre wines. Onne cannot pay forty-five francs in duty for a piece of wine which is only worth twenty francs. However, it is precisely these wines that the poor would use household and the poor urban craftsman. Exaggeration of the grant kills in one fell swoop the small-scale industry and the well-being of the small industrialist. The grant does not only lightly strikes the rich; forty-five francs of duty for a piece of wine worth four one hundred and fifty francs, the usual price of wine that consumes the rich, do not impose an exorbitant tax.

*^?%

76 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

The way to create income in large cities extraordinary measures should consist exclusively of to increase the tax on real estate properties in the city. The owner of the superimposed house will always know how to distribute the tax he is responsible for paying, between its various tenants. By this means, the contraindication is at least taxed in proportion to its fortune. The various classifications of rents have been always considered as a natural basis of taxation.

When the principles of association and guarantee have been made some progress in the minds, we will quickly recognize in the commune, bundle of all the individual interests of the locality, the right to undertake the distribution of products on its own produced between its inhabitants, that is to say to make the commerce. So the benefits that the municipality will realize on this industry, instead of entering the coffers of a few speculators like today, served will have to settle public expenditure, expenditure of general interest, those which are paid today on the drink and fuel of the poor. Each will then contribute to the expenses of the municipality, in proportion of its wealth, that is to say of its consumption. And luxury spending will leave less regret to the rich, when they know that this is the country where they live, the municipality they have chosen to re-residence who will benefit from their largesse. The first one condition for the generalization of well-being for the people, it is that the commune is invested with the functions commercial operations. This reform has already been carried out in some municipalities of Rhenish Prussia; She produced universal ease, morality, con-rope. She chased from these happy localities the prostitution, the bank and chicanery, three scourges that we is always sure to meet mated.

Today that trade is free, that is to say say that the business offers no guarantee to the producer nor to the consumer, the grant, which expels from some cities cheap wines, gave birth to support to the wine manufacturing industry of all piece, wines in which there is not a single drop of grape juice. After having ruined the winegrower, by closing the market of all cities to it a little important from the interior, the grant ended up delivering the health of the working class of the cities to the exploitation licensed poisoners. So much so that it is the city of Rouen, the capital of a province where the sun does not does not ripen the grapes, which has become the most large center for the production of Bordeaux wines, Champagne, the Hermitage, etc.; and, deplorably, he has been proven ([that the administration had lent its courses on CCS sophistication of foodstuffs and these frauds eonimercialps, to increase the number of its revenues!

?§ OF FINANCIAL FEODALITY.

While in the United States and elsewhere the control of the administration is a guarantee of security for the purchaser of any commodity, in France on support from the administration is a guarantee of impunity for fraudsters and poisoners. The falwine makers from the city of Rouen declared that the administration of indirect contributions was half in the profits of their operations, and the administrator did not take issue with the revelations from his accomplices. The fraudsters would have, so to speak, the right to reject on provocations of the administration their odious crooks. But how is it that a head of administration does not deliver not bring guilty employees to court? How of public health, do not drive away from their curule chairs ministers who tolerate such pre-variations...? Ah! the enemies of power have no problem game here, I recognize it, to speak of the danger of extending the attributions of the administration!

If this administration, which allows itself to be led into shameful acts in the spirit of taxation, included her duties, she would immediately renounce this al-rental of the tenth that it receives from the income cities, not being a just thing than the city of Lille which imposes the food of its inhabitants for enlightenment reing its streets, gives a share of this tax to the State, to build barracks in Algeria or forts around from Paris.

We have said everything, for forty years, against the re-system of granting which re-established from town to village, in the same department, the internal customs barriers earlier than the revolution of 89 had, it was said, lees. The inquisitorial process of the exercise is a shame for a people who call themselves free. This process of perception which popularizes the principles of fraud, fraud and smuggling, absorbs more than a quarter of the tax income.

GRANTS. 79

Financial legislation is withered when it maintains in its institutions a measure like
The grant:

Which absorbs a quarter of the revenue in unproductive costs came from the tax;

Which infringes on individual freedom;

Which ruins the agricultural producer;

Who poisons the city worker;

Who hits the poor ten times harder than the rich;

Which breeds fraud and dishonors the administration.
tion.

But the granting, as I have just said, strikes mainly the poor and respects the hotel and enjoys meetings of the rich.

So the current chamber will not reform the grant, and many people who are still young will be able to die, who will not have the consolation of crying out like Vol-to hush up :

And my last glances saw the clerks fleeing.

I never understood the people of Paris doing revolutions in three days, and leaving the grant barriers.

y0 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

SUMMARY.

I have just drawn up a quick overview of the expectations that the people have the right to base on the solution of main financial issues of the time.

However, the question is whether this state of affairs can last. I do not think so.

Of what all the benefits of national labor aiTluenl to the capital, because all the charges re-fall on the worker, here in fact is another consequence will follow. it's the law of nature who wants the water to go to the river and the small scholarships for the big ones. This result is already close to me-product. All major industries are already monopolized, sugars, irons, crystals, soaps, sulfurs, coals, couriers, canals, railways; those who are not are going to be. Before twenty years, the small business of Paris will be reduced to closing shop, the factory will have absorbed the workshop, the bazaar the shop; Before twenty years, the merchant in detail, support of the government currently, will enlist among his enemies.

Now, when the Jews are in possession of all the monopolies, it will be necessary that the people who have eyes finally uses it to see, and then it will be that question :

Monopoly for monopoly, which is better monopoly of the Jews, from which all the profits go into the Jewish coffers to the great detriment of the people who works and suffers, or from the monopoly of the State, of which all the profits go into the treasury, to spread from there among the people, and grant to each worker the legitimate remuneration of his labor vail.

Before discussing this thesis, let us sketch the picture of the current situation, and let's compare the budget of Jews that everyone respects, with that of the State that everyone attacks. I want to show the people what he gained in freedoms and well-being for both revolutions that passed through his body, and what are his privileges today.

As the Gospel said that the tree was judged by its fruits, we will be able to judge the current social order according to his results.

11

sa OF FLNANCIAL FEUDALITY.

CHAPTER IV.

State budget. “

The normal state expenditure budget amounts to a billion about 1,000,000,000

Crazy spending like that fortifications, of Algeria, carry, in the present year 1846, this sum to fifteen hundred million, but madness cannot be the normal state chambers and government.

On this billion, the interest on the debt national, whose capital is five billion, takes a sum of two hundred and fifty million. . . . 250,000,000

The different ministries, for payment of public services, absorb the rest, 750,000,000

The unproductive ministry of war, on this sum alone absorbs about a third of the budget.

It is on this sum of one billion that are settled thirty-eight thousand priests, all of whom are paid state employees, how do our three hundred thousand live soldiers, their officers and their leaders, that the roads are maintained, old services paid for, etc.

STATE BUDGET. 83

We can say that there are improvements name- to bring into the organization of public services blics; that there are too many agents, too much paperwork, that we could with advantage remove a large number of unnecessary jobs. But to maintain that there is savings to be made on the processing of these em- ployés is a supremely absurd thing. It is necessary by much, on the contrary, that the servants of the churches, magistrates, officers, the army, all public functions, in a word, are sufficient ly remunerated. When the people have returned to their common sense, he will understand that one of the first causes of his oppression, will have been to have abandoned the priest, magistrate, public official, professional spanker, men who only had the talent to them, for having expelled these men from the representation national, and to have thus made this representation a monopoly for metallic wealth. So the re* reduction in the salary of public officials will be as unpopular as it is popular today. Because workers will know from experience that the re- indefinite reduction of the salary of intelligence or public service that they had requested in their days of vertigo, only precipitated the enslavement- shift from labor to capital, leading to the reduction indefinite salary of the arms. When the people have been brought back to reason, instead of reducing salaries ments of the servants of the State, it will take from the economy mie of illicit services of anarchic commerce that he will no longer pay enough to remunerate generously- public services.

Let us therefore admit that there is no significant saving about FINANCIAL REODALITY.

aunt to be carried out on the public services budget. He there is indeed the entire war budget to be used, by employing the army for public works, to co-gnes, the damming of rivers and streams, the creation of a huge irrigation system. But these transformations which would be for Sullys or Colberts easy and immediate improvements—achievable, are still utopias for lazy ministers. So that the army understands its new mission which is no longer to destroy, but to create, we must wait until these old soldiers from another century who are still at its head are no more.

This budget of one billion which must be reduced by interest on the national debt, and reduced to seven hundred fifty million, distributed over the mass of the population French nation, which is thirty-five million inhabitants, gives an average tax of twenty-two francs per head.

BDDGET OF THE JEWS 85

CHAPTER V.

Budget of the jnlfs.

According to Mr. Michel Chevalier, professor of economics politics at the Collège de France, and many other sa— Before economists, we cannot evaluate less than two billion the budget that usury takes from the total quality of social transactions*. . . 2,000,000,000

< Mr. Michel Chevalier estimates the budget for wear. He writes [Letters on North America, t. II, p. 258):

"The average rate of money in all transactions of any nature and of all orders which operate in France, is at least fifteen or TWENTY percent, twenty-five perhaps.... Total production from France is estimated at nine billion; which assumes a mass of transactions ten to twelve times perhaps more considerable. The sum The annual cost of commercial bills alone is around twenty billion. In admitting an average maturity of four months and a mass of transactions of eighty billion, a saving of 2 in 400 per year would represent five hundred and forty million. »

We will agree that Mr. Michel Chevalier is very modest in attempt a reduction of 2 percent per year on an average interest of 15 to 20 percent. We would be more demanding on our behalf, and we do not see why it would be impossible to reduce by half, that is to say at 10 per 100, this interest of 20. Now, according to the figures of Mr. Michel Chevalier, this reduction of 10 percent or 10 percent would reduce the trade tax by a sum of two billion seven

According to figures from Mr. Michel Chevalier, professor at Sorbonne, the budget taken by usury on transactions of all kinds which take place in France, would amount to something like three to four billion LiARDS. I took half of that figure.

86 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

We do not evaluate at less than one billion tax that protection granted to the big industry called national, levy on consumption owner, by making him pay for the ob-consumer jets, metals and fuels, one third in addition to their true value 1,000,000,000

Territorial mortgage tax rial of fifteen billion would give at the legal rate a figure of seven hundred fifty million; but this capital of fifteen billion must be reduced of at least three billion for the amount of mortgages repaid seated and not written off. Would remain one tax of 600,000,000

Notary tax for renewal velment of hypothesized bonds caires, marriage contract costs, inheritances, shares, etc. 60,000,000?

Tax of eight to ten thousand charges of solicitors, bailiffs, clerks, ayocats at the Court of Cassation, lawyers, and other unnecessary intermediaries. . 60,000,000?

Profits of banks and commerce parasitic merchandise, canals and paths of iron, stockbrokers hundred of millions?

Losses resulting from bankruptcies, unemployment images of industry, commercial crises provoked cials, agiotage. . . one hundred*demillions.^

Interest on the national debt that it

state to take it into account of the capitalists, since it is they who receive these interests^ 250,000,000

We understand that it is impossible to have figures here precise, but the most moderate evaluations do not bear no less than the first glance at figures frightening this tribute that capital takes from the river national chess in so many diverse forms. It's not more than a single billion is four to five thousand billions, maybe more, that we have to talk about everything a-edge.

If the state budget includes the individual capitation due at twenty-two francs, the budget of capital equals it raise more than a hundred francs!

Also the work of women and children, who for-already lies more than half of the population, is it insufficient almost everywhere to support them.

Also the virile population considers work, due to insufficient wages, such as condemnation of fate!

And this disgust for work produces the splitters of the social order, which in turn require the institution judges, gendarmes, armies, the executioner, which means that, in good arithmetic, most of the repression expenses and even those of charity public, should be reported on the budget of the capital, since it is the absorption of all the benefits social services by capital, which generates the misery of worker, source of all crimes and all revolutions.

Then the state budget at least gives the con-

88 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY-

taxable the roads on which it travels, and the municipalities and palaces, and primary education, and higher education in all faculties. It's the state budget which rewards all great talents, which rewards all noble actions, which consecrate monuments to our national glories, which decorate the cities of wonders of the arts, which maintains the vessels intended to protect our commerce, and the armies intended to protect the soil of the homeland. Of-tell these men of the people who frequent the

are admitted free of charge to listen to the lessons of the most famous professors of Europe; ask them if they want that we suppress these grandiose liberalities of the State, to reduce the cost of every taxpayer, and if they find that these scholars speakers, who cost their listeners nothing, are too dearly paid!

Thus, the budget of usury and parasitism, the budget of the Jews, strikes national work with a weight four times heavier than the state budget, and the neither the people nor the press say a word against the parasites! And these people, who did not produce for a cent in their lives and who are content to discount the travail of others, withdraw from trade with fabulous fortunes, make the laws, command the work, and the people do not dare to challenge the legitimacy of these fortunes; and the people, insulted by the press and by economists, who deny him the right to live, keeps all his curses for his government!

And now let's take a look at the situation,

JEWS' BUDGET. 8^

to appreciate the benefits that the munificence of capital paid into the country, in recognition of this tribute of five to six billion that the country pays annually nually in his safes.

90 OF FINANCIAL FEODALITY.

CHAPTER VL

Situation"

It would take just two or three facts to paint the picture. actual society.

Work is man's natural destiny. Outside of work, there is neither health nor wealth, nor morality, nor happiness. – However, the company has made work something so repugnant, so odious, that legislators have not found any torture more terrible after the guillotine, than con-philanthropy, houses have been established work for the poor, but the unfortunate loves even better to die of hunger and cold on the way public, than to ask for asylum at the loock-house.... which proves the native perversity of man, say the moralists of England and the lords who given the trouble of being born, to enjoy a few thousand lions of income! So much for the agreement of this company with the will of God who had made the work attractive!

Every year, Catholic priests come out of churches where they are free to leave, to bless the fields and call on the work of the cultivator the blessings from heaven.

And if the prayers of the Church are answered, it happens often the farmer and the winegrower groan.

SWEATING. 01

The abundance of the creator's gifts generates something times misery! So much for the wisdom that presided over the organization of this society!

When the people make a revolution, their mandates silencers hasten to grant him the circumstances mitigating effects as if this were the gift that should flatter the most. The number of crimes increases four times faster than that of births. From 1830 to 1845, the in-anticide had won 71 percent. So much for the public morality!

It has been published in recent years a few quite informative documents on the situation.

Mr. Gisquet, prefect of police of Paris, who had to get your information from good sources, wrote that there was in Paris alone, in this brilliant ca-capital of civilization, meeting place for all intellectuals elite leagues, forty thousand individuals in state permanent revolt against society, forty thousand individuals who did not know in the morning where they would have dinner in the evening, and out of these forty thousand scissioners, six hundred at least who would murder you for a coin ten francs, if they found you in their beauty. A questions that the provincials address 1 3 more willingly to Parisians, aims to know how many times the latter were murdered in their life. I had to give up gille fishing in the Seine intramural, because one evening as we ran hoping for barbels and bream, we brought back a fresh corpse, the corpse of an individual that we had committed suicide the same evening or the day before. We know that the police grants a bonus of fifteen francs to those who made similar discoveries. Our boss us learned that he had been quite happy that year, that he had been lucky; but while welcoming his good fortune, he confided to us that his canton was far from being worth those of La Villette and the Temple.

92 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

We also have the Gazette des Tribunaux which gives in to the daily exhibition of scams, adultery, rape and murder. The first fi- The length of the mine was so rich, and the French public enamored with such ardor for reading the stories of the Gazette des Tribunaux, which he had to form around from her five to six newspapers of the same kind and that the mother sheet had to enlarge its format excessively.

We judge Roman society harshly, according to the satires of Juvenal and some chapters of Suétone; but the satires of Juvenal and the works of Suetonius do not contain the thousandth part of infamies that the legal newspapers spread every day ciaries to the rants of advertising. What will they say about us posterity who will judge us according to the annals of the time ?

There is still the Mysteries of Paris by M. Eugène Sue, one of the noblest writings of this time, a series of moving paintings, including all the main characters The sounds were cast on the spot, where it is said rich, that he must devote himself to the salvation of his brothers, if he does not want to experience the fate of the bad rich man.

We can still fruitfully read the work of Parent-Duchâtelet on prostitution, although the character of the prostitution of Paris does not approach for the atrocity of that of prostitution in London. The rape of children aged ten to twelve are charged in London; THE price ranges from one hundred francs to one hundred louis. We do not matter less than forty thousand prostitutes in the capital of Puritan Albion.

SITUATION. 93

on the abuse of the use of arsenic in preparations culinary, it seems proven that slow parricide, the parricide of all hours, which is committed in causing people to die of cold, hunger and bad treatment tements a father who has transferred his property to his children in return for a life annuity and which takes too long to laugh; it seems, I say, that this crime is one of the most common in today's society; so common that the idea even lost its horrible sound, and it is not rare to hear a good son who jokes about long-grief of a father: he will not die unless he is killed. THE men who are bought by women from behind before a notary, commonly also say that they marry feels a woman for her hopes. Hopes! THE word is admitted in the best society. The woman knows in advance that it is not the possession of his person that we had in mind when marrying her, but the hope of her prompt end of its authors. I understand the rep-gnance of all the strong minds of the time to do bless their unions by the ministers of religion, and I app-proves their modesty.

The picture of marital happiness is also touching. gal of the time! The last official publication brought to two or three thousand, I believe, the number of separations of bodies or property pronounced in the year born ! The crime of poisoning on the person of husbands has become so common in recent years, that the jurors tolerate it, and that the judicial journals

94 OF FINANCIAL FEODALITY,

don't want it anymore. I don't know much about assize courts, effect, which does not, year after year, have its poisoning marital to be judged; which does not prevent moralists to maintain that marriage is the basis of current society tural and the home of all virtues. Poor society!

Finally, to completely educate ourselves on the state of French company, we actually have documents officials, in addition to the criminal statistics of Mr. the guard seals, another periodic confession of M. le mi-nister from the inside. The Minister of the Interior is coming declare every year from the podium that he needs everything prize of ONE MILLION, to protect the security of the country against evil passions! One million funds secret police, oh misery! The destinies of France of Louis XIV and Napoleon, depending on this vote of a million, of a million that we use to pay off writers of Judah, to insult the glories of the

And do you now want to know the religion of this fallen nation? Listen to the impudent profession of faith of the missionaries of mercantilism. This profanatical and eloquent profession of faith is taken from the prospectus of the VÉpoque newspaper:

"That's not how things happen in England, that classic land of warning, where only one newspaper, the Times produces annually fifteen hundred thousand francs per advertisement. – Featured army of brokers roams the city, everyone is visited, everyone is admitted free to the warm and eloquent demonstrations of the missionaries of the announcement. The indifference is warmed, the ungodly and the unbeliever are warded off ^ in the name of their own interest^ to open the yeuoo^ of this to face the obvious, not to delay any longer take a seat at the great advertising banquet!!! »

SITUATION. $9

The Conservative Party enthusiastically subscribed at the founding of the Epoch! L'Époque is the newspaper official of the Conservatives-Bounds; the Epoch has for gerant a Jew. ^

The Epoch needed, to make announcements, to give herself twenty thousand subscribers, when she has none had only eleven thousand. She found a former minister and peers of France and millionaires redrawn to certify the figures as sincere and true lying. The former minister and the millionaires withdrawn are currently being brought before the criminals under the charge of complicity in men-dream !

Let us not agitate the mud of this lake any longer dirt from which the steam suffocates. I return for further information to the revelations of the eloquent blicists, who before me called the attention of governments on the state of current society tuelle.

I'm not saying either that it's the invasion of the feudal industrial dality which caused all these calamities alone, like the desert wind that drags on the imperfection of laws is reflected in all countries by suffering of populations and crimes, and no people, until now, have enjoyed perfect legislation. But I say:

The invasion of industrial feudalism, in putting into the hands of the parasites all the profits and all income from work, gave to the progress of the public misery increases tenfold in intensity. She pushes to The extension of the plague of pauperism with a powerful terrible speed; and misery degrades blade like the body. The god of the hungry does not command than revenge.

96 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

PRIVILEGES bare PLL'PLE. 97

CHAPTER SEEN.

Privileges of the people.

I want to take the common man now, from his birth to his death, to recapitulate the good hours of his existence and tell the truth about the deprivations leges which political revolutions provide. That I call on the people, it is the mass of workers, it is everything that lives on the salary of intelligence or arm ; it is the working class, in a word, for good distinguish it from the lazy class.

The birth of the people's child is welcomed in his family like a calamity. The first one word that is pronounced on one's cradle is a malediction. If the poor family does not unload on the State of its new burden, in which case there is two chances out of three that the unfortunate woman will create ture which did not ask to be born, perishes before its second year, this poor family will be forced to use the child from tender youth, and also as soon as his hand is strong enough to handle the eehe-calf or the reel, or to lead the cow to the pasture neighboring turance. If the child's fatal star made you born in the heart of a manufacturing town, there he is his youngest years attached to the service of a machine with iron lungs, and woe to him if he falls asleep, the whip of commercial nemesis is there for the pu-gleterre the child was poisoned with laudanum to free his mother from her importunities. It was necessary that in recent times the law, a law that is not enforced, "cute pas, intervened in the name of humanity to proportion the hours of work to the child's strength. Let the philanthropists tell me what this child is guilty, to be condemned so early to the torture of the penal colony, like the assassin and the forger whose condition is less harsh. The forced, of less, work in the open air; he is withdrawn in a closed room, in the middle of mechanical fumes phititics of sulfur, cotton, wool, when its delicate muscles and his chest would need so much to develop, movement and clean air. Com- is this organization so tender, would it resist this incessant cause of wasting and annoyance. Again, if the lessons of the priest or the teacher born from time to time to refresh his imagination still virgin, of the idea of a good God, of a God re-profitable for work in this life and in the next! But where to take the time for calechism, for school? A child's wages are so low and he was fed so long, this one, for nothing. You see that the poverty of the father and mother opposes the development development of the intelligence and the heart, as well as well as the development of the child's muscles. That Is it up to the abandoned poor to learn? The example, alas! of his channel companions and oral or practical teaching in the workshop where the young people of both sexes are often confused!

98 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

* An English statistic, published recently, states

PRIVILEGES OF THE PEOPLE. 99

And then, what use would this primary teaching serve him? mayor whose lying mouths have been around for so long advocated virtue!

If the nature of this child is ardent and impetuous, education will have no other effect than to spur more keenly his desires and appetites, without giving him the ways to satisfy them. This is philanic barbarism tropic and nothing other than education in this case.

lique, the development of his intelligence will not serve than to make him better understand his misery.

Education can only be the development of natural aptitudes of the child, his useful faculties. Education can only benefit the people under the conditions that the aptitude and native faculties of each individual, will find advanced employment in society taggy and certain. Now, since capital has monopolized all the benefits of work and all positions lucrative, since capital leaves no room for capacity, it follows that three-quarters of our schools are nothing other than riot factories third party. The supporters of obscurantism are still more logical and more human in their sad doctrines that our so-called liberals and our men of progress.

This is how the childhood of the proletarian passes, in the repugnant vales of the workshop or agricultural domesticity cole. At the age of twenty, the state service re-proclaims, and takes a tribute from his freedom and his life that out of every hundred inmates in the prisons of England there are forty who have never heard of Christ, and the same number who did not know not even the name of their beloved sovereign.

100 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

seven years old. He must go and keep the enjoyments and the properties of the rich, he, the unfortunate who has no nothing, and that he goes to conquer by his death, in this plagued land of Africa, ranks for its leaders. Instead of leaving him to cultivate the land, where he could actively contribute to the production of the river national chess, we send him to parade wherefyemew^ in industrial cities, where he will defend, if necessary, the counters of the financial aristocracy, and will exchange bullets with his slave brothers from Saint-Merry or Saint-Bonaventure. We allocate to him, in return for this tax that is levied on one's freedom and one's life, a salary of thirty-five centimes per day, on which thirty-five cents we keep thirty from him for his subsistence.

Back home, the liberated proletarian comes increase the number of these unfortunate workers who compete with each other to increase the share of the masters' profit, as if it were not enough already of having to endure competition from them.

scourge of fertility, privilege of indigence, extends on his meager pallet to pose to governments frightened the problem of Malthus.

Ah! if these false scientists who we call economists wanted to find solutions to their problems in the dosme of Christian charity, if they wanted study the diyine will in the works of God, the clouds of their problems so threatening and so dark would clear up very quickly, to let escape the eyes with all their lucid solutions.

For simple men who know how to read with their

PRIVILEGES OF THE PEOPLE. 101

heart in the book of nature, the solution of the pro-Malthus's fault is written everywhere. God says everywhere to its animated creatures of all kingdoms, to mammals and fish as well as flowers: that the fecundity of species is proportional to the chances of destruction that threaten these species.

God does not give the same fertility to the great races of quadrupeds which live on the flesh of animals evils, only to the races intended to serve them as pasture. The partridge multiplies more than the bird of prey, the herring than the whale.

The cow and the mare that are too well fed lose their milk and become sterile. Everyone knows that, except the economists who are paid for the know.

When the wild rosehip is transplanted into the rich flowerbeds of the gardens, its simple flower and without perfume soon transforms into a magnificent rose fique, endowed with the sweetest perfume and the brightest radiance, but this rose has become sterile. Its stamens, reproductive organs have dilated under the influence tluence of the richness of the soil, and have metamorphotos in dazzling petals, charm of Todorat and eyes.

All this means that the wealth of the constitution and the luxury of health are the real counterweights of fertility, and that there is no other remedy for exugap of the population that the generalization of well-being.

more painfully plethora disease? These precisely where the most terrible poverty reigns:

102 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Ireland, Sicily, England, Belgium, France, Silesia, Yurttemberg, where the fate of the workers is the most miserable, where the species is most threatened directly from hunger.

Give welfare to the people, once again, and the overflow of the population will no longer frighten you.
This is the solution to Malthus' problem!

But the remedy is too simple for economists, and then to protect the health of the people, it is appropriate would first be to wrest from commerce the right to adulterate foodstuffs, and the Journal des Débats and that Economists do not want to take away from the thanks to his noble privileges, let us bind him the four members there to use the ingenious comparison of a candidate from the Institute, Montbyon laureate. The Jot/rnaldes Débats yf Époque, and the Journal des Économistes, already consider as deranged brains, those who want governments to take care of donations provide what is necessary for the people.... what would it be, great God, if some minister as misguided as me, ventured so far as to speak of well-being!

But the English economists and their accomplices, the economists of France, prefer to shout to the people lation to stop; however, the population will not listen to them.
The insolent have gone so far as to ask the law – to in-deny any poor person the right to marry, as if the poor person needed permission from the municipality capital to take a wife. Do you hear them, infamous!... they dare to say that the proletarians, whose name had until now only represented an idea of reproduction duction and a figure, they dare to say that the proletarians are not even good for populating^ like the

PKIVILEGES OF THE PEOPLE. 103

pheasants and hares from the parks of their aristocracy; they want, in the interest of order, to take away from the worker poor the right of love and fatherhood that they leave to raw, and which God has given to us all in his genea-infinite pinkness!

in the past did not claim for their caste, as you other Turcarets, the privilege of marriage and paternity. And probably because their daughters had not no need for money like yours, to buy men before a notary, their puritanism too was less rigorous, and their tolerance more charismatic table for the weaknesses of the girl of the people, young and beautiful, who prefers to give herself rather than sell herself.

But I answer you, contemptuous criminals of the will of God, I answer you that if this earth, where I only see voids, was really too narrow to contain everyone; that if he society needed new human sacrifices, unholy dogma, the first portion of humanity to delete, it would be your spawn.... understand, your etiolated and rickety offspring. Yes, if there was someone too many on this earth, which I deny, this would be your emaciated, counterfeit and scrofulous them; your daughters who wouldn't even find lovers like the daughters of the people, if they didn't have gold to buy husbands, your pale and puny daughters who are forced to borrow from the sturdy girl of the fields milk from her udders to nourish and regenerate your bastardized race!

No, the population will not stop in front of your legislative measures, no more than the crime before the increase in the number of your gendarmes, because that this exuberance of the population is a fact virtual. If the Irish swarm in proportion to their misery and the iniquity of his executioners, it is God whoever wants it, so that the number of the oppressed grows healthy, always growing, they come to count themselves finally, and let the oppression cease. If our penitentiary tentiaries become clogged in proportion to the invasions capital, it is God who wants it, so that oppression of the weak and contempt for divine laws carry their punishment with them.

104 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Let's continue. I said earlier the fate of the man of the people, of the proletarian, father of a name good family. His needs have increased fivefold without his salary has increased; on the contrary, it had to decrease due to competition and new machines. One day, despite all his courage, he was forced to recognize the futility of his efforts to reach the

on the field of work, kept him away from the workshop for a week, and this short suspension of salary was enough to plunge him and his family into the most terrible distress; because the soldier of production doesn't have like the soldier of destruction, a hospital and a sufficient salary for cases of illness or of infirmity. Then sorrow and despair arose seized him. It was impossible for him to carry his looks at his family, without the future of his children brought lugubrious thoughts into his mind. // has cursed the fertility of his wife and the beauty of his daughter, and little by little he was tempted to move away from a spectacle painful. He asked for consolations and oblivion

PRIVILEGES OF THE PEOPLE, 105

(the future of drunkenness. Soon recovery and premature senility came, which made him claim as a grace to be admitted to the hospice. If this grace which is not granted to all the unfortunate was refused, he begged for the benefit of incarceration. Taken to prison, he soon learned that his wife, reduced by her abandonment to destitution the most absolute, made money from his daughter's youth, or that she has nobly sold herself, to alleviate his mother's terrible situation. Because it is yet one of the exclusive privileges of the people, and that his two revolutions did not delight him, to provide purer of his blood a food for the lust of the rich. Moralists and economists say that we must so be it,... that the daughter of the people must sacrifices himself to prostitution, to save the girl as it takes the brutality of men.

Such is the common life of the worker in large cities, like the miseries of the field worker. Early work in childhood, loss of freedom in youth, excessive work, poorly paid, all the physical and moral tortures in old age ripe, the prospect of the hospital for his old days: here are the privileges of this people who have broken so gloriously^ wears his irons twice in half a century!

The journal of slavery and Genevan bankers claims that these paintings are lies, and that in the bosom of the working class well-being is the rule, poverty the exception! The Journal of Debates demonstrates the same thesis by giving as proof a town in the South (Montpellier), where shoemakers go by car and wear black clothes with 7'ubans

10, OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

in the buttonhole... (on Saint-Crépin's Day). Alas! the plethora of prisons and that of crime statistics and the only figure of suicides in the cities industrial companies, protest sufficiently against this lying assertion of sated egoists. He doesn't miss what will ever be eloquent people like Mr. Guizot, scholars like M. Gay-Lussac, to demonstrate the perfect legitimacy of the abuses from which they experience.

There is somewhere in FlInstitut, in the chamber of peers j at the Admiralty, at the Conservatory, everywhere, a figure arranger named Baron Dupin, who will swear to you, whenever you wish, his great gods, that the anarchic chaos of this manufacturing industry which generates so much disorder, bankruptcies, miseries and uprisings, who will swear to you his great gods that this abominable chaos is the beautiful ideal of the organization of work and perfectibility. I have—ten times, to my misfortune, this assertion cheeky coming out of the mouth of the honorable in solemn occasions. The worst, alas!... is that these bold assertions, far from causing a hubbub universal denunciations , were welcomed most often by energetic testimonies of adhesion. This perfect philanthropist, who combines this lucrative function with ten others, with those of the owners' delegate slaves (twenty-five thousand francs salary), member of the royal council of public education (twelve thousand francs), member of the council of the Amiremoved, dismembered from all academies, functions paid, professor of political economy at Conservatory, where he gives lessons in contempt of wealth to workers; at a thousand francs per stamp; this phi-

PRIVILEGES OF THE PEOPLE. 107

lanlhrope which collects each year for itself a mass of emoluments which would provide ample living hundred families, publishes a volume or two every year white or black numbers, to prove that the distribution wealth has never been achieved with so much of equity than today. Sorry, Mr. Philanthropist, but I do not agree with you, and I find the con-milk that your high fortune gives your assertion a resounding denial. We said you started in the scientific career by building a frigate which has never been able to hold on to the water, and we have with the truth, which you brought into the building of your writings the same precision, the same happiness of calculation as in your shipbuilding. However, I learn, Mr. scholar, that a well-organized society nized does not allocate salaries of sixty thousand francs and more, with the titles of academician and hand in hand, with the engineer who misses his constructions, nor to the childish statistician who does not even understand the meaning of the numbers he uses.

There are still other privileges of which no one would know contest exclusive enjoyment from the people, as that of providing the entire contingent of this population who is born and dies in hospital.

General attention is keenly occupied today attacks of anarchic competition, of these adulteration of food and drinks which occurred raised in recent times to the height of industries legitimate, sponsored and encouraged by the tax authorities. All these frauds, all these poisonings strike almost exclusively on the people.

408 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

A third of the population of Paris died in Thhospice, but what a disease! He may not be the only one of these unfortunate people who die in the asylums of public charity, whose existence was cut short by the industry of licensed poisoners.

Anarchic competition, so dear to economies mists, does not limit itself to reducing the salary of the worker value below the minimum by its coalitions; it reduces it by half again through poor quality and the excessive price of the foodstuffs she sells to him; the concurrence poisons him with the task. It's still there, I, I said, one of the benefits for which he is indebted to his glorious revolutions. The monopoly of jurands and masteries oppressed the worker, but did not take him not poisoned.

Once I found myself passing through La Rochelle, I saw a gathering of women trying to act capture all public cars and take advantage of drivers prices double the ordinary prices for take them to Rochefort. Having informed myself of one of these women, the reasons for the gathering, I was told that a shipment of cheese from Hol-damaged moor was to be put up for sale in the latter the relationship which united these two things —, the haste-ment of the travelers and the spoiled cheese, my inter-speaker was kind enough to explain to me how he There was a lot to gain for the retail grocer. " This spoiled cheese, she said, they will give it to us sixty, seventy cents per kilogram, and we will sell it for two francs. — What do you mean?

— Hey! no doubt, in detail, to the people..."

PRIVILEGES OF THE PEOPLE. 100

This woman was right, there is no waste or damage.
laugh in detail, it's like in butcher shops where the fillet passes the bones.

Nothing too bad for the small consumer, retail waste point. Here's the moral of the place-tick: but the people only buy at retail.

This makes the poor worker pay twice more expensive than the rich certain commodities, such as wine, sugar, liqueurs, medicines, combustible. It is known in Paris that these are the drotour operators and grocers from poor neighborhoods, who make the quickest fortunes. The reason is simple :

In the Faubourg Saint-Germain, grocers, bakers, butchers, pharmacists, are made competition between them for the supply of large houses, all year round. To obtain preference on your competitors, you have to give the best and the most low prices, and be as accommodating as possible sible for cash inflows; the rich don't like let him be persecuted for settling scores. THE rich buys in bulk, and avoids all trickery false weight and retail sales. Parla meeting of these various circumstances, it happens that he pays everything what is served to him at the lowest prays; possible^ and that it is served everything in top quality. Here the benefits of druggist and grocer are limited by competition truthful emulative ence.

But the grocer from the Faubourg Saint-Marceau has the more frank ideas. He does not do wholesale sales, but, on each retail sale, he immediately realizes a usurious profit; he makes the proletarian pay one franc per half kilogram of spoiled cheese, or third quality sugar, when the sugar of first quality only costs eighty or eighty-twenty centimes to the patrician of the rue de Varennes. He also has for him the skill of the hand and the forgery weight, the lame balance, the paper, the rope, the oil middity which adds to the weight of hygrome-cudgels. Above all, he has the right to adulterate the drink or to make it from scratch, which is even more lucrative. The supplier of Faubourg Saint-Germain cannot afford so freely the use of these processes, his limbs are bound, like the horse of race of Mr. Louis Reybaud.

Who is fake quinine sulfate made for? –
For the people.

For who is this odious mixture of alcohol made?
and campêche which is brazenly sold in Paris under the name of Mâcon wine? – For the people.

The people not being rich enough to pay the granting rights, charitable science took pity on its poverty. The Egyptians had once forced the water of their river to intoxicate them: French science has re-new miracle with the water of the Seine, but with this difference however, that the water of the Nile did not make than to intoxicate and that of the Seine to poison. When the police have fun spreading it in the Seine, hundreds of hectoliters, vinico-chemical products of Rouen and Parisian industry, we will soon see floating on the surface of the river a large number of fish dead sounds; which explains the enormous number of these premature deaths from the hospitals of Paris, from which I leave it later.

I heard, with amazement, a famous professor

PRIVILEGES OF THE PEOPLE. 111

in chemistry from the Sorbonne, declare that he was at his knowledge that several hundreds of kilograms of strychnine in Paris. There strychnine is the alkaline base contained in this poi-violent sound called nut vomit. The scholar conjectured that this enormous quantity of poison, enormous if we consider the energy of the venerable principle neux, was entirely used to replace hops, as a bitter principle, in the making of this nasty beer that is sold to the people in all the public establishments. The sweet principle that we with glucose, potato sugar.

I observe here, in honor of this era commercial, that the discovery of alkaline bases plants took root in the world through a ceremonial process lebre who popularized the name of moroccan acetate phine, which for a moment almost replaced arsenic, as inheritance powder. I don't know why The popularity of morphine did not last. It seems that it can be recognized in the viscera with acid nitric. There is nothing more we can do today not everyone knows it.

Rectified prussic acid, another discovery chemical, has also been applied with some success with recipe sarcons.

Bakers, friends of science, having learned in chemistry classes, that copper sulfate had the property of making the worst ones rise pasta, one day had the excellent idea of substituting this economical yeast salt in the preparation of bread. One day, in the offices of a democratic newspaper, a famous agronomist who born to complain of having poisoned his son without want, with a copper sulfate brioche, purchased at the neighboring pastry chef!

412 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Another magnificent discovery of science for the people that the disinfectant property of chlorine! Spend the night at the Montfaucon mass grave where the snotty horses fall, and where the rotten fish and meats. There meets you- rez of friends of science who prepare the cuisine of people, using chlorinated water!

It is for the people that all these beauties are made applications of science. It is the people who serve almost exclusively subject to the experiences of friends of progress. It's at most if a few ladies nice air, a few misunderstood wives, arguing with him in favor of their husbands, have a monopoly on content summons of the poison.

The people must have great gratitude to the science that has not reduced the price by a cent of its food and fuel, but who has

and morphine acetate; who taught jobs ringers the art of adulterating flour, wine, beer, quinine sulfate, and which metamorphoses for it Montfaucon carrion in tasty fillets!

And to think that among all these scientists who say they have-seen the people, not a single one was found to to pose as the avenger of true science and the defender of the people, so formidable is the power of the em-licensed poisoners: Mr. Arago, Mr. Gay-Lussac, >1. Dumas, Mr. Laurent, how is it that this

I^KIVILAGE OF THE PELTlt. 113 glory has not tempted you? Don't you know that genius requires? *

Privilege of being born in Thhospice and dying there pilal; privilege to work as long as he has strength to enrich the idle; privilege of exclusive feeding-there is prostitution, the army, the penal colony; privilege of adulterated drinks, rotten meat and bread false weight; privilege of providing all agitators the corpses which serve as a stepping stone to their ambition.... These are the conquests of the people! ! !

But what a terrible fate these people suffered before 89, that his flatterers are not ashamed to congratulate him quote from his fate today?

Ah, it was you, philosophers and bourgeois, no middle-class titles, who endured with impaheld the yoke of the nobility, and who persuaded people that he suffered like you. And today that you hold the power, that you have uncovered your commoner, you no longer feel his misery, you say that he is happy You lied about it.

However, God, who is just, could not want to give bring eternity to this society that is rotten at the heart, and whose prison literature is the purest expression, society that makes money the end of all things and who pivots on the executioner!

For quite a long time the Pharisees of the century have pro-

'Let us do justice to true science and sincere philanthropy.
Two writers, two learned friends of the people, MM. Jules Garnier and Harel, have made generous efforts to call the attention of the country and of authority over commercial fraud. Read and meditate on the book take (]that all our food, that all our drinks are mixed of poisonous substances, thanks to progress in chemistry.

he 8

114 OF THE. FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

proclaimed the suzerainty of gold; long enough they have assimilated man to zero, granting him no value than according to that of the figures which accompany 1. They have caused equity to disappear from the law, like charity of the human heart. They forced the judge to sentence the unfortunate person deprived of work to prison who reaches out to live. They taught the son to curse the longevity of the father, and to the brother to consider the brother as the protector of his property. Pharisees! your society boasted when it personified itself in the ignoble type of Robert-Macaire! The type of your company, it's Gain, not Gain that kills its brother, but the one who leaves him to die at his door poverty and hunger!

But the tide of popular vengeance rises and constantly rises with iniquity and threatens to burst its dike, and it is easy to predict the time of the catastrophe stanza. Already the impure oracle of the reigning religion, the corypheus of the thurifers of the golden calf shouted: The Barbarians are at our gates Yes, you are right, the Barbarians are at your gates..., and when God de-chain the Barbarians on a world too old, it is, as Salvian says, that the infamies of this world have filled the measure and it is time to regenerate it.

Rich :

I know so much misery in the fields and in the cities, may your selfishness pass to me and may your tranquility pass to me makes it tremble on you. Rich, I'm sure, if you had calculated like us how much private tions and labors consists of the current existence of proletarian, you would not dare to congratulate yourself in your

PRIVILEGES OF THE PEOPLE. 115

meetings of the ever-increasing prosperity of the people ; because you would understand that this people who suffers cannot consider the pompous affirmation of or an insulting irony.

Rich :

When, by these hot suns which set fire to the anger of the people and sink the thrones, your etiolated women drive their cars on our boulevards reckless behavior; when the wheel of their chariots r-pides knocks down the child or the old man on the pavement, or only springs from the clothes of the humble craftsman without the mud of our streams – these simple accidents^ this involuntary provocation, is enough to make me running through the limbs a shiver of terror. As the child dazzled by the lightning and who waits anxiously the rumblings of lightning, so I listen to the coming rumblings of riot; and the disorder of my arteries tablets illusioning my senses, brings to my ear the all too familiar ringing of the bell towers calling the populations to revolt; I hear the cries of the insurgents rushing to pillage and the whistling waves of the fire that devours your palaces, and I tremble over you... I tremble, because I do not see rush to your aid all your former defenders; there are so many in the number of whom the horror for the orgies of demagogic freedom have diminished everything their disgust for the saturnalia of the corruption of day !

Rich :

Tremble, because wealth obliges; because none of you is innocent of the miseries that weigh

116 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

over these masses whose guardianship God had entrusted to you, and that you exploited, instead of emancipating them.
Tremble; God forgives corporate executioners cursed.

Now if the helpless voice of the defender experienced of the cause of the order does not arrive until your selfishness, rich, listen to the eloquent voice and prophetic message from the man of God, threatening your society from the top of the holy pulpit:

“Think then, charitable souls, think then, happy in the flood, think about it yourselves, dispensers of goodness health and charity, I tell you, because I see it, that if you don't patronize the working classes like you stretch and widen the already yawning abyss of pauperism. YOU even if you throw in the charity money and the gold coins of charity, the abyss will always widen, and, believe my experience, you will never fill it!

•< This chasm has dug at the bottom of the valley of tears, in regions where the happy do not go. Me, son of people, who emerged providentially from their crowds, I gave them preserved enough sympathies to dare to descend into this abyss. What did I see, great God! out of a thousand, barely one man can feed his family there; out of a thousand families, one barely worth enough to feed all its members, to live all the days. We should work every day, and there is a lack of work to all half of the year....

"There, the needs are countless and the projects are numerous. even more than the needs; organizational dreams are there discuss in confusion, revenge is prepared in the darkness.... We wait for the rich classes to come to the rescue of so much misery.... But, know this well, we are starting to feel get tired of waiting, and if we're not careful, next year, tomorrow perhaps, climbed out of the abyss, looking terrible &ur them. edges of the abyss crossed, the people shaking off resignation like filthy dust, or stripping oneself of it like of uncomfortable clothing, breathing implacable veneration, will appear like the exterminating angel on the door of your rich hotels, and for his misfortune and yours until the middle of your sumptuous residences'...."

PRIVILEGES OF THE PEOPLE. H7

Rich, one last opinion. In the days of your power session, you have denied the sacred right of labor, the right of living which takes precedence over that of property; the people in his days of vengeance will deny the right of capital and property law. Of all the workers that the parasitism crushes, those of England and Ireland are the most crushed. It is therefore there that we must atonement begins. Hear the storm rumble the other side of the strait!!!

But when the flood has come and the tower-revolutionary man will have swallowed up all his fortune princely, and overthrew again the castles and the thrones; when the steel level will once again leveled the rows and watered the roots of the tree with blood of freedom, and that the rare escapees from the shipwreck will wonder about the causes of such a terrible ca-

ruins will answer:

The fault lies with you, O Jews, who have dedicated man of the people to stupidity and misery, and his daughter to prostitution.

, • Sermon by Father Ledreuille at Saint-Koch. Al. Father Ledreuille is of that race of pure apostles of Christ for whom beneficence is not not charity, and who do not admit the legitimacy of luxury for the dividus, when the masses are deprived of the necessities.

118 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

The fault lies with you, kings and ministers, who did not did not know how to protect yourself from the vengeance of people, making common cause with them against their oppressors; who have forgotten that we are not the steps-tors of the nations to let them devour and mow down by the deer wolves of commerce, chicane and wear. The people could not spare you day of his fury, since you did not wear his flag.

The fault lies with you, O priests, ministers of this God of charity who was born in a stable; to you, the successors of the apostles, who did not dare to glorify the work in your chairs, and to assert to the powers-without his imprescriptible rights; who did not dare, 4 the example of your divine master, wither commerce, as a parasitic and impure profession, and repeat to owners of capital, that the right to live took precedence that of property. To you who facilitated the extortion sions of the rich with eloquent sermons on the worries of wealth, who you are content to exhort the happy of the day to charity ^ and who did you say alms, where Christ had said charity. Christ does not was not limited to driving the merchants out of the temple; he made paralytics walk; he multiplied the loaves in the desert; he changed water into wine at the wedding of Cana, and this was how he proved to the people that he was truly a son of God. Where were the loaves that you had multiplied for the people, when they confused with his enemies in the day of his wrath? And what signs did you also want him to recognized for the successors of the apostles? . The fault lies with you, men of intelligence, artists, writers, who tolerated the glorification of Your mercantile spirit, when all your contempt was due coalesce to crush?' Vinfâme.

The fault lies above all with you, writers of the press radical, who have never ceased to direct against royalty all the furies of the revolutionary hurricane, and which you forced the working people to break from their hand the only support that could protect him against oppression sion of the Jews

The fault is ultimately all of us, adults of the thought, who have eyes to see, and not to people, irascible and ungrateful child who does not have the knowledge of his actions, who bites the breast of his nurse of his first tooth, and only uses his freedom to break your head!

120 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

w

CHAPTER VII.

It is a great misfortune;

However, there is a way to ward off the storm, and as long as humanity speaks to the hearts of good people lies, and fear in the hearts of the bad; for little that power regains intelligence at the hour of crisis ril, the combined efforts of all concerned can still today to preserve society from its ruin.
But we have to hurry.

The evil of society is known; this evil indicates its remedy; All you need to apply it is good desire and zeal.

All the evil in society comes from a vice of a-social narchy which generates the oppression of work by capital; all evil comes from the iniquity of distribution of labor products.

We therefore need another organization that frees the worker, and gives him a fair share in the work benefits; which abolishes the salary and replaces it a fair proportion.

It is no longer a question of changing the government with revolutions that do not change conditions respective of the master and the worker. Reforms policies do not remedy the inequity of distribution. This is why, for fifty years, the people have not nothing happened to his revolutions, and only chanced (the masters. During this interval, wealth and property passed from one caste to another, but the the number of unfortunate people has not diminished: far from it. If political freedom were the only condition of good-happiness of the people, the Belgian people who have freedom over the head, more freedom ten times than there is can spend, the Belgian people would be the happiest Peoples. On the contrary, it is one of those that the the leprosy of pauperism devours with the most rage. There misery of the Belgian worker, so rich in political rights ticks, immediately kills all revolutionary theories-naries who put forward as a supreme panacea the overthrow of thrones and universal suffrage.

REMEDY. 121

The only revolution that is to be made, the only one that can benefit the people, is the one that will emancipate the worker, by guaranteeing the people the right to work.

And this revolution can take place peacefully; And if governments and the rich agree to donate take your hand, far from overthrowing thrones and forcing them private tunes, it will consolidate them.

Right to work.

This peaceful revolution will begin by writing in the charter, before the article which proclaims equality French citizens before the law, and contrary to in the opinion of Malthus:

That all men have the right to live ^;

That the right to live translates into the right to work

That society owes work to each of its members.

122 OF FINANCIAL FEODALITY.

Then social charity will take the place of charity, private rity, and the humiliating word alms will disappear of the national language.

Certainly, it is very useless to resort to violent means to bring about a revolution of this nature. This recognition of the human right to work can be adopted by the chambers, on the simple proposal from a deputy, and as an article additional to the charter—
Yet it will be a revolution and a revolution true; because the scope of the declaration will be immense; it will strike on the forehead all the aristocracies and all the tyrannies of the globe, and once the principle is re-known, we will soon see the happy consequences.

And first of all, how does the company which recognized de-see the work of each of its members, will do it can she pay off this debt? because it is a debt that she acquits, let us be clear, and no longer as formerly the alms she grants.

The first consequence of the recognition of right to work is the need to organize work.

Consequences of recognition of labor rights. — <
The organization of work.

The organization of work is the introduction... principle of association in all branches of human industry; it is the substitution of the principle from good to the principle of evil; the substitution of harmony and wealth to discord and poverty.

The perfect organization of work cannot obviously can only be obtained through the organization of the municipality, alveolar element of society.

REMEDY. 123

We can conceive, through thought, a commune perfectly organized, that is to say the aggregation of a certain number of individuals associated in capital and at work, exploiting municipal property, as a single farmhouse, under the direction of a council appointed by them all; implementing the raw materials; having its cellar, its attic, its consumer goods warehouses; assigning taking into account the number and value of days of each worker. Here, no para-functions sites, because everyone has an eye on everyone, and the remuneration is proportionate to the work. No possibility of lesion in the distribution of wages, because the price of work is set by the decision of the general assembly, and this famous question of salary distribution, so thorny for anarchic societies like the ours, is only the simplest of operations of arithmetic in a well-governed society. The distribution salary does not only mean the re-contribution of manual labor; it also includes the legitimate share of the profit that goes to Talent, which gives Labor the means to make the most of of Capital. Capital is also entitled to a share any of the municipal income. The professional's solution problem consists of fixing the proportion in which each of these three elements, work, talent and capital, contributed to the production of profit. However, the rental price of capital is fixed in the municipality; the price of the worker's day and the salary of the function are also known; and they increase and decrease proportionally to the number of babies general benefits. In addition, most interested contribute to the distribution as workers, as civil servants and as capitalists, and the interest they all have to be fair is the best guarantee of universal fairness.

124 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

The current commune could be today provided with a communal counter, institution of credit and bank which takes care of all matters of purchase and sale for the commune, which has its own general warehouse for the goods of the commune and which loan on consignment of goods.

Nothing could be easier than to proportion income tax in this organized municipality. The town knows its wealth through its books, it takes from this wealth the share due to the State. There meeting of these model municipalities, hierarchized in cantons, then into districts, into departments, in provinces, constitutes the State.

Within today's society, there are communes thus founded on the principle of association and solidarity, and who achieve, so to speak, from Gerardsbrunn, in Rhenish Prussia, is until now the most perfect model of the associated agricultural commune and organized. The fruit growers of the Alps have, since more than a thousand years, an equally perfect example of wonderful results of the association applied to the im-thriving cheese manufacturing industry.

The association forced wealth to settle in the home of the inhabitants of these cold mountains where did not ripen the rye, while the competition anarchy delivered those of the fertile plain to ruin, to discord and fruitless work. 11 there is no down to the facial features and the beauty of the forms, which do not marvelously testify to the influence of principle of association. When the federates of Jura came to Paris in 90, the size and beauty of these men keenly attracted public curiosity; but no one knew how to recognize in this character of Herculean strength and beauty that everyone admires rait, the influence of the salutary principle which germinates health of the body and health of the soul, among the nobles mountain people of Franche-Comté.

REMtDE. 125

The organization of the commune, this unrealistic utopia readable for all lazy minds, does not present at all an insurmountable difficulty for the man of heart that animates, with a little intelligence, the desire to distinguished by useful work. I have on my behalf personal experience. 11 was possible for me, in less of six months, in a filthy and lost locality of Al-management, with unfortunate colonists belonging to all the poor countries of Europe, exhausted by fever, blocked in their barracks by the Arab, I was possible, I say, to organize with the greatest ease-lity, the association between these workers of all idioms, for the only industry of the country, the harvest hay. And not only was it given to me to 'The departments of Franchie-Comté are marked in white in the statistical decay of Mr. Baron Dtipin, where the white means education and dark obscurantism. Franche-Comté is also, after Lorraine, the province of France which supplied the greatest number of heroes to our gigantic struggles.

125 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

that they paid usury and to the agents of the agents comp-tables, when they were isolated; not only did I was able to bring out, double and triple the years an-later, the amount of their working days; but by the very fact that I led them in masses at work, the enemy did not worry them a single times that year, while the previous year it Hardly a day had gone by when they had not had do to the enemy. And when these poor workers recognized that association and solidarity produce know such happy results for the hay harvest, they were the first to ask me if there would be no way to organize them into a society for all other cultures.

I hold the organization of the commune in Algeria, something not only possible, but easy^ even with military convicts and convicts. I don't know no bad nature which is not likely to arise improve, under the influence of the principle of association and solidarity. All it takes to drive these men, people who understand their mission and who are motivated by the desire to do well. But I challenge all the Sullys and all the Colberts of the time, or-organize anything in Africa, with the principles of the current administration and before having destroyed The influence of the Parisian bureaucracy. The desk-cocracy, which is one of the calamities of the metropolis and which has gained a foothold on the land of Algeria, is a germ of death which opposes the fructification of all the germs of colonization that we have sown on the land of Africa that. There is no soil so fertile nor arms so intelligent

REMEDY. 127

who can fight for a long time against the force of suffocation ment of which the bureaucracy is armed. I was during one year civil commissioner in Africa. I dare to flatter myself for not having written once to my administrator tion, without vigorously protesting against the practices absurdities and the discouraging slowness of the office-Parisian cracy, what attracted me, what I was told said, a lot of bad grades, which gave me always much more distressed for those who give them to me have given only for me.

But if we had to wait for the perfect organization of the common in France, to resolve the problem of distribution of work products and to provide an essential improvement in the condition of the condemned to live a long time to be witnesses eyepieces of this marvel. However, improvement requires caused by the situation is urgent and does not involve delay, because there is danger at hand.

This involves organizing the means to immediately provide quickly from work to the arms that require it. Gold-the most prompt implementation of these means will be, for the moment, the best.

Because, if society, which owes work to its members, does not put itself in a position to provide this work to whom it claims, it is required to make up for it by paying a minimum wage for unemployed workers. He him It is therefore important that this work, which she is committed to provide all workers, or for her a source of profits, and not a source of losses. The so-city, in the language of political science, must to be called the State.

128 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Now, I only see one way of putting the State in a position to able to execute the commitments entered into by the society towards each of its members.

This means consists of organizing at various points of the kingdom, and on a vast scale, immense at-work links, where must be received immediately employed and paid, all unemployed workers.

Hence this rigorous conclusion: that the State is obliged to become an entrepreneur of all major public utility value.

But immediately a serious question arises. extreme speed, the solution of which, however, cannot be a single doubtful moment.

"The company that guarantees work to each of its members, does she not have the right to take her share profits on general labor products, in virtue of this guarantee which falls on it? This does not guarantee charge imply enjoyment of a corresponding right? »

Obviously, society (I mean the State), has to-care to be admitted to sharing the benefits of work social, to be able to guarantee against poverty, hunger and the lack of work, all the infirm workers, compensation, no duties without corresponding rights dants.

This point admitted, I say that it is absurd that the State, which represents society, that the State, which has the right to its share in the sum of the benefits of social work, allows parasitic industrialists who do not guarantee right to live with no one, to appropriate nine-tenths of these profits, and to reduce this share of the State

REMEDY. 129

which is dedicated to the application of the law of charity pU" blique.

We can already see that with this single paragraph additionnel of the recognition of the right to work, TÉlat se finds himself forced to argue with parasites and stock traders, the profits of any successful enterprise, under penalty of betray the interests of society, and rob the poor to enrich the rich. If Mr. de Lamartine brought in tomorrow in the law the principle of public charity, there would not be a minister in France, at least even look in the direction of the Journal des Débats, who dared to ask for Mr. Rothschild the concession of the Northern line, reserving for the State the lines the least successful.

And the feeling of public fairness and logic defenders of the people would not stop there.
Not only would there not be enough ministers dared to come and propose to the country's representatives to rob the nation for the benefit of an Israeli banker lite; but this merciless logic would force the midnistres to ask national assembly for the abolition of all the bankers' monopolies to invest the state. And the national assembly, in its wisdom, formulating Tanathème against all subversive heresies sives of English economists, would proclaim the merce administrative function of first order y and would relegate competition to the field of duction, its true domain.

He

130 OF FINANCIAL FEODALTY.

Le conitinercei, adniini«itative notion. – The complexity of theuopole of IlEtat.

I demonstrated previously that the anarchist trade chic was the great means by which capital managed to monopolize all the benefits of work and to constitute financial feudalism.

Let us declare commerce an administrative function, in its status as a product distribution agency, and financial feudalism no longer exists, even in name.

The State, by proclaiming commerce as an administrative function, nistrative, only follows the example of the municipality organized. In the organized commune, the directors or the warehouse manager of the goods are civil servants to whom it is granted, as in receiver of the registration or the tobacconist nowadays, a discount proportional to the figure of the recipe or the talent deployed in the management of the common thing. The administration business is truthful trade; the purchase price is quoted from of this of sale j the difference constitutes the pre-tax raised for the benefit of the Treasury or the municipality, on all consumption, to cover public spending.
Administration figures are published each year; the mass of society benefits from the economy billions, made by the new process, on

IMMEDIATE REFORMS. '181.

The old process of anarchist commercial competition chic.

The Emperor Napoleon had therefore guessed correctly, when that he had formed the plan to seize the monopoly of transportation and banking in the interest of the people.
The Emperor had arrived, a priori, at the consequence of the principle proclaimed by Turk in 1 T76, consequence that Turgot had not seen.

Aimi the law by declaring that the company must work to each of its members ^ forces the State representing the company there to proclaim the trade FUNCTION OF VETERAN.

We are no longer debating this question for monopoly, which is better than monopoly individuals, who ruins everyone and does not benefit only to these individuals, or that of the State, which does not ruins no one and benefits everyone? " We are came to consider the institution of state monopoly as the resumption by the State of an imprescriptible right.

We therefore say that commerce, the agency of distribution of products, is one of the essential branches of public administration. Common sense, everything alone, should be sufficient to indicate this truth, in the absence of logical deduction from the principle of law at work.

National prosperity, developments in which the public administration is responsible for monitoring, in fact demands that the distribution of products and foodstuffs, which every consumer needs, reaches this consumer under the best conditions possible. Low price is the soul of consumption;

132 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY,

consumption is the nerve of production, which is social wealth.

And the first condition of any economy, of all regularity is, we said again, unity direction and unity of action.

However, the administration is the only one invested in society of the power of unity. She alone is able to state establish the legitimate price of the merchandise, by means of information from its numerous agents and the truthful occurrence of producers. She alone has an interest to ensure that these prices remain at the lowest rate as high as possible, and that the products are always of superior quality. It alone presents a triple guarantee for its commercial acts, and in the context control of the agents of the nation, deputies and council-ers generals, and in the control of the press, and in competition from particular industries, and finally in the official publication of general market prices. The knowledge she has of cost prices and transport price, gives him the means at any time to set the true selling price.

The monopoly on the sale of any product by the State is already, for the country, an assured guarantee that this product will not be tampered with. If the products of beyond their legitimate price, it is because the monopoly current is only admitted as an exception in our financial system. Let us make this the general rule, and the price level will be established immediately from most equitable way. The state monopoly is in addition a guarantee for the country, that the benefit taken from the sale will enter the common purse, the State purse, and not that of individuals, and that he will therefore be employed in the service of the common thing, depending on whether the country's agents will have decided.

IMMEDIATE REFORMS. 153

The State is us, we keep repeating it. The cash register the State is ours. The wealth of the state is the measure of our prosperity, because the State does not hoard. When there is a surplus in treasury revenues, there is requires two things Vone: or that this excess is spent on public utility expenditure or whether it serves to reduce the tax mass accordingly. The state does not have interest in exploiting the worker, nor in reducing their wages below the minimum, as the anarchic commerce; he is interested, on the contrary, so that the people live happy and peaceful, since its tranquility and prosperity are linked to the well-being be working classes. It is also the nation itself, represented by its elected representatives, who sets each year the right of state commission on all marches that it operates. Even supposing that the State was gifted with this proverbial greed that we had some-both right to criticize the tax authorities, the State would have an interest to encourage consumption by reducing to a minimum distribution costs, the enormity of which reacts if painfully on consumption in the diet current. Indeed, increasing transactions, i.e. say the consumption from which rim|)ô is taken, and recover from the reduction in the amount of this tax by the quantity of objects imposed, this is the dogma of new taxation. As soon as it is the consumption tax mation which has become the main basis of income public, the greedy taxman, as you call it, must push with all one's might to, consumption by the rise of wages and the cheapness of products.

ISI OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

much less falsify them. Competition does not force it neither to poison the people, nor to favor the rich at the expense of the poor; all citizens are equal in front of its counters. He doesn't do the increases nor artificial reductions, to eat into consumption and production, because he would be the first victim of his own embezzlement. He does not draw from his capital a usurious income; it presents guarantees probity, capacity and oversight for agents he employs, and there is recourse against him, all the times its agents are guilty of prevailing rication. Finally, the State ensures that workers in the dustry, on the public treasury, means of existence honorable for the time when their arms will have lost their strength, and it does not make a privilege of the pension pension for those who served the nation on the battlefield. It honors the work that produces and fruitful, as much and more than the war which ravages and destroy.

It is possible that these truths will raise the shoulders of pity to the learned gentlemen of the Journal des Economists and all those austere moralists who have no generally as many virtues to spend in public, only because they make a larger saving elsewhere; but these truths are no less very clear truths.

These gentlemen will perhaps come and quote us, meeting our arguments, and to demonstrate Tim-Oiinence of the dangers of state monopoly, this

IMMEDIATE REFORMS. 135

odious affair of wetting wines, where we saw administration agents become accomplices of the fraud, and incur the blame of the courts. But if the tax agents are being led astray today by greed, to the point of participating in blameworthy acts, in the misunderstood interest of the treasure, it is precisely impossible for the misdeed to take place under the regime of monopoly. In this new position, on the contrary, the greed of the tax authorities is for consumers the most safe guarantee of the integrity of its agents. The taxman and its agents, who are paid on the total price of the sale, are interested, in fact, in ensuring that the quality of the product is as good as possible, so that the sale works well, since it is not the tax authorities which regulates prices. A receiver of the recording, who is nothing other than a seller of stamped paper receiver of the recording which receives after the year a bonus proportional to the income he has collected on behalf of the State, is interested in sell and collect as much as possible, and he cannot deceive the buyer about the quality of his merchandise. Also the recording, which relates to the treasury of hundreds of millions, is it of all taxes the best administered, and the one whose collection costs the least. The fees for collecting the registration are barely a twentieth of the tax collected, while those of the customs and beverage tax go to the beyond 25 percent.

In summary, the distribution and transport of products products essentially fall within the attributions of the administration; and this is the production and not commerce which is the true domain of competition.

136 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Therefore, as long as the municipality will not be organized in such a way, that at the end of every year this commune can say: my dreams nus amount to so much, here is the share that goes to the State for the payment of public services;... until day less distant than we think, all the efforts of opinion and chambers must tend to invest successively the administration of the main branches commercial assets abandoned today for interest private. We must succeed in making the State pay its budget with the profits gained from anarchic trade. Vimpôl must come to levy on consumption mation and on wealth, in accordance with article 2 of the chart. If the State were vested with a monopoly on banking and commerce, the capitalists could not no longer promote their capital in secret, and dissimulate their fortune, and we could submit them to the proportional tax like the laborer of the fields.

It is for having disregarded the rights of the State, presenter of the nation and his charge d'affaires, it is for having listened to the heresies of economists English, that the nations dedicated to industrialism find themselves at the moment plunged into a state of rassm and moral and physical degradation which frightens seriously thinkers. The law of God is one; he gives us the attraction to lead us in the way turn from that of evil. Similarly, when he inflicts misery to a people is to punish them with one of his follies. The people withdrew from the Tu-Authority teleary to go to Anarchy, political anarchy and commercial anarchy; they abandoned royalty to incense the golden calf, and the silver man has taken advantage of the split that emerged between royalty and the people and who opened the way to their usurpations. He made himself master of the worker who no longer had support, and he crushed and tortured him mercilessly. It's a argument to which I return every moment, because that it is important to eradicate from the minds of the people his systematic antipathy for his government. Finally, from the excess of evil good is born. Men intelligence, people, small business itself even, begin to demand accountability from feudalism commercial of its usurpations. Like the manufacturers turiers and workers band together in England against the privileges of land capital, perhaps the Will workers and small traders band together? at home against the privileges of money capital. All these leagues will lead to the association sooner or later and, before arriving at the perfect association, will pass by the monopoly of the State, the safest of institutions general guarantee, in the absence of the association perfect tion. The movements taking place today today in favor of social reforms are therefore all favorable to a good cause. The fraud system commercial and public poisoning by liquids and solids, of which in recent times have revealed the mysteries so gloriously, made par-herbal teas to the state monopoly. The newspapers La Démopaceful democracy, the National, the Reform and the Review independent, take care ardently of the care of

IMMEDIATE REFORMS. 137

138 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

see the state flag, so sadly lowered today today in the hands of those who wear it. The doctrine of laissez-faire invented by the Autres de Anglican economism to help public opinion to let the oppression of the worker pass and invade hoisting of all the monopolies by the big companies pitals, this doctrine of fraud and fraud has been killed by the facts in the minds of all sensible people. I do not I know him more supporters among us than among the Academies. Still, it is not quite certain that among all these poor pimps of anarchy, he found himself just one, just one daring enough to repeat the phrase barbarian by Jean-Baptiste Say: "That society ^ laughed rigorously SPEAK, owes nothing to any of its members...." But I know, on the other hand, a number of distinguished minds who would not fear repetition after me: ((That to strictly speak, the death by starvation of a single man accused of murder sinat the entire society where this man lived...." For this is the sentence of true charity formulated by Christ, and it is written in our hearts that the impious economicism will not prevail against it!

Allow me to address here, on my own behalf as in that of all the other helots of capital, a feeble tribute of gratitude to the noble writers who defended most energetically in our days the holy cause of work, intelligence and arms. After the names of Fourier, Saint-Simon and Owen, these great demolishers of impostures, must write in the registers of public recognition, those of M. de Sismondi and MF Vidal. To Mr.

IMMEDIATE REFORMS. 139

Sismondi returns Tlionneur for having worn the first blow, terrible blow, to Vtnfdme; glory to MF Vidal to have completed it, in a curious work intended to become famous, and that economists have left pass without saying a word, knowing well that this book carried their condemnation and shame with him.

The time is not far off, I hope, when the doctrines of government monopoly will emerge within a national gathering, in the full gallery. And it won't be the least strange of all the spec- strange tackles which we will have been given to witness ter, to see some MP from the extreme left come defend from the podium the cause of power against the government ministers.

Here then is what is established in principle: the distribution of products, commonly called Commerce, falls within the remit of the administration; And until the commune is perfectly organized ed, the state monopoly is the only institution that can offer workers the guarantee of their rights, and consumers the good quality of food and sincerity of prices.

Now that we have a principle to penetrate being at the heart of the current anarchy, the questions will become simpler and impossibilities disappear. A spring true cipe is a key that unlocks all solutions.

- On the Distribution of Wealth (Capelle, rue des Grès-Sorbonne), work filled with wonderful knowledge where social issues? more difficult, where the most complicated economic problems are brought back by an admirable talent for analysis and discussion to the simplified geometric problems, where right reason meets at each not eloquence, without ever looking for it.

iko OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

The false scholars of reconomism have never found a solution, because they never had a principle. As for the ministers, they resemble the economists mists, they do nothing because they know nothing and that they are either too old, or too proud to learn.

Reforms iinuiediateN.

For the statesman who would understand the situation and the solidarity of interest that exists between the government and the people, the first reform to be introduced in the current financial system would be the realization of Napoleon's projects: state capture of the monopoly of banks and transport. From the first first blow, financial feudalism would be hit at the heart, and the territorial tax would perhaps be completely abolished.

But this state bank must be the truth bank of France table, and no longer the bank of Paris, Bordeaux or Le Havre.

Sloiopole of the bank.

The real national bank has its headquarters in Paris; She is guaranteed by the value of the national territory and the deposits of all its shareholders, and in particular the funds current depositories of savings banks, workers' funds to which it guarantees a minimum of interest and which it associates with all its profits, to intimately weld the fortune of the State to the fortune of workers.

The Banque de France has branches in all the departmental capitals; the banks of capitals have branches in the capitals district; these organize the banks of canton; the banks of the cantons those of the communes. Public credit is constituted and prioritized over all the surface of the realm.

Ors^aiiisatioiii of agricultural credit.

And it is no longer just the patented industry and incarcerated person who will exclusively enjoy the privileges credit. First, incarcerationability, this ignoble heir-age of barbarism, disappears; the law no longer grants a citizen the right to dispose of the freedom of another citizen for a matter of money. The State constitutes the agricultural credit like commercial credit. The State creates a land debt ledger. He lends without intermediary to the owner of the land and for almost the entire value of the fund, at the most moderate rate; because the State is even richer than the Jews, and finds on the consumption tax the sacrifices he makes on the rental price of its capital. Interest due by the borrower are combined with the property tax, to be collected free of charge and by twelfths, by the gent of direct contributions. By means of the bene-registration in the debt ledger property, the owner begins by repaying all its previous mortgages, which are absorbed in the single state mortgage. The largest and the most magnificent financial transaction of all times, I want to talk about the amortization of the mortgage debt of France, a debt of fifteen billion, can be brought to fruition this way. Then territorial property, burdened with this hypo-single library, which would constitute a perpetual annuity for the benefit of the State, would acquire the elasticity of pro-movable property. The State and owners benefit would like this reform to increase income incalculable; usury, notaries, chicanery, ban-what would billions lose, as many billions who would remain in the taxpayers' purse. The taste-government which would achieve through its banking monopoly that enormous profits that he does not realize today today, finding in its coffers a surplus of revenue, would be obliged to take this into account in the contribution revenue increases. And this reduction of Fim-land tax would only be fair, because the tax imposed on property is a preventive tax which burdens the pro-levied before it is created, and this tax is less legitimate than that collected on the product delivered to the consumers or on commercial transactions.

H2 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Any financial reform must aim to manage production, the first element of social wealth. All taxes, moreover, fall indirectly - lies about production, and there is no point in him doing anything ask in advance.

The monetary capital used in commercial transactions sales of France amounts, it is claimed, to more than three and a half billion. The organization of cre-said public would immediately reduce the capital to one thousand liard at most (this is that of England) and would make it dis-A cash mass of two to three billion is available.

IMMEDIATE REFORMS. 1^3

Transport monopoly.

The government seizes the canals, the channels iron mins and couriers. The producer and the French consumers are now protected from the tyrannical powers of gentlemen the stockbrokers of Pa-laugh, from Judah, from Geneva. Railway fares and channels are subject to frequent revision; the various industries which have to claim some re-reduction in these tariffs, have their representatives in parliament to assert their rights. It is by this means of reducing transport prices, and not more by protection bonuses than the government wants to give national industry the means to fight with foreign industry. The State favors this industry by granting it capital at low price, by seeing its products at the best price possible, by having the engineers educated in its schools deniers who direct industrial operations. Her protection does not exceed these limits, because in going further, it would offend the general interest; And this protection is enough to make the part so beautiful in-national industry, that no rival industry can fight with her now.

It happened in Saxony, about ten years ago, a fact which demonstrates how easy it is for the State to in-public. The government of this country appealed to people for a loan intended to cover the costs of construction of a railway from Leipzig to Dresden. He had asked for a few million thalers; THE

ISEEN OF FFINANCLÈRE FEUDALITY.

people brought him two or three times the amount

That the French government, instead of offering fifteen or twenty million per year to Mr. Rothschild for forty years, for interest of a sum of sixty million that he would have been kind enough to lend him, would have asked for these sixty millions from the depositors savings banks, by offering them only the guaranteed interest of 4 per cent, and these deposits savings banks would have brought him a two or three hundred million in one go. Yet here it is a very economical and very simple way to popularize to raise awareness among the masses of the acts of the government. But the Jew was there demanding his prey, and the government did not dare to rebel against the Jew for make popular. The Gospel has said, in fact, that the even a slave could not serve two masters: the nation and the Jew!

IBonopoc des aces!>>araiices.

The State seizes the insurance monopoly. He always seemed strange to me that a finance minister lived in the hotel on rue de Rivoli for eight days, without conceive the thought of having the monopoly insurance center which can only belong to him, and whose exercise, by the hands of the companies, constitutes in some way an illegality.

Indeed, what is tax? Tax is a part any of his income that the taxpayer abandons gives to the State, to have the guarantee of enjoyment rest.

What is insurance tax? One part which-

IMMEDIATE REFORMS. 1^5

conch of his income that the taxpayer abandons to a company, to have a guarantee of the rest against the chances of fire, hail, epizootic, etc., etc.

But all these chances of disasters are specified—ment of these normal chances against which Vimpot normal must guarantee the taxpayer. The State which ga-remits work to unoccupied hands, and the minimum of salary to the infirm, to the old, must, at more strong reason, guarantee the worker all the products of his work. The State which is the association of all individual interests, is in a better position that companies to compensate the worker losses resulting from disasters; because it distributes the figure of these losses between all taxpayers, and it only slightly burdens the burden of each person, the insurance tax figure decreasing as that the number of insured people increases. With the State, policyholders do not have to pay brokerage profits of a cloud of parasitic agents, nor those of the companies who take millions each year from the pro-privacy, without guaranteeing it in any way against epizoo-ties, hail and floods. The insurance system rancid with the companies is expensive and has no never guaranteed that profits to the agents of these compagnies. The creation of a compulsory insurance tax for all taxpayers and collected by the agents of the treasury at the same time as the land tax, would have the double result of reducing the premium by two thirds current insurance, and to guarantee the entirety of the price of their crops or their furniture to all insured. We can get an idea of the amounts that "10

1&6 OF FLINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

taxpayers pay too much into the hands of companies with just one example. Companies fixed premium insurance against fire received in Paris only fifty-six million from 1819 to 1841, and the number of losses did not rise, in this space of time, more than eight million. He there were therefore forty-eight million profits for the directors and agents of the companies, forty-eight million subtracted from the owner's fortune to enrich a few lucky speculators. With the State, taxpayers would have no benefit from sold, no plate or policy expense, and the insurance premium would only represent the figure claims, increased by expert appraisal costs j and in the case where the figure of this insurance tax exceeds would be that of disasters, the State could with advantage devote this surplus to the construction of works of art, intended to contain the overflows of the rivers fire, etc., etc. The State, responsible for disasters, would still have an additional interest in stimulating activity rural police; he would have the buildings visited by its architects, the stables and stables by its veterans rines.

The monopolization of the insurance monopoly by the State is one of the most rigorous consequences recognition of the right to work, since everything worker ruined by any disaster falls back at the expense of the State.

The government, which is established to protect the low and to ensure everyone the enjoyment of the fruits of his work, is the only one equally capable of managing all these provident institutions whose purpose is to guarantee the existence of the worker against the odds abandonment or poverty. Insurance against fate, against evictions, lawsuits, insurance maritime, cannot achieve all the good that they are capable of producing, as long as they are directed by the administration of the country which owns alone, due to the mass of individuals on which it acts, the means to reduce the figure of premiums of these various insurances, by increasing that of benefits of solidarity.

IMMEDIATE REFORMS. ihl

However, the system of handing over the monopoly insurance to the State has conquered for some years of many supporters within the con-elective councils of the nation. Mr. Duchâtel himself left accused of sharing these utopian doctrines. The general council of Aisne issued, in its last session, the wish that the State would be vested with this monopoly. It was then that we saw Mr. Odilon-Barrot, deputy of the said department, protest angrily against this proposition, which he called a Fourierist idea. I you wonder what this impotent leader of the op-terminal position may have to unravel with an idea any, and what is in common between Mr. Barrot and Fourier!

The government is trembling today in the face of power of notaries and solicitors who make the elections tions. He does not dare touch the burning question of fices; but once he becomes master of the bank and insurance, that it organizes agricultural credit, offices will have lost two thirds of their value by

1^8 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

following these reforms, will be very eager to free themselves strip their titles, at a reasonable rate.

Then, it will be entirely possible to return to Tagriculture its splendor, the earth its fertility, the bare peaks their forests which protect the valleys against floods, to the meadows their waters sources. Then it will be allowed to deport the last blow to riipothèque, this sad heritage of Roman law, prevention of any kind of agricultural progress; because the legislator will understand that if Roman law had his reasons for surrounding so many guarantees land tenure, when agriculture was the only honorable industry, this luxury of guarantees had become a cause of ruin for her in our social state.

In Rome, all manual industry was an attribute of slavery; today, on the contrary, this industry took rank at the head of society, and it is agriculture who moans and struggles prisoner, in the middle of children travels in which the exaggerated tenderness of his guardians hold her swaddled. So come as soon as possible a Jean-Jacques who demonstrates to the room that the real estate needs, like the child, that we leave his limbs free, to live and develop.

But how many reforms can be attempted today in this vast area of agriculture, and outside the recognition of the right to work! I admire rin^rati-study of this trembling government which was able to find means of giving a bonus of four million to the cod, another twenty million at the refinery, and who does not have a million in incentive funds to give to agriculture, the nourishing mother of the country, the industry which retains in the labor camp twenty millions of unhappy proletarians, and prevents them from pass into that of riot; agriculture that is needed reconstruct from top to bottom, from teaching workers at the Agricultural Credit Institution. Ah!

■iva

Rf' IMMEDIATE FORMS. 1/|9

cultivation of the vine, could meet somewhere, in a public square, to make their voices heard threatening protests against grant rights cities and against entry fees for merchants say foreigners, we would have great regard for their complaints mations, as we have regard to those of the owners livestock breeders or manufacturers; but these seven million winegrowers are scattered and isolated on all points of the territory, and there is no closure possible without piling up materials. THE government which knows this remains merciless for the suffering of winegrowers and agriculture. Station that the progress of English ideas does not cause repentance some fine day the government of its inconceivability worthy of carelessness! Park the league

Agriculture, which is the national industry, productive industry par excellence, not having a half istry to it, to be treated as a dependency of the commerce, the product distribution agency! there-agriculture, the noblest and most useful of all professions, not having a school of her own, a school paid by the State, when the State distributes free to all nationals and all foreigners the benefit of higher studies, in public courses professed speak more brilliant scientific and literary notables raires of Europe! When the State maintains, with great

.4-

150 OF r,A FEUDALITfc FINANCIAL.

fresh, military schools where we learn to kill men and to bomb cities; others where the youth is locked up for twelve years to fade away on the study of dead languages, and law schools intended to multiply the race of lawyers indefinitely!

Yes, I was right to say it, the field of liorations is vast in agriculture; and for the minister reformer who would like to do something there, he There would only be embarrassment of choice. 11 would be rational yet to begin at the beginning is-that is, through the teaching of the agricultural profession.

Agricultural education.

The current government, resulting from a revolution popular, wanting to show his sympathy for the without exception the benefit of primary education. The principle of the law of June 1833 is eminently fair and democratic. The State must not only work to each member of society, he must core primary education. The law on education primary is unassailable in principle, but it is not not sufficient. There was a way to make this useful principle, by broadening the meaning of the word instruction primary education, and extending it to pro-instruction professional, especially in agricultural education. Without doubt, will someone answer me; but professional education sion requires a certain number of teachers, the creation of expensive workshops, the supply of tools tils, etc. ; and the state treasury is not rich enough to take care of these expenses... Come on then, the very

IMMEDIATE REFORMS. Ibl

the state was rich enough to give everyone a gift the income from his railways to the Jews, and he would not have the means to endow the poor class professional training workshops! To others if he Please!

And then, ultimately it must be the State or the departments responsible for reforming the work and to educate the agricultural worker, if we want manage to introduce serious improvements in the national agricultural regime; because any reform a little important is almost impossible in the conditions where the mass is placed, in France soil workers. '

Let us not lose sight, in fact, of this truth too little known, that the agricultural worker, to suffer his misery with more resignation than the industrialist cited, is no less condemned to atrocious privations. Bankers who do not fear for their counters that the misery of the towns where these counters are located, have their newspapers write (the Globe of November 23, 1843), that the field workers are happy, although they only have one pair of hooves for the winter, and that they walk barefoot in the summer (textual). The diaries of lazy ministers who don't want to do nothing to alleviate this misery, have undoubtedly interest in denying it, but it exists none the less; She is also like the sun: it shines in everyone's eyes those who want to watch.

The condition of the French farmer is that of control and where fragmentation has penetrated. Misery is a direct result of the progress of fragmentation.

152 OF FINANCIAL FEODALITY.

It is more terrible in Ireland than in France, because in Ireland the competition of workers is dispute every shred of the soil at the auction of the hunger, and the population is even more condensed there just in France. The latest publication of the land register tells us that the surface area of French territory ^, which is fifty-two million hectares, is divided into eleven million plots, of which five thousand lions are priced below five francs. This mor-unrestrained is exclusive of any improvement agricultural, because it forces agriculture to regress from plow with spade. He removes the breeder of cattle, and opposes it to the multiplication of fertilizers. It removes also the work of the beast of burden to do it fall back on the man. I saw one day, on the plain de Clamart, in the company of a serious official, a poor girl of fifteen, harnessed by the neck to a harrowing and plowing his plot of field. The honorable official, whose daughters have never been hitched at the portcullis, found very displaced and very revolution-utter the words of indignation that the sight of this the spectacle tore me away. It was a long-gone speech. tionary, in fact; I said that young girls were not intended by God to supplement the beasts of burden, and that their delicate necks were not made to wear the straightjacket.

In France, three quarters of land cultivators cannot habitually consume wine, bread, wheat or butcher's meat. The food of rural people are made up, depending on the areas, black bread, buckwheat or corn pancakes, chAtaïenes and white cheese. Here is the situation agricultural; we see that there is room for improvements liorations.

IMMEDIATE REFORMS. 153

We have indeed created, in favor of agriculture, some agricultural schools, some model farms for a twenty years; but these schools are only open to wealth, and it is for the people who live from work of the land that I want schools where we learn to

That is to say that, in the current state of things, the ignorant and poor farmer is incapable of saving himself ever by him alone, and that it is necessary that the providence of the State gives him a helping hand to get him out of his misery.

However, the government is, as of today, in sure to make two important improvements in the field of agriculture, without fear of offending notaries nor solicitors, its powerful lords and masters. It can found professional education agricultural. He can also present a law which guarantees the rights of the farmer or worker, against exaggeration of the claims of the owner or capitalist. This last law is even essential. It is necessary, if we wants to preserve French property from the fate of the English and Irish prayer, make this law say, that the farmer will have the right to indefinitely renew his bail by paying the owner a certain part of the added value given to the soil by his work. It is necessary that the law so strongly welds the two interests together of the owner of the land and the person who exploits it, that he is impossible for the owner to take advantage of the improvements of his thing, when these improvements do not come from his doing.

11 years ago, when the founding of the

150 OF FINANCIAL MODELITY.

colony of Mettray made the philanthropists grow so noisy clamors of admiration, I was one of those what surprised the most this strange craze of the public and the government for the new institution. There colony of Mettray aimed, as we know, to place the young convicts, at the expiration of their barely, under the patronage of powerful people who would be responsible for providing them with a profession and a fate. He was obvious that as long as this patronage would only exist in relation to young convicts, this patronage would only constitute an incentive bonus rage at vice and immorality. And, revolted by this singular preference given to the bad conduct, I tried to protest against the triumph of philanthropy, by working on the founding of a similar establishment, but established only in favour honest children, for children found, the most unfortunate of all. The magnificent domain of Cîteaux, remains of the ancient abbey of Saint Bernard, of these Benedictines who bring together the most suitable conditions for the establishment of a model farm for foundlings. My project, supported by the owners of the establishment, had already met with significant support in Paris and in the press, and among some administrations neighboring trators, when a buyer came forward to buy the domain; then I had to give up the idea treprise. I sent communication of my project to Minister of Agriculture at that time, perhaps well to Mr. Gouin, a banker from Tours, perhaps good to Mr. Cunin-Gridaine, a casimir manufacturer from

IMMEDIATE REFORMS. 15f)

Sedan, to someone who didn't read it, ultimately, because I am still waiting for a response to my communication.

The Petit-Bourg establishment, founded by a so-powerful society in favor of unconvicted children, will achieve, I like to hope, more improvements than I had not hoped for the establishment of a farm model for foundlings. However, I persist to think that the realization of my project which responds related to various questions of extreme importance, agricultural education, foundlings, colonization African, etc., would also have satisfied the wishes of the administrator and those of the philanthropist.

Here in a few words the data of this project, which I will soon develop in a book special.

The annual cost of foundlings rises for France at a dozen million. This The burden falls on the departments. She should fall on the State, because the plague of children found is a social plague, and that it is up to society to sweep away its foam. On foundlings and abandoned to public charity, two thirds, according to official statistics, die before their age of twelve years, a time when they cease to receive assistance from departmental alms, unless firmness or idiocy. We can calculate that on the remaining third, degraded caste, suffering and withered by the pity of those who welcome him, a good part increases the number of repeat offenders and increase the criminal justice budget; that's to say that this annual expenditure of twelve million, which does not does not seem likely to be reduced any time soon, is an expense almost without compensation. However, it seemed to me that he there was a way to use it.

For this, I asked that the foundlings were transferred, at the age of seven, from the hospice on a model farm; that they were instructed in this school, in the profession of agriculture and in all professions that fall within the agricultural industry school j that they were subject in this establishment to the military regime; that we made it a nursery for workers valiant men as skilled in handling the musket as the pickaxe; a nursery of pioneer soldiers in a word. These children had no homeland, I created one for them one in Algeria. In similar model farms had to be raised the young girls destined for their serve as companions in their colonial establishment. This race of colonists tested by the exercises of the gymnastics and the habit of working in the sun, would have resisted more easily than our other soldiers to the heat of the climate of Algeria, would have defended with more courage and cleared with more intelligence gence the lands that would have been given to him in all prayer. The State would have been able to compensate itself for all its sacrifices by withholding part of the price from his students wages they would have earned on the farm dies until the age of eighteen to twenty years; he would have them constituted with the rest a nest egg which would have become the source of their individual property in Africa. Nothing simpler than the organization of the commune so- cietary with such elements; nothing easier especially than to organize with these cores of soldiers pioneers resistance to the Arabs, hordes of marau- devers who have not yet been able to remove a block from us haus, for sixteen years they have been fighting against us. In the event that philanthropy had revolted against P the alleged barbarity of the State, which would not have subtracted these children found under the yoke of misery only for submit to that of military servitude; in the case where philanthropy would have succeeded in preventing the State to adopt this very rational and very philosophical system anthropic following me, I said that the farm mo- dele would always have the advantage of creating skillful or- greyhounds, skillful plowhands, perfectly suited to earn their living in the profession of agriculture, tions of science. In this hypothesis again, the institution admirably served the interests of the in-agricultural industry, and the government compensated itself for his sacrifices on the work even of the students he had trained.

IMMEDIATE REFORMS. 157

I have yet found only one drawback to this system-theme: it is that the prospect of happy fate reserved to the abandoned child would not engage a multitude poor mothers to entrust their children to charity public. But the great evil, if the responsibility of the children found ceased to be a tank and became a creature benefit to society! The great evil especially for the cause of power and for that of the people, when it would be proven that the protection of the State is the pro-evidence of the poor!

I know that through the care of one of our administrators most enlightened trators, Mr. Delmas, prefect of Saône-et-Loire, an establishment of the type that I wanted to found in Cîteaux, was created in the commune of Montbclet near Mâcon. Although it is different difficult to make a definitive judgment on a system any according to an experience carried out in small, the results of Mr. Delmas' attempt seem already, however, having resolved the question of applicability S-ness of utility, economy and morality, it is already something. In addition, I deliver the idea to the judges competent j than those who will condemn it in accordance with wear a better one, no one will be more delighted than me of my condemnation.

158 OF FINANCIAL FEODALITY.

Creation of a special ministry of agriculture. – –
Creation of higher agricultural education and a primary agricultural education; credit foundation agricultural: here are the first three immediate reforms to bring into the agricultural system. I do not see out of the lacquer of attempts at improvements without scope.

The question of foundlings, in which I make the State so generously play a role of provider social decency, requires an urgent solution.

After the field of agricultural reforms in the interior, the field of reforms opens up abroad; After the metropolis, or at the same time as the metropolis, the colony. Colonizing expansion offers to all disturbing things that press upon them: exuberance of power

' The latest report, published on the situation of the establishment of Montbellet, a very encouraging report for the founder, if-gnrale a very remarkable fact. The establishment was founded in the interest of special shelter for foundlings, but the administration did not believe having to close the doors to the sons of poor families who had requested the benefits of free education. However, the administration had to repent of his ease towards all these intruders. She resolved, in consequence, to reserve in the future the benefits of his charity for only children found.

IMMEDIATE REFORMS. 159

population, extension of pauperism, congestion of manufacturing cities, reduction of wages beyond below the minimum. France spends each year hundred million in Africa, where its armies occupy a empty territory of seven to eight thousand square leagues. There France has not yet done anything to use its conquest, from the point of view of the solution of the questions that I just listed; because we must not take into account the groping and trials attempted by the various administrators nistrators of Algeria, to obtain through its colonization sation a minimal compensation of our enormous sacrifices in men and money. The idea is missing from the brains of the colony administrators, like of that of the directors of the metropolis. 11 is there however fertile soil to return to cultivation, a immense outlet to open up to the activity of our populations lations too pressed on native soil; there is in Africa barbarism to be expropriated for the benefit of civilization. But the intelligence of our statesmen has not understood core went so far as to make them realize that it is the coloni- ation alone which can ensure us always the pro- inalienable prayer of Algeria, while the triumphs of our weapons can only give us the pos- precarious session. We are talking about a complete system that the current governor general, Mr. Marshal Bugeaud, would be with the intention of proposing to the rooms, for decide on the principle of colonization on a large scale ladder. If, as I fear, this project does not begin not by having Algeria declared dependent on French soil. caais, like Corsica; if this project does not deliver the ad- civil ministration of the intolerable and unintelligent yoke of military despotism, I do not fear to declare it independent of military authority is, in my eyes, the first guarantee of protection to be given to the settlers seriously: outside of this path, there is no salvation.

But first declare Algeria French land, as requested by Captain Leblanc of Prébois, one of the writers who best understood the Algerian question; place it under the regime of all-French administration; give him his prefects, its judges, its deputies as in Corsica; supplement the deployment of the military apparatus, less indispensable than we think, by the establishment of paths of iron which force barbarism to retrograde towards the desert; offer the inhabitants of all regions of Europe the guarantee of liberal and pro-protector of liberty, and serious settlers will flock towards this new France from all corners of the continent European continent. But no more military autocracy; we do not give up the freedoms we enjoyed in the native country, to seek arbitrariness in the distant countries. What made the prosperity marvelous and fast of the States of the American Union, is that the law of the States of the Union assured workers more guarantees and freedoms than any other agreement of the globe. If we want the French to leave France, the Spanish, Spain, and the Germans Germany, to come and populate Algeria, let us as America did, the best models to follow in fact of colonization, offer to all emigrant a new homeland, where the happy condition of the worker leaves him no regrets in his heart for the ancient homeland.

IMMEDIATE REFORMS. 161

I don't know if the government will follow up and execute tion to the vast colonization projects of Guyana, proposed by Mr. Jules Lechevalier, who has been pushing, since several years, with stubborn activity in this immense company. I would very much like it; because there is everything to be expected from the realization of the projects of a mind as intelligent and as progressive as Mr. Lechevalier.

Colonization ! colonization of Africa, Guyana, Madagascar, will we never stop repeating to the true statesmen of this time

The question of colonization brings me back to the sequences of recognition of the right to work, and brings me to another crucial question which most glorious revolutions: I want to talk about the training of destructive armies into industrial armies trielles. It has been six years since April 7 that an illustrious general, led by me to the anniversary banquet of the birth of Fourier, toasted the abolition of ^ the war there and asked, to enthusiastic applause siastes of five hundred guests, the transformation of destructive armies into productive armies. It is the same general who became marshal of France under the name of the Duke of Isly, a manner of Cincinnatus which only spoke of the plow and peaceful progress before to leave for Africa, but which was enormously since modified. These palinodies are common, and it People have been saying to you for a long time, honors change things morals; but we must nonetheless accept with joy this solemn condemnation of the spirit of war, coming out of the mouth of one of his last coryphees.

H 11

162 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

CHAPTER X.

Abolition of the g;iiers*. – 'ffransforiuatlon of destructive armies in industrial years. – iGlorified work.

The wars of aggrandizement are over. Europe turns to peace. Only two peoples are exceptions to the general rule. One, the English people, or rather the government of the lords, animated by the devouring ardor of mercantilism, seeks in vain to reject outside the principle of feverish activity which burns him inside. Every day the split deepens more deeply between the oppressed nation and its leaders, and the time approaches when the 4th volcano, consuming itself of itself, will stop projecting onto the globe the in-fire and devastation. The other, the Russian people, barbarian still, tends to emerge from its snows, to found a new capital on the banks of the Bosphorus, eternal lust of barbarians who seek gold and the sun. But the peaceful alliance of civilized States of Europe, although it still only exists in embryo, although she has not yet dared to formulate her system, is there which compresses the warlike tendencies of the Russia and England, by its sole power of iner-tie. The day she posed, in the name of civilization hoisting of restless ambitions, proclaiming the neutrality of Constantinople, that of the Bosphorus and

IMMEDIATE KfeFOBMKS. 1G3

of the isthmuses of Panama and Suez, it will be done to everything never armed collisions from nation to nation. THE disputes between States will be resolved through peaceful arbitration fiques; and governments, delivered from terror ancient invasions, will hasten to shake the burden of standing armies. To France is reserved the glorious role of initiative in this movement regenerative force of politics. That she speaks to great powers and intermediate states language of peace and reason, and all peoples will rally under its banner, to the new policy, to Christian politics. When France, formerly so powerful in arms, and which still holds today, thanks be to God, the scepter of the idea; when France brought barbarian war back to times of barbarism, no nation will dare attempt the rehabilitation of war.
This future is near. If the revolutions of France, of Belgium, Poland and Spain were unable to relight the general conflagration in Europe since 1830 is that war is no longer possible, it is that the feeling national rivalries have died out in the hearts of the people lations. Leipzick and Vrateloo have calmed a lot of hatred.
When the Muscovite autocrat can snatch with impunityment to sad Poland its religious beliefs, after having taken his nationality; when T Austria, at nj^made treaties, incorporated into its territory the territory tory of the Republic of Krakow, declared inviolable by the congress of 1815; when these heinous crimes of human rights are accomplished in the sun without anyone any of the Catholic states of Europe, not even the Pope, dares to protest in the name of Christ, it is only disgust of war has become so strong among the people, that it

16Zl OF THE. FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

has stifled in them even the feelings of justice, of religion and humanity.

Now, as the chances of war with Tetranger move away, the profession of arms loses necessary-ment of its prestige; in France, the military spirit weakens; The officer of merit is saddened by the prospect tive of an unoccupied life, or occupied with eternal parades; and will clutter it with other functions he has no other chance of advancement than age or riots. So we hardly have any soldiers other than those whom fate has reached, and who have not been rich enough to dispense with the service.

Finally all that was missing was the ridiculous and the odious to put an end to the spirit of war among us. I believe that the final blow was dealt to him in these last years, by the sad bulletins of our campaigns of Africa, a country where we have been maintaining for five With an army of eighty thousand men, the first army in the world perhaps, to stand up to a few hundred Arab bandits, and where we we win a host of victories every quarter decisive, whose trophies are estimated by heads of camels. We know that Mr. Marshal Duke of Isly, the great winner, was obliged to invent a population tion of EIGHT MILLION inhabitants in Algeria, for to be able to give owners to these countless millions of camels captured by his invincible weapons targets. Eight hundred inhabitants per square league and as many camels in a country where, according to the report of Mr. the Duke of Aumale, we travel twenty-five leagues without meet a tree or a drop of water!

r.MMEOLATE REFORMS. 165

In the meantime, the spirit of peace and scientific conquest tique has gained all the ground among us that the spirit fighter has lost. The boastful politics of March 1, spring politics, found sympathy only among the Achilles of the press. The century is for the stoneware of industry and the marvels of mechanics. The calculating genius of representative governments and the disorderly movement of international speculation dustrielle itself, helped to increase this figure enormous three hundred and ninety-two million, which it costs us every year to maintain an army unproductive. An income of four hundred million, we said, represents a capital of eight to ten thousand farthings! Now, what wouldn't we do with eight BILLIONS? The erection of the bastilles of Paris, erected against opinion from within and not against the enemy of outside, is not designed to return the population to the army. larity that it no longer has. The sword bores us, it's loud and brutal, and I believe that the government is creates an illusion on the mind of the army, if it imagines find in oneself): breast many ambitious jealous of prove their dedication to the order, by exchanging caliber bullets versus shotgun bullets.

the bastilles, I strongly urge him in his interest to do come from the Swiss to keep them j there must be some still have a few to sell in the markets from Lucerne or Zurich. Soon the country will ask through the voice of its representatives, may the army be required to give his work to the State, in compensation for hundreds of millions that it absorbs. The army has cost nearly five billion since 1830. Abd-el-

166 OF THE. t'ÉODALLTf: FINAKCIËKE.

Kader alone imposes on us an annual tribute of one hundred millions and ten thousand soldiers, not counting the horses. Ah! if this one knew how to write the bulletins of victory* like us!

The use of the army for major utility works public is already even an accredited system in France. The minister who gave the greatest impetus vigorously to major works of public utility by his law of ninety-three millions, Mr. Thiers, who has shown himself to be truly a statesman this that time, Mr. Thiers had the troops make the main roads of Vendée; he even got the right one spirit of calling these roads strategic roads, to maintain the soldier in this salutary illusion" that we did not distract him from his noble warrior destination, by making him leave the musket for the pickaxe. If the first attempt did not completely justify the es- the minister's perances, in relation to the economy public funds, at least he has them fully confirmed in terms of the perfection of the work. Finally the principle of the army competition triumphed, morally; the experiment took place. If the soldiers have been paid too much the first time., we will be less generous the second, and all will be said for the question of arsent. But the real crux of the difficulty is not not here.

The real objection to present in the current state, against the system of employment of the army to large works of public utility, it is the lack of organization special purpose of the army for purposes of public utility, The ar-

' Had soldier style, torrents of jokes.

IMMEDIATE REFORMS. 167

current life, established under the ancient principle of |i;war, conscientiously ask officers, who have not not been taught to lead workers, that they act welcome a change in diet the first effect of which will be to reduce their importance tance and increase their uselessness. Bad will of the officer must have been for a lot so far in the resistance brought to the employment of the soldier as worker; and these resistances, we repeat, are all natural. The transformation of the destructive army tive into a productive army, requires a new organization velle where engineering science has more space than bravery and dedication alone. The spade and the level have more to do now for the service of peoples, than the bayonet and the sword. The exploitation careers and public celebrations will think in the future more of saltpeter than cannon.

The organization of the industrial army is still a of the first consequences of the recognition of right to work. We cannot proclaim a principle of eternal justice, without immediately all the goods in arise, without beneficial reforms escape from all sides, like the rays of theirs with a bright focus.

As soon as the State is forced to provide work to every any of the members of society, and to open immense workshops to give space to all its workers, a one of the first needs of the State is to organize these workshops link and establish order and hierarchy in this new branch of public administration. THE current government has a monopoly on various

168 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

industries, the letter post service, the dres, tobacco. All these services are perfectly organized. Postal workers, tobacco workers, and powders are better paid and more fairly remunerated, as to their individual merit, that all other workers of free industry, and the State ensures, what free industry does not do, a retirement honorable for the age of old age and infirmity.
The government also has in the bodies of the engineering, artillery, navy and bridges and roadways, an army of model workers, army cleverly hierarchical, organized, where grades do not are given only to proven capacity, where the services rendered to the State are also rewarded, beyond the time of service, by a pension proportionate to the

as they are called, do not enjoy any consideration superior to that of other weapons, only because that these bodies are armed for the job, as well than for destruction. The part of the bridges and shoes seated, which leaves no room for destruction, is more sought after and more honored than artillery and the genius. Opinion must always be inclined to pay tribute to the work. The fierce soldiers of Attila, who believed themselves sent by God to deny the crimes of the earth, and who did not want the grass grew back on the place where their horses had past, the Huns respected the worker. I need say in passing, about learned weapons and for justify railway execution theory by the State, that the work of the fortifications of Paris, undertaken by the State and directed by the body of engineers

nIMMEDIATE REFORMS. 169

military deniers, is certainly one of the wonders monumental works of the time. Celerity, economy, reliability quality, elegance, this work meets all the conditions of perfect execution: all it lacks is that of the public utility, and this is a defect whose workers do not have to respond. Perfection, economy and speed with which they were executed the fortifications of Paris, are the victorious refutation of all the arguments of the industry's defenders private, who do not want the State to be able to do too well, as quickly and as cheaply as individuals bind. The State does better than anyone else when it wants to do well, because he has at his disposal the agents the most capable, although the least paid; and he would have made the way to the North with the same superiority than the bastilles of Paris, if the impatience of the consignees would not have imposed on him the sad obligation of spoil his work; and the country would have seen that we did not need, to build our routes of communication, help from English. THE railway from Paris to Rouen, executed by a Anglo-French company, was built with a such economy and such negligence, that the first first engineers charged by the government with received the work, did not accept it. We say that the minister at the time, a man as complacent as possible, was obliged, to have this work accepted, to nominate Wed other experts. Anyway, there are some parts of this railway, it is said, and in particular the RoUeboise tunnel, the state of which is seriously threatened public safety. It is still said that the new way solidity than that of Rouen. This must be if it is not not. Dealers, who are speculators, have to take care of the investment of their shares and not the safety of travelers. Enter into enjoyment the most promptly possible, that is their aim, their unified aim that; they know perfectly well that before ten years, the operation will have forced the State to resume ownership and administration of all railways.

170 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

I already said that these lines were written two years ago before the Barentin viaduct accident. The viaduct of Barentin collapsed because the contractor had aimed at the economy, and used for the foundations of the construction, bricks of inferior quality and which are reduced to a paste under the enormous pressure they had to endure. It's impossible to think calmly to the dimensions of the catastrophe reserved for the population of Paris, to the administration, to the family royal, if the Barentin viaduct had had the patience to remain standing until the first convoy. What would have been in the memory of men the auto-da-fé of Bellemeuse and the drownings of Fampoux, near the collapse of Barentin!

We know that the company from Rouen to Le Havre refuses currently exposing the Malaunay viaduct to solidity tests that the administration wants subjecting.

The July catastrophe in no way invalidates the accuracy of my assertion, I repeat, as to the superiority of construction work on bridges and roads. We were too hasty to deliver the way to please Mr. Rothschild, it is true; but it is the minister who is responsible for this imprudence, and it is probable that despite this fault, the new path would have been sufficient for service, if the company had not thought of replacing twenty-two thousand kilogram locomotives old thirteen thousand locomotives.

IMMEDIATE REFORMS. 171

I therefore said that the recognition of the right to work brought, as a first consequence, the organization of work; – that the government invested with cut off, was forced to organize his new jobs-theirs, as he organizes the workers today engineering or bridges and roads, at the rigor of discipline close. These are the first elements of our industrial army found, an army where the grades are given to science, to the ability to prove vated by experience, where all the faculties of the body and intelligence can manifest freely in the various degrees of the hierarchy, where work will be attractive, because he will be remunerated proportionately nally to his merit, and because the soldier of the in-dustrie will have its future assured. I now add that after the right to work was recognized, this army in-productive industry will be the only one that the nation wants will bear.

Because the recognition of the right to work kills the mid-' serene and begging, gives pride of place to all travalorous, arm all citizens against the splitter, now without excuse, and radically destroyed in their germ is riot and revolutions. So can-that our industrial cities have ceased to be factories of starving, since antagonism no longer exists between the workers and the masters of associated comes, it is not no longer necessary to maintain garrisons of twelve

172 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

a thousand men (as in Lyon) or forty thousand men (as in Paris); and if the garrisons are not more necessary there, they are even less so elsewhere their....

It has been a long time, in fact, that neighboring peoples no longer fear us and that they have disarmed. This are the oppressive governments that maintain hatred and rivalries between people; these are the lords of England who instruct their helots to hate us; the British aristocracy would be down tomorrow if the Saxon, the Irish and the Gaul understand born that their interest is to join hands, to abjure their grudges. The postage of the tra-valor makes every man a brother to him. THE Possibilities of war with foreign countries have therefore disappeared.
The customs barriers have fallen. The principles of true freedom, based on the well-being of people pulations, circulate from one end of Europe to the other with the speed of steam, and penetrate until bottom of the steppes beyond Russia. Science alone, by inventing formidable machines of destruction, everywhere transformed into work workshops. The tra-armed valors of state capital, the stock exchange uni-verselle, joyfully greet the discovery of the pro-mechanical transfers which free humanity from the most difficult work, and went the efforts of the arms, making production easier. The prostitution, result of the crushing of the weaker sex by the strong sex, disappears with the consequences of others tyrannies. So the State no longer needs its armies unproductive. The barracks and citadels are too much; barracks and citadels undergo the same transformation than the jails and penal colonies.

IMMEDIATE REFORMS. 173

Here then are the States freed from the burden of armies permanent unproductive, by the sole fact of recognition of the right to work and the combination harmonic birth of the elements of social wealth, capital, talent and labor. Remains the army in-productive duster; stay, if you still want, magistrate of the municipal police, established for ensure the maintenance of order and morals in the communes, and settled by them.

In the past (because I continue to swim in the middle of utopia), in the past, when the scourge of war, each member of society owed common cause the blood tax, the service tax military. Today, this blood tax has become labor tax. Since the company is responsible for provide for the needs of the poor, the child, the old man, no one can be exempt from tax work. Let this tax be only as light and as easy to pay as possible; that no function administrative cannot be granted to anyone who has not not served in the ranks of the workers' army; the duration of the service will be all the shorter as the number of workers will be greater.

This army of workers has the mission of reafforest the mountains and dam the rivers; of transform moors and marshes into ironlands tiles, and the arid hillsides into rich pastures, using a vast national irrigation system; and more rally all population centers by means of transport fastest and most economical communication ques ; finally to facilitate the emigration of excess the population of metropolises, melting for man civilization, new homes on the continents uninhabited areas. The industrial army is the great national labor school. There, all processes per-developed in science are put to the test every day, and every worker is able to study its use. There, the Fassociafon regime which increases the forces tenfold active and removes parasitic functions, spreads its marvels of economy and harmony^ and the commune, taking advantage of the example, appropriates the institutions of the army. The fragmented properties come together, the expensive fences disappear, and with them the lawsuit, chicafte and usury; the badlands are returned to the production of woods, the meadows to the cattle grazing. The vine that was said to be too fertile formerly, in times of misery, the vine quadruples its production which still remains insufficient for the needs of the enriched worker. Work is ennobled by its beneficial results; good faith, exiled by anarchic competition, enters into transactions commercial; the legislation erases from its code the article insulting to God, who made forced labor the most terrible sorrows after death; the charter does not lie more when it affirms that all citizens are equal before the law, for the law has bowed them all for two or three years below work level; and this honorable brotherhood of useful work, which carries out equality much better than the brotherhood of weapons, tightened between all the inhabitants of the same kingdom the bonds of affection and nationality. THE honored work has confused all ranks....

IMMEDIATE REFORMS. 175

I allow Mr. Dunoyer and Mr. Louis Reybaud, and to all other winners of Monlhyon Virtue Prizes, who stand for anarchic competition and do not want not that we link members to public poisoners, I allow, I say, all the false scholars of Teconomisme, to have a lot of fun with the preceding table, and to claim for its author a place in Charenton; I only ask them to agree that there is today something to do, that is to say a few urgent improvements to be introduced in the system of the army and in the recruitment system.

Question of recruitment.

poor proletarians who pay the tax on their own blood, and who alone defend the ground that they do not possess do not sedate... A law vitiated by such a principle of initiation equity is enough to wither the legislation of a people free.

And it must still be an abusive system, I imagine, that this replacement system which introduces into the ranks of our army sold a hundred thousand, which, according to the revelations of the Minister of War at the tribune, provide four times more convictions than the soldiers chosen by lot. I do not want ask if the head of the army, in the event of war, would have the right to count on the dedication and loyalty of these mercenaries, as he would count on the rest of his troops. I only know, from history, that the trading States which only possessed a very restricted national territory, and who were forced to resort to the use of mercenary troops, as Cartilage and Venice, have all been betrayed by fortune weapons.

176 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

But what name should we use to stigmatize this infamous industry? this trade in human air, this trade in white people, that we allowed to settle in our home, during that our puritan philanthropists, Mr. Guizot, Mr. Passy and M. de Broglie allied themselves with the Puritans and clay to abolish the slave trade?

Economists, answer, if it is not a big evil, a shame, that such ridiculous contradictions cules, however scandalous, can be found in the legislation of a great people! Well your voice is powerful to you; the government gave you jobs and chairs; you own newspapers that the people cherish, and the Academy awards you crowns of virtue. So if you recognize evil, you are required to report it to the company which has faith in your lights. The academies and the government wait. What are you waiting to bet and tell us? the cure? s

Ah! I guess the reasons for your silence. You can take on the traffickers of human flesh maine, without putting yourself in contradiction with yourself-same. And in fact, there are no more reasons for link the four members to the Jews who traffic of wine and flour whose trade flourished under the aegis of your venerated dogmas. Economists, glory to you and to the Jews! Because they are Jews, note carefully, real ones Jews of Judah, who run shops almost everywhere of human flesh.

IMMEDIATE REFORMS. 177

And then, it's more convenient, isn't it, to laugh at the propositions of those who seek the truth in good faith, than to tire one's mind with such works !

I don't know if I've studied this question enough. recruitment to have the right to substitute my idea to another ; but as there is no need to rack your brains to improvise a system that is worth better than the current system, I don't see why I would deprive myself of the right to present this idea which certainment will always be better than what is.

The recruitment law in force today violates the principle of natural equity, by bringing down on the proletarian the defense of land ownership and furniture that he does not own.

It violates the principle of the Charter, which says that all citizens contribute to public expenses, in proportion of their fortune - in that the proletarian, designated by lot, is obliged to sacrifice the seven most beautiful years of his life in the service of the State, while the son of the rich man can free himself from this obligation, means of a sum of six hundred francs deposited, whatever years ago, in an insurance fund.

It compromises the security of the State, by pouring into the ranks of the army too many mercenaries, which alters the composition and strength of this army.

Finally, the free replacement system gave birth of a despicable industry which exploits, at the times, the families, the replacements, the replaced and the state. The existence of this parasitic industry is a shame for the country that tolerates it,

H 12

The reform to be proposed must therefore relate to these four main points.

I need to proclaim, before exposing my system—tem, that in principle, according to me, no one should be freed from military service, with the exception of those currently employed in the service of the State, or who intend to serve it. This principle is observed in Prussia, absolute monarchical government, which could provide the friends of liberty with excellent models of liberal institutions. The more the individual richer, the more he is required to contribute to the defense of National territory. Ancient republics had makes military service a privilege for men free. This principle of the obligation of military service, for all citizens, especially for the rich, would be undoubtedly unacceptable today, that money is the sovereign rule of law; but if the legislation tolerates the violation of the principle, which it attenuates less, for the proletarian, the consequences of this violation of common law.

It seems to me that the law could say;

“The duration of military service is fixed at five years for conscripts designated by lot and for volunteer enlistees. It is fixed at ten years or eight years for replacements,

“It is permissible for young people to get ahead of the times of conscription, of two years, when they present will, moreover, be the conditions of validity and size required by law.

{(The military administration alone is responsible for provide replacements. Families of young people who want to be replaced, deal directly with his agents. They are freed from all es—part of guarantee, concerning the driving and the reality of replacements. The replacement price is regulated each year, at a fixed time, by law or by a royal order published and posted in all the communes of the kingdom, and who must be converted into law in the following session.

IMMEDIATE REFORMS. 179

((Half of the replacement price is capitalized with interest by the State, to the savings bank, service time. The other half is paid to him every year in the hands, by twelfth, with the interests loans. In the event of death under the flag, all sums owed to the replacement shall immediately return to his family.

i< Any conscript, designated by lot or enlisted volunteer, who, at the time of his release, continues signs a new five-year commitment, receives from the State a bonus of three hundred francs.

"Any soldier, conscript, replacement or enlisted member lonnaire, is entitled after twenty years of service to a retirement pension of three hundred francs. THE places of guards of state waters and forests, of candles of public establishments, supervisors of rural and municipal police; the flow rates goods whose monopoly belongs to the State, are expressly and exclusively reserved for military personnel, the wounded, the volunteer enlistees, to the men who served. »

I said above that I only delivered this project as a draft and as a specimen of the reform ^ introduce into the current recruitment system.

480 OF M FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Now, it is visible that the simple modification that I insays, would already bring significant improvements in this system.

Indeed, the measure which doubles the duration of service military for the replaced, imposes idle wealth for the benefit of the proletarian. By the very fact that the replaced serves ten years, it is easy to reduce to five years the length of service of the conscript or voluntarily enlisted person silence, without bringing a notable reduction in the army personnel. The wish of the Charter and that of natural equity who want the rich to contribute more heavily to public charges than the poor, are filled.

Since the price of replacement is doubled, many young people of good condition, for whom the acquisition replacement would now be a sacrifice too heavy, will be tempted to free themselves from the chances of fate, by enlisting voluntarily from the age of seventeen or eighteen years old, so as to find oneself perfectly liberated at the age of twenty-two or twenty-three crowds of young people from the countryside and towns, too poor to redeem themselves in case of bad luck.

On the other hand, the state service will present, even for the simple soldier, quite great advantages of a—come to try the ambition of a multitude of tra—workers, to whom their work does not ensure enjoyment retirement at the age of forty. This term of twenty years of service and forty years of age for fixing the time of the soldier's retirement is equitable. The soldier, upon returning home, must be still capable of forming an establishment. It is not the same for the officer to whom his retirement pension must ensure an honorable existence and rights litical. The army, then, will be largely recruited through voluntary enlistments.

IMMEDIATE RESPONSIBILITIES. 181

The State responsible for providing replacements, finds them will live in as many numbers as he desires, and in conscripts who will have completed their five years, and in replacements who will have completed their ten years, and who have not will have only ten more years to serve to obtain their retirement and rights to public employment. This person prospect of retirement and public employment at the age of forty years, will bring emulation among the soldiers salutary good conduct and zeal; because everyone will make himself worthy of the favors of the State, upon expiration of his time of service.

Thus the ignoble industry of the merchants of men disappears.

The replacement would no longer fall into the ranks of the army than of elite subjects. The poorly worker happy would find in the service of the State a refuge against poverty and its guilty suggestions, and the armee would once again become what it has been for so long, the school of selflessness, honor and morality.

Yet another step now on the path to progress. Let a school be attached to each regiment professional, that we confine the regiments of cavalerie in farms that they will promote, like the asks Marshal Bugeaud, who will soon be minister of war, and the army will have already started to undergo its transformation from an unproductive and idle army into a productive industrial army ^ in accordance with peaceful wishes formulated by the illustrious warrior banquet of April 7, 1840.,

182 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

It remains for me, to finish this book, to expose this solution to the question of sugars, which I found committed to providing as an example of results mer-pilots that the nation could remove from the application of the state monopoly. Before fulfilling my promise, I will ask permission to protest against a latest blunder of the liberal school and the economists mists by trying to rehabilitate the principle of lottery. I said the principle, nothing more, I didn't need to defend myself from the intention to rehabilitate the old game.

, I>c the lottery.

Either I'm very wrong, or the lottery tax will be called to play a big role one day in the me-fiscal canism of well-organized states.

The lottery tax is the most spontaneous of all Taxes. He can make mountains with grains sand. The sale of lottery tickets is the only way to charge for an object ten times what it is worth, while giving it to whoever earns it for the tenth of its value. When you charge a hundred francs and one object worth twenty francs, by means of one hundred banknotes one franc, the winner finds himself having made another cheaper than you.

When an association of charitable people undertakes to come to the aid of misery, she recourse by means of the lottery, and she succeeded in thus raise the price of the objects it puts up for sale. Chaeveryone hastens to subscribe to the good work, because the individual sacrifice is light; he is more likely to compensation, and the proceeds of the collection can arrive at a considerable figure. It is to be regretted that the government does not organize the charitable lottery on a larger scale to help the classes its poor. There are magnificent results to be obtained by the lottery process. I would like better for extraordinary taxes of the cities the lottery that the grant.

IMMEDIATE REFORMS. 183

rue Saint-Denis and rue Saint-Martin in a series of squares, in the style of the Palais-Royal, would come at the end, without loosening the purse, after four to five years, with a lottery whose winning prizes consist of would be the property of future constructions. We would sell by this means five hundred thousand francs which would be worth a hundred thousand, and as long as the example was contagious, we would see all the old neighborhoods disappear the big cities, and the ugly cities take on the skin new. The vast church of Saint-Sulpice was built in last century with the proceeds of a lottery. The occasion is beautiful today to apply this in a big way city lottery beautification system of Paris, where the displacement of the population which door to the northwest, threatens the entire old city of desertion and complete ruin; because Paris that we want to abandon would certainly be the most beautiful if it were purged from its vile alleys. He has water, terrain features, islands, hills and ancient monuments. A somewhat bold councilor who would be born the power of the shields and the force of the lever of the lottery, would not need ten years deviates masterful to transform the City and the rue de la Huchette, with their surroundings, in enchanted gardens, with an entire arm of the Seine as a reservoir waterfalls.

184 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Unfortunately, liberals and philanthropists who frequent the Stock Exchange, who honor stock trading and excuse the bankruptcy, have banned the lottery as a immoral and harmful tax to the interests of the people. They find it perfectly legitimate that a banker, who plays with certainty, that is to say with loaded dice, profits of several millions on a new the loss of Bourse that he makes, and that he ruins a hundred families; but they do not understand that a poor French worker çais, favored by fate, wins a castle in Austria che or a house in Paris without ruining anyone either. Everything for the Jews, everything by the Jews!

QUESTION OF SUGARS. 185

CHAPTER XI.

Question of strictures.

God did not limit himself to surrounding the continents of a belt of oceans, and to pierce them with internal seas to facilitate relationships between all residents so many of the globe; he strangled these continents and lowered their mountains in their midst to indicate to man the place where his industry had to cut them A day; he equipped each area with a special product that must have been needed by the populations of other areas, in order to to force between all these producers the reciprocal exchange about their products.

So he placed the sugarcane with the coffee and the cotton in the equatorial region, the richest of all your. He gave to temperate zones, wine, wheat and the oak. Nor did he disinherit the cold ones pole regions; he gave them the tree and the animals furry, and he made the depths of their seas the refuge of monstrous cetaceans and the homeland of these delicate fish, including countless muasses, manna from the desert waters, periodically bring to the inhabitants of the coasts of Europe and America, the precious tribute of their flesh.

Wine, flour and all plant products from temperate zones combine with sugar to compose serve the most generous drinks and the most generous foods

186 FROM THERE FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

healthiest and most delicate. These drinks and foods are suitable for all countries that seek them sing eagerly. There is almost no food completely bad for humans with sugar, just as there is no mistaking the salt for domestic ruminants. Also God has Spread salt and sugar profusely over the entire surface. face of the earth, in order to ensure subsistence everywhere of man and that of the herds which constitute his wealth. All you have to do is see, from today, in what proportion is the combination of sugar and salt marine, with milk, enters into food consumption commentary of the people. When real science economic will have established its axioms and done justice to the Today's financial nonsense, sugar and salt will be the most common and least common foodstuffs imposed.

It is therefore important that sugar, which is a commodity primary necessity, not a luxury commodity, as economists claim, since it is door, I say, to bring down the sugar, by the dictatidity of its price, within the reach of consumption of poorer households, if we want to achieve an improvement essential lioration in the diet of the people.

Now, if it is admitted that the cane is, of all vehicles known plants, the one which provides the greatest quantity relative quantity of sugar, and the one who can supply it to best possible conditions, we must already recognize arise that the interest of the masses requires that the monopoly of sugar production is reserved for the intertropical zone.

QUESTION OF SUGARS. 187

This is the general principle that we must not lose seen in this question of sugars.

Unfortunately, our economists and our philanthropists were precisely left out. God and man have no greater enemies than these false scientists and these false philosophers; because it is igno-rancid which produces impiety.

Indeed, true science being only the discovery green of the means that God uses to govern nature ture, it follows that any scientific discovery must increase in its author the religious feeling and the admirsion of the works of the Creator. On the other hand, it is necessary conclude that all impious science is false ^ and that all blasphemy is a hallmark of ignorance.

Who was more religious than Pythagoras, than Columbus, that Keppler, that Newton, that Fourier, these sublime discoverers, to whom it was given to read so closely in the works of God? Who was more ignorant of history natural as Voltaire, TErosirate of the Maid, who attributed the presence of oyster shells, found on the Alps, to the remains of the generals' lunches Romans!

Do you want to judge at first glance whether a any government measure, policy or financial, is consistent with the data of the real science? see if the aim and principles of this measure agree with God's views. The sugar of beetroot is a discovery of the war spirit, which is not the spirit of God.

God created the sugar cane to connect (religio) the to substitute the sugar of a plant from the temperate zones

^S8 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

reated with cane sugar, is eminently antisocial, and the people who adopt it must be mystified. It's that which happened for the French people.

The English people, a commercial people par excellence, did not commit such awkwardness.

The edict of 1652, the famous edict of Cromwell, banned formally to national cultivators the culture tobacco and other plants which may be the object commercial relations with distant lands.

The navigation edict of 1652 was considered by all somewhat intelligent economists, like one of the strongest foundations of maritime power England.

But we French people, people of spirit, when we borrow something from the English, we are careful to choose. We take his hatred from him against royalty, its forms of corruption and venal, his meals of men and his gluttons solitary, his horse bets and his hunting dogs mute. We were careful not to put the hand on Cromwell's edict, and we allow the tobacco cultivation metropolis.

I suppose that the general considerations which previous have succeeded in unnerving the spleen of our economies mists, and that this grotesque idea of involving divine will in a matter of commerce, the was sufficiently entertained. And, in fact, what does God care about? he gets involved, and wouldn't it be better to leave philosophers and economists the supreme direction things of this world. A Polish scholar wrote, he a few years ago, in a work that no one understood, that it was time for God to hand over to man the yction of his globe... and gave him his accounts of guardianship! he should have added.

QUESTION OF SUGARS. 189

Let us now see how economists have corrected the work of God in this question of sugars.

liC cane sugar and beet sugar.

The juice of the cane, the vesou, contains eighteen to twenty parts out of a hundred of crystallizable sugar, that is say a fifth of its weight.

Beetroot juice only contains seven to eight parts, that is to say the twelfth part of its weight.

All the sugar from the cane can be extracted with the greatest ease of liquor. He crystal-read immediately, when the operation is well carried out pick.

The residues of the cane juice give by distillation lation of products that are easily placed in the trade, such as rum, brown sugar, medicine tired.

The extraction of beet sugar is excessively complicated; complicated; even with the help of scientific processes most advanced techniques, it is rare that the ren-crystallizable sugar level reaches 6 for 0/0 of the quantity processed. This yield is, moreover, proportional to the time interval which separates the time of harvest and crushing; he is in inverse proportion to the duration of this time. Beet requests to be submitted as quickly as possible to crushing. Beet sugar residue does not only produce quality alcohol and molasses lower.

190 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Cane sugar is denser and lighter than beet sugar. It's the only one we can take use advantageously for the preparation of sugared almonds and jams. The scientists claim, for their beet sugar, absolute equality of merit; but there is against the authority of chemists, the authority of more respectable shot of housewives and confectioners, who know perfectly well that the preserves prepared with beet sugar are not safe.

Finally, beet sugar, helped by all the resources of science and capital, would never have could fight without immunity against cane sugar, abandoned to routine processes and deprived of capital resources. The law of 1842, which decreed the equalization of the tax on indigenous sugar and on colonial sugar in five years, will have been struck dead, before the expiry of this period, all small manufacturers support each other, because they have more than one rope to their bow.

The cane sugar from our colonies pays into the treasury a tax of forty-nine francs and fifty centimes per hundred kilograms, let's say fifty centimes per kilogram.

Beet sugar, which is also expensive and which sugars much less, only pays the treasury one tax of twenty-seven francs fifty centimes per hundred kilograms, or twenty-eight cents per kilogram.

Foreign colonial sugar pays tax to the treasury approximately seventy francs per hundred kilograms, or seventy cents per kilogram.

The official figure for sugar consumption,

QUESTION OF SUGARS. 191

in France, being today one hundred and thirty million of kilograms, it follows that, if all the sugar consumed was supplied by sugar from our colonies and foreign colonies, that is to say if the sugar of bet-terave did not exist, the treasury would collect, for tax sugars:

1° For eighty million kilos, figure maximum production of our colonies, at a rate of fifty hundred, per kilogram. 40, 000,000 fr.

2° Of the fifty million kilograms, what would the pro-foreign colonial induction, rightly seventy cents per kilo gram, be: , 35,000,000

Sum. 75,000,000

However, the official figures, published by the ministry of finance, establish that the tax income of the sugar was for 1,844:

1° On colonial French sugar. 41,000,000 fr.

2° On colonial sugar which is almost entirely reex-door . . (0)

Total 47,000,000

Difference in loss for the treasury. 28,000,000

These figures speak for themselves. Sugar production native therefore annually costs France a sum of twenty-eight million. When I evaluated two hundred million the loss that the existence of this industry had caused for fifteen years to treasure, I therefore remained much below the truth. Furthermore, the official figures admitted a few years ago a loss of one hundred and sixty eight millions.

592 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

And that's not all, we must add to this loss the costs of collecting the indigenous sugar tax, which, covering itself by exercise, that is to say by the most expensive and the most vexatious of all processes covering, must absorb at least a quarter of the income from this tax. I) there is therefore still a need to reduce the product of indigenous sugar, by one million five hundred thousand francs at least.

It has also been proven that the fraud carried out on native sugar, took away every year from the treasury the tax income on around ten million kilograms. And this is so true that the government saw himself obliged to present, in the course of the session of 1845, a special law to repress this fraud. To be carried in addition, at the expense of the treasury and in addition to its losses, the figure of this fraud and the excess costs of the recovery method ment (the exercise) on that of perception at the ports of the metropolis, two or three million, more or less. In short, we can evaluate the product of these hundred thirty million kilograms of sugar, amounting to the general consumption of France, at forty million, that is to say an income of thirty-two cents times and a half per kilogram, although the tax hit on colonial sugar really amounts to fifty centimes per kilogram, in addition to shipping costs shipping, waste, insurance, etc.

And let us note that this enormous loss of thirty at thirty-two million per year for the treasury, did not have consumer, since the price of sugar remained at approximately the same, and that production is reduced to Tacronia on the continent as well as on the islands. The sugar of beet did not encourage any new industry, whatever his lawyers claim.

I therefore reproduce the summary of the situation that I have given at the beginning of this writing, for the question of sugars.

The treasury has suffered a loss of two one hundred million on the income from the sugar tax. And, pen- During these fifteen years the consumption of sugar has always days been increasing, and the tax rate did not been reduced.

Naturally it was necessary to ask for indirect tax these two hundred million that the government sacrificed trusted to promote the development of an industry not viable.

Here now is another series of considerations policies.

Regardless of income doubles than sugar of cane poured into the treasury, it is he who feeds our maritime expeditions, and which gives the most vivid impression impulse to the movement of our commercial ports. THE number of ships used by French commerce with our colonies alone is about six hundred, of which the tonnage amounts to nearly two hundred thousand tons and whose crews consist of eight thousand crew long-term telots, that is to say maintain for the State Navy an admirable soil nursery-but, rlont 1 education does not cost a cent at the treasure, while the education of each sailor takes bent on cod fishing, comes to him six hundred francs. France's trade with its colonies sugar alone accounts for a third of the movement general management of our maritime expeditions. La Marti- nique and Guadeloupe alone consume times as many French products as Prussia and Russia united. Let us repeat e^icore for the record, that it exists between the metropolis and its colonies a charter, a synallagmatic contract under which the me- tropole undertakes to purchase all products from its colonies, in return (3rd the condition imposed on those here, to obtain supplies exclusively from the ports of or manufactured products that they would need. The oppressed colonies were unable to evade their commitments. Here regardless of unfair immunity granted to the production of indigenous sugar, a new sample of the fidelity with which the metropole executes its commitments.
II 13

In January 1841, it existed in warehouse, years the various customs of France, eleven thousand six hundred seventy-two metric quintals of colonial sugar not sold, this quint, met. 11,672

In 1842, this quantity amounted to. . . 14,000

In 1843, 26,000

This quantity must probably have increased since then. That is to say that during these last six years—born, sixty to eighty thousand metric quintals of colonial sugar, representative for the production of colonial sugar a sum of three to four million, and for the treasury a tax of one million three hundred thousand francs remained unsold on the national market. But it is necessary that the fraud carried out on sugar indigenous and which introduces into the consumption of millions of kilograms free of all rights, is made feel somewhere. It's contraband, manufacturers of beet sugar that is killing the legitimate industry settlers.

QUESTION OF SUGARS. 195

It would also be fair to take into account the amounts that the State would have perceived by the effect and the extension of business that would infallibly have led to the importation of fifty million kilograms of foreign sugar; because we do not sell without buying, even though we don't buy without selling.

Who benefited from these immense losses of the treasury and this splendid holocaust of the interests of our navy, of our commerce, our industry, our international fluency?

Some thirty or forty capitalists rounded up producers who benefit from the re-export bonus, bankers who sponsor indigenous manufacturing, owners of a few districts of two or bankers are always those of the Périers and of the Delesserts. The district of Valenciennes where are located the mines of Anzin, so hostile to the treaties customs alliance, is also the one which has the greater number of native sweets, hostile to maritime trade. The district of Valenciennes also enjoys a monopoly on manufacturing and the cultivation of chicory, an odious root which is not even to coffee what beets are to the walking stick. There could be an interesting chapter on this subject: what the prosperity of the district of Valenciennes costs France every year!

196 OF FINANCIAL FEODALITY.

And despite the enormous cost that the whole of France pays to the district of Valenciennes, I would offer many bet again that it is one of the districts of France which provide the greatest number of men-deities and prostitutes.

Examining the arguments used by supporters beet sugar, will demonstrate that the ruin of the treasure only benefited these privileged few that I designated earlier.

Arguments in favor of beet sugar.

There are three types of arguments in favor of sugar beetroot. Agronomic – political arguments – philanthropic.

Agronomic arguments.

I read in 1837, in the Constitutionnel ^ at the time of the presentation of the excellent law of Mr. Duchâtel, who wanted to achieve the annihilation of the candy native by the reduction of the tax on colored sugar nial, I read, that the slightest attack on the industry sorting of the beet would prevent the clearing of the moors of Brittany (textual).

No harm has been done to the industry beet, which does not prevent the moors of Bre-I hate being as uneducated as before.

The article in the Constitutionnel should belong to

Mr. Mathieu de Dombasles.... Mr. Mathieu de Dombasles was a distinguished agronomist who had some weaknesses in his life, notably the passion of U sugar beet and hatred of the vine. He wrote a long treatise against the vine, the noblest and most holy of crops, the vine which fertilizes the hillsides arid and gives birth to products that man loves the most. This treatise by Mr. de Dombasles had the misfortune of reproducing, word for word, the principles principles of the famous edict of 92 by Domitian, under from which all the vines which made the wealth of Gaul were torn away. The Barbarians Edicts of Charles IX and Henry III had also provided Mr. de Dombasles excellent arguments in his belief moral and agronomic shame against the vine, a plant, he said somewhere, whose cultivation distreusse seems to have something intoxicating like the liquor it produces. The same published, a year before his death, in the Journal of Agriculture, Maison rustique from the 19th century in a very virulent article against the Rossignols, but full of kind sympathies for the caterpillars.

Mr. Mathieu de Dombasles, one of the most most fiery of prohibition in matters of commerce, was one of those serious economists, who would gladly surround their homeland with a wall of porcelain to isolate it from the rest of the globe. He was for chicory versus coffee, since chicory is a national commodity, for the beet against the cane, by the same reason. He shared the opinion of Mr. Marshal Bugeaud with regard to foreign cattle gers. The vineyard, however, that Mr. de Dombasles has so cruelly persecuted, after Nomitian and Charles IX, is also an eminently national sector; but the illustrious agronomist only sacrificed it to wheat: it is justice to be done to him, he has only tarnished his usurpations. Where Mr. Mathieu de Dombasles was located completely in contradiction with the doctrines prohibitives, it was on the question of caterpillars. Here he-luster agronomist had completely changed course, and declared the outraged supporter of laissez-faire and theoretician laughs at the spear of Achilles. He said that the multiplication excessive use of caterpillars that devour trees leads to the appearance of a second species of caterpillars who devour the first, and that from then on we cannot

^9S OF YOUR FINANCIAL FOYALTY.

Mr. Mathieu de Dombasles therefore had this badge Snalheur, to write that the ban on sweets indigene would prohibit the clearing of the moors of Brittany. I want to try to reassure the heirs of its doctrines, as to the disastrous consequences-its damage to beet cultivation.

It has been proven, by official figures and welcomed even by agronomists, that fifty thousand hectares planted with sugar beets, for provide double and triple consumption of the current consumption in France. Fifty thousand hectares, it's not quite the thousandth part of the area of the national territory. We do not see well, a priori, how does the progress of culture beyond sugar beet, which will never occupy more than one si small portion of the territory, could react on the clearing of the moors of Brittany. Beet is an exhausting plant in the first place, which cannot be cultivated with advantage only in the most more fertile, and which requires repeated and distributed fertilizers pendious, two sine qua non conditions for success, that the moors of Brittany will not be able to present soon. The Breton moors argument-ne is however one of the most important agronomic arguments most powerful that have been invoked in support of sugar native.

QUESTION OF SUGARS. ^99

Second agronomic argument.

It has been said: beetroot is a root whose cultivation will introduce into the crop rotations an im-bearing, in that it will be interspersed as a sar- harvest key between the cereal harvests whose repetitions too frequent tires the ground....

This is simply a lie. The cultivars tors, to whom the current law grants a bonus of seven one hundred and twenty francs per hectare, cannot reasonably abandon a culture so richly paid for another. They cultivate ten years of following the beet in the same field; they supplement to the exhaustion of the soil by the energy and abundance of fertilizer. These are the supposed benefits of beets from the point of view of crop rotation. The beet destroys any species of crop rotation.

Third agronomic argument.

Beet cultivation increases the mass of fertilizer, due to the abundant food which provides livestock with its leaves and pulp crushed roots.

A lie even more impudent than the one who gives way.

Beetroot is so far from being able to sustain itself

200 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

itself for the fertilizers, which its cultivation gave birth to the creation of a special fertilizer trade, which takes borrows its energetic elements, the bones, the rags, city sludge, etc., to all regions of the kingdom where beets are not grown. The bet-terave consumes ten times more fertilizer than it uses product: I gave the reason earlier; we cultivates it ten years in a row in the same field. Mr. Mathieu de Dombasles, who so harshly reproached ment to the vineyard the manure that it absorbs, was well unlikely on this point towards the bet-terave.

Finally we dared to write that sugar beet, in providing livestock with an immense amount of food food, would favor the breeding and fertilization of national livestock, and would tend to put our breeders in a position of support deny competition from foreign breeders.

The friends of the beet and Mr. Marshal Bugeaud, ex-rapporteur of the sugar law, imposed it here to public good faith.

Beet, grown as a fodder root, is without doubt one of the plants which are suitable better for livestock food; she is also in favor of improving the crop rotation regime, and it returns to the earth a large quantity of fertilizer, since it is entirely devoted to food domestic animals. What agronomists have said of the sugar beet is true of the beet fodder, but of this only. NOW, when we say that the pulp of crushed beet and deprived of the sweet principle is eminently clean to fatten cattle, we simply say the thing

QUESTION OF SUGARS. 201

who is not. Beet residue from which we extracted sugar can be used to nourish, but not to fatten the cattle, and it is still necessary to that these residues are mixed with other more nutritious substances. It is also famous public, that the flesh of the cattle which have eaten some time of these residues is flabby and tasteless, and gives very little tallow. I lived in the city of Lille, one of the capitals of the beet industry, and I behind me, on this point, the opinion of all gastronomes of the locality, and above all the authority of Vatel in the country, the most renowned restaurateur and richest in Lille, who told me one day, about of beef fillets: "that he respected himself too much to serving his residents beet beef. »
The Vatel de Lille drew its nets from Paris.

Let us now consult the official documents which will show us the falsity of the famous argument relating to the multiplication of native livestock.

Since 1830, when beet cultivation had still taken only a slight development in the Nord department, to this day, the importation foreign livestock, in this region of France, has always been increasing. The figures were presented by the minister from the podium.

And let us not argue that this increase—ment of meat consumption is the very result of the increase in wealth including indigenous sugar endowed the department. The North department is always, after that of the Seine, the one which supplies the larger contingent in hospitals and prostitution. In Lille, in 1846, the official statistics show twenty—two thousand destitute out of a population of sixty ten thousand souls.

202 OF FINANCIAL FEODALITY.

Let us also add to this consideration that the chard—sugar root, which occupies land of superior quality of the Nord department, only replaces rich crops, such as those of wheat, rapeseed, flax, carrots, etc., which also provide rich means of feeding for livestock, and that the sum of power resources produced by in good arithmetic, of the sum of the products analogs that these cultivated lands would provide ment, rapeseed, carrots, artificial meadows.

The worker himself, the farmer, has only good rarely took advantage of this magnificent generosity of the treasure, which grants a bonus of seven hundred and twenty francs per hectare to the lands which were already the richest in the most fertile department of France (this is the figure obtained by the most moderate calculations of statistics and which is generally adopted). The rental price land has increased everywhere in proportion to the yield of these lands; the benefit of protection was entirely owned by the capitalist owner.

The sugar maker was not treated with more than favor that the tiller, because he was obliged to pay for the beet, the raw material, at a price that competition from factories has caused a rapid rise ment, and its profits were limited by the fragmentation ment of its industry. There were no profits in this industry only for manufacturers who have could unite the three branches in a single hand, the beet growing, sugar manufacturing and refinery. These, but which find themselves necessary- in very small numbers, were in fact able to accumulate the premium of seven hundred and twenty francs per hectare granted to culture, plus the export bonus and others profits from the refinery, everything was profit for them. This was not the case for the mass of small capitals. lists which could only embrace the manufacturing branch cation, and who found themselves dismayed by the me- nance of the equalization of the tax on the two sugars. Many factories have not held and still do not hold only in the hope of indemnity and redemption. The number establishments had previously fallen by four hundred and more than three hundred and six, which did not prevent the pro- total reduction to increase. The big bankers phi- lanthropes who passed the amendment in 1844 Delessert had only one goal: to ruin the 'little manufacturer' indigence to claim a monopoly on this manufacturing, when they have destroyed colonial work by the abolition of slavery.

QUESTION OF SUGAR. 203

Thus, in this whole matter of active protection tied to beet sugar, the interests of agriculture culture, those of the tiller, the factory there was only a premium for capital to the detriment of production and consumption. The government and economists have only opened another way for the financial aristocracy to monopolize remement of a new monopoly, and all their consequences displays of goodwill for agriculture and national industry, were only subterfuges unworthy.

We know that the law ensures the monopoly of the refinery

204 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

from sugar to metropolitan industry, to industrialists French: the refinery industry requires powerful capital.

When a ship loaded with sugar lands in a port of France, customs collects tax on sugar raw; then, when the sugar has been refined and the French trade exports it abroad, the treasure returns to the refiner the tax collected at customs; this exit bonus is called draioback. But to evaluate this exit bonus, it was necessary to calculate the raw sugar waste and fix the yield of refined sugar. We therefore fixed the figure yield at 70 percent; but this waste of 30 percent was so exorbitant, and this latitude so advantageous to the refiner, that the drawback premium ends up exceeding the figure of the tax collected on the sugar usually intended for re-export. In 1832, this bounty had risen to twenty million. THE Minister of Finance at the time, Mr. d'Argout, frightened of this expense, was obliged to ask the legislature the repression of this incredible abuse, originating, as always, the carelessness of the administration. It was obviously then the beet sugar which entered paid the exit fee, although he had not paid the entrance fee. Proof that fraud took place always on beet sugar, it's still once the government found itself in the nestopped presenting a law in the last session to suppress this fraud. I repeat that skill indigenous sugar manufacturers succeed in subtracting every year to the tax authorities a quantity of ten million kilograms of sugar, which naturally gives fight against piuc^v.,.-, , _ . ,

11 there is no, as we see, ûe sav.xxx.^^^ -^_ , , , ministry is prepared to do to maintain the profiles of any monopoly to notables financial. We have had more than one refiner minister since 1830.

Political arguments.

I only know of two political arguments in favor of beet sugar.

The first is based on the fear of war maritime; we are right to say that fear is a very bad master. This argument consists of saying that colonial sugar fetched six francs per pound under the Empire, and which it is good to take during the peace of precautions against the return of a fellow misfortune. This is one of the most ridiculous deductions of the old principle of barbarian politics: Si vis pacem^ para helium.

People have better things to do than take advantage of peace to prepare for war. It is to take advantage of the peace to forever prevent the return of war; it is to work to tighten so firmly the bond of international alliances that peace cannot no longer be troubled in the future. It is to create between various nations so active trade relations, that all States, linked by the interests of production and consumption, are forced to unite to defend against the first aggressor who comes of them who would be threatened with war. It is, in one

206 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

word, to create peaceful solidarity -^^ 1-^.^1^~ -t j" • i"x 1 1 1 1 . -iitivjue new the d register on letendp'^r' -'~ ^ ^ v^X^Xi. Ll\^ •

oi VIS pacem, para pacem. I pray Forgive me for coming back to this so often theory.

I am deeply convinced, for my part, that these links are already created and a new war maritime is today completely impossible.
France sells nearly a billion products every year; she buys for all that. France would have many friends in a maritime war; She would above all have the power of the United States, power maritime of the first order, and it is enough that two States as France and the United States request the release absolute freedom of the seas, so that the sea is free. THERE-America, which fought so long and so nobly for maintaining the principle that the flag covers the merchandise would see it immediately, in the event of new new maritime war, its principle accepted by all the intermediate navies of civilized states. And the year-gleterre alone, who had an interest in not admitting it, would forced to submit to the general will of the nations which, without this concession to common law, would all coalesce against it and could react read in an effective manner this time the famous system theme of the continental blockade. Now, England knows by-fact that she was condemned to perish from misery and hunger in the midst of his riches, if the emperor Napoleon was able to succeed, for two years alone-ment, to keep it isolated from its commercial outlets.
The cause of the absolute neutrality of the flag is won,
I believe, from today in the general policy of civilized nations. As a result, England no longer has a 1 to 1 to another

QUESTION OF SUGARS. 207

power of the same order, a war aaao .^^ ..

would no longer be allowed to prohibit access to ports this power to neutrals. The theory of prohibitions tionists who support the principle of manufacturing tion of indigenous sugar in the forecast of a new new maritime war, is consequently overturned from the base.

Thus France no longer needs to deprive its con-national summators of exclusive consumption sugar from the West Indies, Brazil and all the countries low price possible; and all that remains for the theory of fear that this absurd argument which wants us to imposes unnecessary deprivations in the present to better prepare for possible deprivations of the future nir. The political argument of the supporters of in-sugar digene is in fact reduced to this reasoning that I do not I will not qualify out of politeness: that we must be careful to get used to the softness of a comfortable diaper, so as not to find the transition too painful, when that we will be forced to sleep rough, – and if we never have to sleep rough!

The strong heads of the prohibitive policy have core in their bag an argument no less terrible against colonial sugar, and an argument, which, by misfortune, had the privilege of vibrating the string of national feeling in France. They say that sugar beetroot is a creation of the Emperor; – that the sugar beet industry is the only industrial conquest triality that the Empire has bequeathed to us, and that we

208 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

we can pronounce its deletion without repudiating some sort'^J-.'^'' \ x'j'^i, • • i. i

^ _ ^ _," It is simply absurd chauvinism.

If the Emperor had been able or wanted to obtain peace, he would have been the first to renounce his industrial conquest triella; and, because he would have delivered the sugar cheaply dear to the consumer, he would not have thought of dulling the shine of his campaigns in Egypt and Italy. He is very probable that the Emperor, who had ideas, did not leave did not spoil the mania for national sugar and meat national, which have no other fault than being unaffordable dables for domestic consumers.

It is very true that when the French navy had been destroyed in the battles of Aboukir and Trafalgar; When England made us lose Santo Domingo and had taken away our other sugar islands j when the pound of sugar, which the colonists of Saint-Domingue sold three sous before 89, had reached the figure of six francs, the Emperor had to seek in his genius, fertile in resources, a way to replace cane sugar. He understood well that France could not do without always such an important consumer commodity, and renounce, without complaint, long habits did not fear to violate the rigor of its commercial prescriptions, by granting name-licenses to individuals for whom he wanted to make fortune, and granting them the right to trade with these English whom he sought to expel from all ports of the globe. The position of the Emperor, after his navy destroyed and the continental blockade started, was those who do not accept half measures and who demand a prompt and decisive outcome. He did appeal, in his distress, to science which had already saved France under Carnot, by creating factories of weapons and saltpeter, in the time that the overexcited national patriotism brought up from the ground fourteen republican armies. Science gave him beet sugar. Beet sugar was worth even better than nothing. The great man was right, a thousand times right, to provoke the discovery of a industry that could replace cane sugar. THE insurgents of America had given thirty years to raving a sublime example of patriotism to France, by forbidding the use of tea, to deprive the Angle-land from the income from the tax levied on this commodity; And in a similar position, perhaps the emperor did he have the right to hope from his people for proof similar self-sacrifice. In any case, this discovery was a kind of challenge that the indomitable genius of the French nation threw to England, and, as such, she must have flattered national pride to the highest degree of our fathers.

QUESTION OF SUGARS. 209

However, it must be recognized that the French people did not welcome beet sugar with great liveliness of enthusiasm, and during the cessation of hostilities in 1814, we can remember that he abandoned-na happily the cause of scientific sugar for return to the exclusive consumption of co- t sugar. lonial. National sugar, attacked upon its entry into the world through sarcasm and caricature, has conquered its popularity only in the last years of the restaurant ration, after the financial laws of 1821-22 and those of the majorat, the right of primogeniture, etc., had accused of the government's well-pronounced intention to return to the restoration of the privileges of the large property and large industry. These bankers, who have monopolized the refinery, and who control say the manufacture of beet sugar, are more skillful than one would tell from their appearance; they did serve the popularity of the Emperor for their projects, and they widely exploited it to be awarded a monopoly moreover.

H 14

210 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Agronomic arguments, political arguments, everything is untenable and false in the theory of par-herbal teas from native sugar. The high bank aims at monopoly on the manufacture and sale of sugar, this is what I see the clearest and most annoying in all his maneuvers and in all his pleas-doires.

In fact, the high bank, by means of its enormous capital, can only concentrate in its hands the monopoly on the cultivation of beets, sugar manufacturing and refinery, the only conditions, I said, which can assure the industry of native sugar, a real chance of longevity.

xlLrg-niuent philanthropic.

The last argument is the one that the bankers Protestants and some of their newspapers fold with the most love. They say that sugar cane is the vile product of slavery, while native sugar is the noble product of free labor, and that, as slavery must soon disappear from the legislation of civilized peoples, it is urgent to substitute a new industry for the color industry nial which can only be supported by means of Tesclavage.

QUESTION OF SUGARS. 211

I don't want to quibble with the philanthropists and examine the question of whether the black of the colonies, who cares neither for himself nor his family, who does not work in one month as much as the French farmer in six, is much more of a slave in reality than the serf of our regions, attached to the earth, and that the insufficiency of his salary condemns him to deprivation and mendicity. I admit that slavery is a stain that dirties the legislation of so-called Christian peoples, codes, since Christ proclaimed the equality of all men, without distinguishing the color of the skin. I just mean that philanthropists French people who have been talking for so long about the abolition slavery, are just bad parrots who endlessly repeat the lessons of their brothers from Angletterre. English traffickers and economists with them, prefer free salaried work to work forced (slave), because the first is paid less dear, since we are not forced to feed the salaried when it is not used, or when it is too old or when he is too young. Be sure it is that's the pure truth.

I point out that it is with these declamations against slavery that England usurped dominion nation of the free domain of the seas, which it has stolen from us Saint-Domingue, after having exterminated philanthropically the owner, and that she will delight the island of Cuba from Spain. I add that it is in core using the same process, which it now decides today for his benefit the question of visiting rights, which is for her only a means of penetrating through the situation the secrets of the commercial operations of other States and to maintain its maritime supremacy. But I don't yet see any means of substituting proposed a solution which reconciles the two major interests at stake in the question: the interest superior of humanity" which calls for the abolition of slavery; the interest of the well-being of all peoples, which demands that the production of sugar be exclusively reserved for intertropical regions, where this production takes place under the best possible conditions sible.

212 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Let us examine the colonial question from the point of view of Christian interest, social interest; let's see them again admirable results that philanthropy has produced theory of access rights.

Here are some recently published documents that we have every reason to believe that they are perfectly correct, and which will perhaps justify in the eyes of our readers, the coldness of our admiration for British politics tannic.

Mr. de Clarigny tells us that the slave trade sends year, that is to say that the figure of these shipments has not changed for half a century.

That the efforts of the English to abolish the slave trade only succeeded in lowering black's price on the coast of Africa and to raise it in America, such ' Revue des Deux-Mondes . April 1, 1845.

QUESTION OF SUGARS. 213

so that the figure of the premium offered for speculation of slave traders, increases in direct proportion to the severity measures taken against trafficking. This premium is today from 200 to 500 for 0/0. Cruisers English barely manage to capture a building slave ship out of thirty to forty. Insurance companies ransomed from Rio-Janeiro and beyond Havana, which are the two large ports for shipping slave ships, ensure at 20 for 0/0 and make huge profits.

Before 1840, the mortality of captives during passage, amounted on average to only a quarter of the cargo. Since that time, that is to say since the event of visiting rights, this average varies from third to half!!!

When the slave traders are pursued too closely by cruisers, they have a habit of dumping their cargo at the sea.

Space is provided on the slave ships, so that a negro takes up less space who died in his coffin. Also it is not uncommon to see whole shipments of these unfortunate blacks, cargoes of five to six hundred men, perishing from suffocation during the crossing.

Any individual in whom symptoms manifest of smallpox, a common disease among black, is immediately thrown overboard. The buildings slave ships are followed at sea by gangs voracious of sharks, and in the rivers of Africa by alligators...

Trafficking takes place, in Africa, in certain compounds called barracons. These barracons are kind of parks where the chiefs of the country bring the cattle

Jiumain intended for sale. Everything that is not sold to the slave ship, is immediately shot or drowned!

The child who is born in the barracon is suffocated upon leaving the his mother's breast!....

And some of my friends do me a crime not to believe in the sincerity of philanthropy Anglican! I envy the fate of those who can hear such stories in cold blood, and without charity extracts from them an imprecation against the executioners.

However, the ships intended for the black trade, and which are the finest sailboats we know, and which brave all the cruisers in the world once they hold the high seas, are built in the ports of the United States United, populated by puritans and abolitionists....

Fabrics intended to be bartered for goods claves, are all English made! They go out from the workshops of Glasgow and the factories of Lancashire, and the slave traders demand that the manufacturers English, who supply them with the fabrics, take a interest in their speculations.

So much for the question of humanity and interest Christian! The abolition of trafficking is an imperative possible in the current state of relations between the powers above vilified, and the interested philanthropy of the English has not only aggravates the condition of the black race that it wants to emancipate. So, it is not towards the abolition of the slave trade, that the friends of the blacks, that the true philansthropes must converge their efforts.

The solution I propose, the monopoly of manufacturing cation and the sale of sugar by the State, will respond better, I hope, to the double demands of interest Christian and French interest.

QUESTION OF SUGARS. 21 ^

Let us recall the situation of the French colonies and French trade.

The colonies are ruined; their ruin brought that of our ports and our maritime trade; our armaments are in the process of being absolutely suspended; OUR state navy no longer has a nursery from which to recruit its

The sufferings of our colonies and the decadence of our maritime power, have brought no comfort for the country, by reducing the price of sugar. France's individual consumption is remained lower than that of England, Holland and Switzerland. The treasure has lost, in this state of things, hundreds of millions.

Finally, the ruin of the producers of the colonies and producers of the metropolis, concerted between the big capitalists and supported by the complicity of inertia of the government, must inevitably lead to this result:

"Give the financial aristocracy ^ already invested with monopoly of all major industries, the monopoly of the manufacture, refinery and sale of sugar. »

So much for the question of national interest. Meadow-tense philanthropic argument invoked by the banks quieters protestants refiners broken at all ends.

Do monopoly on manufacturing and the coronation tent by the state.

So, when I propose monopoly by the State, as the only way out of an internal position nable, I already have this argument for my case all can-health: that the country only has to choose, from now on, between the monopoly of the State and that of big capital your. I no longer need to invoke, in support of my system, the legitimacy of the principle of government monopoly vernemental: I can, in a word, stick to it, vis-à-vis of those even who would contest this unconfirmed legitimacy testable, to this simple argument of human wisdom who wants that of two evils we choose the lesser. It is An important strong point has already been gained.

216 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

The monopoly on the manufacture and sale of sugar created by the State, has already been invoked by several self-recommendable bodies, by peaceful democracy and by the Toulouse Chamber of Commerce. I do not have the right to join to these authorities, that of the various newspapers in whose collaboration I took part - personal opinion. I am only surprised that the southern industries and maritime trade have not thought about including this idea in their complaints to substitute the monopoly of the State for the monopoly of the favored industry of the north. Indeed, this substitution is all in their favor, and the cause that I support wish it would have been powerfully fortified by a manifestation vigorous in this sense, on the part of the main chambers of commerce of our ports. I regret that this demonstration did not take place.

The Toulouse Chamber of Commerce and the newspaper peaceful democracy, did not ask for the monopoly of the State only for the sale and manufacture of domestic sugar digene. This system had the advantage of deciding the question of indigenous sugar, and to reconcile completely with the bill presented by the government in the session of 1842, and which proposed the redemption and compensation. This system, however, did not offer not the complete solution of the problem, since it leaves known aside the main question, that of colonial sugar and the abolition of slavery. I manage to fill the gap by asking for it to be extended to industry colonial application of the principle of which Democracy pacific and the Toulouse Chamber of Commerce have demanded application to 1 indigenous industry: monopoly by the State with prior compensation and redemption. As it is very likely that the adoption of the principle of state monopoly for indigenous industry would have delayed the application of this principle to the color industry, I am happy to be able to rely on the opinion of two competent authorities in the matter, for remove from my system the reproach of utopia.

QUESTION OF SUGARS. 217

Let us first put an end to indigenous industry, and demonstrate that the absorption of this industry by the State, was the only way to preserve small fabricants of their ruin, at the same time as using the enormous sacrifices that the treasury had imposed on itself to support this scientific error.

State monopoly, the only salvation for industry native.

It is quite obvious that, of all the projects presented last, that of Mr. Lacave-Laplagne, who asked the complete suppression of indigenous manufacturing, with compensation for the manufacturers and redemption of their factories, was the most rational and fair.

The government recognized, through this proposal

218 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

tion, that the beet sugar industry was not viable; that the immunity which had been granted to him until that to this day, burdened the treasury with a heavy load that the country was not to endure any longer; and he declared a complete ban on the industry. All-However, like the tolerance and encouragement of government had had a lot to do with the whole public craze for beet sugar, and in the movement which had caused speculation to flow and capital to this industry, the government requested that reasonable compensation be granted to those whom the bill was going to ruin, and who did not were guilty, after all, of having testified too much trust in the promises and deeds of the government.

The ministerial project allocated a sum of four rant million to the purchase of factories numbering four hundred and some that existed then. The figure-fre of this compensation was very reasonable; alone-ment the proposal was stamped with the stamp of the epoch that. I mean the government had well thought of compensating the capitalists, but that he had not not had the slightest thought of concern for the travelers. This is an industry that provided work for a few months of the year to several thousand of individuals; we suppress the industry, we compensate the heads of this industry, but we don't worry more about the fate of this mass of workers to whom we just broke the arms, as if they didn't exist. They will see to fit in as best they can: the government doesn't have time to take care of everyone. As for the farmers, the land users who have

QUESTION OF SUGARS. 219

leases whose elevation is based only on the increase income given to the land by the cultivation of sugar beet, they will have the courts to talk with their owners, on the question of ban on beet sugar.

But this absence of any far-sighted concern for the fate of the workers of the workshop and the ground was not that one of the slightest defects of Mr. Lacave's project La Plage. Once the factories are purchased, what would the government of this capital of factories and equipment? Should he decide to sell the walls of establishments as rubble, and the copper from the boilers weight? This last supposition was quite probable. wheat. So the State let a enormous pitfall and there was nothing left, not even a instruction workshop to revive the sugarbeetroot in the event of war. Improvidence of present, lack of foresight of the future, forgetfulness of interests treasure; Mr. Lacave-Laplagne's project contained a host of imperfections alongside a principle of rigorous fairness.

That the government had offered to take charge of monopoly of indigenous industry, and all the inconsistencies and inconveniences that I have just pointed out disappeared at the times.

First, the government took its time to gradually arrive at the extinction of in-house manufacturing industry. He did not suddenly close the workshops this production to the workers: it did not bring sudden disruption in the operations of the in-agricultural industry. The tiller and the worker of the workshop were notified well in advance, that a branch of industry would one day escape them; they were ordered to seek employment elsewhere.

220 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Then the government smoothed the transition as much as possible between the present state and the future state. He began by abandoning those of his factories, who found themselves placed in the least conditions favorable. He imperceptibly concentrated the manufacturing in the most advantageous localities, in relation to the low price of the raw material, and the costs of transportation. He naturally sobered up from exercise; he could sell his products for a long time at a price of returns., in the sole interest of the indigenous workers, and without harming the interests of the treasury. He continued the experiment of concentration of scientific processes. Finally, he conserved France, in the event of maritime war, the bring up to date said, replace the products of the Antilles, and avoid to the national consumer the return of price variations which had assailed it under the empire.

By this means, the government appears to everyone disastrous shock for northern industry; THE profits he made on manufacturing even were a reduction in the compensation he had paid, and thus the previous sacrifices were used of the treasure. Moreover, as manufacturing native sugar was falling, foreign sugar was called upon to replace in domestic consumption, and the increase in tax revenues promptly reimbursed the State of its advance of forty million, because the State only needed an increase in annual income of one million six hundred thousand francs on the sugar import, to be reopened with its new disbursed. Now, according to Timpùt's figure, he sullied current, a demand of two or three million kilograms more, of foreign sugar for produce—bring this increase in income of one million six one hundred thousand francs which represents interest at 4 per 100 of forty million.

QUESTION OF SUGARS. 221

All the reasons therefore came together to make resolve the question of the indigenous sugar industry, by the monopoly of manufacturing and sales to profit of the State. The interest of manufacturers, that of farmers, that of workers, the greater interest of the treasury, both demanded this solution. But this solution disrupted the ambitious plans of the top banking barons, who aim precisely at the acquisition apparently the same monopoly on their behalf staff. She was abandoned; not a voice Chamber did not dare to point out the trend and the aim of 1 Delessert amendment.

Today that the documents published by the mid-Ministry of Finance revealed to us that trade French export market has suffered over the past ten years unwelcome pressure; today that the port of Le Havre petitions to express his distress and complain about monopolization of all commercial transport by the United States merchant marine, perhaps the Would the House understand better that there is an emergency? not to let this depression increase, and would her a more favorable reception to the proposal of tao;e to stimulate the demand activity of our colonies and from abroad.

222 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

But the monopoly on the manufacture and sale of indigenous sugar by the State cannot produce all its useful results, that the day he binds himself to the monopoly of colonial industry.

It is well understood that, in this word monopoly of manufacturing by the State, I understand the monopoly of the refinery. It would be too absurd for the government to monopolize the least lucrative branches of the sugar industry, to abandon the branch the most advantageous, to private speculation, to high barons of capital. Sugar refining is only last manufacturing operation. He is antirationnel and uneconomical to cut this manufacturing in two.

The most positive data from science and experiences of Mr. Pélégot, suppose, have we said, that the vesou, the liquor coming from the crushing of the cane, contains the fifth part of its weight of easily extractable crystallizable sugar.

It is at most if we manage today to using routine processes used in the Antilles, to extract 6 percent of the vesou, that is to say that the two thirds of the saccharine wealth of the cane are lost due to lack of perfected processes.

However, the settlers of Saint-Domingue sold sugar three cents a pound, say thirty cents a pound kilogram before 89, and we know what benefits enormous these settlers withdrew from their industry at this price. It was then calculated that the work of each black produced his master two to three francs per day.

Today, despite the imperfection of the processes, despite the overwhelming burdens of appalling wear and tear,

QUESTION OF SUGARS. 223

the cost price of sugar from the colonies does not exceed the figure of forty to fifty centimes per kilogram. The planters of Bourbon and the West Indies consider themselves lucky, when the price of fifty kilos that is, fifty cents per kilogram.

The colonies not having the right to refine their sugar, are obliged to ship it raw to France. Of this results in immense harm to them by the double cause of the increase in prices of freight, insurance and waste. The sugars would weigh less if they were refined, and would pay less freight therefore. The waste of the goods is would be almost zero.

We will see at first glance what new path to wealth would open to colonial industry, End-introduction of improved extraction processes, the diffusion of low-cost capital, and the accumulation of manufacturing and refinery output between the hands of the state.

Let us first introduce the improved process, and let us only double this production of sugar from West Indies we could triple, and don't go out of current consumption.

The production of our colonies which is today of eighty million, will rise to one hundred and sixty million kilograms. It therefore provides the entire of consumption in the metropolis (one hundred and thirty thousand lions) and leaves a surplus of thirty million kilograms which will have to be re-exported abroad, if national consumption does not increase. These hundred sixty million kilograms will pay the State a tax of eighty million at the current tax rate jar. This will already be double the current income.

22i OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

But let's calculate the effects of simply doubling the product on cost price. The cost price of kilogram of colonial sugar is today four rant centimes approximately. As soon as the same quantity of liquor will produce double the amount of sugar, the cost price will fall by half. He will no longer be than twenty centimes or ten francs per fifty kilograms.

Now the State does not pay 20 percent like the settlers of today for the rents of capital which it uses in the manufacture of sugar: the State troitive money to its sufficiency, at the rate of 4 and even sugar is affected by this reduction. On another side the State accumulates the profits from manufacturing and refinery; and waste, freight and insurance costs rancid are reduced to a considerable extent through the on-site refinery system. Finally, and for the last reason, the State which collects a tax on the sale of the product, does not need to be allocated to it a benefit in his capacity as producer j it would be double job.

Let us therefore increase this cost price (ten francs fifty kilograms) of the tax tax of five as many centimes per kilogram is a sum thirty-five francs for fifty kilograms that we have to pay to the State. Come now taking into account transport costs, waste, insurance, and we generously increase the five francs to fifteen francs as many kilograms, that's the price of sugar at five as many francs as fifty kilograms, let's say one franc per kilogram. Well, I say that at this price, which is the normal price of sugar in a large number countries of Europe, the consumption of the po-French population will double in a few years. No-Let us not forget that we had the right, according to the exact data of science, to triple the yield ment of the vesou and not just doubling it.

QUESTION OF SUGARS. 225

Let us see in fact what results a reduction in about half in the price of sugar, would bring in the domestic food regime in France, and in the general consumption figure. We can get an idea by comparing the per capita consumption figures in France and in neighboring countries.

Based on a population of nearly thirty-five million inhabitants, and on a consumption of one hundred and thirty million kilograms of sugar, the consumption of each individual in France, rises would today be a little less than four kilos grams per year.

That of the Dutch, the English and the Swiss amounts on average to a figure three times as considerable maple, say twelve kilograms. We see that the French consumers still have a way to go before arriving at the luxuries of the Angle consumer-

However, when we compare the diet silence of the peoples of these various States, we arrive inevitably cement to this conclusion, that the consumer French is the one whose usual food requires most emphatically the condiment of sugar.

H 15

226 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

In fact, butcher's meat is cheap in England, Holland, Switzerland; the worker of all these Stalls can make it their ordinary food. nary; fish are also very common there. There meat and fish are food bases that repel sugar.

In France, on the contrary, butcher's meat and fish are prohibited at three-quarters of the population. The food there consists almost exclusively vement, for around twenty million inhabitants maybe, bad black bread, corn pancakes or buckwheat, chalaïnes and dairy products. Wine, which is said to be so common in France, is also outside of the reach of the mass of workers who fill it place with an infinity of acidic drinks. Well, there is not a single one of these foods, a single one of these drinks which do not require the addition of sugar, as a primary condition of approval and healthiness.
All those thick, tasteless pastes that make up the background of the food of Breton, Limousin, peasant from the East, are transformed into delicious desserts cats on the rich man's table, by the simple alliance of sweetened with flour. Eggs, potatoes, bad fruits, milk, all nutritional substances ments that nature has placed within the reach of the poor field worker, are also those who work laugh most easily with sugar. The coffee with milk, which suits all temperaments and all ages, but especially women and children favorite, coffee with milk has already become with us the bottom of the food of rich women and poor women from the cities; the use is even

QUESTION OF SUGARS. 227

extended to rural women. Than sugar undergoes a reduction by half, and before two years, female population, in nine-tenths of tairies of France. I don't see what philanthropy of the most enlightened administrator could to desire better at this moment, to introduce into the diet of populations one of these improvements liorations that everyone talks about so much. Alas! there is more to do for the people with the reduction in the price of sugar and the price of meat that with all the laws of Lycurgus and Minos; but the price reduction of a commodity of primary necessity, hardly ready for sentence and grandstand effects; then we leave it subject aside.

Based on this comparison of the diet silence of the French people with that of other peoples, we are entitled to assert that the reduction in the price of sugar at one franc per kilogram, would double before five years the general consumption of this commodity, and the would bring it to two hundred and sixty million kilograms.

So, still admitting that production coloniale provides one hundred and sixty million kilos grams of sugar, producing an income of four thirty million, there would be left for production foreign one hundred million who would produce on their side an income of seventy million to the tax authorities According to these figures, the income from the sugar tax in five years would therefore amount to one hundred and fifty million.

We see that here the income increases at the same time that consumption, and while the price of the product tax imposed decreases. This is the diametric result

228 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

opposite to that of the current system. Here we come again to the true principles of financial science.

I did not involve national sugar in this supply of two hundred and sixty million kilos grams, because I assume that the administration would have had time to get rid of, in five years, of the industry left in its charge, and that the only establishments preserved would only be in quality of schools.

And there is no reason to complain about this figure of one hundred fifty million income, as exorbitant, fabulous. The sugar tax brings in one hundred and twenty thousand lions, in England. However, the population of the kingdom and from these twenty-five million, we must subtract at least seven for the Irish population, population foreign to the diet of sweets, and who dies of hunger for three months of the year. It would not be no. even for the French population, which is accessible to the increase in consumption of sugar in general. But eighteen million for the real figure of English consumers is roughly almost half of the French population. So, I don't don't see why the tax wouldn't amount to one hundred and fifty Quante million francs for thirty-five million of French consumers, when it is one hundred vin^^t million francs for eighteen million English people. An increase of one hundred million in income for the State represents a capital of two and a half billion, at the rate of 4 percent, ials of the discount of the Bank of France, which I already find exaggerated, but which I nevertheless took for the normal interest rate wrong. With this capital of two and a half billion, a government intelligent government could do many things.

QUESTION OF SUCK ES. 229

It is in the order of logical ideas that an increase doubling, occurring in production and in the consumption of colonial sugar, leads to a equivalent increase in the number of our ar-maritime services and that the foreigner, who sells to us would have a hundred million kilograms of sugar, would have also to ask for some products from our industries national, in exchange for this placement. Maybe, then, the official figures of our exports cease would they be afraid to present such alarming results than those of two years ago.

These are, at first glance, the results of a simple improvement in manufacturing processes of colonial sugar, improvement combined with the monopoly on the manufacture and sale of sugar by the state.

We must not lose sight of this consideration. capital tion, that the improvement of the processes of manufacturing can only be carried out under the influence of monopoly.

It is, in fact, the manufacture of sugar from cane, like that of beet sugar. It is an industry that requires, to be operated with huge establishments and capital advances huge. I am surprised that the high bank of medicine tropole did not think of monopolizing the manufacture of colonial sugar as it wants to monopolize that of sugar native. Because it was still one of these fields of battle where fortune had to declare in favor of the big capital. The fragmentation of shared property nial and isolated manufacturing which led as everywhere Tusure following them, were two of the main causes of the decline of colonial prosperity. It is the lack of sufficient capital which prevented the settler to take advantage of the discoveries of Euro-science pagan. The owners of Guadeloupe and Martinique could also have resorted to the association which consolidates credit, reduces incidentals and cost price and doubles profits. The settlers of Antilles have no longer thought about using this means that the colonists of France, and their weakness, result of their isolation, delivered them to the mercy of the owners severs of capital. In the colonies, as in the metropole, it's the usurer, it's the parasitic intermediary who benefits from all the products of the slave's labor.

230 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

The exploitation, by the capitalist, of the manufacturer and of the worker, of the serf, free or not, is a law general which does not suffer from exceptions, and which does not vary not with latitudes and social constitutions.

If the example of what is done well on one point anywhere on the globe, in any branch of industry, had the power to open the eyes of blind, the settlers of the West Indies could have realized for a long time an admirable system of association, taking a model from the fruit farms of Switzerland and Franche-Comté. It was very easy for these colonists to create at home, in the middle of each cultivated canton, and at common expense, a vast factory, equipped with all the perfected devices, where everyone would have come bring the contingent of his cane harvest, to then be remunerated on the general price of the sale of the

QUESTION OF SUGARS. 231

sugar, in proportion to its intake of material first, after overheads deducted. They were huge less initial establishment costs;
it was a single factory, a single pressing workshop,

The crushing was done in a big way and in the moment the most favorable; the most expert workers were called upon to direct pressing operations, defecation and cooking; it was a huge finally, economy of buildings, materials and intermediary ruinous diaries. But the fruit farms of the Alps existed for centuries, when European states have founded their colonies, and the wonderful or translation fruit plantations is still barely known today in Europe: all the more reason should it be ignored in the West Indies. It took, as always, the lesson of experience and ruin, these two great institutions trices of individuals and peoples, to learn to the colonists of America the disadvantages of the fragmentation and benefits of the association; and the lesson is arrived a little late; but in the end it's better late than Never. All is not lost for the settlers of our Antilles, if they want to seriously try the application of the industrial and agricultural association. The machines that simplify work and facilitate solution of social questions in slave countries, can change the face of colonial things, in less of a year or two.

The State alone can achieve, today, in the interest of the mass of consumers, these mer- good results of the association that the private industry vée, abandoned to herself, was unable to glimpse,

232 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

although a few isolated attempts have taken place on some points of our colonies, in Bourbon, by example. The State has unlimited capital at its disposal the loan, if not his own wealth, provides him with the most advantageous conditions; the State is alone in position to adopt, without worrying about the amount of first establishment costs, all processes advanced technologies that can increase the performance of the walking stick; the State alone can designate, in perfect con- birth of cause, the localities where must be established the central factories which must serve the canton of production. I assumed the State vested with a monopoly of indigenous fabrication. In this situation, the state I find the owner of the immense equipment per- fected from the metropolis; it flows into the new establishments of the colonies, this material became useless on the ground of the metropolis. The discoveries of the science, applied to manufacturing and perpetuated by indigenous education, receive useful employment compensation of forty million, paid to the industry of the metropolis, is further diminished by the opportunity of this placement of equipment that would have been necessary, without this resource, sell by weight of the metal. The cons experienced masters of beet factories come also apply their talent and experience for the preparation of cane sugar. Nothing is lost of these admirable efforts that scientific genius had made to fight against the will of God, stronger than the genius of man.

If the introduction of a single improvement process—ment in a single branch of sugar manufacturing

QUESTION OF SUGARS. 233

colonial was enough to lead, as I have demonstrated—very nice, such a big reduction in the price sugar, what will it be like when the general adoption of this superior process, so many others will join very essential improvements? — The management unit, — the economy of hands which is a great happiness here, facilitated by the large-scale use of machines, — the absolute elimination of all incidental manufacturing costs fragmented tion, — the meeting in the same establishment—ment, the refining industry and the manufacturing industry cation. I said that God had sprinkled the sugar profusion on earth, so that man could encounter be everywhere, with the greatest ease, the means to feed; I said the sugar must be something day the most common production, that which the consumers could obtain at the lowest price... The attribution of the monopoly of manufacturing and of the sale of sugar to the State, would prove, before which over the years, the accuracy of my assertion. If the juice cane fresh contains, as science indicates, twenty parts out of a hundred of easily extractable sugar, The State factory will certainly extract them, and it will will need to further increase the consumption figure general and treasury revenues, which seemed to us already prodigious.

Here is yet another important consideration that is linked both to the interests of the culture of cane and those in the manufacture of sugar, and who must find a place here.

It is accepted in agronomic science that the

the most fertile land gets tired and exhausted in producing always the same plants. Nature is the enemy of the monotony. The example I cited of the culture of beet in the North, is an unfortunate demonstration of the too rigorous of this axiomatic truth. This fatigue of the soil manifested itself in the cultivation of the Caribbean. The settlers of Martinique and the West Indies, those who can only cultivate cane, have been obliged to resort, like the farmers of the metropole, using energetic and expensive fertilizers, bone meal, with putrefied cod. The culture of cane therefore absorbs today a large quantity of animal black. We know that this product also plays a big role in the purification of sugar, as bleaching and disinfectant material at the same time. But everything the neighboring continent of South America can provide this important product at a low price. Troops of countless ruminants graze in the savannahs of Orinoco and the Amazons, in the pampas of Brazil and the Rio de la Plata. The inhabitants of these regions, who do not go hunting cows and oxen, use them only for leather, then abandon the corpses from these animals to jaguars and vultures. He is probable that a government which would possess considerable refineries in the Antilles, would consider take advantage of the bones of these animals for the manufacture of animal black, manufacturing all the easier and more economical than fuel from virgin forests. It is very close, it is probable that this government will, by its request, be an industry of this kind to be based on some of the points of the coastline closest to the Antilles. The low price of animal black would add one more double element to the prosperity of colonial industry.

234 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

QUESTION OF SUGARS. ISÉ?

I brought it to the figure of one hundred and fifty million the annual tax that sugar can pay, by means of reforms indicated. I declare in my soul and conscience that, far from seeming exaggerated to me, this increase of income is still much lower than that which I expect from the institution of the monopoly of the state. I repeat that when the sugar tax gives one hundred and twenty millions in England, and the tobacco tax* stop in France at one hundred and fifty million.

And I'm not done with my monopolies. The consumption cannot increase in the proportion that I have reported, without leading to an increase parallel growth in the consumption of products which usually go well with sugar, like tea and coffee. And when the people have seen the monopoly of the State to be announced by the reduction in the price of consumer goods, and the increase in revenue public, the people will come back from their prejudices absurd against the monopoly of the State, and it will be the first to demand that the trade be stripped anarchic of its privileges, to put on the government. The conversion of the people will be as much faster, that he will have recognized that it is for him the only way to avoid fraud and misuse patented ringing. There will still be around fifty millions, at least, to be won for the

'Tobacco is exclusive to the consumption of wine. I do not understand not only in the wine investigation which has caused so much noise in recent years, no economist has thought of attributing to consumption incredible reduction of the labac, the share of influence due to it in the reduction in wine consumption.

236 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

treasure, on the monopoly of colonial foodstuffs, other than sugar. Total, two hundred million. Nothing more easy while completely abolishing the salt tax, a sacred product that should not be imposed anywhere, because the low price of salt is for agriculture, mother nourishment of all industries, an essential condition a sign of progress and prosperity. When the farmer French culture will be able to freely dispose of for fattening of livestock and making cheese, of the immense natural resources offered by its territory so rich in rock salt mines and provided vast salt marshes, it will be easy for it to produce cattle as cheap as any of the others countries of Europe, and thus put the meat of butchery within the reach of all workers. Finally, at the help of this enormous surplus of receipts over the income of the tax on colonial foodstuffs, the legislator may provide a corresponding reduction in tax of real estate property, and especially in that of the vine. Is it not supremely iniquitous to strike the vine of direct tax, when its produce is hit in all forms by the tax

The day the government takes the monopoly banks and insurance companies, that of canals and railways which he has no right to alienate, that of colonial foodstuffs; the day when it will have constituted killed agricultural credit, financial feudalism, I say it, will have reigned. Wear, chicane and grip public ringing will have disappeared with it. The truth will be entered into commercial relations. The sense-religious belief, belief in a good and just God,

QUESTION OF SUGARS. 237

which was only dormant in the heart of the worker, will reignite there with the certainty of well-being, and the people will bless the power which freed them from this annual tribute of billions that he paid to the Jews, his tyrants.

All this can be achieved by simple measures financial, and does not even require recognition prerequisite of the human right to work.

And the Jews! they will tell me, and the grocers-druggists which make the strongest guarantee of the order of things current? What will become of all these fallen kings, when you will have established outlets of sugar, tea, coffee, cinnamon, like tobacco shops, powder and stamped paper; when you have made the management of these debits a reward and a privilège for the servants of the State, a prerogative for the people?

I answer that the Genevans and the Jews are rushing will be to turn the organizational faculties towards the good superior qualities that they received from heaven, when he
There will be more benefit from doing good than from doing evil...
And then, when we bleed a marsh with crusty waterpissing and felid, to transform it into a ver-grazing, is there any need to worry? ter the fate of the evil reptiles that croaked in the mire!

I repeat that there is nothing against the monopoly of the Elat only one objection, but the most formidable of all the objections for a demoralized people and for lazy ministers; This is the one I have so-noted from the beginning of this work: that it would be too much beautiful"

As I finished this chapter, I was given a copy of the Journal des Débats of I don't know anymore what date, when someone made me read an adorable sentence of impudence and conceit, and which reminded me of this comic formula of old acts: which, in its quality of fjentilhomme declared that he did not know how to write or gner... The Journal des Débats, after having delivered to our admiration the result of the Herculean labors of mid-nistres its bosses, that is to say the remaining reheated from the program of the previous session, strong projects aborted, postponed, force concessions of roads iron to the Jews, etc., etc., the Journal des Débats adds was silent in his most agile and clear tone: By example^ the ministers did not bring to the chambers ca project for general reform of society...

Hey! who had accused them of such a crime, your ministers. Good Lord! Poor ministers!...the- which, in their capacity as depositaries of power, have declared that he had no idea of reform or improvement in mind social liorations, of this questioned

A firm that dares to boast of its laziness and its lack of intelligence, in the face of the public, who knows they have no lasted six years, only to have flattened himself before all the difficulties, and who makes his longevity a merit! I don't know if the official journal of Madame de Pompadour or M. de Calonne would have dared to say so so much.

But I forget that I still have to deal with the question of black slavery and that of co-emancipation lonial.

Abolition of slavery. 239

Abolition of Pesclava.

I have stated my opinion on the question of slavery. Slavery is a disastrous relic of bar times. barie, an institution which must disappear from the code of civilized and Christian nations. But to profess this opinion, I am not the dupe of the beautiful paroles of English and Protestant philanthropy. I believe in the sincerity of Wilberforce and Erskine, no to that of the British government, which has never but thought of exploiting, for the benefit of its interests exclusive, the religious prejudices of its nationals.

The oppression of the Irish, no longer a slave a hundred times that the black of the West Indies, does not allow me to add faith in the protests of the English government, in favor of emancipation and freedom. The aristocrat—no English person saw in the abolition of the slave trade, I repeats for the twentieth time, that a means to ruin the maritime power of France and Spain, by taking away from these two States their rich colonies of Santo Domingo and Cuba. The trade alone of Santo Domingo, before 89, occupied a thousand ships and fifteen thousand sailors. England did not think of sup—take precedence over slave labor only after it has seen the light of day to found free labor in its Asian Indies, and to monopolize by this means the monopoly of the trade of sugar. This is the goal that it pursues per fas et nefas, for half a century. But because the aristocracy English has soiled, by touching it, a Christian principle, this is no reason why a generous people rejects this principle. France must adopt it, milk, because it is just, and although England made him serve his Machiavellianism.

2^0 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

The whole question is in the transition mode from slave labor to free labor. This must transition protects acquired rights, while making to the slave his inalienable rights as a human creature Maine.

The learning method, put into practice by England in its colonies in the West Indies and on the Island of France, did not produce very brilliant results. It is a matter of finding a superior transition process. laughing.

We saw by the simple exhibition of the blessed results of the application of visiting rights, what the black race had to gain from the abolition of the slave trade. Is it sure now that black, treated with humanity on the land of America, regrets the fields happy with his native country as the phi—anthropes? Because we know that this native country, so regretted, is a country where fathers sell their sons, where men are in perpetual war, and where the winners The warriors sometimes eat the vanquished.

English philanthropists and their plagiarists France slandered the slave trade, when they wrote that to the greed of the leaders of the black tribes of Africa that had thrown on this unfortunate country a new element of discord and war. The war existed before the slave trade, as it has existed since that the slave trade is abolished, because war is the state normal for savage and barbaric peoples. Only, before the slave trade, the victors killed the prisoners:

ADOLITION OF SLAVERY. ^M

some ate them. When the milking was established, the victors sold their prisoners to Europeans, instead of killing them. They came back to their ancient customs, since this outlet is closed to them. I heard an Arab from Algeria say, who had traveled in the interior of Africa that, far beyond the great desert, a negro is selling dait for the value of a bag of dates, since the Europeans no longer bought them, and the chefs were frequently given to each other, by way of of pastime, and as a testimony of good friendship, the spectacle of the decapitation of one or more several prisoners. The number of victims depends told of the importance of the character we wanted honor.

If this is so, and if the reports of Mr. de Clarrigny are correct, we must conclude that the abolition of trafficking, considered from the point of view of charity Christian, is not one of those measures whose friends of humanity have so much to applaud.

I have also sometimes wondered why Englishmen who push the spirit of proselytism so far biblical, had not considered trafficking as a means of returning to the worship of the true God of the people idolatrous actions. I am always afraid, I admit, of this British charity.

The principle of true charity does not require deletion f but simply the re[ularization of the treaty.

The principle of charity requires that civil states lized will redeem themselves from barbarism and savagery their slaves, to initiate them into civilization and
H 16

Christianity, to make them a less cruel fate in a new homeland.

The transplantation of exuberant populations of Africa on the virgin and uninhabited lands of the continent American, is a social policy measure that calls for the interests of all European peoples, including including the English people. If the European worker, which I deny, is unfit for the cultivation of the soil of West Indies, if only black can endure without fatigue the heat of the climate of equatorial America, it is one more reason to believe that God has reserved for black race the agricultural conquest of this continent; and the European governments have nothing better to do than to subscribe to this will of God.

The regularization of trafficking by the State, by the State Navy, by the State Commissioners, is, in my opinion, the first step to take to achieve the real emancipation of the black race. That this emancipation is therefore decreed by a new European Congress which reviews the decisions of the Congress of Vienna, and that the trade is carried out in the name of the Gospel, on the largest scale. That we don't does not limit itself to restoring freedom, that is to say, to laziness tise and poverty, a few thousand black slaves in the West Indies, while we leave millions on the land of Africa, exposed to all the rigors of the law of barbaric warfare. Let us apply the remedy at the very source of the evil. We see that I am far from the Anglican philanthropy of An-England and France. This is no reason why I am wrong, on the contrary.

English government philanthropy aims to

ABOLITION OF SLAVERY. If is return to savagery and slerile all the soil of^ West Indies, to secure its possessions of India the eastern monopoly on sugar production.

England does not want the good of the Cuban slave or Martinique, but the evil of his masters. We we must not suffer. French and men of sense, that the enormous capital spent for three hundred years in the Antilles, to gain the soil for cultivation, is lost to society. We can't want that the sacrifices of these generations who drank the venom of virgin lands to make homes healthy for future generations, do not benefit the Gospel and through the care of civilized Europe, here the solution of the problem of the emancipation of the race black !

But how can we preserve the soil of the West Indies cultivation of cane and coffee, and at the same time emancipate time the slaves?

There is a way. France must apply as soon as today to its colonies the system that all European governments will have to apply to theirs, when Congress has reestablished the slave trade, in the name of the Gospel and humanity.

The government must organize colonial work ^ found the agricultural workshop in the colonies, by means of constraint first. '^

I want to recognize that in principle the role of producer does not belong to the State, and that the production is one of the functions of the municipality in a well-organized society. The true role of the state is that of distributor of products, the commercial role 2kk OF FINANCIAL FEODALITY.

cial. It is up to the State to regulate the relations of production and consumption in the interest of all, of ensure that deviations from unregulated production are suppressed, to guarantee the fairness of the price and quality of the products delivered for consumption. But the regime of Colonial labor is based on slavery, an institution of times of barbarism, a social fact which must be take this into account. Constraint is still necessary to transform this abnormal fact without shaking , following the requirements of civilized and Christian law; and it's for this reason I ask for the State, exception- ni'Ucmcnl, the investiture of the property of the territory colonial West Indies. If colonial labor was governed by free industry, I would simply ask for the State the monopoly of manufacturing, refining finery and the sale of sugar. But we are here under the influence of the exceptional fact and under the law pressing necessity. We will see that the path that I propose to return to the natural order of things, is the wisest and gentlest.

The government will organize colonial work, and will create an agricultural industrial workshop in the colony.

French colonies. This measurement will be preceded or accompanied by the redemption of slaves and compensation to the settlers. These are the recognized human rights^ in at the same time as acquired rights are respected.

To gain free disposal of your savings and in his person, the emancipated black will have to provide to the State a certain number of years of work, pen-
"which time he works part of his wages will return to the treasure. 1/other part, capitalized by

ENDING SLAVERY. 2/|5

TKlat, will be given to him at the expiration of his time of service. It is right that the slave released compensates the State for part of the sacrifices that the State imposed himself to redeem him from slavery; he is just that the emancipated slave pays the labor tax like the conscript of the metropolis pays the tax some blood; and the conscript from the metropolis would be happy to be able to free yourself from your debt, at the same price as the colony worker.

The government therefore organizes an industrial army trielle for agricultural work in the Antilles.

This army is recruited through trafficking.

White people can be admitted and acquire in its ranks fortune and ranks.

Service in the army of agricultural workers is the transition between forced labor and free labor.

The State has no slaves; the state service is not not a slavery; this service is never dishonorable. The regime of the new army, moreover, would be organized in such a way as to give pride of place to zeal, good conduct and ability; the grades are given there would also not be based on merit, and many workers free would probably come from the metropolis even, ask for a place in the colonial workshop. The Your-establishment of the government would be provided with all these guarantee institutions which ensure the fate of the worker against the eventualities of poverty. Of the priests and teachers, paid by the State, would have responsible for developing among these new recruits civilization, among these child peoples, the feelings ments of religion and morality. Doctors would be responsible for preserving public health that. The workshop would be the child's school and the camp of adult work. Black, completely emancipated and free to leave the colony at the expiration of its service time, would not leave her and continue to serve there as a free worker; because a re-honorable treatment would be granted to the worker after a certain period of service. By this means, capital buried for centuries in the exploitation of Antilles, would no longer run the risk of being lost for France.

246 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Thus, the solution by state monopoly reconciles all the higher interests that the question brings into play Thursday. I summarize and finish: – Abolition of the slavery, – compensation to settlers, – substitution of the State to the current owners of the land, – organization of colonial labor by the State, and founding of the industrial agricultural workshop, – obligation for black emancipated from serving the State as a worker for a certain number of years, – monopoly manufacturing, refining and selling of sugar by the State.

This is the complete solution to the colonial question.

SUMMARY. 247

CHAPTER XII.

Summary.

The State is the superior form of association between all the inhabitants of the same kingdom. It's a power delegated by all and acting in the name of all. What less powerful forms of association can do will realize, even more so this one realizes them – she said. It is therefore up to the State, in principle, to organize the metropolis workshop like that of the colony.

And this mission to organize work wherever either, in the colonies as in the metropolis, on the continent of Africa as well as that of America, this mission is the only one that should claim and the Christopher Columbuses of that time. The organization of work is the question of the day, the question of greetings for all the old states of Europe whose constitutions are cracking on all sides on their props worm-eaten.

But it seems that these old States have taken the side to be distracted by the dangers that threaten them, and that the sovereigns, in their dynastic selfishness have adopted the system of Louis XV: This will last well as long as we.

As much as you, alas! the thing is not good

2/IB OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

safe; for the day of atonement is quickly approaching for all oppressive powers; and the ruin of guilty can lead to that of the innocent; and the threat of punishment advances from the points of the horizon zone, where these blind powers do not notice themselves prepare for the hurricane.

Because it is the social war that is beginning, I say it; the war of those who have not, against those who own; the war of the hungry against the full; a merciless war of reaction and extermination. National rivalries are dormant, if not extinguished; intelligence has come to the oppressed from the excesses of the oppression; they calculate their forces and their numbers; they no longer ask only their lords and masters account of the abuses of conquest; their feelings times and their hatreds carry higher.

Civilized nations, delivered from the scourge of external war, threw themselves headlong into industrialism. Industrialism brought about the mid-anger of the individual, the enervation of the race and congested cities, centers of riots and revolutions.

The Silesian weaver sets fire to his workshops, like that of Manchester, like that of Lyon. Songs of the Proletarian^, of the Potato- or of the Shirt^ y all these worker protests oppressed are the same cry of revolt and war, to which all can respond to a given signal

'War cry of the Lyon workers; Work, work, work keep silent, it is the idle who will reap. ...

'Same, English workers.

SUMMARY, 2/|9

the serfs of European industrialism. Discite justitia in moniti...

But since all these old Euro-companies pagans are worked with the same evil, how then Has the idea not yet occurred to the councils of the powers? meetings of Europe, to understand and consult to ward off the danger and prevent the explosion? From where comes that the idea of colonization on a large scale did not again, in these councils, the importance of a question Urgent higher education?

So do they not feel that this question of colonization is directly or indirectly connected to all the social problems of the time?.. Plethora of States, unlimited extension of pauperism, fragment-land, reduction of wages, commercial fraud cials, permanent fermentation of ideas, instability powers, the question of colonization affects by the roots to each of these crucial questions tales. It is impossible to move it without shaking them all.

The question of colonization is not of interest exclusive, of national interest; she is not English, French, Neapolitan, German; she is of interest European; it is of Christian interest, of universe. So, let the offices of London, of Paris, of Naples, of Germany therefore unite in congress, to try to resolve it for the purposes of Christian interest.
Hey, universal!

Since they held these congresses to oppose the ravages of revolutionary ideas, why not institute one in order to stop the ra-waves of misery and hunger, scourges of much more

250 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

ment formidable for established governments that all the progress of liberal ideas.

While European populations die of hunger on the native soil and suffocate for lack of air, the rich continent of America calls inhabitants ground. Since steam has reduced the distance and tenfold the length of hours, this continent touches Europe. Rulers of overpopulated empires, hurry you therefore to dump the overflow on the deserted ground of your states. Doesn't England have its Ireland, Russia its Poland, France and Germany their congested cities, to cure this disease of plethora which causes so much alarm to their princes?...

When the beleaguered proletarian demands everywhere its leaders to live by working or die by beating, will these leaders always confine themselves to sure as the last part of his wishes!

Formerly, in the glorious times that our fathers saw, the French nation declared itself the friend of all oppressed nations, and his will weighed in all the councils of the powers. The French nation proclaimed the human right to work; she preached to loudly the crusade against despots, and do not did not beg for absolutism the forgiveness of its glory and of his freedoms. The French government today repudiates the noble heritage of 89; as if he had to reddening from its revolutionary origin, it was made humble and small before the powers to make it forgive. Instead of proclaiming the abolition of avarice and the right of all to work, he abandons the profits from work to the parasitic banker. 11 uses the national labor income to erect bastilles against the freedoms of the nation. And if some generous speaker asked this government to open the soil of America or French Africa to all the outcasts of European civilization, and to make them there at all a new homeland, absorbing the various nationalities of the defectors, in the holy nationality of misfortune", lazy ministers would stand up immediately to say: that their government has not to occupy oneself with these utopian daydreams;... and the slow tomorrow the shameless scribes of these heartless ministers, would call the speaker a Marat or a poet...

SUMMARY. 251

Listen, Pharisees and scribes, you deceive yourselves on the power of long-suffering of a generation, the cult of the golden calf will not hold in our country. You talk about the future; I don't know even if the time remains for you to work on repairing your follies. Bourgeois freed from 89 and freed by the grace of punishment of the aristocracy that preceded you does not was of no use, woe to you! because it is always too late to understand justice, when the people op-prize-winner has risen!

And you also, be cursed, you false teachers of the conomism which betrayed true science for gold and the people; who glorified theft for gold and theft; who denied evil to free you to seek a remedy there!... Woe to you, apostates of the free woman who you are made Jews to ob-hold some power and gold in the kingdom of Judah!
Woe to you who threw the first stone daughter of the poor, writing that prostitution had

252 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

of other origin than the disordered love of luxury and enjoyments; because all baptisms of official virtue will not cleanse you before God of these im-magpies!

TO THE MINISTERS. 25

TO MINISTERS.

<>

July arrivals, hosiers, robins, teachers gues, ministers by the grace of the people! what did you you have done for sixteen years for this people, of their victory and the power he had left you? Sons of bourgeois released from 89, in what currency do you have paid to the worker the debt of your fathers and yours?

What new right, what new freedom do you you added to the sum of the rights and freedoms of the people ?

What care did you take with his moralization, with his dignity, his well-being?

What are the rings on his chain called?
which you have broken; the illnesses of his body and Twenty-one billion and more have entered since sixteen years in the coffers of the State whose keys you hold. What have you done with this wealth in the interest of people? what plot did you detach from these mountains of gold to build nativity scenes age, from the Invalids to old age, from shelters to young girl against prostitution?

By what benefit must the people call you?

July ministers:

For those who have seen you at work or heard you in the Council, very close'; for those who know little red blood that passes through your heart, the little of good will which lies in your brains, the name which the one that suits you best is that of lazy people.

25^ OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

And make no mistake about the indulgence of the epithet, because, in my eyes, in the days when we are, laziness is worse than felony.

It is said that one of you delivered in 1840 to the admiralty English, the secret of Admiral La-'s coup de main landed. If indeed the crime was committed, I want that the culprit has no more betrayed France than the Minister of the Interior who once declared, in full national forum, the question of salary too serious so that the government had the right to get involved –

Lazy because everything had to be rebuilt from the ground up summit in your social building, where your predecessors had forgotten to give pride of place at work and capacity. Lazy, for you were created in mid-nistres to repair this oversight, and you backed away ashamed of the task, every time we has given you notice to act.

All the time the riot was brewing, and the government new government has wavered on its base, you were entitled to apologize for your laziness in finding bles of the city, and to deplore the misfortune of the circumstances which condemned you to rest'. Same as good souls were able to believe in the sincerity of your

But calm returned, your government seated, this laziness no longer had any excuse. So you have erected immobility into a system, and turned against the idea of the weapons that you had been given in on days of tumult to defend public order,

TO MINISTERS. 255

and YOU have deserved the name that the poet gave you, of leaders of the party of terminals: that is the betrayal.

Turgot told you, seventy years ago, that ((the most sacred of all properties was that of the arms, the most sacred of all rights, the right to work, the right to live. » The insurgents of Lyon have vainly repeated Turgot's formula; in vain broke out the strikes in all parts of France, to help you show the importance of the question of salary, and Urgent necessity for the organization of work.

You have had your scribes insult and treat of insane Turgot and those who thought like him.

You have given up on the question of salary which contained the germ of that of the emancipation of work-them, leaving the task of resolving it to the mous-quests of your soldiers and the cannons of your forts.

No doubt to make these tra-valiant people that we want to remove from revolutions, that they have nothing to expect from the initiative of those in power, that they must only count on themselves! And you didn't-Don't be ashamed to call yourself supporters of power see, pitiful historians who understand the lessons from Turgot and the needs of the times!

But you still didn't have enough of your bastilles against the question of salary- Under the pretext that any workers meeting was a threat to gold dre, you have forbidden them the right to associate for defend" their lives against the authorized coalition of masters; you delivered the work, bound hand and foot, to capital, Judas of revolution and society Help yourself!

Judas of the revolution; because that name suits you

256 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

that as well as the other; because the day after your installation in power, after 'ISS0, you separate already divide the nation into two camps, by virtue of a theory impudent laugh borrowed from the English. You placed on one side two hundred thousand censitaires to two hundred tax francs, which you name the legal country ^ of the other, thirty-three million citizens, and you said that the legal country was everything, that the rest was not milk not worth mentioning.,...

However, it was good, if I remember correctly, the real people, the people of workers in arms naked, and not the legal country which had hoisted you the day after the glorious days on this bulwark of power coveted by you for so long. Legal country means little to topple thrones and overthrow ramparts armed men.

Judas of the revolution.... it was you again, you, the children of 89, who the day after the fall of the old regime, and more than fifty years after the night from August 4, remade dukes and counts, snatching of the damaged cast-off clothes of the ci-devants, of wretches scraps of rags, to hide the name that had carried your fathers. Vain little bourgeois, little historians, fierce abolishers of privileges, that you pity me! And how wonderful the hour was-chosen, see then, to establish a new manufactures gentlemen.... when the dukes of manufacture that ancient people sold their old coats of arms to the Jews, to serve as signs for stock shops railroads.

Grant patents of vain monomania to fools, patents on parchment with wax seal;

TO MINISTERS. 257

endow your fathers-in-law or your sons-in-law with the first general revenues of the kingdom, except to share with them, as you all did, great slayers abusers.... could this be, by chance, what happens? shovel working for the people, in the language of the big politics? could it be these works that have made so proud, that you can be heard at all hours, talk about going up to the Capitol, to give thanks to the gods!

You have adorned new prisons everywhere outskirts of your cities, enlarged the belly of the ancients, merger of the bastilles, replacing that which our fathers had demolished; but the bastilles and the people weapons are not popular institutions, and I asks you what are the rings of the chain of people whom you have broken?

I ask you what care you took of his well-being? Your actions tell me that you have so copiously gorged with our gold treating him and the Jew, that not a cent remained in the coffers of the State, to ward off the explosion of famine.

Bread is ten cents, the people cry out for poverty, the destitute people suffocate at the doors of bread shops good market held by the municipal charity.... Where are your barns of abundance? because the scarcity is coming nuncio six months in advance, and you must have pre-see.

There is no storehouse of abundance; what do you want you, the Minister of Agriculture, who is of his Casimir's manufacturing profession, was not required to see that a burning drought of three months can will compromise the harvest. Let's wait; here is that the rooms will open, and it will be pronounced, following usage, a number of eloquent speeches in love of the French people....
II 17

258 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Ministers concerned with the interests of the masses, they says, in fact, that one of your first proposals legislative, at the next session, will be asked der to the people, for the deer-wolves of stock trading, an extra salary of five to six hundred million! These poor Jews!

I asked you to tell me again what care you had taken from the morality of the people, and the wounds of his soul that you had healed. Now, I stir up the story of the day to seek your answer and your merits hidden, and I always find you with your hands in your corruption, encouraging fraud by all means electoral, bargaining with consciences, stirring up fury of the public game by the lure of power and honors reserved for the lucky; inoculating the masses his, with the thirst for gold and material enjoyments, disgust for all honest work and all probity!

I know very well that listening to your casuists, these evils are not your work; that you are completely innocent of the turpitudes of this gangrenous environment in which your cowardly hands dare not carry the scale pel... and that God alone is guilty in this, who created the bad man, "all on purpose to prepare tablature to constitutional ministers. Blind and ungrateful as we are, not to thank you two knees for the kindness you have in showing us break against the malice of God!

As if listing your misdeeds against man was not long enough, that you need the charge again with a stupid slander against God....

TO MINISTERS. 259

But at least, on the outside, you held high the flag of France? Did you thunder in within the congresses the voice of new politics cow? because there are two policies: the old one, that of Satan, that of the English, the Austrian, the Russian, who seize states to enslave their populations lations and suck their blood; then the news, the policy of Christ, that which repudiates the military conquest mea, and who no longer girds the sword except to exterminate undermine despotism and restore all nationality, its institutions, its freedoms, its rights. Have you got addressed from the top of your fortified capitals and your two million soldiers, the formidable and supreme call for the justice of peoples, before which must stand dye, like the wind in the rain, the arrogance of last executioners of Italy, Ireland and Poland log? Have they understood you well, these poor representatives feeling the right of the sabre, when you told them that you kept the revolutionary hurricane imprisoned in your home lutionary; that you just had to loosen your hand to unleash all the fury on their empires worm-eaten and break them into a thousand pieces? So, by what concessions to their people have you made to them pay for your generous kindness, and the rest that did you leave them?

0 indelible shame! you who could speak if high – for sixteen years, you are who you are you s ! They who had to humiliate themselves and remain silent, it was them who insolently raised their voices, they who expelled from the bosom of their congresses, which imposed on you guarantees you gave them. I travel with your eyes the map of contemporary diplomacy, from Mauritius to Ancona, from Taïti to Beirut, to Tangier, I don't see a corner of the earth where you have placed your foot without staining you with mud. Ah î in vain today, would you like to make a protest courageous action against the latest iniquity of the government Austrian ment: the people would refuse to believe to your indignation; the people would say in their own right legitimate distrust: ((They therefore want to arm their forts there or conceal some new disavowal, that they take their Strong voice. »

For the last time, lazy ministers, what have you made you for the people of these sixteen years of peace and of our twenty-one billion?

One of those scribes of Israel that you sell for gold of France to insult all the glorious names of the country, cites the law of primary education....

I remember.... this liberal law which endows the guardian of a splendid salary of two hundred and fifty francs per year: I had forgotten it. Let's move on, for our honor and yours. Another blessing, please, another proof that you have remained faithful to the spirit and letter of the revolution....

The same scribe pledged ^ at the end of his ways, asks me ask if I take the fireworks for nothing every year on the Pont de la Concorde, in memorization of the glorious ones, and the right to sing the Marseillaise....

It's true that you have fired enough powder at stars, and quite tolerated the national war anthem, since 1830.

TO THE MINISTRIES. 261

But whatever your scribes say, sixteen fireworks and the right to sing the Marseillaise for a rev lution and twenty-one billion.... in consciousness, this is not enough.

Ministers of the Revolution,

I had hoped, however, that this last year-in plagues of all kinds, rampant stock trading, epidemics, fires, floods, famine, and these scourges bring usually so many terrible lessons with them! It's a great shame, really, that you have the sleep so heavy, so heavy, that lamentations and the cries of fury of so many people who suffer do not you can wake up.

For while you were sleeping so happily meil and your daughters danced to alleviate the misery public, here are the workers of Geneva, to whom the tyranny of the crown merchants weighed too much, put these merchants at the door. These were your friends Geneva safes, think about it. By a coincidence strange, it seems that, at the same moment, the ora-leaders of the English people loudly expressed their opinion deny that it was a long time ago that the victors d'Haslings held the ground they had stolen from the Saxons, the Irish and others. Then, absolutism, inspired by a thought of dizziness, tried to defile himself of one last infamy to turn red the anger and the need for revenge of free peoples....
Austria and Russia, moved by the invisible spring of fate, unsealed the stone with their own hands

262 OF FINANCIAL FEODALITY.

from the tomb of the French revolution, where they lay locked up since 1815, near the treaties of Munster, of Leoben and Tilsitt, all the charters, all the freedoms of European peoples. Finally, and most incredible and the most unexpected of coincidences, cotton peaceful, the pivotal element of British power nique and industrial serfdom, was metamorphosed, in the hands of the slave, as a glorious instrument of deliverance, in a war machine within the reach of all !

These poor despots who had counted without the acid nitric, and who had fun playing soldiers, getting information incorporate scraps of territory declared inviolable by themselves, and who imagined that there had only to want to remove the name of Poland from book of life of the nations!

July ministers, an interesting discussion has just opened up around you on the question of capital ; try to follow the debates carefully.
The watchmakers of Geneva were the first to take the role; here are the weavers of England who are asking for it

TO SOCIALISTS. 263

TO SOCIALISTS.

Socialists of all communions! vertigo is also on you! the spirit of pride blows to the brain of your leaders, the spirit of war in the heart of your soldiers. So many names, so many banners, and before of having attacked the common enemy, before having taken your positions for battle, all you have turned your weapons against yourselves. At least wait that the world be saved, poverty overcome, to proclaim the names of the winners and dispute the crowns.

Defenders of equality, you sometimes say in your moments of wisdom, may he who made all he can has done all he must. It's just, /but, on the other hand, the one who has done nothing for society owes him everything he could do, and the figure of his debt is because of its capacity. Prominent socialists by intelligence or by the heart, the account that you have to pay to humanity is very heavy!

For you are learned; and since you have observed, read a lot, your studies and your books you must have learned that the law of love governed the world, both morally and materially; that therefore—However, the world could only be saved by adopting universal tition of this law of love that Christ, he Eighteen hundred years ago, called for charity.

Knowing the words of Christ, and the divinity of principle of charity, where does it come from that you practice it?

26/l Dli /.A FINANCIAL FEUDALTY.

who treat each other so little, and that dis-rope sits permanently among you?

Socialists, the most curious problem of this time is certainly that of knowing how this old civilized world, which you want to demolish, can still walk and stand. Hit yourself chest, socialists, because if the old world of Satan still lives, it is thanks to your divisions.

less science, socialists, because your science lost.

A little more charity, compassion for the suffering theirs of those who suffered, and you would have understood all the need to unite against the misery of present, rather than worrying so much about the fe-licitities of the future.

And since poverty, this fatal lot of the masses ^ like say the satiated, is the evil from which all the scourges of humanity, war, oppression, ignorance rancid, lying, theft, prostitution, madness, you would have, with a common effort, raised the dike con-be the flood and said to evil: you will go no further.

Ah! that if you had all shouted at once, since twenty years, and after Iurgot and Fourier: the right to work! the right to live! the minimum and more than mon! that it was a long time ago that the Pharisees and the scribes would have brought flag!

That the government of July is a good old age, despite its terrors and its inertia, would have been forced to sacrifice the cause of capital to that of labor vail, and to drive the merchants from the temple friends!

TO SOCIALISTS. 265

But instead of working towards this end, socialists, you only knew how to divide those who needed to be united, than intimidate those who needed to be reassured. And because charity was absent from your souls, God refused to even language the gift of persuasion. "Because it is not enough faith to save the world, Christ said, we still need charity. »

Socialists, if the glow of true charity had illuminated undermined your souls; if you had really suffered from cold and hunger of the poor, none of you would have never claimed to save the world single-handedly, and you wouldn't be too busy today to fight poverty, and you do not deserve to be assimilated you all to those Catholics of the old days that you joke so pleasantly sometimes, and who maintained without laughing that the good Lord, who possesses so many languages, only heard the prayers that we spoke to him in Latin.

misery, because the monster has a hard life, and as long as you will not have cut off and burned all its heads, you will not have the right to refuse the competition of the most humble among us. And I am surprised that misfortune time has not brought you more thoughts of agrees with the spirit, has not made you feel better need for union.

Oh yes ! poverty is very heavy on the poor world, socialists, and never perhaps the ignoble beggar showed no more sores and ulcers than today in the glances of the alarmed populations, and did not hang around following a more hideous procession of abominations and ^ desolations. Because all the people have agreed to meet

266 OF FINANCIAL FEODALITY.

YOU this year on French soil: fire, flood, pestilence, famine, and each one came bring it its contingent of devastation and ruin nes. Only one was missing to complete the list, the cold, and the cold came which hardened the earth and covered it velie under the snow, cutting the arm at the same time to all field workers, while the profession stopped beating in the cities. And the army of sci-sionaries of the social state, thieves and vagrants leaps, was recruited from the desertion of the in-house workshop industrial and agricultural workshop.

At that time, Ireland, unhappy Ireland enriched the vocabulary of medical science with one more disease name, starvation fever.

Now, what were you doing with your arms and your intelligence? gence, socialists, while this cloud of scourges fell on France?

While these plagues fell on France and the famine baptized a new disease,

The sated Saint-Simonians digested,... squatting at the feet of the golden calf –

With the exception of a single, eminent philosopher of- remained faithful to the good cause, despite the seductions tions of example and poverty. But the noble spirit that the demon of gold had not been able to tempt, gave in to the suggestions of the demon of pride. Desire had bitten the friend of wisdom to the heart, and because that solitude and silence were around more powerful trainer whose name attracted the crowd; and he went away carrying his troubles through the cities and the towns; and everywhere complaining like a theft

TO SOCIALISTS. 267

done to his glory, of any homage paid to the superiority rity of others. Furious diatribes against theo-' societal rie, it was all that the suffering of the populations inspired the charity of the faithful disciple of Saint-Simon.

While the wind was blowing so furiously and the poor were choking at the doors of bread shops cheaply, the founder of the Icarian cult addressed to the Fomniarch of the corporate school a superb cartel in the style of that of the Prince of Granada. The foolbeggar champion of Icaria was determined to reduce the powdered phalanstery, using the vain process queer of Jericho, and just by pronouncing the word fraternity. The respondent omniarch accepted the cartel, and the civilized world palpitated with anguish awaiting the great sword blows which were about to be given. . . . in water.

Founders of Icarian and other cults, communicants your peaceful or not peaceful, egalitarian or not egalitarian, you lose sight of the issue. I you repeats that it is a question of demolishing the poverty which kills the populations and not the phalanstery which is not yet standing and who only wants to shelter groups of beings happy, rich and free. Wouldn't you know not by chance other buildings, prisons and bastilles, for example, to be razed before that one?

For your brothers in good wishes, communists, the charity, please.

While the people had this great hunger, the Duns Scotus of absolute equality, a man who lived of the worker's life and who knows their needs, a a subtle doctor, if ever there was one, spent incredible amounts of money

268 OF FINANCIAL FEODALITY.

use logic, wit and eloquence to prove that the synthesis is not the same thing as the antithesis, and that we must also be careful not to confuse the conlra-dictlon ii\Q,Q, Y antinomy j important distinction and of which the need generally arose – And then in– prayer, and he sought to establish that the value of work can have no other standard than time,

0 Greeks of Constantinople, who waved so warmly raises the question of the effectiveness of grace or transubstantiation, at the moment when the Turk struck down your ramparts, what a rich lineage of imitators you had to leave behind you

Subtle doctor of Fanarchism and egalitarianism, if you wanted to work for the people, you have spent there a great sum of talent for a pitiful result; because the people will read you little and will not understand you will hardly take. The slightest grain of millet, alas! would have does his job better than all your brilliant passes of weapons in the closed field of value. What if you have only worked for you, only to acquire in the fight the reputation of a formidable jouster, the thing is different, your work has borne fruit. YOU have, in fact, been so disconcerted by utopias, so ridiculed used of good will, demolished so many systems, including took all yours, that the optimists of time present, those happy with the civilized regime, could if necessary place your name as a scarecrow on the road to progress. The noble rule, isn't it, that they would play to your high intelligence, and as you should be proud of a purchased literary fame at the same price

TO SOCIALISTS. 269

Subtle doctor, I don't know if the property is the flight. I feel neither the desire nor the strength to cross the iron with you on the ground of this dangerous question-reuse where the police always have agents; but I know that property is a fatal fact, by which it is necessary to every necessity that humanity passes: I know that the desire for property is the most active stimulus of action human activity; hence, the first stone of the building social wealth; therefore, one of the primary elements moral and essential to progress. I still know that the unfortunate proletarian of the fields, who conquered on the desert a miserable plot of land, and who impregnated you for thirty years with his sweat, because he saw independence at the end of his work vail, I know that this hardworking settler did not steal his property title. You recognize like me the legitimacy of this title, since you do not want more than me the brutal suppression of property, since you don't want to return the current owner what then to fulminate the prohibition against property in such harsh terms? Why throw the alarm into the camp of those who legitimately own, and thus double the power of the obstacle that you have to overcome, in making all owners charitable and all workers freed from serfdom through property, so many auxiliaries to the cause of abuse? because the people is not strong enough to separate the owner from the property y to exonerate one after having convicted the other; and for him property is land.... And I repeat to you that you are poorly serving the good cause, the cause of the sacred right of ownership of the arms?

270 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Whereas it is more urgent to dispossess the banker capitalist, the unproductive capitalist, of exorbitant right of usury, right of commerce and intermediate property and dispossess the owner silence from the ground the right to earn one's living by the sweat of his forehead. Whereas as long as poverty reigns in this world, no law can prevent work—their assets and planning to look in the pro—prayer a shelter from poverty, for him and for the his.

I still admire that the apostle of absolute equality, that the same doctor who fought so hard against societal theory, arrives, at the end of account, to set time as the sole measure of value of work. I wonder, in fact, in what places and in what phase of humanity, the provi—social decency will be able to reward with equal remuneration the working hour of Homer and the working hour of the street sweeper, otherwise in this society harmony described by Fourier, where richness de—will border so widely on all sides, that luxury and all the elements of enjoyment will be like the atmosphere sphere, within everyone's reach. And again, for this time and for this society, subtle doctor, your theory of absolute equality would it be false and fall—would she be of her own accord; because then, and for a long time—time, there would be no more salary, and pleasure would be become the only price of work.... and duty would have yielded to X attraction, or rather would have been confused with She.... *

Now, what is the use of so many vehement philippics, sarcastic, aimed at the theory of work at—milking, to arrive at implicitly confessing later the correctness of the assertions of this theory.

Because this system of remuneration proportional to the duration and not the value of the time used at work is neither very new nor very consoling. That is, if I don't is wrong, the system adopted by a host of communities religious communities, that of the Trappists and that of the Carthusian in particular. Would you be willing, per ha-sard, to see all of humanity enslaved to the rule of La Trappe or that of Saint-Bruno? For my account, I would just as much like to leave today's society where she is today.

Listen, egalitarians, to the beautiful ideal of justice, in material distribution, the ultimate in suction of charity and fraternity, it is retribution or more early distribution proportional to needs. Well, this superior formula is one of the first aims that the theory of attractive work inscribes on its flags. Leaders or soldiers of communism, bow you so shameless and you uncover the forehead in front of Fourier, who reads more fluently than you in the book of the future and knows your own path better than YOU. My God ! will we never make peace on earth to men of good will! Let's see, Doesn't it seem to you as it does to me that the sublime discoverer of the laws of attraction sion, that the man who, for forty years, believed he carried in his head the secret of human happiness manity, and who did not obtain any response to his names-many appeals to charity from the powerful than silence or the mocking laughter of his contemporaries, is it that it does not seem to you that such a man has atoned

NOT

272 HENCE FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

cruelly enough here below the wrongs of his genius, to that today everyone respected, if not our great-attitude, or due to his memory. But he too, perhaps being, he fell into the sin of pride, and then he
It is right that he be punished for what he has sinned.

Subtle doctors of anarchism, and you too, Icarian pontiffs and socialist philosophers, admit that the genius of evil, that Satan did well to count of the heart and lose humanity!

But while the envious of the man of genius attacked his glory, what did his disciples, his beloved disciples and in whom he had put all his affection.* While hunger whispered to the bowels of the worker, what did the apostles of the holy doctrine? Listen to them:

They proclaimed the decline and debacle of the old policy, and, to be consistent with their principles, they dragged themselves everywhere in search of dismemberment of the old political parties, and were shrinking with love in their pale diary all themes worn out, to show the civilized that they were of their century, and not utopians, like the slander insinuated him.

To attract faithful members of the community, Catholic nion, they said that the doctrine of their master, who in fact posits the legitimacy of the passions and who intends to fill man with all the joys of paradise versus this world, was absolutely the same as the Catholic who prescribes the renunciation of joys of this world, and who considers this earth as a

TO SOCIALISTS. 275

valley of tears I Yet it is not the same thing.

After that, as soon as it was admitted by the believers of Christian worship as Christ who prescribes forgiveness insults, comes directly from Moses who prescribed revenge and says: an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth, I don't do not see what the claim of the apostles of the theory member can have monstrous property to look at of these. He who comes from Moses is called Mahomet; the Jew begat the Arab; and Fourier, who quadruples social wealth, is the closest comes from Jesus, who multiplies the loaves in the desert and who changes Water into wine at the wedding of Cana....

To capture the sympathies of the same power, they pleaded for freedom of education against unitary education of the State, knowing well what—while those of the clergy who demanded so energetically freedom of education, did not want it that to achieve monopoly more quickly, as have ence.

The master had prescribed to put down the sect spirit at the door of his doctrine....

To comply with the master's instructions, they holyly maintained discord among the various fractions of the socialist party, and claimed childish for a single name the honor of all the de-covered with geniuses of the past, as if they had wanted prohibit the gratitude of humanity from raising to its benefactors a pantheon large enough to accommodate moderately all the glorious names here below. Hey! do first descend the benefit on the unfortunate, before to worry about the name of the benefactor, because there is the essential ; the plant altered by the burning breath of day, do not ask the water of the sky to suck, the secret of his fall, nor what beneficent clouds poured it on his stem....
II 18

211i OF FINANCIAL FEODALITY.

The master had allocated to the poor man's capital a income triple that of the rich man's capital.... and they are posed as defenders of the rights of capital tal, ex hoc nunc et usque,... and they left from there theory of their master on capital, to make the war on all enemies of capital. They do not have understood that if, in the language of the social economy, capital means instrument of work y in language of the domestic economy, it means guarantee against misery for oneself and for one's loved ones, a way to free oneself disgusting work and ordering this work from others. Now, when wealth overflows and misery is not more, what good, please, are the guarantees against misery? When the joyful groups of phalanxes rush drunkenly to work, who can think otherwise the madman, to free himself from work to let it re-fall the burden on others? And why now pay for this work? I haven't heard that the workers in the field of the federation have demanded the amount of their days in May 90, and I do not know nor did any of us ever think of to pay for the pleasure he took in hearing Weber, Rachel or Malibran. Well then?....

So, this means that the admission of capital to the honors of the distribution proportional to the conlastere, but not for the second. And that's why the master, barely installed in the phalanstery, hastens to attribute to the worker's capital an interest of 24 per 100, and to reduce the interest on the ca-* to 8 per cent banker's pit. It was, in fact, the easiest way simple, most rational and most peaceful solution worm to the leveling of fortunes, then to the burial of capital, and finally to the resurrection of the exclusive right capacity, which this oppressive capital was stifling. Right of laziness (capital), salary and attractive work are three words which, to use an expression banal, scream to find themselves coupled.

TO SOCIALISTS. 275

The master had posited in principle the necessity of take care first of all about improving the household of the poor and to subordinate all questions to this practical question. As a result, its most sa- Before his disciples, they endeavored to have Christ accredited in this world, as ambassador of the Regency of solar whirlwind.... which did not resolve at all the Cfussion of hunger.

Did they at least organize relief against the mid-sere, these depositaries of the secret of the united organization towards her? Not that the poor person knew.... but maybe be that the time had not yet come to act, that the misery was not intense enough, nor the cold enough harsh.

But the first stone of the phalanstery was laid undoubtedly, and the center of the school from where pulling the impulse and the life, pushed with all his efforts to the founding of this attractive palace of work, hence the taint of harmony must escape so quickly to dry up across the entire surface of the globe, misery, hatred and oppressions?....

276 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Ilelas, no! the first stone of the phalanstery was not hasn't been asked yet. The center from which to start the impulse fell asleep to the delights of journalism civilized, and was especially concerned with having the de-appointed its supreme director, at the same time as to increase the product of the announcement sheet of the newspaper. The center postponed, postponed...., and for heresy; he called them dangerous menreux, and complacently cited the failures suffered by directors from America and France, for demonstrate the perils of haste. As if the magnitude of the result was not enough to justify impatience and it was not worth compromising oneself little to reach it one or two years earlier! Finally, at instead of the price he should have offered for the best project, the center proposed a price for the best praise of Fabius Cunctator, an ancient general of Rome, who also did not like to come in the hands.

But at least the old world knew how to appreciate so much of moderation and wise slowness, and brilliantly rewarded lament of his esteem for these peaceful reformers, every time the opportunity presented itself?

Certainly...,

At an election in Paris, in 1844, voters Catholics of the ninth, thirty in number, resolutely awarded their votes to the editor leader of the Peaceful Democracy, who had taken party for freedom of education. Unfortunate-These thirty votes were not enough to give give the majority to the Catholic candidate, given that

TO SOCIALISTS. 277

the number of other voters was almost five cents.

In the last elections, and through the effect of one of these incredible reversals of political faith that foil all the math, ninety-one liberal voters de Montargis honored with their votes, as the thirty Catholics of the ninth, the editor in leader of peaceful democracy. The author of the Debacle politics and a hundred first-Paris virulently against the old liberalism, honored by the votes of the core political lionnaires of Mr. Odilon-Barrot, the same who continues everywhere with his innovative epigrams centers the ideas of Fourier, and who so well deserved by his twenty years of legislative work the ovation triumph that he received not long ago in the land of the eu-necks.... In truth, it is beyond understanding.
And unfortunately again, these ninety-one Liberal votes were only a third of the born figure. necessary to give the majority to the candidate of Mon-

Directors of the corporate school, it's a small problem-lucky for the Idea, that you were missing a few tain votes to sit at the Palais-Bourbon, with Mr. Calmon and Mr. Cunin-Gridaine; And you see me consoled by it. What saddens me more is ser and to say, it is that your ambition was able to stick there, O men of little faith!

Because you could do a lot in times of peace, more than the other leaders of the socialist party; bylant, you are guilty of all the good that you have you didn't do and all the harm you let happen.

278 'OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Peaceful Democrats, you have seen the straw in the eye of your neighbors the ministers of July, and you did not see the beam that was in yours, and you are wrong to bully these poor people who do not do something other than what you do, which does not neither worse nor better than you, and who are less free that you.

For you too have come with power and cense of electability, love of the status quo and politics modest, to you who shrink from failure and who aspire to be a deputy. Because you too thought above all of reassuring civilized society against the danger of socialist ideas, like the government July inauguration to give pledges to cabinets absolutists against the revolution. And the courage to the initiative was a fault to you, as it was to those you accuse of cowardice at any time; and the proof is that the reader, tired of your wisdom, has withdrawn from you. It is not, to complete the analogy between the two policies, it is not even in the spirit of dynastic conservation which has not exercised on your con-if his malign influence.

Ministers or dictators of the corporate school, if the bonds of a common faith and those of an old friendship did not string Tepigram under my pen, I would be tried to attach to your name, as I did quite time for others, the word of lazy people.

Because you too, when you present yourself in front of the court of public opinion, to report of your actions and the power whose confidence your brothers had invested you, you will hear the opinion

"For so many genuflections before capital and kindness towards the Jews, for so much skill in hide your flag in the days of battle and one hundred thousand francs of income, one hundred and twenty votes of contraband hung here and there in the ultramontanes of the Universe and to the Voltairians of the Constitutional conscience is not enough. »

,...•••••<•• »•

Socialists of all flags and all countries, the agenda calls for only one question, the question of hunger; because it is hunger that feeds ignorance rancidity and prostitution, which decimates and stupefies the populations, which makes the worker an helot, a serf workable and corveable at will; it is the fear of hunger, fear alone which kills charity in the heart of rich, and who made the world triumph over this insanity slow and stupid theory, that the poor would perish from hungry, if there were no rich people to make them work. You agree that poverty removed and the right to live guaranteed to all workers, all tyrannies are down. Rally then, socialists, on this ground of the question of the day, where you walk united, where you can display in front of everyone nemi your compact phalanges. So talk about distribution-equitable provision and limitation of capital income; speak loudly, fear nothing; we will listen to you seeing so many people asking the same thing, a just thing, after all, the right to live. Point of threats to property, denied public order; time lost than all that. Peaceful strike, universal strike saddle, if you want, so that we can clearly see a times for fools if it is the rich who keeps the tra-valour, or the worker who supports the rich. But there is better than the strike, thank God, to move forward the solution of the question. Thus we say that the water of our rivers carry billions every year Wed... if we joined together to stop these thousand farthings along the way and force them to stay with us. They say that we pay by usury, we French—that's it, a civil list of two billion.... if we imagine—create a vast system of agricultural and industrial credit triel to reduce the civil list of usury to zero....

280 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY,

moment that union is strength.... if all those who suffering from hunger united in a vast community mutual insurance company against hunger, illness die, unemployment.... and if we were clever enough, fairly free from all hostile prejudices against power, to force this power to take the initiative of these major reforms, like the government Belgian government, which already has the railways, who will take the insurance tomorrow, the day after tomorrow the Bank, which will have killed commerce before ten years from now and will arrive before all of us to recognize health of the people!

In any case, socialists, be careful not to close your ranks before you have won, before you have forced the right of idle capital to a honorable. The capitulation signed and executed, you re-take, if you wish, your interesting discussions of the past on the standard of value, the usurpation, syncretism or antinomy, your choice.

But until then, whoever among you will not have had enough charity in his soul to abjure his or-the role of a sectarian, to do in the interest of all criticism of his personal disagreements on one point of doctrine, let him be declared a traitor to the cause common and criminal act of treason against humanity!

TO SOCIALISTS. 281

Socialists of all communions, Chartists of England, agrarians of the United States, phalansterns from France, know how to finally understand this prayer eternal of the oppressed that they have been repeating for so long-time and you are not listening:

Give us today our daily bread and deliver us some mish'e....

Give them today their daily bread which they ask, and deliver them from evil.

So be it!

282 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

TO THE PRIESTS.

Ministers of Catholic worship, a great day is coming to stand up for you. They say that the breath of life passed over the cypresses of the Roman necropolis and re-vigiled in its tomb the papacy that all believed dead and only asleep. It is said that the new calf head of the Church, illuminated by the Holy Spirit, understood, by girding the tiara, the duties that he imposed his double title of vicar of Jesus and of father of believers; and that the struggle between force and right, between Caesar and the Pope will be reborn. I do not want not calculate how many disappointments can be followed these hopes; I don't know which eye absolutism at bay will consider this resurrection unexpected from his rebellious feal; I don't know which ones iniquitous means he will resort to to suffocate him in its germ; but I know that slave Italy flinched of joy in his chains, and that the blessings and thanksgiving is raining down on the not from the sovereign pontiff; and I say to you, O priests, whatever the outcome of the movement, join in- y nobly, without ulterior motive; follow the impulse from above, because the hour has come for the Church to re-form an alliance with freedom and force new calf the Sicambre to bow his head.

Priests, if you want to give back to Catholic worship the prestige and power he no longer has, get him used to it people to mix your name more often with that of defenders of their rights.

TO THE PRIESTS. 288

Priests, successors of the apostles, comforters of afflicted, lend the support of your holy word to the holy cause of work. You who can do so much people whose defenders you were once called;, teach him to distinguish his true friends from those who come to him under the skin of sheep and who, at the inside, are ravening wolves. Help us to drive merchants and false teachers out of the temple, following the example of your divine Master; help us to tear away the thick veil of misery which obscures the intelligence of the people, and prevents the light rays of faith to reach him. The workers are militia of God; bless the work that fertilizes the earth and gives health to the soul at the same time as body health. Christ took the little and the poor under his special protection; take care of the education tion of the poor; teach us all to practice the justice of God, so that all the goods of this world in addition.

Priests, it was said for a long time that it was you who had nailed with your hands, on the rock of the Caucasus, the genius of science and emancipatory work; And many still accuse you of wanting to hold back humanity in its limbo of ignorance and misery.
Priests, try to prove to the people that your accusations They lied.

Believe me, believe me, spend less eloquence in the future to urge resignation on victims of inequity; no longer make them so enviable joys of misery, so overwhelming the worries of riches; because philosophers have perverted the reason of

284 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

this people whose trust you must regain, and they convinced him that iniquity had no support more solid than the dogma of resignation.

Catholic priests, I regret for you that the three most crucified nations of the present time, Ireland, Italy and Poland, are all three catholics; because it's always a bad grade for a dogma, to have lent itself to oppression and initiation equity. Maybe if the sheep weren't so timid and so resigned to their fate, the wolves do not would not be so cruel or so hungry for their flesh.

Do not preach renunciation so often goods of this world, lest this lost people continues to distrust your words and take you for the true heirs of those who had won the ownership of a third of the area of the kingdom before 89, to preach contempt for the goods of the earth.

Also, do not insist too energetically on the figure of the tribute which would be due to Caesar, because it is us who do it now and who undo it. Caesar, and it is he who owes us.

Above all, priests, be careful not to show solidarity with God human stupidity or improvidence... . and when a river breaks its dikes and submerges its shores, do not say, like Monseigneur d'Orléans, that this river serves as an instrument of God's wrath. The rupconstruction of the Chaussée de la Loire, in October 1846, proved that the builders of this roadway did not not that God needed to punish the impiety of evil-happy farmers of Sologne. When Franklin wanted to steal lightning from the sky with an iron wire, we

A0X PRIESTS. 285

also shouted loudly at the incurable pride of humans and to impiety in the world of the Church; which does not did not fail the scientist to place his first device on a religious building. A cloud came which burst upon the building and melted the metal rod. So the clamors to redouble.... The signs of the color of God are not Were they not visible this time for all to see?
But the scientist does not live in the fusion of his device as proof of the inadequacy of its dimensions: he quadrupled its power, and God was not angry more.

Ministers of the Gospel, this God who unleashes scourges on innocent populations, at the whim of the fuers of his priests, is the God of the Jews and not the your. Yours forgives the guilty instead of striking by the innocent.

Truly I say to you, you will not bring back people under the vaults of the holy temples until after that the god of the Jews, the god of vengeance and the war will have ceased to thunder there!

286 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

TO THE PEOPLE.

People ,

The author of this writing has sat many times at the poor man's table, and his hand is better at digging a furrow only to scribble pages. 11 attended well years the field worker in his labor ungrateful. 11 carefully counted what wear and tear, illnesses, frosts, unemployment left at the end of the year in his meager savings. 11 knows that if the worker of the ground does not provide the riot with such formidable elements that the urban worker, it is not because that his misery is less, but simply because that it is spread over a larger space and of fermentation and fire...

He also penetrated to the bottom of these industries, which are called Croix-Rousse in Lyon, the Saint-Sauveur district in Lille, despite the smell of dignity and vice which exudes from these infected homes of all physical and moral infirmities; because he wanted to know what the human organism can support bear pain without breaking. There he studied on the vivid work of etiolation and degradation which takes place father in the constitution of the unfortunate artisan, of the worker who weaves the brilliant fabrics of silk, linen, of wool, intended for the consumption of the rich. More later he guided in the stinking marshes of Algeria, banished from all countries, and he knew how to attach them on the soil of the new France, and defend them by solidarity against all the scourges of the country, the Arab, the usurer, the accounting agent and mortality. And for this fact, the friends of usury and accounting agents outraged, slandered and punished him. People, no one has more suffered all your pain, no one paid more his loyalty to your cause as the one who addresses these lines to you; because, for ten years, those who call themselves your friends, called him an enemy of the people, and many times his chest was the focus of their human weapons. So listen to his voice.

TO THE PEOPLE. 287

O people! it is more advantageous and easier to exploit your passions than to serve your cause, and your errors are the best justification for despots. People, your false friends abuse your ignorance and your troubles, when they make you seek in the agitational actions and in the overthrows of thrones, relief from your miseries. The benefits that are yours what happened to your fifty years of revolutions and battles, boil down to increased taxes including most of it falls on you alone like the tax of blood; and the tax on money, which only your work pays, swells excessively with each of your attempts senseless. However you still reserve your love and your fanatical admiration for the executioners of birth tions that sow the bones of your children on all battlefields, and you only have contempt and patricidal vociferations for beneficent princes who bring you peace. Your evils are your work, O people!

-88 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

of all the governments she overthrew you, and she took advantage of your victories to tighten your chains and exploit you like your masters of old.
They brazenly lie those who talk to you about your invincible power, of your conquests and your bertés.

Those who say that each of your son carries in his pouch the marshal's baton of France. Cruel derision! because these future marshals of France would not even think of leaving their plow for glory, if they were not forced to!

Pleasant freedoms as well as freedoms which do not affect the worker cannot pass through poverty and pice, and do not save his daughter from prostitution!

People, if some improvements have occurred in the conditions of your material life, these rare improvements liorations come exclusively from science; and the proof is that the people of monarchies absolutists enjoyed these improvements before you and more widely than you. Wars and revolutions tions have only led to improvements in the means of exterminating men, and the only industry innocent sort that came to us from these struggles, is an unviable industry that weighs on the taxpayer like the plagues from which it was born.

Moreover, mercantile feudalism poisons 'your children all the fruits of scientific genius: she crush you with the machines that were supposed to lighten your work worth ; and each new product of the industry or of science, intended to bring you well-being, is turns into a poisonous substance in his hands.

Luxury has descended into the bourgeois class.

TO THE PEOPLE. 289

but it only makes the misery of the working classes more lively and more stinging by the goading of the needs and comparison. j

People, false friends lie when they boast the progress of your morality, like the scribes of the progress in public morality has never made the prisons too narrow.

O people! finally know how to judge revolutions by their fruit, and let there be light for your hearing insanely!

People, withdraw from those who have lied to you and abjure your false dogmas. People, who live from work, your real ones 'enemies, your only enemies, are the stockbrokers, the sellers of falsified foodstuffs, monopolists, including parasitism absorbs all the products of your labor.

Every failure you inflict on power brings to the power of these parasites an element of oppression sion more, and benefits exclusively to feudalism mercantile, enemy of monarchy and freedom.
By arming yourself against power, the impostors who lead, force power to strengthen itself every day against you; they in some way legitimize his indifference for your rights and its guilty inertia towards law of reforms, and the Jew who crushes you has made himself king by your prejudices against authority.

Workers, listen: only power can protect today against oppression and greed of your insatiable masters; let your hatred forget for one day power; do more, hand it to him inain so that for his part he abjures his fear and can hear us, we who protect your rights and want » 19

290 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

let us recognize them! And that the proclamation of right of all to work is the first guarantee of your sincere reconciliation. Outside of this union, think about it, no freedom, no reform, no salvation.

Strength to power! Death to parasitism! War to the Jews!

This is the motto of the new revolution!

TO THE KING.

Sire,

There are many things to redo in a society where 1 abundance of the Creator's goods can produce misery; where all the discoveries of science, destiborn to one day lighten the work of man, begin to increase his distress! And for the prince who would like to attempt social reform, it would not be enough of the genius, the will, the power and a reign of sixty years like that of your ancestor Louis XIV. Sire, heaven did not give birth to you to accomplish this task; he had given you mission to close the era of political upheaval; And you carried out this mission nobly and courageously-filled. You threw yourself away in front of the chariot of anarchy, to stop its walk, at the risk of being crushed under its wheels; and it took miracles to protect your days from the rage of the enemies of peace. Your wisdom and your energy saved the world and France from the scourge of a new universal war, and we could hope for a day that the fury of the assassination had been used against your clemency. It was enough glory to crown the last period of a life experienced by so many vicissitudes and painful experiences, and the history impartial. Sire, will register your name on one of its most brilliant pages. The concerns of power and

292 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

necessity to defend, against eternal attacks, royalty weakened by so many successive defeats, will not have given you the leisure to apply your high intelligence to the solution of social questions:
it was the work of your ministers and not yours, Sire.
But peace, which allows science to put the new issues on the agenda, and to demonstrate the inanity of old political quarrels, this peace is indeed your work, Sire; it's you who you gave it, and for this again your name will be blessed.

The glorious enterprise that you could not attempt, Sire, the emancipation of workers and the recognition ciliation of royalty with the people, will be the work capital of the reign of your successor. Yes, Sire, yes wisdom prevails in the counsels of the new kingdom, if painful, will be sweet to those of your race; because the progress of public reason must bring ceaselessly from the throne the greatest number of those which are still, at this time, indifferent or enemies.

Sire, your reign will have closed the era of wars external and political cataclysms; that of your successor will in turn see the ferments die out of the social war, through the emancipation of work and by the degradation of the Jew.

This was at least the hope and the noble ambition of this generous prince, whose premature death will leave eternal regrets in the hearts of all those who dream brilliant destinies for their homeland.

Sire, the royal prince, your beloved son, managed&sail; bitterly at the encroachments of this insatiable of the Jews, of these Jews, he said, who violate power, crush the country, and bring back towards the innocent throne the curses of the burdened worker. He thought, in his dreams of future royalty, of becoming to overcome a shameful vassalage, to break this news feudalism so heavy for kings and people; but he did not hide the perils of the struggle. "Perhaps royalty will succumb in this struggle, he said one day to Fun of Us; because these bankers are. will continue for a long time to come, against the king there will be a weapon of The ignorance of this same people that the king will have wanted serve. They will irritate his sufferings with their press liar; they will empty their workshops again the public square; they will throw their weapons against the palace unoccupied serfs; and to put to sleep the fury of this people, after they have unleashed him, they will throw him to devour one more royalty. I know that rough contingencies await us; but there is already no more shrink from the dangers of war, because the dangers beyond peace are even more imminent... it is necessary that, without further ado, today's royalty takes over people to the Jews if not this government jaerim by its Jews, as the other perished by his priests, the other by his soldiers..."

AT R0[. 293

Sire, here are already the prince's apprehensions royal are realized, and that the oppressed of capital, that the cursed by fate blame their misery on for us. Sire, to break with Judah!

Sire, report the father's words to the father; say him the means to take the people back from the Jews.

29i OF FINANCIAL FEODALITY.

so that the Jews no longer raise up against the throne the people and those who suffer; also tell him that, in this noble land of France, all intelligences elite, all generous and devoted hearts will be to him to help him in his task.

END OF THE HISTORY OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

AM, COUNT DUCHATEL. 295

THE AUTHOR OF THE JEWS, KINGS OF THE TIME \ TO M. LE COMTE DUCHATEL

WHO WANTS TO BE LOVED FOR HIMSELF.

Minister,

I stated in a book cited Tantre jour à la tribune by the honorable Mr. Béchard, that there existed a subsidized press. You denied the fact, quite clumsy way, it is true, depending on your habit, but finally you denied it. So, one of both of us lied. You know the name better than me of the culprit, signing it every day.

You are no doubt imagining, Mr. Ministre, that your courageous denial, supported by the odious slander with which you followed it, carried in my vivid works. That Your Excellency is undeceived. I have less ticklish susceptibility against official lies. Here is what I said while reading the Moiiteur: – How did M. le

'This letter was published on June 5, 1846, in the newspaper La Démocratique, in response to a double lie from Mr. Duchâtel. The Minister of the Interior did not limit himself, in fact, to denying the existence of a subsidized press; he had attributed the denunciation of done for a ignoble motive, a monetary grudge. Around the present stands ready for the first denial from the Minister of the Interior, a autograph signed Duchâtel, attesting that in the month of January 4, 1843, the

296 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

Count Duchâtel, who does not need treatment minister for a living, can he accept a position which condemns him to lie once or twice a year, to support the laughable dogma of the immaculation of the Debates?

Your system of government has acquired from your words one more right to my contempt, Mr. minister, and that's it. Was it up to me to repent for having had faith in your loyalty, for not having sup-assumed that there could be a man on the ministerial bench daring enough to deny the existence of a subsidized press tioned!

Because it is obvious, Mr. Minister, that you have not understood the scope of your audacious decision lied, and I must teach you.

Denying the existence of the subsidized press, that amounts to saying that all the pimps of your polimodest tick, that all Christian newspapers or Jews who sing the praises of the October 29, love you for yourself and without being there forced there which, let me speak to you without ambages, denotes a strange conceit on your part.

Without being forced to! Oh ! first of all, Mr. Minister be, let me fall in awe of so much of gratis courage, me for whom you paid so dearly in time to love you a little, and who had to give up work out of disgust.

To be loved for oneself, alas! it's the eternal dream nel, the vengeful aspiration of jaded wealth on easy pleasures. The need to be loved for oneself-even, it is the torture of the buyer of love, the thorn hidden deep within all venality; it is the poison of the incense of the paid thurifer. The need to be

TO M. LE COUNT DUCHAÏEL. 207 loved for oneself is the tribute that prostitution gives back to love.

That big financiers in Paris also imagine
To be loved for themselves, whose imprudent illusion dente is not for the beauties they subsidize, sincere for the cause of power make me a duty to tell you, Mr. Minister, that it is the adulation of leaves tended like daughters of this name; because affection is given and never sold.

It's like hospitality among eco-mountain people. know.

You, loved for yourself, Monsieur le Comte, you, the former editor of the Doctrinaire Globe, you minister who, in the forever deplorable session of the June 28, 1845, declared that the question of salary was too serious for the government to allow itself to to intervene. Your pretension is also too pleasing health: the affection of the people and that of its most intelligent intelligent defenders are not won by this coward abandonment of the holy cause of work.

You had to choose between class sympathy working people and that of the lazy classes. You have opted for these, and you want us, of the people, we loved you for yourself; let's go!

You had to choose between Walpole's example, the pricer of the parliamentary consciences of his time, and the example of Colbert who established a chamber ber of justice to revise ill-gotten fortunes and make the treaters give up. You have opted for Walpole, and delivered the public fortune to plunder stockbrokers... So look for who praises you among the hired scribes of the Jews whom you have enriched.

298 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

But to the rest of us in France, to the rest of us enemies of Moloch and stock trading, don't ask us our love, lazy ministers.

Listen, however, Mr. Minister; there was one day, since 1830, when men of power were loved for themselves. It was the time when government, where peace and war were re-questioned every morning in the street, where men who were called Casimir Périer and Guizot, and that nature had endowed with a rare energy or a immense talent, courageously raised the dra-skin of order and suppressed the rise of a revolution ignorant of itself, and which threatened to explode break it again in some bloody collision against the armed resistance of absolutist Europe.

had to rally more than one Democratic Democrat to their cause.
kind and sincere; because history says that the rights peoples who only express themselves clearly in the leisure activities of long peace, are forgotten in the tu-multes of wars, and all those who wanted to new revolution a truly useful outcome for people, a social outcome, had to fall under the flag of order and peace; order and peace, first conditions for any improvement in fate People. I was one of those, Mr. Minister, of these, the humble proletarians who, having only to win the chances of the revolutionary game, enroll nobly joined the ranks of the peace party, because their conscience told them that the salvation of freedom was there. And never in the heart nor in

TO M. LE COMTE DUCHATEL. 299

the writings of these men, the cause of the Order was not distinct from that of the people, and they did not vote the bastilles like the supporters of progress by the sword; and yet the partisans of progress by the sword called them traitors to the cause of the people, called them the paid swordsmen, when they were not afraid to respond with the sword to the outrage, and to pay their person to testify to the sincerity of their beliefs. Because, at that time, the ardor political passions designated the writer of power see to popular vengeance, and the law of lawyers had not yet taken under his aegis insolence and cowardice.

It's that in that time too, a time of struggle, of dedication and peril, the men of power seemed to live up to their mission, tra-bravely valiantly reestablishing the shaken order, bowing on all occasions before the great princes principles of freedom and equality, almost complaining with us the difficulties of the situation which con-damned to put off until more peaceful days the realization of their emancipatory projects. And U.S who believed in the sincerity of these regrets and these desires, we loved the ministers of the resistance for themselves. Mr. Guizot especially had, among us, numerous and fervent minions, as being of all of you the poorest and the most eloquent. I know an editor of a provincial newspaper, newspaper se?m-weekly, subsidized at nearly six thousand francs per year, who, driven by the sole desire to fight for the glory of his minister in the most dangerous post-

300 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

a great subsidized daily newspaper in Troia thousand, thus asking for triple work for half less money. It's probably one of those that you were accused of insatiable greed the other day in the middle of the room –

When the ministry of September 6 succumbed under the burden of its faults, under the burden of its laws of dis-junction, deportations, appanage, the two principles principal editors of the doctrinaire journal La Paix, nobly refused the gifts of the Artaxerces of the mid-victorious nistere, to remain faithful to the names characteristics of the defeated ministry. I say true to the names clean, because the principles have never been in question in any of the administrations that the king called dedicated for sixteen years to serving the policy of peace.
Of these two writers who gave such a rare example ple of loyalty to bad luck, which pushed so far the personal dedication for the members of a cabinet of which you were part, Mr. minister, one was recently thrown into prison for having deserted your flags; the other is still one of those you have just accused of criminal wrongdoing worthy.

Of course, Mr. Minister, I do not
I spoke here only of Mr. Guizot, the great orator, the pu-austere ritain, the intelligent demolisher of the party of the war, by M. Guizot before the coalition, in one word... Because from the day the man of principle disappeared to make room for the ambitious discontented, from the day when the impatience of power threw him into the ranks of his enemies of ten years, to attack his friends of the day before, had him registered on the list of these allies, of which

\

TO M. LE COUNT DUCIATEL. 301

The written letter was written in large, legible characters; The king receives bullets and does not open; of the day when the fa-meuse quote from Tacitus: Omnia servilitcr pro dominationc, launched by him at his rival, fell back on the head, Mr. de Salvandy helping; from that day, worship and these same writers that the most brilliant and the most acceptable had not been able to detach of the cause of the disgraced minister, were the first to offer their assistance to the faltering administration which the coalition was soon to overthrow. It's not this is venality, Mr. Minister, whatever you may say: the ambitious and the greedy turn usually towards the rising sun.

And since that day the writers of the heart, tested by ten years of perilous struggles, have all deserted your camp, so as not to pass to the enemy, as I said it elsewhere, staying with you; because you don't have—see no more, as in the past, the riot as an excuse to your inertia, and all those that a ignoble interest of ar—people are not subservient to your miserable politics, are unanimous in thinking and saying that this longevity ministerial, of which you are so proud, is only the price of your eternal genuflections: genuflections before the English, regarding foreign policy; genuflections before the Jew, as for internal politics.

And because the voice of the country's honor does not speak not to your soul, you do not admit that this motive sacred can speak to others! Come on, the slander that you send to us condemn you, because you judge us according to you.

By whom now, answer me, by whom did

302 OF FINANCIAL FEUDALITY.

YOU replaced the brave and faithful that disgust has driven out of the old phalanx of writers of October 11 tobre? I am among our successors, — dare you you still deny it? — defectors from all sides tis, renegades from the Tribune de Paris, from the Glaneuse of Lyon, escapees from Clairvaux, histrions whistles, bellowed, crazy bravi. Certainly, sir Minister, you have the right to disavow such auxiliaries, and you can, if you wish, make fall back on your generosity and favors on those who act accept with the most resignation your human disavowals militants; but, at least, do not find it strange that writers of another order, and more devoted than yourself to your own cause, reject the shame of all solidarity with your occult press.

It is in the interest of the honor of the government press vernmental that I told the truth about her And if I have tired, it is for my old friends even more than for me, who never accepted the secret of subventions, and who have borne until now with stoicism remarkable qualification as a ministerial writer.

You denied the existence of a subsidized press-born, so be it. I don't want to, to convince you of imposture, invoke the written testimony of Mr. Viscount Duchâtel, prefect of Haute-Garonne, who was responsible, in 1843, for pouring with his own hands in those of the editor of southern France, the rich monthly remuneration allocated to him. I do not don't want to call your brother to testify against you and to confirm the truth of my revelations; because the prefect of Haute-Garonne has worn the epaulette over time, and the contempt that constitutional ministers seem can profess the principles of loyalty and honesty neur, has not yet, as far as I know, invaded the army.

TO M. LE COMTE DUCHATEL. 303

I won't call to confuse you either the testimony of your best friends, of a hundred deputies perhaps who vote with you every day, and who, today or in the past, were able to request and obtain you some rich subsidy for the newspaper of their locality. I know well that by conceding to the leaves provincial ministerial authorities the monopoly of announcements legal, you have managed to lighten a heavy burden the secret fund, but I don't have need to teach you that this process of subsidy indirect tion is not the one that applies to your major Paris newspapers. Answer me, hand on consciousness, if it is with the help of an explanation of this nature that you would have succeeded in satisfying the indiscreet curiosity of Mr. President Séguier, asking vainly telling the editor of the Globe the name of the rich and mysterious character who poured each months in the crate of this immaculate sheet a tribute of five thousand francs.

So I leave you with your official denials which will not impose it on anyone; I only want to tarnish your confessions.

I say and I repeat that there is cowardice on the part of minister to disavow writers who support the cause of power, more compromised today than what one does with one's own principles, than letting melt among the paid occult police agents

30/day OF FINANCIAL FEODALITY, on secret funds, publicists dedicated with their hearts to the defense of these principles.

As for the slander which concerns me, I have not of expression to wither it enough, and I push it away with all the strength of my conscience and the truth.

You couldn't recognize, I understand, the honorable reasons for the desertion of which I have just speak and condemn you; but that you dared To attribute it to unworthy calculations, that's what I don't like.

From the day I broke my ministerial pen disgust with mercantile politics, I put, and the Minister of the Interior knows it, an infrastructural barrier slippery between power and me. Since that day I was able to reject your offers, never present you with requests, nor ask you for too much money, like you say. Before that day, I could not complain about your rigors, because no writer, that I know of, has been by you more magnificently paid than me.
You were personally, Mr. Minister, more than just and kind to me, you have been generous, and if you have lost the memory of your benefits, my memory is less forgetful. And I took care to publish these details in my book to forestall any perfidious insinuation and to spare you the shame of a slander. No—only this loyal declaration took away from my writes down any character of personal recrimination; but The very thought which had dictated this writing to me protested against the interpretation given by you to my words.
Because I preach in this book the necessity of the union of royalty and people. I wanted to serve despite you because of the power that you unworthily betrayed; I

TO M. LE COMTE DUCHATEL. 305

SAW YOU all kneeling at the feet of your Jew master, and I wanted to straighten you out with a whip, as we do for the pack weighed down by too much priest copious. And this courageous attempt at insurrection for the benefit of the royal power should be worth more to me from a minister nothing but cowardly slander.

In trying to transform the courageous writer, defender of power all the same, as a valet of the pen broken in wages who begs with the pamphlet in his hand, you have not only outraged the truth and lied to your conscience, you have encroached on the attributes tions of the National, which very painfully distressed the other day when he told me that I did not have not his esteem.

And you gave me the right to tell you, to your face of your ingratitude, like this actor condemned to make excuses on the floor: I never have better understood that today the indignity of the profession writer of power.

Accept, Mr. Minister, etc.

A. TOUSSENEL.

rm OF THE SECOND AND LAST VOLUME.

U20

TABLE

nts

MATERIALS CONTAINED IN VOLUME SECOND.

Chapititis first. Geneva Pa<^e I

The Journal of Débais 5

Chap. not. Forced immobility 28

Chap. III. Railway Question 30

Channels 51

Question of annuities 54

Question of sugars 62

Customs Question 62

Question of salt. 74

Grants 75

Summary 80

Chap. IV. State budget 82

Chap. V, Jewish Budget 85

Chap. VI. Situation 90

Chap. VII. Privileges of the people 97

CuAP. HIV. i20 Remedy

Right to work 1 21

Consequences of the recognition of the right to work. –

The organization of work 122

Chap. IX. Commerce, administrative function. – Legitimacy of the state monopoly 130

Immediate reforms 140

Bank Monopoly 140

Organization of agricultural credit 141

Transport monopoly, , 1 43

Insurance monopoly 144

308 TABLE OF CONTENTS.

Agricultural education < Page i50

Chap. X. Abolition of war. – Transformation of armies destructive in industrial armies. – Glorified work. 162

Recruitment question 475

From the lottery s..^. i. . . ^182

Chap. XL Question of sugars 185

Cane sugar and beet sugar 1 89

Arguments in favor of beet sugar 196

Agronomic arguments 1 96

Political arguments ■. 205

Philanthropic argument 210

Of the monopoly on the manufacture and sale of sugar by the State 215

State monopoly, the only path to salvation for industry native . 217

Abolition of slavery, 239

Chap. XIL Summary 247

To ministers 253

To the socialists 263

To the priests 282

To the people 286

To the king 29 1

The author of The Jews, Kings of the Time, to Count Duchàtel who wants to be loved for himself 295

END OF TABLE OF CONTENTS.

French

English

Full text of " The Hidden Authors of the French Revolution "

See other formats

This is a reproduction of a library book that was digitized by Google as part of an ongoing effort to preserve the information in books and make it universally accessible.

Google Books

<https://books.google.com>

Google

About this book

This is a digital copy of a work that has been preserved for generations on library shelves. It is made available as a precaution by Google as part of a project aimed at allowing internet users to discover the world's hidden treasures.

Because this book is relatively old, it is no longer protected by copyright law and is now in the public domain. "Belonging to the public domain" means that the book in question has never been subject to copyright. Expiration. The conditions required for a book to enter the public domain can vary from country to country. These are all links to the past. They bear witness to the richness of our history, our culture, and our knowledge, too often difficult for the public to access.

The footnotes and other marginal annotations present in the original volume are reproduced in this digital edition. The long journey the book has taken from the publishing house through the library to the internet is a testament to the power of the written word.

Instructions for use

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize works in the public domain and make them thus accessible to all. These books are indeed the property of everyone and we are simply making them available. However, this is a costly project. Therefore, and in order to continue disseminating these works, we have taken necessary measures to prevent potential abuses by third-party merchant sites, in particular by implementing technical constraints related to automated queries.

We also ask you to:

+ Do not use the files for commercial purposes. We designed the Google Books Search program for personal use. We therefore ask that you use these files for personal purposes only. They may not be used for any commercial purpose.

+ Do not perform automated requests. Do not send any automated requests whatsoever to the Google Books Search program.

For large amounts of text, please do not hesitate to contact us. We encourage the use of works and documents belonging to the public domain and we would be happy to be of service

+ Do not remove the attribution. The Google watermark contained in each file is essential and allow them to access more documents through the Google Books Search Program. Do not do No cases.

+ Stay within the law. Whatever use you intend to make of the files, remember that it is your Be sure to respect the law. If a work is in the American public domain, do not assume that other countries. The legal duration of copyright for a book varies from country to country. The works whose use is authorized and those whose use is not. Don't assume that simply posting Book search means that it can be used in any way anywhere in the world. The sentence to which The penalties you would face in the event of copyright infringement could be severe.

About the Google Books Search service

By facilitating searches and access to a growing number of books available in many languages contribute to promoting cultural diversity through Google Books Search. Indeed, the Google allows internet users to discover the world's literary heritage, while helping authors and online searches in the full text of this work can be found at <http://books.google.com>

ge Vo = ss

HAS

LIBRARY = OF THE

x zY A -
| OSA
> s | '
| ' To = 2 -
: =

Je aa Sp 3

AG

+

o
Ry TUEN R

pile

UR UU

erer rT: S OS BESS S TOSSES SESE ETE TO N

oe

| : a ý i H mm | n |
AE EN PO TO Hi

aUL LLLLLLELELELE LILLI LL ALLLLLILLLLA EE TO READ Ainii RE mm)

Digitized by G

.P27

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

POUGET pe SAINT-ANDRE

born

THE HIDDEN AUTHORS

OF THE

(BASED ON UNPUBLISHED DOCUMENTS)

PERRIN Academic Bookstore

Digitized by Google

THE HIDDEN AUTHORS

of the

FRENCH REVOLUTION

BY THE SAME AUTHOR:

General Dumouriez (1739–1823).

Based on unpublished documents. – 1 volume in-8° écu.

(PERRIN ET Cie).

The Colonization of Madagascar under Louis XV.

1 volume in-8° (CHALLAMEL).

Copyright by Perrin et Cie, 1923.

POUGET of SAINT-ANDRÉ

THE HIDDEN AUTHORS

FRENCH REVOLUTION

(Based on previously unpublished documents)

PARIS
ACADEMIC BOOKSTORE |

PERRIN & Co. BOOKSELLERS-PUBLISHERS 35, QUAI DES GRANDS-AUGUSTINS, 35 1923

All rights reserved for reproduction, translation, and adaptation
: reserved for all countries.

To Mr. Paul Bourget

Digitized by Google

FOREWORD

I will not argue in this volume no form of government, I don't
I will not express any political opinion.
I will strive to study impartially the hidden aspects of the French Revolution and, in the words of the late Albert Vandal, "to present as a historian"
"facts that belong to history."

THE HIDDEN AUTHORS OF THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

CHAPTER ONE

THE REVOLUTIONARY RIDDLE

"It seems," Robespierre said to Amar one day, that we are carried away by an invisible hand unleashed beyond our control: "Every day the day before not doing it. There is a faction conduct that would lead to his downfall, without him being able to discover the directors (1)".

The more one studies the history of the Revolution...
The more enigmas one encounters in the French lution, the more one encounters...
My. First, the writers contradict each other on most of the points, so that if one ad-put all their denials and all their corrections Based on these factors, one might conclude that he did not Almost nothing happened between 1789 and 1793 | As for to the rare events on which they agree

(1) Memoirs of Marrer pu Pan, vol. II, p. 69.

The French Revolution. 1

2 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

cord, they never give the same explanationcation. |

Why do the notebooks of the Estates General seem-Could they have been dictated by a secret committee? who substituted his ideas for those of the various French provinces? (1). Who then, asks ML Madelin (2), after having the Notebooks, paid for propaganda? F

Who then announced on the same day throughout France, the arrival of imaginary brigands, pretext to arm the people and create a gar of national origin? (3)

Why, after having endured some suffering... rather questionable verains, do the French have they
The most good-natured one guillotined, the one who was motivated by the best intentions >

It is a royalist assembly, by my own admission.
Mr. Aulard's (4), who proclaimed the republic republic; nobody called themselves a republican in France, except for one Englishman, one Prussian and one Belgian, Thomas Paine, Anacharsis Cloots and Francois Robert.

by MG GAUTHEROT.

(2) The French Revolution: MADELIN, p. 36.

(3) Memoirs of Madame de la Tour du Pin, p. 191. Memoirs Pasquier's estate, etc.

(4) AvramD: Political History of the French Revolution cause, p. 37 and p. 176.

THE REVOLUTIONARY ENIGMA 3

Was the goal of the Revolution reform?

— abuses and the conquest of freedom? She has—should have stopped at the end of 1789. Did she have to But a change of regime? She would have had to stop on August 10th. Why did we, following—before the expression of Granier de Cassagnac (1), bought for four billion and five—a thousand heads, reforms that Louis XVI offered for nothing?

Why did the Convention pay so much Blood? It was said that the proscriptions had — were caused by the people's hatred of the privileged classes. How then to explain the very small proportion of aristocrats guillotined born, approximately 5% of the total number of convicts?
We can consider the presidents of the Convention as the most sheltered from the proscribers tions, since they represented the majority of proscribers. They were, as we say vulgarly—erment, on the handle side. What explanation—tion to their fate: eighteen were guillotined eight deportees, six incarcerated, twenty-two Outlawed, three committed suicide and four have gone mad! (2).

"The entire French people are against us,"

(1) Oassaanao: Causes of the French Revolution.

(2) Tarne: The French Revolution, vol. III, p. 222.

4 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

said Robespierre from the tribune of the club of Jacobins. Our only hope rests on the Citizens of Paris. — Don't trust it too much, the underside, if the ballot was secret (1). »

Where did Robespierre's influence come from?
on men who were superior to him by the talent and intelligence P Michelet which does not appear not among the reactionary historians, observed as he was a small, unimpressive lawyer, of mediocre intelligence, of colorless talent.

"Let's talk this out," said MG Lebon (2), a tyrant surrounded by an army, but not the tyranny of a
"A man without soldiers."

The party that pushed the Revolution to the extremes-lences, "was directed by a hidden hand that time has not been able to make known so far" (3).

Bailly, also echoing Robespierre's idea, wrote in his Memoirs (4) that from the moment of the capture of at the Bastille, there was "an invisible engine that was spreading fake news to per-to cause trouble. This engine must have had a great number of agents, and for having followed this plan

(1) Buouez and Roux: Parliamentary History, vol. XX, p.
800. Sym: History of Europe, vol. I, p. 564.

(2) The French Revolution, G. Leson, p. 231.

(8) Alexis Dumesniz: Preface to the Memoirs of Semir.

(4) Barry's Memoirs, Volume II, p. 38.

THE REVOLUTIONARY ENIGMA K

—

abominable, it requires a profound and beautiful mind a stroke of luck. One day we will know the "Infernal genius and the financier."

Finally, Lafayette also wrote on July 24th 1789: "An invisible hand directs the populace. » |

"The closer we got to the instruments and the actors in this catastrophe, and the more we look into it found in obscurity and mystery; this will not

Simple minds were content with the explanation—Etienne Dumont's statement: "The cause of the "Revolution was Louis XVI's weakness." He is It's also too easy to attribute it as J. de Maistre attributes events to the influence of the devil; for men who study seriously Beyond the story, there's something else. A Jew gifted with a high intelligence, and who occupied a large Disraeli's place in English politics has made this admission: "The world is governed by everything" made up of other characters than one might imagine those who are not behind the necks smooth (2)". But he was careful not to name The hidden power brokers of politics. The scholars

(1) Memorial of St. Helena, vol. II, p. 32.

(2) De Lannoy: The Revolution prepared by France masonry, p. 14.

6 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

MG Bord's work has led to events a very curious and well-documented explanation
The Revolution was supposedly due to a conspiracy.
Masonic (1). |

There is certainly a lot of truth in this assertion; but then we fall back into facing another enigma: If the Revolution was made by Freemasonry, why did we
The lodges were closed in 1793, and above all, why?
Were so many Freemasons guillotined?

Let us nevertheless examine the hypothesis of the Revo-Masonic solution.

(1) Gustave Born: The Masonic conspiracy of 1789.

CHAPTER II

THE FREEMASONS

By an excess of modesty no doubt, the

They were the authors of the French Revolution. Political opponents have often been accused of fanciful attributions of shadowy plots to a charitable society; but when they are hidden from prying ears, the language of Freemasons are no longer the same. The Fr.: Si-Cardinal de Plauzoles has just affirmed at the convent of 1913: "Freemasonry can, with a legitimate pride to consider the Revolution as his work (1). » At the convent of 1910, Fr.'. Jouvain also spoke about Masonic action of 1789, moreover affirmed by Fr.-. Louis Blanc in his history of the French Revolution çaise.

(1) TOURMENTIN: Freemasonry Unmasked. 10 Mats 1911.

8 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

But above all, it is the Masonic congress international of 1889 which provided on this subject Interesting details. On the occasion of the centenary of our Revolution, the Fr.: Amiable and Colfavru gave a reading at the Grand Orient, on the 16th July, of two very well-documented reports including Here is the brief summary:

"At the beginning of 1789, the Freemasons took an active part in the great and beneficial movement which occurred in the country. Their influence was predominant in the assemblies of the Third Estate, for the writing of the notebooks and for the choice of elected officials... They played a less significant role in the assemblies of the two privileged orders. However, the influence of Freemasonry... still recognizes in quite a number of proposals reformist actions in the notebooks of the nobility and clergy.....

The Freemasons penetrated in grand style-br in the national representation, and, for to mark the place they occupied from the outset, he It suffices to name three of them, Lafayette, Mirabeau, Sieyes (x).

The plan for the Encyclopedia had been drawn up.

(1) Report of the sessions of the inter-Masonic congress national of 1889. Report of Fr. AMIABLE, p. 68 et seq. sales.

THE FREEMASONS 9

Eleven years ahead thanks to Freemasonry...

Programs, wishes expressed in the notebooks, after having been prepared in the lodges, The National Assembly had taken action. 1789, the great French Masonic family is in its full bloom. It has received Voltaire in that famous Lodge of the Nine Sisters, presided over by Lalande. She knows Condorcet, Danton, Robespierre, Camille Desmoulins... The most illustrious will found the building new social and political principles Bright, Liberty, Equality, Fraternity. But when they have accomplished their sublime task, They will all be dead....

In 1792, the Freemasons had to dedicate themselves to to create the fulfillment of civic duties which were constantly multiplying: the service of the National Guard, military service, the work incessant popular societies to support the National Assembly, to thwart the machinations of officials from the old regime no replaced again, the elections repeated, the mandates assumed and functions performed at all the degrees at the commune, district, and departmental levels lyrically, in the state. That's why the temples Masonic lodges, gradually deserted, remained empty. Following a general meeting in December

~

10 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

In 1792, the Grand Orient ceased to function at Mid-1793. A very small number of lodges isolated individuals were able to avoid completely discontinuing their operations. their work. It was an eclipse of nearly

It is safe not to find in these documents an explanation of the question that we asked at the beginning of this volume: how couldn't such a powerful association have to stem the revolutionary tide and oppose 4. The proscription of the most illustrious Freemasons?

The Masonic action of 1789, ignored by so many historians, this is not a recent discovery. since as early as 1792, Le Franc wrote: "Everything we have seen carried out by the clubs, had been prepared well in advance in the Masonic lodges (2). » The revelations of Le Franc were, moreover, the cause of his condemnation to death.

Freemasonry is, like clubs, an English import (3); the first box was established around 1725 in Paris by some An-

(1) Report of F.: Corraveu to the congress of 1889.

(2) N. Le Franc: Conspiracy against the Catholic religion and the sovereigns.

(3) According to Caesar's Summary of Freemasonry Morgau, the existence in England of this secret society would date back to the end of the 11th century.

THE FREEMASONS 11

English, the most notable of whom was Lord Derwent Waters, later beheaded in England for having taken up arms in support of the pretender Charles Edward. In 1736, Lord Harnouester was elected Grand Master by the four lodges of Paris and he was succeeded by the Duke of Antin. Already, under Louis XV, international doctrines lists of the masons were beginning to be compiled to know: we are surprised to read the following sentence © boasts in a speech by the Grand Master 1740: "The whole world is but one great republic in which each nation is a family. It is to spread these essential maxims that our society was first established.

The conclusion of Fr. Amiable's report at the 1889 congress: "A universal republic democratic and equitable, that is the ideal of France-masonry. » f | `

In every era, a program of peace and universal brotherhood must appeal to many of men driven by excellent intentions. But the events of 1914 have just proven how dangerous it is to give in to pacifist dreams, suggested by a neighbor who Sarm in silence.

After the closure of the Grand Lodge of

12 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

France in 1767, a number of workshops continued to meet; some lodges were from the Grand Lodge of England or from three foreign powers (1). On the table Masonic lodges of the correspondence of the The Grand Orient of France in 1789, includes four Scottish Directories and six provincial grand lodges ciales including one in Friedrichstein in Westphalia. In total, 629 lodges, including 63 in Paris and 442 in other regions. Vince, 38 in the colonies, 69 attached to military corps and 17 in foreign countries.

Thus, England had not ceased to exercise his influence on French Freemasonry French; we will have to come back to this important detail later. bearing.

Under Louis XVI, Freemasonry had made in France rapid progress and prepared insen-likely a change of regime. The Fr.º-. ` Amiable was therefore able to conclude with good reason in his report to the 1889 congress: "The French-17th-century Freemasons made the Revolution French.

The privileged orders had merged with the third estate in the lodges before doing it to Versailles. We saw officers of a certain rank modest to have subordinates in the lodges those who commanded them in the regiment. The sergeant of the French Guards was taking a seat with the general officers (1). We can guess what This resulted from a disciplinary point of view. Thus, in the "Union of Toul Artillery" lodge, Sergeant Compagnon, venerable, is found superior of the field marshal d'Havrincourt (2). The greatest lords, the Princes of blood had gradually become affiliated with the sect. "The existence of the high ranks was self- They knew of the frankness masonry what we could show them without "Peril." The sect, comprising a large number of men "opposed to any subversive project" socially, innovators are multiplying the degrees of the ladder to climb, create reserved back rooms raised to ardent souls (3). » These are these aberrations- re-loges that prepare and lead the Revolution, while the majority of affiliates believe they are doing part of a philanthropic association. Tan- say that the lodges of Paris give parties and feasts, foreign Freemasons conspire

~N

THE FREEMASONS 13

(1) Report of the sessions of the Masonic congress international, p. 60. |

(2) Mavezin: The Revolution, p. 24.

(8) Louis Brano: History of the French Revolution, t. II, ch. 2.

14 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

actively. The Weishaupt Illuminati medi- attempt to overthrow all monarchies. According to Mr. Gustave Bord, they are not preaching assassination sovereigns, as they have often been accused of ses; in this case they would inspire a feeling | much more formidable by affecting ideas generous. Little by little she creates a movement revolutionary opinion and destroys respect peoples for kings.

The Illuminati never entrust their letters at the post office; members of the society go from one household to another to carry and receive the notices interessant the association (1).

However, it is generally accepted that the death of Gus-Table III is a crime of the Illuminati. If they were suspected of other assassinations, it must be acknowledged It was clear that appearances were against them. Two sovereigns in Europe declared themselves hostile to the Revolution, the King of Sweden and the Emperor of Austria-cheating. The first one, contrary to his opinion Ambassador Staël Holstein wanted to intervene in France when he was assassinated. The emperor He died, it is said, as a result of his debauchery; cannot, however, help but notice that he was in fairly good health on February 9, 1790,

(1) Review of Secret Societies, May 20, 1913.

~

THE FREEMASONS AB

at the court ball, when a masked woman offered him a candy. Twenty-four hours later He was dead.

-Mirabeau taking the king's side could stop the Revolution. As soon as the secret societies-They had suspicions about him, something happened a strange incident: Pellenc and Frochot, having They took coffee intended for Mirabeau, were grave-
- indisposed. The famous tribune, when he fell ill, thought himself poisoned; the golden word-It was then said that he was dying from the consequences of his excesses, like the Emperor of Austria: Nevertheless, seven doctors concluded that the employmentsonnement, doctors Larue, Chévetel, Forestier, Parish, Roudel, Couad and Soupé (1).
Fourcroy, future member of the Academy of sciences, declared to Cahier de. Gerville that Mi-Rabeau had succumbed to a mineral poison, and bles (2).

It must be admitted that chance played an admirable role. revolutionary projects; that is what which explains the impossible accusations of garlic-theirs to prove.

(1) Memoirs of Mirabeau, vol. VIII, p. 464.

(2) The Revolution, The Terror, The Directory, by Des-PATYS (according to the memoirs of A. GAILLARD, president of the executive board of Seine-et-Marne).

16 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

Mr. Gustave Bord denies the crimes attributed to Freemasons; however, he acknowledges that the The Bavarian Illuminati worked "through all the means" to the fall of monarchical governments chews.

Here are Cagliostro's confessions about his Initiation into the sect: "The first blows of the conspiracy against the thrones was to reach-to rule France; after the fall of the monarchy, "There would be an opportunity to attack Rome." Cagliostro learned that the secret society of which he was now a member part had strong roots and possessed a war chest. "He received a large sum intended for propaganda expenses, received the instructions from the sect and left for Strasbourg (1). Then two delegates, Busche and Bode, furent sent to Paris to come to an agreement with the French lodges. According to the memoirs of Geor- - In the face of the frost, the sect leaders resolved to begin cer by France because | ' Germany was Not yet the target for the Revolution. Why? also not to assume that our monarchy ca- The Catholic was antipathetic to the Israelite Weis-Haupt? He was the one who sent his fellow believer. Cagliostro prepare French masonry to accept the leadership of the Illuminati chiefs

(1) Louis Brano: The French Revolution, vol. II, ch. 2.

Germans. He was the one who strove to create a International Federation of Lodges (1). At the same time At that time, Thomas Ximenes was travelling around Europe with a mission from the sect; Cagliostro the met in a large number of cities, took days under different names and disguises rents, spreading money everywhere.

During his trip to Berlin, Mirabeau entered related to the Illuminati and it is not pointless to compare his opinion from back then with its subsequent conduct. "Their party," he writes, is gaining ground in the most frightening way- I'm going to tell you an anecdote about that. that it is infinitely important for my safety to keep secret: » – The anecdote is replaced by points in the various editions of works of Mirabeau; the manuscript is located in the archives of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs- res (2).

"Two men of distinguished birth, both in service, both zealous and frank masons, even today, had believed between- see in Masonic societies some

(1) Report read at the plenary session of the Peace and Lodges Union and Free Conscience in the East of Nantes on the 23rd April 1883.

Dasté: Marie Antoinette and the Revolution, p. 194.

| (2) Prussia: Memoirs and documents, v. 14.

The French Revolution. 3

18 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

resources, one for his ambition, the other for humanity... They were destined for the highest grades... They were initiated on the same day, one at Berlin, the other in Breslau.

The recipient is required to fast for 24 hours.

spirited, and placed in a room draped with Black, lit by three yellow candles. Five Men, dressed as magicians, appear and sit—either on cushions; several detonations Terrible sounds can be heard, moans, They are then seized by convulsions. A man advances towards the initiate and places on his forehead a dawn ribbon covered with silver characters; a second ruhan is placed around his neck marked with several crosses drawn with blood. Finally, he is given a second cross of copper covered in hieroglyphs, a kind of a— a mule covered with cloth and a piece of alum that he was supposed to put in his mouth — tion of the infernal spirit that was evoked...

All of this seems ridiculous, here is the scar— Vantable horror: One of the actors in this a dark scene reads the terrifying formula of the ser— the ment that initiates were to utter: He cons— resided in the promise to reveal to the chief of the order all the secrets whatsoever that per—

THE FREEMASONS 19

. could be entrusted or discovered, to explore everything what was important to know; to use at the be— care with iron or poison; to make fools those whose cuts it was unwise to make days. (This part of the oath contains among others, these words: hondra semper aquam nefariam.) To subdue all religions, all, promise, all duty, all feeling to the decision— The leadership's role. To grant the right of death over oneself to the one who could be proven to have betrayed the secrets entrusted to us.

This execrable oath chilled me with such horror— They told the proselytes that they declared they did not could lend it. Here are the literal details— consistent statements revealed by two men, renowned people of honor, without consulting or see. Let no one say: But how did these two Do men still live? For, besides the fact that one Of them, the most delicate is visibly wasting away; it is not not under Frederick II that one could make disappear— two distinguished officers.

... This murderous sect that holds sway over the Kings and philosophers, with swords or poison, courageous spirits, leaders, ministers, regular communication. The heads of pro-Vince were summoned to Berlin by their grandfather. "The ambitious priest Welner."

20 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

The following year, the delegates of the Illuminati In Paris, they were presented by Mirabeau at the lodge. Friends Reunited and an alliance was formed between French Freemasonry, the Illumi-born and the Martinists. What is the reason for this A complete about-face by the famous orator P. Probably the influence of the beautiful Henriette Herz; to all Throughout history, the beauty of Jewish women has been one of the Instruments of the Israeli conquest. The living room Mendelssohn, where Mirabeau made the acquaintance-Henriette Herz's session was a meeting center union of the Illuminati. If we reject this hypothesis-In this case, one could still assume a market concluded at a time when Mirabeau needed of money.

The lodge of the United Friends where Mirabeau introduced The German delegates were especially responsible for foreign relations. Chaired by Savalète de Lange, it was led by a secret committee composed of Willermoz, Court of Gébelin, Bonneville, Mirabeau and Chappe de la Heuzière, Martinist deputy at the congress of Wilhelmsbad. This committee had already convened, On February 15, 1885, an international convention was held at-who attended Talleyrand, Cagliostro, St-Mar-Tin, Mirabeau and St-Germain. If one could to discover the minutes of these meetings, they would probably provide the key to most of the events of the Revolution. But the accounts reports published by Le Monde Maçonnique (1) have carefully removed everything related to politics.

THE FREEMASONS 21

They nevertheless contain an important list—aunt and edifying upon which we call the attention of authors who deny the action of The foreigner in the French Revolution.

Among the members of the Convent, most of whom
The following took part in the votes:

Prince Ferdinand of Brunswick.

Prince Charles of Hesse.
– Prince Louis of Hesse.

Prince Frederick of Hesse.

General Rheinsfort (in London).

Baron de Bentz, chancellor of Saxony.

Prince of Nassau.

Duke of Luxembourg. _ 4

Baron de Seckendorf (& Anspach).

Maubach (in London).

D'Ester (in Hamburg).

Brooks (in London).

Schmerber (in Fransfort).

Boode, Aulic Councilor of Weimar. ©

has

(1) The Convent of the Philalhats, 1785–1787. Masonic worldnique, v. XIV and XV. See Supporting Documents.

22 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

Heseltine (in London).

The Margrave of Anspach.

Baron Decking (in Warsaw).

Baron of Ditfurth, 4 Weimar. ~
Count d'Esterrazzi (1), in Vienna.
Deick, professor in Leipzig.
D'Haugwitz (2).

Forster.

Baron of Gleichen (in Regensburg).
Prince of Anhalt (in Hamburg).
Hemerberg (in Frankfurt).

Matolay (in Vienna).

Doctor Prévost (Galicia).

De Roskampff, court councillor in Heilbronn.
Doctor Stark (in Darmstadt).

De Toll (Stockholm).

Toedon, army surgeon in Berlin.
Count Zapary (Vienna).

Count of Wachter (Frankfurt).

Count of Stroganoff (St-Petersburg).
Count of Wolner (Berlin).

Baron de Sibal (Stockholm).

De Bernières, General of the Swiss.
Kcener (in Leipzig).

(1) We respect the spelling of the Masonic world.
(2) This is obviously the advisor to the King of Prussia which we will discuss later.

THE FREEMASONS 23

Count de Brühl, Lieutenant General in the service of Saxony.

Baron de Beulwiz D,

De Falgera (1), (Munich), etc.

Because of this number iin of trans.

voted: "Two protocols will be held, one in German led by Fr.-. Baron de Gleichen the other in – Bes by the Fr... of Chief-debien (2).

Already number of the necklace, skillfully made: born by the lodge of the United Friends (3) had compromised the queen, cast discredit on the ear-copart, and accentuated the disagreement between the court and Parliament. Goethe expressed the opinion that this The matter was "the immediate preface and the foundation-the Revolution (4). » From the year 1786, Cagliostro predicted the destruction of the Bastille and some of the events that occurred three years later (5).

Little by little, Freemasonry invaded the

(1) The report notes that FALGERA is in Paris with "the famous Miss Paradis".

(2) Masonic world, v. XIV, p. 104.

(8) Descamrs: The secret societies, t. II, p. 129.

(4) Fonx Brentano: The affair of the necklace, p. 2 et seq.

(5) De Lannoy: The Revolution prepared by France masonry, p. 39.

24 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

parliaments, the entourage of Louis XVI, and founded 81 lodges in Paris and more than 200 in the provinces (1).

The parliamentarians adhere to the strict Reformed Templar Observance of Germany, whose grand master is Duke Ferdinand of Brunswick; it is this latter group "which will launch the first and most serious assault to the monarchy (2). » |

Prussian influence on Freemasonry

This was not a recent phenomenon: As early as the year 1762, a commission convened in Bordeaux redirite constitutes a kind of aristocracy in the Freemasonry. Article 3 establishes "a sub-Verain Council composed of the presidents of special advice, under the chairmanship of the Sou-Lord of the Sovereigns, HM Frederick II King of Prussia, or its representative (3). »

Frederick II was interested in the work of the lodges, while the Duke of Orléans only attended the – parties and banquets. In 1786, a few months before his death, the King of Prussia still presided

(1) BarRven': Memoirs on Jacobinism, vp 65.

(2) G. Born: Around the Temple, t. IT, p. 501.

(8) Organization in France of the 33 degrees of the Ecos- rite I know. (The Masonic World. v. III, p. 155).

. THE FREEMASONS 28

in person the Supreme Council which brought to 33 the number of degrees of the Scottish Rite (1).

The Union lodge in Frankfurt declared that to recognize any authority other than the Grand Lodge of London (2).

Another detail indicates the existing agreement between English masonry and masonry Prussian: On February 10, 1790, the Prince Edward of England, the Duke of Kent and the Prince Augustus Frederick, Duke of Sussex, are – received members of a Berlin lodge (3).

The revolutionaries had discovered in the royal family, an ambitious man willing to overthrow Louis XVI in order to take his place; this prince unscrupulous was rather lacking in intelligence to believe that the Masonic motto LPD – (Lilia pedibus destrue), meant Louis Philippe 'd'Orléans. As; at the same time he He has a magnificent fortune, he will be the leader dreamed of: it will serve to launch the movement, then we therefore appointed Grand Master of Freemasonry

(1) Report of Fr. Pyron.

(2) Fine: History of French-muçonnerie, vol. I, p. 342.

(3) Ibid., vol. II, p. 14, F. Frnview also denies the action Freemasonry's role in the French Revolution.

26 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

nerie in 1771, at the death of the C" of Clermont.
But his role was limited to appearing only occasionally.
at state ceremonies (1).

At the end of 1788, two of the directors of German zealots Bode and Knigge surrender in Paris to activate preparations. At the opening ture of the Estates General, a lodge of propaganda Grande is founded, 26, rue Richelieu; the Duke of Or-Léans contributed 400,000 francs from subscriptions, whose lists are nowhere to be found, they add 1,100,000 francs. Among its members, we should mention the Englishmen Boyle, O'Kard, O'Connor, Price, and – William Howard, the Genevans Claviere, Duro-Veray and Verne, the Benarvides Spaniards, St. Se– veranda, from Aguilar, from Oyoso, the German Grimm, etc. Lord Stanhope, one of the leaders of the Frank-English masons came there frequently.
We see 4 to what extent Freemasonry seems to have been subjected to foreign influence. Moreover Cagliostro admitted during his trial, having received the mission to prepare the lodges French women to accept the leadership of the Illuminati Germans.

Count Haugwitz, one of the leaders of the Prussian masonry, he confessed upon leaving the

(1) Report of the Masonic Congress of 1889, p. 52.

etc., had been resolved in Germany by the 'Freemasonry (1). This is the explanation of the word Attributed to Mirabeau; showing Louis XVI at
At the opening of the Estates General, the tribune exclaimed
They say: "There's the victim."

It is worth noting that on 605 deputies of the Third Estate, 477 belonged to Freemasonry.

After June 17, 1789, wrote Judge Colliette Mégret to the Minister of the Interior, François, on one would have thought one was in a box at the National Assembly.
Freemasonry has made a prodigious contribution fog at the Revolution (2). » Mégret points out the the revival of Freemasonry in Germinal VII: "The lodges seem to be rebuilding themselves from All around. Only citizens are received there. tested by their hatred of royalty and anarchy shit, by their attachment to the republic and to the Constitution of the IIT. Any member who anyone who varied in this regard would be hunted down and outlawed.

In summary, Freemasonry has been a marvelous instrument of demolition; but

(1) See the supporting documents for the article on the conviction-the reign of Louis XVI through Freemasonry.

(2) National Archives. F7 7566 R1 630.

28 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

it appears to have been employed by the invisible hand-the possible impulse Robespierre speaks of. The impulse seems-possibly having been given by Germany and England land. Once the monarchy was overthrown, the the power of Freemasonry is declining, at precise moment when the foreigner no longer needs its services; moreover, there may not be any there that it was a mere coincidence. During the Reign of Terror the main lodges close and a large Some of the sect's leaders are outlawed. That's only in 1795 did Roeltier de Montaleau

A large party was organized in Paris by 18 lodges. took place in 1797. F. Colfavru notes (1) that "Under the sinister man of Brumaire, the mason-Nothingness develops, ... but it cannot live than by flattering the despot." She continued moreover, to make protests of devotion-loyalty and allegiance to the Empire and the Restoration, to Louis Philippe, to Napoleon III, etc., and us we can say with F. Colfavru: "Nothing of more wretched than these adulations, these flatter-neries in power (2). »

People who don't want to admit

(1) Report to the International Masonic Congress of 89.

(2) Ibid., p. 15.

THE FREEMASONS 29

the Anglo-Prussian leadership of the franc-stupidity in 1789, can explain the role of the sect through the ancient Templar tradition: of-Then, after the death of Jacques de Molay, the Templars... always plotting to take revenge on the king of France and on the Pope. Mr. Tourmentin, the celebrated-a bre anti-Masonic writer, gathered a certain a number of curious documents on the origins Templars of Freemasonry. On the other hand Fr. Jouaust (1) denies this hypothesis and provides-there are some fairly good arguments in favor of Fori-A purely English style.

'In any case, English influence and even the Prussian influence of the bygone era tionary seem indisputable.

After the fall of the monarchy, it was the Ilumi-German nism which launched the idea of the festival of the Goddess Reason and proposed a new religion-new, intended to supplant Catholicism. Then it is almost impossible to discover-
- to open the relations of 'our Freemasonry' from a very accurate observation by F.: Dequaire Congress of 1889: "The great movement of 1789 is unintelligible to anyone who has not

(1) The Magonic World, v. VI, p. 9.

30 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

not prepared to study it using history

Masonic.

Henri Martin was right to call secret societies "the laboratory Revolution. "

of the

CHAPTER III

THE ISRAELITES (1)

Is Freemasonry currently di-erected by the leaders of the Israelite nation? Beau-Some authors claim it, but the evidence They are missing. In principle, Jews do not part of the council of the order. But Fr. Hubert wrote in 1886 in the Chain of Union, day-final of universal Freemasonry: "in all the times we accepted in our workshops Masonic lodges of the Israelites... The list would be long-if I wanted to undertake to list the names among the most notable of the Israelites-those who have been or are still part of the Freemasonry » (2) '

(1) To avoid corrections, let us recall that we Let us count among the Jews not only those who practice the Jewish religion but all people who belong

(2) See Revue des Sociétés Secrètes, 1918.

32 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

Mr. Bernard Lazare states that there were Jews at the cradle of Freemasonry (1).

Later, a Freemason told Mr. de Camille: "I left my dressing room because I..." acquired the conviction that we were only the ins-tool of the Jews" (2).

Currently, English Freemasonry approximately twenty percent of the population are Israelites: 43,000 out of 225,000 (3); the Hiram lodge is in- Completely Jewish.

In Prussia, on the contrary, the main lodges do not admit the Israelites.

In the 17th century, Jews were difficult received in our lodges.

This is no longer the case today and The Dreyfus affair proved the influence exerted by the Jews on Freemasonry. We have asked if the Judeo-Masonic alliance exists- was in 1789. Here are the arguments in favor of this thesis: Weishaupt, founder of the Illuminism, was Israelite, like Paschales and Martin's chiefs of the Martinists.

The first two Freemasons who had

(1) Bernard Lazanm: Anti-Semitism, its history, its causes.

(2) Derassus: The Jewish Question, p. 20.

(3) Theo. Denarus: Jewish England.

played a political role, were also Jewish Cagliostro and St. Germain. The two Prussians who distinguished themselves in the attack on the monarchy, Ephraim and Anacharsis Cloots belonged to the same race. The "religious rites of all the illuminated are borrowed from the Kabbalah" (1).

Finally, the Rite of Misraïm was created in France. under the First Empire by a Jewish adventurer, Fr. Bédarrides.

Those who hold the opposite view respond that if it is certain that Cloots, Ephraim and Weis-Haupt were Jewish, there is a certain in-certainty about Cagliostro, Paschales, Martines and St-Germain.

The situation of Jews in France under Louis XVI was entirely inferior; the leaders of the Freemasonry belonged to the Latin races Nes and Anglo-Saxons. ©

In any case, it's interesting to compare the small number of Israelites living in Paris moment of the Revolution with the importance of the the role they played. We know what their situation under the monarchy; it is quite natural-that the Jews were supporters of a chan-regime management. Furthermore, since the companies

(1) Derassus: The problem of the present hour.

The French Revolution. 8

34 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

secret societies attacked Catholicism, the Jews were naturally the allies of the Franks masons, and they will continue under all regimes-Messrs. Following the expression of Mr. Flourens, "The demolition work will only stop when on the ruins of the Christian empires will rise the kingdom of Israel.

We must not forget the phrase from an English rabbi quoted by Sir J. Readcliff (1):
"Every war, every revolution brings us closer together" the moment of truth: we will reach the ultimate goal towards which we are striving." We are not unaware that this goal is the establishment of supremacy of the Jewish race throughout the world.

Here is the plan outlined in the minutes.
secret meetings of the sages of Israel, to pro-relations with Freemasonry
"We will increase the number of Masonic lodges" in all countries of the world; they will be cent-directed under a single known direction of just us, unknown to others. They will have their representative on our board of directors-tion where this representative will liaise with the ostensible Masonic government" (2).

(1) Le Contemporain. July 1, 1880.

(1) Protocols of Israel. Old edition: p. 54.

THE ISRAELITES 35

Freemasonry has always made itself the a-advocate for Jewish demands; from the year In 1781 we see an Israelite, S. Morin, great ins-general observer of Freemasonry Paris (1). It was in an Israeli salon, at the home of the Mendelssohn, whom Mirabeau associated with the Illustrious mines whose founder Weishaupt was Jewish.
From the day Mirabeau had made his mark in this salon he was acquainted with the beautiful Henriette Herz
In France, the defender of the Israelites (2). |

Usually absorbed in their own affairs, The Jews of France seem foreign to the politics under Louis XVI. The first among Those who play a role are a Sicilian, Cagliostro and a Portuguese man, St-Germain, who ser-wind of hyphen between Freemasonry foreign and French lodges.

Balsamo, the son of a bankrupt, had left false; he earned some money in London in blackmailing and left for Germany. There he improvises as both doctor and count of Cagliostro. Arriving in Strasbourg in 1780, he

(1) LeooUTEULX DE CANTELEU: Sects and Secret Societies.

(2) Claudio Janër: The Precursors. Baron: The Societies Secret.

36 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

operates marvelous cures (1), conquers all sympathies and inspiration to the cardinal of Rohan has boundless confidence. He finds a way of not being too compromised in the attempt to make the necklace, but nevertheless he is exiled and settles in London. After several trips in Italy, Germany, Switzerland, etc., Cagliostro was condemned in Rome because of his affiliation with secret societies and his career. The tumultuous affair ended in prison.

St-Germain was spreading the rumor that he was natural son of the King of Portugal. In reality, we are not fixed on his father's true homeland; it is only believed that he was an Is- banker Raëlite, probably Portuguese. In Milan, St-Germain was called the knight Valdone, at Vienna, the Marquis of Montferrat, in Venice Count of Bellemare, in other countries the Count of Tzagory, Count Soltikof, or the leader Valier Schoening. He also spoke all the languages, which facilitated its metamorphoses (2).

St-Germain succeeded in gaining the trust of

(1) However, his treatments had one drawback: In severe cases, it was only cured by sending the disease to die in another person. (See Dauphin Meunier. The Countess of Mirabeau).

(2) LENOTRE: Prussians of yesterday and forever. The spy wizard of the King of Prussia, p. 141.

Louis XV and, according to Mr. Lendtre, he would have done espionage on behalf of Frederick II. so effectively aroused the suspicions of the government Frenchmen whom Choiseul gave in 1759 the order to arrest him; but St-Germain escaped and refugee 4 London; after the Seven Years' War he accepted the hospitality of Prince Charles of Hesse and remained at home until his death.

St-Germain carried up to 200,000 francs of diamonds adorned his clothes and he also had them on hand Cagliostro, very large sums of money. Casanova (1) recounts his presentation in these terms Station in St-Germain: "He was in a robe of Armenian, in a pointed cap. He was holding in in his hand an ivory wand. Around him a twenty bottles methodically ran- - ged... He said to me with great seriousness: It's the Count of Cobentzel, Prime Minister of Austria cheating, which gives me something to do. I tra- work to please him at the establishment of a fa- brick ".

Casanova adds that St-Germain changed In front of him was a twelve-sou coin. of gold. It's exactly the same process as Cagliostro: to persuade fools that one

(1) Memoirs of Casanova, vol. IV, p. 265.

38 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

possesses supernatural power, and, beneath the neck- green with eccentricity, executing in the shadows missions of secret societies.

The first pamphlets against Marie An- The toilets were published in London by the Jew Angelucci, who called himself in England W. Hatkinson. We will see in Chapter VIII, how the entire campaign against the queen was organized by the Jew Ephraim. Marie-Thérèse it had been decided that revenge would be taken on his descendants; the jailer Simon took care of it.

The book by the Prussian Jew Dohm on emancipation of the Israelites, "has influenced more than one might think one could say about the opening of the Revolution » (1). "The Jew," said Bernard Lazare, "has the spirit revolutionary, consciously or unconsciously" (2). The Jewish newspaper Haschophet claimed last-relating to the French Revolution as a purely Semitic work (3).

It is worth noting that the encyclopedists who launched the revolutionary movement were anti-Semites, Voltaire among others called them

(1) J. Limann: The Entry of Jews into Society French. p. 373.

(2) Bernard Lazare: Anti-Semitism, its history, its causes.

(8) Mgr. Dexassus: The Jewish Question, p. 18.

THE ISRAELITES 39

Jews, "the most hateful and shameful of small nations (1). They have, he notes in the philosophical dictionary, "the most invincible-target hatred for the peoples who tolerate them and enrich them.

But when the philosophers had everything-overturned, the Israelites were the first to to enjoy, with their usual address.

Louis XVI had decided in 1788 that the rights Civil rights would be granted to the Israelites. It would not It doesn't seem that he was grateful for it. and the Revolution took all the credit. We find this remark in the writings of a highly worthy Israelite who embraced Catholicism, Father J. Lémann. He also-their formulation with great finesse and judgment the drawback of Louis' decision XVI: "The Jews have always wanted to form citizens, this will introduce an armed nation in a disarmed and confident nation" (2).

Indeed, one of the great skills of the Israelites—lites, it is about transforming into a question of religion a question of race; they were thus able to

(1) God and men. ch. X.

Théo. Depatus: Jewish England.

(2) J. Liman: The Entry of the Israelites into Society French, p. 897.

40 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

accusing anti-Semites of religious intolerance, and often secure the support of the Protestants against Catholics. Following the remark of Portalis, they form "less a religion than a people that exists in all nations without to blend in with them" (1).

As soon as the royal decision to emancipate The Israelites were announced by Malesherbes, the Jews, without wasting any time, launched the candidacy banker Haller's design for the portfolio finances. But it was still too early for to defy prejudice; Haller had, moreover, according to Mercy Argenteau's correspondence, the reputation of an unscrupulous speculator.

Almost all Israelis who play a role at the beginning of the Revolution, foreigners arrived Those in France, satisfied with their lot, They no longer had any grounds for revolt. Nevertheless the watchword of overthrowing the monarchy and the Since Catholicism was not modified, they followed their foreign coreligionists with this solidarity hardship and discipline are their strengths. "During the revolutionary period, the Jews did not remain inactive, said MB Lazare (2). Given their small number in Paris, we

(1) Denais Dannay: The Jews in France.

(2) Bernard Lazare: Anti-Semitism in France sees occupying a considerable place as section voters, legion officers or assessors, etc." Of the 500 Parisian Jews, one one hundred of them are in the national guard (1). According to Mr. Drumont, Marat was of Jewish; one of her biographers, Cabanes, had also mentioned this hypothesis that we have not- We couldn't verify. But according to most authors, the finance minister Clavière was (2), and certainly the two Prussians who Opt played a major role in the Revolution. Clavière, expelled from Geneva in 1782, did fortune at the Stock Exchange; collaborator of Mirabeau and de Brissot, he published with Condorcet the Chronique of the month; he also wrote in the Courier of Provence. Clavière was part of the franc-masonry. If we were to believe the dictionary Larousse, he allegedly sold to a Masonic lodge- that a process for preparing the phi- stone the philosopher, consisting of calcining in a A newborn child has a horn! Larousse does not Don't tell me what the result was from the point of view industrial. But soon the Revolution allowed Keyboard to successfully complete even more operations

(1) Monin: The Jews of Paris.

L. Kaun: The Jews of Paris during the Revolution

(2) Mr. Cauquer, however, holds a contrary view.

_42 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

fruitful: in charge of finance in the mid-Dumouriez, Minister of Education in 1792, dismissed with Roland, he regains power after the departure of Dumouriez.

Clavière was accused of being an agent of the An-England; in any case he was in frequent contact with bankers Boyd and Kerr, agents Pitt in Paris. He maintained at the same time an active correspondence with Bischoffswerder and Lucchesini, advisors to the King of Prussia and militant Freemasons.

Outlawed along with the Girondins, Claviere was arrested He died on June 2, 1793. He had been an administrator from a life insurance company; the The liquidators are pursuing him: "1. For theft of about four million which are in deficit in the till. 2. For having embezzled actions whose value is estimated at two, four, three millions. 3° For the production of deeds and deliberations-rations designed to eliminate traces of this subtraction" (1). Clavière having committed suicide In his prison, the trial was interrupted, but His brother was stopped as he was preparing to go to...
to settle his savings in Geneva, (3 Frimaire, year 2).
This brother had just entered the Ministry of Foreign Affairs foreign res. The file is silent on the end of his career; only mention is made of the Mrs. Clavière's suicide two days later her husband.

(1) National Archives. F, 7 4649.

THE ISRAELITES 43

The two Clavière brothers received guests in their prison, frequent visits from their coreligionnaire the banker Bidermann (1).

Settling in Paris in 1789, Bidermann was appointed three years after treasurer of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs foreign affairs, and chose J.-J. as clerk.
Clavière, brother of the minister. He is the speaker at a deputation sent by the Paris Commune at the Convention; shortly afterwards he took part active in the August 1st uprising. When he is arrested during the Reign of Terror, his friends argue that Bidermann "has never stopped working in the meaning of the Revolution... He is Swiss; he and His entire family has always been counted at many of the most ardent friends of the Revolution French » (2). The report to the court is overtionnaire notes that during the night of the 9th to the 10th August Bidermann did not leave for a moment the general council of the Commune for "prep-to ensure the triumph of freedom and thwart the com-Court plot. It was at his request that we the Pont-Neuf was stripped of its cannons, which the

- (1) National Archives. W1 300.
- (2) National Archives. F. 7 4598.

4k THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

The court had placed people in positions to fire on them...
In November he was chosen by Pache for a directors of the subsistence commission these (1), were persecuted by Dumourié and Cus-tines and was the first to reveal their betrayals sounds (2)". A letter from Mrs. Bidermann also argued to the Committee of Public Safety "countless sacrifices made by her husband for "contribute to the success of the Revolution" allusion discreet about the sums paid by the banker to political figures. They were brought in,
as in a modern trial: a financier threatening to give names, that would have Nothing implausible. In any case, Bidermann, Released on 19 Thermidor, he was able to resume-to calmly pursue his financial speculations.

Recent publications have brought to light the role of the Frey brothers, who married their sister to the famous Chabot, and for a moment were the assistants of Jean de Batz (3). Born in Moravia, Their real name was Dobruska; one of them

(1) We have outlined the anti-patriotic role of this Supply Commission in the General's History DumourtEz (one volume published by PERRIN in 1913). But personal-BipeRMann does not appear to have committed any wrongdoing.
stations.

(2) National Archives. F 7 4598.

(3) Lenotre: The Baron de Batz, p. 45 et seq.
Baron pe Barz: The life and conspiracies of J. 'de Bofz.

THE ISRAELITES 45

He took the name Schoenfeld upon converting to Christianity. According to the report of the com-there were the commissioners in charge of the Chabot case sister maintained by a German baron. The report does not say if it was this sister who became Mrs. Chabot. "These cunning and dangerous schemers— They sneak around with people enjoying themselves of great reputation and popularity, hopefully— rant by their false patriotism deserve their confidence and reach the top spots in the Republic » (1).

One might wonder why the Freys, enjoying a very fine fortune in Germany, since their lands were valued at two millions, embark on the turmoil of the past century. The Tribunal's bulletin responds: "The Freys, secret agents of foreign powers" managers whose corruption work they direct, etc."

Emmanuel and Moses Frey were indeed espawns of the Austrian government, and rendered enough services to both obtain the Title of Baron (2). The famous Baron de Trenck

(1) National Archives, W. 342.648.

L. Kaun: The Jews in Paris during the Revolution.

(2) Feuilles d'Histoire, January 1, 1914, Article by MP Barr.:

46 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

recounted that the eldest Frey had come to Vienna to traffic in the beauty of his two sisters who were very pretty; they did so many scandals that the Austrian government expelled them. Trenck knew this per-sonnage and knew he was employed as es-pawn by the emperors Joseph and Leopold (1). MA Mathiez believes him to be affiliated with Freemasonry, masonry and to the Illuminati of Weisshaupt.

The Frey brothers, in close contact with Ephraim, were very likely also em-

Once in France, Moses undergoes a metamorphosis. in Junius Frey. Received along with his brother at Jacobins club of Strasbourg, then to that from Paris (June 1791), he settled at 19, rue d'An-
The two brothers give excellent dinners.
whose regulars include Chabot, Lebrun Tondu, Fabre d'Eglantine, Ephraim, Ronsin, Prohly, Pereyra, Desfieux.

Members of the insurrection committee, the Freys paid considerable sums for the en-maintenance of the cosmopolitan bands that made the days of June 20th and August 1st (2). They take-They take part in this latest insurrection and are

(1) Tuetey Collection. Vol. X1, p. 235.

(2) Sysez: History of Europe, I, p. 397.

mm mas i + ee x

THE ISRAELITES 47

slightly injured. This title of glory should not not to prevent them from being arrested later. After The fall of the monarchy, the Freys seem to enter the service of the counter-revolutionaries and _ become agents of Jean de Batz (1).

It was at their instigation that Chabot and his friends they overthrow the Girondins; but soon the Freys are stopped 4 in their turn at the same time as Chabot 4, whom they married to their sister. their reproach of "spending two, four, three thousand francs per month for their table, while The people are crowding at the doors of the bakeries. to obtain a piece of bread (2). Which was more serious, and what we dared not ra-Counting too high was the distribution of pots of wine at the Convention. One day, for example, with the complicity of Delaunay and Julien (of Toulouse), the Freys entrust 150,000 pounds to Chabot to cause a financial panic.
Another day, as Fabre d'Eglantine attacked-violently attacked the East India Company, Chabot is tasked with delivering 100,000 li-claims to have given it to Fabre (3).

(1) National Archives, F. 7 4774. 67.

(2) Arch. nat. F. 7 4687.

— (8) Hamen: History of Robespierre, t. III, p. 308.

48 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

During Diederichsen's interrogation, the factum of the Frey brothers, we notice the question—
The following statement: "Junius Frey, didn't he have frequent conferences with the emperor "From Austria P," Diederichsen replied: "I had knowledge of these conferences without knowing the object.

Junius and Emmanuel Frey were guillotined at the same time as Chabot.

Among the regulars at the Frey brothers' dinners, we have mentioned three names that are found frequently in the history of the Revolution: Pereyra, Proly, Desfieux. Count Proly is natural son of the Austrian minister Kaunitz; Pereyra (Judas of Jacob), a Portuguese Jew, is tobacconist on rue Saint-Honoré (1); Desfieux is a Bordeaux wine merchant. By What a coincidence that we always find them together! blue and supper at Mme de Ste Amaranthe's, speculating on the stock market regarding sea shares Red, members of the insurrection committee of the Paris Commune, and delegates from the Ja- club cobins in Dumouriez's army (2). Pereyra, member of the St-Roch club and assessor of the The local justice of the peace is connected to Cloots.

(1) He had initially been a jeweller in Bordeaux.

(2) National Archives. T, 1684.

Part 4: All the riots, Kellermann is crossed out of the Jacobin club, and demands prosecutions yours against him. He participates in the fall of the Girondins, he is working on establishing a triumvirat, Robespierre, Danton and Marat, then after "After the death of Louis XVI, he entered the service of counter-revolutionaries. At the head of the list of secret agents of Batz, Pereyra, Proly, Desfieux (1). |

Pereyra then had two residences, 55 and 105 rue St-Denis; denounced by Barbaroux, then by Robespierre, as part of a committee Foreigner, Pereyra was arrested during the Terreur. The arrest warrant was issued and he was guillotined. The arrest report... relates that after "having pruned a large We tightened up the number of unnecessary papers. the surplus in a basket that we sealed "lé" (2). Follows a list of 96 letters in An-92 pieces in English, 73 pieces in English Glais, 68 likewise, etc. It is regrettable that These papers have disappeared; one would find them without doubts about the evidence of government action English about Pereyra and his friends.

i) National Archives. F. 7 4774.
(2) National Archives. T. 1658.

The French Revolution. | 4

50 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

Alongside these well-known figures, a big name—a number of Israelites play a role in the Revolution modest role. Isaiah Spire is in charge of the sub-troop support. Cerf Beer, banker, fau- The town of Montmartre is a supplier to the armies. and juror in the criminal court. The German Isaac Calmer, millionaire in clogs, president of The revolutionary club of Clichy is notable for his violence, while his brother Benjamin Calmer, the stockbroker, remains a royalist; In this way, the family has support in all aspects of life. parties. Despite the suspicions surrounding his patriotism, Benjamin Calmer is appointed commissioner for the liquidation of Philippe's assets in the acts of the Commune "Calm sei-"Lord of the land of Ailly." Isaac Calmer having .forgot to have the fleur-de-lis decorated scraped off the chimneys of his castle in Clichy-la-Gareindeer, was denounced by the families of several of his victims; the two brothers were guillotined destined for the end of the Terror (1).

The German Heymen is a judge's assessor.
Peace in Paris. Isaiah Beer Bing, author of a volume-

(1) L. Kaun: The Jews in Paris.

THE ISRAELITES | 1

me on the Jews, is very linked with Ephraim and frequented revolutionary circles with him.
He is a friend of Lafayette, Grégoire, Roederer, and Emmerly.

Hazan is a member of the supervisory board general. D'Acosta commands a company of the National Guard. Rosenthal commands the Legion charged with guarding the Temple. Calman is the district commissioner of the Little Fathers.
Genevan Kermer is a member of the Tui- club Leries. The Dane Diederichsen is the man of The Freys' confidence. The Boyd and Kerr bankers are Pitt's secret agents in Paris (1). Z. Hourwitz, born in Lithuania, peddler in Berlin and in Paris, then curator of manuscripts at the the king's library at the beginning of the Revolution, written in the advanced newspapers and gives the a quarter of his income as a contribution Triotic. We find it again under the empire, profes-Foreign language teacher. Mayer, busier of speculation rather than politics, spending, it is said 300,000 pounds for a single dinner offered after the 9th of Thermidor, with ten ministers and deputies tés (2).

(1) National Archives. W 389 no. 904.

(2) Soumipr: Tableau de la Révolution Française.

We find in the revolutionary committee,
Jacob Reis, Léon Azur, Fould, Weisweiler, etc.

The Israelites of Paris formed an association ciation whose leaders signed an address to the Constituent Assembly (1). This piece we learns that the president was Godschmit (maybe-(as Goldschmidt meant) the vice-president resident Lagouna; Weil and Benjamin Fernandez
-they call themselves electors; Levi, Jacob, Pereyra, Trenelle, Elie, Weil, Delcampo and Brandon de-whores. a

Another petition signed by Mordecai (Member of Parliament) and Silveyra (agent) exposes the injustice of which they are The victims are the Jews of Paris: they are less well treaties, it seems, that their coreligionists foreigners. And yet they are all "of the same ilkmy family, descendants of Jacob son of Isaac » (2).

Here, moreover, is how the revolutionaries-res included brotherhood towards the Israelites and their allies: The decree of 16 Messidor, Year II, forbids Jews to follow the army under

(1) Acts of the Paris Commune published by 8. Lacroix, v. vir, p. 554.

(2) Acts of the Paris Commune, 2nd series, vol. IV, May 1791.

THE ISRAELITES 53

The death penalty (r). The newspaper Le Propagateur
(2) complained that since the Revolution, the French was "exposed daily to dealing with a Jew, without any means of warning himself that this he is not dealing with a man, but with an enemy.

A mysterious character named Falc, plays a certain role in secret societies appointed Chief Rabbi. Savalette. of Langes in his correspondent simply calls him the doc-Mr. Falc. Of German origin, he lived on-all in London. He had predicted the throne to Philip-Lippe Equality (3).

In summary, a very small group of Israelites quickly established himself in a position and played an important role in the Revolution; but the The Jews of France went unnoticed. Those who led their coreligionists who were arrives from abroad at the end of Louis's reign XVI.

Contrary to what one might suppose-

(1) The decree is signed by Laurent, representative of the people near the Northern army.

(2) 17 Brumaire year VIII.

(8) P. Moniquet: France in peril.

54 -- THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

ser, stock market speculations at the time revolutionaries are primarily the work of Protestants.

The Jews mainly monopolize the furniture the treasures of castles, the riches of churches, and become masters of land ownership at means of usurious loans (1).

(1) Carerique: History of major financial operations candles.

E. Dromont: Jewish France, vol. 1, p. 305.

AA

CHAPTER IV

THE PROTESTANTS

+

The Judeo-Masonic coalition found par-among the Protestants such considerable support that Mr. Sourdat wrote a volume to establish that "The true authors of the Revolution are "the Protestants" (1). This is an exaggeration. obvious; but the Protestants gave to Freemasons provide continuous support. "One of the principal founders of Freemasonry modern, was J. Th. Désaguliers, son of a pas-Protestant author that the revocation of the edict of Nantes was forced to leave France" (2).
Based in London, friend and collaborator of New-Your son, J. Th. Désaguliers, became thirty-six years old, the third Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of England (1719).

(1) Sounpar: The true authors of the Revolution.

(2) Report of the sessions of the Masonic congress in-International of 1889, p. 36. (report of F Amiable).

56. THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

Freemasonry secretly attacking the Catholicism, should have the sympathies of Protestants. These, on the other hand, had not generally had no reason to praise the monarchy French; they are also found in different eras in all conspiracies. The result a redoubling of austerity measures which to attribute to the intolerance of Catholics politically motivated prosecutions.

Long after Coligny with England against the King of France (x), the Duke of Bavaria was organizing in Germany, "At the request of French Protestants, a a true Huguenot crusade" (2) and was preparing

XIII, Guiton, Protestant mayor of La Rochelle, asks for the help of the English against the king (3). Later, the Huguenots engaged in intrigues with the Spanish. There are therefore circumstances—these mitigating factors for the persecutions directed against to them by our monarchy.

Franklin reports on English activities in the Cévennes to create with the complicity of

(1) See E. Rexavrp: Le péra protestant, p. 33 et seq.

(2) BaawenauzT DE PucmEsse: The failure of the German inwision Order in 1587. (Correspondent of November 25, 1914.

(3) Charles Maurras: Religious policy.

gl LE st.

THE PROTESTANTS – | 57

Protestants an independent province under the British protectorate.

The disturbances in Nîmes in 1790 were caused by the Protestants who massacred the Capuchins.

After the deplorable revocation of the edict of Nantes, the eyes of French Protestants turned towards England and Switzerland: there had in Geneva at the end of the 16th century a group a group of intelligent and active men whose influence radiated throughout Europe. These protests tants were at the same time the first fi-world financiers. This explains the Necker's appointment to the Ministry of Finance these.

It's not easy to form an opinion about this character about whom many good things have been said and a lot of harm.

According to Ginguené (1) (member of the Institute),

As a Protestant, he always held a secret vow to losing the clergy and discrediting religion Catholic." His compatriot Clavière wrote— It was going to Isaac Cornuaud, "Necker has much more I deny it superficiality rather than depth. I deny it (Í) Guineuexe. Necker, 1706.

58 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

the heart of the upright man and friend of humanity nity » (1).

But Clavière was subject to a 4-point guarantee. Napoleon I" receiving Baron A. de Staël, grandson of Necker told him: "Your grandfather has ren— overthrew the monarchy; he led the king to the— chafaud » (2).

On the other hand, Necker found apologies— His talents, not only within his family, but among the writers belonging to the op— We are denying the most diverse. He has operated on some very useful reforms, that of hospitals between others. `` |

According to the observation of the Marquis de Ségur (3), "from the day Louis XVI accepted the ingenious remedy invented by Necker (the States generals), the Revolution was now nothing more than a "It's a matter of time." But in preparing the Revolution— he probably didn't think to send Louis XVI and Marie Antoinette at the scaffold. Like many constitutionalists, he did not believed that the conquest of freedom and the suppression—

(1) Memoirs of Isaac Cornuaun, recently published by Mile CHERBULIEZ.

(2) Works of Baron de Staël. |

(3) The sunset of the monarchy. Vol. II, p. 877.

sion abuses were to have the consequences the massacres and the revolutionary tribunal.

"Necker," said Mr. Ch. Dupuy, "was a fog-Long, but not a revolutionary. His protégés, coming from Geneva, had fewer scruples and more audacity (1). » .

Vergennes, who also called it a draft agitated, he explained to the king the clergy's apprehension seeing his natural enemy at the head of the finances these. He points out "the praise he receives in a part of the British Parliament, including tou-All the factions unite when it's necessary for us to hate and harm us (2).

Like all Swiss people, Necker suffered in Indeed, English influence; he had almost married his daughter, Madame de Staël) to William Pitt. Burke said in the House of Commons: "Mr. Necker is our best friend on the continent. » D'ailtheir family, the Necker family, settled in Geneva at the beginning of the 17th century, was of Irish origin and had maintained many relations with England earth.

A serious accusation against Necker is found in Garran de Coulon's report to the committee

(1) Louis XVI and the Geneva conspiracy. Le Soleil, 10 August 1913).

(2) Marquis de Ségur: The Sunset of the Monarchy, II,
p. 418.

{

_60 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

Research on the famine of 1789:

Necker reportedly wrote to Bertier to have the rye before harvest, so as to aggravate the famine. Bertier did not carry out the order and was nothingless massacred as a hoarder (1).

We don't know what evidence was based on lon (2): "Necker is well aware that his reign will be "The day order was restored ended." He said of Necker to Brunswick: "This financier mediocrity would lose ten empires rather than "To compromise one's self-esteem." Only Mirabeau was the minister's enemy.

What seems better established is the participation Necker's family's passion for the troubles of 1789: his son-in-law, Baron de Staël Holstein, under the pretext of gathering information, frequented the the most fervent circles and put the conspirathose aware of what was happening at the Council of the king (3). |

When the revolutionary party had triumphed,
Mr. de Staël maintained frequent negotiations with the Committee of Public Safety on behalf of the courts

(1) Report by Garran de Coulon, p. 48.
Born. The Storming of the Bastille, p. 33.

(2) Memoirs of Mirabeau, vol. VIII, p. 20.
(3) G. Born: The revolutionary conspiracy of 1789, p.
37.

THE PROTESTANTS ` 61

Protestants. On December 6, 1793, Soultavie re-he, for his part, put the conditions to Robespierre Protestant states of the North to recognition of the revolutionary government. One of the
The main one was the substitution of Protestants. me to Catholicism in France. According to Mr. Ch.
Dupuy, Robespierre accepted in principle.
The question remained unanswered for a long time; later the concordat, thwarting the hopes of the protesters tants, was the true cause of the animosity of Madame de Staël against Napoleon I" (1).

If we are to believe Léouzon Le Duc (2), the Baron: de Staël Holstein was a constitutionalist; that's his woman who was pushing him towards the Jacobin party;
In any case, he opposed the king's plans.
Sweden against the Revolution. He estimated in 1789 that "the French nation is devoid of the quato conclude that Staël was working not in favoring freedom, but at the expense of conspiracy international against France. As for Ms. de Staël, Jacquet de la Douay. King's prosecutor in the principality of Dombes, accuses him of

(1) Ch. Duruy, Louis XVI and the Geneva Conspiracy.

(2) Preface to the diplomatic correspondence of Baron de Staël Holstein.

62 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

betray the queen (1) and signals astonishment tested by the ladies of the court upon seeing Madame de Staël in the good graces of Marie-Antoinette. .

On the other hand, it is claimed that she conspired later with Narbonne to save the king and the queen, by buying land near Dieppe and by leading the royal family there in disguise (2).

Louis Necker, the minister's brother, was involved tie of the lodge of the United Friends of which we have explained its revolutionary and international role. Finally, his brother-in-law, Germain, was a member of the Propaganda club that organized the massacre bodyguards (3). The Count of Vaudreuil repeated a word of Marie Antoinette after the storming of the Bastille: "You were right," he told him-Necker is a traitor: we are lost. (4). This opinion of the queen does not seem to be generally shared; but Necker was an ins-probably unaware of the conspiracy revolutionary. I] enjoys immense popularity Larity as long as it was deemed useful to the projects of the

(1) F. Dusoostes. The French Revolution, as seen from abroad ger.

(2) E.. Wetwert. Around a lady-in-waiting.

(3) Dasrf. Marie Antoinette and the Terror.

Introduction.

THE PROTESTANTS 63

international union, but fifteen months later Upon his triumphant return, he resigned. without anyone thinking of stopping him (1).

While it is true that Fersen shared the opinion of Gustav III on Necker's guilt (2), the Baron de Frénilly, on the contrary, asserts that this the minister tried to stop the torrent of which he had opened the dike (3).

However, Mr. Gustave Bord states that Freemasonry had given Necker the mission to prepare for the Revolution. But, as most Freemasons, he was unaware of pro-probably the sect's plans, and he was able to to be motivated by excellent intentions.

Here, finally, is the judgment passed on Necker by Mallet du Pan: "He seems to me one of the men who have done the most harm to this monarchy and justice only obliges me towards him not to suspecting his intentions, rather than making him a man mage to his credit as administrator of finances.....

By appealing to popular ideas, Mr. Necker exaggerated everything... For a miserable eco- motive

(1) Barpovux. Pauline de Beaumont, p. 148.

(2) Lady BLENNERHASSET. Mme de Staël and her time, vol. IT, pp. 26 and 28.

(3) Memories of Baron de Frénilly, p. 129.

distance and fixed them at Versailles... (1). » `

Two months later, Mallet du Pan wrote again to Mounier: "I had, on the account of Necker, positive information that doesn't... They leave no doubt that he wanted it Revolution across almost the entire spectrum that was given to him (2).

But these lines, sent at the end of 1790, would certainly not have been written after the events of 1793; it is important to make the remark. | |

The edict of November 28, 1789 restored to the protesting the right to have their condition verified civil (births, marriages and deaths), without being forced to disguise their beliefs; a decree of December 24, 1789 restored them in all their civil rights and declared them eligible for all the charges. They therefore no longer had any grounds serious about fighting the monarchy; but they were no doubt quite pleased to take revenge on the Catholics of the long vexations they had endured. | l

Mirabeau's motto was "We must deca-"To 'Tholicize France'" was not just coming from

(1) Letter to Mounier. October 14, 1790.

(2) December 4, 1790.

THE PROTESTANTS 65

Masonic lodges, but Protestants
Genevan in all likelihood; however, the question religious was undoubtedly the true motive of the wars in the Vendée and Brittany. The populations of the West would have perfectly-accepted the Republic without the persecutions actions directed against their priests.

It is still the civil constitution of the clergy which caused a rift between Louis XVI and the revolutionaries; this liberal sovereign, animated by good intentions, consented to all reforms demanded by public opinion, but it was deeply religious; from the day the reforms-

Having been informed, Louis XVI turned to the counter-revolutionaries. However, this anti-clerical movement rical was supported by the Protestants.

It is largely in Mirabeau that one must confiscate the property of the clergy; he obeys—knows the instructions of his Geneva committee.

The English press was simultaneously doing anti-Catholic campaign. Bartholomew sent from London articles which explained the difficulty culture of establishing liberty in France without rem—to place Papism by Protestantism (1). "The

(1) According to Mr. de Bonatp, "one does not ask for political laws—

The French Revolution. 5

66 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

The Protestant party, it was added, has a lot of supporters in the National Assembly (1).

In 1790, the number of temples and pas—eurs increases rapidly thanks to sums received from Geneva and Holland (2). The alliance Protestants with Freemasonry their allowed them to continue practicing their religion while—during the Terror, while the Catholic priests—ques were imprisoned and guillotined (3).

A pastor, Rabaut St-Etienne, who had done his studies in Geneva and Lausanne, he was appointed President of the National Assembly in March 1790. He then declared to Mrs. Stuart: "In less than In two years our religion will dominate generally "Rabaut is the principal author of the disturbances in Nîmes.

Several of his fellow believers played like him an important role in the Revolution—tion, Boissy d'Anglas, Jay, Cavaignac, Billaud-Varennes, Alquier, Julien (of Toulouse), Collot d'Herbois, Bernard, Lombard Lachaux, Jean tics of England than to come to the religion of Anglicanism.

(Considerations on the Revolution, p. 74.)

(1) Foreign Affairs Archives. London, c. 670.

(2) Duran. History of Protestantism.

(8) Auzarp: Studies and lessons on the Revolution.

THE PROTESTANTS 67

Bon St-André, Dentzel, Grimmer, etc. Ten steps—their members sat at the Convention (1).

The role played by the Protestant Barnave is indeed known. : |

Moyse Bayle, whose first name would suggest of Semitic origin, belonged to the religion Protestant; born in Geneva, he was a deputy of Marseille, president of the Convention, and member September

1793 to September 1794. Arrest warrant

The following year, Moyse Bayle was granted amnesty and joined the police force.

Foreign Protestants in the Revolution—tion an even more important role than their French coreligionists.

The Genevan Protestants, being at the head of the finance, had to necessarily benefit, come, the Israelis, stock market movements caused by the Revolution.

It is generally believed that speculation at the stock market is a very recent creation. What is recent is the prodigious increase in the name—securities market; under Louis XVI speculated on only four or five stocks, the waters of Paris, insurance, the shares of

(1) Ernest Renauzn. The Protestant Peri.

AULARD. Political History of the Revolution, p. 321.

the Red Sea, etc., but their differences were ° sensitive enough to make matters interesting health. During the Revolution, they also played a lot on the fields and on all the foodstuffs. Bidermann was particularly successful with the special-calculations on grains. What benefits do not re-Finally, one could read on the exchange rate! One thousand francs at certain times twenty-five gold coins were worth a thousand francs in assignats, then a few days later it represented only five thousand.

Lefebvre d'Acy wrote on February 7, 1792
"The silver is at 55%"; the following March 10th
"The money is at 80% (1)."

One day the louis is worth 200 livres, 4 hours and 11 minutes.
250 at noon, then 500 (2). On October 14, 1795, It rises to 1255 pounds.

As for the shares of the company In India, they fell by half in forty-eight o'clock. The actions of the fire pumps notthey knew from 1,200 francs to 4,200 francs the same week (3).

These fluctuations sometimes had re-unforeseen results: thus on January 9, 1793, the The drop having been too steep, a hail of blows

- (1) P. de Varssttre. Letters of aristocrats.
(2) Louis Branc. History of the Revolution, XII p. 116.
(8) D'Escurnny. Historical Tableau of the Revolution.

+

'THE PROTESTANTS 69

The cane fell on the backs of the stockbrokers.
This is demonstrated by Chabot's confession during _ his trial, which the hidden power that was leading the events, sometimes offered huge sums of money relevant to some members of the Convention to make proposals likely toto drag on a financial panic. The union foreigner who had announced in advance the capture of so I was able to make a magnificent difference in playing 4, the drop, 4 strokes. We live this way. great fortunes rise on the ruins of the France. Also, the political news could- They asked themselves (on February 26, 1795): "The Was the revolution merely a speculation? bankers?

At the head of high finance were the Genevan.

CHAPTER V

THE SWISS

At first glance, the events that have events that took place in France from 1789 to 1794 seem to have been led by the Swiss. Moreover, Rousseau has often been called the father of the Revolution; Necker prepared it; from the Genevans occupy the Ministry of Finance in 1793, Ministry of War, Paris City Hall and a multitude of jobs; the Terror is organized by the Swiss Marat.

A prominent, distinctly French figure dominates; -it's true, the beginnings of the Revolution, Mirabeau; only he is the instrument of a Syndicate A Genevan man who gives his speeches. This union... composed of Etienne Dumont, Duroveray, Clavière and Pastor Salomon Reybaz (1), aux- which sometimes includes the financier Panchaud.

(1) See the Reybar Collection at the Geneva Library. (Manuscripts). Among other things, they contain 59 letters from Mirabeau & Reybaz.

THE SWISS | 71

Rivarol compared Mirabeau's head to a large sponge swollen with other people's ideas. He It would nevertheless be absurd to claim that Mirabeau didn't have enough ideas. himself, and was not capable of making his own decisions. courses; if, therefore, he is held under the tutelage of the Genevans, there is an unknown cause for this fact:

ments taken in Masonic lodges and re-did he have the Geneva watchword while Other people were taking it in London.
Perhaps it is, quite simply, a question financial: Mirabeau made frequent em-loans to the Swiss bankers Jeanneret and Sch-Weitzer; as he was always short of silver, the Genevans still held it by this average. When Mirabeau dealt with the court, he partially reimbursed Schweitzer, who was very surprised (1). |

In a singular contradiction, the monarch-French dog seems to have been overturned by the Swiss, while the most loyal defenders of the king, the Swiss, are being massacred for the defend.

But the Geneva union represented a

(1) A. Sregex. Life of Mirabeau.

12 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

a turbulent minority to which Necker, Mallet du Pan and the moderate minds of their country were completely hostile. We remember the movement-revolutionary ment that erupted in Geneva in 1782. Minister Vergennes, whose high Intelligence has not always been admired enough.
he wrote at the time: "I am studying the quarrels of the revolutionaries-Geneva revolutionaries, because it is to be feared that their writings do not outwardly convey fanaticism
"They are filled with it." Indeed, it was, he observes Mallet du Pan, the French Revolution which prepared in Geneva in 1782 (1).

After the turmoil of that period, a club Helvétique was founded in Paris by Castella; the Dr. Kolly was the secretary. Here is how-
This club is appreciated by a civil servant Swiss, Muller (2): "This infamous society was composed of galley slaves, bandits and other scoundrels rats of a nation whose name was being dishonored...
The cantons resolved to request delivery of these wrongdoers, but our dear allies, in instead of corresponding with us according to the treaties,

(1) Memoirs of Mallet du Pan, ch. 1 and 3.
Sorzv. Europe and the French Revolution, pp. 141 and 142.
(2) Letter from Bartholomew. Archives of Foreign Affairs manages. Switzerland, v. 428 |
See also A Sern. The Swiss club in Paris.

THE SWISS 13

gne. » Castella had indeed been convicted in Switzerland 4 to be quartered. Marat, Duport and Menou affiliated with the Swiss club. Sillery and Bar-Nave promised him their protection. This club which made frequent appeals to the stock exchange Schweitzer, successively bore the names of Club Helvétique and Société Helvétique; it It was located on Rue du Regard, Rue Ste-Marguerite, Rue-of the Holy Sepulchre and in a room of the abbey of St-Germain des Prés, granted by the district of that name.

In 1792, the Helvetic Club became the Club foreign patriots, also called the Club of Foreign nations friendly to the Constitution. To
On August 10th, it changed its name again and became the Club of the Allobroges (1); one of its members the most active is Doctor Doppet who intro-led in association some Savoyards comme, Doctor Dessaix, the notary Frezier, the procurator Souviran, the poet Michel Chastel, the lawyer cat Turinaz, the surgeon Magnin, Ganem, Bussat, etc.

The members of the Swiss Club never ceased to distribute seditious pamphlets to the soldiers dates. A decree was issued on September 19, 1790.

(1) Maruiez. The Revolution and Foreigners, p. 33 et seq.:

74 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

to put a stop to their actions, but they
\ :

Mirabeau's inspirations belonged has a more enlightened and cultured environment. What-Was this, in short, what this union was? The file Duroveray at the national archives (1) we re-pond: "Duroveray, Clavière, Etienne Dumont and Divernois were exiled from Geneva in 1782 when the French and Swiss armies restored there-They clarified the order. Clavière settled in France; Du-Roveray, Divernois and Dumont passed through Lon-Dres, carrying with them the desire for revenge of the French nation as much as they can-would. They made contact in London with all the people who were in the best condition to serve their plans for revenge.

Duroveray, the Attorney General in Geneva, had He was dismissed at Vergennes' request. "Aged thirty-five years old, according to the report of the
"He doesn't look like a police officer." He's a man.
Active and intelligent. At the end of Louis's reign XVI, he became a naturalized Irish citizen. He attended at the sessions of the Estates General; some deprostitutes protest against the presence of "a pensionary of the English government who takes

(1) F. 7, 6468, |

THE SWISS 75

participates in the deliberations and sends notes and observations to the members of parliament (1). » – Indeed, Duroveray received a pension of three hundred Louis of the English ministry. – Mirabeau declares that this man is a martyr for freedom, Duroveray, to whom M. de Vergennes has made a per-to discuss his situation in Geneva. (Applause) numerous. Duroveray is surrounded by deputies. who come to him.

After August 10th, Duroveray is offered the Ministry of Justice, which he refuses, then he attached to the French embassy in Lon-Drs. Bonnacarrère, chargé d'affaires, had observed-a worm that is dangerous to entrust to a stranger The secrets of our diplomacy. Lebrun Tondu at the London embassy, under the protection of Brissot, Clavière and Roland, although he was well recognized as a resident of England.

He adds that Duroveray's mission will be to him withdrawn next month (2).

Complaints have been piling up against Duroveray, Lebrun decided to call him back on the 19th October. Back in Paris on the 4th, Duroveray finally... to be denounced as a government agent

(1) Archives of Foreign Affairs. London. v. 582.

(2) Foreign Office Archives. London, v. 582.

76 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

English. A police report relates that On May 4, 1793, at half past midnight, Duroveray was invited to communicate his correspondence correspondence with England. "This citizen," they say the officers in charge of his arrest, told us represented several packages, which he told us contain said correspondence which appears to have existed from the year 1789 to the present day. Seals were affixed there. On July 30th, the supervisory committee considering that in of the said papers, some of which are in shorthand characters- physics and English (it was said), that the committee has no knowledge of these kinds of characteristics languages and tongues, stop the boot, the carrier-sheet and packages will be taken to the committee of public safety (1).

Then silence falls over the papers in question- tion which are no longer in the National Archives nationals.

Etienne Dumont, contemporary Genevan pastor- porain and friend of Duroveray "has a lot of es- He took it, spoke well and with restraint (2). "Very Appreciated by Fox, Lord Holland, etc. in London.

(1) National Archives. F. 7., 4696.

(2) National Archives. F. 7., 6468.

Dumont receives a pension of three hundred louis. of Lord Lansdowne (1).

Presented to Mirabeau in 1788 by Sir Samuel Romilly, he settled in Paris the following year, in-worse, Mirabeau's speeches sometimes took Lord Elgin's advice (2). In 1791, Dumont stays at Bidermann's house where Rey-Baz, Clavière and Brissot. He contributes to the newspaper The Republican. Barthélemy's papers were... they realize that Etienne Dumont and Duroveray are among Pitt's most active agents in Paris (3).

Divernois (or d'Ivernois), expelled from Geneva with Duroveray, Dumont and Clavière, is Like them, he was pensioned by England. "From a few years younger than his friends, thin, walking with his head forward, Divernois offers nothing distinguished in its entirety physical; however, very friendly in the Society, very witty, speaks with ease, writes well, with energy and ease (4).

The secret correspondence of the court of Berlin (5) indicates Divernois as being one of the

(1) Letter from Mrs. Reybaz to her brother (Life and Conspirations of Jean de Batz, by Baron DG Batz.)

(2) Memoirs of Etienne Dumont.

(3) Letter from Jeanneret to Deforgues, February 19, 1794.

(4) National Archives, f. 7., 6468.

(5) KarmiN. Documents relating to the correspondence secrete with the Berlin court.

78 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

Pitt's main agents. On the other hand, he did not-never proved the revolutionary cruelties, and saved the life of General de Montesquiou.

Divernois settled in England and made himself a man of his own. to become a naturalized Irishman. In 1814, he became again a Genevois and was appointed State Councillor.

Clavière was "inseparable from Dumont and "Durovey," the reports to the committee of Hello everyone. Our chapter on the Israelites explains Clavière's political role.

Pastor Salomon Reybaz was making a great part of Mirabeau's speeches, at the beginning of the Revolution. He was on a pension from the Angleland (1). During the Terror, it went unnoticed; He is found again under the Directory, as Minister of Switzerland in France.

Reybaz was invited on November 29, 1796, to leave Paris within twenty-four hours. The the only comment one can read on this subject In the newspapers, it's that "this Genevan 'does not excite the curiosity or interest of citizens

(2). »

(1) Memoirs of Soulavie.

Reybaz manuscripts in Geneva.

History of the Counter-Revolution (Baron de Batz).

(2) Auzann. Paris under the Thermidorian Reaction. t. ITI, p. 698.

THE SWISS 19

Thus the entire Geneva group, whose role was so important in our Revolution, was than an instrument of the English government. = Pache is a singular figure of revolution tionary: of peaceful and patriarchal customs, This son of caretakers is the model of employees of the ministry. Every morning he arrives on foot from the suburbs with a bread roll in his pocket and works all day. Introduced by Nec- ker in charge of financial control, he forms ties with the extremely wealthy Anacharsis Cloots, with Chabot, Has- Senfratz and the most fervent Jacobins. He 1792, for the petition demanding the forfeiture of the king. Papa Pache, as he is called, brother-nise with the September Massacres (1); he gets the Ministry of War given to him by the Roland's protection, of which he became the fac-essential totum, then he persists in losing his benefactor and the Girondins. He displays beautiful-a stroke of intelligence and activity by disrupting national defense and preparing for defeat of the French armies. In the end, like "all the generals, all the commissioners of the Convention, accused Pache at the same time (2) », on

(1) G. Lenôtre. Old houses, old papers. t. I, p. 264.

(2) Cauquer. Dumouriez.

80 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

La Réveillère Lépoux takes his wallet from him. calls Pache the greatest of the squanderers of public funds: in three months of mini- ^ land, he left one hundred and sixty million without justification. fication; Barère declared that in the presence of the impossibility of untangling the accounts of Pache, it was better to wipe the slate clean (1).

Pache's dubious reputation does not prevent him not to be appointed mayor of Paris; he signs in this quality the report which must make tom- He had Marie Antoinette's head guillotined. Dillon and delivers the cannons to the Commune of Paris during the Reign of Terror. Every night he sends his wife, his daughter and his sister at the barracks of the féderelects in order to incite them against the Girondins (2).

Cambon believes that at the time of the insurrection On May 31st, Pache was bribed by the counter-revolutionaries: the movement would have been "prepared by Robespierre, Pache and Danton" _ to restore the little Capet to the throne (3) » On the other hand, as Pache imagined he would achieve Under the dictatorship, he was able to encourage all the riots. with the hope of taking advantage of it. In the spring of In 1794, the Cordeliers were plotting to put

(1) SyseL. History of Europe, vol. II, p. 118.

(2) Sysez. History of Europe, vol. II, p. 32.

THE SWISS = 81

Pache at the head of a new government.
Hébert shared this opinion.

The reports from the Ministry of the Interior ifgnalant Pache as an agent of Pitt and added-tent: "It is claimed that if he had not been While incarcerated, he allegedly prevented the establishment of the new constitution (November 20, 1795)
(1). » |

Prosecuted several times, arrested in the same While Hébert, Pache escaped the guillotine, no doubt thanks to the power of the union international. When the Revolution is ter-undermined, Pache retires after making her fortune, in an old abbey bought at a very low price, of which he built a magnificent estate; he lived there trans-bowling, having no further contact with his old friends, who don't even read the newspapers anymore; instead of getting involved in politics, Pache herborises and does gardening.

His son renounced his opinions and changed his name (2). His son-in-law, Xavier Andouin, was a member of the Paris Commune and organizer of wars; it was he who one day demanded from the As-

(1) Taurxau Dana. Royalists and Republicans.

Avutarp. Paris under the Thermidorian Reaction, t. IT, p.
411. z

(2) LenôrRe. Old houses, Old papers, vol. I, p. 272.

The French Revolution. 6

82 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

legislative appearance, on the part of the Jaco- club bins, a law to shorten the procedure in order to

\

to eliminate the defense of the accused.

Pache appears to have been the conscientious employee—heavenly and worker of occult power who directly was watching the events. That was also the opinion Robespierre, who could never take him on the fact.

Marat has been attributed several nationalities. and even French nationality (1). But, According to civil registry records, Marat's father was from Cagliari in Sardinia, and became Swiss after marrying a woman from Geneva.

The friend of the people was born in Switzerland, exercised the medicine in Newcastle and London, from 1769 to In 1777, he joined Freemasonry, then he became a physician to the guards of the Count of Artois; his violent attacks against Necker, did to continue in 1790. He returned to England—land to return to as soon as anarchy was established blie in Paris. The rest of his story is sufficient—well known. Let's simply note that Marat's remarks, that most of the violence

(1) Mr. Porpeparp points out a Lyon— tradition according to which the Marat family would be from Chuyer in the Rhône. Mr. Cukvremant attributes a Spanish origin to it.

ag w 4 Eee, eee, eee oa ———

THE SWISS 83

and the cruelties of the revolutionary era are due to foreigners.

Friend of the People appears to have been an agent | by Philippe Egalité; based on several authors He was paid directly by England. Ma— Rat and Pitt reportedly had meetings at 1792) (1).

It is permissible to be surprised by the space it occupies. by Marat in history: one cannot seriously- to claim that he had talent is as a writer or as a speaker. He was generally unpleasant and according to Taine, he was afflicted with a type of madness well known to Alienists, the ambitious delusion.

Hulin (or Hullin), of Swiss origin, was director of the La Briche laundry, near St-Denis; he joined the Guards in 1789 French women and were among the winners of the Bastille. From then on he declared that he was a heroes; a memoir in which Hutin and Maillard recounted in the Assembly their exploits contains this sentence: "If it is permissible to praise oneself, the The undersigned will undoubtedly do so, but with this

(1) See Desparys. The Revolution, the Terror, the Directory, page, p. 49.

84 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

modesty, which so aptly portrays the character of true people heroes" (1).

Hulin formed the volunteer company of the Bastille, of which he appointed himself commander. Complaints were soon raised against his management; moreover, Marat accused him of being at the head of bandits driven out of the Parisian battalions (2); and a group of victors of the Bastille denounces as a "police informer" (3).

Hulin after having commanded the national guard-nale at the time of the October days, signala on August 10th. When the national guard was dissolved, he was appointed captain in the army from the North. Arrested during the Reign of Terror, he escaped the guillotine; he is found to be president of the council of war which condemns the Duke of Enghien, then general under the empire. Hulin receives conspiracy Malet, a gunshot that breaks him, is a failure. the jaw, but it healed. Under the restoration-tion he offered his services to Louis XVIII who

A large number of Swiss people play in the Revolution, a diminished role: Necker had been brought to power largely by the in-

(1) Acts of the Paris Commune, vol. I, p. 156.

(2) Acts of the Paris Commune, vol. I, p. 156.

(3) Bucugz and Roux. Parliamentary History, vol. VIII, p. 277

THE SWISS | | 85

influence of Masson de Pezay whose father was Genevan. Pezay was the lover of the princess of Montbarey who was leading Mme de Maurepas; She led her husband, who led the king. Maurepas also claimed that the true King of France, it was Pezay. The reminder of the par-The elements had been due to his influence.

Christin, secretary at the Ministry of Finance these, were rather counter-revolutionary, while that Finguerlin was a member of the Commune of Lyon and the department's board of directors.

La Harpe, who called Voltaire "papa", was born in Paris to Swiss parents. He seduced The daughter of a lemonade seller married him, then divorced him and remarried at fifty-eight to a young woman of twenty-three. He became in 1776 member of the French Academy.

Representative of the Commune for the district from St-Germain des Près, he never ceases to praise the Revolution in his lectures and works, written violent articles in the Mercure de France, and did not change his opinion even after the massacres, nor after the death of Louis XVI. But he was arrested in April 1794, and his companions of prison, the bishops of St-Brieuc and Montauban le convertent (1). According to Mallet du Pan,

(1) Srs-Bsuvs. Mondays. Volume V.

An unknown woman is said to have read 4 La Harpe Imitation of Jesus Christ, during his captivity | survival, and that would be the real reason for his conversion (1). In any case, the old Voltainism that became clerical took the Revolution "in an aversion equal to the love he had for her carried" (2).

The Directory decreed his arrest for the second time in 1795; editor at the Memorial, La Harpe was implicated in the royal agitation list, acquitted then again sentenced to the deportation (3); he managed to hide from the 18 Fructidor on the 18th Brumaire. The police forgot about him and he died in 1803, leaving a number of famous works.

Another Genevan, a friend of Voltaire, Pictet, settled in Paris about ten years before the Revolution, finds a situation thanks to Neckers and frequents Madame Roland's salon; it is one of the founders of the Society of Friends of blacks. But during the Terror he changed his camp, and Barthélemy's papers report

Pictet and Mallet du Pan as if stirring

(1) Mallet du Pan. Mémoires, p. 459.

(2) Annales. Memories of a sexagenarian.

(3) Collection of the acts of the Executive Board. TI

THE SWISS 87

much with the help of the English against the Convention. |

Mallet du Pan always had a moderate and wise, condemning revolutionary excesses, and denouncing the existence of an occult power, not to mention the organization Masonic. He wrote to the King of Prussia to prove revolutionary clubs' position: "All these societies are, without realizing it, dominated by composed of the quintessence of all the au-very assemblies: This secret assembly is composed of a central committee based in Paris, corresponding with other central committees...

Jacobinism is allied with the Presbyterians from England, to the Illuminati of Germany, etc." (1).

Mallet du Pan was writing before the Revolution the Historical and Political Journal of Geneva which was compiled at the Mercure de France; there he-split the ideas of the constitutional monarchists-nels. Louis XVI entrusted him with a secret mission with the coalition. Back in Geneva after the Following the fall of the monarchy, he maintained a correspondence dance active in support of the monarchists. I]

(1) F. Descorzs. The French Revolution as seen from Vé-foreigner. y

88 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

died in 1800 in London, after having written several valuable works.

Virchaud was on the opposing side.
(from Neufchatel) secretary of the Corde- club liers; it was he who presented the petition to the Assembly tion of July 15, 1791 against the monarchy (1).
Rumors were circulating at the time that the petitioners were bribed by foreign governments Gers.

Gaspard Schweitzer (from Zurich), nephew of Lavater seems to have been a good man.
Operated by the international syndicate. Affiliated to the Illuminati, he settled in Paris from the beginning of the Revolution; introduced by Mirabeau to the Ja-Cobins, he became friends with Barnave, Robespierre, Bergasse, etc., he allows himself to be duped and ruined by the revolutionaries who keep resorting to to his purse. Mirabeau, while borrowing from him considerable sums, courted Mrs. Schweitzer, who is said to have rejected him-milk.

Schweitzer to go and sell the principals in America
.main riches of the royal castles, and of reclaiming thirty million loaned by Louis XVI to

(1) Avuzanr. Political History of the Pran- Revolution çaise, p. 148 et seq.

THE SWISS 89

United States. Schweitzer, delighted, sees 14 an oc-casino to rebuild his fortune. Unfortunately He is joined by an adventurer named Swan who He steals it. He returns to Europe and ends his penitentiary sentence. blement his existence in the gene (1).

Niquille, an agent of the Paris municipality, de-
He became Inspector General of Police after the 18th Brumaire. Stopped despite Barras 4 the sequel to the explosion of 2 Nivôse, he was deported to Mada-Gascar.

Panchaud, after having been a banker 4 Londres, was appointed director of the Es- fund account of Paris. Although it was part of the Mirabeau's leadership group seems more occupied-Finance is more important than politics.

Mr. Gustave Bord attributes the death of Fouchon has Genevan and Swedish influences, without specify the names.

Pastor Frossard (of Nyon) was direct-Honorary Professor at Oxford University, member societies of farmers from Bath and Man-Chester. Young goes down to his home in Paris because that he considers it almost as a companion 'triot; linked with Brissot and Roland, Frossard is appointed after the flight from Varennes member of the Jacobin permanent committee established in Lyon,

(1) Banassy. The Swiss outside of Switzerland.

90 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

then member of the general council, and prosecutor

He inaugurated Protestant worship in the mountains.
Carmelite church. He was in Lyon at the end of 1793.
Then we lose track of him and find him again in 1802.
member of the consistory of Paris (1).

MG Bord (2) remarked on the attitude strange behavior of Colonel d'Affry, who after having dis-Clarié was ill at the time of the Réveillon affair. refused on August 10th to transmit the information to the Swiss.
The order was to fire on the rioters who attacked them. quaient (3). D'Affry belonged to the Freemasonry Nonsense.

In summary, a group of Swiss played a important role in the Revolution, but he did not represented neither government policy Swiss, nor the ideas of the majority of its country. Several of them were pensioners by England; others were suffering from the in-attributed er

British influence. Napoleon I Moreover, in 1802, during English operations, the in-Geneva uprising.

Like the Freemasons, the Jews and the

- (1) Correspondence of Mrs. Roland, p. 726.
- (2) The revolutionary conspiracy of 1789. G. Borb.
- (3) See the Moniteur of August 30, 1792, p. 553.

THE SWISS 91

Protestants, the Swiss were an instrument demolition directed by a hidden power.
The opinion of Soulavie, a resident of France in Geneva, is that "The Dumonts, Duroveray, Clavière and other adventurers were the suppots from an English committee (1).

- (1) Memoirs of Soulavie. V. VI, p. 409.

CHAPTER VI

DL FOREIGN INVASION IN 1789

At the beginning of the Revolution, "the English, the Italians, bankers, infiltrate the people's assemblies, insinuate themselves into the anti-Cabinet of Ministers. They spy on everything, they are slipping into popular societies. Soon we see them linked with the magistrates who support them. tegent" (1). According to Loustalot and Thureau Dan- In Paris, there are 40,000 homeless foreigners. fixed salary and without a specific occupation (2). Bezenval tells of the appearance of these men, "most Ragged and armed with large sticks, that was enough to judge what we should have feared from it." This will be the army employed by the revolutionary union. lutionary; to this will be added the thousands of vaga- Bonds, thieves, and outcasts rejoice.

(1) National Archives AD! 108. Report* to the Convention tion on foreign factions.

(2) Tæunmau Dancin, Royalists and Republicans.

THE FOREIGN INVASION OF 1789 93

always periods of unrest. "By a Careful sorting will form a corps of Janissaries. triple-pay res" (1), which will execute all the riots ordered by the hidden power. The agents of the Duke of Orléans appear to have were put in charge of the payroll for this army, which had been rebuilt. tionary. According to the memoirs of Mallet du Pan (2), the pay amounts to three times that of regular troops.

Marat recognizes in the Friend of the People (3), that the victors of the Bastille are for the Mostly Germans. General Hen-'s troops riot, former servant, expelled several times for theft, consisted mainly of Germans who They didn't even understand French. Mr. de Montmorin stated that "almost all those were foreigners" (4).

It is worth noting regarding this famous riot that two of the spectators, who were among the most intelligent, assign him the date of the 21st, not the 20th. The memoirs of the general Dumouriez and others agree on this subject.

Se GR

(1) Tarn. The French Revolution.

(2) Memoirs of Mallet du Pan, vol. II, p. 62.

(8) No. 50.

(4) G. Mazur. Conquerors of the Bastille and victors August 10th. Intermediary for researchers, February 10th, 1913.

94 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

Memorial of St. Helena (vol. I, p. 106). This is one the rare points on which these two enemies | mortals (Napoleon and Dumouriez) be of the me- my opinion.

'When, on the eve of August 10th, the ministers declare that the king will never consent to To fire on his people, Lameth replied: Is the people a collection of foreigners? stateless, which for six months we have been calling in Paris? (1).

The fact was so undeniable that the board of directors the Seine department officially responded- (Referring to a circular from Minister Roland): "We did not seek the opinion of the people in the midst of these gatherings of men, most of them foreigners" (2).

Schmidt Weissenfels also speaks in his voice Light on Frédéric Gentz, from the stream of adventurers which then descended upon France, arriving from banks of the Tiber like banks of the Spree.

He was not able to command these troops. impossible to find French officers re- revolutionaries; but they did not appear they chose a Pole, Lazowski, who was committed

- (1) Memoirs of Lameth, p. 156.
- (2) Tarn. The Jacobin conquest.

THE FOREIGN INVASION IN 1789 9%

in the French army, who had been sentenced to death for striking one of his superiors. Although pardoned by Louis XVI, he remained nonetheless the enemy of the monarchy. Artillery captain at the beginning of the events of 1789, he was appointed member of the revolutionary committee, section of the Finistère (1). After having organised the first troubles, he was chosen on June 16, 1792, with a few obscure citizens, to go to the Hotel City announces the intention of the suburbs of to rise up en masse. He then proposes to the council of the Commune that the demonstrators are arrested "as a precaution and to impress the ill-intentioned." Lazowski leads the emus-thirds on June 20th and August 1st, exposing themselves to fire peridant that the inspirers of the movement They hide. He has them put to death without trial. the prisoners of Orléans with the help of Four-the American leader, directs the Ver-massacres sailles, plots with Desfieux and Varlet the assassination of the main right-wing MPs, and proposes to the Cordeliers the proscription of the Gilets.

H indulges in such excessive drinking that he He died an alcoholic on April 24, 1793. Two months previously he had been prosecuted for having

- (1) National Archives, F. 7, 2517.

96 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

organized disturbances in Amiens. However, the book by e-The crou of the prison of this city establishes that Joseph-Félix Lazowski is imprisoned on February 1, 1794 (1). He had been dead for ten months. The explanation remains to be found.

Perhaps it was his brother, the tutor of the son of the Duke of Liancourt, devoted to the royal cause list. Lacretelle said that Lazowski "groaned with the sad celebrity attached by his brother to his name (2). » There would then be a pre- error. names in the Amiens registers.

The great man was given a national funeral. nales. The Jacobin club decided that the bust de Lazowski would be placed next to that of Brutus, above the president's chair. The rep- Lazowski's performance was rather mediocre; his The funeral oration contains this phrase: "To services rendered by Lazowski to the Revolution, It would be futile to raise objections of concussion, perhaps well-founded, and other offenses too familiar to men of strong character.

But Robespierre declares that he weeps "over the The Republic has just suffered an immense loss

(1) Darsy. Amiens during the Revolution.

(2) De Luonererze. Ten years of trials, p. 67 et seq.:

THE FOREIGN INVASION IN 1789 97

and which absorbs all the faculties of his soul (1).)»

In Alsace, the revolutionary plot aimed to The main agent was a defrocked German monk. Euloge Schneider. Professor in Bonn in 1789, He came to settle in Strasbourg for no known reason. and becomes known for his violence at the club Jacobins. Appointed judge immediately, then prosecutor At the revolutionary tribunal, he organized the Ter- reur, levies fines throughout the city formidable, puts two thousand people in prison and treats them with varying degrees of rigor depending on what they pay him (2). he travels all of Alsace, dragging its tri- Bunal and his guillotine, abuses women by... Terrifying.

As long as he is content with stealing, raping and guil-

They let it happen, but doesn't he one day have the idea to enter Strasbourg in a horse-drawn carriage six horses | This time democratic equality was threatened; St-Just and Lebas issued the order following: "The representatives of the people, inform-

(1) E. Brré. Journal d'un bourgeois de Paris, t. II p. 339 et seq. |

(2) SYBEL. History of Europe, vol. II, p. 347.
Review of historical questions, July 1918.

The French Revolution. | 7

'98 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

more than Schneider presented himself in Strasbourg with insolent splendor, dragged by six horses, surrounded by guards with drawn sabers, stopped—that the said Schneider will be exposed tomorrow 10 a.m. to 2 a.m. on the scaffold, to atone the insult to the morals of the Republic and will be then brought before the Committee of Public Safety.

Schneider was indeed sent to Paris, condemned to death on 11 Germinal year II, and executed.

Desfieux (or Deffieux) is depicted in the Meillan's memoirs describe him as a "rogue, thief, fraudulent bankrupt, but good patriote. Why this good patriot, who was Belgian, was he so keen to overthrow Louis XVI? instead of continuing trade in Bordeaux wines that he traded there in 1789?

How did he become acquainted with Count Proly? Pereyra and Dubuisson? So many mysteries.

Here is how he himself recounts his beginnings in political life, without explaining the reasons which make him act (1): |

"...On July 12th, I brought the news of Necker's dismissal to the Palais Royal and I stirred up there immediately to arm themselves against the Court.... On the 13th, I was

(1) National Archives, F. 7, 4672.

THE FOREIGN INVASION IN 1789

Fathers. I gave the method of enrollment for to form the national guard; this method was adopted.

On the 14th, I found myself at the Bastille and everywhere where a patriot was to be found....

Business called me to Bordeaux. I went there I preached the Revolution, I formed a society there popular known as the Coffee Club national... I left at the invitation of the municipality of Toulouse to establish a company popular... My reputation as a patriot made me admitted to the Jacobin society... I was one of the first to denounce the Brissotins, the Rolandins, the Girondins... »

In August 1790, a peddler was arrested author selling anti-militarist brochures; The investigation proves that he was in charge of this mission. sion by Desfieux, recently settled in Paris. The following year, Desfieux was appointed treasurer of the Jacobins, then juror at the revolutionary tribunal naire, chairman of the correspondence committee of the Jacobin Club and member of the revolutionary committee lutiohnaire. |

The Minister of War, Bouchotte, entrusted him a mission to Switzerland. Back in Paris, he... then the most advanced proposals and cri- He criticizes the slowness of the revolutionary tribunal.

Desfieux was vice-president in January 1793

100 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

of the Society of Friends of Liberty, which declares permanently until the execution of the tyrant and sends a delegation to invite the Commune

At the time, Desfieux was a secret agent for the Baron of Batz who wants to try to save the king (2).

In the spring of 1793, Desfieux, a member of the insurrection committee, established at his home, rue des St. Thomas's Girls, an office where he traffics in places. He also takes charge of acting on Collot d'Herwood for an honest brokerage fee. He was convinced he had received money from Lebrun Shaved head to intercept the dispatches of the Jacobins, we don't know for what purpose. Sometimes he would simply disappear their correspondence; sometimes he replaced it with fake dispatches; the letters were largely equal to those there lend (3).

This enigmatic figure was the owner from the house where Proly and one of his servants or employees were guardians of the seals injured at the time of the arrest of Kaunitz's son (4). Put under lock and key almost at the same time

(1) Bravomesne. History of Louis XVII.

(2) National Archives, F. 7, 4672.

(3) Buomez and Roux. Parliamentary History, Vol. XXXI,

p. 376.

(4) National Archives. F. 7, 2774.

IN A SR RE TN AND ER EU ee ee ge ia

THE FOREIGN INVASION OF 1789 101

While Proly, Desfieux managed to get out of 4 prison on 25 Frimaire and demanded the lifting of seals were affixed to his home. However, it turned out that the the seals had been broken by an unknown hand and the incriminating documents had disappeared.

Ultimately, Desfieux was sentenced to death at the same time as his friends Pereyra and Proly.

One of her fellow citizens, Terwagne's daughter, better known as Théroigne de Méri-the chroniclers of the time, "where Venus entered in conjunction with Mercury. One could have She saw it as a dangerous omen. Things took a turn for the worse. At a very young age, she became the mistress of a colonel in the... Trichien and, it is said, of the King of England; we have published fake letters from Théroigne to this sovereign. After various adventures that ended born by a prison sentence, in In Austria, Théroigne de Méricourt settled in Paris shortly before the Revolution. She could be seen often alone in a box at the Opera, covered of diamonds (1). She founded the club with Romme Friends of the Law, of which she was an archivist and He thus found himself in frequent contact with Roland. Bosc and Lanthenas. Admitted in February 1790 to

(1) Memoirs of the Count of Espinhal.

102 THE 'FRENCH REVOLUTION'

at the Cordeliers club, she gave a speech
It was very well received.

At the session of January 26, 1792, Dufourny spoke in these terms at the Jacobin club bins: "Gentlemen, I must announce a triumph for patriotism: Mademoiselle Théroigne, famous for its civic-mindedness and the per- the traumas she experienced at the hands of the "Tyranny is here in the ladies' gallery."
At the moment, several members of society are there they carry and bring down this young lady in the room, where she is received with great interest that can excite his sex and his misfortunes (1). »

However, since it is difficult to please everyone, a few days later, Théroigne was publicly whipped by a group of counter-revolutionary women who ren- She was opposed to the Tuileries. She did not like it no longer to Collot d'Herbois; he declared to the Tribune of the Jacobin Club, April 23, 1792: "This gives us great satisfaction, it's about learning that in a café, on the terrace Mademoiselle Théroigne has decreed that she withdrew her esteem for Robespierre and to be quiet (1), Mademoiselle Théroigne was in the women's section. Irritated by the remark and from the rumor she was creating, she rushes off over the barrier that separated her from the interior the audience laughed, overcoming the efforts that one was trying to stop her, she approached the desk with animated gestures, and insists on asking— She was turned away from the speech. But finally, she was shown the door. of the room.

(1) Aura»: The Jacobin Society, vol. III, p. 346.

THE FOREIGN INVASION IN 1789 103

Théroigne de Méricourt appears in all the riots; she harangues the Parisians and the regime—the Flanders procession, on October 5th and 6th, after having preached revolt to the garrison of Nancy. Pretty a twenty-year-old brunette, according to the memoirs of Hyde de Neuville, dressed as an Amazon with a a Henri IV hat with feathers, a pair of pistols With her hands and a dagger at her belt, she excites the people at the massacre of the Swiss on August 1st and had the journalist Suleau's throat slit, whose articles The keys attacked her; she then took him for a walk at the head of the unfortunate writer on the end of a pike in vain.

— General Thiébault recounts in his memoirs— moires how his cannons were taken from him by Théroigne. After August 10th, it's her again. who triumphs over the resistance of the president of the Feuillants section to hand over the prisoners. Of course, they were immediately massacred.

(1) Buoxez and Roux, t. XIV, p. 180.

104 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

So many achievements deserved a reward;
The federates also awarded crowns. civics in Théroigne de Méricourt and Rose Lacombe, in memory of their courage in the

What reason did this foreign woman have for so much to become passionate about the revolutionary cause > Where did the money she distributed to the Rioters? One wonders if she might not have been simply the agent of the King of England or Kaunitz with whom she maintained a Regular correspondence. The archives of Vienna— they do not attest to it. It was not possible in the following the collection of her confidences, for she became mad in 1794 and was interned at the Salpêtrière (2).

In Desfieux's gang, Proly and Pereyra, figures the Spanish Gusman (or Guzman). Ban— This crooked guy tries unsuccessfully to get himself to pass for the son of the Elector of Cologne, then for Grandee of Spain, then for descendant of the Dukes of Brittany. Under Louis XVI, it became call Baron de Frey, a German subject, then he

(1) Memoirs of Bertrand de Molleville.. Memoirs of Beaulieu. Lacour: Three Women of the Revolution.

(2) National Archives, F. 7, 4775, 27.

—

THE FOREIGN INVASION IN 1789 105

He joined the French army, from which he was expelled. The reason is unknown. He becomes one of the the most active agents of the revolutionary committee central and revolutionary committee of the Commune. The Spades section puts him in the number of his commissioners. J] is involved in all the troubles, spending money without counting; Barba-redheads and others report it as distributing assignats to the rioters. Mr. Morel Fatio (x) believes that Guzman was a government agent Austrian ment. Among the many denunciations of the accusations against Guzman , let us mention the one where he is accused of being a woman disguised as man.

Three times a week Gusman gives dinners where Danton, Fabre d'Eglantine, Camille Desmoulins, Pereyra, Chabot and a few others- The Glaus tasted the wines supplied by Desfieux. was part of the Hébertists, then after the death of Louis XVI we find Gusman among the secret agents of Jean de Batz (2). |

He was condemned and guillotined on April 5, 1794.

The Italian Rotondo had been expelled from France in 1785 for having defrauded about twenty dancers of the Opera. He is considered to be registered-

(1) Historical Review.

(2) National Archives, A. F" 45 and F. 7, 4774.

106 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

organized by Lameth in preparation for the first Revolutionary riots. He leads with his fellow citizen Cavallanti the looting of the hotel of Castries. A few days later, he was broken on the wheel. blows by officers to whom his tirades revolted his revolutionaries displeased him. He then described himself as pro-foreign language teacher and complained that all the tyrants of Europe formed a coalition con- to him.

In July 1790, the professor was charged, no doubt by secret societies, with a-to assassinate the queen. That's why he infiltrates her. in the gardens of St-Cloud at the hour when Marie-Antoinette was taking her daily walk (1). But the rain prevented the queen from going out that day. there and Rotondo doesn't seem to have done anything else attempt.

Four months later, the police reports establish that an Italian "who sometimes calls himself English, sometimes called Rotondi, sometimes Rotondo makes the most insulting remarks. against the king and queen. July 29, 1791, He is being prosecuted for giving money to rioters.

"The brave Rotondo, arrested by a grenadier" is taken to the battalion guardhouse

(1) Memoirs of Ms. Campan, p. 276.

THE FOREIGN INVASION IN 1789. 107

of Henry IV, where those scoundrels assassinated him with blows of the butt of the head (1). »

But Rotondo was stubborn, since qua-
Three days later he was released from the Abbey prison.
Arrested again for inflammatory remarks, he
This time he's spending 15 days at the Châtelet. A little Later, it was returned to the Abbey because it was accused of shooting Lafayette. Mr. Lenôtre has notes that the theft of Mrs. du's jewelry Barry coincides with Ro-'s release from prison tondo who had attempted to [do] her blackmail (2). He is actively involved in the pre-Preparation of the events of June 20th and August 1st, then he took part in the September Massacres.
Seized with fear, he then hid. Arrested at From Rouen, he escaped and took refuge in Geneva where he is arrested, carrying a large sum of money thanks to from which he recruited a group of 200 to 300 brigands (3). He is put in prison after having he claims to have received more than fifty blows sword and bayonet. Then he is handed over to the king of Sardinia as one of the assassins of the Princess of Lamballe and sentenced to prison

(1) L'Ami du peuple, July 29, 1791. Proceedings of the Commune, t. VI, p. 670.

= (2) L'Année: Old houses, old papers, 2nd series,
p. 149.

(3) Acts of the Paris Commune, vol. VI.

108 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

perpetual. But upon the arrival of the French troops-

General Kilmaine has a passport where he is designated as "Chargé d'affaires for the Republic" "French!" Rotondo thinks he's saved, but in Upon arriving in Paris, he was arrested again as ` agent of England, which does not prevent him to become naturalized French and become secret agent of the Directory. Three months later he He is escorted to the border by the gendarmerie. returns on 18 Brumaire, Napoleon does so again- calf expel.

– In 1811, Rotondo was still arrested on the ter- French ritoire for armed robbery, but the The police simply send him to the border. He then settled in Italy where he soon became hanged for murder and robbery (1).

In this very fulfilling career, it is necessary One detail to remember: Rotondo suspected with true- resemblance to being an agent of England, dis- was paying money to the rioters. He was therefore at someone's beck and call.

Among his friends was the Englishman Greives, to whom the theft of Mrs. du's jewelry is attributed Barry. In excellent relations with Marat, Grei-

(1) H. Forezor: The Marquis of St-Huruge. Q. LENÔTRE: Old houses, old papers, 2nd series, p. 157.

THE FOREIGN INVASION IN 1789 109

ves had himself appointed commissioner of the committee of public safety. Through repeated denunciations against the former favorite, he obtained her arrest- tion, amassed all sorts of evidence against she and had all the people who had been arrested could have provided the justice system with information about the theft of jewelry. He accompanied Madame du Barry by carriage From Louveciennes to prison. We were asked if the former favorite had refused to pay the price demanded for his escape, because these practices were quite widespread around the world revolutionary. Once Madame du Barry was in place Under lock and key, Greives settled in the castle from Louveciennes to draw up the inventory; the The municipality appointed five wardens in charge to prevent Greives from being disturbed in his

Many valuable objects were carefully-hidden. Finally, after six months, all the riches of Madame du Barry had evaporated, and Greives set off for the Hollande. Stopped in the middle of his journey he was led to the Récollets prison. But he found immediately excellent arguments to make open the doors, and went to live quietly his annuities in Brussels, according to MG Lenôtre, in America, according to other authors.

110 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

Greives is one of the men who understood The practical side of the Revolution. Protected first by Mirabeau, then by Marat, he did not laugh quait not much by improvising as liquidator-owner of Madame du Barry's fortune. But for to give proof of his civic-mindedness, he had founded He founded a club in Louveciennes and was guillotined seventeen Châlier, born in Susa in Piedmont, comes He was born in Paris in 1789 and became acquainted with Robespierre. organizes the Reign of Terror in Lyon where he has guillotined approximately six thousand suspects (1), although one found in the Historical Review of May 1887 that "Chalier, a French statesman, did not make a sound-"No one will laugh."

He had said in one of his speeches: "A sans-culotte is invulnerable like the gods that it represents on earth." Nevertheless, during-that the city of Lyon revolted against the regime Châlier, a terrorist, was guillotined in turn, the July 16, 1793. | -

He had the prince as his assistant in Lyon Charles of Hesse, whom Nodier compares to a tiger gifted with speech.

This foreigner had served in the French army

(1) Robespierre's Papers, vol. II. SyBez: History of Europe, vol. IX, p. 347.

— wwe

z

THE FOREIGN INVASION OF 1789 1414

rapid progress thanks to the protection of Louis XVI. But courtiers mocked him.

At Versailles, because of its heaviness, he declared himself to be of the revolutionary party against the Court party.

In every garrison he passes through, the prince-Hesse constantly denounced his superiors, his comrades and subordinates. A member of the war commission declared during

The Revolution: "Hesse is the most tireless" accusers, but he always disappears when it comes to providing evidence (1).

A field marshal in 1789, he spoke at the club Jacobins' speeches in which he attacks all the generals and in particular Narbonne, Broglie, Dietrich, Montesquiou. He seems to have received some hidden power, the mission to disorganize the French armies.

When war breaks out, he declares himself too sick enough to go to the border, but he isn't more so when it comes to attending the sessions of the Jacobin Club. Showered with blessings by Louis XVI, he wrote to the Convention that it must condemn the tyrant to death. He writes the journal of Free men, and after August 10th he takes the habit of signing "Charles Hesse, Jacobin."

(1) Syssel: History of Europe, t. I, p. 624.

112 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

Deposed on October 13, 1793, he did not delay to be arrested. Saved by the 9th of Thermidor, he tries in vain to be reinstated in the army, but He receives a retirement pension. He collaborates to the most progressive newspapers. In 1798, as He was in opposition to the Directory, the police

He immediately fell ill, just as when he...
He was ready to fight; then he let himself be forgotten.
Arrested on 18 Brumaire, but soon reinstated freedom, he conspires with former Jacobins and dines with Georges Cadoudal; this time, he is interned for three years on the Île de Ré. In 1803, He obtains permission to be escorted back to the German border.
He is demanding, due to his health. He reconciles then with his family and receives a pension, at provided that he does not marry his mistress. A At the end of the empire, the Prince of Hesse returned to Paris; the police hastened to ask him to leave go. Finally he died in 1821 in Frankfurt (1).

Among the revelers who laughed at everything in 1789 for fear of being forced to cry about it, he crossed himself Prince Frederick of Salm Kirbourg milk, - brother of the Princess of Hohenzollern. He had built between the quay and the rue de Lille the

(1) Cauquer: A Jacobin Prince. Sypun: History of Europe, Vol. I.

THE FOREIGN INVASION IN 1789 143

palace which became the chancellery of the legion of honor (1).

Appointed field marshal, he distinguished himself less on the battlefields as well as in living rooms.
Being in Utrecht with eight thousand men,
He learned of the arrival of the Germans; he fled. immediately, without a fight, and returned to amuse himself at Paris. Appointed battalion commander by Lafayette of the national guard, the Prince of Salm made ridiculous by his revolutionary zeal (2).

His palace was the meeting place for the constitutionalists killing the most progressive of opinions. He could not however, to make people forget his birth and was guil-
He was treated as an aristocrat.

Dubuisson, a mediocre poet, an author without success cès, was of Belgian origin (3). Member of the comi-the insurrection of the Paris Commune, and As vice-president of the Jacobin club, he succeeded in

of his plays.

An emissary of the Jacobin Club, he goes with two other foreigners, Proly and Péreyra, from-

(1) Put to a lottery after the Prince's condemnation, this The hotel was bought by a young wigmaker, Lieuthraud. also became the purchaser of the Château de Bagatelle.

(2) Fr. Masson. Joséphine de Beauharnais, p. 186.

(3) Memoirs of Durand de Maillane. Chapter: The Revolution, summer. i

The French Revolution.

114 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

to hold Dumouriez accountable for his threats against the Convention.

According to Robespierre, Dubuisson and Proly, covered in the mask of sans-culottes have organized a system of counter-revolution and They have English bankers as accomplices, Prussians and Austrians. Nevertheless, Dubuis- his is among the foreigners employed by our Ministry of Foreign Affairs in 1793. Tasked with a secret mission in Switzerland, he ended by being outlawed at the same time as Hébert and He was guillotined in 1794.

The Italian Dufourny is a member of the committee revolutionary of the Commune and president of the _ Paris department. He attends assiduously the general security committee and attends all the deliberations of the Committee of Public Safety. Its His zeal even seemed suspicious to his colleagues. Robes- Pierre observes that Dufourny has infiltrated May 31st in the insurrection committee; "when He saw that the movement would succeed; he searched- "They have the means to render him powerless."

A very active member of the Cordeliers and the Jaco- Bins, Dufourny was proscribed by Robespierre saved his life; afterwards he was of no-calf arrested as a foreign agent, and

THE FOREIGN INVASION IN 1789 115

He was granted amnesty on 4 Brumaire, Year IV. He became admi-gunpowder and saltpeter manufacturer.

François Robert (1), journalist from Liège, had married Mademoiselle de Kéralio. A friend of Danton, protected by Mrs. Roland, a member of the club Jacobins and of the Cordeliers Club, he was elected deputy of Paris. The first republican group-The cleric took place in his living room. Editor at Mercury and the Revolutions of Paris, François Robert formed a central committee to unite the popular societies of Paris.

Fearing arrest in 1791, he went into hiding.
at Roland's; later he will draw up the indictment.
sation against the household that gave him lho-pitude.

At the suggestion of François Robert, the club
The Cordeliers voted on June 22, 1792, an address to the National Assembly to request the establishment-The foundation of the Republic. He supports the Convention that every Frenchman has the right to murder Louis XVI.

Brissot had promised him an ambassadorship (Péstersburg, Vienna or Warsaw); the influence of Dumouriez thwarted this bizarre choice.

(1) He should not be confused with François Robert, French geographer.

Pe
.
at

silence at the Ministry of Justice.

Having suddenly become rich in 1793, we don't know By what means does Francois Robert pay his debts?
and hosts luxurious dinners.

Included in the trial of the revolutionary committee-
As a proponent of the Social Contract, he was convicted August 8, 1795: 1° to civic degradation, 2° to be tied to the pillory for two hours (1). Then no one spoke of François anymore.
Robert. He was exiled in 1816.

Joseph Gorani, a famous writer from Milan, was a friend of Voltaire and d'Holbach. From Pan-Born in 1770, her Treatise on Despotism exposed... distinctly revolutionary theories. In correspondence correspondence with the main leaders of the movement In 1789, he gradually became friends with the
The most fervent Jacobins. Settled in Paris at the beginning From 1792, he wrote in several newspapers, no-particularly in the Moniteur, violent articles against Louis XVI and apologies for the Revolution- |

tions subsequently compiled into a single volume under the title of Letters to sovereigns on the French Revolution çaise.

(1) Autard: Political History of the French Revolution.
Pp. 86 et seq., 135 et seq. AVLARD: Paris under the reaction Thermidorian. <AULEED Studies - on the Revolution (3rd series). |

THE FOREIGN INVASION OF 1789 417

Bailly requested the title of Gorani French citizen due to services rendered through him to the cause of liberty. Nevertheless, after the Thermidorian Reaction, Gorani judged it more prudent-He had a desire to leave France. But he was exiled and stripped of his possessions by Archduke Ferdinand "for having behaved badly in Paris"; he ©
He then took refuge in Geneva and was no longer heard from.
Jui. Cu |

to writers: the rumor of his death having spread In 1804, he was able to read his funeral oration and what-obituary articles praising his works. He died only fifteen years later later.

` F. Ch. Laukhard, son of a German panei, successively professor at the university of Halle, then a soldier, left the German army.

to join the revolutionary army. 'A Lyon's battalion forms the honor escort near the guillotine. Arrested during the Reign of Terror. released at the end of Thermidor, Laukhard _ returns to Germany and joins the army of emigrants to collect Louis d'or, then deserted immediately for Professor Eedevenye. He He dies an alcoholic.

The Italian Buonarotti having had some legal troubles

118 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

with the police of his country, settled in Corsica in 1789. He was expelled because of his writings. revolutionaries. He returned there in 1792 as commissioner of the executive branch to the tribenal de Corte; the commune of Toulon awards him a certificate of civic responsibility. An excellent musician, he claims to be descended from Michelangelo; it is probably-Freemasonry, which launches him into the revolutionary milieu. Member of the © club

Jacobins, he is one of the most assiduous guests of Robespierre, who appointed him commissioner of the Convention with the armies of Italy in 1794.

Later he founded, with Babeuf, the society of Equals, which proposes the elimination of pro-private; the Directory, whose members came-They are eager to get rich, they are moved; Buonarroti is arrested with Babeuf, despite the protection of Carnot, and deported to Pelée Island near Cher-

In 1806 he obtained permission to settle in Geneva under police surveillance; there founded a Masonic lodge with Marat's brother-nique, the Sincere Friends, affiliated with the Philadelphians. After 1815 he founded the group of Sublime Perfect Masters. Expelled from Geneva In 1823, he went to preach socialism in Brussels.

After 1830, Buonarroti returned to France and

THE FOREIGN INVASION IN 1789 119

takes an active part in the revolutionary unrest—Mr. Mathiez considers him one of the founders of the socialist party in France (1).

Cérutti, originally from Turin, was a great
A friend of Mirabeau. He collaborated with Rabaud.
St. Etienne at the Village Newsletter. He made enough of services to the revolutionary cause so that His name was given to the street which is called actually on rue Laffitte. Cérutti was not supposed to, moreover not to be very bloodthirsty, judging by his Works: Poem on the Game of Chess, Apology of the Jesuit Order, Funeral Oration for Mirabeau, etc.

The Venezuelan Miranda owed his success to the protection of England's rapid advancement in the art—French Revolution at the beginning of the Revolution: Pétion and Brissot admitted it.

He held very progressive views; that is he who denounced his general to the Convention in Chief, Dumouriez. His attitude at Neerwinde appeared suspicious to several officers and was charged with treason (2) without proof having been able to be done. Robespierre declared in April

(1) A. Marurez: Robespierrist Studies, t. I.

Rosrquet: Buonarrotti. Hamet: History of Robespierre, p. 298 et seq.

(2) Memoirs of Thibaudeau, vol. I, p. 14. See also Prapart: History of Belgium.

1793: "Stengel, German aristocrat and Miranda, a Spanish adventurer, employed by Pitt, betrayed us at the same time 3 Aix-la-Chapelle and in Maastricht." However, Miranda was He was acquitted and crowned with flowers. Shortly afterwards he was arrested again for being anti-Girondins. Released on 9 Thermidor, he was outlawed. on the 18th of Fructidor, he took refuge in England. What- Some time later, Miranda is found in Paris; He was arrested during the attack on the municipal China. As soon as he was released, he deemed it safer to settle in America. Having returned to Paris under the Consulate, he was expelled by the police as Pitt's agent. He founded in America, a Masonic lodge where this minister conveyed his advice through.

Miranda. | |

Salicetti denounced him as an agent of the Angleland; according to the Duchess of Abrantes, Napoleon I" believed him to be a spy for Spain and Angleland at the same time (1).

Miranda died in prison in Cadiz in 1816 (2). | |

Frédéric Gentz, author of revolutionary pamphlets lutionaries, had put his pen at the service

(1) Memoirs of the Duchess of Abrantès, t. I, p. 290.

(2) O'Kazx ps Gatwar: Miranda.

HAS"

THE FOREIGN INVASION OF 1789 421

fairly well paid from Prussia, from Angleland and Austria. At the age of sixty He fell madly in love with Fanny Essler and her passion for the famous artist earned Gentz a certain Rebmann, a German journalist affiliated with enlightened, settled in Paris at the beginning of the Revolution resolution and enters the magistracy.

Can Lebrun Tondu be counted among the Foreigners? That's debatable. Dictionaries teaches us that Lebrun, statesman French, was born in Noyon. Only all the foreigners who participated in the Revolution are generally referred to as French statesmen. In Noyon it is impossible to find any trace of the Lebrun family and some of his His contemporaries called him a Liège native (2). He was alternately clergyman, soldier, deserter, im-primeur, tutor in Belgium, mathematician-citizen and journalist. The Girondins estimated that practicing so many different trades was a good preparation for a ministerial career; they entrusted him with the business portfolio foreign, then the Ministry of War.

When he lived in Liège, Lebrun Tondu began-

(8) André Beaunren: Faces of Women.

(2) Svsez: History of Europe, p. 445, t. I.

122 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

having achieved considerable success in journalism, he entered into talks with the Austrian government who offered to take him on as a medium-time employee one hundred pistoles a year. But Lebrun refused nobly, to sell one's pen for less than one hundred louis per year X1). Once in power He showed himself to be rather moderate, conspiring with Du-died and tried to save Louis XVI. Is it for this reason he was guillotined in December 1793, or-for having charged Desfieux with interceding-ter the Jacobin dispatches (2)? History Don't say it.

Can we also consider Fran-Hassenfratz, described as a German chemist by several authors (3)? One of the members the most violent of the Commune, Hassenfratz was chief clerk to Pache, minister of the

Another name. Appointed supplier to the armed forces
He was thus able to restore his finances.

Hassenfratz directed the Journal of Sciences;

[4

Under the Empire, he became a professor at the poly-technical.

ee

(1) Correspondence of WA Miles, p. 34.

(2) See above, page 100.

= (8) Among other things, Reronarpt: A Prussian in France,
p. 190.

THE FOREIGN INVASION IN 1789 ' 123

J. Conrad de Cock, editor of the Sans-culotie Batave has two homes not counting the Hol-moor; in Passy he is an aristocrat and gives dinners where wine is drunk, offered, it is said, by the British government. In the center of Paris He is a revolutionary and belongs to the section d'Hébert. Guillotined during the Reign of Terror, he left a son more famous than him, Paul de Cock, who claims to have saved his mother, at the age of ten months, smiling at Fouquier Tinville (x).
But Paul de Cock had a lot of imagination nation!

Westermann asserts that Conrad de Cock and His friends sacrificed 420,000 ae for the cause of freedom.

The German shoemaker Wilcheritz, friend Robespierre is the prison administrator of Luxembourg; perpetually drunk, he was guillotined after 9 Thermidor.

It was yet another German who presided in 1789

Christian Vollmar, son of the elector's coachman from Mainz, jump first into the citadel conquered by the riot. One of its citizens

(1) Leroux Cessron: People and things of yesteryear.

(2) Historical Review. December 1915. a of MR Raves.

124 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

Weber, a man named, was a distributor of brochures. seditious ideas and helped to spread them; the police seized a large number of them at his home on January 8th 1790. |

Pio, the Neapolitan, former chargé d'affaires of King of the Two Sicilies, contributes to the Journal of the Montagne, is employed at the Town Hall as "Commissioner for emigrant papers."

Then he runs the passport office, situation very lucrative during periods of proscription. Finally. He joins the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

Pio held court at the Good Children's Club. According to Nicolas de Bonneville was receiving money foreign courts and he inspired the articles of Marat and the speeches of Robespierre (1).

A Dutchman, Pastor Maron, a friend of Ron-sin dedicates the Protestant temple of Paris.

Belgian Goemars denounces the monarchists to the general security committee.

The American Smith is sent to Basel by the Committee of Public Safety, with a mission financial.

His fellow citizen Oswald leaves his young wife at the beginning of the Revolution to come and fight in France under the flag of liberty, he wrote numerous revolutionary brochures in verse and prose. He is called colonel of artillery-Lerie, then on Paine's recommendation, He is tasked with a secret mission in Ireland-of (1). Oswald was one of the founders of the Monthly Chronicle, Girondin newspaper. During 'during a stay in India he had converted to Buddhism-- dhism; he gave Mee dinners which astonished the Parisians.

(1) A. Marais: The Revolution and foreigners, page 154.

.

The German Creutz, better known as Curtius had founded a museum of figures wax, very popular with elegant society. Curtius is among the victors of the _ Bastille.

Mayor Fleuriol was from Brussels. J.-Ch.-F. Hoffmann, born in Kosteim near Mainz, became lieutenant colonel in our national guard. The Swiss P.-E.-J. de Rivaz was a lieutenant Colonel as well. The Genevan F.-I. Sauter was appointed general in 1793 (2).

E. Oelsner, the Silesian, confidant of Sieyès and linked with the leaders of the Constitutional Assembly killer, was the Minerva correspondent

(1) Foreign Office Archives. London, V. 587.

(2) G, Dumonr: National Volunteer Battalions in 1791.

126 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

by Archenholz (1). His friend Halem, original German, settled in France in 1790, attended at the meetings of the Jacobins and the Social Circle. His fellow citizen, Professor I.-H. Campe, installed in Paris after July 14th, abandonment-taking over the management of the Philanthropinum of Des-

Sau, a famous educational establishment. : It takes his student Guillaume with him Humboldt and wrote enthusiastic panegyrics of the French Revolution.

The Swiss Devalot donates 6,000 pounds for the revolutionary movement. The notables of Genoa I see they are offering 900,000 to the Constituent Assembly.

While the English poet Wordsworth frequents the clubs, his fellow citizen Astley ins-Temple Boulevard, an amphitheater equestrian. The Bal des Chaumières belonged to Tinkson, the Englishman.

The composer Reichardt, director of the Opera-Ra from Berlin, came to Paris in 1791 and 1792, he demonstrates his admiration for the movement revolutionary.

Merck, a Bavarian lieutenant in the army Austrian, joined the French army in November 1792. The American J.-K. Eustace makes

(1) Revolutionary Annals. April 1918. Albert Marutcz:
The pilgrims of freedom.

THE FOREIGN INVASION IN 1789 427

the Vendée Wars and obtained the rank of field marshal. The Spanish Marchena collaborates with Marat, conspires with Miranda, then turns to the royalist side, after having worked to Girondin propaganda with his fellow citizen Hevia, former embassy secretary.

Prince Stroganoff is working towards the revolution under the name Otcher. Secretary of the club of

A friend of the law, he attends the sessions of the Jacobins (1). |

He joined the revolutionary police. denounces, among other things, his fellow citizen, the ban-Quier Herries, employed by Pitt in Paris. He pre-tends that by also searching at Walkiers and Langendongue, bankers from Brussels, he it would be easy to prove their relationship with the British government

The Germans Cotta, Dorsch, G. Kerner, We-Dekind, etc., meet on rue de la Jussienne, under the chairmanship of explorer G. Forster, to get involved in politics. Grenus from Geneva, Proly's friend, is in correspondence with the agents of the Austrian government. The Count Poroni came from Italy to do propaganda revolutionary in Paris, is denounced to the Convention tion as a foreign agent; he disappears then suddenly and returns to his country. His fellow citizen Marino, a police officer from the Commune, was "driven by a genuine thirst" of blood (1). He was arrested at the same time than Hébert and Dobsen.

| (1) A. Marurzz: The Revolution and Foreigners, p. 28.

428 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

Is it chance that brings together such a large number of people in Paris?

number of foreigners eager to change the form-me from the French government? Or is there no not a cleverly organized plan by a pou-see occult P Under the orders of chiefs: intelli-People are manipulating obscure mercenaries. remembers the leading role played in latta-_than the Tuileries by the Marseilles battalion. Was it, as Mr. Aulard writes, composed of Young people from good families? Judging by Based on his attitude and actions, it's quite in-Likely. Taine, Blanc Gilly, L. Lautard, etc., claim that this battalion comprised 516 adventurers, handpicked one by one: Spaniards, Italians, Levantines, whose mayor, Mouraille, was well

At the time, Peyron would go to Geneva to recruit the twelve most notorious terrorists of this republic |

(1) A. Somminr: Paris during the Revolution, according to reports from the secret police.

wf,

THE FOREIGN INVASION IN 1789 429

than to bring them to Paris (1). Once their The task completed, on August 10th, they wanted to...
to see these terrible soldiers at the border; but They declared that they preferred to return to Marseille. In the face of this courage, the council ministers had them vote congratulations for their patriotism and bravery (session of the 14th) September 1792).

In the War in the Vendée, the republican armies blicaines contain a large number of "Bel-ges, Batavians, negroes and hunted adventurers expelled from their countries for crimes (2). » In Nantes, in 1793, the troop known as the American Hussars, consists of blacks and mulattoes. They gives the women to be shot and they use it to the fullest extent. raving for their pleasures. In the Vendée, the legion Germans shoot the women in groups twenty-five and finishes them off with 4 blows from the butt (1).
For such a task, the government of the Republic feared it would not find
French |

In Quiberon, according to secret memoirs d'Allonville, the Republican soldiers refused

(1) General Danroan: The brigands unmasked.

(8) Mémoires de Puisaye, p. 411.

(3) Tarn: The French Revolution, vol. III, p. 376 and following.

130 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

to shoot the unarmed prisoners to whom they had promised to spare their lives. An appeal was then made to Belgians (1).

Isn't it comforting for the French to all parties in power are projecting onto foreigners Gers most of the crimes that dishonor the Revolution !

A number of police officers had the em- the "sheep" mentality, meaning they were playing in prisons the role of agents provocateurs, and made the prisoners talk for the then denounce. This profession was generally entrusted to foreigners (2).

Not only did they occupy the stands of our assemblies, but they mingled with deputies, so that one wondered if they They didn't vote at the same time as them. Malouet, having once proposed holding the event behind closed doors for the important deliberations, Volney replied "Foreigners have the right to see everything and to We need to hear everything so we can appreciate if we Let's remain true to our mandate.

At the end of September 1790, the foreigners re- were ordered to withdraw from the Assembly, but They found ways of not always obeying.

(1) L. Gastinne: The beautiful Tallien.

(2) Memoirs of Mlle de Coigny (introduction).

`~

THE FOREIGN INVASION IN 1789 131

The government was itself Overrun by foreigners. During the Reign of Terror. was organized in Paris by the Swiss Marat, at Lyon by the Italian Châlier, in Strasbourg by The German Schneider, the Swiss occupied the Ministry of Finance. Once in power, Pache created the purchasing directorate, responsible for All military supplies: the directors were the Swiss Bidermann and Marx Beer, son of a Jew well known for his scams. agents were Simon Pick and Mossemann (of Brussels), Perlan and Carpentier (of Ostend), and the Cerf Beer brothers. This was the beginning of | the disorganization of the army. Some criticisms those who questioned the evidence I have data from this disorganization (in history) (from General Dumouriez), I point out to them the volume-recent me from MA Chuquet on Dumouriez (1).

The Swiss Castella was in the offices at the time from the Ministry of War; his compatriot Ni-the keel was a member of the general safety committee rale. | | The Foreign Minister said French, but many people accused him of being Belgian; in any case, among our diplomats, we

(1) A. Cauquer: Dumouriez, pages 150 and following.

132 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

noted in 1794, the English spy Baldwin, the Italian swindler Rotondo, the Prussian Forster, the Swiss Jeanneret and Schweitzer, the Englishman Thomas Christie, the Belgian Dubuisson, the American Cain Oswald, the German Reinhard, the Swiss J.-I. Clavière (of Geneva), brother of the Minister of finance, the Prussian Cloots, the Austrian Proly. The Belgian Robert would have had, without the protests de Dumouriez, the embassy of Vienna or of Petersburg. Pereira received in Brumaire year II, a mission from the Ministry of Foreign Affairs-res in Northern France. |

Bidermann from Geneva was treasurer of the mid-Ministry of Foreign Affairs. Fortunately, the introducer of the ambassadors was a Fran-Pigeot, a former notary who was once convicted to twenty years of hard labor.

The foreign revolutionaries were, moreover... they were so comfortable at home in Paris that they had finished by imagining himself to be French. Marat said one to let foreigners live in their own countries; we de-They should cut off their ears and let them bleed.

a few days, then cut off their heads (1). » Whereupon, General Ward timidly asked him to observe that he himself, Marat, was a foreigner.

(1) Conway: Paine (Rabbe 1900), p. 277.

THE FOREIGN INVASION IN 1789 133

The majority of French politicians had ties to the cosmopolitan union 'who was leading the events. Thus, Chabot is a puppet whose spies Emmanuel and Junius

Frey pulls the strings. Brissot, who owes...

money to everyone in London, he wrote in the Courrier de l'Europe, owned by English Swinton. Rewbel is the businessman of two German princes. Basire has a mistress named Mrs. > d'Aelders, a secret agent of the Prussian government-His. Noël, friend of Danton, Inspector General of public education, is the son-in-law of a ban-Belgian quier. Drouin is an agent of the Prince of Wittenberg. Hérault de Séchelles is the lover of the sister of an Austrian officer and betrayed to to Austria's advantage the secrets of the Sa- committee public lut (1). Westermann who had been chased twice from Paris for theft, passes for being purchased ted by the Prussian government (2). Soulavie, diplomatic agent in Switzerland, writes to Robes-Pierre, whom Keller points out as a "very good patriot"
"mann as sold to the Emperor (3)."

(1) Robespierre's notes for St-Just's report.
Hammer: Robespierre, t. III, p. 453.

(2) L. Mapetin: The Revolution. See session of the Con-Convention, December 23, 1792. Brr&: Journal of a Bourgeois from Paris, t. TI, p. 126.

@) Robespierre's papers. Buomzz and Roux, vol. XXXV, p.

Rabaut St-Etienne admitted that the Jacobins were under foreign influence. He wrote to
At the time of the Champ de Mars massacre: "We cannot hide the fact that money has been spilled and that the seditious influence came from outside

(1). »

Robespierre accused Lebrun Tondu of being vendue to Austria while Brissot was sold to England. But the Committee of Public Safety accused so many people that he owed something to One can be mistaken. Thus, we find a statement claiming that Hoche is a traitor. This de-
The announcement is signed Collot d'Herbois, Robespierre, Carnot, Billaud-Varennés and Barère.

The Revolutionary Annals of July 1914 signaled an accusation, accompanied by precise details, against the conventional Antoine Guerber; Gugenthal, former Prussian officer having entered the service of France, claims that Guerber addressed to Professor Weber in Strasbourg letters addressed to Generals Wurmser and Kalgstein; the Prussians and the Austrians were thus kept informed of everything that was happening

(1) Correspondence of Rabaut St-Etienne. Revolution French, Volume XXXV. Letter of July 17, 1791. A. MATHIEZ: The Revolution and foreigners, p. 121.

as" ri Tue p, E ae ER D, API, | ir, A, METRE, PR, nn S f=. peg J" NO e, EA narma a G ey,

THE FOREIGN INVASION IN 1789. 135

Vadier, president of the Convention, was passing through the Convention. Convention and the General Security Committee, claims that Fabre d'Eglantine is the principal Pitt's agent (1).

We will return to this point later.

(1) A. TOURNIER: Vadier, chairman of the safety committee general, p. 110. |

CHAPTER VII

AUSTRIA

In 1789, France and Austria were allies; but while the ruling families among— maintain friendly relations, the men Austrian states are anti-French. France, at the "twilight of the monarchy", is an obstacle key to the projects of almost all powers, and in particular to the partition of Poland. Kaunitz, who hated our country, was, according to Mr. Gustave Bord, the promoter of the alliance because that he "hoped to take advantage of it solely for the benefit of Austria. His successor Thugut had a blind hatred against France (1).

The death of Joseph II loosened the ties between the two monarchies. Mercy Argenteau wrote Kaunitz (2): "The new monarch and the queen hardly knows each other, and they have...

(1) G. Born: Around the Temple, vol. I, p. 134 et seq.
(2) 10 Mare 1790.

AUSTRIA 437

always marked with rather little inclination towards one for the other one." Indeed, Marie Antoinette had not He hasn't seen his brother since he was ten years old.

In 1789, Austria appeared quite foreign manages the revolutionary movement; the only Austrian who takes an active part in the events nements is the natural son of Kaunitz, the count Proly (or Prohli) (1). The Freys are more Israelite— lists than Austrians, and their role would be explained through Freemasonry. Nevertheless, it is somewhat nearly demonstrated that they were spies in the service from Austria; they were probably bribed also by Prussia (2).

At the beginning of the unrest, fomented by the Angle-land and Prussia, as we shall prove In the future, Austrian policy cannot It's hardly revolutionary. Mercy Argenteau was outraged by the campaign against Marie-An-toinette. "One cannot," he wrote, "assign the causes of the frenzy that has gripped the es-taken against the Queen. The absurdities that were said to her imputes and to which common sense is repelled, do not may be the only reasons. It is necessary that Some secret cabal may have given rise to it.

(1) His name is sometimes spelled Proli.

(2) Viscount pz Bonazn, F. CHABOR: National Archives.
F. 7, 4637.

138 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

Soon, Mercy Argenteau points out to the em-fear that France, preoccupied with its internal divisions internal issues will not be able to intervene for a long time. in European affairs. The government Austria then remained the ally of Louis XVI.
How to have your hands free in Poland and in Türkiye. It was said in Vienna that if the emperor-reur followed his inclination, he would "provide ten a thousand men to a democratic army and to-"as much as an aristocratic army (1)."

But in 1792, the alliance was broken and the war-declared. From then on, Austria wanted to save the royal family and above all to stifle the revolutionary heartland-a revolutionary idea that could spread to neighboring countries. She would take the opportunity to have an honest brokerage; Mercy, who had always been a friend of France, drafts a plan for dismemberment in which Austria's share would be the next: The Netherlands would be extended to the Somme. From the sources of this river, the front-tière would join the Meuse near Sedan or Mézières. Alsace and Lorraine would return to the empire. France would be "reduced to impotence-sance for the rest of the centuries (2)." (2) Correspondence of Mercy Argenteau, published by Flammermont. Letters to Thugut, June 15 and July 12, 1798.

AUSTRIA 439

The worsening of our problems therefore served the plans of the Vienna cabinet and he favored them, with less activity, however, than Prussia and England.

The role of Proly, Kaunitz's natural son (1), It remains quite enigmatic: Why does he fixate on it? in Paris, like so many foreigners in 1789 and fre- Does he count the principal Jacobins (2)? Lodged First at the Freys', Proly infiltrated the committees, collaborates with Barère and Hérault de Scales, and gives his opinion in the offices of Minister of Foreign Affairs (3). Council of Lebrun Tondu, he is tasked by him with various diplomatic missions. He founded a fifty- a string of popular clubs. Robespierre was saying to Jacobin Club (November 1793): "The goal Proly's goal is to turn everything upside down and lose the – Jacobins. He is impregnable, like his principals. complicit parties who are mostly bankers English, Prussians, Austrians. » |

Having made some speculations on the Stock Exchange Happy, Proly led a joyful life. After the Upon the death of Louis XVI, he turned to the side of the opposition.

(1) His mother was a first cousin of Anarcharissis Cloots.
(2) He then founded a newspaper, the Cosmopolite.

= (8) Buomez and Roux: Parliamentary History, vol. XXXI,
| p. 875 et seq. AVENEL: Anarcharis Cloots.

440 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

Revolutionaries. A companion of pleasure, the Count of Champgrand, having made him do the in the gang of the notorious conspirator. He pretends then with Champgrand a trade bleaux. Nevertheless, in March 1793, at the time where Dumouriez begins to threaten the Con-

In the event, Proly is sent with Pereyra and Du-Buisson will ask the general for an account of his attitude. Marat declares that he has well deserved to homeland. But on 9 Nivôse, year II, Proly was decreed arrest. Elusive at home, he spends his 4 evenings playing at Mme de Ste-Amaranthe's.
"The most thorough search was carried out in this house, say the committee agents Hello everyone; we found nothing there.
Report 4: Our Mission. Citizen Ste-Amaranthe stated that she did not know Proly nor neither directly nor indirectly (1). » The seals -are placed in the apartment on Rue des Filles St-Thomas, loaned or rented by Desfieux 4 Proly, On 18 Nivêse, the supervisory committee voted 200 books to cover the costs incurred by the search for Batz's accomplice. After a long time two members of the committee of research having entered the 30th of Pluviôse into the au-

(1) National Archives, F. 7, 2774.

AUSTRIA 144

bank of Petit-Cerf, 4 Vandereau (Seine-et-Oise), To cool off, they discover Proly in disguise. as a cook. Immediately arrested, Kaunitz's son is led 4 to the Force prison. Hérault de Sé-Chelles tearfully demands the freedom of its accomplice; indeed Proly, instructed, it is said, by Hérault de Séchelles of everything that was happening at Committee of Public Safety (1), transmitted the news velles to the Austrian government.

His intervention failed, but Collot d'Her-Bois was more skillful and obtained his release. de Proly, Desfieux and Rutledge, agents of the An-England (October 1793) (2). Arrested a second
A few months later, Proly was convicted-Born and died on March 24, 1794.

The national archives have preserved with de Proly on the Red Sea actions, the company of the East India Company, etc., but no trace remains from his political correspondence.

The Austrian government talks with Dumouriez during the Belgic campaign. The negotiations are well known. The court of Vienna later began with Robespierre.

(1) Hamer: History of Robespierre, p. 458.

(2) A. Marazet: Was Hérault de Séchelles a Dantonist? (Revolutionary Annals, July 1914).

142 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

secret negotiations through Montgaillard. A strapping fellow. Barthélemy's papers attest to it, but reveal no details (1). As for the Montgaillard's memoirs, they are a little suspicious because they sometimes distort the truth. But there is reason to believe that Montgaillard was Robespierre's representative when he was received by Francis II, in April 1794. M. Cl. de Lacrosse (2) observed that it was necessary "to be well informed of the motives to determine the emperor to receive a character whose rank and origins might have seemed suspicious to him." It was at about the same time as The Incorruptible entered into contact with the emissaries of Louis XVIII (3). Perhaps there is a link between these various negotiations.

After the death of Louis XVI, Austria did not have a common cause with Europe in the fight against the Revolution. It is the result of confidences from Hirsinger and the correspondence of Jean-Étienne Hérault, diplomatic agent in Switzerland, the proof that the Vienna cabinet has in France "some men so skillful that they are believed to be the most zealous

(1) Letter from Barthélemy to Buchot, August 30, 1794.

(2) Memoirs of the Count of Montgaillard published by Cl. DE LACROIX.

(3) Review of the Revolution. 1888, p. 194. Article by MG

AUSTRIA 143

Republicans. From one exaggeration to another, we will achieve its goal, which is to destroy the Convention by the people and by itself in the division health. We destroyed the constitutionalists by the Girondins, then the Gi- were driven to ruin logs. To overthrow this party and that of Orléans, The Vienna cabinet did the most astonishing things sacrifices" (1). |

This is exactly the tactic used by Jean de Batz. | |

Minister Thugut said: "What is essential? The essential point is that there are parties in France that "They fight and weaken each other." (2).

In summary, Austria should not be included among the hidden authors of the French Revolution; but she is actively working on the counter-revolution. It is permitted, however, to be- to highlight his indifference towards the information Tunis prisoners of the Temple (3).

(1) Papers of Barthélemy. Letter from Jeanneret to Deforgues. February 19, 1794.

(2) Sorel, vol. III, p. 329.

(3) See on this point: Ménard: History of the Directory. and Count d'Hérissou: Around a Revolution.

CHAPTER VIII

PRUSSIA

The French have often been deluding themselves. They believed themselves admired and loved when they were not on Europe's feelings towards them: they philosophers for Prussia in the 18th century is the result of one of these illusions. Frederick II flattered because they were preparing for the Revolution desired by Europe.

The alliance of the two great Catholic nations which displeased the Protestant powers. Prussia wanted to expand its territory in Germany, and she was plotting the partition of protected Poland—managed by France. By intervening in our business, she may have had a third objective: the replacement of Louis XVI by the Duke of Brunswick.

The Berlin cabinet judged that in order to confuse France with Austria, the most

PRUSSIA | | 145

The simple thing was to stir up public opinion in Paris against Marie Antoinette. This role was entrusted to the Jew. Ephraim, whom we will talk about a little later. As the Marquis de Mous—observed third, behind Ephraim is the embassy—deur Von der Goltz whom Mirabeau called "the end, cunning, very self-centered and greedy; money is his dominant passion.

Several years before the Revolution, Ver—Gennes had already warned Louis XVI that the baron Goltz was the head of Prussian espionage. Charged by his sovereign with breaking up the household of Louis XVI, Goltz had tried unsuccessfully to provide a mistress for the king (1). Having failed In this negotiation, he maintains public opinion against Marie Antoinette, subsidized in Paris revolutionary newspapers, and distributes money to French politicians (2).

Freemasonry had prepared the ground to accept German influence. In 1789 the The movement was well underway and minds were... stirred up against "the Austrian woman." The next day—hand of the storming of the Bastille by gangs composed mostly of Germans,

(1) P. p'Esrrfs: The grand master of espionage. (Nouvelle Revue, February 15, 1918).

(2) National Archives, A. F" 45.

The French Revolution. 10

446 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

Von der Goltz considers July 14th as a Prussian victory (1). From time to time he sends to Berlin the articles paid for by him in newspapers that supported the ideas of the New Age vellees, and proves that "Prussia, thanks to its generous diplomacy, perhaps considered com-" "me, the best protector of the Revolution" (2). Camille Desmoulins, in the history of Brissotins claimed that the right side of the The Convention was led by an Anglo-Prussian. He pointed out the following assertion of Phélippeaux: "The expenses of the King of Prussia" last year (1792), counted six million of crowns for corruption in France" (3).

Barère also said to the Convention, "The mou-: the garment from which we are threatened belongs in London, Madrid, Berlin" (4).

The Prussian agents seem much fewer in number than those of England; Only two played a significant role.

/

(1) Correspondence of Von der Goltz, edited by Flammormont, p. 130.

(2) See the article by MG Gauruerot in PUnivers du November 4, 1913.

(3) Buomez and Roux. Parliamentary History, vol. XXVI, p. 289.

(4) Ibid., vol. XXVII. Session of May 31st.

!
|

PRUSSIA 447

Ephraim and Anacharsis Cloots; the latter...
He also said he was estranged from his country.
Ephraim is the central figure in the entire conspiracy against Marie Antoinette; he launches attacks against her the first pamphlets, after having collaborated successfully in the necklace case. Agent of the Rosicrucian Freemasons, he had been introduced in the French political world through the embassy sadeur Von der Goltz who introduced him to the cons-first-team players, then at Girondins. Little by little Ephraim forms alliances with Marat, St. Huruge, and Carra.
Rotondo and Gorsas; he frequents the clubs and there

– shows extreme violence. "There is no sort of remarks, wrote the Marquis de Moustiers, am-A bassist in Berlin, let Ephraim not dare against the Queen; I am almost certain He's throwing money around, and I know he's getting it.

"considerable sums of money held by bankers."

Fersen wrote to Gustav III: "There is no Ephraim has been receiving 600,000 pounds for a long time.

that it provides for revolutionary propaganda"

(1). It was widely suspected in Paris that Ephraim was a secret agent of the Ber- government linen, since diplomatic correspondence report to the French ambassador that "Mrs.

(1) See @. Borp. The Revolutionary Conspiracy of
1789, p. 191.

Ephraim will make it easier for him to see Bischofswerder and even the King of Prussia (1).

In 1790, the Berlin cabinet was so happy from the services of Ephraim, that he appoint him deputy at Pambassade with apparent mission to take care business matters. Soon the skillful Is-Raelite writes 4 Berlin: "The first members members of the National Assembly are so inclined to the Prussian friendship that one might ask for in "This moment is everything we could want." A little Later he added: "The Jacobin Club is completely devoted to Prussia" (2).

The explanation for this great sympathy lies in... would she be in the letter where Ephraim speaks of the sums sent by the Prussian government his own to Choderlos de Laclos, right-hand man of Philippe Equality? It is not without interest to quote the main passages of this letter which proves: 1° that the leaders of the Revolution were bribed by the King of Prussia; 2° that in demanding reforms, we had the hope of... to see it refused by Louis XVI, and thus to aggravate – revolutionary fervor.

Ephraim to Laclos, April 22, 1791 (3):

(1) Archives of Foreign Affairs. Berlin, 1700.

(2) Von der Goltz's correspondence, p. 138.

(3) National Library, L. b. 39, 9888.

PRUSSIA 149

"You are desperate," I was told, "to have I missed your last venture. I believe it. It cost us a lot of money, and in this These days, we can't be too careful with him. Such at least these are the intentions of King Frederick-William, my master...

I had counted on the King not sending back all of a sudden the priests of his chapel and that, that way, we would still find some way to make them shout at him. Not at all, he... This sends it back, and we're still the ones being fooled. This man is impregnable; from whatever side one would have calculated to find a man on the throne who sacrifices all his personal pleasures to the tranquility of his people?...

By the decrees there were still some kind people left-Men of the chamber. We had already arranged to cause yet another beautiful and good riot. I thought we could to succeed that way; he anticipated the move, he sent it back his gentlemen and leaves us short with all our projects.

Our situation was brilliant for what-
For hours, I even thought that your kind
The boss would replace his cousin; but current-
My hopes are no longer the same...

150 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

All I like is that we have This shock caused Lafayette to lose his way, and that's already a lot.

Our 500,000 francs are spent very little Unnecessarily, that's what I find most important. unfortunate; we will not have every day of such sums at our disposal and the
The King of Prussia will tire of providing the money...
We must arm ourselves with courage, wait for what will happen.
_will have done the letters we sent in all departments. If they succeeded in
'to raise up and to incite, then we will have good game... If, on the contrary, they haven't done anything, I I think we'll have to give up the game...

PS I've just learned that the guard doesn't want to Letting go of his general. This blow devastates me.
Hurry and assemble the council and make-
"Let me know the time."

It was only in January 1791 that
The French government seems to be concerned.
Ephraim's actions. A letter, entirely-written entirely in the hand of Mr. de Montmorin, charged the Marquis de Moustiers with making A Beran investigation into this disturbing Israelite who in the most criminal manner... I was reminded-

I have quoted him saying things that I do not allow myself to say.

PRUSSIA 151

I'm not going to report them because they are too atrocious.... This schemer sought to link up with the people whose zeal for the Revolution makes it more receptive to listening to it. Its purpose is to compromise ourselves with the emperor; he thought that by stirring up passions against the Queen, he could achieve it more easily.
(1). |

Moustier could find nothing better for this
The investigation involves questioning Ms. Ephraim. which at first glance seems rather naïve. admits (February 10, 1791) that he was unable to do it by-Jer. However, she said in the conversation that if Bischofswerder were far away, she would not know-to whom would she give her husband's letters? the King of Prussia.

Regarding new complaints from Mr. de Montmorin, the Marquis de Moustiers replied on February 28th Friday: "Ephraim has a reputation here as a "Intriguing, yet always ready to disavow." Finally, on April 13th, he wrote: "I cannot defend against the suspicion that the Prussian court is long preoccupied with the desire to maintain-
To cause trouble among us...

I know, from his wife's confession, that Ephraim boasted of rendering great services to

(1) Archives of Foreign Affairs. Berlin, v. 212

152 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

king; that he feared several times to run from major risks...

If one had a tendency to believe in evil on
On the surface, one might believe he was authorized to to act as he does... »

did not easily believe in evil; his functions—nor were they; thus Moustiers concluded by rejecting the idea that Ephraim acted on orders of his government (1). Then he proposed a Franco-Prussian rapprochement, in order to de—to play on England's treacherous maneuvers (2). This time he saw clearly when he suspected England to lead events.

From that time onwards, the French court was so Disarmed, Marie Antoinette addresses Blu-Miendorf to ask him to have Kaunitz act at—near the King of Prussia in order to stop the machinations of Ephraim. We also read in the correspondence diplomatic conference in Moustiers (May 26)

"Count Goltz must have notified

Ephraim to be more circumspect...» A little more

Further on, the ambassador adds: "The king is moreover

"Moreover, under the influence of the Illuminati..."

Ephraim was the most active instrument of Fal—

(1) Archives of the Foreign Ministry. Berlin, y. 212. —

(2) same.

PRUSSIA 153

alliance of the Girondins with Bischofswerder, con—advisor to the King of Prussia (1). He was making a propa—a skilled advisor to Gensonné, Pétion and their friends (2).

Arrested following the Champ de Gaulle riot

In March, Ephraim was released two days later.

later, at the request of the ambassador of Prussia. What's curious is that the

The Viennese court declares itself ready to support this asks if it's necessary. The Marquis of Noailles observes that "this is one of the singularities without number of the moment" (3). Moreover, after the arrest of Louis XVI at Varennes, the governor

Austrian government, considering the monarch—

French dog, as if lost, began to

to get closer to Prussia.

Moustiers wrote on July 30th: "The Count of Goltz will receive orders to demand the enlargement—in my capacity as a dismissed agent. I was asked to make it known to you."

The research committee states that it has been

(1) Fr. Masson. The Department of Foreign Affairs during the Revolution, p. 102

(2) L. Kaun. The Jews of Paris.

(8) Archives of Foreign Affairs. Vienna, c. 862, August 6, 1791.

154 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

proceeded to a precise verification of the documents of Ephraim, "without understanding it nevertheless the documents relating to his correspondence with Sa Majesty the King of Prussia, which were reclosed in a particular portfolio."

Thus, a foreign agent is arrested for... so much unrest in Paris, and his correspondence with the Prussian government is not even Examined! That's quite extraordinary. Two One thing: Either he is covered by immunity diplomatic, and so how does it remain from the 28th Will he be in prison by July 30th? (1). Or is he considered as a spy, and so why do we respect | his political correspondence? Is it because Would that compromise too many people?

Despite this weakness, the revolutionaries they made a crime of Montmorin for daring to do arrest the Jew Ephraim, and in the opinion of Mr. Fr. Masson, this was one of the principal causes blades of the unfortunate minister's death (2). ,

By giving hope to Philippe Ega's friends a change of dynasty, Ephraim of-He would laugh at their gullibility. In reality, if he was preparing a candidacy, it was that of the duke

(1) According to some authors, it is from the 18th to the 20th.

(2) Fr. Masson. The Department of Foreign Affairs during the Revolution, p. 222.

PRUSSIA 155

of Brunswick. The plan to put this prince on the throne of France was not a joke de Carra, as some authors have appeared the believe. The beginnings of the negotiations are located at the Foreign Affairs archives. The group Frenchmen in the pay of Prussia were quite powerful for having taken an offensive step cielle with Brunswick from January 1792. It was then premature to offer him the crown, he was therefore offered the title of generalissimo of the French armies. He would have restored order was restored, and all the requested reforms were granted. ideas by the revolutionary party, and the day of the downfall of Louis XVI, would have been entirely ready to take his place. Minister Narbonne, Without the knowledge of Louis XVI, he therefore sent the young Custine to the Duke of Brunswick, one of the leaders of Prussian Freemasonry. The king was outraged when he was informed, but since on his return from Varennes he was completely disarmed. Custine steered the conversation towards "the importance of the role that could play a man of great character who knew to maintain order within France and the external considerations would become the support of a revolution that would no longer present anything but advantages, the idol of the French, the beneficence-author of posterity...»

156 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

After having obtained the word of honor from duke that what he was about to tell him would remain buried in eternal silence, "If the French nation-case, continues Custine, declared through the organ of its representatives than in the crisis of which it is threatened, only one man is by his glory talents, capable of fulfilling these high destinies born... and that this great man was you Mon-

"Lord, what would you answer us?"

Deeply moved as he uttered these words I saw that the Duke of Brunswick was also one.
"I recognize," he told me, "the grandeur of a pa-A strange idea... But what man will be presumptuous enough to dare to believe oneself to have the necessary strength "saires?" Then he added that he didn't know Enough of France... I handed him Mr.'s letter. from Narbonne. He was very moved by it; but he made me questions about the army and new objectives statements relating to the difficulty of success: "You You would even have a bad opinion of me if I I made a decision without having carefully considered it.
. bent » (1). |
The next day Brunswick replies that he sees

(1) Archives of Foreign Affairs. Berlin, v. 213.

PRUSSIA | 157

too many difficulties with the proposed solution: Public opinion, too fickle in France, the incompatibility of his personal position and family with the offer made to him, etc...
Custine insists without success: "This delicate tact, this profound knowledge of men and of French, all these nuances that you possess and which are necessary for the con-to drive, clearly prove to me that it is ve-It is in France that you are called by nature 4 come seeking immortal glory-such as this:

Despite the lack of enthusiasm of this pretender However, his candidacy was not dismissed. In the the week preceding the insurrection of August 10th, on the proposal of Manuel and Thuriot, the
The secret committee of the Jacobins approved the replacement the ceremony of Louis XVI, either by the Duke of York, either by the Duke of Brunswick, or by the Duke of Orléans (1). The throne becoming vacant after On August 10th, the Prussian prince's candidacy was officially put forward by Carra and his friends, no longer as commander-in-chief, but as King of France. Carra formerly condemned-a fairly good situation in the revolutionary world

(1) G. Bon. Around the Temple, I, p. 533.

158 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

revolutionary; six departments had argued the honor of sending it to the Convention.

Sieyes and Talleyrand rallied to this proposition (1); but Robespierre and Billaut Varrenne hastened to denounce to the Commune the plot in favor of Brunswick "that a powerful party wants to bring to throne" (2). They accuse Condorcet of being complicit of Carra, as well as Vergniaud, Brissot, Lasource, Ducos and Guadet. As moreover he 'There are two other candidates, the Duke of York, and the Duke of Orléans, it is impossible to... All right.

The war had begun, and Brunswick had launched his famous manifesto that we have represented as a major blunder due to the emigrants. Wasn't it, on the contrary, a Prussia's Machiavellian method for exas- to influence public opinion in Paris and consume the republic? What was the relationship between Louis XVI and the revolutionaries?

In the indictment against Brissot and Gensonné, we read this very true sentence: "Nothing so stupid that those who believe or would

(1) Legon. England and Emigration (Introduction).

(2) AvunaRp. Political History of the French Revolution çaise.

PRUSSIA 459

to make people believe that the Prussians want to destroy the Jacobins" (1).

Brunswick is counting on the French and never ceases to negotiate with the Jacobin emissaries. at the time of the Battle of Valmy, he could have crush Dumouriez's army, so inferior in number; he gives him time to receive reinforcements and supplies. After the battle, which is not very deadly, Dumouriez receives the formal order not to worry the retreat of the Prussians (2).

The lack of enthusiasm aroused in France by Brunswick's candidacy seemed to have completely abandoned the project Carra. Besides, this Prince distrusted the influence of his future subjects and the fate of Louis XVI had given him 4 to think about. We thought then to Prince Louis of Prussia who had always- Summer was pleasant in France. Sandoz, mid- The Prussian minister, writing in Paris in 1799, stated: "Ste-Foy, Talleyrand's confidant, kept me the following speech: The return of peace for- would depend on the restoration of a monarch-

CCS

- (1) National Archives, AF 1! 45. Carra report.
(2) The leader of the Prussian forces and the Jacobins, said Mr. Oscar Havanp, agreed to offer France and to Europe the sham of a battle."

160 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

constitutional police... The authorities and the said a part of the nation would not decide for a Bourbon. The votes are declared- would rather be for Prince Louis, son of Prince Ferdinand » (1).

Here is the explanation given by Albert Vandal of this project to replace the Bourbons by a Prussian dynasty: "A part of the The high-ranking revolutionaries imagined that by giving to a student of the great Frederick, to a The philosopher prince, the Revolution would make the most advantageous ends...

Some were thinking of a protector and would first bestow upon it a republican title" (2).

An unforeseen result of what Mr. Paul Bourget called it "The defeat of the democratic illusion—that » ! (3).

It is impossible to trace the origin of a third Prussian candidacy, that of the Prince Henry, but he was certainly questioned of him before Prince Louis, since Empress Catherine of Russia wrote to Grimm June 11, 1795: "There are people who claim—

(1) Lesson. England and Emigration. Preface, p. 27.

(2) The rise of Bonaparte, vol. I, p. 118 et seq.

(3) P. Bouncer. Testimonies of experience.

PRUSSIA 164

tooth that it is Prince Henry of Prussia that the regicides claim to appoint as regent Louis XVII when they reinstate him. If that is the case, I bet that in six months His Royal Highness "will be guillotined" (1).

One might wonder why a fine diplomat like Talleyrand was able to associate himself with this campaign of vulgar Jacobins that Ernest Renan thus describes "ignorant men and narrow-minded people who took the destiny of the France (2). Could he believe in the solidity of a Prussian dynasty in our country? Or Is the explanation to be found in the portrait? Mirabeau's ruthless outline of Talleyrand: "A vile, greedy, base, scheming man. He is..." the mud and the money he needs. For For money, he would sell his soul, and he would have raised his, because he would trade his manure for gold" (3). |

Presumably the campaign in favor of Brunswick was well paid in Carra and her friends; it would be difficult to explain it otherwise. As for Sieyès, he received the portrait of the king of

(1) Oh. de Larrivière. Catherine II and the Revolution French, p. 175.

(2) P. Lassenre. Ernest Renan.
... (3) BARTHOU: Mirabeau, p. 157.

The French Revolution.

162 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

Prussia, estimated at the rather exaggerated figure of 100,000 ecus (1).

Mallet du Pan quoted a word from Sièyes to pro-Post of these negotiations: "France needs a change of religion and dynasty" (2).

It should not be forgotten that the Masonic lodge-that the strict reformed Templar observance of Germany, to which the ma-The body of French parliamentarians had for Grand Master Duke Ferdinand of Brunswick.
Furthermore, the Scottish Rite adopted the motto in Berlin. This explains why the candidate-the Prussian prince's ture could have been taken at serious.

A fellow citizen of Ephraim also plays a role important in the French Revolution, the Baron Anacharsis Cloots that the suburbs observe They were calling Duck six. Prussian Jew, enjoying an income of over one hundred thousand pounds, very widespread in the political world, Cloots would nowadays be part of the "All of Paris" firsts.

He had started by traveling to ins-to destroy. He became acquainted in London with Burke, in Hol-

(1) Bucmez and Roux. Parliamentary History, t.
XXXVIII, p. 106.

(2) Lady BLENNERHASSET. Madame de Staël and her time,
p. 105.

Prince of Albania. Suddenly he discovered that Castriotti was a simple leader of brigands, condemned to death in absentia in his country. Having nearly been imprisoned along with his friend, 'Cloots ceased to concern himself with the 0- question They arrived in Paris in 1784. He began to pro- to deliver revolutionary speeches. It was premature, the upheaval not being in- core prepared; Also, Police Lieutenant Le- did black politely ask him to return to Prussia.

But at the time of the opening of the States generals, Anacharsis Cloots resettles in Paris, like all foreigners. Freemason As an activist, he is one of the promoters of the movement- anti-Catholic. He couldn't speak of a priest without immediately flying into a rage (1). Treatise by Marat and Camille Desmoulins de mouchard Berliner (2), he nevertheless acquired quite quickly-. wields a great influence thanks to its hundred a thousand pounds of income. Cloots took a share ac- tive to the preparation for August 10th, but in hom- He was warned and took care not to expose himself to blows. His eulogist, Avenel, recounts that he "launched

(1) Louis Brano. The French Revolution, vol. IX, p. 474.

(2) Come. Anacharsis Cloots, Ch. I.

164 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

his two sans-culotte servants in the flow insurrectionist. As for him, he ran to PAs- seemed to be only a stone's throw from the festival, maybe even to breathe in the smell of the pou- to undergo and receive the baptism of fire in the event that a A stray cannonball pierced the vault of the hall.

Having breathed in the smell of the pou- from a great distance Dr., he left the Assembly at the same time that Louis XVI and stood guard in the courtyard of the Riding School to prevent the king from being delivered.

The following night, Cloots returned to the helm of The Assembly, surrounded by Prussian federates, among whom we note Colonel Guer- resheim, and delivers a patriotic speech to the army.

With such an impressive service record, one does not is more surprised to see Cloots appointed as a member of parliament by the departments of Oise and Saône-et-Loire.

– He had already been tasked with the report of the comi-diplomatic and war-related matters (1). He became president of the Jacobin club at the time even where the decree against foreigners came to appear. He previously wrote to Dumoulaugh: "Crush the enemies from outside during

(1) National Archives, AD XVIII, 17.

PRUSSIA: 165

that I will crush the enemies from within" (x).
Dinant at Roland's place during the massa-In September, he approved the "revenge" popular" (2). Mrs. Roland observes that it He bored more than one listener with his speeches, but she makes no mention of any protest.

It is difficult to say whether Anacharsis Cloots
'was a direct agent of the Prussian government, or just a union employee the occult that was directing our Revolution. He said he was estranged from his country, but he was in correspondence with the Duke of Brunswick (3).

Was he crazy or was he posing for originality?
We don't know anything about that either.

One of the organizers of the goddess festival.
Reason at Notre-Dame, he goes one night with Pe-Reyra will wake up Bishop Gobel to persuade him-last to abjure. Calling himself "the orator of the genre "human," Cloots one day disguises vagrants bonds in Turkish, Indian, Persian, etc., and the brings us to the Convention to demand republicanism universal republic. We know the eloquent con-Conclusion of his famous speech: "My heart
"He is French, and my soul is sans-culotte."

Cloots had found a way to stop

- (2) De La Gorce: Histoire païe de la Révolution.
(3) National Archives, Fa 7, 4438.

466 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

the invasion of 1792: he proposed that the army French, bringing together the Prussians and the Austrians, "advanced towards them with a step of dance expressing friendship" (1). Unhappy—
The generals opposed this attempt.

Cloots, Paine and Robert, all three foreigners, They are the first to talk about a republic. while not a single Frenchman had even considered it. From the April 21, 1792, the orator of humankind made to the bar of the Assembly, the apology for this form of government.

Anacharsis Cloots worked actively to make to condemn Louis XVI to death. After January 21st In Friday, he wrote to a friend: "I would like to wash my hands are stained with the blood of the last tyrant. baptized in the blood of Louis XVI" (2).

Unfortunately, during the Terror, the po—The plurality of Anacharsis Cloots was demolished by Robespierre, who distrusted, he said, a non—trousers with an income of one hundred thousand pounds. Having he blurted out these words: "my disciple Robespierre forgets the lessons of his professor. "seur," he drew the following rebuke: "Cloots You spend your life with agents and spies. "_foreign powers." Already Brissot, after

(1) T. ne Wyzewa: Eccentrics and adventurers, p. 165.

(2) Riomrem: Cloots. This cutag, issued in Berlin, has not Not yet translated.

PRUSSIA 167

to have been his friend, he had written in Le Patriote French: A lot of wickedness, a mar—che variable, an unknown goal, here is Cloots (1).

dance vis-à-vis posing the proposal to reserve all the public charges only in francs masons (2). |

Cloots claims to have fought at the diplomatic committee matic "against the English faction which predominated." Nevertheless, he was arrested as Pitt's accomplice, along with Hébert, Ronsin, Chabot, Fabre d'Eglantine, Momoro, Chaumette and Gobel (3). They were planning, it was claimed, to give the dictatorship of the mayor of Paris, Pache.

The seals were placed at Cloots's house, the pa-
The suspects were separated; the trials-
The verbal descriptions list her entire wardrobe: twelve pairs of slippers, a shaving dish, seven bouclothing tones, a pair of sleeve buttons, etc. (4). Not a word of his correspondence with Prussia and England. Yet that would be interesting !

Cloots was condemned and guillotined.

(1) National Archives, AD XVIII I 17.

(2) F. Caussy: Choderlos de Laclos, p. 158.

(3) L. Mapeuin: The French Revolution.

(4) National Archives, F. 7, 2507, and F. 7, 4649.

168 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

A few other Prussians played in the
During the revolutionary period, he played a more subdued role.
Pastor Bitaubé, born in Königsberg, was a bed-A talented translator. His translation of Homer, some poems and various works, did so to arrive at the Berlin Academy. Méhul put in music, his poem by Joseph.

== We wonder why Bitaubé is located at Paris, at the beginning of the Revolution, member of the Jacobin club, living in the middle of Cerutti and Ximénes, often offering dinner to Robespierre.

Thursday evening with Chamfort and Helene Williams English enthusiast of the Revolution.

While French writers are pro-crits (1), it is proposed to the Convention to vote a boarding house in Bitaubé. Kéralio writes to him: "He Brissot, Carra, all your friends, you need have at the Convention, raise your voice for this act of justice" (2).

(1) Louis Blanc having attributed to the Revolution the glory

Having founded the Institute, it is worth recalling the creation of five academies established by Louis XIV: the French Academy, the Academy of Inscriptions and Belles-Lettres, the Academy of sciences, the Academy of Painting and Sculpture, and Academy of Architecture. They were all removed by the law of August 8, 1793, which Michelet and L. Blanc pass silenced. Almost all the academics were banished. See BrRé: Revolutionary Legends.

(2) National Archives, F. 7, 4601.

PRUSSIA 469

Arrested during the Reign of Terror, Bitaubé was handed over He was freed on 9 Thermidor. His political role is Little known, he must undoubtedly have collaborated with His Jacobin friends. A mysterious letter.
– shipped from London via Frankfurt, May 24 1793, seems to relate to revolutionary activities tionaires and expresses the hope that Bitaubé will include abbreviations. The other documents Information concerning him has disappeared from the archives.

Bitaubé became, in year VI, president of the Institut. |

The Baroness of Aelders, daughter of an innkeeper of Groningen, was a secret agent of the government-Prussian nement. In the last years of the During the reign of Louis XVI, she founded a club in Paris of revolutionary women, "the friends of the "Truth." Protected by Condorcet, Madame d'Aelders was of the last good with Basire, deputy from Dijon. This Jacobin was quite humane: he protests against the September massacres and delays the trial of the Girondins

"Refusing nothing to women" (1), it is probable that it was Mrs. d'Aelders who pushed him to attack-quer the king, the court, Lafayette, etc.

Arrested after the Champ de Mars riot,

(1) Great Encyclopedia. Article by Mr. Avrarp on Basire,

170 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

Mrs. d'Aelders was soon released, thanks to high influences. She was of new-calf imprisoned on 5 Messidor, year II, and the Seals were placed on the mezzanine where she lived. 11, rue Favart. The General Safety Committee gave the order to extract from his papers the cor-suspicious responses; the commissioners de- declare that they have placed the said papers "in a chair cover that we have secured, and we have affixed our committee's stamp to the two ends and had everything carried to our committee » (1). |

Unfortunately, these documents have disappeared. like all those of foreign agents.

G. Forster, son of a pastor from Danzig, accompanied Cook around the world, was a tour alchemist in turn, professor at the university of Vilna, and librarian at the University of Mainz. Rosicrucian Freemason, member of the Jacobin club of Mainz after the conquest of this city, a passionate admirer of the Revo-French translation, Forster was in correspondence dance followed with Lebrun-Tondu and some-one of our politicians. He announced, the June 5, 1792, the next overthrow of the royalty. In 1793, it was fixed at 4 Paris, taking the Word 4, the Convention, dines with Merlin of

(1) National Archives, F. 7, 4659.

de Canteleu, Rewbell, Lecointre, etc. |

He is appointed commissioner of the executive council. cutif in June 1793, and the Ministry of Foreign Affairs foreign powers entrusted him with two missions, in Flanders and in Franche-Comté (1).

A friend of Thomas Paine and Miss Williams, He became a counter-revolutionary after the Terreur, like his compatriot Adam Lux: here, after having embarked on the Jacobin movement – well, he defended Charlotte Corday and was For this reason, he was sentenced to death.

Schlabrendorf, born in Silesia, was so absorbed by the Revolution which he forgot, for several-several years, to give leave of the house that he had rented in London before settling in Paris. Very wealthy, he held positions during the period revolutionary period a modest dwelling where He received a large number of friends.

He continued to conspire under the Consulate without to generate a lot of buzz about him.

Doctor J. Eric Bolmann (Hanoverian) he settled in Paris at the home of an uncle, an English subject. He says he was pushed against his will, by blows from pikes, in the midst of the insurrection of August 10. Disgusted with Paris, he left, saving

(1) Cauquer: History Studies, 1st series, p. 234.

172 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

Narbonne thanks to an English passport, on the Madame de Staël's prayer (1).

Let us also mention Trenck, who sacrificed his fortune for "the satisfaction of living on the land of freedom" (2), the tailor Nestch who was part of a plot to assassinate Lafayette, the rabbin Hourwitz, friend of Fauchet and Clavière, Aelsner, Campe, Huber, Ancillon, Archenholz, Goy, Eschim Portaek, member of the Club des

In summary, Prussia's role is primarily important at the beginning of the Revolution. After the overthrow of the French monarchy, the Berlin's cabinet hands over power to the government English comment.

It also seems that these two powers had joined forces against Louis XVI. During the change of ministry on July 12th 1789, the English ambassador to France, after immediately sending a letter to his government, hastened to send one another with the King of Prussia. Immediately upon arrival From this letter, "an extraordinary committee has was convened; Prince Henry was not invited... The Court would like the troubles in France

(1) Lapy BLENNERHASSET: Mme de Staël and her time, t. II, p. 158 et seq.

(2) Avenez: Anarcharsis Cloots, p. 182 et seq.

PRUSSIA | 173

were more serious and of an eternal durée » (1). |

The reason for Prince Henry's exclusion from Prussia was his sympathy for France, signed-linked by all those who came near him.
= When it came to putting the Duke of Brunswick on the throne of France, the governor-The British government did not oppose it; it did not did not believe in the success of the Duke's candidacy of York. Brunswick, brother-in-law of the King of England-The earth was under its influence. As early as 1876, Mercy Argenteau informed Kaunitz of the subsidies paid. in Brunswick by the London office, and in In 1789, Moustiers asserted that the king's entourage Prussia was sold to England.

But our statesmen have never taken take seriously the secret actions of governments foreign institutions in Paris. We have one. An example too recent to be forgotten: we know with what skepticism was the reception in 1914 of

It seems that the French Revolution was prepared with the same skill as the invasion recent barbarians from beyond the Rhine.

(1) Foreign Affairs Archives. Correspondence: from Berlin, July 1789.

CHAPTER IX

THE ENGLISH AGENTS

Among the foreigners who invade the France in 1589 and working towards the Revolution The English are by far the most numerous breux; but, apart from a few exceptions, they they conceal themselves more skillfully than others.

Here are the main ones:

Amidst the cosmopolitan revolutionaries a rather sympathetic character was noted that, a charitable philosopher devoted to his friends, Thomas Paine (or Payne); who had the courage to speak at the Convention against the Death of Louis XVI.

Paine, an employee of the English customs service, had He was dismissed; he established himself as a tobacconist. then a corset maker, then a grocer. No Seeing no fortune coming his way, he embarked on `America and was appointed aide-de-camp to the general-Ral Greene. Tasked with negotiating a loan to In Paris, he received important gifts on this occasion. rewards from the American government. He

2

ENGLISH AGENTS 475

he then increased his fortune by building bridges. Suddenly he discovered his calling literary and began to write pamphlets.

Having arrived in Paris in 1787, Paine was to leave again to contribute all my power to the Revolution The French woman made me postpone my return... The plan that I proposed for the major work is still in Barère's hands (1) ». Thus in In 1788, Paine knew that the Revolution was coming burst.

Nl is the author of the Declaration of the Rights of the Man, as well as the address assigned to the Colonel du Châtelet concluding with the suppression of the monarchy. This declaration, of which our Democrats are so proud, therefore, is the work of England.

Paine founded, along with Pétion, Lafayette and Buzot, a club that meets at Condorcet's house and tra-vailla to the revolutionary movement.

In July 1791, Paine returned to London. because Lafayette, not having to employ In Paris, he was tasked with delivering the key to Franklin. of the Bastille (2). But he is poorly received by his fellow citizens because of their republican opinions that he professes, and returns to settle permanently-

(1) National Archives, F. 7, 2775.

(2) Letter from Gower to Grenville.

176 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

He was in Paris. A triumphant entry had was prepared for its disembarkation at Calais. soldiers formed a line in his path; the
The officers embraced him and led him to the hotel.
of Vile, where he is still embraced by the Muni-disciplinary. |

Paine is part of the Committee responsible for pre-to prepare the new constitution. Appointed mem-the Convention was established by three departments, the Oise, the Puy-de-Dôme and the Pas-de-Calais, it inspires Brissot's articles. MTM Roland signaled to Bancal the formation of a Society Republican, led by Paine. "It's him," she wrote in 1791, which provided the materials from the leaflet displayed this morning of all sides » (1). |

Paris and condemned, had an urgent reason and mysterious to return for a few days in England; Paine obtained safe passage for him, by agreeing to take Wilkes's place in his prison. He returned and was lucky to escape the guillotine.

M^{re} Roland compared Paine's figure to A blackberry sprinkled with flour. As he did not He didn't know French, his friends read his speeches. lectures at the Convention while Paine fai-

(1) Correspondence from Mrs. Roland.

res NAAR sate ae

ENGLISH AGENTS 477

knows the gestures. We can see that the sessions of the terrible assembly did not lack a a certain cheerfulness.

Paine lived in a veritable den of conspirators English brothers, the White Hotel, Passage des Little Fathers. Stone, Smyth, E. were there. Fitz-Gerald, Yorke, Captain Monroe, etc. He drank so much of it that the brave Paine became alcoholic.

After the massacres, which he disapproved of, 'he advised putting Louis XVI on trial; per- Convinced that the king was about to be assassinated, he imagined himself He would save him that way. He wanted the overthrow. of the French Monarchy, but the cruelty of the Jews repugnant. By taking the Convention In defense of the sovereign, Thomas Paine explained that we should show compassion, because one cannot see in this monarch "that a man ill-mannered like all his similar.

It is likely that the poor education of Louis XVI prevented him from thanking his defender sister.

After opposing the death penalty, Paine that. |

From then on, Robespierre declared him suspect. Paine had also made an enemy of Marat in

The French Revolution.

178 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

denouncing to the Jacobin Club his plans dictatorship. He therefore did not escape the proscribers tions. Paine initially hid under the protection of Samson, the executioner of high deeds, but We eventually discover this ingenious hiding place.
The police officers tasked with arresting him say that their research having gnawed at their stomachs, they began with lunch; then, having discovered green, the inventor of the Declaration of Rights of man, "we could not," they say, to make us understand that he is American;
why we prayed to the main tenant from said house to be willing to serve us of interpreter... Not wanting to leave any shady of the conduct we have maintained..., we we requested the opening of all the coats of arms
res » (1). | |

But, after a scrupulous examination, the pa-Paine's stones appeared to contain nothing suspicious. pect; which did not prevent him from being put to the Luxembourg prison. He owed his life to a heua strange coincidence, unless that coincidence had been aided by the Anglo-Prussian Syndicate – because it It is worth noting that the foreigners were always going out-days more easily in prison than the French sais. Every day, the jailer of Luxembourg marked the cells of the prisoners with chalk

(1) National Archives, F. 7, 2775.

THE ENGLISH AGENTS 179

were to be executed the next day. Paine was included in a list of 160 convicts, but his cell door was open because he on the inside face of the door. In the evening, the

With the cell closed, the cross was not found more visible from the outside (1). We did not count the
The next morning, 159 people were sentenced instead of 160. Paine was therefore probably replaced at by chance, by the first person who comes along.

Perhaps unaware of the danger to which He had escaped, the prisoner wrote in all directions in order to protest against his detention. "Robespierre," he declared to the Convention, was my inveterate enemy, as he it was of all men of virtue and humanity nity." Finally, after eight months, Paine was released thanks to several interventions tions (13 Brumaire, year III). |

After this alert, he seems to have played a role more withdrawn. He stopped going to the Convention.
But according to Bourdon, "he is intrigued with a Louis, a former foreign affairs agent Otto." No further trace of him can be found. relations with the British Government.

Under the Directory, Paine did not speak

(1) Fomriozts: An Englishman who was a member of the Convention, Weekly review, 1914.

480 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

of him. In 1802, he left for America, en-in front of the wife of a journalist friend of his. He He died an alcoholic at 180g.

His fellow citizen WA Miles, Pitt's agent, exerted a certain influence on our mini-very, as this letter from Lebrun- proves Tondu: "I'm short," he said, "eight louis for the payment of a bill of exchange. Not for-Wouldn't you like to join all the topics of gra-
"I owe you this new blessing, P."

The Reverend Ch. Miles, in publishing the correspondence His grandfather's influence was astonished by the disappearance of...
Version of W.A. Miles' letters to Pitt from 1790 interesting." Isn't that precisely because that they were too interesting for the gou- The English government did not want to let them in the hands of his agent's heirs?

Miles said he was sent to Paris in secret for the same reason as his friend Hugh Elliot.

Holland Rose, in Pitt's story, explains that their mission was intended "to act - on French democrats."

At the time Pétion introduced Miles to: Jacobin Club, he lived at 113, Faubourg Saint-Honoré; he was in frequent contact with her with Barnave, Mirabeau, Lafayette, Frochot, etc. Unfortunately, Miles' letters which contain nothing compromising, have only ones were published. I] announces to Pitt, as soon as the September 1790, that the monarchy will soon abolished in France. However, at that time, it there is not a single member of parliament who is not a monarchist And not a single Frenchman calls himself a republican.

ENGLISH AGENTS 481

Miles' correspondence proves that he has a poor idea from his Jacobin friends: "Nothing Nothing good can be expected from such an assembly of thieves, murderers, etc." (January 5, 1791). "If you attribute the Revolution to a feeling virtuous or courageous effort, you "Deceive." (March 18, 1791). Miles complains to this period, whether his correspondence is inter- accepted, so his letters become more - banal (1).

In the 20th century, several great-grandsons of Miles became French; the most famous is Mr. Waddington, Ambassador.

Hugh Elliot, a collaborator of Miles, was Lord Auckland's brother-in-law. Former condisspecifically tasked with exercising control over the famous

(1) Miles served as an intermediary between Danton and the English ministry, particularly during the trial of Louis XVI.

182 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

orator a favorable influence on the Angle-earth (1).

Hugh Elliot wrote to Pitt on the 26th 1790: "I cannot commit to paper the story of my secret conversations with various people political swimming. But I have every reason to believe that, more than anyone else, I am. mai-"to be events" (2).

There are hints that Mirabeau and Others did not refuse English money, But Holland Rose adds: "Our two envoys were discreet enough to give few details in their letters. »

Dracke, an English spy, attended the sessions secrets of the Committee of Public Safety and made them an exact account to Lord Grenville. On September 2nd In 1792, he announced to her that in the evening we designated 2250 suspects for arrest. It was decided the death of Marie Antoinette and the Brissotins, and 500,000 francs were given to Pache for fomenting a riot in the first few days of September (3).

Mr. Aulard expresses the opinion that Dracke has trans-only the information concerning

(1) PazLarN: Talleyrand's mission to London, p. 284.

(2) HozzanD Rose: William Pitt, p. 581. This work has not yet been translated into French.

(3) Historical manuscripts commission (Appendix 1). Tea manuscripts of JB Fortescue, t. II, p. 457.

THE ENGLISH AGENTS 183

foreign policy. But if the secrets of Our diplomacy was entrusted to him, why Were internal affairs kept from him?
Billaud Varennes and Hérault de Séchelles are mutually accused of this treason.
They could both be right, because Hérault de Séchelles took the di- files plomatics to communicate them to the son of Austrian minister Kaunitz; and Billaud Varen-nes secretly sent to Venice and Spain the accounts of what was happening in the government milieu. Their names were still spoken during the capture of Toulon; We seize correspondence from a traitor who could only be one of the members of the Committee of Public Safety (1).

Dracke does not appear to have been worried in his profession throughout the revolutionary periodnaire; he was only prosecuted at the time of Georges Cadoudal's plot, because he was of the number of his assistants.

The Girondins met on Sunday evening in the living room of Hélène Williams, a friend of Ms. Roland. She wielded considerable influence on Bancal, Brissot, Achille du Châtelet, Miranda, Lasource, Sillery, Girey-Dupré, Rabaut Saint-Etienne. Mr. Roland wanted to marry her to

(1) Maruiez: Secret History of the Committee of Public Safety

184 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

Wobbly, but the young Englishwoman preferred his fellow citizen Stone who followed her everywhere. Pushed-Do they extend the revolutionary spirit to the point of union? free, or did Helene Williams not allow Stone that a platonic love, we could not to discover. She never bore his name; one wondered if they were secretly married.
But a police report to the Revolutionary Committee

£60,000 fortune (more than 1,500,000 francs) (1). It is therefore probable that Stone neglected his wife to follow Helen Williams, but did not divorce.

Arrested in October 1793, then handed over in Freedom, Helene Williams took refuge in Switzerland until 9 Thermidor. Back in Paris with Stone, she probably continued to do the political, since she was arrested again in 1802, following a search conducted by the police in his papers.

Stone, one of the victors of the Bastille, was very linked with Brissot, Pétion, M. and M^m of Genread. Upon her departure abroad, she entrusted his papers to Stone who gave them to Helen Williams. Learning that a search was going to be conducted... after returning home, the young Englishwoman burned the M^m papers from Genlis.

~ (1) National Archives, F. 7, 4778.

THE ENGLISH AGENTS 185

To justify his presence in Paris, Stone He founded a printing press. When he was suspected of conspiring, he claimed to be completely absorbed by his business. He managed to make himself to appoint president of the "Friends of" club human rights," and to acquire a certain influence.

Lord Stanhope wrote to Grenville: "Mr. Stone is an Englishman who knows many very important and influential men in France... I] will be able to convince you of their good dispositions. » |

Stone hosted dinners with Milnes and R. Smith, Pitt's agents. In one of their orgies, An Englishman, after copious libations, gives a punch to Paine's face, then He flees in terror of his crime. But as soon as the next day they were reconciled (1).

Stone testifies in favor of Miranda. Arrested twice released, he took refuge in

He returns with her after the 9th of Thermidor.

William Stone, brother of the former, prosecuted for conspiracy in England, then acquitted, had settled in Villeneuve-Saint-Georges in 1789, at the home of a fellow countryman, Parker. The Stone brothers claim to have paid to help Sil-

(1) National Archives, F. 7, 4778.

186 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

Lery, 12,000 francs that M[™] de Genlis refused to reimburse them.

Stone's correspondence arrived from Angle-land under the protection of Auguste Rose. This one took part in the main riots; in the volume from Algiers on the role of the English in the French Revolution (1), Rose is noted as one of the ten "overseers" of the Convention (one of the ten ushers, etc.). Charged at Thermidor led Robespierre and his supporters in the Committee of Public Safety. Rose is arrested by order of the Commune; he jostles his guards and escapes. He then tries to go unnoticed.

David Williams, who was not related to Hélene Williams collaborated with Roland and with Brissot, who translated his work on freedom.
Having become a French citizen, he declared in November 1792 that he "renders to the vows of his new homeland and will contribute to the building of happiness and prosperity that the Convention must raise "worm" (2). Yet, Williams only tasted half of his revolutionary friends, because he wrote Regarding the Convention members: "The dazed cry, Carelessness and dirt do not make a
A commendable legislator.

(1) Englishmen in the French revolution (Algiers).

(2) Foreign Office Archives, London, v. 588.

The letters from Mr. Roland™ prove that the Girondins' campaign in favor of freedom
The press was dictated by Williams and the day-English journalist R. Pigott.

The Society of the Friends of Blacks aimed to apparent emancipation of the blacks, and for hidden object of the universal Republic. One of Its principal founder is Robert Pigott, English Quaker, friend of Roland and Lanthenas.
Next to him is Clarkson, a collaborator of Mirabeau, and the very French names of Wil-Berforce, Paine, Williams, Daer, son of the Earl of Selkirk, Sharp and Grenville (1). Bribed by England, the Society of the Friends of Blacks published by L'Observateur, a newspaper run by Faydel, friend of Laclos (2). Pigott is the inventor of the red cap. On February 1, 1790, the Assembly national voted for the printing of one of its discourse.

Two other Pigotts also work at the Revolution: one is a magistrate from Shropshire; the other, a pamphleteer, John Pigott, sometimes referred to as Jean Picotte, was arrested in 1793 and released the following year next.

(1) We must add to this the banker Kornmann, a member of The Commune is famous for its misfortunes.

(2) Dard: Choderlos de Laclos.

188 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

Why did Benjamin Vaughan live in Passy under the name Jean Martin? Why? did he frequently visit Robespierre? secret (1) > Son of a wealthy English merchant, he had married Miss Manning, from the family of cardinal, he must therefore have had a pretty good situation in London where he claimed to be experiencing trouble because of his political opinions.
After delivering a series of pronouncements in Nantes

The Society of Friends of the Revolution. Furthermore of Robespierre, only four or five people they know Vaughan's identity (Bishop Gregory, Hamilton Rowan, etc.). Arrested in 1794, the fake Jean Martin nearly to be put on death row as Pitt's agent. But after after a month of detention, he obtained from the Committee Hello Public, a passport to Switzerland.

The poet Barlow was, in Savoy principally—revolutionary propaganda, pen—while Alfieri was singing about the storming of the Bastille, and that Klopstock glorified the French Revolution cashier. o | |

During the winter of 1792, an English ship belonging to Martin Milleth docks at the port

(1) Mr. Marnrez (Revolutionary Annals of February 1917) denies Vaughan's close relationship with Robespierre; but Elie is affirmed by Barère.

ENGLISH AGENTS 189

from Boulogne. The next day the captain and everything The crew have disappeared (1). The police are doing searches and finds nothing. Nobody knew what had become of them, except for Pitt who had obviously distributed to each of them their task.

Watt, son of the famous inventor, and his friend The druggist Th. Cooper is the organizer. of a demonstration in honor of the soldiers rebels of Châteauneuf. Friends of Marat, they They approve the August decree, and give 1,300 francs. for the families of the patriots wounded during the insurrection, but they allow themselves to blame the massacres. Robespierre took advantage of this to... denounced as Pitt's agents. Watt escapes. in Italy and Cooper in America.

J. Oswald, pamphleteer and poet, friend of Brissot is one of the founders of the Chronicle of the month. In March 1792, he put up placards in the Faubourg Saint-Antoine to demand the distribution of spikes to all citizens and the abolition of standing armies.

Tasked with organizing a regiment of federates, Oswald was sent to the Vendée and killed in the first... first battle, probably by his troops because he had made himself intolerable and his soldiers hated it.

(1) National Archives, D. XXIX.

=

190 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

La Luzerne, ambassador in London, reports an agent of Pitt in Paris in the entourage of Duke of Orléans: a man named Forth, who makes frequent trips between France and England land (1). Three members of the Commune of Paris corresponds with Choderlos de Laclos. Philippe Egalité's trusted man, by the intermediary of Forth. He rendered faithful- Pitt is fully aware of the Duke's actions and words of Orléans. His collaborators included Smith, Clarke and Shee.

Mathews, a government secret agent English, changes his name when he is suspected in Paris. He corresponds frequently with our politicians. The Committee of Public Safety The public pays fifteen thousand pounds a day. by Mathews to his hotelier (2), In the state where French finances were located there, this liber- Reality seems quite extraordinary!

On September 7, 1793, Mathews asked Danton a security passport because he is not not at ease. He was right, because his arrest- The decision had been made the day before. Otto had run He had warned him, but had missed. Mathews was - so they arrested him and the police sealed off a important correspondence with Danton, Hé-

(1) Foreign Office Archives, London, v. 588. -

(2) Archives of Foreign Affairs, France, c. 1408.

rault de Séchelles, etc. A letter dated September 19th The minister is reminded by the tembre: "You pro-mites that I would be released imminently.
We do not know if the minister kept his promise.

This is largely due to the influence of Mathews who brought the German Reinhardt into our Ministry of Foreign Affairs; there he became Moreover, he was a skilled diplomat.

Bankers Boyd and Kerr had made the knowledge of the Genevan revolutionaries, at the moment when the refugees of 1782 received a million from the English government. Installed in Paris in 1789, rue d'Amboise, then rue de Grammont, they embark on a political career and are in business dealings with Philippe Ega-They act as intermediaries for paying some leaders of the French Revolution;
They are part of the Valois Club.

Seals having been placed on the bank of
On rue de Grammont, Boyd had to pay 200,000 books to make them rise; then he judged it prudent-the desire to sell and seek refuge in England.
He was then tasked by Pitt with several missions.
secret missions. - |

After the death of Louis XVI, Boyd and Kerr join Jean de Batz's plot, and to
On this ground, they were condemned on 29 Prairial, year II.
The reports of the Committee of Public Safety affirm-

192 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

lies that Boyd and Kerr are direct agents of Pitt (1).

The Freys and Chabots endeavored to make remove the seals placed on their papers. Robes-Pierre opposed it, but Batz succeeded by the en-Luillier's sluice gate, and made everything disappear relative of the English Member of Parliament who It bore his name.

We have already pointed out that the Committee revolutionary of the Commune was almost entirely composed of foreigners: the Swiss Pache, the Italians Pio and Dufourny, the Spaniard Guzman, the Englishman Arthur (2), etc. J.-J. Arthur is mentioned in Robespierre's notebooks among the fairly skilled patriots. I] must have ` a fine financial situation, because he was pro-owner of the house located opposite the pavilion of Hanover, as evidenced by a trial which he supported against the Richelieu family.

J.-J. Arthur was linked with Pache, Marat, and the Proly, Gusman, Frey, etc. band. President of the Section of Pikes, he is preparing the riot of Champ de Mars. Member of the Central Committee of the Paris Commune, he often takes the

(1) National Archives, W. 389, no. 904.

(2) Arthur was born in Paris to an English father (V. Marais, The Revolution and Foreigners).

ENGLISH AGENTS 493

speech at the Jacobin Club; he testifies con-Danton and Clavière, at Robes-Pierre; he is part of the Committee appointed for to support the Incorruptible against the Convention.
We know that Robespierre never ceased to denounce the foreign faction. Now, its Committee included five foreigners out of eight members, and this detail could cast doubt on Robes' independence rock.

Arthur was guillotined on 12 Thermidor.

Dobsent (or Dobsen), President of the Court revolutionary, was also of English origin.
He was the one who had organized the insurrection of May 31. Friend of Lazowski and Desfieux, Dob-sent frequented the gang of Proly and Pereyra.
The fall of the Girondins was prepared for their meetings at Café Corazza (1). Stopped first with the Hébertists, and again after to the Jacobin plots of 1799 and succeeded in all-days to get out of trouble. He is appointed judge under the Empire, although its file bears the inscription: "Talens mediocre, below the functions it should have would have to be exercised, etc." (2).

Count Charles Stanhope, a member of the

(1) A. ScaminT: Paris during the Revolution, according to the reports of the secret police, p. 149 et seq.

(2) National Archives, F. 7, 6504.

The French Revolution. 18

194 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

House of Peers of England, was beautiful-Pitt's brother from his first marriage and son-in-law of Grenville through his second marriage. After having. spent his youth in Geneva where he became acquainted with Swiss revolutionaries, Stanhope became one leaders of English Freemasonry. In this capacity He must have been interested in the French Revolution, -
And indeed he played an important role in the lodge.
Friends United, who prepared the fall of the Monarchy (1). |

Stanhope had frequent interviews with Philippe Egalité and he was rocking him, without a doubt the hope of a change of dynasty. A Once the throne was overthrown, Stanhope lost interest of France and resumed his work on the sciences these. He invented machines to make the additions and subtractions, and left a volume on electricity.

Another English scholar contributed his concourse to the 1789 conspiracy: Priestley, born in Yorkshire, was a physics professor and chemistry; after making a wealthy marriage, he he became a pastor in Birmingham.

On August 26, 1792, based on a report by Guadet, a decree granted French citizenship to a a number of foreigners, due to ser-

(1) An ancestor had played an important part in the ban-Law's route.

ENGLISH AGENTS 495

vices rendered to the revolutionary cause, between others at Priestley, Paine, J. Bentham, Wilberstrength, Th. Clarkson, Mackintosh, David Williams, Madison, etc.

Appointed a member of the Convention by two _ departments, Priestley did not want to sit; but his influence was considerable, since Burges wrote to Lord Auckland: "Priestley is considered the principal advisor to the Ministry. We take its opinion into account in all the occasions » (1).

Having wanted to celebrate July 14th with his friends In Birmingham, he had an unpleasant surprise to see his house looted by the Indian mob He expressed his revolutionary opinions: He judged therefore it is more prudent to leave permanently England, and after another stay in From France, Priestley settled in America.

A Presbyterian, Priestley embraced religion of Arminius, then became Arian, then Socinian; He always remained an enemy of Catholicism.

Priestley left behind numerous scholarly works. works. He is credited with the discovery of nitrogen (1).

Alongside these illustrious men, a a veritable army of English conspirators.

(1) Papers of Lord Auckland, September 4, 1792.

(1) Eulogy of Priestley at the Institute, delivered by Cuvier.

196 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

Thus Thomas Christie, from a university family sitaires, became a close friend of Danton and of Clouts.

Paul Waiworth is employed directly by the King of England (1).

Sheare, one of Théroigne's lovers Méricour, like his brother, is a close friend of Roland and Brissot.

S. Perry, a journalist, dines with Danton.
Condorcet, Brissot and Santerre; he testifies in favor of Marat.

Pastor Goodwin abandoned his career to take care of the Revolution. Linked with Paine, He left behind works that were quite widely read in England; MH Roussin has just dedicated a volume. Goodwin lived more in London than Paris, while his wife lived more in Paris than in London; he had married Mary Wollstonecraft, qualified professor in various documentaries comments.

Ms. Wollstonecraft-Goodwin violently attacks Marie Antoinette, even after her death; She is so fervent in her revolutionary ideas-Horace Walpole called her a "hyena"
"In skirts": One of her friends, Hamilton Rowan, Irish agitator, friend of Robespierre, leaves

(1) Foreign Office Archives, London, v. 577.

ENGLISH AGENTS | 497

Paris immediately after the arrest of the Incorruptible tible.

Lord Palmerston openly frequented revolutionary circles, while Lord Camelsford, a relative of Pitt and Grenville, concealed with a passport under a fake name.

The adventurer Newton is appointed colonel of the first division of the National Guard.

Kerly, an agent at Herries bank, was very diligent. at the Jacobin Club, is denounced as spy.

to save the queen; we don't know if he began, like his compatriots, by conspiring against The Monarchy.

The Earl of Devonshire is commander of the Recollects district.

Wendling (or Wendlen) is a member of the Insurrectionary Committee of May 31 (1).

Among the regulars at the M^m Con- lounge Dorcet, Lord Stormon and Lord Stanhope were mentioned, Lord Dear, Jefferson, Bache, Franklin, etc., not to mention Anacharsis Cloots who was in love- the mistress of the house's room (2).

(1) Acts of the Commune, t. VII, p. 492.

(2) Mromerer: The women of the Revolution.
A. Guritors: The Marquise de Condorcet.

A. Guicrois: The salon of Mr. Helvétius.

198 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

The Scotsman Swinton, who founded with Brissot the newspaper Le Patriote Français, exercised, according to Louis Blanc, the bizarre profession of "speculator"tor in debauchery" (1).

An English merchant, Marshall, founded in 1789 the revolutionary newspaper L'Union. Black- Wood, arrested during the Reign of Terror as an agent from abroad, is saved by Chabot; one suspectsconne that his Guineas had not been without in-influence on Chabot's benevolence (2). 1

H.-R. Yorke boasted of having at twenty-two years participated in the three American revolutions, of Holland and France (3). But he had to to rejuvenate, because if he was twenty-two years old in 1789, He was only eight when he was sentenced-born in prison in 1775, and twelve when he married his gedlier's daughter in 1779. Connected with Paine, he was part of the Friends of Human Rights club
The man attended the sessions of the Convention

His real name was Readhead. Denounced to the Convention at the end of 1793 as agent 'of The foreigner fled to Switzerland. We know of He gave him a book entitled Letters from France; this

- (1) Lovrs Brano: History of the French Revolution.
- (2) Vte pe Bonatp: F. Chabot, p. 138.
- (3) L. Fortioris: An Englishman who was a member of the Convention.

oe E aE]

ENGLISH AGENTS 199

are paintings of French life and customs crates under the Consulate (1).

Holcroft, successively stable boy, shoemaker-denier, schoolteacher, journalist, actor, author dramatic, he enters politics after the death of his three wives. He translated into English the works of Mirabeau. Holcroft was a friend of Danton and allied with his family (2).

Smith is a judge at the Revolutionary Tribunal of the Finistère; O'Brien is judge 4 Saint-Malo. The es-Ducket is Léonard Bourdon's secretary.

4

Rutledge (or Rutledge) belonged to a Excellent Irish family. He comes, under Louis XV, enjoying himself in Paris, then began in the a literary career through a tragedy in French. Under Louis XVI, he wrote in the "Quinzaine An-clay." and staged comedies that had little success. Ruined by an unscrupulous notary, he cannot to obtain justice; perhaps this evil-the hour that throws him into the revolutionary party. As the author of seditious pamphlets, he is being prosecuted. at the end of 1789 for hoarding grain and crime of treason. Imprisoned in the Châtelet, Ru-Tlidge is then described as a cavalry captain, although it seems never to have belonged to the army.

- (1) T. pp Wyzewa: Eccentrics and adventurers.
- (2) His daughter married Mergès, Danton's nephew.

200 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

Released the following year, he pronounced Socialist speeches at the Cordeliers. Rutledge was part, in what capacity, of the administration of the subsistences of Paris (1). Prosecuted in-core for having caused the high price of grain, he was arrested at the same time as Proly and Desfieux. He is believed to have died in prison in 1796 (2). The A very long list of his works has been published by A. Franklin in "Life of Paris under Louis XVI.

Two wealthy Englishmen staying at the Vauban Hotel rue Richelieu, under the name of Milord d'Arck and of Chevalier d'Arck, give sumptuous dinners killers and mysterious figures that Robes-Pierre, Pétion, Buzot, Prieur, Antoine, Rewbell and Brissot.

Pitt's agent, Stanley, is a member of the section Mucius Scevola (3). MA Mathiez sup- posits that the same character, under the name of Staley served as an intermediary between Perregaux and the Foreign Office (4). |

Faeding, an agent of the English government at Calais is a close friend of Euloge Schneider.

The Irish shoemaker Kavanagh can be found at the

- (1) Acts of the Paris Commune, vol. III.
- (2) Private life of yesteryear (FRANKLIN).
- (3) P. Canon: Paris during the Terror:
- (4) Revolutionary Annals, August 1916.

ENGLISH AGENTS 204

head of the arms looters on July 13, 1789; he takes part in all the riots and massacres of September. "Cowardly in the face of danger, he assassinated- sine when he can do so safely" (x). Mackintosh, physician and lawyer, having written legislative agreement regarding the title of French citizen. After contributing to the Revolution-tion, he continues to conspire in the sequel; in

In 1803, he was prosecuted for inciting murder.
The First Consul's office.

Denis de Vitré, son of a Canadian and a Englishwoman, ran a factory belonging to nant to Philippe Egalité. Member of the revolutionary clubs lutionaries of Paris, Rouen and Montargis, he is denounced to the Jacobins on December 16, 1793 like a Pitt agent.

Ch. Macdonald is executed as an An- spy Glas.

W.-B. James, professor of English, is one of the victors of the Bastille; he is appointed se-founder of the Jacobin Club. A moment guarded Louis XVI's dien at the Temple, he seizes the the king's armchair to prevent him from reading comfortably tablement. |

They were still counted among the vanquished

(1) Acer: Englishmen in the French revolution, p. 200.

202 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

quarrymen of the Bastille Th. Blackwell, close friend of Danton, and W. Playfair, author of a plan of manufacturing counterfeit assignats to ruin the creditor said of the Republic.

Hoffmann, Volfmann and Cook appear to be a single individual appearing in the state Dutch people receiving pensions from England.

Our Ministry of Foreign Affairs is in frequent correspondence with Archibald Mit-Chell, strongly suspected of being a spy for Pitt.

Lord G. Gordon writes in favor of Cagliostro after the necklace affair, articles where he in-

Sion, he was sentenced to five years in prison for insults against English magistrates. This misadventure prevented him from coming in 1789 to collaborate on Paris with his fellow citizens. Gordon left the protestantism to embrace the Jewish religion (1). The case is rare enough to warrant mentioning.

Baron d'Auerweck is denounced as agent of both England and Austria. A Hungarian officer, he became an engineer in France; he often came to Paris under the name of Scheltheim.

We were unable to verify what his attitude was.

(1) Burge: Reflections on the French Revolution,

ENGLISH AGENTS | 203

in 1789. But later, he worked with M[™] Atkins helped the prisoners escape from the Temple and demonstrated devotion to the family: royal (1). |

It is also difficult to appreciate Lady's role Kerry. Twice widowed, remarried a third time Sometimes, she would give performances in her salons in Paris. The day before June 20th, the Princess of Lamballe, Messrs. de Lage and de Ginestous departed from at home, having lost even their last sou (2).

Richard Ferris is invited by the Executive Committee to come to France and to extend his stay for an operation useful to the service of the Republic-republic (August 21, 1793).

Captain Frazer, Walsh, Kerny and Mahew are denounced by the reports of our agents diplomatic agents as agents of England.

Among those who regularly attended the Jacobin sessions, one remarked J. Stanley of Alderley, Wendham, . R. Watt, Wilson Huskisson, Pelham, the future Lord Chichester, etc.

Among the revolutionaries' collaborators, let us also cite G. Lupton, P. Wentworth, S.
Deane, Thomas, Muir, Melville, O'Drusse,

- (1) F. BARBEY: Mrs. Atkins and the Temple prison.
- (2) R. Arnaup: The Princess of Lamballe.

204 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

Ghym, Samson Pegnet, newspaper editor patriot, etc. (1). |

Can we seriously claim that such a number of English people gathered in Paris by the ef-using chance to work towards reversal of the monarchy? Alongside the adventurers dear-chant to take advantage of the chaos to loot and steal, there were officers, writers, and an-former English officials having nothing to gain personally agree to a change of re-Gime in France.

Isn't it more likely to believe in a organized plan and to conclude with Robespierre:
"these foreigners who strive to appear more Republicans, unlike others, are not in reality than the agents of the powers" (2).

Alongside the English agents worked a a large number of French politicians, suspected of being in the pay of England.
No doubt it may have been convenient to get rid of-
to use an adversary by denouncing him as Pitt's agent, and Robespierre abused this pro-government concession; but too often its
The accusations appear to be well-founded.

(1) National Archives, F. 7, 6468.
Foreign Office Archives, London, v. 587.
Conway: Paine.

Horan Rose: W. Pitt.

- (2) Session of the Convention, October 9, 1789.

Chabot claimed that Heébert's wife was an agent of Pitt (1). We read in the memoirs of Louvet (page 9) that Chaumette was with Marat one of the main foreign agents.

When Soulavie was appointed chargé d'affaires in Genève, he gathered information on England's agents a number of pieces of information, including the following The summary: Marat received his instructions in Londres...

Claviere was employed to destroy the monarch-shits while paying in the Faubourg Saint-Antoine on the 20th June and the people of Marseille and others on August 10th... The disturbances in Lyon were paid for by the Angleland... Santerre was the distributor of the gratifications. »

According to the secretary of the general safety committee-General (2), Santerre is responsible for distributing the sums given by Pitt. They found at his home English letters announcing the arrival of plusieurs million.

Dubois Crancé is an accomplice of Dufourny (3). Lucile Desmoulins is expected to receive largesums from the English government. While Hébert denounces Camille Desmoulins as a sellout

(1) Revolutionary Annals, January 1914.

(2) Sénar's Memoirs, p. 10. This accusation is confirmed by the diplomatic correspondence of Soulavie.

@) Buouzs and Roux: Parliamentary History, vol. XXXIII, p. 169.

-e

206 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

In Pitt, the Hébertists were condemned, it was specified. almost all the revolutionaries hurl the same accusation at each other and one is led to think of the proverb:

Other characters, without being bribed by England, are under its influence, perhaps unconsciously. What mysterious negotiation—The serious demand requires that Pétion make the trip to London with Sillery in order to confer with Pitt (1)? Condorcet and Fox, Brissot and Sheridan are in Ongoing correspondence. Brissot, in love with M^{me} Macaulay (Catherine Sanbridge), translates his works in which she praises our Revolution.

Lanthenas' speeches are inspired by Pigott and David Williams (2). Frequently wobbly the Quakers and the English who collaborated in no—Third Revolution (3). Roland, Bancal and Lanthenas are so closely linked with Pigott that they plan to insist to work with him on a vast confiscated estate to the clergy (4).

Roland, Jean-Bon-Saint-André and Barère do part of the "Society for Constitutional Information" tions » (5).

(1) Buoxez and Roux, t. XXVI, p. 271.

(2) Correspondence of M^{me} Roland, p. 699.

(3) Correspondence of M^{me} Roland, p. 743.

(4) Correspondence of Mrs. Roland, p. 679.

(5) HozzanD Rose: W. Pitt.

ENGLISH AGENTS 207

Mourgues, Minister of the Interior after the de-Roland's part, wrote in 1792: "My father has I was raised in England; I finished my education there. tion. I led my brothers and sister to the surroundings rons of Bath where their education is overseen by the part of my family that took refuge in this country during the revocation of the edict of Nantes" (1).

_ We publish documents in Chapter XI which lead people to believe in Danton's guilt. He—he even stated in a report published recently—as stated by Mr. Albert Mathiez: "It is quite apparently rent and proved that the London and offices Vienna may have contributed to overthrowing the Brissotins » (2).

- (1) Foreign Office Archives, London, v. 583.
(2) Revolutionary Annals, April 1916.

CHAPTER X

WHERE DOES THE MONEY COME FROM?

"Denying the influence of foreigners on the Revolution-
"French tion, that would be to deny the obvious," writes Mr. Hamel (1). One could affirm with as many certainties as possible: denying pecuniary sacrifices foreign aid workers in support of the revolutions
To deny the obvious would be to ignore the obvious.

Speaking of spontaneous anarchy, Taine seems-completely wrong: most of contemporaries of the Revolution mention that the rioters have money full of it ches. |

We read in Mirabeau's correspondence:
"Foullon's death cost one hundred thousand pounds; that of the baker Francois a few thousand li"vres." Bailly shares his opinion.

Danton said at Lavaux (2): Howl with us,

- (1) History of Robespierre, vol. III, p. 88.
(2) Syse: History of Europe, t. I, p. 96.

\

has

WHERE DOES THE MONEY COME FROM? P 209

You will earn a lot of money and you will be free then choose your party (1).

During the October Days of 1789, Théroï-Méricour's group distributed money to the troops dates and to the populace.

1790: "Work with the same zeal; the money "That's not what's stopping me." A little further on, he he added: "We pay the regulars of the tribesnes (of the National Assembly); we are making ourselves-sounds applauded by about a hundred bargain hunters that we decorate with the name of people" (2).

According to Moore, the public in the stands, themselves-carefully recruited and disciplined, earned four cents, four pounds per session. The chiefs. received from ten to fifty pounds (3).

That's why the most violent orators were covered in applause, and the mo-deputies were met with boos. The MPs fear-those who were determined or undecided let themselves be swayed by the opiatepublic meeting, unaware that it was rigged.

"We don't know all of this," said Mr. de Bonald. that it cost in violence, intrigue and ar-

(1) The same sentence is related in other words by Chateaubriand, Memoirs from Beyond the Grave.

(2) National Library, L. b. 39, 9040.

(3) Moore: Views of the French Revolution, t. I, p. 426.

The French Revolution,

210 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

"gent to incite the people to unrest" (1).
A report by Sergeant Marceau to the Assembly National admitted that the Champ de Mars "was organized by factious people, foreigners
"gers, paid to sow disorder" (2).
In 1789, the rioters were lured to Paris "by an almost invisible hand that pays the disorder and pays dearly for it" (3). At the time Seven million days in October, they say, are sent from abroad.

The distribution of money to the rioters is affirmed by Marmontel, Bezenval, Montjoie, temporary. The only disagreement is on the rate. wages, estimated by Lafayette at 4 twelve francs per day, while others speak of six francs. Prices probably varied depending on the days; the disagreement is therefore only apparent. Met-Tra, a secret agent of our Ministry of Foreign Affairs foreigners, wrote: "It is obvious that the sur-France's face is covered with agitators crets. By having my passport stamped on my way out From Paris, I saw a man pull out of his pocket two assignats of five pounds each, held together.

(1) De Bonazp: Considerations on the French Revolution çaise, p. 22.

(2) R. Arnaup: Fréron's son. (Minutes of the National Assembly.)

(3) G. Borb: The storming of the Bastille.

WHERE DOES THE MONEY COME FROM AT > such

People seemed astonished by this wealth of an evil-happy, ragged man. "That's it," he replied, "that that were distributed yesterday to the victors of the Bastille » (x).

These testimonies are confirmed by the diplomats foreigners: Thus the bailiff of Virieu, half-Minister of Parma in Paris, writing on May 3, 1789 (2): "We arrested some ragged men who "Their pockets were full of gold." The rioters The wounded all had between twelve and thirty-six francs. on them. Must we, one of them groaned, be treated So, for a measly twelve francs!

Baron de Staël Holstein recounts that a depute having made efforts to bring back to the motion denunciation a group of roused protesters, a A man stepped forward and said, showing him twelve francs that he held in his hand: what What you say is quite true, but your reasons don't go... slow not these (3).

The following year, Staël Holstein reported lar- . detention in Paris of a bookseller from Berlin accused _ for having distributed money to raise the

(1) Archives of Foreign Affairs, Berlin, supplement, No. 9.

(2) Groucey and Gutzkow: The French Revolution as told by a foreigner.

(3) Diplomatic correspondence of Baron de Stael Holstein.

212 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

Chabroud's report to the National Assembly on the October days, speaks of a faction "assured of the delivery of fifteen thousand lions per month. The enemies of France... Forty-five thousand books have been distributed to the Flanders regiment; fifty "Glaziers were bound to a louis d'or."

As for the September Massacres, their salary was one louis per day, payable to the committee of the Four Nations. The documents establishing this fact exist in the papers of Count Garnier (1).

Several historians have claimed that one of the

The cause of the Revolution was the famine of 1789. "What was the language of the revolutionaries who accused the king of not coming to the aid of the poor of his subjects? "Of all means of stirring the people, said Alexandre Lameth, it is not more powerful than presenting him with the image of the famine. With two hundred thousand louis, one could—would be in Paris, making extraordinary purchases, produce alarms whose consequences would be incalculable" (2).

This phrase can be compared to the instructions... items seized from an English agent in 1793:

(1)— Mortimer Ternaux: History of the Terror, vol. III, pp. 275, 521 et seq. — According to Dr. Lebon, some The mass murderers were paid twenty-four pounds a day.

(2) G. Bon: The revolutionary conspiracy of 1789, p. 117. |

"Maintain high prices and keep traders monopolize all the essential items site » (x).

"Where Fabre d'Eglantine, poor before September 2nd—In December, he drew on his 12,000 pounds of income. that he admitted to possessing? Where does he get his sustenance? to maintain his hotel, his car, his people and his daughters? And Lacroix, who did not respond to the indictment of Guadet, relating to this negotiation of lions that the Court had charged him to begin with Pétion? And Panis, and so many others whose for—"Sudden tune, September date!" (2).

Where did Heron's money come from, which, without any fortune in 1789, was the victim of a robbery in 1793 eight hundred thousand francs worth of securities? Nevertheless, he remains comfortable enough to offer Sénar a annuity of six thousand francs and a sum of three one thousand six hundred francs in cash, on condition that he get rid of his wife by registering her on a list of suspects.

How is Fournier the American doing? owner of the Château de Basancourt in Seine-et-Oise?

Hébert left, according to Mallet du Pan, more a fortune of two million.

(1) National Archives, A. D' 108.

(2) Portrait of the Dantonists, by Brissot (Annales révolutionnaires, June 1917).

214 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

Duprat's debts, amounting to 460 a thousand francs, are paid all at once in 1793. In exchange, he is supposed to foment to start an Anglo-Prussian counter-revolution (1).

Fabre d'Eglantine confessed to Marat twelve thousand books of annuities acquired in one year (2). Chau-large sums allocated – to the generosity of Pitt (3). Many others are accused by Barbaredhead; one could have replied that he himself was unable to name the parent who had just bequeathed him eighty thousand franes.

Gonchon, the orator of the Faubourg Saint-Anne toine, finding himself in prison with the Countess of Bohm confessed to him that every riot was paid thirty to forty thousand pounds (4).

According to Sybel, the money needed for maintenance gangs of rioters were supplied "by speculators like the Frey brothers, and by the Duke of Orléans." But the Freys were people too practical to distribute their own ar-
They could only have been intermediaries.

(1) Bvornz and Roux: Parliamentary History, vol. XXVI,
p. 300.

(2) National Archives, A. F" 45, register 855.

(8) Buonez and Roux: Parliamentary History, vol. XXXII.

(4) The Countess for Boum: The prisons in 1798.

G. Borp: The revolutionary Coni pirano of 1789, p. 117.

WHERE DOES THE MONEY COME FROM? P 245

acting either on behalf of the Freemason-nothing, whether on behalf of a foreigner.

The International Masonic Fund possesses-dated in 1789 approximately ten million depending on whichsome authors, twenty million following others.
These figures are probably greatly exaggerated.
but the sect's resources were certain-considerable. His grand master, the duke d'Orléans had a magnificent fortune, but The opinion of his contemporaries was that the
The significant sums paid by him do not enter that for a very small part in the expenses his conspiracy.

A revolution in France played into everyone's hands the governments. We have outlined the poli-Prussian policy and its expansion plans lying in Germany.

The Franco-Austrian agreement was a cause for concern. House of Savoy. As for Russia, it was preparing-would like Prussia the partition of Poland; and the French monarchy opposed it. Catherine Elizabeth II, better informed than Louis XVI, was informing the Freemasons of their projects and hastened to proscribe it in his states; on the contrary, the preparation for the Revolution The idea of living in France could not displease her, and she did One day, the following confession: "I'm racking my brains to boost the courts of Vienna and Berlin meddling in French affairs to have my "Free rein."

216 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

But the age-old enemy of the monarchy French was England. No other power had as much interest in favoring the Riots and civil war in France. Our old rivalry with England had been exacerbated-brought about by the American war, and the government-The British were looking for an opportunity to take to get his revenge.

Pitt, who had just come to power, had been raised by his father in hatred of France (1). Auckland admitted that "the Great-Brittany is about reducing France to a real "political void." Chatham believed that his country "would never achieve supremacy" of the seas and of trade, as long as the dynasty "of the Bourbons will exist." Moreover, Lord Mansfield had dared to declare to Parliament that "Par-money spent to foment an in-"resurrection, would be money well spent" (2).

England could spread gold in France without seriously jeopardizing its budget, while that a war involved risks and could be ruinous. On the other hand, if the finances Bri-

- (1) Vrpazn: William Pitt. |
(2) Soret: Europe and the French Revolution, vol. IT,
p. 462. |

WHERE DOES THE MONEY COME FROM? 217

tannics were in a better situation than ours, the French navy was superior. rieure 4 the English navy.

Thus, in summary, the disturbances were sub-funded by an invisible union; England had a great interest in destroying the monarchy French. Isn't this a case of recalling the old axiom of Roman law: "Is fecit cui prodest. »

It was, moreover, common knowledge that all the upheavals were fomented and paid by the British government; in the classes, in the lounges, in the clubs, we accused Pitt of being the instigator of the unrest. The diplomats foreign colleagues agreed on this point with our agents. Why then do historians Did they deny it? No doubt to save their reputation. tion of the great men of the Revolution. That do indeed become these heroes if by chance the Lafayette's statement is true: "Money An-English is used to buy Danton, Pétion, Barère, Tal-Link, Merlin of Douai, Robespierre, Sieyès, etc." (1).

Only in such cases is the proof very difficult-easy to establish: the politicians who Sellers rarely sign a receipt. A letter very curious, seized on an English agent, tale-

- (1) Memoirs of Lafayette, t. IV, p. 188.
Maruiez: The days of October 5th and 6th.

218 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

The following words were uttered: "My Lord (we had just...") (talking about Pitt) wants you not to think about send or keep any account. [M even desires that all the minutes are destroyed, since if they were found, they could be dan-

This letter, addressed to the chairman of the committee English from Lille and Saint-Omer, recommended twice demonstrated a lack of care in spending money.

According to Granier de Cassagnac (2), a certain A number of receipts existed; they were burned by Savary on the orders of Napoleon I." But it seems that it mainly concerned sums paid by the Duke of Orléans. In the absence of receipts, one should have find correspondence incriminating the guilty. But it should be noted that each arrest report, from 1792 to 1794, mentions the affixing of seals to the documents of the accused. Often, names are mentioned. numerous letters in English. Only, the arch-national archives have not preserved these letters; in On the other hand, we have meticulously preserved accounts of laundresses and tailors: Without No doubt Savary or others must have made an attempt to ration.

i

(1) National Archives, A. D' 108.

(2) ATTIC OF Cassacgnac: Causes of the Revolution France, p. 146 and following.

WHERE DOES THE MONEY COME FROM? P 219

Danton, formally accused by Lafayette, has had very ardent supporters who defended his honesty. Unfortunately, there is something against him a terrible abundance of testimonies; Garat, Brissot, Mirabeau, Roederer, Bertrand de Molle-city, Robespierre, Madame Roland, Levasseur, Louis Blanc, Thiers, Mignet, etc., affirm his Venality. Also ML Madelin, in a volume recently, he arrives at this conclusion: "Danton has received money from the court and perhaps from what-than others" (1).

Could these others be the English?
Rumors circulated about it in 1793. It should not be attached.
too much importance on a diplomatic document that at the same time he is called English; Mr. de la Luzerne, ambassador to London, wrote to M. de Montmorin, November 26, 1790: "Il y a | In Paris, two Englishmen, one named Danton, the other... Tre Paré, whom some people suspect to be the most particular agents of the government English nement". Opposite Danton's name, In the margin of the letter are the words: "President of the Cordeliers district." But this the note is in pencil and in a different handwriting from that of the ambassador (2).

(1) L. Mapenin: The last year of Danton (1914).

(2) Foreign Office Archives, London, v. 571.

220 _THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

Nevertheless, in the opinion of Mr. Albert Mathiez (1), it is indeed the famous tribune that he It concerns: Paré was, he said, the principal clerk of Danton. If the latter was in possession of the letter that we quote on page 231, is that he was from number of England's agents. If Mr. de la Luzerne believes Danton is English, that's because his half-brother lived in London and corresponded with him in English. Both of them, in fact, par- They spoke this language admirably.

As for Robespierre, we haven't found – serious documents confirming the accusation de Lafayette. But a letter from Charles Lameth clearly establishes that Robespierre was not as independent as his apologists have claimed – gists, and seemed to obey the instructions of the pou- see occult: "Friend Robespierre invectives, Slander is the way to never reach the end of Nothing. When will I be rid of this? Idiot? He just has a modicum of common sense. necessary to follow the instructions correctly that he is given, and with that he always wants We have to put in the effort. We're truly to be pitied when Fortune forces you to employ such things. people. » His letter having been interrupted, he specified- Lameth

(1) Danton and Vor Anglais. Revolutionary Annals April 1916.

resumes in these terms: "The people do not trust us—is not born, it is even in our dearest interest that he never knows us, otherwise watch out! the lantern... Work with the same zeal. You You know that money isn't what stops me, and Moreover, what reward is "pro-setting » (1). .

The money so generously distributed by Lameth could have come from two sources, England and the Duke of Orléans.

There is almost unanimity in the memoranda res of time to attribute to Philippe Egalité the first disturbances of 1789 (2). The only point The controversial question is this: Did he distribute it alone?
He was lying about his money, or was he also distributing money? from England. According to the memoirs of Mrs.
Campan, the ambition of the Duke of Orléans, and gold
"English are the two causes of the Revolution.

Vaudreuil wrote to the Count of Artois in 1790: "Soon the royal family will be in!" power of a rebel prince supported by the ar-gent and the forces of England" (3).

"The sums that are spread among the people

(1) Letter to Godad, July 3, 1790, National Library, Lb 39, 904.

(2) The correspondence of M^{re} of Lostanges recently

The published report confirms these testimonies once again.
(Letter of July 3, 1789.)

(8) Correspondence from Vaudreuil, June 17, 1790.

even of the Duke of Orléans" (1), said Mr. de Staël Holstein. It was not enough, in fact, to pay for the initial riots; it was necessary to pay—to manage the leaders of the movement since 1789 until—than in 1794.

Rivarol reported the rumor that "the distributed gold" by the Duke of Orléans was in the hands of the English... It is necessary to wait, before making a decision on this, until Mr. Pitt explained himself regarding the twenty-four thousand lions of secret spending that he talked about in the lower chamber" (2).

We read in the unpublished memoirs of the conventional J.-P. Picqué: "Pitt founded his project and almost the entire revolutionary system on the Duke of Orléans" (3).

A. Geffroy's opinion (4) is that the "fac—The Duke of Orléans's bribe was carried out by the An—England.

Baron de Staël-Holstein wrote on the 29th August 1789, to his government: "One suspects—conne with a high degree of probability I' Angle—land to foment and maintain unrest.

(1) Diplomatic correspondence of Baron de Staël Holstein, p. 142.

(2) Rivarol's Memoirs.

(3) See Revue historique de la Révolution Française, December 1915, p. 271.

(4) Gustav III and the Court of France, vol. II, p. 95.

r

WHERE DOES THE MONEY COME FROM? 223

It seems to me that the Duke of Orléans "is in agreement with this power." He added, October 22: "The first party that must call itself—

Duke of Orléans as leader and England for engine » (1).

According to Mr. Dard, "England, according to all appearance, conceals its action behind the Orleanist party" (2). -

It seems possible that the Duke of Orléans has ignored the subsidies provided by England to his supporters. Mrs. Elliot (Grace Dalrymple), who was on the best of terms with Philippe Egalité, recounts that "the Orléans faction did not consult- didn't even keep quiet about his operations and helped himself using his name to commit horrors" (3).

This opinion explains the amusing hypothesis of Camille Desmoulins: "Philippe Egalité does not- may not know, part of the Gold faction- "Leans".

Moreover, it was not the Prince who directed- he was the Grand Master of Freemasonry master; he could have already made that admission

(1) Diplomatic correspondence of Baron de Staël Holstein, p. 142.

(2) Darn: Choderlos de Laclos, p. 226.

(3) Memoirs of Mrs. Dalrymple-Elliot, p. 37.

224 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

from an operetta general: "I have to "Follow them, since I am their leader."

Probably Bezenval (like many others) others) was right in speaking in his memoirs of brigands "bribed by the duke from Orléans and via England." But it would be It is rash to claim that the Prince received from England's money. It is true that Jeffer- his voice expresses the opinion that "the duke is being used" of Orléans as if it were an instrument... the prince is in league with the court of London. He has no doubt that the ministry will provide him with civil war" (1).

Jefferson gives no evidence of: his assertion; Ms. Elliot was more aware than him of the actions and words of the Duke of Orléans, and the The "Orléans faction" could be paid by the London office without the Prince's knowledge. Mr. Made-Lin announces a biography of Philippe Equality by Mr. Britsch; let us hope that she will be elected-
This historical point will be addressed when it is published.

But lacking funds, the London office lavished promises on the Duke of Orléans, as this sentence in a letter proves

-From the Prince: Learning of the King of An-'s illness

(1) Jerramson: Complete Works, t. III.

en ee a 0e a Le, RS, wi ee, eee, Ne. ees ee, eee

WHERE DOES THE MONEY COME FROM? 225

England, he wrote: "If Georges falls completely into You know what Fox and Grenville did to me promised; everything would be fine then" (1).

King George had neither sympathy nor esteem for Philippe Egalité, but his ministers...

They were the Prince of hope for change _ of dynasty.

We read in the unpublished memoirs of I.-P. Picqué, deputy for the Hautes-Pyrénées at the Convention-tion: "Pitt was truly the invisible leader or visible to a leading party of the movements and a change opposed to the government ly...

"England had its con-Fidens and his bankers, widespread agents stylish, with the price of insurrections... » (2).

In his report on the Committee of Public Safety

Pitt will receive five million pounds for spending its secrets, I'm no longer surprised that we sow with this money unrest throughout the entire due to the Republic.

In 1793, Barère denounced the arrival of spies and English agitators in all our departments

(1) Letter to Choderlos de Laclos, March 10, 1790. See Descamrs: Secret Societies, vol. II, p. 149.

(2) Historical Review of the French Revolution, pages 271 to 275.

4

The French Revolution. 15

226 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

ments. Dubois-Crancé reported the sending of three million by William Pitt to the insurgents of Lyon (1).

Barère's explanatory memorandum reads (2): "Petitval had bought 4 the wife of Monciel, for a very considerable sum, 25,000 pounds I think, the list of former convention members and members of both Councils who received subsidies from England.

William Pitt's methods have also continued to be put into practice by the diplomats English matter: Thus, in 1830, Lieutenant La Roche, tasked with removing the barricade of the Boulevard de la Madeleine, saw English people dis- to pay money to the rioters (3).

It's not only in France that gold English made politicians act. Pen- while Fersen declared, 4 regarding our troubles: "I believe in the arguments of British gold- nique" (4). Our diplomats were writing from Bern- Lin: "All people who have access to

(2) Historical Review, May 1918. (Article by Doney La-Chambaudie.)

(8) Memoirs of a gendarmerie officer, published by The Viscount of Courson.

See the article in the Echo de Paris of August 1, 1914, by Mr. Félicien Pascal.

(4). Lany BLENNERHASSET: Madame de Staël and her time, p. 26.

WHERE DOES THE MONEY COME FROM? 227

The King of Prussia's possessions are sold to England... The Countess of Bruhl, wife of the governor of the Crown Prince, is English and fanatical in the dual feeling of love for his country and hatred for France... The doctor of the court, a man of great wit, is English » (1).

Eighteen months later, the Marquis of Mous-third said: "Bischoffswerder is bribed, he said-on, by England" (2).

Bacher, Commissioner for External Relations res in Basel, wrote on 19 Thermidor year II (3): "The Pillnitz Convention and all the arrangements-subsequent ments are due to the time of the Angle-earth ".

Finally, our diplomatic agents asserted that Thugut was sold to the English (4).

Thus, British influence is found everywhere: in secret societies as well as in our national assemblies, in clubs and at Committee of Public Safety, as in the mini-territories of all countries.

(1) Archives of Foreign Affairs, Berlin, year 1789, Letter from Mr. d'Esterno.

(2) Foreign Affairs Archives, Berlin, February 10 1791.

(4) Confidences of Pöteratz. Letter from Wickham to Gren-city.

CHAPTER XI ENGLAND AND THE REVOLUTION

j

From all the foregoing, it follows, failing that material evidence, serious presumptions against | England.

But it's not just the public rumor-that whoever accuses him of inciting unrest, it is not are not only the correspondences and the the memories of contemporaries, these are also the diplomatic correspondence.

It will be objected that the ambassadors making themselves the echo of circulating noises can induce their governments were mistaken. But when the same fact is asserted both in Vienna, in London, Paris, Amsterdam, Basel and In Berlin, there's a good chance that this is the case.
True. However, diplomatic correspondence that we publish with the supporting documents, page 276 can be summarized in this admission of Lord Grenville to Earl Stadion: "To create

ENGLAND AND THE REVOLUTION 229 useful alternatives, the British government customarily maintains on French territory internal disorders" (1).

Finally, the following letter, typed and translated by order of the Convention, does indeed constitute a Material evidence: she gives instructions from Pitt to the agent leading the committee English from Lille and Saint-Omer. She proves that these committees, established in most of our large-cities, had been functioning for quite some time-parliament to an agent whose services deserve to be particularly rewarded.

"We need to bring down more And no more assignats. Keep prices high. and that the merchants monopolize all the arti-essential keys...

"That Chester goes to Ardes from time to time" and in Dunkirk. Once again, don't spare Not the money...

"Send one hundred and fifty thousand francs to

r

Rouen and as much in Caen. May Mors... be recalled

(1) Manuscripts of JB Fortescue, t. II.

Dovumic: Is Freemasonry Jewish or English?

See also the Memoirs of Bartholomew, recently published forgotten by Mr. de Dampierre.

(2) The letter is dated June 29, 1793.

230 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

from Cambrai, that Whitmore go to Boulogne (1).

"Master should be in Paris, because he has as a banker, the best knowledge to support the funds and reduce the assignats. Milne's plans are approved by Pitt...

"Let no money be spared. My Lord" wishes that you would not think of sending nor to disregard...

"...If you think Mitchell is far enough,
Use it to go to Paris and Dunkirk...
Tell Ness he can be sure of a town in the first vacation, or in the next parliament-ment... (2).

"We have forty thousand guineas (3) for the committees under your direction.

"Don't let Morston stay with you. I] It is prudent to have separate accommodations-res... »

Attached to this letter was a list of issues companies designated by initials with the sums to be distributed in fourteen cities: Paris, Rouen, Lille, Nantes, Dunkirk, Calais, Arras, Saint-

(1) The words Cambray and Boulogne are crossed out.
(2) Translator's note: that is to say, he will be a member of Parliament.

(3) Translator's note: Nearly six million at the rate current exchange rate.

ENGLAND AND THE REVOLUTION 231.

Omer, Saint-Malo, Boulogne, Douai, Orléans, Blois, Tours (1).

It's hard not to see in this documentary providing material evidence of guilt of the British government.

According to Barère, documents lost by a
The English established the dispatch by the government British group of agitators and arsonists in all our departments.

Indeed, fires broke out A Douai, at the port of Lorient, at Valenciennes, at the Bayonne cartridge factory, at the artillery park

The Foreign Office acknowledged that the banker Prussian-Swiss Perrégaux "distributed in Paris, in 1793, large sums of money were given to various individuals... for the essential services they provided to us due » (3). |

Here is an official letter from the Foreign Office to the banker Perrégaux, all recently published by the Annales de la Révolutionnaires (4):

"We want you to continue your

(1) National Archives, A. D' 108, and Archives of the Affairs foreign resources, London, 587.

(2) A. Marwrez: The Revolution and the foreigners, p. 138.

(8) Lavissee: Contemporary France, vol. II, p. 151.

(4) April 1916, A. Marutez: Danton and Vor Anglais.

232 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

efforts and that you advance 3,000 pounds to MCD, 12,000 at WT and 1,000 at M., for the services they rendered us by blowing the fire and bringing the Jacobins to the height of the fury...

"...Help C. discover the canals in the- what money can be distributed with the most of success... » |

By publishing this letter, Mr. Albert Mathiez concluded: "It is undeniable that England maintained agents at the Jacobins responsible for to push the club down the path of bidding wars demagogic. This document is part of papers seized at Danton's, Mr. Mathiez thinks the famous tribune was one of the agents paid by Perrégaux.

In short, if we accept the existence of the com-English or Anglo-Prussian plot, our Revolution-rejecting this hypothesis.

Let's go back to the events from the prep school—
The Revolution's rationale: everything seems to fall into place. with logic and our opponents' plan is perfectly combined.

From the end of Louis XV's reign, Brittany was being worked on by emissaries from England land. Some disgruntled people offered the coverronne to the Duke of Orléans, father of Philippe Ega-

ENGLAND AND THE REVOLUTION 233

ity. An army paid by England was supposed to to support the movement. The Duke of Orléans having Having been refused, the conspirators decided to reject themselves ter on his son; some of them have probably belongs to the Breton club which later gave rise to the Jacobin club.
Thus, the support provided by the British government tannic to the ambitions of the junior branch was well before the troubles. A long time ago before the Revolution, the Count of Vergennes, studying the English question with Louis XVI, had become convinced that "England worked to annihilate France by means of troubles and discords" (1).

The philosophical movement that has so habitu-deliberately prepared the fall of the monarchy, was launched from abroad. "From Rousseau came Robespierre," writes MA Dides (2). But Rousseau undeniably suffered from lin-
English influence and imitated the works of Jac-Thomson ques. |

The writings of the Englishman Lock have "served as preface to the works of Voltaire and Roussbucket" (3). It contains the theories of sovereignty

(1) Camparpon: The necklace trial.
Soulavie, v. VI, p. 289.

(2) A. Die: Protestantism and the French Revolution caise, p. 11.

(8) J. Fasn: The Fathers of the Revolution.

234 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

sovereignty of the people, of the separation of powers, and all the principles of 1789.

Mr. Doumic also pointed out that the philosophers drew weapons from England against everything they disliked about France, the government, religion, customs, the es-traditional take" (1).

If d'Holbach, Helvétius, Diderot, do not ask They did not represent the republic, they had discredited to undermine and weaken the monarchy, either by insulting it, either by undermining Christianity (2).

Helvétius, born in Paris, was of German origin Dutch-speaking. D'Holbach was from Baden.
It was in his hotel that the libels and pamphlets against religion and the royalty (3). They were distributed free of charge in all provinces. D'Holbach is lin-introducer of all the brand's foreigners, arriving in Paris. Condorcet is his friend and his disciple (4). Helvétius, condemned by the Sorgood for his book On the Mind, received a warm welcome in Berlin (5). It is in the

(1) Doumrc: The Discovery of England in the 18th Century century.

(2) Auzard: Political History of the French Revolution
çaise, p. 11.

(3) J. pz Lannoy: The Revolution prepared by France-masonry, p. 26.

(4) Grimm's Memoirs.

(5) A. Kem: Helvétius,

0000 nn naoa

Mrs. Necker's salon, which it was decided to raise a statue to Voltaire, whose sympathies were... His are well known.

The most spiritual people on earth are in at the same time, the one who most willingly submits foreign influence. Perhaps it is by virtue of from the proverb "No one is a prophet in their own land". The Italians had been fashionable at the time of the Renaissance; in the 18th century, it was the English. Louis XVI was trying to react against the Anglomania of the courtiers who impatiently awaited him. He was silent. One day when Lauzun was doing to him, according to his As usual, the king praised England to him. Clara suddenly: "When you love so much The English, we must go and settle among them and to serve them" (1).

England was patiently waiting for its moment while his agents spread the ideas new ones and were striving to create in France a revolutionary state of mind. It was a matter of same as Prussia.

Our monarchy was in the hands of a weak and indecisive sovereign, not knowing to take sides, and too good to oppose a vigorous resistance to the riots. From the year In 1776, Frederick III compared Louis XVI to a (1) Marquis de Séaur: The Sunset of the Monarchy, t. II, p. 219.

236 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

A young ewe surrounded by old wolves. He saw just, and the support he gave to the philosophers was good Prussian policy.

We have already said that Freemasonry French culture was influenced by England and from Germany. Was there a formal agreement? between the two governments of London and Berlin > It's possible, but it's impossible to provide proof. Our diplomats and more— Several historians claim that many Secrets of the London cabinet. The King of England–Terre was the brother-in-law of the Duke of Brunswick, and the Berlin court was under British influence fuck.

It was long believed that the Illuminati were Only Germans. A recent study Mr. Gustave Bord made known their connections with the English government: "A coterie of Germans devoted to England had for accomplices of employees of various governments on the whole surface of the earth" (1).

At the end of Louis XVI's reign, a great a number of English and Germans began to to attend French Masonic lodges, among others Lord Stanhope, one of the leaders of

(1) G. Bord: The Illuminati of Bavaria (Revue des Bocié–secret territories). |

ne ES eee

ENGLAND AND THE REVOLUTION 237

English Freemasonry. In short, the coalition Anglo-Prussian forces possessed formidable strength The problem of secret societies and their leaders. The British cabinet had the great– as its ally master of French Freemasonry, the duke of Orléans. The royal palace teemed with es–pawns, and Philippe Egalité could do nothing without the English government being informed.

Ducher, a diplomatic agent, asserted, in 1793! "For ten years the British ministry–nique holds the sect of its pledges in France economists" (1). |

I] at the same time it was necessary to be able to rely on public opinion; this work was entrusted to clubs and newspapers. Undoubtedly the the need for reforms was urgent'; there were abuses to be eliminated and the philosophers had revolutionary. But England's actions accentuated this state of mind throughout France. The constitutionalists, animated by excellent intentions, turned out to have played into the hands of international union by preparing, without the namely, the overthrow of the monarchy.

We explained that the Gene- group

(1) Foreign Office Archives, London, 587.

288 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

see, if in view during the Revolution, was retired by the London office. The pro-French testers were also subject to the influence English.

The shift in public opinion in favor of freedom of the press was launched by David Williams; the Declaration of Human Rights is the work of Thomas Paine; the inventor of the Red cap is Robert Pigott.' The clubs imported into France from England, labor-were influencing public opinion alongside the secret societies. After the political club, founded In 1782, the American Club was created 1785 by the Duke of Orléans. Several other cer-They also began to discuss the issues political. They worried the government and They were all closed in 1787. The law of the 14th December 1789 gave them the right to reopen. but they hadn't waited for permission, since, from June onwards, and perhaps even in the following months... Previously, the famous Breton club used to meet at Versailles (1). We know that it later became the Jacobin club when he moved to the neck-nn

(1) He already maintained correspondence with all the regiments to push them into desertion.

See Auranp: The Jacobin Society, vol. I. Introduction,

Wind on Rue Saint-Honoré (1). The police 'Did she ignore the Breton club sessions?' He is It's likely she closed her eyes.

After the Breton club, a fairly large number of opportunities opened up. a large number of circles where the game was neglected for politics, for example the club of foreigners, rue de Chartres; the settlers' club, founded by Americans; the Lazowski company, created later by the previous ones, etc.

The English element dominated in the club of Friends of the Blacks, whose role was quite important so much.

"As early as December 1790, the club of The Jacobins counted among their members notorious foreigners, many of whom were not even domiciled" (2). At the Cordeliers, a A large number of Swiss fraternized with Marat, among others Virchaux, Niquille, Roulbind, d'Arbelay, Chaney (3). |

The Constitutional Society passed unnoticedcue. Burke, in his reflections on the Revolution-French tion, is surprised that the recognition of our compatriots only goes to the "Revo"lution society" and in no way to the Cons- society

(1) The entrance gate still exists, on Saint-Hyacin- Street the, 4, behind the Saint-Honoré Market.

(2) Maruiez: The Revolution and the foreigners, p. 42.

(3) See page 291 for the list of foreigners who are part of the Jacobin Club.

240 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

permanent employee "who has been working for seven or eight years in the same direction" (November 1, 1790).

Thus, this English association, which has passed under silence by historians, prepared the Revolution-tion since 1783.

The Society of Friends of the People was entirely-English ment, like the previous one (1). Lord Grey was one of its key members.

The Social circle, on the contrary, shone brightly Abbot Fauchet and Nicolas Bonneville, it seems French. But Anacharsis Cloots and Thomas Paine are editors of his newspaper, The Mouth of iron. The goal of the Social Circle is to centralize the Freemasons, by eliminating all the elements reactionary views. The Social Circle admits-women; Mrs. d'Aelders, government agent the Prussian government, was part of it with which-elegant women who startled the austere Jacobins (2). Also the proposal of Bonne- Was the city excluded when he wanted to merge? the Social circle with the Jacobin club (3). The Friends of Truth were an offshoot of the Social circle; Madame d'Aelders tried to rush at the same time the patriotic society of Friends of the truth.

(1) Peyrat: The French Revolution, p. 146.

(2) It was inaugurated in the circus of the Palais-Royal.

(3) A. Playing: The clubs.

ENGLAND AND THE REVOLUTION 241

The Nomophiles club, on Saint-Antoine Street, also has members of both sexes; Théroiméricour's gne shines brightly there (1).

-- Many foreigners are regulars at the club of the Cordeliers, the most violent of all: Rutledge, Dufourny, Desfieux, Dubuisson, Proly, etc. 1

The English revolutionary club, presided over by Stone played a most active role in the Revolution French Revolution. The list of its members is Not found, but here are the names of the English who dined there on November 18, 1792: Thomas Paine, the banker R. Smith, Rayment, Frost, Sayer, Joyce, H. Redhead, Yorke and R. Merry, husband of actress Mile Brunton.

The English revolutionary club had been created by the society of the Revolution (Societal Revolution) whose headquarters were in London. The main leaders of the Revolution society were lords Stanhope, who can be found everywhere, and the doctor Mr. Price. This one, after the days of October, thanked God for having given him enough time to live to see these events. Burke recounts that this which excited the enthusiasm of society Revolution, that was the cry: "The bishops to the lantern."

The Revolution Society Correspondence

(1) Isambert: Life in Paris, 1791-1792.

The French Revolution. 16

242 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

with French clubs forms a fairly large volume rare marked: "Strictly prohibited in England" (a work severely prohibited in England). It contains letters from a great number of Jacobin societies, thanking advice received; indeed, the English Society the Revolution has constantly inspired our assemblies wheat; she was corresponding not only with Paris, but with all our great cities that sent patriots to London with Lord Stanhope. From 1788 onwards, the Revolution Society had proclaimed the immortals principles that our revolutionaries claim to have invented, freedom of conscience, freedom of the press, sovereignty of the people, right to the insurrection, etc.

According to the Duchess of Brissac (1), the Society London Correspondence comprised six thousand people, at the head of whom was a secret committee composed of six members which she does not name.

Some political salons collaborated with the clubs, including that of M^r de Condorcet, frequented by the English and by Cloots, those of M^{me} Francoise Robert, of the banker Kornmann, etc. (2).

(1) Ducaesse pz Brissac: Dark Pages, p. 179.

(2) We should mention the foundation under the Directory of the Circle constitutional presided over by Benjamin Constant and intended to fight the Royalist Circle of Clichy.

ENGLAND AND THE REVOLUTION 243

As soon as the Revolution began, the cons-international conspiracy strove to monopolize the press whose power was beginning to to know. Thus the Englishman Rutledge publishes the Fortnight. The Courier of Europe belongs to his compatriot Swinton. The Society of Friends of Blacks, bribed by England, publishes the Observer. Thomas Paine inspires the articles by Brissot and writes the Iron Mouth with Anacharsis Cloots. The Union, inspired by Robespierre, appears simultaneously in English and in French. Oswald is one of the founders of the Monthly column. At the same time the cor-diplomatic response from Von der Goltz mentions the sending of the Journal Natio- to Berlin nal, subsidized by him in Paris (1). The Prus-Camille Des-'s articles mills; the Austrian Proly collaborates on Cosmopolitan. The Milanese writer Gorani writes in the Monitor. The Prussian Z. Hourwitz collaborates to several newspapers. The Italians Pio and Ceruti are editors at the Village Paper "and at Mountain Journal. Prince Charles of Hesse writes the Journal of Free Men. The Gene-I see Dumont contributing to Le Républicain.
Fellow citizen Clavière publishes the Chronicle of month and written in the Courier de Provence. The

(1) Archives of Foreign Affairs, Berlin, v. 212,

244 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

Belgian F. Robert is an editor at Mercure and at Revolutions of Paris. Need we mention La again?
Harp, Dr. Koerner, Cotta (of Stuttgart), Dorsch (from Mainz), the Savoyard Dessaix, etc.
The newspaper Le Creuset was run by Rutledge;

Correspondence of Nations; Euloge Schneider edited the Argus in German. Some days-revolutionary English politicians appear at Paris, the Magazine of Paris, the Paris Mercury, etc. The Swiss Club publishes the Correspondence General Swiss dance. Rebmann does to appear in Paris: Die Schilwache, Die Geissel; he collaborates with the Prince of Hesse on the Journal of the Countryside and to the Friend of the Laws. Alongside the Prussian intrigues, the England's agents had for a long time-times spent trying to discredit Marie Antoinette in order to dissolve the Franco-Austrian agreement female dog. i Ambassador Dorset, who had the... con-the queen's trust, he himself whispered the dis- rope at the Court of Versailles. After the affair of the necklace, Cagliostro is well received in London where he had not, however, left a good reputation. When later he is in prison for debts, he is still being paid off by an Englishman.

"At the signal for the convocation of the Estates-

ENGLAND AND THE REVOLUTION 245

raux, secretly provoked by accomplices and the emissaries of his minister, England unfurled upon us the infernal plot that she had been plotted in the shadows and in silence. » (1). A swarm of English agents had gradually installed in France to lead the movement prepared. We quoted the letter establishing the existence of committees in fourteen cities. But, of course, it is mainly in Paris that... deploys their activity. Barère wrote in one from his reports: "The English have Dunker-that in Bayonne and from Bergues to Strasbourg corrupt secret agents and intelligence within the garrisons.

A few days after the storming of the Bastille, Dorset showed a singular eagerness to signa-to tell Mr. de Montmorin about a so-called conspiracy .aristocrats, proposing to hand Brest over to English. He couldn't name the authors.

did not exist. But it appeared, or was imagined to appear—more sincere when he declined all responsibility stability in our early troubles. Moreover, the way the British government She exonerated herself; wasn't she prone to awakening—to reinforce our suspicions rather than dispel them: The

(1) Foreign Office Archives, England, supplement—ment, v. 15. Report from Durban to the Directory.

246 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

The King of England protests that he is not responsible.
in the disorder of Paris; Grenville repeats it insistently (1). Ambassador Dorset, no pleased to affirm this to Louis XVI, he wrote two letters to the President of the National Assembly to exonerate himself. It must be believed that the appa—The evidence clearly condemned him. But this time, the London cabinet understood that Dorset was examining managed, and blamed him for having written to the president of the Assembly.

The English historian Holland Rose discovered—green proof of the sincerity of his Government noment: it's that not one of the king's letters Georges, to his ministers or ambassadors, did not even alludes to the French Revolution.
He who tries too hard to prove proves nothing: to whom will we be led to believe that an event of this magnitude?
Our lift went unnoticed in London?
diplomatic agents, on the contrary, assert the opposite. that the King of England "never ceases to speak of the Revolution." Can we assume that he did not Doesn't he speak to his ministers and ambassadors?
However, British diplomacy being always—days remained in the hands of men of the career, its secrets have not been revealed by demagogues and upstarts. An object—tion can be made to the hypothesis of conspiracy

(1) Foreign Office Archives, London, v. 878.

See the evidence in the London archives.
A sentence from the Memorial of Saint Helena (1) is found to answer this objection: "All English political agents are in the case to make two reports on the same object, one public and false for ministerial archives, the other confidential and true for the mini- only very. "

Despite the discretion of the statesmen
In English, some confessions were able to be recorded. very: Pitt once declared to Lord Stanhope:
"Whatever sum one must spend, it No expense should be spared to ignite the war civil in France" (2).

We have already quoted Lord Gren-'s admission city. Lord Mansfield also dared to say to the Parliament-the fact that the money spent to foment in In France, an insurrection would be a lot of money. employee (3). The Duke of Bedford later confesses In the House of Lords (4): "Our efforts have much contributed to establishing the regime of the Terror in France, and our ministry had a

(1) V. IV, p. 262.

(2) Hamen: History of Saint-Just, p. 422.

(8) Sorez: Europe and the Revolution, vol. II, p. 462.

(4) January 27, 1795. |

248 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

a large part to the misfortunes that have happened there (1).

Mr. de Montmorin wrote-with great... common sense at the beginning of the Revolution: "The trou-
The issues that are causing unrest in the kingdom are attracting attention.
of all the powers, and most of them They see them with a secret joy... Among Among these powers, a distinction must be made between the Great-Brittany... We know that the desire to weaken the France is the primary motivation for his policy.

Montmorin admitted he could not find any proof-specific points, because, he said, as early as August 13th, "The police no longer exist. But what is there is What is certain is that the money was spread with the greater abundance among the soldiers as among the people" (2).

Mr. de La Luzerne replies to Montmorin that our initial troubles were very likely-were allegedly plotted by Dorset.

"The first sparks of our Revolution-tion," said Napoleon I, "all the horrific crimes" The wounds that followed are the work of Pitt... Posterity will recognize him... This man

x

(1) It goes without saying that the actions of the ministers English people one hundred and thirty years ago could not reduce the debt of recognition contracted by France in 1914 - reverse the great nation that came to our aid to repel the invasion sion of the Barbarians beyond the Rhine.

(2) Foreign Office Archives, London, v. 570.

2

eee ee ay

ENGLAND AND THE REVOLUTION 249

The much-vaunted man of his time will one day be no more that the genius of evil" (1).

The October days have undeniably: were organized by the government an-English with the help of the Duke of Orléans. The correspondents Diplomatic correspondence also attests to this. than the testimonies of contemporaries. After During these days, Lafayette had the Duke of Or-Léans was sending on a mission to England. The idea was not appeared to be conspiring with the help of that country; But above all, the court wanted to keep him away from Paris. Philippe-Egalité was instructed to search in London for the authors of the troubles – this research should not have been for him very difficult. – Lafayette pointed out to him: "You are more interested in it than others, because no one is as compromised by it as you" (2). Lafayette then gave to be heard to the Prince that if he refused to go to London he could well be arrested.

Our ambassador in London, Mr. de la Luzerne was tasked with monitoring the Duke of Orléans. The English ministers made the remark in his presence – that the Prince "was leaving France rather by necessity only by the effect of his own will."

(1) Memorial of Saint Helena, v. VII, p. 218.

(2) Louis Brano, t. III, p. 250.

230 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

Mr. de La Luzerne protested against such a thing an idea expressed with the same confidence as the ministers English when they claimed to be foreigners to our troubles. It was a case of saying, as Beaumarchais: "Who are we fooling here?"

Luzerne wrote on November 30th: "I seeks to discover if, instead of talking about Dutch affairs to English ministers, the Duke of Orléans would not consult with them to stir up further unrest in France... But the king and Mr. Pitt have such a low opinion of They believe the Duke of Orléans to be so unsuitable. to be the leader of a party, which they will not involve their affairs with his. I cannot tell you to say how much the arrival of this Prince has given _ bad opinion of his paeenne to the English from all classes...

"The Duke of Orléans never speaks to me about his visits to English ministers whom I know to be strong frequent" (1).

A few months later, the Prince, bored In London, he asked to return to Paris, unless the Place de La Luzerne. This insinuation has No success.

For the anniversary of July 14th, the governor-

(1) Foreign Office Archives, London, v. 571 and 572.

ENGLAND AND THE REVOLUTION 2X4

The English government anticipated serious unrest. and the Prince of Wales earnestly petitioned the Duke d'Orléans to return to Paris in order to sit there-ter (1). |

Later, in denouncing the projets of the Duke of Orléans, Ribes, deputy of the Pyrenees-Born in the East, claimed that the Prince had concluded the following arrangement: He abandons-would give our colonies to England in exchange for the support of the British government which was supposed to propel him to the throne (2). Ribes pointed out the frequent trips of Talleyrand and Phi-Lippe Equality in London, and the articles of the day-fees paid by the Society of Friends of Blacks.
But the Duke of Orléans was defended by Robes-Pierre, Danton, Marat and the Cordeliers (3). Some malicious people assumed with sufficient intent the likelihood that the support of these characters was not selfless.

After the flight from Varennes, Fox declared the the time has come to abolish the monarchy in France (4).
In September 1791, Mercy Argenteau assured our ambassador that |' England

(1) Foreign Office Archives, London 573 and 574.

(2) Godfather: Talleyrand's Mission to London, p. 345 and 46.

(3) Memoirs of Bouillé. Memoirs of Louvet.

(4) E. Campion: The Spirit of the French Revolution,
p. 20).

had fomented our first disturbances and continued—would harm to the point of total ruin (1). Worontzof was irritated by Russia's blindness and Spain, "who do not see the machinations of England in France" (2). And our ambassador—deur in London wrote: "England no longer —

There is nothing to fear from France and one can do so without fear.
to seize supremacy in both Mon—
of the ".

has

Then we began to speak timidly.
Paris regarding the Duke of York's candidacy for the throne.

Second son of the King of England, the Duke of York had married a Prussian princess, and this marriage, said Mr. Aulard, "had made him sympath—"thique to the patriots" (3). The secret committee of Jacobins, on the proposal of Manuel and Thuriot decided in 1792 to replace Louis XVI either by the Duke of York, or by the Duke of Bruns—wick, either by Philippe Egalité (4). The candidate—The Duke of York's ture was then supported by Carra at the Jacobins club (5).

The following year, General Wimpffen, de—

(1) Foreign Office Archives, London, 578.

(2) Ibid., v. 579. ' |

(3) Avrard: Political History of the French Revolution
çaise, p. 254.

(4) G. Borb: Around the Temple, vol. I, pp. 191 and 378.

(5) National Archives, A. F", 45, reg. 355.

ia -

3

ENGLAND AND THE REVOLUTION 253

puté de Caen, proposed again to ask a king to England (1). A detachment of the Valenciennes garrison then spread the rumor that the Duke of York should be placed on the throne who alone can bring happiness to France. finds English money in the pockets of these soldiers.

Montgaillard claimed to have been charged by Robespierre in negotiations with the Duke of York. We read in Garat's memoirs: "The Jacobins, who seem to be leading France, are led by the Cordeliers; the Cordeliers themselves parent willing to shed rivers of blood to make to bring forth a new throne (the Duke of York).

A Christmas letter from our diplomatic agent - in London, came to calm the enthusiasm of the par-herbalists of the English Prince. "A few people, he wrote, seemed to me convinced: that one should sound- was seriously considering offering the crown to the duke of Brunswick. I am unaware of the intentions of the Assembly and the Council. But, if France I'm not disgusted by kings, I believe, from my I have a duty to tell you what I have learned about the Duke from York, of which you know only a few documents The French spoke in the same vein. Fierce even to the point of beating soldiers to death,

(1) Avtarp: Political History of the French Revolution çaise, p. 397.

254 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

bloodthirsty, talentless, witless, drunk all the days, the horror and the contempt of the nation English, he never announced any inclination- honest or inhumane union, and poor health the Prince of Wales gives a terrifying glimpse

The supporters of the Duke of York were not long in coming to rally behind the candidacy of the Duke of Brunswick, whom the Orléans faction thwarted.

The poor harvest and famine were exploited by the leaders of the Revolution in order to incite the people to revolt. The government The English took advantage of this to do in France substantial purchases of wheat and flour: it This aggravated the situation (2).

Moreover, in his speech of 8 Thermidor, Robespierre declared to the Convention that "the famine resulted from the actions of the Angle-land" (3).

Cambon's report to the Committee of Salvation Public also accused foreigners of being the authors responsible for the crisis and attributed Pitt's actions led to a decrease in the number of assistants gnats. (4).

(1) Foreign Office Archives, London, v. 682.

(2) See on this subject the Memoirs of the flag bearer Orson, published by F. Cagranté.

(8) Speeches and reports of Robespierre, p. 420.

(4) Marmiz: The Revolution and the foreigners, p. 136.

`
,
>
'4

ENGLAND AND THE REVOLUTION 285

At the time of June 20th and 10th August, when armed groups formed, the agents from the British ministry are scattered there to excite them (1).

It is worth noting that from On August 4th, Lord Gower had announced in London the impending attack on the Tuileries. Lord Gren-expressions of friendship and goodwill, but nothing "in writing." The London office obviously affected demented neutrality.

According to Mr. de Montmorin, almost all those who forced their way into the Tuileries on June 20 were foreigners.

Several English people send money to widows of the patriots killed on August 10 (2); others they address themselves to the rioters injured during the uprising.

The September massacres are not, writes Lindet, the result of a popular movement: "Everything was in order" (3). (It's a revolution—(a man who speaks, and not a reactionary.) Danton and Camille Desmoulins had announced the massacres before they even began.

During those awful days, two Englishmen

- (1) Brr&: Journal of a Parisian bourgeois.
- (2) Tuetey Collection, vol. IV, 2911 and 2950.
- (3) Mapeuin: The French Revolution, p. 260.

256 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

in frock coats poured glasses of wine to assassins, telling them: "Take strength and good luck » (1).

The salary of the mass murderers was one louis. per day; some received twenty-four—three francs.

These massacres being a blunder in the same time, such cruelty, could only harm to the revolutionary cause. If, therefore, the union A foreigner was truly the instigator, The only plausible explanation seems to be the following: boasts: he will have wanted to discredit men which were beginning to become too powerful, and at the same time to provoke the moderates into revolt — between the Jacobins.

The King of England was obviously torn torn between two feelings: he wished for the downfall of a host of revolutionary ideas. In any case, He should not have wished for the death of Louis XVI.

But Pitt was ruthless: during the negotiations Danton declared himself secretly involved with the Convention.
ready to save the king for a million distribute skillfully to his colleagues; Théo-Dore Lameth passed the proposal on to Pitt who

(3) Papers of the Marquis Garnier. Declaration of the citizen Jourdan, former president of the Petits-Augustins district.
Memoirs of Montgaillard. Collection of memoirs on the French Revolution.

ENGLAND AND THE REVOLUTION 257

7 of

refused (1). The judgment was rendered before the monarchists had time to procure rer the requested sum elsewhere. It is impos-It is impossible to know if William Pitt had held the pro-secret location or if he had communicated it to its sovereign.

Talon, former criminal lieutenant at the Châteaulet, made the following statement to Charles Lamethvante (2): "Pitt wants the king of France. Nothing I have been able to express has neither moved nor shaken. Danton responds with the greeting of Louis XVI if England wants to add two millions of what the knight can have at his disposal Ocariz (3)... Pitt wants the French equivalent of Charles I."

Talon repeated this testimony before the court.
Consular court: Pitt and the foreign powers
The managers refused to make financial sacrifices. requested by Danton to save the king.

Back when Talon was distributing funds secrets of the monarchy, he had taken Danton to his service; the famous tribune procured for him a passport for emigration (4).

(1) Lord Acron: Lectures on the French Revolution.
Hozrann Rose: Pitt, p. 94.

(2) G. Rouxer: Danton and the death of Louis XVI (Annales révolutionnaires, January–February 1916).

(3) Minister of Spain.

(4) Marurez: Danton and the Death of the King. (Annales révolutionnaires, June 1922, pp. 285–236.

The French Revolution. 17

#

258 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

The Irishman Thomas Whaley, who was travelling in France during the Revolution, recounts in His memoirs contain the following anecdote:

“On January 21st, some of my compatriots entered the café and, with a parout of self-satisfaction, they showed me their handkerchiefs that they had obtained permission to plunge into the king's blood.

The Duke of Orléans had formally promised to Ms. Dalrymple Elliot not to vote the death of Louis XVI (1). It is probable that he was there forced by Freemasonry; shame and the remorse he felt seems to have This was the cause of his resignation as Grand Master. By leaving the sect, Philippe Egalité lost all his influence was suppressed and he was sidelined pending — before being prosecuted and guillotined.

So this is the Bourbon monarchy... trout; England won the first part. Burke draws the following conclusion from the events: vante: "The French overthrew their monarchshit, their church, their nobility, their laws, their their army, their navy, their commerce... [they have does our business better than twenty Ramillies" (2).

After the fall of Louis XVI's throne, the government The English government did not remain inactive...The play

(1) Memoirs of Mrs. Dalrymple Elliot, p. 37.

(2) Sranmore: William Pitt.

ld

ENGLAND AND THE REVOLUTION 239

qt

The following seizure by the French police is the Proof: |

"The King of France is dead; let us
Does it matter? Our only intention is to shrink.
France, destroy it, so that it is not plus a pendulum in the political balance...

"We need to build different parties, to lead them"

"All of them, organize anarchy, etc..." 7

But the death of Louis XVI signaled a U-turn in the foreign union's plan.

The original goal of the Revolution had been achieved; the fire started in Paris now threatened to win over Europe. Already upon learning of the arrest-Louis XVI's visit to Varennes, the King of Prussia exclaimed: "What a terrible example!" (x).

In England, revolutionary clubs pre-they were modeled on ours; he was imprudent to encourage new ideas. Furthermore, the armies of the Convention were showing themselves to be quite... blows more formidable than Europe had anticipated planned; and yet our chief generals had been outlawed, Lafayette, Dillon, Dumoulaugh, Custine, Biron, Montesquieu, Valence, Houchard, Miaczinski, etc. |

Therefore, England's policy must tend-to diminish the strength of the Republican party; Consequently, the order is given to

(1) Archives of Foreign Affairs, Berlin, v. 212.

260 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION:

no longer to favor Jacobin plots, but royalist plots and insurrections Chouans and Vendéans. Four million are sent to Lyon for the same purpose by the firm | from London.

According to Barbaroux, Pitt's plan is to res-to destroy the monarchy in the North by leaving the Southern France, a republic. He would then helped the southern republic to fight the northern monarchy (1).

Among the efforts to be encouraged were obviously the Jean de Batz conspiracy.
The sums spent by this character extraordinary things seem too important for come solely from his personal fortune and, at the time of Louis XVI's death, the treasury The royalist camp wasn't very well-stocked. The bankers English Boyd and Kerr being among the agents of Jean de Batz, it is permissible to suppose-to know that they were the intermediaries in the advances consented to by the British government to fight the Convention.

Here, according to the national archives (2), is the list of the main agents of the famous conspiracy-raver:

Proli.

(1) National Archives, A. E" 45.

(2) Ibid., F. 7, 4774, 67.

ENGLAND AND THE REVOLUTION 261

Pereira.

Desfieux, wine merchant.

Dufourny de Villiers, administrator of the poudres and saltpeter.

Gusman.

`Guyot Desherbiers, judge at the Civil Court.

Lullier, public prosecutor.

Christmas, Commissioner.

Varlet, Fournerot, Chapelle, Apaches.

Burlandeux, policeman.

Gauge, a stockbroker.

Benoist. |

Boyd.

Kerr.

Dulac,

Dossonville, police officers.

Marino,

Dangers,

Soulès,

Coldness, .

The Vienna cabinet seems to have exactly-the same plan as Jean de Batz. The confi-Hefflinger's dens and the correspondence of Jeanneret, diplomatic agent, attest to this (1).

Once in power, the leaders of the Revolution

(1) See chapter X.

262 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION -

The lutions seem surprised by their success and do This immediately demonstrated a great deal of distress. Next Joseph de Maistre's expression, they do not lead-They don't sense the events; they are led by them. "There is something passive and mechanical-fuck in the characters in appearance the more active of the Revolution. Men whodioceses like Robespierre, Collot d'Herbois or Billaut Varennes were the most surprised to their power" (1).

Isn't it always the invisible hand that Did we report the action?

heading towards bankruptcy, the English ministers set up factories to produce counterfeit assignats to precipitate financial panic: This fact, reported by our diplomatic agents-tiques (2), was denounced by Sheridan to the Chamber of Commons (session of March 18, 1793).

Pitt's diplomacy had armed against the France and most of the powers of Europe in observing an apparent neutrality – it was to act skillfully. – But after the execution of Louis XVI, the British government did hand over his passports to our ambassador.

(1) J. ne Maistre: Considerations on France, p. 10.

(2) Foreign Office Archives, London, supplement-ment, v. 15. Report on the message from the British Cabinet.

=

+

ENGLAND AND THE REVOLUTION 263

,

Convention initially hesitated to respond to this insult by a declaration of war. Then, if he We must believe Maret (the future Duke of Bassano), a number of high-ranking men having played down, caused a definitive break with England (1).

At the outbreak of hostilities, the English resided while in France were preparing to leave, when the British ministry invited them to stay on the mainland, unless special permission is granted. They were too useful! The Conventions were so much in England's hands that they did not oppose it in the comments against the English and against the members of the government bribed by them, that he became

It's difficult to close your eyes: October 19, 1793, –

The Convention voted for the arrest of all the foreigners whose governments were in war with France.

Robespierre nevertheless requested that there be

has

exceptions, because of "a certain number among them who practiced with honor public functions" (2).

This decree made it much more difficult task of the Anglo-Prussian union. But what–

(1) Correspondence of WA Miles, p. 86.

(2) Hames: History of Robespierre, vol. III, p. 189.

264 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

that good secret agents were able to continue to give gifts to politicians French.

Prussia's actions seem to have went unnoticed in Paris; moreover, Ephraim and Cloots had not been replaced. On the other hand–che, on several occasions, Barère and Camille Desmills denounce England: in his rap–Port of March 6, 1793, Barère repeats that Pitt has he bribed people to incite riots in France; he adds that he does not want to make any further revelations (1). This It was no secret to anyone, anyway. Therefore, Garnier proposed to the Convention decree that everyone had the right to assassinate to draw Pitt. But the Assembly was content to dis–to claim that Pitt was "the enemy of the species" not to have been otherwise moved by it.

Before the proscription of foreigners, eight or ten Englishmen "collaborated with the Jacobins and led them" (3).

Was it a vote? Such a small number voters dared to go to the polls, that The votes were easy to change. The moderates

(1) See, among others: Brrarp: The Conventionals regicides, p. 143 et seq.

(2) Buomez and Roux: Parliamentary History, Volume XXXVIII. Moniteur of August 9, 1798.

(3) Papers of Lord Auckland, September 4, 1792.

ENGLAND AND THE REVOLUTION 263

did not take part in the vote; thus, the proportion of abstentions in the election of the Council The general rate of the Paris Commune is 95%. The number of voters in the mayoral election of Paris is 7.5%. Under these conditions, the Votes are cheap to buy. As for the The public in the stands, representing the opinion of people, we gave the figures of his salary.

We were unable to discover what became of them, after the decree against foreigners, the eight or Ten Englishmen reported by Lord Auckland. the only one whose name has been admitted is Auguste Rose, noted as one of the "ten" Convention overseers" (1).

It is likely that Fox was in consensual relations alliances with the Jacobins. Thus, during the arrest-Mrs. Elliot's tation, Philippe Ega-'s friend the revolutionary tribunal reproached him to be in correspondence with Fox. "Mr. Fox, she replied, isn't he a friend of the committee of surveillance? (2).

In the indictment of the Hébertists

(1) Arar: Englishmen in the French Revolution, p. 195 and so on.

(2) Memoirs of Ms. Dalrymple Elliot, p. 127.
Duchess of Brissac: Dark Pages.

266 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

reads: "The English government and the powers" the leaders of this conspiracy are allied (1).

A report by Barère states that "the English have, from Dunkirk 4 Bayonne and from Bergues in Strasbourg, secret corruptors and intelligence in the garrisons" (2).

Robespierre constantly fought against |' Angle-earth, denouncing Pitt's actions and wrongly and indiscriminately proscribing all citizens suspected of colluding with foreign powers. He became too powerful and too troublesome; the coalition Anglo-German forces tried to overthrow him and favored the reactionary movement of 9 Thermidor. It was the Englishman A. Rose who was in charge to bring Robespierre prisoner to the committee of Public Safety.

The hand of the foreigner can still be found in the disorders known as the Terror white. Undoubtedly, a number of Royalists wanted to avenge their parents and friends guillotined, but in many places The same individuals were reported among the rioters. revolutionaries who used to massacre the royalists in the name of the republic, and who mas- they now consecrate the republicans by saying

(1) Bucxex and Roux, t. XXXI, p. 364.

(2) Bucuez and Roux, t. XXXIII, p. 118.

Thermidorians (1). They undoubtedly had a motive for acting this way; is it not natural to assume that this motive was none other than the salary what is typical of rioters?

After the victories of the Republican armies, emigration had placed its hopes on the conspiracies hatched by agents whose "the most are paid handsomely from the funds English » (2).

When, upon the death of Louis XVII, the émigrés proclaimed the Count of Provence king (June 24 1795), William Pitt sent him an ambassador secret brother, Lord Macartney. He had the pretension to dictate to the Prince his future conduct vis-à-vis with regard to France; the support of the British cabinet which, it is said, had been offered in 1789 to the Duke of Orléans in exchange for our colonies; he was presented in 1795 to the Count of Provence, still in exchange for our colonies, and furthermore on the condition of a border rectification in the Netherlands Down. Louis XVIII was indignant and hastened to publish the Verona declaration to put an end to the Pitt's intrigues. His integrity deprived him of a powerful aid. Nevertheless, England, in struggle against the Convention, had an interest in favor-

(1) See Bucmez and Roux: Parliamentary History, t. XXXVI, p. 411.

(2) Bull Dancin: Royalists and republicans.

268 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

to mock the counter-revolution; only, as well as Hyde de Neuville observed that the game of government- The British approach consisted of "maintaining the republic in failure, maintaining just resistance enough to prolong it, but not to rescue it effectively enough to make it victorious laughing" (x). | :

The agents of the London cabinet boast in 1795 to dispose of the anarchists, to organize

As they do not always agree with the Princes' agents who thwart them and sometimes they denounce them, the government
The English took their revenge in Brittany.

We read in the memoirs of an émigré (count (from Coetlogon) recently published by the Review weekly (3): "I clearly see that England and the other kings of Europe did not wanted to prolong the unrest of the France and wait for the favorable moment when its convulsions would have weakened her, so that she could to dismember it more easily.

Throughout the Revolution, the
The emigrants were duped by England. "I

(1) Memoirs of Hyde de Neuville, p. 242.

(2) Sone, : Europe and the French Revolution, vol. IV,
p. 350.

(3) August 12, 1922, p. 225.

ENGLAND AND THE REVOLUTION 269

had no trouble convincing, said Hoche, Cormatin that the Chouans, the Vendéens and the emigrants had been manipulated by the coalition and particularly by England" (1).

Vaudreuil tried in vain to open his eyes from the Count of Artois: "I see you," he wrote to Prince, still taken in by Pitt's assurances,
And this grieves me. I cannot believe in the help of the man most interested in our downfall and that "I still believe the principal worker" (2).

The deplora- has been criticized with good reason the Princes' inertia while their party-without being killed in Brittany and Vendée.
But it must be acknowledged that it is above all the An-England, which is responsible for it.

chement at the landing of the Count of Provence and the Count of Artois on the French coasts Sometimes, he would find excuses to delay... to manage the operation week by week. From
From time to time he assessed the life of the pretender Too precious to display in Brittany. Then after promising an army, he limited himself to to send counterfeit assignats to Vendée.
© Here, moreover, is what the position was on this subject, Napoleon I's opinion: "If politics

- (1) H. WersOXINGER: The Baron of Cormatin, p. 44.
- (2) Correspondence from Vaudreuil, July 3, 1790.

210 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

English had allowed a French prince to
He was placed at the head of the Vendée, and that was the end of it.
Directory » (1).

Moreover, it stems from a confidence shared by Napoleon to General d'Andigné (December 27) 1799), which in that case would have restored the royalty: "if the Princes had been in the Vendée, I would have worked for them" (2).

"My inactivity," wrote Count Pro-Vence to the Duke of Harcourt, gives occasion to my enemies are trying to slander me. She's even exposing me to unfavorable judgments from those who have remained faithful to me, judgments that I do not then call them reckless, since those who bearers are not instructed in the truth" (3).

~ Mr. Gautherot, in an interesting work on the Vendée Epic, gives details precis on the duplicity of the English government towards the French royalists. At certain times-ments, it was forbidden, under penalty of death, to pilots to drive the emigrants to France joining the Vendéens.

For its part, Austria was equally committed to...

- (1) Memorial of Saint Helena. Hyde's Memoirs of Neuville, p. 234.
- (2) H. WELSCHINGER: The Baron of Cormatin, p. 32.

(8) L. ScrouT: The Directory, vol. I, p. 332 and following.

See also the diplomatic correspondence that we publish.
at the end of this volume (Supporting documents, p. 276).

ENGLAND AND THE REVOLUTION 271

to thwart the efforts of Louis XVIII:
when the pretender took command of the emi-However, the Viennese court informed him that if he did not He did not leave the army immediately; measures measures would be taken to compel him to do so (1).

Lord Grenville confided to the Earl of Stadion
"We give all French parties hopes that commit us to nothing, for to maintain and foment internal unrest.

Under the Directory, the English agent Wickham centralizes correspondence with the royalists from all over France. He helps them in their plots, expending much zeal and - a lot of money to bring to the monarchist party schism of the members of the government (3). But Sometimes he thinks he has bought them and then he arrives that suspicious intermediaries are pocketing the gold English and do not reappear.

The Directory succeeded in having Wic- expelled kham of Switzerland in 1797, but Talbot soon followed not to replace it. A credit of 1,250,000 francs, opened by Wickham to the conspirators Royalists, had not been affected, to the great to England's astonishment. Talbot received the order to keep one million at their disposal.

(1) E. Dauper: The Bourbons and Russia during the emi-gation, p. 62.

(2) Lesson: England and Emigration, Preface, p. 25.

272 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

However, Poteratz, a diplomatic agent in Basel,

England towards the emigrants "whom it has supported" held for as long as they seemed useful to her designs and that she sacrificed at Quiberon and in Germany" (1).

We have already drawn attention to the secret reports from England with our Diplomacy. After Duroveray, the spy Baldwin had officially joined the Ministry of Foreign Affairs foreign powers in 1794. The appointment of Reinhardt under the Directory proved again "the ascendancy of the London court over the direction of our diplomacy" (2). Reinhardt, son of a German pastor, was also a A talented man.

At the end of 1796, the government English advises the Vendéens and the Bretons to remain quiet because he is preparing to to vote in the French elections by buying the voters (3). But Brottier's plot being discovered, the English agents advise their The government is waiting to see what happens.

The changes made to the plans of (1) Archives of Foreign Affairs, Vienna, v. 365.

(2) Journal of free men. o

Fr. Masson: The Department of Foreign Affairs pen- during the Revolution, p. 435.

(3) Lesson: England and emigration, p. 215.

ENGLAND AND THE REVOLUTION 273

The London cabinet under the Directory did not prevent- do not cherish the English influence to be exercised at Paris with as much success as under the Convention tion. One day, W. Pitt is secretly informed that "Talleyrand will be able to satisfy the An- England if a sufficient sum is paid to Barras, Rewbell and their clique" (1). Another This time, it is Barras who is warned of the betrayal. from a member of the government. "The plans and instructions from the Directory are regularly communications to Pitt" (2). Thauvenay, agent and that Lord Fitz-Gerald has with the Directory a criminal correspondence that passes through Hamtown. |

Despite the laws against foreigners, the agents English people continue to swarm in Paris. Thus, during Sidney Smith's famous escape in 1798, the false order to enlarge the ministry of the Navy is brought to the prison by the Ecos-I know Keith, from the Harris company, sponsored by Boyd (3): |

At the beginning of the Consulate, more than five thousand

(1) HozzanD Rose: William Pitt, p. 325.

(2) Memoirs of Barras, vol. II. (These memoirs being sup-claimed by some authors to be apocryphal, we (We quote, subject to all reservations.)

(3) DesmarEts: Fifteen years of high policing.

The French Revolution. 18

274 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

English people were in Paris; one could meet there Fox, Holland, Fitz-Gerald, Spencer, etc. HAS as Masonic lodges reopen, Little by little, the English hastened to free them. to settle. The Douai lodge alone accounts for about a hundred British subjects (1).

ML Madelin, in an interesting conference-reference on Fouché (2), recently pointed out a network of English agencies covering Europe entire at the beginning of the Empire. That of Bordeaux still lasted in 1814, and when the English of Wellington entered this city, Mr. Made-Lin tells us that they were there "as if at home" them ".

In summary, the goal of the foreign union was reached in France at the end of the Directory: anar-Chie seemed definitive, the Catholic religion nisée, could no longer play a role in Europe.

But, with all his skill, the governor-British forces were unable to prevent the tenth-Eighth Brumaire. He hadn't understood that in
By sowing anarchy, he was preparing for dictatorship.

So, by getting rid of an opponent peaceful, England contributed involuntarily-

(1) They were mostly prisoners of war many of whom escaped thanks to the complicity of the Franks French masons.

(2) See the Revue Française of June 14, 1914.

Batch

ENGLAND AND THE REVOLUTION 275

to place his most ardent enemy on the throne formidable. The French people, who had rebellng against Louis's benign authority XVI, happily accepted the tyranny of Napoleon-Leo I". The demagogues became the dishes courtiers of absolute power; and astonished Europe born saw the French nation rise from its ruins born to fly from victory to victory.

SUPPORTING DOCUMENTS

Diplomatic documents relating to England's actions in France
'at the beginning of the Revolution

July 1, 1789. – Versailles:

"...It is said publicly that | England bribes a considerable number of agents to to incite unrest... »

July 2nd. – ... We persist in believing that this
It is the English alone who are stirring up the people...

July 3. – ... Suspicion always falls on the English to have secret agents here who spread—"tooth of silver..." (x).

August 13. – Versailles:

(Mr. de Montmorin to the French Minister at Berlin.) | |

"...The relations that exist between the Angle-

(1) Archives of Foreign Affairs, France, c. 1405.
(Bulletins relating the events that have occurred since the opening the meeting of the Estates General until July 15, and addressed by (the Ministry to its diplomatic agents).

\

SUPPORTING DOCUMENTS

land and Prussia with respect to our affairs internal and the conference that was held at Potsdam reinforces our suspicions regarding these two powers...

We cannot regard them as slanderous deny what is being said about their secret activities...

The king particularly recommends that you do what depends on you to discover this what happened at the mysterious conference which you are reporting... We have reason to think that Holland is participating in the conspiracy London and Berlin courses... » (1).

June 80. – Berlin:

(Count d'Esterno to M. de Montmorin.)

"All people who have access _to the King of Prussia are sold to the Angle-land. The Countess of Bruhl, wife of the governor- The mother of the Prince Royal is English and a fanatic in the dual feeling of love for his country -and hatred for France... The doctor of English... (2).

July 31. – London:

(Mr. de La Luzerne to the Minister.)

"The Duke of Leeds told me yesterday with a

(1) Archives of Foreign Affairs. Correspondence of Berlin, year 1789.

(2) Ibid.

278 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

With an affected air of sorrow, he seemed to have been deeply afflicted. to read in a dispatch from Mr. the Duke of Dorset that a member of the Estates General had done to hear that a neighboring and rival nation appeared—knows he has spread money among the people During the recent unrest... I tried to persuade the Duke of Leeds that we are They were very reassured in that regard. But in reality, we cannot be too attentive to the con-English landslide which will certainly also "Concealed rather than self-serving."

e

August 3. – Versailles:

(Mr. de Montmorin to Mr. de La Luzerne.)

"The English were strongly suspected" to spread money among the people of Paris, intending to raise it... I abstain—I intend to accuse the English ministry because I have no evidence against him and he is from—all the more difficult to acquire than the police no longer exists, but what is certain is that the money was spread with the greatest profusion among the soldiers as well as among the People... I urge you to pay attention on this object. Like many English people return home to escape the turmoil, he There may be indiscreet people who could...
"less provide clues."

August. – Versailles:

"I cannot recommend the greater vigilance on the more or less active that the English could take from us internal troubles" (1).

August 14. – London:
(Mr. de La Luzerne to Mr. de Montmorin.)

The beginning of the letter expresses the conviction that The unrest in Paris was fomented by the Duke from Dorset: |

... "I have no way of knowing for sure if indeed he used so many ar-people think he's in Paris to poach men the troops and to win over the people. But this What I can assure you is that as soon as the troops received orders to approach Paris, and many years before their arrival, Dorset assured to his court that these troops would declare themselves for the people in preference to the King. This pro-Phetics made it seem as if he had data extremely positive and it is difficult to imagine-giner how he could have acquired them if he were not not himself having entered this infernal intriguing

"gue" (2):

(1) The end of the letter recommends monitoring rap-French ports & London with the English Ministry.

(2) London correspondence, v. 570.

September 27, 1789. – London:

... "The King of England hates France and wants-It would seem that our disagreements avenge him for the war from America... »

November 23. – London:

(Mr. de La Luzerne to Mr. de Montimorin.)

"I am trying to find out if instead of par-
First, Dutch affairs to the ministers English, the Duke of Orléans would not consult not with them to stir up new troubles in France..., but I don't believe that the king nor Mr. Pitt supports a Prince of the Blood against The King. They have such a low opinion of the Duke. of Orléans, they believe him so ill-suited to be leader of a party, which they will certainly not involve Their affairs should not be mixed with his. I cannot to tell you how much the arrival of this Prince has given poor opinion of him by the English from all classes...

I forward Laclos. He writes almost all of the day and receives many letters from France...

Calonne secretly meets with the Duke of Orléans and Mr. Duroveray...

November 26. – ... The house is suspected Drumond to pass money to the w:ai- – his Hopp of Amsterdam to distribute

SUPPORTING DOCUMENTS: 281

money in Paris. "There are two Englishmen in Paris, one named Danton (1) and the other Pare, that some people suspect that they are the more specific agents of the government English...

Mile Boulard, lady-in-waiting to the Queen, _ is the Duke's spy.

The three people most attached to the duke are Pitra, Paris, and Abbé Fauchet. He also has great confidence in a man named Forth who has English. This Forth often sees Mr. Pitt" (2).

A letter dated December 18th signals the departure de Forth, "probably for Paris".

January 1, 1790. – ...“The Duke of Orléans being at M^m de Buffon all day, is Invisible all day. When he comes to He talks to me about general matters and never of his visits to the English minister, which I know "be very frequent"...

January 3. – ...“Forth returned very unrecognized–

"trying to fulfill its mission."

(1) Opposite Danton's name, in the margin of the letter, are found the words: "President of the Corde– district liers". But this pencil note is in a different handwriting. difference from those of M. de La Luzerne and M. de Mont–Morin. Doubting its authenticity, we quote it for memory.

(2) London correspondence, c. 871 (ciphered dispatch).

282 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

July 16. – The English were expecting serious disturbances on July 14th... "The Duke is strongly urged by the Prince of Wales return to Paris on that date... » (1).

January 5, 1791. – A letter from Barthélemy signals England's fervent wishes for that internal difficulties worsen in France.

April 5. – Mr. de La Luzerne, following a Conversation with the King of England, summarizes his impression: "As long as we are in a situation in which we cannot interfere in affairs res of Europe and especially not to compete with the trade with England, we were not worried– will regain strength and vigor, we can assuming there are no intrigues, no means open or diverted that these people do not use to delay our progress and plunge us back into if they can in the abyss we are in now (2).

September 2. – Barthélemy to M. de Montmorin:

"On the day of his departure, Mr. de Mercy told me..." said: "I have always been of the opinion that the Angle-

(1) London Correspondence, v. 574.

(2) London Correspondence, v. 577.

SUPPORTING DOCUMENTS 283

earth had a hand in all the unfortunate- its divisions of your homeland. I'm leaving here more convinced that I would never accept this sad truth, and that, against the interests of all the other powers sessions that would like to see France resume with its usual strength, England will continue to try to undermine it surreptitiously in order to operate its total ruin...

Mr. de Mercy admits that there have been communes negotiations between the major powers of Europe on our affairs; a concert is impossible to do, especially because of the Secret views of England...

A foreign minister having asked Lord Dover, captain of the king's guards, what system- he thought England would follow suit France's perspective: "From the time of our wars" "Civilian," he replied, "did France support" "In our country, the royalist party P" (1)...

December 2. – M. de Worontzof is irritated by the blindness of Russia and Spain, which do not see England's machinations in France:

"It is fitting for England that a long lying in France. If she prevented the Landgrave

(1) London Correspondence, v. 579.

284 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

of Hesse to give troops to the "Princes" French people, it's so that their party doesn't take securely the top; but on the other hand she This greatly excites them to enter France with weapons by hand... »

December 30. – ...“The King of England protests against the accusations of bad people intentional ones who presume to attribute our troubles in England. Lord Granville repeats the same things... Pitt had the address to to act only in a muted and secretive manner his plots against us... (1). ON

| | » *,

\
Report from Saint-Just to the Committee of Public Safety public. – 25th day of the 17th month of year H:

... "The English seemed to think that the best-their means of waging war on a Republic

`– nascent was rather to corrupt her than to |

to fight... » (2).

Pluviôse, year II (without signature):

He was in Paris, assassinated patriots and counterfeited natural currency... » (3).

/

March 22, 1793. – ...“There can be no doubt that there are a large number of spies in Paris |

(1) London Correspondence, v. 579.

(2) London Correspondence, v. 588.

(8) Ibid.

E

SUPPORTING DOCUMENTS 285

English: 1° Almost all correspondents London newspapers... 2. These characters that we see appear and disappear all the alternating weeks in Paris and London. The most remarkable is Captain Frazer. Scots... 3. The three Irish superiors Walsh, Keruy and Mahew... 4° We encounter in the cafes a large number of English people including The statements suggest, if not a formal conspiracy against the system of freedom and its at least a burning desire to see it destroyed...

May 1793. – Ducher to the Minister of the foreign:

... "For ten years the British ministry economists in France are committed to their pledges, this a sect so highly recommended by English bankers, Dutch and Genevans, who are getting rich from effects of his doctrine... » (1).

17 Floréal, year H. – Buchot to the Minister:

Amsterdam – ...: "The Committees must em-deploy all their vigilance to prevent the com-plots directed from London against themselves and dam against that, his gold...

19 Thermidor, year II. – Bucher, commissioner External relations in Basel, to the minister:

(1) London Correspondence, v. 587.

286 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

"The Pillnitz Convention and all the subsequent arrangements are due to the gold of England... (1).

g Vendémiaire, year III. – Druy, secret agent, to the minister:

London. – ...u Make Pitt disappear or to have his head fall off, that must be the desire of all good French people. I will not hire you not to take even the smallest steps to de-destroy Georges's, since he won't have one soon more...

"Pitt's top agents are in Paris... "

Year IV (unsigned). – Report on the message from the British Cabinet:

.. "The uprisings of Lyon, Toulon and Marseille, the civil wars, the raids... the daily lives of emigrants on our shores, everything is Pitt's work... To fuel this war internal, didn't he have the audacity to establish a Counterfeit assignats are manufactured here. I'll show you some.
the evidence right in front of us... » (2).

December 15, 1795. – Poteratz to the minister: Basel. – ... "Remember the conduct exé-
The English government's claw towards us

- (1) Berlin Correspondence, v. 218.
- (2) Corr. of London, supplement, c. 15.

SUPPORTING DOCUMENTS | 287

since the beginning of the Revolution.
-fomenting with intrigue and money problems in all areas of your home towards the emigrants she encouraged and supported kept for as long as they seemed useful to him to her designs, which she has since sacrificed, that is to Quiberon, either in Germany, and that she will end up by abandoning them as soon as they cease to be for him necessary to harm us...; with the Chouans and the Vendée to which it does not provide deliberately making grand promises and half-help... » (1).

The condemnation of Louis XVI by Freemasonry

Several historians claim that the Revolution-French tion and the death of Louis XVI had were decided in Germany at Masonic conventsniques of Ingolstadt and Frankfurt.

Barruel's opinion on this point is confirmed mée by Cadet de Gassicourt, former Freemason lesson (2). Several members of the sect have done

- (1) Vienna Correspondence, v. 362.

- (2) The tomb of Jacques Molai.

See also: DescxamPs: Secret Societies, Vol. II, p. 134 and following.

es: History of the Constituent Assembly,
Chapter II.

De Lannoy: The Revolution Prepared by the Freemasons nerie, p. 99 et seq., etc.

other MM. of Raymond, of Bouligny and Jean

Debry. They were thought to have left at that time.
Freemasonry on occasion.

A recent controversy involving the intermediary Researchers and curious individuals have questioned these assertions, based on the following fact:
MM. by Raymond, de Bouligny and Jean Debry would have remained Freemasons; therefore they did not not left with indignation the Secret Society who decided on the death of the King of Sweden and the King of France. We conclude that all their stories would be suspicious.

To that, it is easy to reply that the fate of Mr. de Wal was able to give them something to think about:
Mr. de Wal let himself divulge the projects Masonic groups, whose violence he condemned. He disappeared shortly afterwards and his body was found in-
He was holed up in the Fontainebleau forest.
Therefore, it would be very unwise to break off the relationship openly.
with Freemasonry. That's why Messrs.
Raymond and Bouligny only spoke to their deathbed.

Could they not also have assumed that in remaining members of the sect, they could to steer him towards more moderate ideas and oppose to pose a threat to violent decisions. Upon leaving her,
On the contrary, they lost all means of action

SUPPORTING DOCUMENTS 289

and remained ignorant of the events which were being prepared in the shadows.

Count Costa de Beauregard recounts that the Count de Virieu had withdrawn from Freemasonry. nerie when he realized that the sect was pursuing-had three goals: "The ruin of religion, the
"The dishonor of the queen and the death of the king." Mr. Gustave Bord objects that it is "probable-
"ly" according to Barruel's assertion that

Why would this be according to Bar-'s assertion?
Ruel? The Virieu and Costa families of Beau-Their gaze was intertwined, and they inhabited the same country. What's so surprising about the Costa had received Mr. de's confidences Virieu! Barruel was also suspected. exaggeration, but not a lie.

Another argument is the admission that the Father Abel received this from his grandfather he declared that he regretted his regicidal vote at the Convent which decided in Germany the death of Louis XVI. It is objected that it is a witness-verbal grievance brought by a four-year-old man Twenty years. Since when do we no longer accept verbal testimonies of the men of four-Twenty years? We let them run a state, don't we?
and unleash war. If Mr. Abel had been in childhood, would his family have revealed his

The French Revolution. | . _ 19

290 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

Testimony? She was by no means proud of the role played by him. Besides, if one does not believe to the words of an old man, his testimony Would writing it down have more value?

It therefore seems to us that the question remains open, and we would like to see the continue discussions of the Researchers' Intermediary and curious onlookers.

As for Haugwitz's report, it did not has been refuted again, we believe. And here we are talking about from an official document issued by a former Freemason, confidant of the King of Prussia, and affirming the condemnation of Louis XVI in 1784. As for Gustav III, the architects Berlin judicial records contain (according to MM. E. Faligant and Deschamps) the proof of its condemnation by the Illuminati. The Count of Haugwitz, after withdrawing from Freemasonrynerie, stated that Louis XVI had also been condemned four or five years before the Revolution French tion. This testimony from Mr. de Haug-

Prussia, in a report on secret societies, he written (1): "The French Revolution, the regime-cide, were resolved by the Freemasonlaugh» (2). |

(1) Dorrows Danksehriften, c. IV, p. 211 to 221.

(2) It is worth recalling how the con-

SUPPORTING DOCUMENTS _ 291

Foreigners appearing on the membership list ~ of the Jacobin Club in 1790 Alexander (English).

Abbéma (Dutch).
Bidermann (Switzerland).
Bitaubé (Prussian).
Cabarrus (Spanish).
Cavalcanti (Italian).
Claviere (Switzerland).
Cloots (Prussian),
Doppet (Italian).
Desfieux (Belgian).
Dufourny (Italian).
Erdmann (..... Nar
Fergusson (English).
Fitz Gerald (English).
Fockedeý (English).

Fougolis (.....).
Gorani (Italian).
Halem (.....).

From Hesse (German).
Keith (English).

The damnation of Louis XVI was appreciated by a man
Ernest, illustrious figure to whom the Republic has erected statues, Renan: "The murder of January 21st is the act of the material-the most hideous, the most shameful profession one has never made of ingratitude and baseness, of vile commonerdenial and forgetting of the past." (The Constitutional Monarchy)
In France.)

THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

e

Klispich (.....).
The Harp (Switzerland).
Loen (.....).

Miles (English).

Oelsner (German).

Pio (Italian).
Schlabrendorf (Prussian).
Schsvatv (.....).

Van den Yver (Dutch).
Van Praet (Belgian).

Arthur Young (English).

Presumed foreigners:

Bacon.
Bolts.
Charke.
Coitam.
Hanker.
Hovelt.
Kauffmann.
Knapen.
Mendosa.
Mermilliod.
Oelsner.
Pulcherberg.
Raek.
Schluter.
Schnutz.

Signi.
Stourm. |
Walwein, etc.

PHILALETHS CONGRESS (1785–1787)

The Lodge of United Friends (Philalethes), presiding designed by Savalette de Lange, took part Important 4: The preparation for the Revolution French. It was located at 37, rue de la Sourdrière.

The Philalethes convened in 1785, at Paris, a Congress under the pretext of discussing "On Masonic science." The accounts reports published by Le Monde maçonnique not-of course, the discussions are being kept quiet policies, and strive to prove that pen-: For eighteen months the Philalethes have been bordering born to exchange banal thoughts (1). The
The only interesting pages are the discussions with Cagliostro, who was then presiding over the East of Lyon, the mother lodge of the Egyptian rite, and proclaimed himself far superior to the other Franks-masons. After being begged to accept the invitation of the Philalethes, Cagliostro, in order to to prove his power to them, he promised to...

(1) The Masonic World, v. XIV and XV.

f

~

294 THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

to show God "and the intermediate spirits" between God and men." Only, in In exchange for this miracle, Cagliostro demanded the destruction of the Philalethes archives (we (we were unable to discover for what purpose).

that they were attached to their archives, and some
Some of them wondered if Cagliostro hadn't He might be an imposter. Nevertheless, a list of Convent members was sent to Cagliostro so that he might choose those whom he would deem it appropriate to initiate him into the Egyptian rite; he was asked to designate foreigners in preference.

In the end everything worked out: the Philalethes did not did not burn their archives, Cagliostro did not evoke—neither God nor angels in the street premises of the Sourdière. But the mother lodge of the Egyptian rite—tien wrote that "the great unknown master of True Freemasonry has cast its eyes on the Philalethes. He agrees to carry a ray of "Light in the darkness of their Temple." The reports are silent on this section of light. The masons to whom the acts of Convent were communicated, were to moreover—their commitment on their honor and in writing to gar—to keep it an absolute secret.

The second year of the Congress, Doctor Stark wrote from Darmstadt that the next

SUPPORTING DOCUMENTS 295

Convent would be more dangerous than useful, and con—seilla to the Philalethes to give all their confidence in Saint-Martin and Willermoz. This The letter contradicts the accounts. officials, because if the Philalethes did not speak that of Masonic science, he could not It was dangerous to gather, and there was no there is no reason to give full powers to two of them. Saint-Martin and Willermoz were—They are the official representatives of Freemasonry foreign, or was Doctor Stark emitting a In my personal opinion, it's difficult to discover.

In any case, Congress adjourned on June 8th 1787, and his mysterious works were continued designated by the Secret Committee (Willermoz, Mira—beautiful, Court de Gébelin, Bonneville and Chappe of the Heuzière).

TABLE OF CONTENTS

I. – The Revolutionary Enigma ..	I
IJ. – The Freemasons	soan
II. – The Israelites.	31
IV. – The Protestants.....	tint 55
V. – The Swiss.....	dare of 50
VI. – The Foreign Invasion in 1589.....	ae “0F
VII. – Austria	Las sapere ee cok sakes Se ~ 136
VIII. – Prussia... indie Resa	144
IX. – The English Agents.	194
X. – Where does the money come from.....	208
XI. – England and the Revolution....	228

Supporting documents..... 27

The condemnation of Louis XVI and the

Freemasonry..... 287

The Congress of the Philalethes.... 293

Imp. MONCE et Cie, 71, Rue Chanzy. – Reims

Digitized by Google

PERRIN & CO. ACADEMIC BOOKSTORE

—aP

LEFEBVRE DE BÉHAINE. – The Count of Artois on the road to Paris
In February and March 1814. 4 vols. in-8° écu.

– Napoleon and the Allies on the Rhine in 1813. { vol. in-8e.
LEO MOUTON. – A Half-King, The Duke of Eperuon. 4 vols. in-8° écu

LACROIX (A.), Permanent Secretary of the Academy of Sciences, – Déodat Dolomieu, Member of the national Institut (1750–1801) 2 vols. in-8° grape.

DE LAUNAY (L.). – A Family of the Parisian Bourgeoisie during
The Terror. 4 vols. in-8° écu.

HERISSAY (J.). – The World of Theatres during the Revolution (1789–1793). 4 vols. in-8° écu.

– A Girondin, François Buzot. 4 see. in-8°.

DE VAISSIFRE (P.). – The Death of the King (January 21, 1793). 4 vols. in-8° écu.

– Saint-Domingue. Creole society and life under the old regime (1629–1789). 4 vols. in-8°.

DUPONT (E.). – The Unknown Mont Saint-Michel. 4 vols. in-8° écu.

– The Prisons of Mont Saint-Michel (1425–1864). 1 vol. in-8° é-u.

– Criminal Legends and History. – The Bastille of the Seas. 4 vols. in-46.

D'HAUSSONVILLE (Count). – Women of yesteryear, Men of today.
1 vol. in-8° écu.

MONNIER (Ph.). – Venice in the 17th Century. 4 vols. in-8° écu.

PINGAUD (A.). – French Domination in Italy (1796–1805). Bonaparte, President of the Italian Republic. 2 vols. in-8°.

WYZEWA (T. de). – Some figures of loving or unfortunate women– reuses. 4 vol. in-8° écu.

HAUTERIVE (E. d'). – The Secret Police of the First Empire. Vol. I (1804– 1805). 4 vols. in-8°.

– The Secret Police of the First Empire. Vol. II (1805–1806). 4 vols. in-8°.

– The Secret Police of the First Empire. Vol. III (1806–1807). 4 vols. in-8°.

HALLAYS (A.). – Essays on the 17th Century. Madame de Sévigné. 4 vols. in-8° écu.

BOUTIE (L.). – Paris in the Time of Saint Louis. 4 vols. in-8° écu.

ROMIER (L.), Former member of the French School in Rome. – France
On the eve of the Wars of Religion. The Kingdom of Catherine de Medici 2 vols. in-8° écu.

Paris. — Imp. Hwm Dltvat, rue de Seine, 87.

es — e —

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

This is a reproduction of a library book that was digitized by Google as part of an ongoing effort to preserve the information in books and make it universally accessible.

<https://books.google.com>

Google

About this book

This is a digital copy of a work that has been preserved for generations on library shelves. It is now available online as part of a project aimed at allowing internet users to discover the line.

Because this book is relatively old, it is no longer protected by copyright law and is now in the public domain. "Belonging to the public domain" means that the book in question has never been subject to copyright. Expiration. The conditions required for a book to enter the public domain can vary from country to country. These are all links to the past. They bear witness to the richness of our history, our culture, and our knowledge, too often difficult for the public to access.

The footnotes and other marginal annotations present in the original volume are reproduced here as part of the long journey the book has taken from the publishing house through the library to the internet.

Instructions for use

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize works in the public domain and make them thus accessible to all. These books are indeed the property of everyone and we are simply making them available. However, this is a costly project. Therefore, and in order to continue disseminating these works, we have taken necessary measures to prevent potential abuses by third-party merchant sites, in particular technical constraints related to automated queries.

We also ask you to:

+ Do not use the files for commercial purposes. We designed the Google Books Search program for personal use. We therefore ask that you use these files for personal purposes only. They may not be used for any commercial purpose.

+ Do not perform automated requests. Do not send any automated requests whatsoever to the servers of Google or any other research concerning translation software, optical character recognition, or any other field of research. For large amounts of text, please do not hesitate to contact us. We encourage the use of the files for research on works and documents belonging to the public domain and we would be happy to be of service to you.

+ Do not remove the attribution. The Google watermark contained in each file is essential to our program. Please do not remove it and allow them to access more documents through the Google Books Search Program. Do not delete the files. No cases.

+ Stay within the law. Whatever use you intend to make of the files, remember that it is your responsibility to be sure to respect the law. If a work is in the American public domain, do not assume that it is in the public domain in other countries. The legal duration of copyright for a book varies from country to country. Please check the laws of the country where you are using the works whose use is authorized and those whose use is not. Don't assume that simply posting a file on Google Book search means that it can be used in any way anywhere in the world. The sentence to which you are subject. The penalties you would face in the event of copyright infringement could be severe.

About the Google Books Search service

By facilitating searches and access to a growing number of books available in many languages, Google Books Search contributes to promoting cultural diversity through Google Books Search. Indeed, the Google Books Search program allows internet users to discover the world's literary heritage, while helping authors and publishers to promote their work.

online searches in the full text of this work can be found at <http://books.google.com>

ITNE A0

nn A: es copied ere Martie te corn s

E Ran en es fe py sh Len tee, we jee Seg orm avr der ha thik

CENI a Aare An be hard

RU Let Ch glass

re aca AS

SE

{ere ee

weer
re r
+

| Se
= ees ae - =

zi *
pawar oor LE ei jet Se pi , karye a]

HAS

myy -Pe
Days rot wh
i 7" CN o
If well LA AL AN
ddr te brte ty "904 hm HE ATH ENS pus is VAS iet wr qu aging ES PAPE 7 are ety abla teh orate
= . f ,
AE CT En ES Pas hey a Sao y 1 byde" "a Cr! ARE Oe ewe EL ue Last rep feel bert he bee i' CT es AP RL Aer
; pa and Vane C ayes om D rs rye er) AUS Are vx er sg: wti pias AAN
U

re io s

ston at oe +

gd ar?

Pap be nv er yo
pags ts poea yje
AA C Tinted AN

ART 4
<. ous CES = prer

AAR AE Bs DS na
"re CLIS, EE ex i ' + 2 n oo! pene Ta » t ete wip td = to weet tee <a + SCREEN OST Mame SARA RS host:
: the -> eee? naD A t T0 Roa ' a AA + bd (> parent
has %
i

mpe and Hee N brie tn tS A =! '6° rot DA 2 í í

7 V4 ve ren
a id p~ e > 1% rt w .-
RS ET te SEE
Sig!" Near DA RAT «ut x A at aT Lu be! sie ms LR AY x 0 k Fh TA Pa Ty eX, = areal woe! 'ya att be on ky (ws + CETE 5 + YE * av thy rer to a + an © 2.2 Ÿ PES DE A Poet, re PMR NT LEA LL Li

The LATE ape ee let 3 er! 2? pie

PS \ett Å. ee SPAIN
K NE eri et n GC PU, Uh ah socks sent hie

"TEA. r
1 ut FPT RQ: x
Wet fe yore (ty ii to SS TUUR tee er hes ne Mi vale Lan De ie APCE" Tear qty *e PARUS at a) ees vor by dh LA PP er Lee ar ee LV Le Noto A Peer + et' Veter jie rp ` bo Ÿ p- Bon 7 í ZN ety ee "ent ur" oi le va iani eu 0 re LEA a "with , k * í ie

-if . -iy . to g 4 .*.
' Aer sk w à Hee] 4, ar wie les y Ae yl a oe. o + ste" (4 . ery "ie ii as vè om. LE, &i peur ' vs v + ss svt CR D pi i AN shee ang hy Lyin ee fiv e ema x FAN #4 The builder als LA oN Ca oe RS PU eon YER el at waa he i 77) → te 4 A Ws Le Vege oe th at ER he + ta les .
To | + - vee flap To MNT Sv a ne tree
4 A at km
K i . ÿ ini

he TALER +
ere ee TUE EN ASE t A 4 ~
"due " t: WT f aie 7 Ys my Ss or A: LU 'a? MY a AT oot Modem te ret Hee, LAN Mr le (Wa, 42 og CAT Me tbe 1 os OW pane Prey i gue RUE sn, scene A Jag eit + > be * i 1 >
' fi - eo DU TRUE avi TA TES LR xh sa ore iu ee ray
A eee LOUE ru Pit TR, HE gr Et 2e } Net LOTS Vous We rai et |
LE: i tha, te E à va À; pet nes a + JUNE, A tapi dlie aie 74 adaig a" ' DU ii ad SN PA ALN er Weed d'Or "yi jy sy r CA LN à Ne TNT LE LOL tter i hee tht Lae ni ee = On" ke ant Sou Tre a he ob ied ate aix t ILN f vas) EURE MALTA i vs bus wor a) eek 'my * $ PAT "HU" he '$ ie WENTE male" 26 J 4 The ei Ve *je À. tae r ES Wir PMU Test MS ue 4 seed lsd P ' + oe tb ay ' Papel te rai es AU Tiel LOL fer we oe to barred use PEE?
$ iy 9 ee Ae' eH +
Help, fair and easy 114 Ai 4 tM eu at 8587
= N, Paes ets al
'sa. >. =! bm ee. mt at ae ETA jan
æ | to OLA? {
re AS cha Sub
PE 0 bag
ar th Vp tn pei oe ats ss ' [NAS ESA and Ar: mt +
LL ~ J j lively]
the =$ i L wi my KWEA dvs A
a « om. mn;
< Fire oe va g sr ht Naw hey to if j Í Ø D 1a è r À x ELOR tr) ar E Das per 4 lan 14" Fe re

WS.
Maliha Ee sE

[PRE LE | "E.

ti. 41: X a) A. yt T wr ating Ay p' ty A i JA Aal: 4 | Yo be eg etl
"tart # 4 FMA V2: g at É ART TS
| FA AT yh

We need A + RT e

Sak' "

ye = my
a Ca PARC Sn ne ec toot re r +

i

api lat eee st

HAS

LIBRARY of the
OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY

down

5877

en =

W0 Py LS SRE aa TASER , y

to +

he ge

ww be tal to hey. ee bn ei Se V6 4 4 an g:

– B

TAS

FRANCS–

•
•

Masons and Jews

atric wicks rare Me Fok tem nas PAT OR Shas BY Le its a al

PAL

$ i

: ~

ww "|

' $

Y y > .

2 4 å

HAS

f

,

s.

•

•

•

:

e `

•

/

:

•

ed

>

JA

We
i ii
'pe sä
7 |
+. N 2
f. EL"
to f
N
t
D

"2
f-

27?

Cat,
ar to

.

LPS Li
Gare Lu

PEN RCE UT to Dr Less. Are era mt

>

. =
F ' r
: 7 sa, P
z
, a $ Ai
pæ!
Om
' : Po
i + EE
? D d
' D
N
=
©)

. L ! t.`
¢ "
| $s |
; : f
.
$
7 p -g J
e ea
- , ai
` we) | 7,» ~% di ve 4

Digitized by Google

0 Sort ese Sa 2 = Er = : = to i ane ese : A
fo. 00, DE SAINT-ANDRE Lig 3 F7 +è

ey z K PES Bau =
e os j- la *

RANC-MACONS -

AND FA

I ae | - "3 |
JEWS

| SIXTH CHURCH AGE

ACCORDING TO THE APOCALYPSE

» 4
an y

GENERAL CATHOLIC BOOKSTORE SOCIETY
PARIS BRUSSELS

vi

76, rue des Saints-Pères, 76 l 12, rue des Paroissiens, 42

GENEVA

GROSSET AND TREMBLEY, BOOKSELLERS AND PUBLISHERS

4 rue Coraterie, 4

LE, known as 1880

tty

a 5 => Digitized by Google

—

err rr

r

Me A g

`

LS

THE Bone

Dane a

Ry

`

z kot g

oa

x

oe

toa

`

~

he ois he >

. has

L

` =- x

k hw

7" ee RRA

©

eee

Their
you
THE

has-

PREFACE

The following pages were not intended first of all, to be published as soon as possible.
Part of a larger work,

they were only supposed to appear with the book itself-even in a distant past. But as they are filled with things that are quite current, it It seemed to me that their early publication would Perhaps useful. Later these pages would not offer Probably not the same interest. Failing anything else, |

They will have the merit of being in the news, which will make them
I hope to be received with indulgence by the public.

My interpretations may be contested. generally refers to the Apocalypse and the chapters very 1x and x in particular. All the better because the explanations and the evidence do not have a equally convincing evidence in a summary ra-

547854 |

- || -

pide, and that, in addition, they lose a lot of their strength through their separation from the whole of the work and the reservations that this separation requires it. But at least reading this fragment will make indisputable the fact that, at the present time sente, the Jewish association which calls itself "LA FREEMASONRY: "is the most feared enemy-the ble of the Catholic Church and the greatest of dangers to society. Therefore, there is a use to the to uncover as much as possible on all points. The sacred liturgy proclaims that "the Virgin Mary single-handedly destroyed all the heresies in the the whole world." It is still through Her, the Immaculate One Mother of God, let us have firm confidence that the The earth will be delivered from this monstrous heresy of the sixth age.

On the feast of Our Lady of the Holy Rosary, October 3, 1880.

CC OF SAINT-ANDRÉ.

HAS

tion

rent

FREEMASONS AND JEWS

OR
SIXTH CHURCH AGE

FRAGMENT FROM A STUDY ON THE APOCALYPSE

INTRODUCTION

SUMMARY OF THE MAIN POINTS OF THE STUDY ON PREVIOUS PARTS OF THE APOCALYPSE

This work on the sixth age would not offer very certain-

I will not reveal to my readers his affair and his reports with the other ages of the Church and with the whole of the Apocalypse. So I must summarize in a few pages my previous studies and my ideas on this mysterious book.

By just two or three points more Of great importance, I will give developments comments and evidence to make my thesis more clearer and stronger.

2 FREEMASONS AND JEWS.

oo

The Apocalypse is not 'an absolutely Incomprehensible. The very name given to it The Holy Spirit explicitly states: Apocalypsesis, that is to say revelation, unveiling of the avenir. Surely, the Spirit of God did not want to mock men: therefore he did not proposed unsolvable puzzles. But it's a book whose explanation is perfect, so obvious 'undeniable, will perhaps remain so for a long time' very difficult to find. It's no wonder that the interpretations of his numerous commentaries producers have not yet been entirely satisfied making. However, one should not say that they are completely useless, and that we are not no more advanced in the nineteenth century than the Church Fathers and ecclesiastical writers of the centuries previous. On one point or another, the in-Catholic priests gave some good ideas and some new insights; they help, each in their own way, to this entire explanation and certain that the Church will one day possess it. Also, a ed

FREEMASONS AND JEWS. 3

The works of all these authors are commendable.
We must apply to them the words spoken to Daniel about his prophecies of the end of the world: "Put the seal on on the book of mysterious words up to the Many will study carefully, and science will... will multiply" (xxx, 4). It is in this spirit- It is with regret that I have undertaken this work. May it really add something extra to our knowledge about the Apocalypse!

IT

The cause of this failure, it seems to me, lies in methods and rules of interpretation more or less defective than those used by these commentators.

Here are some of the principles that have told me- Rigé: |

1° We cannot deny the Apocalypse the pre- the first of the merits we demand of a book of man-made, namely, unity. We consider- Let us therefore consider the Apocalypse as a work having A rigorous unity from beginning to end, and as forming a continuous and linked whole of which

4 FREEMASONS AND JEWS.

Each part tends towards the same goal. This goal is the revelation of the history of the universal Church.

2 There is a chronological order in the Apocalypse very precise gic, marked by the number seven: the seven epistles, the seven seals, and the seven trumpets, which indicate the seven ages, or prophetic periods Church history. But we must recognize that certain visions are not presented to prophets according to their exact chronological place. Some are postponed, others brought forward, for Patterns that should be easily visible. are very few in number.

3. Special consideration must be given the interpretations given by the Church Fathers church. However, in this matter, their authority does not carry the same weight as when it comes to prodigmatic theories of the Old Testament. At subject of the predictions of the Apocalypse and all:

scriptural prophecies about the end of the world, the
The sentiment of the Fathers cannot become law; it only has its intrinsic value: because first of all the Fathers are far from unanimously agreeing on all points – their explanations; then, on this point, they are not.

plus the witnesses and channels of Tradition; for,
Unfortunately, there is no interpretation. traditional of the Apocalypse and prophecies of

CE, ALE, EN, OR De

. x $ $ ¢ TO PS: # pot The Ps

7 4 ee foe DA! oe he nae foe ae t': pen fa Ea ra

FREEMASONS AND JEWS. 5

the end of times, if this month is two or three specific points. Without a doubt, Saint John has known the meaning of the visions of the Apocalypse; he must have passed on some knowledge to faithful of his time; but these explanations, like those that the Thessalonians had received from the
The words of Saint Paul's mouth have been lost. Finally, at
As the centuries progress, events Our past experiences put us in a better position than those of our ancestors. to understand God's prophecy and plans on his Church. That is why many com-Commentators have abandoned literary explanations historical and rals of the Fathers and the ancient inter-ready on the seven epistles; they hear them in the symbolic meaning of the seven ages or pro-Church doctrines. We believe we have solidhow established this feeling, in our Study com-complete, for new and very strong reasons. The pre-
The abridged version does not include these developments.

4° The future of the Church is manifested in the Aapocalypse, sometimes in the form of a symbol, tanearly in its historical form.

No symbol should be admitted except when the history-Truth, common sense, and faith are absolutely opposed.
in the literal sense.

6 FREEMASONS AND JEWS.

can only be interpreted reliably by the steps—similar or analogous sages from the Bible, or, in the absence of the Bible, through history, customs or the language of ancient peoples, on the front line of the Jewish people and other Eastern nations, then the Greek and Roman peoples.

The same symbols must be interpreted in the same way. the same way in any passage of the Apocalypse. Without this rule, we fall into the arbitrary and confusing.

The angels who appear in the apocalyptic visions lyptics cannot be considered as representing characters who will play in the future a more or less remarkable role; because, as Saint John says at the beginning of his book, the angels are the ministers of revelation—tion that Our Lord makes to him. They are therefore not not prophetic symbols.

5. The Book of Revelation is too short a book for that one can reasonably look for all the main facts of ecclesiastical history. The a—coming is presented to the prophet, so to speak, to Bird's-eye view. These are only the cul— events minants and characteristics of an entire period — which are shown to him, and that, consequently, the in—_interpretation must be found there.

FREEMASONS AND JEWS. 7

6° We should not be surprised that the vi—ions of recent ages, and especially of the era of the Antichrist, be longer and more nom—more than others; for, in these times of increasingly terrible for her, the Church will have da—Vantage needs warnings and lights.

7. It is essential that the interpreter has under the eyes, with the Vulgate, the original Greek text, if he wants to encounter the true meaning of the Apocalypse. By sticking to the Vulgate alone, he does not—Rivera will never achieve a satisfactory result, because

In many respects, it is inaccurate, obscure, or incomplete. in several very important locations.

8° We must carefully take into account the va-laughing by addition that are found in the texts printed and Greek manuscripts. Very often a a word completes, explains or changes the meaning of a phrase. It is necessary to study all the paroles of the Holy Spirit to know all his pena va-laughing by omission is certainly the work of a Human distraction; a copyist will have, without realizing it to catch a glimpse of, to let one or more words pass by.
But an addition can only be the result of one | deliberate will. However, this fact, we cannot

8 FREEMASONS AND JEWS.

not, ordinarily, to assume it: firstly because that, in general, the Christians of the first centuries professed the greatest respect for the saint Writing and they took the most meticulous care in the to copy faithfully; and then because, in partcorporally, copyists were aware of the threats ter-The ribs of Saint John against those who would add to his words (xx, 18).

9. Throughout the entire course of the Apocalypse, holy John is the official representative of the Church. In the person of his beloved abbess, Our-
The Lord intended to address the E-universal church of all ages. No one-ignores the titles of Saint John in this preference.
Therefore, we must pay attention to the words he says and to the actions commanded of him during the visions: they have a symbolic meaning that relates to-door to the church.

III

The Book of Revelation is not a separate book and as isolated in the Bible; it is linked to a in a direct way to both Testaments. She is 1° the explanation of some obscure words of af

FREEMASONS AND JEWS. 9

Our Lord in the Gospels and the justification-tion of those of the apostles in several places of their Epistles; 2° moreover, the Apocalypse forms the complement and the crowning of all the proscriptural phetias.

1° "It is a fact," says a contemporary writer-porain, "to which one cannot deny an influence real and considerable impact on training and development development of the early Church, that is the at'tent of the Parusia', faith in the second coming of the Liberator. Jesus did not fulfill all the promises relating to his reign, that is true, But didn't he promise to return to finish?
The work begun?... The expectation of the Parusia exerted a power over Christian life of which we can hardly form an idea, today, the return of the triumphant Christ seems postponed & an indefinite future... It's a a noteworthy fact that the general belief of the first Christians near the Pa-Russia*, »

1 [zpoucix is the expression usually used by sacred writers to designate the advent of Jesus Christ and its manifestation at the end of times.

The Parusia, by Mr. Thomas, Vicar General of Verdun.
Analecta juris pontificii, January and February 1876, A very remarkable article.

e 1.

40 FREEMASONS AND JEWS,

This hope was based on the words of Our-Lord; the exhortations of the apostles, the maintenance-were born, although they never made it a dogma of faith in the prominence of this second coming.

scandal, when the first Christians saw the Years passed, the apostles died, and a se-Conde persecution will succeed the first, without The Lord Jesus appeared in his glory. This divine The Savior owed it to the faithfulness of his word, and to his love for her children, to give their sweetheart-reuse anxiety a peremptory and conso-slow at the same time.

This answer is the Apocalypse.

Through this revelation, made to his Church in the person of Saint John, Jesus Christ manifests the her father's plans for her. He tells her that his glorious return did not depend on his own will, but also the contribution of his will to herself; that she had to bring about this return by her works; that, for seven successive ages, she would work to amass a certain amount of money determined rites, in numerous struggles and various attacks against Satan. After which he would return to triumph with her, as he had promised mis.

ca cles a ET JUIFS, 11

These ideas emerge, according to our interpretation, of the entire Book of Revelation, of some of its pages in particular, and of several others passages from the Holy Scriptures.

2. To prepare for the first coming of Jesus-Christ in the infirmity of the flesh, the Wisdom of God Vine directed the events of this world after a special plan, which was revealed to the prophets and that human genius has grasped and magnificently presentation. It is logical to think that, in order to prepare the second coming of Jesus Christ in the mani-celebration of his power and glory, this Wisdom herself also had to determine and forto follow a particular plan. And it is this plan that the Savior made known to his Church in the visions of the Apocalypse.

Beneath transparent symbols, and moreover ex-explained by the Holy Spirit himself, they revealed them The teachings of the Old Testament showed Daniel four great kingdoms that were to succeed one another over the course of centuries, and prepare a fifth and which will be eternal.

The Fourth Empire subjected everything to its power.
. sance, when the prophet witnesses his downfall, who
It is presented to him in two forms: a small

42 FREEMASONS AND JEWS.

A stone comes down from a mountain and knocks over a statue kills, all of whose elements are broken and reduced into dust, and the small stone becomes itself a mountain that fills the world; the qua-
The third beast is killed, its body perishes and is burned;
The Son of Man appears on the clouds; the saints from the Most High they in turn receive the kingdom and the power.

But Daniel did not see as a result of what events-the small stone would overturn and break the statue and would become mountain, nor how the
The fourth beast would perish. There is a huge gap. in the prophecy of the Old Testament. The Apo-Calypse fills this gap; it gives the story the struggles of the small stone against the fourth empire and its overthrow; it shows how-This stone begins to become a monument tagne, by an initial incomplete triumph; she shows how the fourth beast perished the first time, how she reappeared with her little horn, was killed, burned and definitively de-trout, and how finally the saints will have an em-the worst eternal one that will fill the whole earth.

In general, in Holy Scripture, "the "beast" symbolizes human power hostile to God. He is most commonly depicted as

NUDE

»

FREEMASONS AND JEWS. 43

of animals of various kinds that it is represented scent.

Since Cain, humanity has been divided into two large branches more or less intertwined or distinct, depending on the era. On the one hand, human-penitent and faithful union, hoping and waiting for the Messiah; that was the Church before Jesus Christ, the Society of the Children of God, the City of Good, at first peeling the patriarchal Church, then the Synagogue.

On the other hand, proud and rebellious humanity, relying only on herself, she became the toy of Satan. It was the society of his slaves, the city of evil, composed of idolatrous peoples. These two Humanities have always been at war: this one continually attacking that one, and striving to oppress him. Material power and force brutal of this city of evil found themselves concentrated, over the centuries, by the action of Divine Providence, in the hands of certain nations in particular. The Holy Spirit has revealed, in the form of four ferocious and monstrous beasts-true, the succession of four peoples and em-worst persecutors, who would possess at the highest to what degree in their time the material force in the human manitate, and would turn it, under the impulse of

14 FREEMASONS AND JEWS.

Satan, against the City of God. When Our Lord... Lord had bought back the world and founded his Church, This division of humanity did not cease. The human-faithful mantle, redeemed by the blood of the Lamb, became and was called the Catholic, apostolic Church Lique and Roman. With new forces and in the whole world, she engaged against the city of This terrible battle that has been going on for eighteen years is a terrible thing. centuries and is not yet finished.

Thus, at the beginning of this great struggle, we Let's look at the Catholic Church on one side, with Peter. and the bishops of Rome, its successive leaders, directing on the one hand, and inspired by the Holy Spirit; on the other, the em-worst Roman idolater with his Caesars, ruled and inspired by Satan. Jesus Christ, Son of God and constituted by his Father, king of humanity, attends From the heavens to battle. To whom will they belong? The earth and the world? To Satan and rebellious humanity, or to Jesus Christ and his Church? That is the This is a question that will be debated. It is clear that the

But Satan will make the greatest efforts to gar-last of all here below, for as long as possible, a empire whose cross dispossessed him in law and in principle; and it will hold firm until the Church Catholics amassed wealth in wars that...

se
NY

|

>

FREEMASONS AND JEWS. | 45

. will follow almost without respite, the sum of merits fixed by divine Wisdom; for this infi-Wisdom has decreed that, once the cause was established without which there could be no redemption, nor salvation for men, namely, the death of the God-Man, humanity, and as an individual and 'as a race, cooperated in the redemption to ob-to maintain the full application of its restorative effects, The Catholic Church, a regenerated and faithful humanity: has the dual mission of providing the individual with all the ways to cooperate and save each other, and at the same time time to procure, by the total sum of its meritorious works, the complete redemption of the Human race itself.

This is the great drama, with all its twists and turns.
and its glorious conclusion, which Our Lord unfolds before the eyes of Saint John in the Apoca_lypse. In this line of thought, this book relates to the other sacred books as a whole. It shows us the crowning of God's works 'and of its relationship with man, of which Scripture
The admirable story unfolds across all its pages.

The Apocalypse is not just the last book of the Bible, it is its peroration and con-Conclusion.

IV

.
|

The Apocalypse naturally divides into three parts |
major sections: the first includes vision | of the seven epistles; the second, the visions of the seven seals and the seven trumpets; the third, the – vision of the new Jerusalem.

Our Lord predicts the future of the Church to | three distinct points of view that are in fact one | only story.

In the vision of the seven epistles, he consoles the E- ` primitive church; he proves to him that he does not have it |
abandoned; for, by showing himself to her "alive | in the midst of the seven golden candlesticks and holding for-
"With the seven stars in hand," he recalls this * that he had said to his apostles: "Behold, I am with you every day until consumption "tion of the century." And again: "My sheep in-they raise my voice, and no one will be able to |
"to snatch it from my hand." This first vision apocalyptic is, so to speak, the staging of these Gospel texts. The words and the life-sion express the same things and present the ,

WS

FREEMASONS AND JEWS. 47

same ideas: Jesus, remaining and living perpetually-Currently, in the past, present, and future, in the middle of his church, protecting with a ma-denies any particular "her sheep," especially those who are the mothers of others, and consequently the priesthood, the teaching Church, which he holds for-held in his hand, because he keeps it with a in a special way and that he made it his instrument for the fulfillment of his designs on the world.
He is with this Church every day until the Consumption of the century. Each day forms a period, and the seven days, or apo- periods calyptic, make up the entirety of the days, that is-that is to say, the mysterious week of struggles and trials of the Catholic, Apostolic and Roman, which must end with the triumph and

Each of the epistles summarizes in broad strokes the sum of the main merits or demerits members of the Church in every age. The name cities have a symbolic meaning that relates—shovels a distinctive feature of each era.

The ending of the epistles relates to the vision of the new Jerusalem and must be interlent out like her.

18 FREEMASONS AND JEWS.

V

The second part of the Book of Revelation begins with a grandiose vision that Saint John receives, no more on earth, like that of the epistles, but in the heights of heaven, that is to say in the upper part of our atmosphere. The sky where he rises, ascends, this is not the heaven of the well-happy, and the description he draws is not a picture, either real or symbolic, of paradise.

But it's a spectacle of unprecedented grandeur. which unfolds before her eyes. To form one to have the idea and to fully understand the meaning of this vision, it First, a topographical analysis must be carried out, if we can express ourselves in this way, then examine carefully considering its specific conditions and its relationships with other visions.

From the very first moment of her rapture, Saint John is placed under the great archway which he A door-shaped opening appeared in the sky: Zece ostium apertum in celo.

The scene, or painting, unfolds on a immense plane, probably slightly inclined to allow the prophet to see easily the whole and the details.

FREEMASONS AND JEWS. 49

At the very back of the stage, he glimpses a temple with its atrium, whose doors are closed.

In front of the temple and in the middle of the stage paraised a throne, surmounted by a seemingly rainbow blable to an emerald, and from which came forth flashes of lightning, voices, and thunder.

On the throne sat a person whose aspect resembled the brilliance of a jasper stone and of sardonyx; he had in his right hand a written book inside and out and sealed with seven seals.

To the right, to the left and from behind, forming a large semicircle around the throne, there were twenty-four seats, and on those seats, twenty-four old-lards, dressed in white garments and wearing on Their heads were adorned with golden crowns.

Immediately before the throne, seven spirits similar to burning lamps.

Further forward from the throne and opposite, a sort of a glassy sea like crystal.

Further forward and opposite the middle of the _ throne, placed in the semicircle formed by the old-lards, a golden altar.

On this altar stood a lamb like sacrificed, having seven horns and seven eyes.

A little behind this altar, placed opposite of the throne and completing the circular line of the old-

20 FREEMASONS AND JEWS.

Four different animals were arranged in the larders. having six wings and all covered with eyes.

Thousands and millions of angels surrounded all the characters in this scene.

From the arcade under which saint was placed Jean, up to the circle formed by the angels, he existed a certain distance, because the animals tell him to move forward to contemplate the different visions who followed one another in this space. Similarly, between the throne and the altar, there had to be an expanse considerable, since the prophet saw a crowd there such that no one could count it. One can to conclude from this that the proportions of this scene

Above stretched the vault of atmospheric heavens ric, with the sun, the moon and the stars appearing-health in its depths.

Below, under the seer's feet, at a small Relatively speaking, the globe showed itself to be...
to be with its continents, its mountains and its seas.

The description of this wonderful painting is not not presented all at once by Saint John: he gives three times.

In an initial description, in chapter rv he depicts the throne of the Divinity, the twenty-four elders, the seven spirits, and the four animals.

FREEMASONS AND JEWS. 94

` In a second, in chapter v, he adds of new details. He sees the book, Lamb and the millions of angels who form a circle around all these characters. Finally, in several others passages from the Book of Revelation, complete Saint John this description by indicating things that he had omitted: the golden altar, the temple, the atmospheric heavens spherical and sidereal, and the earth.

Secondly, to arrive at a proper understanding the true meaning of this important vision, he one must pay attention to its specific conditions and to his relationships with others.

This vision is permanent: the prophet has it - constantly before their eyes. The other visions, by succeeding one another, they replace each other;
This one remains.

Furthermore, note that all the visions of the Apocalypse, from chapter 6 to the lastnth chapter inclusive, depend on this permanent vision. It is from this vision that par-They give the orders, let the angels come who will they perform or explain them; that's where it happens several symbolic actions, and that are held discourses that are explanations of meaning by-particular secondary visions.

The various characters in this perma- vision

22 FREEMASONS AND JEWS.

nente appear to be the official spectators of all the others. Often they mingle and act there—they frequently applaud and encourage; They rage; and their words contain enlightenments valuable insights into symbolic actions presented to Saint John. It seems they fill the role of the chorus in ancient tragedies in this a great drama in the prophetic history of the Church.

As for the meaning of this vision, it is very mysterious. It relates to the meaning of several other passages from the Book of Revelation, notably—the ending of the seven epistles, of the three visions of the sixth seal and of the vision of the new Old Jerusalem. All these places, and a few others from the Apocalypse have the same profound meaning | that we can neither expose nor prove in this quick summary. It is in the interpretation of this permanent vision and in that of the new Jerusalem is, in our opinion, the key to the Book of Revelation and a great number of prophecies from the Old Testament.

VI

The book written both inside and out that the Lamb unfurls, breaking successively the

FREEMASONS AND JEWS. 23

Seven seals, contain the future of the Church in two other points of view.

The visions of the seven seals are written outside from the book; they contain the predictions of trials that the Church will undergo from the outside, that is to say that is to say, by the battles that the pou— will wage against him see humans hostile to God {. |

It is the Lamb who opens the seals, because It is to him that the Lord has given the nations as an inheritance, and it is he who raises or overthrows the empires of the earth.

The first four seals offer the same Symbol: a horse and rider. The horse is the symbol of the Roman Empire, the fourth beast of Daniel, who reappears here under a new guise figure; the horseman represents the series of emperors during each period. Horse and rider have attributes that vary with each seal and that symbolize the state of the empire and its attitude towards with regard to the Church in its first four ages.

At the last seals the horse disappears; the sym-
The bowls are no longer the same and do not resemble each other.

3 "In a sense," said Bishop Manning, "the war against the Church is always the same. The same weapons are constantly being used. bent, although the motives and aims of those who use them vary. These weapons have been, are, and always will be POWER civil » (Caesarism and Ultramontanism, p. 6).

24 FREEMASONS AND JEWS.

Not at all. It's because the Roman Empire was destroyed. in the fourth age and that, in the last three,
there is no longer any existing persecutory human power both outside the Church and dominating the world.
Satan has changed tactics. It will be in heresy. that the hostile powers of which he will be found will be used to attack it. All the historical interest of the prophecy has passed into the vision of the trumpets small, where we will find the persecuted powers tors, as well as heretics, designated by Animals. The visions of the last three seals. nevertheless still deal with human power Maine hostile to the Church, but from a point of view more generally.

The visions of the seven trumpets are written in inside the book. They recount the struggles and the internal trials of the Church caused by the major schisms, and especially by the principal heresies-principal heresies that were like mother heresies. One This detail is reproduced in almost all your videos. fire. Fire is the expressive symbol of heresy.

The angels, by the sound of the trumpet, give the signal of internal struggles and permission to Satan is attacking. Since the cursed angels are

j | - J By ans 3 x JA o me. e ;

FREEMASONS AND JEWS. 95

suitable that the ministry of the good angels anronçôt and informed the Church.

To the first four trumpets, the symbols elements of heresy are borrowed from inanimate objects;
In the last three, they are animals that They include heretics and their errors. We will discuss them.
We have stated the reason above.

These two interpretations of the four horsemen, as a symbol of the Roman Empire, and of fire, as a symbol of heresy, they demand to be explained and demonstrated.

VII

The first four seals present a sym-_ similar bole: wn horse ridden by a rider.

The details that accompany each vary at each viewing; but one is obliged to agree that the symbol is essentially the same.

It is of major importance to specify well-understand the meaning of this symbol before searching for-expensive to apply. We will start from this principle irrefutable that the symbols substantially identical should be understood in the same meaning, because they can only have one. We could not admit that the Holy Spirit had attached different meanings & symbols seemblables in the same prophetic vision; for the prophecy would be rendered incomprehensible, even after its completion. Such is not assured-the thought of the Holy Spirit, which proclaims "Blessed is the one who reads and understands the prophecy." (of the Apocalypse), and who oversees its realization-

D

has

tion. »

Let's look for the elements, according to the rules.
the solution to this problem, first and foremost in the Holy Scriptures, since the best interpreter of Holy Scripture, it is Scripture itself.
In a literal sense, the Bible presents us with "the horse, » equus, primarily as an anievil inherent in war. We know the admirable Job's description (xxxix, 19-25). Moses summarizes In short, the destruction of Pharaoh and his army at the crossing of the Red Sea: Equum et ascensorem dejecit in mare (xv, 1)'. Also In a symbolic sense, the horse signifies "the war. Among the Greeks and Romans, it was dedicated to Mars, god of battles, and his sight was an omen of war*.

- 1 He hurled the horse and rider into the sea (Exodus).
- 2 Bouillet's Dictionary of Sciences, under the word Horse.

|
|
|

FREEMASONS AND JEWS. 27

We find only two places in Scriptures that employ the symbolic "horse"
It is in the prophet Zechariah:

1. "I saw during the night; and behold a man mounted on a red horse... and after him some red, dappled and white horses.

These horses were ridden by riders, as indicated in the following verses. According to the interpreters, the horsemen were the angels pro-detectors of the various empires of the earth, or horses would signify either empires or provinces over which the angels exercised their protection, that is, the vigilant and protective authority angels in this place.

2 "And I saw, and behold, four chariots were going out" between two mountains... The first were harnessed red horses; in the second, horses black veal; on the third, white horses, and in the fourth, speckled horses and strong*.

1 "Vidi per noctem, et ecce vir ascendens super equum rufum... et post eum equi rufi, varii et albi" (Zech. 1, 8).

2 "Et vidi, et ecce quartet quadrigæ egredientur de medio duorum montium... In quadriga prima equi rufi, et in quadriga | secunda equi nigri, et in quadriga tertia equi albi, et in quadriga quarta equi varii et forts" (Zach., vi, 1, 2, 8).

28 FRANUS-MACONS AND JEWS.

The interpreters agree that these quadrigas, or these chariots harnessed to four Horses are the symbol of four empires and of their leaders'. They use the different color of these horses to arrive at designating each of These four empires differ from each other in that... to this designation; but common opinion sees in this symbol the four great empires of Chaldeans, Persians, Greeks and Romans*.

Among the ancients, "the horse" was looked at as the symbol of supreme power; hence the custom among the Arabs of bringing a horse from submission to those whose self-recognition they acknowledge rite °. |

Similarly, when the Lamb, who is ap-Pelé, who is truly "the Master of masters and the King of kings*, appears in the Book of Revelation for

1 These carts had drivers, as evidenced by the verse 7: "Qui autem erant robustissimi exierunt et quærebant ire et discurrere per omnem terram; and dixit: Ite, perambulate terram; and perambulaverunt terram, »

This figure of speech that compares an empire to a horse?

As an example, let us recall the verses of the poet Barbier:

Oh Corsica and flat hair, how beautiful your France was!
In the bright sunshine of Messidor!
It was an indomitable and rebellious escape,
Without steel brakes or golden reins...
3 Dict. des sciences de Bouillet, under the word Cheval.
* Apoc. XVII, 14.

FREEMASONS AND JEWS. 29

to exercise its sovereign power over humanity and ab-Solu, he is depicted "mounted on a white horse" and wearing many diadems on her head!

It follows from all this data that the horse, used as a symbol, it must signify an em-worst warrior, and that the rider would point out the leaders of these empires, either physically, as particular character, either morally, as series of kings or emperors.

From this we must also conclude: 1° that there is nothing of logic and regularity in these interpretations which apply the sym- to four different objects The rider and horse symbol. This repeated symbol four times in a row the same person must designate a single and the same object, one and the same empire. 2° Com-The explanations are arbitrary and unfounded. cations that hear the white horse and its rider of Jesus Christ and his Church, and who see in the other riders and horses, either the great heresies, namely the invasions of the barplagues, whether from plagues, famines, etc., etc. Where Have we seen, in the Bible or elsewhere, that this symbol the horse and rider's bowl ever, even from afar, signified by plagues, famines, and especially Heresies?...

1 Apoc., xix, 11, 12.

30 FREEMASONS AND JEWS.

As for the feelings of the many performers who hear of Jesus Christ the rider of the pre-from the passage in chapter xix, 11, quoted earlier, I will request, along with Father Drach, "the permit-

"If you have a contrary opinion."

First, for the reasons outlined above; because, since the four symbols are substantial-the same elements, it would also be necessary that the three were the following horsemen still the figure of Jesus-Christ. Now, how could one possibly hear of Our Lord the second horseman, who makes "that men kill each other," and the
The fourth, which is called "Death?"

Secondly, the passage from the nineteenth cha-clown, where the Word appears mounted on a horse white, proves nothing in favor of our opponents; because every time in the Apocalypse it is really a question of Jesus Christ, the Holy Spirit takes great care to give us specific details which are only suitable for his divine person. But in the text of the first seal there is nothing that applies exclusively to Jesus Christ. In 1 See the Holy Bible with commentaries. – Revelation From Saint John, commented on by Abbot Draca, ch. vi, verse 2, p. 86, – published by Lethielleux.

–FREEMASONS AND JEWS. 31

–

only four places in the Book of Revelation it is mentions the Savior: 1° in chapter 1°, in the first vision of Saint John, the character who appears to him between the seven golden candlesticks is certainly Jesus Christ; the language he This undoubtedly proves it: "I am the pre-First and last; I am alive and I have been dead, and behold, I live forever and ever;
"I hold the keys to death and hell." 2. To Chapter V, the Lamb appears, standing as:
immolated on the golden altar and that one of the elders ap-
"The Lion of Judah," "the Root of David."
No doubt these details are only suitable for Jesus.
Christ. 3. In chapter 14, 14: "And I saw," says Saint John, "and behold a white cloud, and upon this cloud someone sitting like a man, having

"Scythe sharp." This character, it's surely Our Lord, since he comes on a cloud; for to be carried on a cloud, on clouds, that is the proper to God, this is said only of God, and ja-but angels or other characters, like This is evidenced by all the pages of Scripture:
"Qui ponis nubem ascensum tuum" (Ps. ci, 3).
In Daniel's vision: "Et ecce in nw-bibus cæli quasi filius hominis veniebat. » And here it is 32 FRANCS-MACONS AND JEWS.

that on the clouds of the sky someone like a man came (vi, 13). No one will deny that This "like a man" is not the Messiah, Jesus-Christ. Our Lord also said of himself in the Gospel that he will one day return "on the clouds" from heaven." 4° Finally, in chapter 19, verse already city, where the white horse appears, the one who
The term "monte" is called "Verb of Dicu." No doubt about it. possible identity of this rider with Jesus-Christ.

But the passage in question is quite different from first seal; nothing in this text that is necessary-sacredly and exclusively applicable to Jesus-Christ; on the contrary, there are details that formally exclude it, as we will see.
see.

If this rider was mounted on a white horse, like the Word in chapter xix, this does not prove The only thing is that the white horse must be the symbol of power, authority and the empire, like the one who carries the Word.

Thirdly, in this passage under discussion, the Esprit-Saint employs a form with regard to the rider of language: "Data est ei corona," which everywhere ail-their names in the Apocalypse, without exception, applies to characters who certainly do not

FREEMASONS AND JEWS. 33

are not Jesus Christ. Thus, at the second seal, he is said of the second horseman, who takes away the peace of the earth, and which causes men to kill each other:

seal, to the rider called "Death": "Data is illi potestas super quartet leaves earth: » au Fifth seal, to the souls of the martyrs: "Date sunt illis singulis stole albæ; "in chapter xiv, to the woman clothed with the sun, etc.: "Data sunt mulieri ale dus; » in chapter xv, to the beast: "Datum est illi os loquens magna et blasphemias; data est ei potestas," etc.

This expression, which is repeated several at other times, is always used to mark that a mission, a rescue, a leave is data & characters that undoubtedly are not Jesus Christ. From the moment she is also folded for the figure on the first seal, Shouldn't we conclude, by betting, that this rider It does not refer to Jesus Christ either? It is impossible to suppose that the Holy Spirit made an exception for this unique place, and even more so without nothing to put there that could make her suspect.

Fourth, in this chapter VI, Jesus Christ is shown to the prophet in the form of the Lamb performing the symbolic and prophetic action of holding the book and to open its seals. He therefore cannot not to be represented at the same time doing under Another symbol, a second symbolic action. This would be an anomaly in the vision of the seven seals, since it is he who throughout its duration there presides over and directs it by opening them successively. Therefore, it is natural, it is logical to distinguish each of the riders who appear.

34 FREEMASONS AND JEWS.

We therefore believe that /the horse and its rider, In the vision of the seals, they symbolize the empire 'Roman and the series of its emperors'. And as This symbol appears four times in a row, we in Let us conclude that each time he refers to the Roman Empire main and the series of its leaders for a certain period, that is to say during each of the four different and successive periods which are the The first four ages of the Church. The attributes of the horse and rider, which vary with each vision, will symbolize, as we have said, the political state of the empire and the Caesars, and in at the same time their attitude and their actions towards

1 "By this rider," said Abbot Drach (same work, p. 86, (note), we do not think that it should be understood as 'te' or 'tel em-Roman emperors, Titus, Domitian, Trajan, etc., but in general all the infidel emperors and kings, persecutors, in the course of the ages, of the Church, and of Christians.

FREEMASONS AND JEWS. 35

This interpretation has the advantage of providing us with-to establish a division of the Church ages in perfect in accordance with the very divisions of the Apocalypse and with the prophecy of Daniel, as we have-
We saw it above.

It also aligns very well with the facts.
general and specific aspects of history.

The first human power, hostile to God and | persecutor, whom the Church encountered on its journey, This is indeed the Roman Empire. This empire was The ultimate warrior.

Among the Romans, the horse was the symbol of authority and victorious power. He
It was customary for their victorious generals to mon-they crowd into the Capitol on a chariot pulled by four white horses. Their emperors were very fond of-wind makes representation, in the middle of the public squares-questions, on monuments and on coins, under the image of a rider on horseback.

1 We know the famous equestrian statue of Marcus Aurelius in middle of the Capitoline Hill, in Rome. Many others of the same type kind perished.

Many Roman medals bear on the reverse side-a rider on horseback. Jen owns a bronze one, found in the surroundings of M., which on its face features a head of Iempes the lord Domitian, very recognizable, with the very legible inscription ble: CAESAR AVG. DOMITIANVS. COS V. On the reverse a man on horseback, the same emperor, galloping to the left, hand sin not that under these symbols are not also predicted, indirectly and by way of consequence of physical calamities and plagues; because, as history demonstrates, the persecuted princes—Church leaders have been scourges, not only for Christians, but also for everyone else men; they have brought upon their peoples all kinds of calamities. This assertion is superabundant—This is proven by the names and lives of Tiberius, Nero, Caligula, Domitian, Commodus, Caracalla Heliogabalus, Decius, etc.

VII

The visions of the trumpets, we have said, are the symbol of the attacks that the Church has had to endure from the heretics; they form history prophetic of her inner trials.

After the opening of the seventh seal and the six half an hour's exposure in the sky, that is to say extended right in the attitude of command and holding in his left hand a spear or a scepter; then the two letters S, to the left of the horse, and C, to the right.

This medal is contemporary with Saint John and the Apocalypse.

|
|
|
|
|
|
|

.

FREEMASONS AND JEWS.

in the permanent vision (vi, 1, 2 and following), the
The prophet sees seven angels who receive seven trumpets.

instruments, another angel holding a censer comes before the golden altar and performs two symbolic actions. In the first, this angel, under the symbol bowl of incense, an offering to God in anticipation, the merits that the Church will acquire during the great struggle whose perils will be announced by the seven angels petty. |

The angel then takes fire from the altar, he fills his censer, and he throws this fire on the earth; and immediately there were thunders, voices, and Lightning and a major earthquake. All These events occur within the permanent vision. Saint John saw them happen before his eyes. What do they mean?

In Ezekiel we read an analogous vision (x, 2 and following). This prophet sees and hears the Lord to say from the top of his chariot of fire & a character dressed in a linen robe: "Go into the midst of the wheels that are under the cherubim; take full your two hands of the burning coals that are between the cherubim, and scatter them over the city." And this person carried out the Lord's order. (v. 7).

3

38 FREEMASONS AND JEWS.

Maldonat said in this place! : That this action to spread burning coals over the city was the prediction of the future burning of Jerusalem Salem. And because these coals had been taken under the chariot of the Lord and given according to his orders by one of the symbolic animals, that was, adds this author, proof that the fire of the The city would not arrive by chance, nor as a result of human resolutions, but by a disposition certain and a formal order from God.

From this prophetic example provided by the Ancient Testament, its interpretation and its completion By folding, we can rightly conclude that the act of spreading burning coals over a place is a symbolic prediction of the flax plague-eendie for this place. Therefore, the act of The angel who, in the Book of Revelation, throws down coals burning on the earth, will signify that the flax-Fire will strike the earth. And indeed, in almost

We find some play. First trumpet: hail, blood and fire; second trumpet: a mountain in fire; third trumpet: a blazing star-like a torch of fire; fifth de-

1 Complete Course of Holy Scripture. Migne (Ezekiel, 10:2).

FREEMASONS AND JEWS. | 39

ette: smoke that comes out of the shaft of the abyss, which is the lake of sulfur and fire; sixth trumpet: horses whose mouths vomit sulfur, smoke and fire.

Because of this, should we listen to these visions? literally, as being the announcement of physical scourges in which fire would play a role

A leading role? I don't think so. The story and –

The sacred context seems to me to be formally opposed to

This interpretation is flawed: for where and when did we see in past history 1° that it fell a hail mixed with blood and fire, and which had burned actually and exactly the third part of the land, a third of the trees, and all the grass green? 2° that a mass similar to a mountain had fallen into the sea, and into which sea, and turned just a third of her waters into blood, etc.?

3° that a star fell from the sky precisely on the third part of the rivers and springs waters and transformed into exact absinthe-

What about the third part? 4° that there was one day and a night during which 'the third part just sunlight, moonlight and

Has the stars failed?

Perhaps we could say that these loyal followers have not yet having taken place, that they will occur in the

40 | FREEMASONS AND JEWS.

The world's final days. But what then becomes-

They are the words of Our Lord announcing that the events he predicted in the Book of Revelation were going to arrive soon, shortly: Quæ oportet fieri cito (1, 1), tempus enim prope est

(c. xxi and last, v. 10)? How can one believe, in

In light of these words, that, in this revelation which only has twenty-two chapters, that is said to complete? – i

Moreover, even if we were to concede that these physical plagues have not yet occurred, how could we understand, in the literal and precise, these quantities indicated, the third part of the earth, the sea, the rivers, the light?

How to interpret, literally, this star that falls right on the third part of the springs and rivers, which is called Absinthe and which transforms the third part of these into absinthe rivers and these springs? And that other star which falls to earth and is given a key and who opens the well of the abyss! What is the meaning literal of a star that takes a key and opens a well? And those two hundred million horses, with a lion's head, whose tail vomits sulfur, the smoke and fire, and kills the third part of the men, and who have tails shaped like serpents. They bite and they sting! Can we take all of that? In a literal sense?

FREEMASONS AND JEWS. Al

If we claim that physical afflictions are predicted under the symbolic descriptions, we will answer that the Apocalypse, when it announces actually physical scourges, he describes them as plainly and in the literal sense, witness 1° what is as told in the fourth seal: "The two: personages (according to the Greek), Death and Hell, received the power to ravage the four parts of the world by the sword, by famine, by plague and by the teeth of ferocious beasts; 2° in the description of final punishments of divine wrath that prophesize the outpouring of the seven bowls, all the plagues. Most of the predictions relate to wounds. real and historical events with which God struck the Egyptians look, and have nothing in themselves that prevents them to be taken literally. Thus, the first Cut: a shameful and extremely painful wound. reuse; second and third cut: change the waters of the sea and rivers filled with blood; quatrième coupe: extraordinary heat; five-quième coupe: thick darkness, etc.

In the explanation of the visions of the seven trumpets

42 FREEMASONS AND JEWS.

literal. We should only see in it symbols andenouncing the scourges of the moral order.

Among these scourges, heresies occupy the pre-first rank, and this symbol, /the game, by which the angel prophesies these plagues in a general way and which is found in almost all visions specific, fits perfectly and applies Very good at heresy. I prove it again with the Bible. the second part of my proposal, the first not needing proof.

Note that in the Sacred Letters the idea fire, ignis, is used almost as often in a bad way as well as in a good way.

In the book of Proverbs the Holy Spirit said: Vir impius fodit malum et in labiis ejus ignis exardescit (XXI, 27). "The ungodly man digs the badly (that is, goes to a lot of trouble, works hard to do evil, like the man who digs the earth), and on his lips is – a few ardent ones. » According to this text, the pain that The impious man gives himself up to spread his impiety.

and the instrument he uses is his lips who utter impious words, compared by The Holy Spirit is a burning fire. Heresy being a of the many forms of impiety, fire, as symbol, therefore, represents it very well.

L
|

FREEMASONS AND JULES. 43

Here is how it is explained in this text
A commentator on the Book of Proverbs:

"By the impious man, we mean the man ~ the field of Scriptures to ignite by its light-towards the fire of religious divisions, or else the fire of impurity; for almost always the here-Ticks were shameless and champions of incontinence. » |

2 In the New Testament, the holy apostle |
James says in his epistle:

Lingua modicum quidem membrum est, et magna elation. Ecce quantus ignis quam magnam syivam sets fire! And lingua ignis est, universitas iniquitatis. Lingua constituitur in members nostris, that maculat totum corpus, and inflammat rotam nativitatis nostræ, infammata a Gehenna (in, 5, 6).

"Thus language is undoubtedly a small memory-br, but she boasts of great things. See 2 "Virus Belial (impium) virus apostatam et hæreticum in-telligimus, which in agro Scripturarum plurimum laborat ut labiis am ignem discordiarum succendat, sive ignem libidinis, ut fere impudici semper fuerunt heretici et defenders intemperantiæ » (Commentary on the Proverbs, by Rodolphe Bayne, Catholic) English, a renowned professor of Hebrew at the University of Paris sixteenth century, then bishop of Lichefield and Conventi in An-England. – Complete Course of Holy Scripture.. Migne. Proverbs).

AA FREEMASONS AND JEWS.

How little fire! It sets a great forest ablaze!
Language too is a fire, a world of ini-
Language is placed among our memories.
It stains the whole body, and, inflamed by hell, she sets the entire course of our life.

Heresy does not reveal itself and does not become dangerous use only through words. It's the shower, it's the the language of man that spreads error; it sows in words "inflamed by hell" the doctrines heretics, who consume all supernatural life in a man and lead him to the eternal flames nelles. |

Heresy is therefore aptly named, a fire and very well symbolized by fire.

This application is also made by a comment-author of the Epistle of Saint James, who on this pas-The wise man expressed himself in these terms:

"The tongue, too, is a fire. It is semblabble to the fire that burns and destroys everything.
V. Bede notes that this is especially true of Za

*

1 In this passage the Greek and Latin manuscripts are not Okay; some read quantus ignis, others parvus or modicus ignis. Essentially, the meaning is the same; for the word for word Our current Vulgate would be this: "What a great fire is needed-
"He wants to set the greatest forest ablaze?" The given translation above, and which reproduces the Greek, is that of Messrs. Glaire and Drach combined,

FREEMASONS AND JEWS. 45

language of heretics and false doctors, at the occasion of which Saint James extends so long-lie in this place against sins and tongue ailments. "Arius of Alexandria was a "spark, but because it was not immediate
"Smothered, the fire ravaged the entire world," he said Saint Jerome. Similar sparks were ignited by Luther and Calvin, who, by starting a more widespread fire and more durable than that of Arius, have made so many harm to the Christian universe f. »

Thus, according to Bede, the passage from saint Jacques would apply himself especially to heretics than - the apostle would have had primarily in mind dealing with their language of play. And following this Father and of Saint Jerome, a learned commentator look at heretics and their doctrines as a fire that ignited the most per-nice fires.

1 "And lingua ignis est. Similis igni omnia incendens et popu- lans; quod, ut notat Beda, de lingua præsertim hæreticorum et falsorum doctorum verum est, quorum occasione iam mala et vitia linguæ sanctus Jacobus tam fuse hic excurrit, "Arius Alexandriæ a scintilla fut, sed quia non statim oppressa totum "mundum populata est," ait sanctus Hieronymus. Tales scintillæ Arius orbi christiano exitiales" (Comm. on the Epistle of Saint Jacques, by Fromond, Doctor of Theology, Professor at the University of Louvain, in the seventeenth century; eminent man in Sacred Sciences, Course by C. de Migne. Ep. of Saint James).

3.

46 FREEMASONS AND JEWS.

Saint Augustine shares the same ideas, and he also applies the symbol of fire to heretics. In explaining the story of Samson, he says that the foxes carrying fire attached to their tails They are the very image of heretics!

Let us therefore conclude that this is justified and not arbitrary that we look at the visions of trumpets as the symbol of heresies principales that have grieved the Church throughout the ages.

If we now examine the two closely symbols that Ezekiel and Saint John described, there we will find the origin clearly explained plagues foretold by these prophets. We must take into account the difference in purpose in the two visions.

We said with Maldonat that "man dressed in linen," caught fire between the wheels of the chariot of God, at the feet of the cherubim, for my-to believe that the burning of Jerusalem was the work of the sole divine will. By this we shall also add-we were told the primary cause of terrible scourge. This symbolic apparatus, with which God had presented himself to the prophet Ezekiel, he recalled to the Jewish people that Jehovah was the creator of the 1 S. AUGUSTINI Opera, ed. Migne, t. V, pars altera. Sermones, sermo 364. From Samson, col. 1641. .

PRANGES-MAGONS AND JEWS. 4i heaven and earth and the one true God. The action of to take fire under the throne of God, in the center of this device, and to throw it upon the guilty city origin and its reason for being in the contempt that the Jews had made these two great truths.

Similarly, but in a different vein, since the vision did not have the same goal, the action What does the angel do when he takes burning coals? from the altar on which the Lamb stood as immolated, shows that the moral scourge of heresy would tackle the mystery of Redemption, and the- would have its starting point in negations successive and diverse versions of this fundamental dogma of religion. And in fact, all heresies, that is - directly, or indirectly, have tended to the destruction of this truth by errors which sometimes focused on the divine person of Christ. sometimes on the conditions of his humanity, sometimes on the restorative effects and on the means of ap- the shedding of his blood for men. Satan and his angels have had and have only one object in all their attacks against the Church: subtract as many men as possible, humanity without exception- tion, if they could, to the benefits of re- demption.

48 FREEMASONS AND JEWS.

When the angel had thrown the coals onto the earth Ardent ones taken from the altar, Saint John says that "he there were thunders, rumblings, and flashes of lightning, and a great earthquake. These things also their meaning.

In the Apocalypse, according to the best interrors, thunder, lightning, voices or sounds of nature, and earthquakes, employees in general, as in the cha- picre iv, v. 5, are emblems of the suve- divine queenship, or of his just anger which threatens The sinners. These are, said Father Drach, "the figures of God's power and punishments and punishes those who disobey his laws. Here these symbols are the prophetic announcement of ment on humanity all these heresies, and primarily in the last three ages of the Church. These misfortunes will serve as trials for the good and will be a new source of trouble for the Church rites. But they will be at the same time for the heretics the punishment which, by permission God's providential intervention will result in a consequence of their disastrous doctrines. History bears witness to

1. The Holy Bihle with commentary. Revelation, p. 78, v. 5, note. |

FREEMASONS AND JEWS. _ 49

all the disastrous consequences, even to the point of physical view, which heresies have always possessed over the course of centuries.

IX

Apocalyptic periods embrace. #is-future of the Church from three different points of view "Rents and in broad strokes. In the epistles are briefly listed the works and the me-Church rites and their results; in the seals attacks by human power are recounted hostile to God; in the trumpets, the assaults of heresy. It will therefore inevitably happen that we will-we will note some difference in chronology in the beginning and end of the epistle, of the seal and trumpet from the same period.
But this cannot raise any serious objection; for,
when historians tell the story of the past from various points of view, whether wars and politics, whether of religion or of economics whether in the sciences, arts, or literature, they They, too, encounter each other in their chronologies. compared, similar differences, and more still large.

#0 PRANOS-MASONS AND JEWS.
EE GG

The seven pillars of the Church differ greatly between them regarding the duration. It is the par-determines the length. These divisions are the fact of the Holy Spirit. The interpreter only has to con-starter.

First age: BEGINNINGS OF THE CHURCH.

The first epistle recounts the works of the Apostolic period. Prophecy of the defection of the Eastern Churches.

The first seal, by the white horse and the crowned knight carrying a bow, shows us ['o-origins and the beginnings of the Roman Empire, which, pen-During this age, he only wages distant wars.
and is peaceful both within and towards the Church.

At the first trumpet blast, the amalgam of hail, of fire and blood, fallen from the sky, represents the here-Gnostic-Jewish traditions of this period, a mixture of pagan, Christian and Jewish ideas which seduced-mainly Christians of Jewish origin daïque. These are the first internal struggles of the Church.

This age includes the years that have passed

Freemasons and Jews. 51

linked since the year 30, public life of Jesus Christ and the formation of the Church, up to the persecution of Nero, year 64, fifth of his reign. The sym-
The bole of the first seal goes back further in the past, in the year 30 BC, advent of Augustus. This is to indicate the link to the past in the present and in the future, and to show everything to both the origin of the two powers, the Church and Imperial Rome, the popes and the Caesars, who com-begin their great battle of more than three centuries keys.

This first stage, along with a portion of the following one, contains what Our Lord commanded Saint John wrote using these expressions: "Write... the things you have seen." Saint John was con-contemporary with almost all of these events.

The second epistle announces the ten persecutions. She praises the faithful and exhorts them to support to face the ordeal with even more courage.

On the second seal, the red horse, with its ca-
A knight armed with a long sword, foretold the empire Roman, bloodthirsty towards the Church, and blood-

52 FREEMASONS AND JEWS.

gleaned from numerous external wars and intestines.

At the third trumpet blast, the mountain ignited-mée symbolizes the Gnostic-Manichean heresy which This double heresy occupies this entire period. which quickly merged into one, a originated in countries whose capital has For centuries, it was the city of Babylon, ap-long since peeled by the Holy Spirit "monpestilential plague and flaming mountain" (Jé-Remie, LI, 25).

The second age begins in year 64, the first persecution, and it ended in the year 313, edict of Con-Stanine in favor of Christianity. For the empire Roman, it extends until 324, pacification of Constantine, the sole emperor.

Third Age: Authority of Pontifical Rome
DOCTORS.

The first external manifestations of The supreme authority of the popes is indicated in the third epistle. The superior authority of the E-Roman Catholic Church and the papacy appear with brilliance during this period. It is also the age of the cone citizens and doctors. _ |

The third seal, with the black horse and the rider holding a balance in his hand, we represents the Roman Empire between Catholicism and Arianism. Its emperors arrogated to themselves the right to weigh and judge the Church's faith in the Word of God, who named his doctrine the bread of sky. Jls favor the Arian error more than the Catholic truth, and spread throughout the world much more darkness than light on this subject. The empire causes the Church great distress-countess, which makes one forget the joys of the conversion of Constantine. But by none of his emperors were neither examined nor /were the teachings of the Church on the sacraments.

The third trumpet foretells Arianism. Arius, priest, fallen star from the sky of the Church, empoi-its errors sound the sources and the channels who spread the waters of truth upon the earth, that is to say, the pastors. No heresy has counted in its ranks as many bishops and priests.

Etymologically, absinthe and arian have the same meaning. – This age ranges from 313 to 395, Death of Theodosius the Great.

54 FREEMASONS AND JEWS.

Fourth Age: Ruin and Punishment of the Fourth Age DANIEL'S EMPIRE TRIEMR. – POWER OF THE CIN-FIFTH EMPIRE, THE CATHOLIC CHURCH. – REIGN FOR A THOUSAND YEARS.

The fourth epistle praises the works of the Church more numerous and larger than in previous years different eras. The Church witnesses the fall of the Roman Empire; it saves and preserves what is there found it good; she worked for long periods centuries to transform barbarian peoples into na-Christian teachings. Jesus Christ addresses re-close relatives and threats to the Greek Church which,

great concern of the papacy.

The fourth age extends from the fifth to the sixth. thirteenth century; in precise dates: from 395, death of Theodosius, until the pontificate of Julius II, 1503. It includes the thousand-year reign.

The millennial reign forms the largest part-tie of the fourth age. It begins with the sixth century and ends in the sixteenth. In precise dates, it will from 496, conversion of Clovis and the Franks, until-that in 1492, pontificate of Alexander VI.

This reign had its difficult beginnings, laborious developments, then its peak in the eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth centuries, and finally its decline. It was a militant reign.

|

FREEMASONS AND JEWS. 55

This millennial reign must be understood as the reign spiritual of the saints of the first centuries and of Je-the Lord of Christ on Christian society in the Church and by the Church.

The prophetic announcement of this reign by the vi-The section of chapter xx is not in its chronological place. logic in the Apocalypse. It is a recu-linked by Our Lord for several reasons easy to discover.

1. First, Our Lord could not to present in a precise manner the prediction of this a thousand-year reign in the fourth epistle; for, In the epistles, his only aim is to do to know very briefly the merits acquired by the Church, and he remains silent on the means by which it acquires them. These means, oppress-the sion of human powers and heresies, are in-expressly stated in the visions of the seals and trumpets. But the thousand-year reign was a means of merit quite different from those- here; for, during this reign of the Church, the power and the material force was in the hands of its en-children who used it to protect her, and the-

Résie, throughout this entire period, could not to manage to disturb her in a general way as in the past. This means, which was the transformation of barbarian peoples into Christian nations yours, therefore, could not be included any more in these visions.

2. On the other hand, as can be seen from the text Anocalyptic, the thousand-year reign is intimately united with the chaining and unleashing of Satan. The vision of chapter xx presents three objects very closely linked and quite distinct: a sequence of devil, consequently reigning for a thousand years, then fall- The devil's birth. This painting offers us as a summary of world history after Jesus- Christ. This is a true recapitulation. His The appropriate place was therefore at the end of the Apocalypse.

We will have proven that this vision is indeed a recap and a summary, if we establish- its three objects exactly mean: en- chaining, reign, unleashing.

Satan's chains. Before the coming of Jesus Christ, Satan was master of the world, prince- cepts hujus mundi. Except for one people, the Jews, he had seduced all nations, and by the idolatry, he reigned over the universe. To chain him would be therefore to take away his power over the peoples and the to escape its seductions. Now, in Saint John (xv, 31, 32), Our Lord said: "It is now the judgment of the world; now The prince of this world will be cast out; and I, When I am lifted up from the earth, I will draw everything - to me." In these verses it is foretold that Satan will be cast out of the world and that, in turn, Jesus His will draw everything to Him. But we know perti- through history, the sacrifice of the cross not immediately, and at the first attempt, nor - cast Satan out of the world, nor drawn to Jesus. nivers. Satan, stripped in law and in principle knowledge that gradually, and as a result of struggles long and arduous. The light of the Gospel has him on earth, supported by the Church, but the te-

The shadows only gradually receded, to me-sure that the victorious Church was extending its influence.

Therefore, Satan's chaining has
It was done in a single, sudden act; it
It was a hard and arduous task, which did not
It only ended after several centuries.

When was it completely finished?
Has Satan been completely decorated?

Satan has exerted his power of se-

58 FREEMASONS AND JEWS.

production, especially by means of the four major empires that succeeded one another before the coming of Jesus Christ. When the Savior appeared on the land, it was the fourth of these empires and the more considerable, the Roman Empire, which made the Satan's fortress and his great means of seductiontion. The demon seduces individuals through his ac-invisible tion; he seduces the masses and the peoples by the apparatus and the splendor of material power and of sovereign power, now, this empire has been at-struck by the "small stone that came down from the mountain"tagne," by the Church, and spiritually defeated and morally, after two and a half centuries of struggle, at the time of Constantine's conversion. But the Roman Empire always remained an instrument lying in Satan's hands; he remained standing with its traditions of idolatry, with its many proponents of paganism, with its thousands of tempplaces and statues of false gods. The demon left them. served for nearly another century to fight Jesus-Christ, through the errors of polytheism and he-Resia. However, it was written that clay, iron, the bronze, silver, and gold of the great statue would have been broken and reduced to powder and that he would not not even dust would remain (Daniel, 11, 35).
That moment came when the barbarians, sent from God, they overthrew the Roman Empire. They did it completely disappear; they erased even his name, and at the same time they destroyed all the other kingdoms from which it had formed. Then alone—The power of Sa— was physically broken tan, then Satan was truly cast out of the world. because he no longer had a citadel in this world nor any external instrument to seduce the nations and be adored by them. Less than a century later, He tried hard to rebuild a fortress and a new means of action in the Mahometan empire—tan. But this empire was not idolatrous; the is—Lamism has as its fundamental dogma the existence of a single God. The power to seduce the na: tions by idolatry and to have them worshipped as

God had been taken away from the demon: Ut non sedu—

cat amplius gentes. On the other hand, the empire Muslim has never had the power to se— universal and undisputed production of the empire ro— hand. |

Satan's chaining was therefore complete. at the time of the total collapse of the Roman Empire, towards the end of the fifth century. If one wants a To a precise date, we can assign 493, when Theo—Doric became the sole ruler of Italy. At that time, the famous Western empire perished entirely and lost even its name: Rome was now nothing more than the capital of the Ostrogoth kingdom.

60 FREEMASONS AND JEWS.

However, it is clear that this expression thus elucidated, "Satan's chaining" is the summary by a word of what the apocalyptic visions predict—Lyptics of the first four epistles, of the four first seals and the first four trumpets little ones, and what the story of the four tells us early ages of the Church.

A thousand-year reign. Now we find in history, from the end of the fifth century, a period of a thousand years during the- what the action of beliefs, affections and practices for which they lived and died the Christians of the first centuries, or became do- Mining and directing all things? The story answers: The Middle Ages, a period extending from sixth to sixteenth century exclusively, and pen- during which the influence of the Church, ever growing health in the West dominates and governs nations barbarians and in fact the Christian people. This ac- invisible tion, entirely moral and spiritual, by the- which, in the Middle Ages, Jesus Christ and the saints have inspired, guided and sustained the Church, has been such- powerful and evident in its wonderful results, that it is very accurate to say that "the saints reigned with Jesus Christ," although Their persons remained invisible. For, in In reality, the great reigns of the kings of the earth did not do not consist so much in what they do personally- lying and visibly by themselves, that in what they have others do it, in that they know how to inspire to encourage and develop important works aunts, of works worthy of recognition and the admiration of the people.

FREEMASONS AND JEWS. 61

Under these expressions, "they reigned with the "Christ a thousand years," is therefore also found to be - me a whole period.

Satan's unleashing. The unleashing of The demon will have to follow a similar path to that of the chaining; for, since God has judged about only gradually reducing the devil to impotence, it is legitimate to think that it al- will follow its chain in the same way, successively gradually and little by little, and not all at once, in a single act.

`Now, the Book of Revelation explicitly tells us that Satan will be unleashed after a thousand years, and the thousand years ending, as we have just... see, with the fifteenth century, the beginning of the The unleashing will therefore have to take place in the sixteenth. therefore at the beginning of the fifth age.

has 4

62 FREEMASONS AND JEWS.

Moreover, in other places, the text of The Book of Revelation provides us with indications that support the preceding arguments teeth.

The visions of the last three trumpets... show demons 'that appear to one another' after the others: one first, emerging from the well of the abyss at the fifth trumpet; four others, released from their chains in the sixth, and finally in the seventh, Satan himself, the ancient dragon, recovering his full freedom. None of the visions of Previous ages did not conjure up demons.
This detail, repeated in the last three trumpets, is therefore very characteristic and expressive. The unleashed-The demon's birth will therefore occur successively during the fifth and sixth ages, for de-come in full force to the seventh. These last three Ages will be the time of the devil's unleashing, as the first four were those of his successive sequence. Therefore, these words,

"Satan's unleashing" is the summary of the last three ages of the Church, like these others, "Satan's chains" are among the four first.

Perhaps we would be justified in saying here;
as an aside, that the complete unleashing

A To Mrs. aa

FREEMASONS AND JEWS. 63

will take as many centuries and years as the en-chain. At this rate, it would be the beginning-would see Satan in complete freedom!

We therefore conclude from all the foregoing that, in the vision of chapter xx, Our-Sei- the professor wanted to give a summary and a recap- transmission of Church history and visions previous ones. He therefore had to place it at the end of the Apocalypse. From then on, the thousand-year reign, in- timement linked to the other two objects of vision and inseparable from both, not able- It wasn't going to be shown in another location.

3. Finally, in this place, the prophecy of the reign millennium sheds a great light on the Apocalypse in general and on several specific points of this Revelation, on which otherwise the pre- The first Christians would necessarily have done er- rer. |

We have just explained that the vision of the cha- pitre xx gave a clear and distinct division of The history of the Church in three main parts: first struggles, – first incomplete triumph, – final struggles and ultimate triumph.

1 The shading lasted approximately 460 years, from year 38 to 493.

64 FREEMASONS AND JEWS.

We can better see that, in the In the vision of chapter XVI, Our Lord employs a method similar to that of his prophecy on Jerusalem, and that, under the sole symbol of Babylon, he predicted at once the ruin of part- cultural of pagan Rome and the total ruin of the city of evil and rebellious humanity.

We see that Daniel's prophecy about the events following the ruin of the fourth em- worse will have a double accomplishment: one im- Perfect, after the destruction of pagan Rome, in the millennial reign; the other literal and perfect, after the ruin of the city of evil, in the reign social of Jesus Christ.

Without this recap, which includes the reign of a thousand years and which is placed after the ruin of Ba- bylone, after the appearance of the Word and the chastisement- special aspect of hostile human power the Church would be oppressed and under the yoke of his enemies until the second coming of Jesus-Christ, and that the ruin of Rome would coincide with The end of the world. The previous paintings of the Apocalypse could not leave them another idea. They were able to understand that the ruin of Rome would not necessarily be accompanied by the ruin of the world and that, after the overthrow of this capital of idolatry, the Church would have a triumph of a thousand years

FREEMASONS AND JEWS. 65

We understand more clearly than they do, all these things that events have clarified in the prophecy, by clearing away, for the Baby-The Roman city, as with the deicide city, which looked especially at the ruin of these two cities and what applies to the end times.

In the fourth seal, the pale horse announces the failure and agony of the Roman Empire, and in at the same time his inability to persecute or to protecting the Church: a dying man can do He himself was neither good nor bad in the world around him.

The rider "called Death" refers to this a double series of emperors in name and de facto leaders, some of whom were unable to stop the ruin of their empire, and of which the others, the barbarian chiefs, have actually governed this empire long before to deliver the final, fatal blow.

Hell followed Death, a more terrible symbol: It is Islam, which appeared half a century ago approximately after the last invasion, that of the Lombards.

The Muslims were worse than The barbarians. These, in the real and physical sense, i _ A.

}

were "death" for the Western Roman Empire tooth. They themselves, in a moral sense, were "dead" were in death; for all appeared They adhered either to paganism or to heresy. But from this death, by the power of God, they are Venus and life. The barbarians, driven and by the justice and by divine mercy, by going to punish the Roman Empire, met with the Church who converted them to Jesus Christ and subjected them to its laws.

The peoples of Islam are rightly called "Hell," because they are the direct product of rage of Satan, who, seeing his ancient empire destroyed, He, too, wanted to form a new people.
The Muslims, in turn, met with the church; but the Church had no influence on them.
None of the peoples who successively em-The brewing of Islamism could not be converted. Fruits of hell, the Muslims all remained instructed elements of hell, for which there is no re-redemption. It is entirely reasonable to believe that the Turks, these last arrivals from Islam, driven out one day from Eu'rope, will disappear as temporal power, before being converted as a nation.

The Western Roman Empire was ravaged by the barbarians from the north to the south, and the Roman Empire

FREEMASONS AND JEWS. 67

from the East, by the Muslims, from the south to the north.
The vision of the fourth seal includes since the first Visigoth invasions in the East, after the death of Theodosius (395) until the descomplete destruction of the Eastern Roman Empire in 1453.
Fourth trumpet. The vision of this trumpet-little predicts a dimming of the light on-the natural light of the Church, the light of faith. This darkening does not reach the light of the Church itself, no more than the obscuring operated by an eclipse does not reach the light of the eclipsed star. These are only certain con-land parcels that are deprived, according to the proportion of the eclipse, of a corresponding quantity The dante of rays of light. The Holy Spirit announces that, at a certain period in the history of the Church, plu-several great countries, previously enlightened by

They will be more than they are eclipsed for them.
These are the Asian countries, all of this territory considerable area occupied by the Greek Church. Its de-The infection caused by heresy and schism is formal hereprophesied ment. As in physical eclipses This obscuring happened gradually.
The major heresies of Pelagius and Nestorius, of Eutyches and the Monothelites, suites of the aria-

68 FREEMASONS AND JEWS.

nism, and that of the iconoclasts, all of which took originating in the East and developing there, have pre-guarded the darkness for four centuries. The island-misme les amera et les maintint dans la province of Asia, which he conquered in the seventh and eighth centuries, and in the ninth, Photius began the schism and heresy which were consummated at the on-thirteenth by Michael Cerularius. The Church had no of greater pain during this period. Now-but the East, imitating Israel in its revolt, will follow the same fate. He will be like abandoned given by Jesus Christ. The whole life of the Church Catholic, along with all the interests of History is concentrated in the West.

The vision of the fourth trumpet extends since the beginning of the fifth century, which sees the birth of the Pelagian and Nestorian heresies (first author, Theodore of Mopsuestia, raised at the headquarters of this city in Cilicia, Asia Minor, in 381), up to the eleventh.

Fifth Age: First Unleashing of Satan. PROTESTANTISM.

From the very first words of the fifth epistle, These pastors and lukewarm Christians are being reported.

'i FREEMASONS AND JEWS. 69

wr

<

and released from the beginning of the period which will soon form the body of Protestantism. Our Lord exhorts the Church to be vigilant and to saving the weak. Praise to energetic Christians. faithful and loyal, and to the nations of Europe who were fortunate enough to have completely preserved themselves from the venom of heresy.

The fifth seal shows the stripped Church of its external power, under the symbol of holy souls who reigned with Jesus Christ, and who, having been dethroned, are now refugees under the altar, demanding justice and vengeance. The di-Corporate governance will be increasingly removed to the Catholic Church. Human power hos- The tile to God will now be found in heresy. and the subsequent historical events will be revealed in the visions of the trumpets.

At the fifth trumpet, a star, a priest, falls from the sky. Like Arius, Luther is A priest and, moreover, an apostate monk. He opens the well from the abyss through his teachings and his rebellion, and spiritual and intellectual darkness caused through its erroneous principles emerges the swarm of leapfrogs real scorpions which symbolize errors and Protestant sects. The symbol also predicts the acc-tion and the progress of heresy, as well as its duration.

70 FRENCH-MASONS AND JEWS.

The fifth age extends from the sixteenth century at the beginning of the eighteenth century.

Sixth dge: SECOND UNLEASHED BY SATAN.
FREEMASONRY. TRIUMPH OF TRUTH.
REST TIME FOR THE CHURCH BEFORE ITS DEATHS NIERS COMBATS.

This brings us to the study I announced. I will modify the approach followed in the brief presentation of previous ages.

After saying a few words about the visions of In the sixth seal, I will address the main thesis in interpreting both visions of the sixth trumpet, and I will finish with the exposition.

detailed account of the sixth epistle.

This age begins with the eighteenth century, and its end lies in the secret of the future.

Sixth seal. The sixth seal contains three visions. The first is that of signs harbingers of the end of the world (vi, 12-17);
The second is that of counting the children of Israel marked with the sign of God; the third shows the prophet an immense crowd carrying palm branches and singing before the throne of the Divinity.

K a 0
the" D Se and TRE E rt!

From A we have, D! 2 - i AND rf

v

"

FREEMASONS AND JEWS. 71

We will not study them in detail, because I believe they are not looking directly the sixth age. Without dwelling on presenting ` explanations and evidence will suffice for me to explain-to be the general prophetic ideas that, to my notice, they contain.

These three visions are placed out of place chronologically, in advance. According to the order of
At the time, they should have appeared in the seventh seal; for they are of the seventh age. ©

The first one, which should be at the opening

Human power hostile to the Church. It exposes, in the painting of the end of the world, the ruin in the complete and irremediable nature of this human power in Enemies of Jesus Christ and his bride. The two 1 I said above that the meaning of these three visions relates to to the interpretation of the permanent vision, of Jerusalem new, from some other places in the Apocalypse and name- numerous passages from the Old and New Testaments. This interpretation, which is personal to me, and which I have not found indicated nowhere, eliminates all the difficulties of the Holy Scripture and forms a magnificent prophetic whole from the beginning of the Bible to the end. But precisely because that I have not seen it in any authoritative work, I am inclined to challenge my own ideas, I feel the need to... examine them closely and support them with evidence as solid as It's possible. It's obvious they cannot be introduced. in this summary, a preparatory to the study of the sixth age. Perhaps Will I ever publish this long and difficult work?

"era

72 FREEMASONS AND JEWS.

other visions develop that of Daniel (v1r, 1-28). They announce that the power passes here below, definitively "to the saints of the Most High," and they tell us who those are who will receive and exercise it.

However, it is important to give some reasons for this anticipation.

The Holy Spirit willed that the visions of the seals presented to the prophet without interruption the history a tale of human power as the enemy of the Church, in his dealings with her since his beginnings cements. The arrangement of these prophetic paintings ticks form an explanation and a complement the famous prophecies of Daniel. Thus the four The first seals told us the story of the fourth beast or of the fourth empire, on the- what the prophet of the Old Testament tells us

Not much.

The fourth seal describes the destruction of this first hostile power that the Church has ren-He encountered resistance along his path. He passed away in his fourth age. during which the material power passes from one incomplete way to the people of the saints.

i
The Fifth Seal, the story of power | of this world hostile to God continues under the '

new form it will take.

{

FREEMASONS AND JEWS. ` 73

The offensive and victorious return of this power
The persecutor is indicated by the symbolic vision. dethroned souls hidden beneath the altar. He does not resides more in paganism, but in here-sie; the Church will now be persecuted by its rebellious children.

External power is taken away from him and passes to those who will prepare the return of the fourth beast and the reign of its little horn.

At the sixth seal, the first vision shows indirectly, but obviously, that this powersance continues to be in the hands of the enemies of the Church and of the Lamb, and in the sixth age and in the seventh, that is to say, until the end. But At the same time, she predicts clearly and energetically that, as we have just said, that this power will one day be totally destroyed.

The following two visions announce, with Daniel, the conclusion of the battle: the empire of the world will pass forever to the people of
